To Submarines for Jap Victory.

Five Were Built in Quincy.

President Bowles Doubts Report but Awaits News.

Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles (retired), president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, talked with the Post reporter Wednesday regarding the latest great naval victory of the Japs.

"We are watching this war closely," he said.

"Results in the battles fought will exert much influence on our own naval organization.

"The value of different types of fighting vessels will be demonstrated.

"Personally, I don't think submarines played an important part in this last engagement.

"Despatches give to the submarines credit for much of the destruction. It may be true, but I doubt if they were in the engagement at all.

"It was gun fire shot did the work, I think; it is gun fire that wins most battles.

"I should be very glad to have it turn out that the submarines really did do big execution.

"We built five of them for the Japs. We have a man over there now, and he has notified us that some were in the water. He hasn't informed us whether they took part in the fight or not. I don't suppose they would permit him to do so.

"If they were in the fight and did the big work it will boom submarines; there's no doubt about that. I should naturally be very glad to have it turn out that way; it would mean business for us.

"I'm a business man now," said the admiral with a smile, "and have to look at these things in a businesslike way.

"Our navy has eight submarines in service and we are building four more that will be the biggest and fastest in the world.

"If anybody has got money that they want to put into fighting vessels, we want to meet them, and build anything they want, but my idea is that submarines will do the best in coast defence."

AUTOMOBILE DAY.

Several Autoists Before the District Court at Quincy.

Thursday is becoming known as automobile day at the district court. Hardly a Thursday passes but what quite a bunch of speeders are lined up and compelled to pay fines. Today was no exception to the rule, and there were nine defendents.

Mary Eustis of Brookline for speeding at the Blue Hills was represented by her husband, and her case was placed on file. The same disposition was made of the case of William E. Clark of Boston for speeding at Milton.

Lantie V. Blum of Brookline was fined $10 for speeding on the Blue Hills parkway and appealed.

Andrew Andersen of Boston, Harold C. Blaney of Swampscott, Harry A. Spiller of Boston, Harold D. Percival of Boston, and James D. McLellan of Boston, were fined $10 each for speeding on the Blue Hills parkway.

The Magazines.

A dainty cover picturing a girl reaching up to gather from a branch of apple blossoms dresses the June issue of Suburban Life. The leading article, "Furnishing the Summer Veranda," an important question of the day to many women, is a helpful one, giving a complete list of furnishings that make for a comfortably fitted-up veranda; "How to Build an Economical Seashore Cottage" is a practical paper of great interest to those persons contemplating a cheap summer home and "What Others Have Done" is a symposium of personal experience in beautifying the home grounds at small expense.

John Y. White and another vs. Citizens' Gaslight Company. For plaintiff for $147.93 damages and $15 costs.

David Ford vs. inhabitants of Weymouth. For plaintiff for $700, without costs.

Guest of Quincy Chapter.

A reception will be given to General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., by the John Adams chapter, Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution of Quincy, at the rooms of the State Society, D.

R., 100 Boylston street, Boston, on Saturday, June third, from three to five o'clock. All members of the Junior society are cordially invited to be present. Among the guests will be the State officers of the Daughters of the Revolution, and members of other Junior chapters with their directors.

Going to Philippines.

Congressman McNary will start in July for his trip to the Philippines. Mr. McNary is said to be quite a Spanish scholar, owing to his frequent trips into Mexico. He will be able, therefore, to tell the Filipinos the priceless blessings of freedom in a language not unknown to them. In the mean time the "Filipinos" in his congressional district will no doubt start in studying the art of opportunism.

Park Police.

Some transfers are announced among the Metropolitan park police, and the Blue Hills squad will be composed of Sergt. Breivagel and Patrolmen MacLeod, Philbrick, Garrett, Grady, Gillen, O'Neil, White, Sullivan, Jordan, Kenney, MacIsaac, Murphy and Burmingham.

The force now numbers 84, including 31 at Revere beach, 13 at Middlesex Fells, 8 at Riverside, 5 at Brighton Speedway, 13 at Nantasket and 14 at Blue Hills.

MAY WAS COOL.

Maximum Temperature Below 70 a Majority of the Days.

The extremes of noon temperature in May were 85 and 48, compared with 87 and 49 in May 1904. The noon extremes in May for ten years have been 93 and 46. Compared with May 1904 the noon temperature of last month was as follows:

70 to 80,	9	10
60 to 70,	14	8
Below 50,	1	2

It will be seen that maximum temperature in the 60's was most common in May this year, while in May last year the 70's led. This year there were only 14 days with temperature above 70, where last year there were 18 days, and there were fewer 80 degree days this year than last year.

COST OF BRIDGE.

Heavy Bill for Quincy Expected Soon

Commissioners Report About Ready.

Will Be Apportioned Between Cities and Towns.

It looks now as though the report of the special Commission appointed to determine who should pay the expense of the building of the Quincy Point bridge, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars, would soon be returned to court. The question will then come up to be determined by the Mayor and Council as to how Quincy's share will be provided for, whether by a loan or whether put into the tax levy for this year.

The original Commission, consisting of Henry P. Moulton, chairman, John J. Flaherty and E. H. Vaughan, heard all the evidence and arguments last year. They were considering what the award should be when Mr. Moulton died. This brought the whole proceedings to a standstill, and it was not until the first of this year that Judge Prescott Keyes of Concord was appointed to take Mr. Moulton's place. By agreement of all the parties, it was decided not to have a rehearing but to have Judge Keyes take a view of the bridge, read the evidence and arguments of counsel, which had been taken by a stenographer, and then meet with the other two commissioners and determine the proportion which each city and town benefitted should pay. Ex-City Solicitor Blackmur had argued the case during his term of office and his successor, Mr. Thomas, representing the City of Quincy, told the Commission that he was content, so far as Quincy was concerned, to leave the case as it had been argued by Mr. Blackmur.

The Commission gave a hearing a week ago Monday, to obtain figures as to the cost of maintenance of the bridge, and also to discuss the question of the fees of the Commission, and the expense of the hearings. The act provides that the expense of the hearings shall be borne by the same cities, and towns and quasi-public corporations as are found to be benefitted, and are assessed for the cost of the bridge. The Commissioners notified to be present at the hearing on Monday, only those counsel who represented cities, and towns who were to pay the expenses. Counsel for the city of Quincy, the towns of Hull, Hingham, Cohasset and Scituate, together with counsel for the County of Norfolk, and the street railway company, were asked to be present. By implication, therefore, it will be these parties who will be assessed for the cost of the bridge. The proportion which each will pay, however, will not be learned until the report is returned to court.

The last Commission that was appointed by the Legislature to assess the cost of the old bridge and its maintenance determined that the expense should be levied only upon the towns of Quincy, Weymouth and Hingham. The Commission that sat before that time, however, took in several towns southeast of Hingham, including Scituate, Marshfield and Cohasset and other places. It looks now as though this Commission had gone back to first principles and adopted the view of the earlier commissioners as to who derived special benefits by having a bridge constructed over the Fore River at Quincy Point.

Miss Carter's School.

The following article will undoubtedly be of interest to the graduates of Woodward, especially to the members of the class of 1903. Miss Nan Carter, who was graduated from Woodward in that year and who is now teaching in the Pine Banks school, Westminister, Vt., celebrated Memorial day on Monday at her school. Over the arch on the outer entrance, was the word, "Welcome" in red, white and blue. The school room was decorated with bunting and flags, and red, white and blue columbine. The black-boards were banked in ferns, in just the same way as the girls at Woodward used to decorate the assembly hall for their graduations. There were songs by the school, and recitations by the different pupils. Mr. Henry Ellis, a Civil war veteran gave a very interesting address. The parents of the pupils and many of their friends attended the exercises.

NOT G. H. WILSON.

But John J. Flaherty on the Harbor Board.

The lightning struck in five places in Norfolk county on Wednesday, Gov. Douglas selecting five gentlemen for appointment to office. Quincy was not in the list, although the city had an active candidate for the board of Harbor and Land Commissioners which was among the places filled. The term of Capt. Charles C. Doten of Plymouth, a newspaper man expired, and there were several aspirants for the office, including George H. Wilson of Quincy, the ex-Councilman and twice a candidate for Mayor. Mr. Wilson had a strong and influential backing, with good prospects of success. It was not known that the chairman of the Democratic State Committee, John J. Flaherty, was a candidate, and his appointment came as a surprise. Should he accept he will resign the chairmanship of the Democratic committee.

Other appointments were:

Charles W. Hastings of Weymouth, to be commissioner of state aid and pensions (reappointed.)

J. White Belcher of Randolph and Anna F. Prescott of Boston and Joseph A. Smart of Andover, to be trustees of the state hospital at Tewksbury and the state farm at Bridgewater, (all reappointed.)

James S. Russell of Milton to be a member of the committee to examine and consider the laws relative to the taxation of forest lands.

Charles Sturtevant of Hyde Park, to be medical examiner, Norfolk county.

Watch for Bargain Heralds.

It is announced that a coupon good for five votes will soon be printed in some weekday Herald, and also a coupon good for ten votes in the Sunday Herald either June 4 or June 11. Friends of Miss Underwood should be alert and secure as many of these coupons as possible. Better still, if you are not already a Herald reader, place an order in advance for the Sunday Herald for the next two weeks, and help along the Quincy candidate. The chances of success are good if we get a large number of the "bargain coupons." If 1000 extra Sunday Heralds are purchased it will mean 10,000 extra votes for Miss Underwood.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

IT SUFFERED ANNIHILATION

BUT FOUR REACH HAVEN

Admiral Rojestvensky Seriously Wounded, but Tokio Reports That He Will Recover--Czar Inclined to Continue the War--Russia Forever Disgraced by Surrender of Her Warships--Captain of a Russian Cruiser Tells Story of Battle--No Definite Move Looking Toward Peace Taken at Washington

London, June 1.—Little hope for the Russians can be found in the latest dispatches regarding the naval battle off Tsu island. Only four of the vessels of Rojestvensky's fleet are known to have reached Vladivostok, the cruisers Almaz and the torpedo boat destroyers Grozny, Brava and Terosiahty.

The full extent of the Russian casualties in men and officers drowned, wounded and captured, is not yet known. The Japanese losses, as reported from Tokio, are only three torpedo boats sunk, three officers killed and about 200 men killed or disabled. Not one of the big fighting ships of the Japanese navy was lost.

It is now definitely known that Vice Admiral Rojestvensky is captured. He is seriously wounded, but, it is stated from Tokio, will recover.

Interest now turns to the situation in Russia as the result of the naval disaster. The czar yesterday summoned to the palace at Tsarskoe-Selo all the members of the imperial family and later called into extraordinary council Admiral Alexieff and all his ministers of state, and a series of conferences took place as to the course to be pursued. The result of these conferences is in doubt, the ministers on returning to St. Petersburg observing a cautious reticence as to what took place. It is believed, however, that the czar is determined on a prosecution of the war, the government fearing the effects of the disaster on the Russian people.

The army in Manchuria is not yet aware of the disaster to the navy and, the dispatches say, is still praying for victory.

The Russian press, with few exceptions, is openly indignant and is attacking the bureaucracy, one paper saying that "those guilty of the Russian defeat should be overwhelmed with shame." Admiral Voelkersam is supposed to have perished.

In strength of fighting units the fleets of Togo and Rojestvensky were the most powerful that ever closed in battle. In a material sense, therefore, the disaster to the Russians was the greatest in the history of the world. The interests at stake, too, were tremendous.

That a battle between such giants, involving such momentous issues, should be won so easily by Japan, is astounding. Students of naval affairs had little expectation that Rojestvensky would be able to defeat Togo. There was no precedent for a belief that even with a paper equality or superiority the Russians could overcome the magnificent personnel of the Japanese fleet, but it was not thought that the Russian fleet would be annihilated.

The showing made by Rojestvensky is hardly on a par with the work of Chinese in the battle of the Yalu. Russia must feel forever disgraced. Even the Spanish at Santiago kept going as long as they could work their guns and engines, and, as a last resort, threw their ships on shore—they did not surrender.

It is too early to attempt to say what naval lessons were taught by the fight. The dispatches are altogether too vague. Whether it was gunfire, mines, torpedo boats or submarines that did the maximum damage, is not known. The lessons of the fight would have been of greater value if the affair had not been so one-sided.

French experts figured the respective strength of the two fleets before the battle as follows:

Tonnage	Jap	20	Russ	18
Engine power	"	18	"	20
Guns	"	20	"	18.5
Armor	"	20	"	18
Bases and resources	"	20	"	14.5
Totals	"	98	"	89

Russ losses....22 ships 120,000 tons
Jap losses.... 8 torpedo boats 360 tons

The Daily Mail's Tokio correspondent says that the captain of the Russian cruiser Admiral Nakhimoff, who is now a prisoner, relates the following story of the battle between the Japanese and Russian fleets:

"We first saw the Japanese at 6 o'clock on the morning of May 27, when suddenly and unexpectedly we encountered the enemy's fleet as we were moving to the east of Esu island. They steamed toward us and opened fire. Only 90 minutes after the firing began, a sudden shock was felt under the Admiral Nakhimoff and she began to sink with great rapidity. My belief is that she either struck a mine or a torpedo. My crew numbered 600 men, a majority of whom went down in the ship, as there was no time to get the men on deck.

"Myself and a number of survivors, aided by lifeboats, swam to a small launch and about 10 o'clock in the morning we went aboard a fisher boat. All of the officers went on to Shimonseki.

"In the engagement fought off Liancourt rocks the Russian battleships were surrounded by Japanese ships, which circled about them, pouring in a terrible fire, and they almost immediately fell into hopeless confusion. Seeing their plight, Vice Admiral Togo signalled from the battleship Mikasa a demand to know whether the Russians were ready to surrender. Our ships complied with the demand."

Other accounts of the battle describe the roar of the cannonade as so terrible that houses were shaken at Yamaguchi, 288 miles distant, and the people supposed it was an earthquake.

The Japanese fleet has suffered little. The battleship Asahi was oftenest hit and suffered the heaviest loss, but did not quit the firing line. Admiral Kamimura was sent southwards with the deliberate purpose of beginning the battle with a small squadron. He, however, allowed the Russians to pass him. Then Rear Admiral Uriu broke in upon them from Oki islands, and passed across the head of the third line, raking them again and again.

Japanese submarine boats, the correspondent says, proved most effective. The armored cruiser Vladimir Monomach hoisted the white flag during the battle and with 100 of her crew surrendered.

"Naval Battle of the Sea of Japan"

Tokio, June 1.—Admiral Togo telegraphs:

"The naval battle fought from the afternoon of May 27 to May 28 in the vicinity of Okino island, and extending to the vicinity of Orleung island, is called the naval battle of the Sea of Japan."

Admiral Togo also reports that Vice Admiral Enquist was captured with Admiral Rojestvensky. The Russian prisoners, Admiral Togo says, will exceed 3000.

QUESTION OF PEACE

Nothing Will Be Done at Washington For the Present

Washington, June 1.—While the president has discussed informally the subject of peace negotiations with members of his cabinet and with some representatives of foreign governments at this capital, and in the near future, probably, will take up the matter with others, it can be said authoritatively that no definite steps looking toward peace yet have been taken by this government. That such steps may be taken is regarded as quite likely, but whatever action may be taken will depend upon information not yet in hand.

That a concerted effort on the part of several important powers, including the United States, to bring about a cessation of hostilities in the far east may be made very soon is reasonably certain. The result of such an effort is quite another matter. It is regarded as too soon yet, after the great naval battle, for Russia to determine upon a definite course of action. At least until the St. Petersburg government shall have indicated what its desires may be, the probabilities are regarded as only to an informal discussion of peace.

Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, expects to see the president some time today for a general talk, but he denies that he will carry any message from his government and speaks discouragingly of the prospects of peace.

Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, says Russia will not have to communicate with Tokio direct to find out the general conditions upon which Japan will open peace negotiations, adding that "unless Russia is prepared to accede forthwith to these terms she had better fight on."

Complimentary Dinner Is Off

Washington, June 1.—It had been proposed by American friends to tender a personal complimentary dinner to Count Cassini just prior to his retirement from his post here, in recognition of the services he had rendered in promoting the friendly relations of the United States and Russia. In view, however, of recent events in the far east, it has been deemed advisable to recall the invitations.

Mourns For Russia's Mishaps

Chicago, June 1.—Baron A. Schlippenbach, the Russian consul to Chicago, has appeared in business circles dressed in a suit of black and wearing dark neckwear. In this manner he is showing his grief for the Russian disaster in the far east. The baron has also laid aside jewelry. The members of the Russian consulate are following his example.

CITY BREVITIES

June.

The City Council Committee on Streets will meet Friday evening.

City Treasurer Fay returned Wednesday from a few days' business trip.

Mrs. H. H. Hill, the chiropodist has office hours on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

May will be remembered as a very pleasant month, with temperature below the average.

The Assessors are at work in Wards Five and Six. They will probably finish their outside labors this week.

The South Quincys will have as opponents on the Ward Three playgrounds on Saturday, the Boston Unions.

On the Ward Four playgrounds on Saturday the Copeland Club will cross bats with the Suffolk A. A. of Dorchester.

Public hearings on laying out North Payne street and Charles street will be held by the City Council next Monday evening.

Quincy can win in the Herald school contest if Quincy people all buy a Herald next Sunday. They may be good for ten votes each.

A large number of the members of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, went to East Weymouth on Wednesday to witness the working of the third degree upon a number of candidates.

The marriage of Miss Sadie A. Morgan to 1st. Lieut. Walter C. Jones, 13th U. S. Infantry, U. S. Army, whose engagement was announced some time ago in these columns, will take place in the evening of Wednesday, June 14, at the home of Miss Morgan's parents, No. 1339 Pearl street, Alameda, California. No invitations have been sent out, as it will be a private wedding, owing to the departure in the near future of Lieut. Jones for Manila, P. I.

Welcome Home.

A complete and happy surprise was given to Mrs. Frank Burgess, by five little girls, members of her Sunday school class, at her home on Beach street, Wollaston, last Saturday evening. It was intended as a "welcome home" to their teacher, who had recently returned from a trip South. Among the invited guests were Rev. and Mrs. E. D. Webber, Mr. Sparrow superintendent of the Sunday school and Mrs. Sparrow, and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Albee. A very merry and enjoyable evening was spent by all present. Mrs. Burgess was presented with a volume of Jean Ingelow's poems. Ice cream, cake and candy were served. The little girls who planned and so efficiently carried out the affair were Edith Armstrong, Edna Rhodes, May Critcheley, Helene Daggett, and Cora Sherwood.

Pine Tree Club.

The Pine Tree club met Wednesday evening at Colonial hall, where they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chaplin, Mr. and Mrs. William Stoddard and Waldo Gledhill.

Quite an elaborate program had been arranged by the hosts, but several of those who were to contribute were unable to be present.

A pleasing entertainment, however, consisting of readings and vocal solos was given. There were also several choruses by the club. Upwards of one hundred were present and at the close of the entertainment there was an impromptu dance. The order was made up largely of square dances, although their was an occasional waltz.

Frappe was served during the entire evening, and when at midnight, steps were taken toward home, it was with a vote of thanks to the hosts for the evening's pleasure.

—Mr. John D. Rockefeller is reported to have said to a friend: "I shall continue to give in my own way to any cause that appeals to me as being worthy or in need," when asked as to his attitude. "This controversy over my gift of $100,000 for the Congregational missionary purposes has set me thinking as to the best method of aiding church philanthropy and work. I am considering methods that will enable me in future to regulate my giving of money on a systematic basis and with more effective scope than heretofore.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

TOO GREAT FORCE

Parisian Bomb Thrower Made a Miscalculation

INTENDED TO HIT KING

Alfonso of Spain and President Loubet Were In Carriage at Which Missile Was Aimed--Several Persons Are Hurt

Paris, June 1.—An attempt to assassinate King Alfonso was made at midnight. As the king drove with President Loubet from a gala performance at the Grand Opera house a bomb thrown by an anarchist exploded with deadly effect near the royal carriage.

As if by a miracle both the king and the president escaped uninjured, but fragments of the deadly missile seriously injured five persons, killed or maimed a number of cavalry horses forming the escort and knocked out a child's eye. Intense excitement followed the incident. The king and president retained their presence of mind.

The person who is believed to have thrown the bomb has been arrested with two others who are thought to have been implicated in the plot.

The opera performance went without a hitch. At the close of the performance the king and president took seats side by side in the royal carriage and the vehicle started off, surrounded by several squadrons of cuirassiers, towards the Avenue de l'Opera. The space around the opera house was cleared for 200 yards, but the avenue was packed with a dense throng.

When the king's carriage passed at a gallop, followed by others containing the diplomatic corps and the ministers, the crowd cheered itself hoarse, shouting "Long live the king!" and "Long live the president!" The procession arrived at the end of the Avenue de l'Opera and crossed the Place Theatre Francais, where were assembled at least 1500 persons in the Rue de Rolan, a short street forming practically a continuation of the Avenue de l'Opera.

There a man sprang forward with his arm raised in the air, and before the cordon of police could prevent him, he, without uttering a word, threw a projectile in the direction of the royal carriage. The police immediately rushed toward him.

At that moment a deafening explosion occurred. Cries from the crowd were heard and a scene of intense excitement began, the crowd surging to and fro. Soldiers were seen to fall, but as the flash from the bomb died out it was observed that the king and the president had not been struck and their carriage proceeded on its way.

The bomb had been thrown with too great force and passed over the royal carriage and struck the shoulder of a cuirassier and then fell to the ground, where it exploded, fragments of it striking the horses of the soldiers, causing them to bolt and throw their riders. One horse of the escort was killed outright and six others lay about maimed and bleeding.

The forec of the explosion was terrific and caused a derangement of the electric lights, which were all extinguished, adding darkness to the scene of confusion. Women and children screamed and a panic was threatened amid the vast throng until the police succeeded in restoring order. In the meantime the remainder of the escort of the royal carriage had closed round the vehicle which drove off to the Palais d'Orsay, hemmed in by troops and cavalry.

Immediately following the explosion an individual was seen to dash into the crowd, but men seized him before he could escape and turned him over to the police. He is believed to have been the author of the outrage. Many other arrests were effected.

The first person taken was a man about 20 years old, having an injured eye. It is not known whether his wound was caused by the explosion or by the violence of the crowd. He refuses to speak. Other persons arrested on suspicion of being accomplices in the deed refuse to give information regarding the man believed to be responsible for the outrage.

Made Good His Shortage

Washington, June 1.—The president has commuted, to expire immediately, the five years' penitentiary sentence of S. J. Spotts, cashier of the First National bank of Petty, Tex., who in 1904 pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling the funds of the bank. Spotts has served one year and has made complete restitution to the bank.

Clayton Leaves Diplomatic Service

Washington, June 1.—Powell Clayton, late ambassador to Mexico, called at the state department to formally terminate his connection with the diplomatic service. He has turned over the embassy to Second Secretary Helmke, as Mr. Conger, who succeeds to the ambassadorship, has not yet reported at his new post.

Admits Murdering Girl

Oswego, N. Y., June 1.—Henry Manser, a farmhand, 28 years old, who was arrested in connection with the murder of Cora Sweet, 13 years old, has confessed to Sheriff Cook.

THREE WEEKS' REPRIEVE

Governor Bell Grants Request of Mrs Rogers' Counsel

Montpelier, Vt., June 1.—Governor Bell has granted a second reprieve to Mrs. Mary M. Rogers, who is under sentence of death for the murder of her husband, Marcus Rogers, and for whose execution on Friday of the current week preparations had been made.

This second reprieve extends until June 23 and it is not believed that Bell will again exercise executive clemency in behalf of Mrs. Rogers. When the first reprieve was granted, the governor said he would not further interfere with the course of the law, but as the question of the constitutional rights of the prisoner has been raised by her counsel Bell says he does not wish to have any doubt unsettled.

The reprieve was the result of a conference between Bell and Mrs. Rogers' counsel immediately after the decision of the supreme court had been given, in which the court, standing five to two, refused to certify to the writ of error brought by the defense. Mrs. Rogers' attorneys will now bring the matter before one of the justices of the United States supreme court, and expect an answer within the period of the reprieve.

Former Prison Guard In Custody

Boston, June 1.—On a specific charge of giving morphine to a prisoner at the state prison at Windsor, Vt., local officers arrested as a fugitive from justice Alvah Sanderson, 24 years old, a former guard at the institution, but who was discharged on May 17 last. Sanderson announced his readiness to return to Vermont without the usual papers. The charge against Sanderson states that he gave the drug to Edward Casey on Feb. 2, the day previous to the one first set for the execution of Mrs. Rogers.

Bishop Acted as Umpire

Providence, June 1.—Bishop McVickar has arrived at a decision as to the minimum wage question for journeymen carpenters, the question on which he acted as umpire between the Master Builders' association and the Carpenters' unions. The bishop states that he does not feel at liberty to make public in whose favor the decision has been found until he has acquainted the sub-committee with his findings.

"Duellists" Held For Grand Jury

Saugus, Mass., June 1.—Louis Sylvester and Louis Kentie, the young men who, it is charged, fought a duel over the affection of Edith Hobbs, were each held in $500 for the grand jury by Trial Justice Ludden. The evidence went to show that Sylvester began the firing, but not until Kentie had drawn his revolver.

Youth Charged With Swindling

Providence, June 1.—Henry G. Crippen, aged 20, was arrested in connection with the alleged swindling of two local jewelers out of diamond rings by means of checks which bore the signature "James H. Wade," and which were declared worthless by the bank upon which they were drawn.

Work of Supposed Firebug

Weston, Mass., June 1.—The stable and barn on the estate of Horace B. Sears, a Boston banker, was totally destroyed by fire. The damage is $5000 and the fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin. The livestock and carriages were saved.

New Hampshire Forestry

Washington, June 1.—In co-operation with officials of New Hampshire, agents of the bureau of forestry have commenced to make maps of the southern part of that state which will show the timberland, the agricultural land, and the barren area suitable for tree planting. Forest work in the state will be done chiefly with the view of advising farmers and owners of second-growth forest as to the best management for the production of pulp wood, box boards, fire wood, etc.

Below Contract Requirements

Washington, June 1.—The secretary of the navy has received the official report in regard to the recent official trial of the protected cruiser Galveston off the coast of Massachusetts. The average speed for four hours was 16.425 knots. No immediate repairs or changes are required. The Galveston was required to make 16.50 knots and as she fell only slightly below that requirement there is no doubt of her acceptance by the government.

Won't Consider Public Affairs

Paris, June 1.—Secretary Hay continues to observe a rigorous health regime which prevents him from making or receiving official or social calls. He has not alluded to public affairs and does not intend to do so while he remains in Paris or London, this being one of the strict requirements of his physicians.

Five Men Killed In Tunnel

Montrose, Col., June 1.—At least five men were killed and two seriously injured by the caving in of the Gunnison reclamation mine tunnel. Twenty-one men were rescued uninjured, but exhausted. They were hoisted with ropes through a shaft which had been sunk 60 feet in less than 24 hours.

Close to Anarchy at Lodz

Lodz, June 1.—Soldiers were stoned by a mob of men who were trying to bring out some weavers who were at work, whereupon the troops fired, killing two men and wounding six. A condition almost approaching anarchy exists here. The strikers appear to have supreme control.

Passenger Train Wrecked

Fairfax, S. C., June 1.—In a collision between some freight cars and a passenger train here, the passenger train was wrecked and three persons dangerously injured.

GREAT SHOW OPENS

GRAND MILITARY PARADE

Headed by Vice President Fairbanks, It Served as Prelude to Formal Opening of Exposition by President Roosevelt

Portland, Or., June 1.—Amid a scene of festivity and splendor never equalled in the Pacific northwest, with din and clamor of cheering thousands, accompanied by the booming of artillery, the chiming of bells and the blaring of bands, Portland today made her greatest bow to the world in the formal opening of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition.

The event took place under conditions presaging complete success to this historical commemoration of the blazing trail to "Old Oregon" by Captain Merriwether Lewis and William Clark, who, commissioned by President Jefferson, explored the great Oregon country 100 years ago.

Today's celebration was participated in by the President of the United States and his personal representative, Charles W. Fairbanks; representatives of the state and of the house of representatives of the national congress; of the army and navy, together with the governors and staffs of the states of California, Idaho, Washington and Oregon and multitudes of people from far and near.

The prelude to the actual opening ceremonies at the exposition consisted of the parade, a grand pageant of militarism led by Vice President Fairbanks, the congressional party, visiting governors and other dignitaries and the exposition officials. As the troops passed, the mass of sightseers flanking the column fell in behind and when the exposition grounds were reached there was a stream of humanity miles long following in its wake.

As the parade swung into the grounds the vice presidential, congressional and fair parties were detached from column and were escorted to the New York state building. Everything being in readiness, at 11:45 o'clock Vice President Fairbanks and party emerged from the New York state building, receiving the vice presidential salute of 18 guns. Flanked on either side by a line of troops, the party walked to the speakers' stand.

Promptly at 12 o'clock noon, President Goode of the exposition arose and, gavel in hand, announced the beginning of the ceremonies. As the echo of the cheering died away Bishop Moore of the Methodist Episcopal church, stepping to the front of the platform, raised his hands and invoked the divine blessing.

The impressive silence which followed the prayer was broken as the inspiring strains of "Imperial Oregon," a march dedicated to the memory of Captains Lewis and Clark and inscribed to the people of Oregon, was played by the band. Following this, President Goode begun his address, welcoming the people of the United States as the guests of the exposition.

Following Goode, Governor Chamberlain of Oregon, Jefferson Myers, president of the Lewis and Clark centennial committee, George H. Williams, the mayor of Portland, and others made addresses.

The enthusiasm of the multitude found expression in a tremendous ovation to Vice President Fairbanks, the personal representative of the President of the United States, who was frequently cheered during his address.

The presidential salute of 21 guns was the signal to the impatient throng that the moment for the opening of the exposition was at hand. Upon a telegraph operator, seated at an instrument on the speaker's stand, the eyes of the multitude were riveted as President Roosevelt was being advised that all was in readiness to receive the signal from the White House which would formally open the exposition.

Then followed a wait marked by an impressive stillness. Suddenly out of the quiet came a faint click, President Roosevelt's signal, and Oregon's greatest hour had come. Almost simultaneously with the clicking of the telegraph instrument President Goode's gavel fell and he proclaimed the exposition open.

To Watch Bait Grounds

St. Johns, June 1.—The whaler Neptune, commissioned as a cruiser to enforce the bait act against American fishermen, in conjunction with the revenue cutter Fiona, has sailed for the south coast to patrol the bait areas of Placentia bay. She carries a force of revenue police coast guards sufficient to seize any offending vessel.

Next Secretary of Navy

Washington, June 1.—President Roosevelt announces that upon the retirement of Paul Morton from the secretaryship of the navy on July 1 he will be succeeded by Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore. The appointment of Bonaparte had been determined upon by the president for some time.

President Greater Than King

Rome, June 1.—King Victor Emmanuel received in private audience Senator Bacon of Georgia, with whom he conversed most cordially, showing perfect knowledge of American affairs. The king said a President of the United States enjoys more power than a King of Italy.

A CURIOUS COMPLICATION

"Mrs Waddell" the Wife of Man Who Was Shot by Waddell

Beverly, Mass., June 1.—The Hayes murder case is baffling the police, who declare that they are at a loss to ascribe a motive for the act of Foster Waddell, the temperance orator, in murdering Fred Hayes, and firing the house conducted by the supposed Mrs. Waddell, on May 26.

The story of the shooting at the time it took place was to the effect that Waddell found his wife in the room occupied by Hayes, who was a boarder in the house, and without a word opened fire on him with a revolver.

The real circumstances seem to be that Hayes caught Waddell in an attempt to fire the place by igniting a sofa in his room and as a result of that the shots were fired that killed the man.

Mrs. Waddell now declares that she is the widow of Fred Hayes. She said: "We were married in Lynn on March 4 last by Rev. R. L. Green. I went through a ceremony with Waddell several years ago but afterwards learned that he had a wife at the time. I then became convinced that the ceremony was not valid. It was the intention of Hayes and myself to keep the matter quiet for a time and then go to Lynn to live."

Consolation For Britishers

London, June 1.—The British public has not displayed any keen interest in the further proceedings of the trans-Atlantic yacht race for the Emperor of Germany's cup since learning of the splendid feat of the American yacht Atlantic, but yachting circles are greatly pleased that the British boat Valhalla managed to secure third place. The Endymion, Hildegarde, Sunbeam, Fleur de Lys, Ailsa and Utawana arrived after the Valhalla in the order named, leaving two others still to pass the line.

To Be Tried For Conspiracy

New York, June 1.—Twenty-four members of the so-called theatrical trust will have to stand trial on a charge of conspiracy, in accordance with a decision rendered by Magistrate Pool in the long pending complaint of James S. Metcalfe, the dramatic critic, against the Theatrical Managers' association. Metcalfe charged conspiracy in that the members of the association passed a resolution Jan. 12 last by which they agreed to bar him from their theatres.

Judge and Senator Arrested

Winchester, Ky., June 1.—Sheriff McCord last night arrested Judge Hargis of Breathitt county and Senator Hargis and B. F. French of Winchester on a charge of complicity in the murder of James B. Marcum. The warrant charges these men and Sheriff Callahan of Breathitt county with conspiracy in aiding and abetting Tom White and Curtis Jett, who, it is alleged, did the actual killing. The defendants are in the custody of the jailer.

Swayed by Evangelist

Knoxville, Tenn., June 1.—Influenced by a sermon which he heard from the lips of an evangelist, William S. Keller has confessed his participation in recent local election frauds by stuffing a ballot box. The Knox county judgeship is now being contested in court.

Refused Increase in Salary

Washington, Ia., June 1.—At the closing session of the United Presbyterian general assembly Dr. Wilson, secretary of foreign missions, refused to permit the assembly to increase his salary from $2000 to $2500 a year. He was cheered.

Chinese Would Boycott Us

Manila, June 1.—The Chinese Chamber of Commerce by a unanimous vote has decided to stand in line with the treaty ports of China in boycotting American merchandise in retaliation for the American exclusion treaty.

NEWS IN BRIEF

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The City Council Committee on Finance will meet tonight.

The W. R. C. will attend exemplification of corps at Rockland today.

Tax Collector Cunningham sold thirty estates at auction on Wednesday for unpaid taxes.

The Misses Hill of Walker street launched a pretty new row boat Tuesday at the Atlantic beach.

Mrs. Roger Wilde of Billings street has returned from New York where she has been visiting relatives.

Mrs. Irving Shaw of Brookline has spent the past few days visiting relatives in Quincy and Weymouth.

Frederick E. Tupper has entered business for himself as civil engineer and surveyor, with office at 21 Adams building.

The Finance committee of the City Council will meet at City Hall this evening in regard to Maple place extension.

Constable Hultman did duty on Memorial day keeping the unlicensed fruit venders away from Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Friday is not always an unlucky day. Those who made cash purchases at the store of George W. Jones on Friday, May 19, will have their money refunded.

Dr. William Everett of this city has presented to the High school at Millbury, where John O. Hall, Jr., is master, large steel engravings of George and Martha Washington.

Miss Mary B. Adams of Wollaston and Miss Margaret Curtis of Boston, both won in the fourth round for the ladies' golf championship at Cromer, England, on Wednesday.

R. R. Freeman had the best gross score, 80, in Class A at the members' handicap of the Wollaston Golf club on Memorial day, and the net prize went to J. A. Campbell. In Class B. it was a tie between A. H. Latham and W. M. Payson for best gross score, and Mr. Payson won for best net score.

The sympathy of the many friends that Miss Florence Ireland of Ashmont has made in Atlantic, is extended to her in the recent loss of her mother. As the children of Miss Lena Crane's class have learned to depend upon Miss Ireland's playing in their fancy dancing, the exhibition of skill in this art which was to have taken place early this month, has been postponed to June sixth.

The Ruskin club which has several members from Atlantic has been invited to Dover, Mass., on Saturday to the camp of one of its Brookline representatives.

Yesterday and today have been great days for vote gathering in the School contest. Several good-sized packages have been forwarded to the Daily Ledger office, and the outlook is bright.

The companies of the Boys Brigade in the Memorial day parade were conspicuous for their dignity and excellent marching. The manœuvres during the march, which included the formation of the cross, were very good. They deserve much praise, and the town is proud of its young cadets.

LINEMAN HURT.

Was at Top of Pole When it Toppled Over.

Charles Taylor, a lineman, employed by the New England Telephone Co. was seriously injured this morning by a pole falling upon which he was at work. The pole was set on the shore at the foot of Beach street, Wollaston, and had probably become undermined by the action of the tide.

He was at work on the top of the pole removing the wires. As he cut off the last wire the pole toppled over carrying him with it. The pole fell across his abdomen, and but for the crossarms which kept part of the weight from him he would probably have been instantly killed.

Taylor was attended by Dr. Adams, and removed to his home on Main street. It is not known just how bad he is injured, but it is thought they are of an internal nature.

Randolph Liquor Cases.

The continued cases of Charles A. Wilbur and Carrie M. Wilbur of the Howard house, Randolph, for violation of the liquor law were heard before Judge Avery in the district court this morning. The complaint against Charles A. Wilbur was for keeping and exposing liquor for sale. He was found guilty and fined $75 and sentenced to three months in the house of correction.

There was two complaints against Carrie M. Wilbur, one was for keeping a liquor nuisance, and the other for keeping and exposing liquor for sale. She was find $50 on the first complaint which she paid. The second complaint was dismissed.

George E. Adams, Esq., conducted the government case, and Judge F. M. Bixby of Brockton represented the defendants.

Roller Skating every afternoon and evening.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of George W. Patten, for larceny from the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., was called and again continued until June 15.

Fred Harper was fined $3 for drunkenness at Milton.

Umpires,—Hunter and Taylor.

The Cranch school defeated the Wollastons on Tuesday 15 to 3. Two-base hits by Coffin and Marsh helped to swell the score.

By innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6
Cranch school,	2	8	3	2	0	0	—15
Wollaston school,	1	0	0	0	0	2	— 3

Defenders Win.

The Defenders defeated the Doble's Corner nine in a rather one-sided game on the morning of Memorial day on the Quincy Adams field. The score was as follows:

Innings,	1	2	3	4	5	6
Defenders,	3	4	4	1	0	2	—14
Doble's Corner,	0	3	0	0	0	0	— 3

American Boys, 12; Columbias, 2.

At Redmen's Field, South Quincy, on Wednesday afternoon, the American Boys defeated the Columbias. The twirling and fielding of Michael, the backstop work of Moorehouse, the batting of Birmingham, and all around good playing by the Americans won the game. E. Knight and C. Knight batted and fielded splendidly for the Columbias.

The American Boys desire games with 14-15-year old teams. Defenders, of South Quincy, and Columbia Association preferred. Address, J. E. Spargo, manager, 2 Roberts St., So. Quincy.

GREATEST STORY OF THE DAY.

The most startling thing, the most wonderful thing you ever heard of! During a thunder storm a shower of diamonds, actually broke the panes of glass in the humble abode of poor little Philip Anson, about to commit suicide on account of the death of his mother. The diamonds fell in bucketfuls. Philip picked up barrels of them. You think this is a dream? It is no dream. Scientists will tell you the thing is possible.

If you want to learn all about it, read "The King of Diamonds," which will be in in tomorrow's (Friday) Boston Globe. The trump card of fiction is this story by Louis Tracy, author of "Wings of the Morning" and "The Pillar of Light."

This serial was begun once before, but was discontinued on account of a misunderstanding about the serial rights. After going to great expense, the Boston Globe is enabled to give its readers the benefit of this most up-to-date wonder story yet written.

"The King of Diamonds" is the trump card of rattling good fiction.

The Globe also has departments for every member of your family, young and old. If you are not reading it, you should order it delivered at your home.

Mortgagees' Sale of Real Estate.

BY Virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by William Fenton and wife, Hannah H. Fenton, in her right, to the Massachusetts Benefit Association, dated April 28, 1891, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, lib. 653, fol. 221, said deed having been duly assigned to Thomas N. Hart et al Trustees, under the will of Albert Plimpton, for breach of condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold by public auction upon the premises therein described on SATURDAY, June 24th, 1905, at one o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the real estate described in said mortgage deed, viz:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Quincy which is called Wollaston, being lot nine (9) in block three (3) of section four (4) of land of the Wollaston Land Associates, as shown on a plan of said section drawn by D. Granger & Son, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds at the end of Book 404, bounded as follows:

Northerly by Beale Street by two lines about forty-five and four-tenths (45 4-10) feet and thirty-seven and five-tenths (37 5-10) feet respectively; easterly by lot numbered eleven (11) in said Block, one hundred and eighty-four (184) feet; southerly by lot numbered (8) in said block, seventy-five (75) feet; and westerly by lot numbered seven in said block, one hundred and sixty-seven (167) feet. Containing about thirteen thousand one hundred eighty-one and five-tenths (13,181 5-10) square feet of land.

Said premises will be sold subject to the restrictions mentioned in deed of George F. Pinkham and others, Trustees, to Joseph H. Beale, dated January 2, 1871, recorded with said Norfolk Deeds, lib. 411, fol. 112, and to any and all incumbrances of record if any; also, subject to any unpaid taxes or any Municipal liens if any.

Terms: Cash at time and place of sale or at option of the purchaser. Three hundred dollars ($300) at time and place of sale and balance to be paid on or before July 1, 1905, at office of Rogers North & Johnson, 89 State Street, Room 82, Boston.

For further particulars inquire of the undersigned.

STUBBORN RUSSIA

May Not Yield In the Face of Disastrous Defeat

OVERTURES FOR PEACE

President Not Inclined to Offer Services to St Petersburg Until Sure Such an Offer Would Be Successful--Attitude of Japanese Goverment

Washington, May 31.—"Until some word of peace comes out of Tsarskoe-Selo, Nippon has but to fight on."

This epigrammatic remark of Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, made last night with the details of the victory of the Japanese fleet before him, accurately sets forth not only his opinion, but it is believed that of Washington and other neutral governments represented here regarding the effect of the battle upon Russia's policy.

Whether Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, will be the bearer of that fateful word when he sees the president today or tomorrow remains to be seen, but the ambassador, in a conversation with a press correspondent last night, was more emphatic than at any time since the war in the declaration that the war would go on indefinitely. While admitting that he would see the president in the next few days and have a long conference of the general situation, the ambassador strongly discouraged any hopes of any early peace.

"Perhaps after Lianyang there was a possibility of peace," said Cassini. "I will not say there was not an idea of peace at that time in certain quarters, but now, after this crushing defeat? Never. The Japanese talk of indemnity. Russia can better use this money in the building of another fleet. Certainly this is not the time when Russia can afford to take up the question of peace."

It is this apparent determination of Russia to continue war in the face of disastrous defeats on land and sea which discourages the Washington government at this time from taking any positive steps towards offering assistance to the belligerents in coming to an understanding. It is believed here, however, that when Russia, through her own agents, has learned the full extent of her losses, she may be approached regarding peace with some hope that overtures will be welcomed. It is such an opportunity for which this government is watching.

Soon after the president returned from New York last evening Secretary Taft called at the White House and was in conference with him for several hours. While the secretary was there dispatches arrived from the Japanese legation giving details of the battle, which the president read with keen interest. It is realized that the crushing character of the Russian defeat gives to the president an opportunity with entire propriety to offer his services to the St. Petersburg government in establishing communication with Tokio, but until it can be learned that such an offer probably would be successful this government is not inclined to act.

At a conference which the president had with Cassini soon after the battle of Lianyang the president expressed the opinion that Russia could with dignity and advantage discuss peace terms with Japan at that time and with the certainty that no indemnity would be asked. While careful to transmit the substance of the conversation to his government, the only answer which the Russian ambassador received was that "the emperor will continue the war to the bitter end."

Regarding Monday night's conference at the White House, it is possible now to state that it dealt first with the details of the battle and secondly with the possible effect of this decisive Japanese victory upon Russia's previous determination to prolong the war indefinitely. No one realizes more clearly than the mikado that the czar must be convinced of the overwhelming character of the Russian defeat before he will consider peace, and close as are the relations between Tokio and Washington, the Japanese government is not inclined, through its minister, to discuss even with the president definite peace terms until officially assured "in the czar's name that Russia is prepared seriously and in good faith to discuss peace with Japan."

Count Cassini, upon receiving a dispatch from Baron Rosen that the latter expected to be in Washington early in July, has cabled his successor, urging that he reach here in June if possible.

May Mean Early Peace

London, May 31.—It is learned in Russian official circles here that it is considered far too early to discuss the question of peace. The Russian government must first learn the effect of the defeat upon the whole Russian people. The officials of the Japanese legation still contend that the first signs of willingness for peace must come from Russia.

Other diplomatic and official circles are unanimously of the opinion that the Russian defeat must result in early peace.

Lodz Situation Grows Worse

Lodz, May 31.—The strike here is extending. About 35,000 workmen are now out. A police sergeant was shot and killed in the streets and the manufacturers are urgently appealing for government protection.

How Grant's Papers Were Saved

DURING the Federal occupation of Holly Springs, Miss., General Grant, with his staff and Mrs. Grant, took up his quarters in the beautiful home of Colonel Harvey W. Walter, which had been left in charge of Colonel Walter's friend, Mrs. Pugh Govan, a devoted daughter of the Confederacy. According to the military usage of those cruel days, General Grant might have occupied the house by force of arms, but instead of doing so wrote a courteous note to Mrs. Govan requesting the favor of board for himself and family, with the assurance that he would incommode her as little as possible. Mrs. Govan graciously assented to his request, and never by word or act, so it is related, did any of the "invaders" make it needlessly unpleasant for her.

On one occasion while General and Mrs. Grant had gone to Oxford on a brief visit General Earl Van Dorn made one of his famous raids into Holly Springs. His object was to destroy the commissary, ordnance and quartermaster stores and other army supplies concentrated there and thereby thwart and defeat the purpose of the Federal commander in the onward march of his conquering army through Mississippi, Vicksburg being General Grant's objective point. The raid was a complete surprise and perfect success, and an immense supply of stored ammunition was captured and destroyed by the Confederates.

Failing to find General Grant's official papers at his official headquarters, General Van Dorn and some of his followers dashed down to the Walter residence. Entering the house and hastily ascending the broad stairway, the clanking of their sabers and rattling of their spurs resounded through its great halls. It was the purpose of the Confederate to search General Grant's apartments for the latter's campaign documents, but just as he reached the head of the stairs Mrs. Govan, a strikingly beautiful woman, with the manner and bearing of a queen, appeared suddenly before him and said:

"General, I entreat you not to enter Mrs. Grant's bedroom. Such an intrusion would do for a vandal, but not for southern soldiers."

Earl Van Dorn, a man of graceful figure and courtly bearing, whose chivalry was only equaled by his unquestioned and unswerving courage, replied: "Madam, the rules of war are sometimes ironclad. It would be a courtesy and not the usual practice of war to leave the room unsearched. However," he added, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "we will not enter, as it is possible the documents may not be there."

The Confederate soldiers left the little town after dusk that evening. On his return from Oxford, twenty-four hours later, General Grant was much astonished over the result of the Confederates' "pop call." Knowing what an uncompromising rebel Mrs. Govan was, he said to her: "Mrs. Govan, I owe you a debt of gratitude, for you have unconsciously done me a great service. You have saved my campaign papers. All the documents General Van Dorn wished were in the drawer in my wife's dresser."

Mrs. Govan was deeply grieved that possibly she had injured a cause for which she would have given her heart's best blood, and yet she felt she had acted from the right impulses. But for the womanly instinct, prompting her to shield the wife of a generous foe, and the chivalry of a southern officer, worthy to rank with Bayard in gentle courtesy and deference to the wishes of a good woman, history, as the story goes, touching Van Dorn and Grant might have been written differently from what it is today.

When the distinguished Federal commander left Holly Springs he gave Mrs. Govan protection papers, which are still in the possession of her family. Several times thereafter the house was fired by Union soldiers, but was always quickly extinguished when this order of Major General Grant was shown:

"The house of Mrs. Govan, in southwest part of town, will be exempt from seizure for hospital or other public purposes, the family having protected the baggage, arms, etc., for officers of the army during the late raid, their home also now being the home of parties who have been deprived of their homes for public purposes."—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Q. H. S. FIELD DAY.

Eleven Events and Prizes for the Winners.

The annual inter-class field day of the Quincy High school will be held tomorrow at the lower field at Merrymount park. There have been a large number of entries for the eleven events which include:

100 yards run.
220 yards run.
1 mile run.
120 yards hurdle race; 10 hurdles, 2 ft. 6 in. high.
Running broad jump.
Running high jump.
Running hop, step and jump.
Throwing the hammer, 12 pounds.
Putting the shot, 16 pounds.
Throwing the base ball.
Class relay race.

First places will count five points, second places three points and third places one point. There is a rivalry among the four classes to see which shall win the most points.

A "Q" will be awarded to each winner and to each pupil breaking a record will be given a medal.

It will be seen from the following that four records were made last year, and four in 1903, while that for running broad jump has stood since 1902. The 120 yards hurdle is a new event this year:

100 yards run, 1904, H. S. Saunders, 11 1-5 sec.
220 yards run, 1903, H. F. Miller, 24 4-5 sec.
1 mile run, 1903, H. F. Miller, 5 min. 15 2-5 sec.
120 yards hurdle, 1905.
Running broad jump, 1902, Fallon, 18 ft. 11 1-2 in.
Running high jump, 1904, C. A. Shortle, 5 ft. 1 3-4 in.
Running hop, step and jump, 1903, W. C. Bennett, 41 ft. 4 in.
Throwing the hammer, 1904, W. C. Bennett, 97 ft. 6 in.
Putting the shot, 1903, H. F. Miller, 31 ft. 11 in.
Throwing the base ball, 1904, W. C. Bennett, 275 ft.

Steel Ship Building.

According to the Washington correspondent, of the New York Evening Post, the extent to which the tariff has handicapped American ship building has been somewhat exaggerated, although he says the situation is indefensible, even if the amount is not great. He estimates that on a 6000-ton ship requiring 3500 tons of steel the difference in price between American plate, beams, etc., sold at home and abroad would be about $28,000. He then considers the difference in wages, taking the common sense view that the labor cost, which is a different thing from rate of wages, cannot be so greatly different between this country and Great Britain, because of the approximating cost at which battleship construction has been going on in the two countries.

The Boston Herald in editorial comments says: "We have frequently alluded to that fact in the past, showing that the cost of an American battleship is not as high, in proportion to the cost of a British-built vessel of the same tonnage, as the difference between merchant vessels built in this country and abroad. A prominent ship builder once told us that the real reason of the increased cost of ships built in our country, compared with those constructed abroad, was that in England they had brought ship building down to a manufacturing basis, each section or each yard doing the work for which it was best fitted, instead of one yard doing all kinds of work, as is the case in America.

Boston's Rich Man Dead.

J. Montgomery Sears, the largest taxpayer in the city of Boston, died at his home in Southboro, shortly after 3 o'clock, this morning, after an illness of several months.

PUT UNDER BONDS

And Fined $50 for Assault with a Revolver.

Carmini Cantilli, the Italian who it is alleged, made an assault with a revolver on Beniarnino Carderrelli on Hayden street, early Wednesday morning, was given a hearing this morning in the district court. He was found guilty and was fined $50, and put under $300 bonds to keep the peace for three months. The court also gave Cantilli a lecture and charged him not to carry a revolver or knife in the future.

New England Prospering.

New England history, thrift and progress, commenced when the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth in 1620. They worked untiringly and unceasingly for the establishment of commercial centres and industrial markets; and the present flourishing manufacturing and commercial activity of the Hub shows how well they succeeded. But Nature appeared on the scene long before our early progenitors and shaped the bays and shore line; piled up the mountains and artistically laid out the lake and valley lands. The "Crystal Hills" long, long years ago were the sacred haunt of the red men's Manitou, the lakes and rivers, the aborigines' fishing grounds, and the magnificent sea coast was their haven of rest. Then the "pale face" came, and afterwards was the advent of the railroad.

Busy marts, high mountains, lake and inland sections and the entire sea coast were all linked by the great steam railroad. Climatic conditions have not changed, nothing new, except the opportunity to get there, and what additional charms hotel men and landscape artists have added.

Summer is the vacation season, New England the vacation land, and the Boston & Maine Railroad the vacation road. You don't know New England unless you know her resorts; and the Boston & Maine General Passenger Department, Boston, has just published a beautiful book of 90 pages telling all about New England resorts, how to get there, where to stop and what it costs. Send your address, the book is free for the asking.

Send Coupons Today.

With the advent of June the end of The Herald school contest may be said to be in sight. Only nine days more remain for the collection of coupons, and only 13 more for any activity by the contestants. June 11 gives the last coupon, and they must be in by Friday, June 16. Friends of Miss Underwood should not wait until the last day but forward their coupons today, to the Daily Ledger.

On Trial for Damages to Firm of Undertakers.

The trial has begun at Cambridge in the suit of T. F. Fitzgerald, et al, undertakers, against Rev. T. J. Danahy of Newton, formerly of Quincy, for $5,000, on the ground that the defendant ruined their business.

The plaintiffs allege that they were the only undertakers in that part of Newton or Dedham who were members of the Roman Catholic church, and were doing a thriving business until the defendant, "without justifiable cause, publicly and maliciously" said from the pulpit of his church at Needham, substantially:—

"I want anyone who needs the service of an undertaker to employ the local undertaker. Although he is a Protestant, he will soon learn the ways of the church. Anyone who does not do so will not be a friend of mine. I desire this for the reasons best known to myself."

This, the plaintiffs claim, ruined their business.

GIRLS ARE DEFIANT

Census Men May Force Them to Answer Questions

Northampton, Mass., June 2.—The persistent refusal of a majority of the fair students of Smith college to answer the questions of the census enumerators and the contempt exhibited for the rules of the bureau, culminated when the commonwealth's special inspectors, Tower and MacLeod, came here from Boston census headquarters to compel the girls to answer the required questions. The officers, it is said, will invoke the aid of the law if the students further attempt to evade or defy the enumerators.

There are 1065 young women students in the college, and their enumeration was supposed to begin May 1. The regular enumerator worked a week and reported practically no progress. The department then appointed five special enumerators from among the young women students, in the belief that they would be able to secure the necessary data. They have failed.

Inspector Tower states that there will be no more excuses accepted, and that if defiance continues an attempt will be made to learn the names of certain girls who, it is supposed, are acting as ringleaders.

Doctor Found Unconscious

Boston, June 2.—Dr. C. V. Pease of the Dorchester district was discovered unconscious and near death in a room of the New Lexington hotel yesterday afternoon. He was hurried to the city hospital, where all possible was done to save his life. He is still in a critical condition, however. Dr. Pease was found in a stupor by a chambermaid and on the bureau of the room was a syringe containing morphine. He had injected the fluid into his left arm. The police say that the drug was taken by accident and have abandoned the suicide theory.

Won Honor on Battlefield

Brattleboro, Vt., June 2.—General Herbert E. Titus, commander of the Ninth New Hampshire volunteers during the Civil war, died here after a protracted illness. He was a native of Chesterfield, N. H. For three years following the close of the Civil war he was special government agent in settling claims. He practiced law and engaged extensively in western mining operations.

Congregationalists' New Plan

Springfield, Mass., June 2.—The Congregational Home Missionary society, by a majority vote, adopted a report which provides for a new national society, with constituent, co-operative and missionary allies in the several states. There will be but one society for the whole country, with one secretary and various assistant secretaries, and a new secretary in Chicago.

Dying Boy Crawled For Aid

Boston, June 2.—With his right leg torn from his body and the left foot and ankle crushed, James Price, 6 years old, of 48 Pope street, East Boston, after having been run over by a freight train at the rear of his home, dragged himself for over 50 feet to a point where he could attract attention. He was later removed to the relief hospital, where he died last night.

Axe Wound In Wife's Head

South Paris, Me., June 2.—Amos A. Buck was arraigned here on a warrant in which he was charged with assault with intent to kill upon his wife. He pleaded not guilty to the charge, but probable cause was found and he was held in the sum of $100 for appearance before the grand jury. A slight wound was inflicted on Mrs. Buck's head with an axe.

Kelley's Body Found In Well

Nashua, N. H., June 2.—The body of John J. Kelley of Brighton, Mass., a patient in the hospital here, was found in a well on the hospital grounds. Kelley was 30 years of age, and a prominent cattle dealer. He disappeared from the hospital on Saturday and is supposed to have been mentally ill

Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

OVER 300 CASES.

Autoists Cause Increase in May Court Business.

The report of Probation Officer Francis A. Spear, for the month of May, shows the total number of criminal cases before the District court at Quincy that month to have been 330, an increase of 198 over May 1904. The increase is due largely to automobile cases, 113 of the total in May being for exceeding the speed limit in the different towns and Blue Hills reservation.

Of the May cases the complaints were as follows:

Drunks, 102; assault, 17; breaking and entering, 12; larceny, 11; violation of auto laws, 69; of park auto rules, 44; liquor cases, 26; reckless driving, stealing a ride, threat disturbing the peace, 4 each; injury to property, 8; neglected child, 5; non-support, 3; bastardy, malicious mischief and trespass, 2 each; and one each for assault with dangerous weapon, common railer, illegal sale personal property, keeping unlicensed dog, kidnapping, attempt larceny, neglect to send child to school, truant, using indecent language, search for stolen goods.

Of the total number 23 were continued.

The city of Boston now has on its payrolls upwards of 13,000 salaried employes, and its payroll drafts now exceed $12,500,000 a year.

The street department leads the list, with 3397 employes in the several divisions, and the school department is a close second with 2914, while the police department comes next with 1356 employes on its payroll. The are some peculiar designations in the several departments. In the bath department there are a number of pianists, some of whom are paid $1 a day for their services, while others are paid $1.50 a day. There are two chauffeurs in the employ of the city, etc.

County W. C. T. U.

The Norfolk County W. C. T. U. Institute met in the Congregational church, Sharon, Thursday. Mrs. Ida S. Brown of Wollaston, the president presided. Mrs. E. J. Heard of Boston, gave a very interesting talk on "Work among soldiers and sailors—How to do it." The parliamentary drill conducted by Mrs. I. L. Montgomery, president of Bristol county, was very helpful and left a strong impression on the minds of all present. The devotional service was very impressive and all who attended came away feeling encouraged with the good work of the W. C. T. U.

Autoists Fined.

In the Quincy court this morning, Charles D. Holmes, Irwin H. Boles, Leo P. McKiney, Charles F. Bovine, Archibald E. Beaton, all of Boston, were fined $10 each, and Fred Wold and Edward Kent of Boston, $5 each, for speeding automobiles in the Blue Hills Reservation.

Watch for Bargain Heralds.

It is announced that a coupon good for five votes will soon be printed in some weekday Herald, and also a coupon good for ten votes in the Sunday Herald either June 4 or June 11. Friends of Miss Underwood should be alert and secure as many of these coupons as possible. Better still, if you are not already a Herald reader, place an order in advance for the Sunday Herald for the next two weeks, and help along the Quincy candidate. The chances of success are good if we get a large number of the "bargain coupons." If 1000 extra Sunday Heralds are purchased it will mean 10,000 extra votes for Miss Underwood.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Ogalo was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Frank G. Stewart was arraigned for the larceny of two fowl at Braintree, and was sentenced to one month in the house of correction.

The continued case of Carmini Cantilli for assault with a dangerous weapon at Quincy, was heard. He was fined $50 and put under $300 bonds to keep the peace for three months.

Ida E. Eaton of Quincy arraigned for larceny and for malicious mischief was found not guilty. She was defended by J. D. McKay, Esq.

—The 275th anniversary of the settlement of Medford is to be celebrated on June 15, 16, 17. An earnest and cordial invitation is extended to all former residents to participate in the celebration. Full information pertaining to the exercises planned may be obtained by addressing Charles R. Byram, chairman of the press committee.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The czar got the news of the disaster in cipher, and then he knew that Russia is the biggest cipher in the national bunch. He was prostrated by his grief and wept, but he did not tell the people of the rout of all the ships they had sent over to lift the Japanese nation out of the heathenism which makes the yellow peril in words. When the czar has his last cry the Russians may begin to amount to something.—Worcester Telegram.

☞A three-time governor could not have a prouder record than that which is being accorded Governor Douglas by the press of the country without regard to partisan lines, which may be summed up in the verdict that he was too much of a business man and too little of a politician, that he served the people rather than the political machine of Boston, and that whatever disappointments have come in his occupancy of the office or in his prospects for re-election have come from those reasons. What some people would seem to call failure under such conditions appears to be a very creditable success.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞It is interesting to discover that the opinion at Harvard College, as reflected in the Boston papers, is that the "Med Fac" have got the best of Dean Hurlbut. The fact that he was willing to treat with a thoroughly discredited society is a moral victory for the members thereof, of which they had great need. There is no certainty that the dicker would be of permanent value. It is believed that the college sentiment was ripe for the extinction of this disreputable organization. What element of humor there might have been in its performances long since went out in the blackness of its criminal folly. If other colleges have been able to extirpate lawlessness of this sort, why is not Harvard able to do the same thing? Public opinion is clearly against the compromise which Dean Hurlbut has wrought, and it ought to be destined to flat failure. If the College authorities will let the law take its course and expel all concerned with this late and gross outrage, it will do its duty, and accomplish results that are needed as a lesson and a warning.—Springfield Republican.

☞There is certainly fine opportunity for thought in the victory of the Japanese. However, it is altogether doubtful if the little brown men would have the easy victims in Americans or Englishmen or Germans or Frenchmen that they have found in the Russians. The last named nation only fights because he has to; the rank and file and many of the officers have no interest in battling, and with them fighting is simply a trade to be followed in a perfunctory way. Moreover, the other nations we have named can shoot, have first-class ships kept up in first-class order, and are more natural sailors than the Russians. The Japanese have done wonderful work, and no nation just now will be anxious to meet the little fellows who hit so hard; but to say that they are likely to beat the whole world is to give way rather quickly to fear of the sensational winners. The United States put the Spanish out of commission quickly and thoroughly; but there was nothing in that performance to indicate that the nation would be able straightway to beat every other nation on earth and sea with equal speed.—Brockton Enterprise.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

IS BIDING ITS TIME

CASSINI'S VISIT DELAYED

Hopes to Receive Instructions From Czar Before Calling on President--Gets Advice From German Ambassador

Washington, June 2.—Russia will know officially how ready this government is to assist her in commencing peace negotiations with Japan at the earliest possible moment if Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, carries out his intention of seeing the president today. For two days the ambassador has planned calling at the White House and would have asked for an appointment yesterday afternoon but for the fact that the president was engaged in opening the Lewis and Clark exposition. The ambassador hopes to make an appointment for today.

Indirectly Cassini is already informed of the willingness of the president to take up the question of peace terms with Japan, provided Russia is prepared to discuss the subject in good faith, but unless he receives instructions from his government between now and the time he calls on the president, Cassini will personally express the firm conviction that his government has no intention of negotiating with Japan at this time. It is suggested that the failure to receive any advices from St. Petersburg regarding the attitude of the czar is one reason why Cassini has deferred his call at the White House.

The whole situation was thoroughly discussed in an informal way by Count Cassini with his warm personal friend, Baron Speck Von Sternburg, the German ambassador, who dined at the Russian embassy last night, after having had a conference with the president earlier in the day. Indicative of the importance of the two conferences of the German ambassador was the statement of the Russian ambassador late last night that he hoped to see the president within the next 24 hours.

Meantime it can be stated on the best authority that the Washington government is biding its time, believing that Russia must be given time fully to realize the crushing character of her defeat before she will be willing to consider the advisability of abandoning her determination to continue the war.

The Czar Still Wavers

St. Petersburg, June 2.—St. Petersburg is full of rumors of the most contradictory character regarding the prospects of peace, but in the best informed quarters it is stated that no definite decision has been reached. Nevertheless, it is persistently reported that an imperial manifesto may be expected within a brief time. This manifesto, it is credibly reported, will proclaim the immediate convocation of a national assembly to which the question of peace or war will be submitted, thereby shifting the burden of a decision from the shoulders of the czar to the whole nation, robbing agitators of the opportunity to make revolutionary capital out of the decision, whichever way it may be taken.

Parisian Crowds Cheer Alfonso

Paris, June 2.—An enthusiastic reception was accorded King Alfonso and President Loubet on their return from the Chalen-Sur-Mer review. The route from the railway terminus to the quarters of the royal guest, which led through the center of Paris, was packed with dense throngs, which cheered uninterruptedly. The acclamations were renewed when later King Alfonso proceeded to the Elyssee palace, where President Loubet held a garden party. Cheering crowds still filled the streets when he returned to the Palace d'Orsay.

Surrender to Mayor Weaver

Philadelphia, June 2.—Without a dissenting vote, both branches of city councils withdrew the ordinance authorizing the extension of the city gas works lease to the United Gas Improvement company for a period of 75 years, for which privilege the company was to pay the city $25,000,000. Select council also unanimously confirmed the appointments of Sheldon Potter as director of public safety and A. L. Acker as director of public works.

Extra Session After Elections

Washington, June 2.—President Roosevelt will start on his trip through the south next autumn on Oct. 17. This announcement was made at the White House. Coupled with it was the statement that the extraordinary session of congress, which it is the present intention of President Roosevelt to call, will not begin until after the November elections.

In Accord With President

Baltimore, June 2.—Charles Bonaparte, who is to be the next secretary of the navy, declares that he is in entire agreement with the president's views as to the necessity of "a very strong and very efficient navy for our national safety and the full discharge of our duties as a great nation."

Bought by Boston Syndicate

Indianapolis, June 2.—The Indianapolis and Martinsville traction line, operating 30 miles of track, has been sold to the Stone & Webster syndicate of Boston. The price was $150,000, the purchasers assuming one-third of the bond issue of $750,000.

Beecham's Pills

It's Just Like This—

All women suffer, at times, from those distressing ailments which are peculiar to the sex. Natural modesty prevents many from obtaining the relief which is so much desired—and so necessary.

Yet every woman may be immediately relieved of all suffering without the humiliation of asking for a specific remedy for her complaint.

Beecham's Pills are the best medicine in the world for women, and the demand for them by the general public is so great that a call for Beecham's Pills attracts no attention and causes no comment.

When you think there is need, take Beecham's Pills according to the special directions with each box, and sickness will never be attended with Headache, Depression, Poor Appetite, Loss of Sleep or Nervousness. Take them in time and you will marvel at their efficacy. You will find the blood purer, the nerves stronger and the entire system toned and strengthened.

WITH A GOLDEN KEY

President Roosevelt Puts Oregon Exposition In Motion

WHITE HOUSE CEREMONY

President Dwells Upon Expansion of Our Republic and Our Great Forces That Have Knit Together Its Different Sections

Washington, June 2.—In the presence of a distinguished assemblage, including all the members of the cabinet except Secretary Hay, who is in Europe, associate justices of the United States supreme court, members of the diplomatic corps, and invited guests, President Roosevelt pressed the telegraphic key which sounded the chimes in the government building and started the machinery of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition at Portland, Or.

The ceremony took place in the east room of the White House and only the flash from Portland was necessary to open the ceremony here. A circuit had been completed by the Western Union Telegraph company between the White House and the Portland exposition grounds. E. W. Smithers, chief operator at the White House offices, received and sent the congratulatory messages which were exchanged between President Roosevelt and President Goode of the exposition company.

The arrangements for the ceremony were complete. In the southwest corner of the east room on a mahogany stand was located an exquisitely mounted gold telegraph key. On the roof of the White House was stationed a sergeant of the signal corps of the army, who, at the sounding of an electric gong at his side, was under instructions to drop a flag, which was to be the signal for the battery located on the white lot south of the White House to fire a national salute of 21 guns.

At the moment for the White House ceremony to begin the parlor doors of the east room swung open and the president, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and Secretary Loeb, entered. The approach of the president was announced to the guests by a fanfire of trumpets. Immediately the orchestra of the Marine band began the strains of "Hail to the Chief." Standing near the stand bearing the telegraph key, the president addressed the assemblage as follows:

"Ladies and gentlemen: I have just received from Portland a telegram from President Goode of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition sending his greetings and stating that the exposition management are waiting for me to touch the button which will ring the chimes in the United States government building and start the machinery of this exposition.

"The exposition marks the feat of exploration a century ago, which was the first step in the expansion of this republic westward across the continent, the most important step in changing a straggling line of seaboard commonwealths into a mighty continental nation. It was one of the epochs of our history and it is eminently fitting that it should be commemorated by the exposition at Portland, as is now being done.

"As the civilized world has spread, the nations of the world have come ever closer and closer together. When the civilized world was grouped around the Mediterranean, when the Atlantic was an unknown sea, the peoples around the Mediterranean were sundered from one another by time, by manners, by habits of thought, to a degree which we can now only imperfectly appreciate.

"I, here in Washington, start the exposition in Portland, and the same forces that have knit together the different sections of this great country; that have rendered it possible to keep our nation more emphatically one in spirit, now that it has spread over the continent, than was the case when it occupied but a small fraction of the continent, will, I firmly believe, bring the nations of the earth ever closer together and enable us all to work together in peace and in harmony for the future of mankind."

At the conclusion of his address the president said: "I now open the Lewis and Clark Exposition," leaning forward at the same instant and pressing the gold key which sounded the chimes and started the machinery 3000 miles away. Practically instantaneously the first gun of the national salute was fired on the White lot by the Third field battery, U. S. A.

Union Men Charge Bribery

Chicago, June 2.—Charges of bribery against officers of the Employers' Teaming company were made before a grand jury by President Shea of the Teamsters' union and by former President Young of the same organization. Young and Shea said that they were offered $10,000 two years ago to bring about a strike of the teamsters employed by Sears, Roebuck & Co., which is a rival concern of Montgomery Ward & Co. They said that they refused the money and the strike was never called.

Loyal Legion Makes a Change

Milwaukee, June 2.—By a vote of 16 commanderies to 4, the proposed amendment to the constitution of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States doing away with the primogeniture feature carried at the 10th quadrenniel congress of the order. It was a case of the west against the east, the former winning.

The ground is awful dry.

Fair and warmer is the prediction.

A new moon early Saturday morning.

Whit Sunday comes a week from next Sunday.

The Seventeenth of June will come on a Saturday.

The police have appeared out in their white helmets.

A little fire feels comfortable in the evening, even if this is the month of June.

The vegetable gardens are making slow progress because of the cool weather.

The last building on the site of the new block to be erected on Granite street is being razed.

The through cars between Neponset, West Quincy and East Milton went into service again this week.

The sun will rise at its earliest hour next Thursday, but the afternoons will not reach their longest until June 21.

The places on the east side of Hancock street, where the paving had settled, are being fixed. The paving is being taken up and relaid.

All outward and inward trains were delayed for an hour or more Thursday by the draw on Neponset bridge, which had been opened, getting out of place.

The police who did escort duty to the Grand Army on Tuesday included only the permanent men and all of the force with the exception of two men.

STORY OF THE GREAT BATTLE

How Japanese Intercepted Rojestvensky's Squadron

RUSSIANS OPENED FIRE

Japanese Did Not Respond Until Some Minutes Later, Whereupon the Battle Raged Fiercely --Russian Fleet Is Completely Enveloped and Subjected to Merciless Fire and Torpedo Attacks -- First Day's Fighting Followed by Night Attack

Tokio, June 2.—A Japanese officer who has returned to Sasebo gives the following account of the sea fight off the Tsu islands:

"At 5:30 o'clock Saturday morning a wireless message reading: 'The enemy's squadron is in sight' reached the naval base. This message was transmitted to all our ships by the flagship, with instructions to get ready for action. Our squadron left their rendezvous and headed for the eastern channel, off Tsushima.

"When Tsushima was sighted to the southwest the sea was rough and the torpedo boats were forced to run for the shelter of the island. Our third fighting squadron reconnoitered the Russian course and at 11:30 a. m. informed the main squadron by wireless telegraph that the Russian ships were passing into the east channel, whereupon our main squadron, changing its course somewhat to the southward, came in sight of Okinshima at 1 p. m. The third division arrived later and joined the main squadron. The first and second divisions, accompanied by the destroyer flotilla, changed to a westerly course, while the third division and fourth destroyer flotilla headed slightly eastward.

"During the maneuver the Russian flagship appeared to the southward at 1:45 o'clock. The Russians steamed up in double column. The fleet was numerous, but no living being was visible. The Russian ships seemed to be in good order. Our ships hoisted the flag of action, the Mikasa signalling 'The destiny of our empire depends upon this action. You are all expected to do your utmost.' Our first and second divisions turned to the Russians' starboard, while the third division kept in close touch with the preceding two divisions.

"With the Japanese ships proceeding in this order it was 2:13 o'clock when the Russians opened fire. The first two shots fell short of our line and it was some minutes later before we commenced firing. Then the battle was on, with firing from both sides. Our destroyers kept on the port side of the main squadron and in this formation we pressed the Russians against the coast of Kiushiu and they were obliged to change their course to the east.

"We so maneuvered our ships as to have their bows parallel to the north side of the Russian line. The Mikasa, of our first division, which had been leading, changed to the rear of the line, while the Kasagua headed the line. The engagement now became very fierce. The Borodino was seen to be on fire. A little later the Russians headed west and we changed our course accordingly. Five ships of our second division concentrated their fire on the Borodino. Our first division now began firing vigorously, proceeding parallel with the Russian line, and as we began to press against the head of the Russian line our third division veered to the Russian rear, thus enveloping their ships.

"The engagement proceeded hotly. Our second division followed a course parallel with the northern side of the Russians and this movement completed the envelopment. The Russian ships were seen trying to break through and our destroyer flotilla intercepted their new course. This state of envelopment continued until the following day, with the ships at varying distances. Thus enclosed on all sides, the Russians were helpless and powerless to escape the circle.

"Following instructions, the fifth destroyer flotilla advanced against a Russian ship, upon which the second division had been concentrating its fire, signalling: 'We are going to give the last thrust at them.' The Russian ship continued to fight and, seeing the approaching torpedo boats, directed its fire on them. Undaunted, our destroyers pressed forward, the Chitose meantime continuing its fire. The torpedo flotilla arrived within 200 metres of the Russian ship and the Shiranus fired the first shot. Two other torpedo boats fired one each. The Shiranus received two shells, but the other boats were not damaged. The Russian ship was completely sunk.

"Sundown saw the battle raging furiously. Our shells were evidently telling on the Russians, who showed signs of confusion. Our fifth torpedo flotilla, after destroying the Borodino, followed in the wake of our second division. Firing ceased with the approach of darkness.

"According to orders previously given for a torpedo attack after dark, all the destroyer flotilla, dividing into two squadrons, proceeded to attack the Russians during the whole night. The Russians frustrated the first and second attacks with searchlights. A third attempt was carefully made and the Yugiri sank a ship of the Borodino type and also hit others.

"During the night the Russians continued to move and we preserved our enveloping movement some distance from the Russian position. The Russian ships headed northeast after daybreak, hoping to reach Vladivostok. Our officers and men were determined that not a ship should escape and resolved not to relax their efforts until they had succeeded in either sinking or capturing every Russian ship.

"Our ships always kept ahead of the Russians. The battle was resumed at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, 12 miles east of Chiyupyon bay, and lasted all day. Here the Russians suffered their heaviest losses. They seemed unprepared to repel night attacks. During our first night attack the Russians showed nine searchlights and frustrated the attacks, but clearly gave us the location of the fleet, which brought success later."

CHEATED JAPS OF PREY

Commander of Cruiser Izumrud Blew His Vessel Up

St. Petersburg, June 2.—Official reports bearing on the naval battle are beginning to be received by the czar, the most important of these reports, revealing the fate of the cruiser Izumrud, being a telegram from her captain, Baron Ferzen, dated June 1. The report says:

"I was cut off from the squadron and, finding it impossible to rejoin it, resolved to make for Vladivostok. I put on full speed and the enemy's cruisers came on in pursuit. Owing to the insufficiency of my coal supply and the certainty of meeting the enemy's cruisers, I subsequently altered my course for Vladimir bay, where I arrived on the night of May 29. At 1:30 o'clock next morning, in pitch darkness, the Isumrud ran full on a reef at the entrance to the bay. Having only 10 tons of coal and seeing that it would be impossible to again float the vessel, I ordered the crew ashore and blew up the Izmurud to prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. Ten of my sailors were wounded in the battle, but the officers and the rest of the crew are safe."

According to the dispatch from Baron Ferzen, the battleships remaining in the fight were still in squadron formation when he was cut off, and this increases the deep resentment felt here at the surrender of the ships. The Novoe Vremya even declaring that the officers ought to be court-martialled and shot for hauling down their flags and turning their ships over to the Japanese.

The saddest note for St. Petersburg was struck by the destruction of the battleship Alexander III, which was manned by sailors of the guard and officered by men prominent in society and at court. Her crew served during the winter as a regiment of the guard, of which the dowager empress was honorary commander.

Baron Ferzen's report disposes of the statement sent from St. Petersburg that the Ismurud had arrived at Vladivostok. The Izumrud was launched in 1903.

Admiral Togo's Modesty

Tokio, June 2.—Admiral Togo, responding to the imperial rescript commending the admiral and his sailors, expresses his appreciation and further says:

"That we gained a success beyond our expectation is due to the brilliant virtue of your majesty and to the protection of the spirits of your imperial ancestors and not to the action of any human being. We shall be faithful and answer to the imperial will."

Lifting Fog Exposed Russians

Tokio, June 2.—A telegram from Sasebo says that Admiral Rojestvensky stated in an interview that he hoped to clear Tsu island in a fog, but a sudden southwestern gale cleared the fog and revealed the presence of his fleet.

Rumors Probably Untrue

St. Petersburg, June 2.—There are various rumors afloat in the cty that the emperor is dead, having either committed suicide or been assassinated. These rumors are untrue.

Deficit Close to $3,000,000

Washington, June 2.—The monthly comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of May, 1905, the total receipts were $43,758,933, and the expenditures $46,719,055, leaving a deficit for the month of $2,960,122 and a deficit for the 11 months of the present fiscal year of $36,649,680.

Bowen's Defense Rejected

Washington, June 2.—The Bowen-Loomis investigation is practically ended. Loomis is to be exonerated of everything, aside perhaps from some slight indiscretions, while Bowen will doubtless terminate his diplomatic career. His furnishing the press with information against Loomis is the most serious charge.

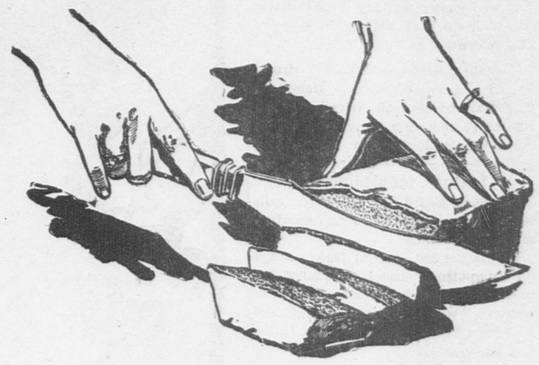

Merchants Fear Tariff War

New York, June 2.—The New York Chamber of Commerce adopted resolutions favoring the conclusion of commercial treaties of reciprocity between the United States and Germany, France, Russia, Switzerland and Austria-Hungary. Danger of a tariff war with Germany was said, in the discussion, to exist.

Dreyfus In the Wrong

Boston, June 2.—At a meeting of the directors of the National league held in this city, John J. McGraw, manager of the New York ball club, was exonerated of the charges brought against him by President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg club, and the board expressed its disapproval of Dreyfuss' action in indulging in the controversy with McGraw on ball grounds of the National league.

Count May Have Tried Suicide

Florence, June 2.—Last night a shot was heard in the house where Count Filippe Folchi, a painter, lives, and where also resides Princess Elvira of Bourbon, a daughter of Don Carlos, the pretender to the Spanish throne, who eight years ago eloped with Count Folchi. The police found that Folchi had been wounded in the chest. He declared that the wound was the result of an accident, but the authorities think that an attempt at suicide was made.

Harlan's Three Score and Twelve

Louisville, June 2.—Justice Harlan of the United States supreme court was the guest last night at a banquet given in honor of his 72nd birthday by the Louisville Bar association. Justice Harlan, who is a native of Kentucky, responded to the toast "My Old Kentucky Home."

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Quincy had a frost this morning.

June is indeed the month for weddings in Wollaston.

St. Margaret's guild is holding a sale, and entertainment this afternoon and evening.

Henry Taylor leaves next Wednesday for Grand Rapids, Mich., where he will make his future home.

The Grammar school league will finish its schedule next week Saturday, there being games June 3, 7 and 10.

Adams Academy will complete its base ball schedule next Wednesday, when Revere High will visit Quincy.

Rev. Edward A. Chase will preach on Japan Sunday morning at the Wollaston Congregational church, being the first of two sermons.

Group pictures of the graduating classes of different grammar schools are being taken, so they will be finished before graduation.

To-night is base ball night at the Merrymount club. There will be a musical entertainment including songs by G. D. Spaulding.

Mrs. William A. Hodges had an ill turn on Thursday, and is confined to the bed. She is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wilson.

The Quincy High base ball team will play at Waltham next Tuesday, and will finish the schedule at Quincy next Friday with Roxbury High.

The young ladies of Mrs. Bennett's Sunday school class of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday school will give a social in the vestry tomorrow evening.

A very enjoyable shirt-waist party was held by the Wollaston Yacht club Thursday evening. It was largely attended, and the music by the Criterion orchestra was just delightful.

The base ball games in the Granite City league scheduled for Saturday of this week have been postponed to a later date. The games next week Saturday will be at Atlantic and South Quincy.

The Merrymount base ball team will play the New Dorchesters at Merrymount Park Saturday afternoon. This is the strongest team they have been matched against, and a close game is anticipated.

A new float stage went into commission on Saturday at the clubhouse of the Wollaston Yacht club, but it will be needed, as four of the new members taken into the club this week are boat owners. The fleet as well as the membership is growing rapidly.

Bicycle thieves are about, and owners of wheels should be careful, how they have them about, especially at night. George B. Dewson left his wheel in front of the Savings Bank building Thursday night. A little later when he went after it, he found that some one had been there before him, and taken his wheel away.

G. T. Taylor, superintendent of the Plymouth division of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., is energetically endeavoring to use his influence in having the stones removed from the grounds about the Atlantic station. The property owners are always appreciative of any measures toward improving the appearance of Ward Six; their own efforts in this line are noticeable in the well-kept grounds and spruce looking houses.

L. J. Myers is visiting relatives in Maine.

Miss Bessie Drew of Walker street, started Thursday from Hampton, Virginia, and her many friends will be glad to welcome her on Saturday when she arrives in Boston.

Sixteen for Children.

The State Board of Education calls our attention to the following important school legislation:

By chapter 320, Acts of 1905, the age for compulsory school attendance has been raised from fourteen to sixteen for children "who cannot read at sight and write legibly simple sentences in the English language."

By chapter 267, Acts of 1905, no employment certificate may be issued to a child under sixteen who is not able to read at sight and to write legibly simple sentences in the English language.

It becomes the duty of school committees, superintendents and truant officers to see that the provisions of these acts are thoroughly enforced. The phrases "to read at sight" and "to write legibly simple sentences" should be interpreted liberally in the interests of the education of the child and not narrowly in the interests of his labor.

Spiders' Sight.

Experiments have been made to decide how far spiders can see and it has been determined that they have a range of vision of at least a foot. It is not always possible to tell, however, whether the lower animals perceive by sight or hearing or by the action air in motion has upon their bodies. Experiments tend to show that mice are sensitive to motions of the air which to human ears create no sound whatever.

Hard to Handle.

Citizen—What'll you charge me, Uncle Rastus, to cart away that pile of stone? Uncle Rastus—'Bout two dollahs, sah. Citizen—Isn't that very high? Uncle Rastus—Yes, sah, jes' for cartin' away de stone, but I gotter hire a man to help harness de mule.—Pittsburg Press.

An Economical Housewife.

"Why do you so often invite that old gossip, Mrs. Brown?"

"Oh, she always knows so many interesting things to tell that every one forgets to eat, and almost all the cake is left."—Fliegende Blatter.

Brief, but Effective.

Terse diplomatic correspondence between two Irish kings is recorded in Leland's history. "Send me tribute or else"—wrote Tyrconnel. "I owe you none, and if"— replied O'Neal.

Cheering Him Up.

"Well," remarked Hercules cheerfully as he gazed up at Atlas, "you seem to be bearing up pretty well, even if the whole world is down on you."—Princeton Tiger.

Sow good services; sweet remembrances will grow from them.—Mme. de Stael.

MARRIED.

Curious Works of Art.

For the purpose of making an exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, A. J. Durkum, of Port Townsend, Wash., with a large party, is now in the mountains of southwestern Washington in search of specimens of a fungus known as "conk." Out in the solitudes of the valleys of the Olympic mountains, along the streams where the vines and creepers grow thickest in tangles of ferns, mosses, creepers, vines, bushes and trees, the party is searching for this production of Nature, seldom molested and little cared for.

Amid such surroundings, conk thrives. The substance is found on the shady sides of dead trees or in forests so dense that the sun never penetrates them. The conk is torn from the tree, together with a piece of bark which makes a base for the completed work. The fungus, in the crude, is flabby and moist. The water is squeezed out by hand. This accomplished, an outer growth of skin or sensitive film is removed by scratching with the finger nail, the deeper indentations producing shadows, while lesser force exercised results in delicate shades. In this manner Mr. Durkum has succeeded in obtaining many beautiful effects. When cured the conk pictnres are said to be almost indestructible. Many of them will be placed on display at the Exposition.

To Save Dr. Bills.

It's a matter of general interest just now how ones physical condition can be got into shape to best receive the benefits of the summer season. Especially is this true of the children. They have become run down by a winter of unnatural manner of living because of ill-considered food and much time spent indoors. Spring comes with its sunshine, its fresh vegetables and all else invigorating, but the children are in no condition to receive nature's remedies.

Many parents call in the family physician. Many other parents take advantage of what the physician told them when he was first called in consultation. All good family physicians say: "Give the children Castoria." Healthy parents know this remedy of old, for they took it themselves as children. It was more than thirty years ago that Castoria made a place for itself in the household. It bore the signature of Charles H. Fletcher then, as it does today. This signature is its guarantee, which is accepted in thousands of homes where there are children.

The Magazines.

The practical side of a wedding, the problem of bringing the festivities within a reasonable expenditure, is given consideration in a carefully written paper in the June Delineator, which contains also suggestions for wedding cookery that will be appreciated by those who are interested. House plans and house-furnishing ideas and seasonable gardening suggestions are other features that will appeal to home makers.

The actual Venezuela, its charms, its unrest and its terrors, is pictured in fascinating style by Konrad A. Brandt in his thrilling story "The Puma in the Fog," in Field and Stream for June. And the reader's interest is caught up and carried on by Frank Gassaway's charming story-article "Sea Otter Shooting," and G. M. Richards' narrative, "The Mississaga River Trip."

Wide human interest is the striking thing about the June McClure's. The college man is the first concerned in the sensational disclosures of "The College Athlete" which tells, for the first time, some astonishing facts about the financial arrangements by which some of the "stars" are secured and kept at college. It is a story that will be a shocking disillusionment to everybody not familiar with the new spirit of commercialism that has crept into college athletics. Another of the reminiscent stories of the old-time country boy with which Eugene Wood has, from time to time, delighted the readers of McClure's, carries the reader round the cycle of the seasons as they used to be in the good old times of not so long ago. Five good short stories, all profusely illustrated, complete the list.

ATE LEE'S BREAKFAST.

Major Lowndes Thought the General Needed "Taking Down."

In an article in the Maryland Law Review the late General Bradley T. Johnston related many amusing anecdotes of Robert E. Lee. At Mine Run, on the Rappahannock, in 1863, General Lee, with his military secretary, Colonel Charles Marshall of Baltimore, and General Wade Hampton, with Major Rawlins Lowndes of his staff, were compelled to occupy during a night the one habitable room of an old farmhouse. There were two beds in the room, which were allotted to the generals, while Marshall and Lowndes slept on a piece of carpet before the open fire. Lowndes was careful to give Marshall the position nearest the door, so that he had to be getting up all night to receive the reports which were constantly coming in. Lowndes meanwhile slept the sleep of the just.

"Next morning," said General Johnston, "they had for breakfast blockade bacon, musty and rusty, and rank and poor pone. Some neighbor had sent to General Lee a small tin bucket with some slices of breast of turkey and biscuits.

"General Lee, presiding with his usual dignity, helped to breakfast. 'General, what shall I have the pleasure of helping you to—turkey or bacon?' 'Bacon,' said Hampton, and so on down to Lowndes. 'Turkey,' said Lowndes. So Lowndes ate the turkey, and the rest struggled along on the bacon. After breakfast General Lee went back, and Hampton rode down the lines. 'Major Lowndes,' said he, 'don't you think that was very impudent in your eating up all General Lee's breakfast?' 'I don't think so at all,' said Lowndes. 'That old man is always putting on too much style for me, and it does him good to be taken down occasionally.' General Lee, however, had a good memory for men and things.

"In the winter of 1864-65, before Petersburg, he returned from an early ride along the lines to get breakfast with Hampton. The breakfast consisted of a large tray of rice, boiled California fashion, where each grain is distinct and dry; sorghum coffee—i. e., coffee made from the seeds of the sorghum plant—and baked sweet potatoes.

"Said Hampton, 'General, shall I help you to some of this rice?' 'Thank you,' said General Lee, 'and if it is as convenient to you I'd like to be helped before that dish gets to Major Lowndes?'

"After the war was over and things had settled down Lowndes, who was a great rice planter on the coast of South Carolina, sent General Lee, then president of Washington and Lee college, two tierces of rice. So Lowndes had a good memory too."

NATIVITY OF SOLDIERS.

Germans and Irish Led Among Foreigners In the Union Army.

No compilation has ever been made by the war department showing the nativity of the whole number of men accepted for military service during the late civil war. It appears, however, from the records of the provost marshal general's bureau that of 343,764 "drafted men, recruits and substitutes" examined by the several boards of enrollment of the United States during that war the nativities were as follows:

United States	237,391
Foreign countries	106,373
Germany	35,935
Ireland	32,473
British America	15,507
England	11,479
France	2,630
Scotland	2,127
Switzerland	1,158
Norway	1,138
Prussia	754
Sweden	687
Other foreign countries	2,485

This table, it should be noted, relates to all those examined for the military service of the United States, including both those accepted and those rejected.—Philadelphia Press.

A Story of Lincoln.

An enthusiastic supporter from Buffalo made the trip to Washington during the civil war to see President Lincoln. The visitor, whose name was Johnson, had prepared this polite speech to address to the president as he reached him at the public reception: "The people of Buffalo, sir, believe in Almighty God and in Abraham Lincoln." The president gave an extra warm grasp of his visitor's hand, whispering in his ear, "You tell them that they are more than half right!"

General Butler and the Darkies.

When General Ben Butler was running for president he catered extravagantly to the darky vote and was a great favorite among the colored brethren.

On his campaign he was banqueted in a southern city by a club of colored men. The first toast to the guest of honor was as follows:

"Heah's to Gen'al Butler, gentlemen! His body is white, but, thank God, his soul is black!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Memorial Day.

Gather the garlands rare today,
Snow white roses and roses red;
Gather the fairest flowers of May,
Heap them up on the heaps of clay,
Gladden the graves of the noble dead.

Pile them high as the soldiers were
Piled on the field where they fought and fell.
They will rejoice in the new place there
Today as they walk where the fragrant air
Is sweet with the scent of asphodel.

Many a time I've heard it said
They fell so thick where the battles were
Their hot blood rippled and, running red,
Ran out like a rill from the drifted dead,
Staining the heath and the daisies there.

This day the friends of the soldiers keep,
And they will keep it through all the years;
To the silent city where soldiers sleep
Will come with flowers to watch and weep
And water the garlands with their tears.
—Cy Warman in Philadelphia Press.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT INVITED

Brooks Adams, Esq., a Descendant of Quincy Presidents, Interested In Reception.

The committee appointed by the City Council to confer with the Mayor in relation to inviting President Roosevelt to visit Quincy this month, have held a meeting and a formal invitation has been forwarded to the President by Mayor Thompson.

In addition to this, Brooks Adams, Esq., a personal friend of the President, has also been requested to write him a personal letter urging him to accept.

Should the President decide to come he will probably be the guest of Mr. Adams, and a public reception will probably be held at the First church.

PRESIDENT THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

MAY LOSE LICENSE.

Autoist Convicted of Violation of Laws Are Reported.

Under the new law relating to automobiles, the courts are obliged to report to the State commission, the names of those who are found guilty, and convicted of exceeding the speed limit. This means that such parties are liable to lose their license or to have it suspended for a month or two. This is the reason why nearly every man summoned into court for overspeeding enters a plea of nolo-contendere for then there is no record of conviction made against him. It is discretionary with the court, whether such a plea shall be accepted or not.

In the Quincy court the custom is to allow the defendant to enter such a plea the first time he is brought into court. Should he, however, be brought in a second time, the court does not permit him to enter such a plea.

There is then a record against him and he is reported to the Commission.

Owners of machines are learning to their cost that they cannot exceed the speed limit, and quite a number are putting speedometers on their cars. These cost from $45 to $75.

Memorial Service.

The Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold a Memorial service for the late Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Tuesday, June 6, at 12 noon, in Tremont Temple, Boston. There will be short addresses by Rev. E. E. Hale, Mr. Blackwell, members of the organization and other noted speakers. Seats will be reserved for members of the W. C. T. U. until 11.55. The public is cordially invited.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

SWEDISH MEETINGS.

Conference for Young People at St. Pauls Church.

The Boston district young people's convention of the Eastern Swedish M. E. conference will meet in St. Paul's Swedish M. E. church tonight at 7.30. Six ministers will be present at the meeting and five singers from Boston. Delegates from the different churches will also be present. There will be a fine program.

Sunday in the same church the services will be as follows:

At 9.30, prayer and praise service.

At 10.30, preaching by Rev. C. A. Cederberg of Malden.

At 12, Sunday school, when different ministers and delegates will speak to the Sunday school.

At 1, dinner will be served in the lecture room.

At 3.30, preaching by Rev. E. Rydstrom of Lynn.

At 5.30, supper in the church.

At 6.30, young people's meeting.

At 7.30, preaching by Rev. C. J. Wigren, presiding elder for Boston district.

All Scandinavians are welcome to these meetings.

—Governor William L. Douglas has determined absolutely not to take any part in the contest to find his successor. John R. Thayer, Charles S. Hamlin and Gen. Miles are all classed by him as personal friends, and that is why he has no inclination to make any invidious distinction.

Friday is not always an unlucky day. Those who made cash purchases at the store of George W. Jones on Friday, May 19, will have their money refunded.

An All New Great Feature Show.

ROYAL SPECTACLES, RARE ACTS AND STARTLING SENSATIONS.

The big circus—which means everybody's day in Quincy, this year falls on Friday, June 9th, when The Frank A. Robbins Co., All New Great Feature Shows will, so to speak, pitch their city of tents in our midst, and in pageant and performance almost overwhelm us with their grand and glorious railroad aggregation of wild beasts, eminent equestrians, acrobats, jugglers, aerialists, hilarious host of clowns, daring charioteers, dashing jockeys and performing animals, in almost incomputable profusion. The press of Greater New York has already unanimously acclaimed the exhibition a really great one, and its manager, Mr. Frank A. Robbins, an arenic caterer par excellence, who knows just what will best please the public, just where to get it, just how to present it, and last, but not least, just how to gain and retain general good will and respect. Space is inadequate to enumerate the hundreds of rare wild beast, arenic, hippodromatic and specially sensational features, which fill great special trains, stupendous waterproof tents, two rings, an elevated stage and acres of aerial space to overflowing. Here are just three marvelous exclusive features, of themselves more than enough to make a Roman holiday. A Millenium-like monster animal performance, introducing in one arena at one and the same time educated elephants, camels, zebras, water buffalo, llamas, dogs, goats, horses, ponies, dromedaries, monkeys, mules, donkeys, sacred cattle, bears and other wild and domestic beasts; "The Tribunal of Nations," a magnificent equestrian tableau car pageant, introducing the living counterparts of ancient heroes, famous modern warriors and rulers, correctly armed and costumed; and Alpha and Omega, the rival cycle experts, seemingly dashing straight to death down a precipitous incline and across a dreadful gap of fifty feet. It is a feat the mere thought of which is enough to make one tremble. A holiday parade of elephants, wild beasts in open dens, hundreds of magnificent steeds and ponies, Mardi Gras fun and frolic, and other attractions serves as the morning introduction to the above mastodonic menu.

ADVICE TO RUSSIA

President Thinks It High Time to Conclude Peace

HE CONFERS WITH CASSINI

Says That Prolongation of Hostilities Will Only Be a Disadvantage to Russia---Ambassador Sees Hope of Victory

Washington, June 3.—The president has struck a blow for peace in the far east. In a conference at the White House with Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, the president expressed the earnest hope that Russia would forthwith conclude peace with Japan.

Prolongation of the war, he believes, will not result in victory for the Russian arms, and can only serve to increase Japan's demands and render more difficult the drafting of a treaty of peace which the czar as well as the mikado can sign. The president spoke, he said, as the friend of Russia no less than of Japan, and on behalf not only of the Washington government, but in the interest of humanity.

Until his words have reached Tsarskoe-Selo and have been communicated to the czar in the friendly spirit in which they were uttered, their effect cannot be estimated. Soon after reaching his embassy, Count Cassini began the preparation of a dispatch to his government. Neither at the White House nor at the Russian embassy could a formal statement regarding the conference be obtained.

Throughout the diplomatic corps there is a strong hope that the conference marked the first step toward peace, but the general opinion is that weeks may elapse before even preliminary negotiations can be begun. Diplomats express the hope that the czar will receive the president's words "as the council of that government which for years has been Russia's traditional friend and will weigh it accordingly."

Unaccompanied, Count Cassini called by appointment at the White House at 2:30 o'clock yesterday. He was ushered at once into the Blue room, where he was joined immediately by the president. Appreciating the natural feelings of the ambassador on such an occasion, the president began the conversation by a frank personal expression of sympathy for Cassini, alluding to the severe strain under which he has been for the past few days and deploring the terrible loss of life and consequent sorrow caused by the recent battle in the Sea of Japan.

Without further preliminaries a general and entirely informal and personal conversation upon the whole situation followed. The president informed the ambassador that he earnestly hoped for an early peace in the far east and that in expressing this hope he voiced not only his strong personal sentiments and those of his government, but he believed these were held by all the powers. His opinion was that it would be a mistake for Russia to continue the war. In addition to the suffering entailed by the naval conflict, he did not believe that Russia has anything to win in prolonging hostilities. The president did not enter into details, but the personal character of the conversation and his long acquaintance with Cassini enabled him to talk plainly regarding the decisive character of the Japanese victories.

What Japan's probable peace terms would be the president was wholly unable to say, but he did not hesitate to express the opinion that, difficult as these conditions might prove in the light of such a victory as that gained in the Korean straits, they would increase in severity with every day that a state of war continued. Unless Russia has substantial hope of administering a decisive defeat to Japan in this war, the president believed it would inure to the interests of the St. Petersburg government to conclude peace at once.

Briefly and in a paraphrased form, these were the arguments used by the president in support of his conviction that, as between a continuation of the war and immediate peace, the latter would be greatly to Russia's advantage.

Having received no word from his government since the annihilation of Rojestvensky's fleet save the brief official dispatches telling of the engagement, Cassini was unable to do more than give the president his own personal opinion on the situation. The ambassador was deeply touched by the sincere cordiality of his reception and the frank and friendly manner in which the president spoke.

He could not see, however, that there was anything in the present situation for his government which necessitated Russia's suing for peace. As to territory, he pointed out that China and not Russia had been the loser, for even Port Arthur was held only under lease. On the sea, Russia had nothing more to lose, he said.

It was the ambassador's firm opinion that this was not "the psycological moment" in which to discuss peace with Japan. Whatever might be the ultimate decision of his government, he took the ground that Russia could lose nothing either by waiting or by continuing the war on land. There was hope yet of a victory for the Russian arms, and in any event Russia had not yet lost one foot of territory, nor was the Russian frontier endangered.

The conversation was characterized throughout by frankness and friendliness. Later on, when the ambassador has heard from his government, after communicating the president's views and the president's willingness to render Russia any service possible in initiating peace negotiations with Japan, he will have another talk with the president.

Both Prepared to Fight On

London, June 3.—The conference between President Roosevelt and Count Cassini evokes the greatest interest here. The belief in London is that at the present moment neither belligerent is anxious for peace. Some advices from Tokio represent the soberness with which the news of Togo's victory was received by the Japanese as the outcome of a desire to avoid peace negotiations until the expedition already in course of preparation has had time to reduce Vladivostok. With regard to Russia, it is felt here that the mere sense of the enormous loss of prestige involved in the disastrous defeat of Rojestvensky will determine her to continue hostilities.

Indictments In Chicago Strike

Chicago, June 3.—Indictments connected with the teamsters' strike have been voted by the grand jury. The names of the men indicted have not been ascertained. It is reported, however, that bills will not be voted in connection with the charge made by President Shea of the Teamsters union that he was offered $10,000 to call a strike against Sears, Roebuck & Co. It was found that the statutes of limitation barred any indictments, and the evidence given was largely of hearsay character.

Swindled Out of $105,000

New York, June 3.—Officials of the Public Service corporation, which operates the trolley lines in many cities and towns in northern New Jersey, announce that the corporation has been defrauded within a year by means of the illegal use of transfers of more than $105,000. It is asserted that there has been revealed a conspiracy between many conductors and clerks now in the company's employ and former employes. Employes of the department stores at Newark are also implicated.

Naval Service Reinstatements

Washington, June 3.—Earl W. Chaffee and John K. Lofland, two of the three midshipmen dismissed from the naval academy for hazing and whose reinstatement, subject to examination, was authorized by congress at its last session, will be reappointed to the navy by the president. They met all the requirements imposed by the navy department. John D. Little, the third midshipman affected by this legislation, failed to pass physically.

Ten Thousand Greet Balfour

London, June 3.—In Albert hall last night, Premier Balfour, who has recovered from his recent illness, received an enthusiastic reception from over 10,000 Unionists, representing the organized forces of his political party. The speech developed nothing new regarding the fiscal government of the country, but was an earnest appeal for the unity of the party.

Bank Stealings Recovered

Bedford, Ind., June 3.—Workmen engaged in unloading a car of sand found in it several bundles of papers which proved to be bonds and securities valued at $300,000. They were identified as the property of the Wilmington (Ills.) bank, which was robbed of the papers and $2500 in cash on May 9. The papers have been returned to the bank.

Hundred Killed by Earthquake

Cetinje, Montenegro, June 3.—Later details of the earthquake from Scutari, Albania, show that 100 persons were killed and 250 injured, and that the town has been completely devastated. There were two shocks. The inhabitants are now living in the open. It is feared that the list of casualties will be considerably increased.

Secretary Hay Far From Well

London, June 3.—Secretary Hay arrived in London from Paris last evening, still far from well. He says he has benefited by the Bad Nauheim cure, but remains under the strict orders of his physicians, who insist on absolute rest. The secretary will sail for New York on June 7.

Thieving Land Office Employe

Washington, June 3.—Louis R. Smith, formerly an employe of the general land office, was indicted by the grand jury of this district on a charge of abstracting and selling 30 land warrants worth about $5000 while employed in the land office. Smith made a confession.

Storm Caused 200 Deaths

Durban, Natal, June 3.—A great storm which has swept over Pinetown, the center of the tea and sugar plantations of Natal, caused the reservoir to overflow, causing the death of 200 persons. The storm resulted in numerous casualties elsewhere.

Weaver Wields the Axe

Philadelphia, June 3.—At the request of Mayor Weaver, Alexander Colville, Jr., assistant director of public safety, and W. H. Baker, assistant director of public works, handed in their resignations and were immediately succeeded by new men.

A New York-Chicago Flyer

Philadelphia, June 3.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company will shortly establish the fastest long distance train in the world. It will be a new limited between New York and Chicago, and will make the run in each direction in 18 hours.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Sunday, June 4.
Sun rises—4:09; sets—7:16.
Moon sets—8:28 a. m.

San Domingo Is Prospering

Washington, June 3.—Thomas C. Dawson, the American minister to San Domingo, has arrived in Washington. He reports that conditions in the Dominican republic are satisfactory and that the American conduct of the customs administration has been attended by good results, the island revenues having increased 20 percent.

Money For Peace Palace

The Hague, June 3.—The first chamber of the states general voted $280,000 for the purchase of a site for the Palace of Peace, to be erected by Andrew Carnegie. The minister of foreign affairs, in supporting the measure, warmly eulogized Carnegie. The second chamber on May 19 passed a similar vote.

Peace Aboard the Galveston

Washington, June 3.—Such reports as reach the navy department concerning the state of discipline aboard the cruiser Galveston are to the effect that the conditions are now perfectly normal and satisfactory and that the extent of the trouble was very much exaggerated in the first reports.

"Permitted to Resign"

London, June 3.—General Sir William Nicholson, who was recently appointed governor of Gibraltar and commander-in-chief of the forces there, has been permitted, for private reasons, to resign his appointment. No explanation of the general's resignation is given beyond that stated.

An Exposition Dedication

Portland, Or., June 3.—The feature of the Lewis and Clark exposition yesterday was the dedication of the handsome building erected by the state of Washington. Vice President Fairbanks and the governors of Oregon and Washington participated in the ceremonies.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Bates won over University of Maine in the intercollegiate debate. The question was: "Resolved, That municipalities of the United States of 25,000 inhabitants and over should own and operate their systems for lighting and local transportation." University of Maine supported the affirmative.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

Many May See But It Takes Genius to Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down he said "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was.

Millions prior to him had seen the same phenomenon and regarded it as an unexplained mystery.

Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Dandruff, Falling Hair, and consequent Baldness, and has unearthed a tiny germ which eats the life from the roots of human hair.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys this germ and consequently restores the hair to its natural state.

Admiralty's Idea of Punishment For Nebogatoff

SURRENDERED HIS SHIPS

Hope For Safety of Cruisers Oleg and Aurora Abandoned--Novoe Vremya Urges Vigorous Prosecution of War on Land

St. Petersburg, June 3.—Feeling in the admiralty against Rear Admiral Nebogatoff continues to run high, the majority of the naval authorities being deaf to the appeals of the few who insist that the admiral's action in surrendering his warships should not be condemned until the circumstances become fully known. The majority say they could forgive anything but surrender, and point to the precedent set in the case of the Russian warship Raphael, which in 1829, during the Russo-Turkish war, struck its colors to three Turkish ships which surrounded it.

Nicholas I meted out a terrible punishment to the officers and crew of the Raphael, ordering that all of them should be shot after their exchange and directing that if the ship should ever be recaptured its infamous history should be blotted out by the total destruction of the vessel.

The Raphael, strange to say, was recaptured 34 years later at Sinope during the Crimean war, a son of the captain who surrendered her taking part in the battle, and to this son fell the task of executing the dead emperor's orders to destroy her. Many naval authorities declare that the czar should reserve the same fate for Admiral Nebogatoff.

While hope for the safety of the protected cruisers Oleg and Aurora has been generally abandoned, some of the naval authorities believe it possible that their commanders, realizing that the fleet had been practically destroyed and that Vladivostok as a harbor of refuge would only prove a death trap in the end, laid their course either for Nicholaieff, at the mouth of the Amur river, or for Petropavlovsk, in Kamtchatka. There is plenty of coal at both places to replenish the bunkers of the cruisers. The ships could then escape across the Pacific and either be interned in the United States or return by way of Cape Horn.

The Novoe Vremya has taken up the suggestion of Admiral Avellan, head of the Russian admiralty department, that the disaster to the Russian fleet does not necessarily mean the collapse of the campaign in the far east, as a text for an article preaching a vigorous prosecution of the war on land to the bitter end.

The radical paper, Synotechestva, did not appear Friday, it having gone beyond the privilege of criticism accorded to the newspaper in this hour of disaster to an extent which exceeded the patience of the authorities. The paper attempted to print over 11 solid columns of rabid criticism and anti-government tirade. A few copies have been printed for private circulation and they show little but white paper divided by column rules with one large space surrounded by a significant black border.

No Complainant Appeared

New York, June 3.—Alderman Ferdinand Hoenlein of Brooklyn, who was arrested on the charge of being a receiver of stolen goods, was arraigned in a Brooklyn court, but was discharged, as no one appeared to make a complaint against him. Henry Sanburg, who was arrested in connection with the case, was also discharged, no complainant appearing against him.

Unfavorable Weather For Trade

New York, June 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that warmer weather is needed to restore normal conditions, both in trade circles and on the farms. Abnormally low temperature and excessive moisture retarded consumption, and burdensome stocks must be carried over unless accumulations are reduced by clearance sales at bargain prices.

Paid Police For Protection

New Orleans, June 3.—Inspector Journee, head of the New Orleans police department, has been dismissed from the service as the result of an investigation of charges filed against him. Isaac Slumsky testified to the existence of a club supported by "Tenderloin" interests which paid $280 a month to the police for protection.

Charged With Raising Check

New York, June 3.—Melville O. Wier, treasurer of the Colwell Lead company of this city, was arrested on the complaint of the company for raising a check for $800 to $1800. It is said that Wier has made a full confession of this and other misdeeds of a similar nature. He was held for trial.

ILLS OF CHILDHOOD

JAPAN SEA BATTLE

The Russians Brought Disaster Upon Themselves

INCAPACITY IN TACTICS

Bad Gunnery and General Inefficiency Responsible For the Defeat of Rojestvensky--Japanese Crews Had Long Training In Firing During Rough Weather, With Ships Rolling

London, June 3.—As the details of the battle of the Sea of Japan filter in a little clearer idea of the conduct of the operations is obtained.

First and foremost is made plain the utter incapacity of the Russians in tactics and gunnery. Without doing any scouting or attempting in any way to locate the enemy, Rojestvensky advanced into what he knew must be the zone of operations in double column rather than in line. He further put his lighter ships in one column and his heavier ships in the other.

On what theory this was done it is difficult to understand, unless the Russian commander felt sure he was to be attacked from one side only. The Japanese fleet, divided into several divisions, was enabled to close in, especially on the weaker side, and hold the Russians in a vise. Being unable under these conditions to change their formation, the Russian ships literally were shot to pieces.

It develops that it was not until the Russian vessels were smothered by the Japanese gunfire that the torpedo boats got in their work. The Borodino, for instance, was in a sinking condition from shell fire, and her personnel demoralized, before the mosquito fleet went in and finished her. In other cases it virtually was the same. The fire of the Russian ships was practically silenced and their flashlights shot away before the torpedo boats became available.

It is pretty safe to assume that had expert gunners been behind the pieces on the Russian vessels the torpedo boats would have done far less damage. In fact, it seems likely that the torpedo boat will continue to occupy the place in naval warfare to which experts have assigned it—a valuable auxiliary to be launched against an unsuspecting enemy, or one that has previously been rendered ineffective by gunfire or accident.

Perhaps the most interesting study of the battle will be in regard to the effect of gunfire. It seems on the face of the reports at hand that the armor of the Russian ships was unable to withstand the Japanese armor-piercing shells. The gunnery of the Japanese was of the highest order and justified ten times over the expense and practice necessary to reach such a standard.

Some Japanese experts criticise Rojestvensky for essaying the Tsushima channel. Others uphold him, saying that his only chance lay in going through that channel. The impression prevails that Rojestvensky was totally unaware of the presence of Togo's entire fleet off Tsushima. Many believe that it was necessary for Togo to take a station at a pivotal point from which it would be possible to intercept the Russians entering either Tsushima, Tsugaru or Soya channels. Calculations placed this pivotal point on the west coast near the western entrance of Tsugaru channel. Togo's real whereabouts were known to many Japanese, but the secret was successfully guarded; another example of the willingness and ability of the Japanese to preserve military secrets.

Leaving aside the questions of preparedness and superior conditions, the superiority of the Japanese personnel, fresh from 15 months successful campaigning under all possible conditions, must be taken into consideration. Many ascribe victory entirely to the superior marksmanship of the Japanese. Togo, realizing that it would probably be necessary to fight in the open sea, gave his crews long training in firing during rough weather with a heavy wind blowing and the ships rolling. When the hostile fleets met, the superiority of the Japanese immediately became evident. The sinking of battleships and armored cruisers by shell fire testifies to the deadly accuracy of the Japanese guns and destroys the theory that it is impossible to sink such ships by shell fire.

The attitude of Japanese naval men towards victory is curious. Togo's message to the emperor saying that the victory was the result of the emperor's superhuman influence strikes the keynote of the navy's attitude. The officers openly say that the marvelous result obtained was impossible by mere human achievement alone.

To Commemorate Togo's Victory

Tokio, June 3.—In response to thousands of suggestions and inquiries received, the navy department has decided to erect an enormous lighthouse on Okino island, as a monument to commemorate Admiral Togo's great naval victory over the Russian fleet in the battle of the Sea of Japan. It is planned to have the light show for a distance of 80 miles, covering almost the entire scene of the battle.

Hanlon Wins Over Corbett

San Francisco, June 3.—In a hard-fought, 20-round contest last night between Young Corbett and Eddie Hanlon, Hanlon won on a decision at the end of the 20th round.

AGAINST A MERGER

Tech Alumni Fear Harvard Will Absorb the Institute

Boston, June 3.—By a vote of 1351 to 458, the graduates of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have declared against the proposed agreement for an alliance between the institute and Harvard university. The vote of the non-graduates was 684 against and 376 in favor of the alliance.

The result of the vote was announced last night at the alumni reception to the graduating class, and the result was enthusiastically cheered by the graduating class and members of the alumni.

From an analysis of the letter sent with the votes, the committee found that the majority of the alumni are of the opinion that the proposed agreement does not sufficiently safeguard the interests of the institute in any essential respect and that the inevitable end would be the final absorption of the institute by Harvard university.

Final action in the matter will now be taken by the corporation of the institute, to which the alumni vote has been submitted.

Fraud Orders at Boston

Boston, June 3.—A deadly blow is dealt to the medical quackery by the postoffice department in a series of fraud orders just issued. Postmaster Hibbard of Boston is instructed to intercept the mail and stop the payment of money orders to Dr. Joseph Grady at 238 Tremont street; Dr. Collins' Medical institute at 11 Berwick Park; the Dr. Herrick Medical company at 37 Tremont street and Dr. L. R. Williams at 6 Winter street. Half a hundred patent medicine dealers and individuals of kindred character have been put out of business in the last six months.

A Thirty-Five-Year Sentence

Bridgeport, Conn., June 3.—Thirty-five years' imprisonment was the sentence imposed by Judge Reed on Leonard R. Diamond, who pleaded guilty to burglary and criminal assault. Diamond was arrested after a house in Coscob, occupied by two women, one aged 72 years and the other 75, had been entered by a burglar and one of the women assaulted. It was said in court that the woman had lost the sight of one eye as a result of the assault.

Whittier Pleads Not Guilty

Salem, Mass., June 3.—Seth K. Whittier of Lynn, when arraigned in the superior court here on the charge of manslaughter, for the alleged killing of his former wife, Susan A. Fuller, at Lynn, pleaded not guilty. Justice Stevens remanded him to jail. District Attorney Peters stated that the trial of Whittier probably would be begun some time next week.

Young Fisherman Killed by Train

Holyoke, Mass., June 3.—Patrick Curran, aged 19, was killed about midnight by a train a short distance from Prospect Park. He had been on a fishing trip with a companion named Conners, who found the dismembered body of his comrade shortly after they had separated.

Pittsburg Theatre Burned

Pittsburg, June 3.—One of the most exciting and spectacular fires that has visited Pittsburg in recent years broke out in the Avenue theatre shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and before it was subdued had completely destroyed and partially wrecked the Grand Opera house, adjoining, but fortunately no panic resulted and no lives were lost. The loss will reach $150,000. The fire is believed to be traceable to crossed wires.

To Attend Prince's Wedding

Berlin, June 3.—The three French delegates to the wedding of Crown Prince Frederick William, upon their arrival here, were cheered by a crowd. This probably was the first time in a generation that Frenchmen have been cheered in the streets of Berlin. Grand Duke Michael of Russia, the representative of the czar, has also arrived in Berlin.

France Checked In Morocco

Paris, June 3.—It is now generally accepted here that the report from Tangier to the effect that the sultan of Morocco had declined the French proposition for the reform of Morocco unless approved by an international conference is correct. This is widely commented upon as amounting to a check to the entire French policy in Morocco.

Bomb For Governor General

Barcelona, June 3.—At 6 o'clock last evening a bomb was exploded in the palace of the governor general, doing considerable damage. Ten arrests have been made.

Madrid, June 3.—A cabinet council was called last night and discussed an anarchist plot which has been discovered at Barcelona.

Parry Resigns Presidency

Chicago, June 3.—D. M. Parry resigned and C. W. Post was elected to the presidency of the National Citizens' Industrial Association of America at a meeting of the executive committee. This action was taken at the urgent request of Parry, who wished to be relieved of the work.

Young Acquitted on Third Trial

New York, June 3.—Duncan Young, after being tried for the third time for killing George E. Berhardt, was acquitted of the charge last night by a jury in the criminal branch of the supreme court. The jury had been out exactly seven hours.

Sixteen Lives Reported Lost

Shreveport, La., June 3.—The steamboat H. M. Carter, it is reported, ran into the pier of the railroad bridge across Red Cross at Alexandra late last night and sank. Sixteen lives are reported lost.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

In three weeks the public schools will close for the long summer vacation. It is important that work should begin immediately on the foundation for the enlargement of the High school, that the work of enlargement may be pushed during the vacation, that it may be done without disturbance to the school. If possible, the addition should be completed about September 1 when school reopens.

The City Council should take favorable action on the enlargement order, which will come up next week in its final stage. There has been quibble enough over it already. Let the action be unanimous, Mr. Councilmen, whether the plans are just what you individually desire or not.

Everyone says the plans are excellent ones. They are satisfactory to the School Committee, the master of the High school and a majority of the City Council. We believe the order will be promptly signed by Mayor Thompson if sent to him, and then proposals can be invited within a week. Let there be no more delay.

It is said that some of the census enumerators are not doing good work. It is important to Quincy that all her citizens should be enrolled and that we should take the work to which we are entitled in the State and the Nation. Citizens should give all help possible and see that the enumerators secure every name.

An interesting special feature of today's paper is a sketch of Gage E. Tarbell, the real man behind the sensational Equitable fight. It will be found on one of the inside pages and is from the pen of J. A. Edgerton. It is illustrated with a good engraving of Mr. Tarbell.

Harry Lavalle a Hero.

To leave unnoticed the brave and heroic act witnessed by many on Hancock street, on Thursday, would be doing a great wrong to the hero. I am a stranger in this vicinity and have seen brave acts performed, but never saw one more worthy of notice.

He with his father and workmen were returning from their hard day's work, happy though tired, when some thoughtless boy fired off a pistol, which frightened the horse so that he started to run, kicking through the dashboard injuring Mr. Lavelle quite severely.

The son seated in the rear seat, displayed great presence of mind, acted quickly, forgetful of himself. He leaped over all of them grabbed the horse by the head with unnatural strength, for he is yet only a boy, and held on until he had him under control. By so doing saved many a life, and also the horse. But when praised for this great and wonderful deed, he would only say that is nothing more that I ought to do. If one of our city police did this, he would receive an extra stripe.

All who witnessed the sight, will tell you the same story, and if it was not for some one who knew the young man, I would have been unable to learn his name. W. K. Frothingham.

Still Alarm.

The Central station apparatus was called out on a still alarm at 11.30 this morning for a slight fire on the roof of Chase's bakery in City Square. The fire was caused by sparks from a charcoal fire alighting on the roof. A chemical stream was played on the roof from a hand extinguisher.

A Trip Through the Holy Land.

The people of Quincy will have a rare treat at Bethany church, Sunday evening. The Rev. Leonard Baker Tenney, of Niantic, Conn., who two years ago took an extended trip through the Orient will give his illustrated lecture. "A cruise of the Mediterranean, and a visit to the Holy Land." Mr. Tenney is an interesting, and forceful speaker. The public is cordially invited.

The annual inter-class field day sports of the Quincy High school were held this morning on the lower field at Merrymount park.

There was an unusual interest in the sports this year and as a result there was a large gathering of the school pupils who enthusiastically cheered their class favorites.

There was considerable rivalry among the different classes, and the boys did their best to uphold the honor of their class and secure as many points as possible.

There were eleven events on the score card, and owing to the large number of entries in each event it took considerable time to finish each event. This was particularly true in the hurdle and 100 yards run events which had to be run off in heats.

There were nine points in each event, five for first position, three for second and one for third.

Qs were awarded to each winner and a medal to each pupil breaking a record.

Prizes were won as follows:

220 YARDS RUN.
First by Gram '05.
Second by Jordan '06.
Third by Nichols '07
Time, 27 4-5 seconds.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP.
First by Saunders '06.
Second by Campbell '05.
Third by Nichols '07.
Distance, 17 feet, 8 inches.

THROWING THE HAMMER.

Third by Elcock '06.

CLASS RELAY RACE.
First by Class of '06.
Second by Class of '05.
Third by Class of '07.

One record was broken. This was by Fallon '07 in the base ball throw. The record for this event was 275 feet, and was held by Bennett graduate of 1904. Fallon makes a new record of 320 feet, 5 inches.

Another record broken was the 100 yard dash, by Gram. The record for this event was 11 1-5 seconds and was by Saunders a last years graduate. Gram reduced the record to 11 seconds flat.

For individual honors Gram was high man with 21 points. Nichols second with 16.

DRY FARMING SYSTEM

Soil Tilling Method to Make Semiarid Plains Bloom.

IRRIGATION DEEMED UNNECESSARY

Advantages of a System Destined to Revolutionize Agriculture In the Far West—Large Amount of Money Appropriated to Carry on Experiments on a Large Scale.

The "short grass" country of western Nebraska and Wyoming, together with northern Colorado, is thoroughly aroused over "dry farming" and is seeing visions of a time to come when the "short grass" country will disappear, and in place of its hundreds of thousands of acres of land upon which cattle now graze there will be great crops of wheat, corn, alfalfa and sugar beets, says an Omaha (Neb.) dispatch.

Then the great irrigation projects now fathered by the government and private capital will be useless, because no water will be needed to produce the crops; "dry farming" will have taken the place of the water.

The Cheyenne board of trade and business men of that city recently appropriated $10,000 to experiment along the line of the new system in Wyoming, the Union Pacific railroad has organized a department of "dry farming" to work under the direction of the industrial department of the Harriman system, the Burlington road is conducting experiments of its own on a farm of 500 acres in western Nebraska, one Colorado firm has employed an expert to make investigations on its big cattle ranch of 70,000 acres, North Platte (Neb.) business men have subscribed several thousand dollars toward experimenting in that section, and a hundred different farmers and ranchmen in Laramie county, Wyo., have signed a pledge agreeing to cultivate at least five acres each according to directions issued from a central body and to report results to that body.

By "dry farming" is meant the cultivation of land without irrigation in any form whatever. The lands affected are those millions of acres of semiarid lands in the great west which are now turned over to the cattlemen, the prairie dogs, the rattlesnakes and the owls. A small portion of these lands have been placed under "ditches" and are being irrigated, producing heavy returns on all crops. But if the efforts of those interested in "dry farming" prove successful there will be added to the cultivated areas hundreds of millions of acres of lands now considered valuable only for grazing purposes.

The system used in dry farming is ridiculously simple. Late in the summer the soil is plowed very deep. It is then laid over in loose furrows, and when the meager rainfall comes the loose soil retains the moisture, where it would not even remain damp in hard ground. To prevent evaporation the soil is loosely scratched. The following spring the crop is put in and cultivated in the same manner as in other states. Crops are raised only every other year, however, under this system, the ground being permitted to rest each alternating year.

Already several small farmers in eastern Wyoming have succeeded in securing a yield of thirty-five bushels an acre of first class wheat, where formerly no wheat whatever was grown except under the irrigating ditch. Equally large crops of corn, alfalfa and sugar beets are promised to those who follow the same course of cultivation.

Those who have been experimenting with the system for several years declare their lands increase in power to hold water from year to year and state that with five years of "dry farming" they will produce crops equal to those produced in Illinois and Iowa under the most favorable conditions, if not larger.

NEST IN MAIL BOX.

Bluebirds, Defying Postman, Start Family In Uncle Sam's Property.

John Lewars, a rural mail carrier of Hamburg, Pa., had an odd experience recently with bluebirds near Lenhartsville, Pa., says a Reading special dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger. For weeks these birds have been trying to build a nest in the mail box in front of J. F. Rentschler's home. Whenever Mr. Lewars would come along the route he would chase the members of the feathered tribe from the spot where they sought to establish their home.

For several days lately the postman had no mail for Mr. Rentschler, and the birds went to work undisturbed. Lewars recently discovered that they had succeeded in completing their nest in the mail box, and upon opening the box he found a brood of four young ones.

In order not to disturb the birds the old mail box was placed on top of a fencepost, and a new receptacle for letters and packages was placed in position.

Telephone on a Grave.

Mironda Squires of Columbus, Ind., who is a devout believer in spiritualism, has contracted for placing a telephone at the head of a relative's grave near that city, says a dispatch from Peru, Ind. Frequently she has visited the grave of a departed one and held, she says, long conversations with the dead. She is a busy woman, and as the cemetery is some distance from her home she has adopted the telephone idea. It is her intention to have the telephone on a pole that touches the lid of the box containing the casket, and she thinks that the spirit of the dead one will answer when she calls up.

AMERICA TO ENGLAND.

The youngest of the nations,
Grown stalwart in the west,
Yearns back to where each morning
Glows o'er the ocean's crest
And cries, "O mother country,
Ours is your ancient pride,
And, whate'er may befall you,
Our place is at your side!"

Ours are the old traditions
Of Saxon and of Kelt;
We visit rare Westminster
And kneel where you have knelt.
Your restful country places,
Hills, lakes and London town—
Their memories we inherit
And share in their renown.

Your Avon is our Avon;
Song knows no border line;
The stars their radiance mingle
Which in one heaven shine.
Within your "Poet's Corner"
Longfellow's gentle grace
With all the august shadows
Is given a welcome place.

Your mighty men of science
Who've made the world anew,
Transforming earth and heaven,
Wrought not alone for you.
From Newton up to Darwin
Each from his truth built throne
Nods greeting to our homage—
We claim them for our own.

You fought the fight for freedom
And taught mankind the creed;
Long ere our "Declaration"
There was a Runnymede.
We won at Appomattox,
But you had won before;
Our Bunker Hill and Yorktown
Look back to Marston Moor.

Our Washington and Lincoln
Were of your sturdy stock,
Cut out of Milton's quarry,
One piece with Cromwell's rock.
Our pilgrims learned the lessons
That English means the free,
And through the wintry weather
They brought it over sea.

Here in the west grown mighty,
Though we alone might win,
We look back to the home land
And feel the thrill of kin.
Then let us stand together
Till over all the earth
Our manhood and our freedom
In every land have birth.

One vision let us cherish—
That as the years increase
We two may teach the nations
To love and welcome peace.
But, should the war cloud gather
O'er Neva or the Rhine
And should the threatening navies
Wheel into silent line,

Then, when the peaceful heavens
Are darkened in eclipse,
May our two lightnings mingle
One thunder from our ships.
We need but stand together
To hold the world in fee
And to the noblest issues
Control the age to be.

Then let this glorious vision
Along our pathway gleam
As up the future leads us
The seer's, the poet's dream.
One race and one tradition,
English, American,
And one high inspiration—
The destiny of man!

TOMBSTONES ON A CAMPUS.

How Fraternity Haters at a Kansas University "Got Even."

The Biblical society at Baker university, Baldwin, Kan., until a few weeks ago had a clause in its constitution forbidding its members to join any national fraternity, says the Kansas City Star. When the clause was voted out after a warm debate there were many in the society who believed that it marked the passing of the society.

The Athenian society there has never put a ban on a fraternity, and a number of its members belong to secret organizations. Recently a third society was organized with the understanding that none of its members should join the "frats." Shortly after, however, one, Browne by name, yielded to temptation and joined one of them in spite of the objection of his Promethean brothers in the new society.

The next morning when the students assembled for chapel services three rude tombstones were found erected in the campus in front of Centenary hall. They had been put up by some of the fraternity haters. One of them was inscribed: "Athenian Society. Died of Frat-oid." The second one read: "Biblical Society. Busted." The third bore the words: "Promethean Society Died of Brownchitis."

Hunting For Guerrillas' Gold.

In 1864 James Reynolds, a Confederate captain, became leader of a guerrilla band similar to Quantrell's, says a Denver dispatch. The gang held up and robbed what was called the Buckskin coach on the old South Park trail near Denver and secured $40,000. Its members were attacked on the following day. One man was killed, and Captain Reynolds and five of his men were captured. But two escaped, and they, it is said, buried the treasure at a point near the scene of the battle and were never afterward able to find it. Several searching parties have recently left Denver and will attempt to locate this treasure.

When the Czar Works.

The czar gets up at 7 o'clock and breakfasts on tea and toast. After working two hours he walks for an hour in his park. In the afternoon he takes another walk and then works hard till 11 o'clock at night except for the time devoted to his dinner. With his wife and children he usually converses in French or English to prevent the attendants from understanding them.

Snowstorm on Mars.

A telegram recently received at the Harvard college observatory from Professor Lowell at Flagstaff, Ariz., stated that the first winter snow appeared in the arctic region of Mars between May 18 and 19, says a Boston special dispatch to the New York Times. It covered a vast area surrounding the old polar cap in longitude 230.

CITY BREVITIES

The Crescents defeated the Riversides on Friday at Williams' field by a score of 12 to 6.

Several members of the Wollaston Golf club are entered in the tournament of the Oakley County club today.

The first of the inter-club races of the three local yacht clubs will be sailed next Saturday off Houghs Neck.

There was considerable wind yesterday afternoon, which was followed by a smart shower. The rain was needed badly, and will do an amount of good to vegetation.

One of the important matters to come before the City Council next Monday evening is the order for $65,000 for an addition to the High school. The order will come up for its final passage.

Little Trescott Abele drove his goat team from his home on Spear street to their summer cottage at Post Island the first of the week; a remarkable feat for such a little chap. Dr. Abele drove down and was not far from his young son most of the way.

Twenty-five hundred nobles, including several from this city attended the meeting last night of Aleppo temple, Mystic Shrine, at Mechanics hall, Boston, when 107 candidates crossed the hot sands under escort of the Arab patrol. There was music by the Aleppo orchestra of 25 pieces.

CLEVER ACTING.

Willowdale Presented for the Benefit of Hospital.

With the coming of spring most of the indoor entertainments have ceased, hence the breezy play of country life given last evening in the chapel of First church under the auspices of the Hospital Aid Association, was all the more enjoyable. About three hundred attended and there would probably have been more but for the shower.

The play was given by the Jonas Perkins School Association of East Braintree, which has given the play several times the past season and always with marked success. "Willowdale" is a rustic drama and full of quaint homely country expressions and pictures. The first scene depicts a typical country post office with its store combination where everything can be bought from a silk gown to garden tools and groceries.

The plot of the play begins in the opening act, with the usual villian trying to marry a girl whose lover he has caused to be looked upon as a thief. The girl's mother sides with the villian, while the villagers mostly side with the accused man and the girl.

The choir leader does some detective work, assisted by a few friends, and in the end when the villian is about to marry, the ceremony is stopped by the prospective bride announcing that she is already married to the man of her choice. Then it comes out that she is an adopted daughter and her own father had recently died leaving her a fortune, the villian being the only one to know it, as he had made the will and was keeping it quiet until he secured the money by marriage.

Of course the villian was routed, and all parties forgiven and reunited.

One of the hits of the play was the singing by the church choir from old-fashioned hymn books. This brought down the house, and was enthusiastically applauded.

The parts were well taken. Oleander, the help who laughed all the time; Lem Hackett, the choir leader; Simon Binner (Jo. Spear), who had rather whittle than work; Mrs. Bassett, who wanted her own way; Miss Hazey slightly crazy; Rosetta Gates, flighty but true; Millie Bassett, with too many lovers; Joel Bassett, the postmaster; Tom Skerrett, the accused lover; Joseph Godfrey, the villian; Clarence Dinsmore, the school teacher, and Rev. Mr. Prosser, the minister, sustained their parts well and were frequently applauded.

It was capitally done, well staged and without a flaw from beginning to end. Baldwin's orchestra enlivened the waits and also came in for applause. Homemade candy found ready sale between the acts.

The audience is indebted to Mr. Joseph G. Spear for the opportunity of enjoying so pleasant an evening. The Hospital Aid association derives the proceeds of the play. It was neighborly and kind of Braintree people to assist in the good work being done by the Quincy Hospital.

The ushers were dressed in white and were: Grace Spear, Marguerite Davis, Muriel Rogers, and Carlena Walker.

RAIN HELPS.

Quincy High to Defeat Thayer Academy.

By Score of Five to One.

Runs Made by Thayer in Seventh Did Not Count.

During the first half of the seventh innings of the game between Quincy High and Thayer Academy yesterday, rain began to fall, and time was called. As the rain continued for half an hour play was not resumed, and the umpire gave the game to Quincy High by the score at the end of the sixth innings, which was: Quincy High, 5; Thayer Academy, 1.

The rain helped Thayer to score five runs in the seventh innings, with only two out before time was called, and Thayer's total was 6, but then Quincy High had not had its seventh inning. Under base ball rules Thayer cannot claim a victory, but Quincy High can.

American Boys, 22; Golden Rods, 2

At Ward Three playgrounds Friday afternoon the American Boys added another to their string of victories by defeating the Golden Rods of West Quincy in a one-sided game by a score of 22 to 2.

The batting and fielding of the Americans was first-class. Being out for the 14-15 year old championship would like games with teams of that age. Address J. E. Spargo, Manager, 2 Roberts street, South Quincy.

JAPS CELEBRATING.

Novel and Interesting Program at Milton This Afternoon.

In the neighboring town of Milton this afternoon and evening the Japanese of Boston and vicinity are celebrating the great naval victory. It is held on estate of Dr. Harris Kennedy and will be Japanese in every particular. Aided by American friends, the plans were arranged by the Japanese of Boston.

There will be speechmaking at 4 o'clock and a series of Japanese field sports. The most interesting part of the exercises, perhaps, will be the biograph illustrating some of the land battles of the war, the evening ending with a lantern procession about the grounds. The grounds will be decorated with Japanese lanterns and many other things characteristic of the land of the rising sun.

The program in brief:
Opening remarks, Mr. Morimoto.
"America."
Toasts, "President of the United States," the Hon. Curtis Guild.
"Kimigayo."
"Emperor of Japan," the Hon. Osborne Howes.
"The Imperial Navy," Congressman John W. Weeks.
"The Present Military Situation," R. M. Johnston.
"America and Japan," the Rev. Clay Macauley.
"Shikuji," K. Matsuki.
"Shikuji," A. Shirahama.
"Shikuji," Mr. Suzuki.
Odoke-kyose, fancy race.
Mekura-uchi, blind hit.
Gekken, Japanese fencing.
Jiu-jitsu.
Kembu, sword dancing.
Tejina, Japanese juggling.
Uta, Japanese popular song.
Utai, Japanese opera song.
Teodori, Japanese dance.
Gento, moving pictures.
Chochin-gyoretsu, lantern procession.
"Banzai."

The committee extends to all Japanese an urgent invitation to join in the celebration.

Good for Ten Votes.

It is announced that a coupon good for five votes will soon be printed in some weekday Herald, and also a coupon good for ten votes in the Sunday Herald either June 4 or June 11. Friends of Miss Underwood should be alert and secure as many of these coupons as possible. Better still, if you are not already a Herald reader, place an order in advance for the Sunday Herald for the next two weeks, and help along the Quincy candidate. The chances of success are good if we get a large number of the "bargain coupons." If 1000 extra Sunday Heralds are purchased it will mean 10,000 extra votes for Miss Underwood.

QUEEN OF SOUND.

Royal Welcome for Steamer Providence Built at Quincy.

The new palatial steamer Providence built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy, is ready to go into commission on Long Island sound. Yesterday the steamer arrived at the city of Providence R. I., where a reception was held.

Soon after leaving her berth at Newport Friday noon, says the Globe, the steamer grounded on the flats, but was pulled off undamaged by the steamer Coanicut, which was nearby, and proceeded to Providence. All the way up the bay the palatial craft was greeted with whistles and horns and from the docks of the Providence line came the most unearthly din, as a grand welcome.

The steamer was warped into the Fox Point docks of the Providence line shortly before 3 and from that hour until 10 the public thronged aboard and viewed the latest triumphs in marine architecture and naval skill. It was generally conceded that the Providence is the queen of the Sound fleet of New York steamers.

The decorations of the boat are greatly praised. They are of old ivory and gold, with the rails of the balustrades of mahogany, the balustrades themselves of wrought iron and the carpets and upholstering in a rich wine red. All this makes the steamer perhaps the most beautiful of all the Sound steamboats.

She is also one of the most roomy, for there are 298 state rooms on the new boat, with 11 parlor rooms, two of them having bath rooms attached.

There were many prominent people at the reception, including Lieut. Gov. Jackson, Mayor Miller, Sec. of State Bennett, Collector of the Port Wilson, Police Commissioner Luther, Hon. Edward H. Milner and Judge William H. Sweetland.

Thayer Academy Notes.

Founder's Day will be observed Saturday, June 10. Exercises will be held in the Academy hall at 1 P. M. The address will be made by Admiral G. F. F. Wilde. A cordial invitation is extended to all the people of Braintree to be present.

The position of instructor in Latin and German, left vacant by Mr. Oscar C. Gallagher's removal to the English High school of Boston, has been offered by the trustees to Mr. William W. Gallagher, and he has accepted the same. Mr. Gallagher graduated at Thayer in 1899, entered Harvard in 1900, earned his degree in three years, taught during 1903-4 in the Demeritte school in Boston, and for the last year has been carrying on Miss Thompson's work in Greek and History in her absence.

—The Hungarian authorities have a drastic treatment in store for Mormons who visit that country to proselyte—they expel them on the ground that they antagonize State policy, morals and religion.

INFERIOR
Extracts Dangerous.

Lack of Color Supplied by Aniline Dyes.

DESIRE FOR PROFIT LEADS TO ADULTERATION.

Foss' Extracts Driving Out Impure Pantry Concoctions.

FOSS' EXTRACTS ARE FRUITS IN LIQUID FORM.

Think of it housewives, chefs, keepers of restaurants, owners of hotels—a sheet of wool and silk five feet square has been dyed with the artificial coloring matter found in a small quantity of strawberry flavoring extract.

These inferior extracts are made from oil extracted by distillation, rather than by the cold or hand process. The oil obtained by distillation is colorless, and to give the extract the proper color aniline dyes are used. The desire for profit leads to the adulteration not only of the extract but of the essential oil itself. Wood alcohol, a rank poison, enters into cheap lemon extracts.

There should be a limit to the willingness in parents to give their children these poisons of ice cream, cake and desserts.

Every cook whether plain housekeeper or professional chef should refuse to keep in their pantry these poisonous substitutes for the real Fruits. Foss' Pure Flavoring Extracts can be had at any grocers. They are well known to be merely the natural fruit in liquid form.

From the first appearance of Foss' Extracts, hotel chefs, cooking school teachers, and thousands of plain housewives entirely discarded the use of artificial extracts, and began to use nothing but Foss' Pure Flavoring Extracts because they know that they are using simply the natural fruit in liquid form.

Women who have just begun the use of these extracts are delighted at the dainty flavoring imparted to their desserts and surprised that the matter of flavoring should make so great a difference in the palatableness of their cooking. This is the comment in many homes, not only by those whose business it is to "taste" the food before serving, but by the men and women who only know the proof of the pudding by the eating.

There is something better than the old fashioned artificial extracts. Foss' Extracts are Fruits in Liquid Form. Not only are these modern extracts more delicate, purer and from every consideration of health more satisfactory, but they are much more economical, as less is required. Mrs. Lincoln in her recipe for Ice Cream, on Page 364 of her Boston Cook Book, orders Foss' Pure Extract of Vanilla, simply because it is fruit in liquid form, and the best. Try it and you will agree with her.

All grocers sell it in Quincy, Wollaston, Braintree, Weymouth and East Weymouth, South Weymouth, Atlantic and Norfolk Downs.

Roller Skating.

That roller skating is growing in popularity there can be no doubt. The constantly increasing attendance at the Coliseum is proof of that fact.

The gentlemen who have charged the rink are well known Waltham business men. They do not cater to the rougher element nor are they permitted to mar the pleasures of others. No objectionable person is admitted, and the management is trying in every way to cater to the better class.

There have been improvements in roller skates as in everything else, and those used today have steel ball bearing rollers. Competent instructors are present every evening, and good music is provided.

The management desire to deny the statement that the rink is to be closed. It is their intention to keep it open until the weather becomes to warm, when it will be closed until fall. During the time that it is closed it will be thoroughly cleaned and renovated and put in first class condition.

It is a business proposition for the the gentlemen who have it it in charge, and they want to reach the better class who enjoy a healthy invigorating and clean sport.

OLD JEWISH TRADITION.

The Way the Israelites of Old Lost Their Third Eye.

The Jews of eastern Palestine and Asia Minor have a queer tradition which has survived from ancient times and tells of a remote period in their history when every fully devolped Israelite was equipped with three perfect eyes. The two main optics were situated in the front part of the head, just as eyes are today, but the third was located in the back part of the head just above the nape of the neck in the edge of the hair. This wonderful third eye in man was not "evoluted" out of existence, but was closed by divine injunction on the day when Moses was given the tables of stone on Sinai.

You remember that God's command on the day that the tables were renewed was to the effect that no man should be seen in the vicinity of the holy mount. (See Ex. xxxiv, 3.) The believers in the three eye tradition say that Moses supplemented God's command by ordering the faithful who were encamped in the valley to turn their heads from the mountain. This they did, but took good care to uncover the eye that was situated in the back of the head. Moses, noticing this show of duplicity on the part of his followers, asked God to close the third, or rear, eye, and since that day the Israelites, in common with the remainder of humanity, have been forced to depend on two eyes only.

Bears of Okefinokee Swamp.

The great Okefinokee swamp begins not far from Waycross, Ga., and extends due south for a distance of about forty miles, running over into Florida. Here in this vast tract of desolate bog and swamp are thousands of black bear and deer and wild turkeys without number. The whole region is a hunter's paradise, and yet so abundant is the game in this remote and desolate country that it does not seem to diminish in spite of the nimrods. The bears weigh from 200 to 300 pounds and put in a great part of their time preying upon the pigpens of the farmers. If forced into a fight they are dangerous antagonists, and no prudent hunter will attack one save at a point of vantage.—Washington Post.

FLOWER'S NOVEL ROLE.

Chrysanthemum Leaves a Substitute For Tobacco.

Considerable interest has been aroused by the following statement made by the London Lancet:

In December last A. W. Martin, the medical officer of health of Gorton, recommended the smoking of dried chrysanthemum petals as a pleasant and harmless substitute for tobacco. Perhaps he thought that it would be a gentle mode of weaning those in danger of becoming slaves to the pipe or providing a pleasant substitute for those with whom tobacco did not agree.

But a case has been reported of unlooked for improvement, attributed to chrysanthemum smoking, in a person who had been a victim for fifteen years to frequent and violent epileptic fits, due to chronic dyspepsia. He smoked his first pipe on Jan. 1 and began at once to improve, so that now he is able to take his half hour's walk without a stick instead of being afraid to cross a space of nine feet with it. He can get six nights' rest out of seven instead of one out of four and can even attend church.

However skeptical any one may be as to the cause of the improvement and however mindful of post hoc propter hoc, the patient is to be congratulated. He adds that the flowers act best when mixed with cascarilla bark, as suggested by Mr. Martin. Should this case attain much publicity there will soon be a run on chrysanthemum blooms.

TREASURY ETIQUETTE.

Circular Telling Employees How to Address High State Officials.

Copies of treasury decisions, the official journal of the treasury department, reached the different bureaus of the department the other day in New York. Included in the pamphlet there is a long order, signed by Secretary Leslie M. Shaw, giving in detail just how the correspondence of the department must be carried on—just how to begin all letters and how to end them, what dictionaries and gazetteers are to be regarded as authorities in the spelling and meanings of words and exactly how to fold the paper and put it in the envelopes, says the New York Times.

It is also officially described over the signature of Secretary Shaw how the various officers of the government should be addressed in these communications. Among the higher officials the following are the forms Mr. Shaw desires used:

The president.
The speaker of the house of representatives.
The president of the senate.
The chairman, committee on appropriations, house of representatives.
The chairman, committee on appropriations, United States senate.
The honorable the secretary of the treasury.

GEM STUDDED SAW.

One Made In Indianapolis Contains Two Hundred Diamonds.

An Indianapolis (Ind.) company that manufactures saws recently completed a large saw containing 200 teeth, with a Brazilian diamond imbedded in each tooth, says the Indianapolis Sentinel. The saw was shipped to Bedford, Ind., to be used in one of the big stone quarries there.

The saw is eight feet in diameter, five-sixteenths of an inch thick and weighs almost half a ton. Instead of having sharp teeth this peculiar saw has almost a smooth edge. Secured across the edge of the outer rim are 200 inserted steel holders. Imbedded in each is a large Brazilian diamond. The diamond points compose the teeth of the saw, which will be used to cut Indiana limestone into desired sizes.

The diamonds are about a carat in size and are very dark. Each stone is valued at $20. Two other saws, duplicates of the one recently completed, are in course of construction and represent a cost of $10,000.

An Airship Prediction.

A Kansas City man now eighty years old was discussing railroads with a friend the other night, says the Kansas City Times. "I remember," he said, "when railroads used planks with strips of iron nailed on them for rails. The first road of that kind I ever saw was back in Ohio about sixty-five years ago. The wood rails used to warp after the cars had run over them awhile, and for that reason people predicted freely that the railroad would never amount to much. I remember a certain optimist, however, who predicted that the railroad would be a grand success eventually. People laughed at him, but he stuck to his belief. 'Friends,' I remember hearing him say once, 'some day they'll find a rail that won't warp, and then railroad trains will make as much as ten miles an hour easily.' My, how they roared! Now, I want to make a prediction that will be laughed at. I say that in twenty years airships will be flying all over the civilized world carrying passengers and freight. Laugh at that prediction if you will. I probably won't live to see those airships, but the prediction will come true. Mark my words."

Jessie Bartlett Davis.

The silver cord is broken,
The tongue of flame, God's token,
Lies hushed in death's embrace.
But yet our heaven born senses
In pure and lofty strains
Are thrilled with joy and gladness
As nobler heights she gains.
She touched the life of millions
With messages of joy;
Her voice, like voice of angels,
Flowed out without alloy.
To husband, son and sisters,
In earth's great grief and stress,
Await the loved one's coming
In resurrection dress.

Points of Interest.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACEOF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company where warships are being built for the government.

GAGE E. TARBELL

The Real Man Behind the Sensational Equitable Fight.

Of Boundless Personal Ambition, He Wanted to Go to the Head.

Starting a Country Agent, He Became Chief Factor In the Insurance World. A Master of Men, Spectacular, Inimitable In Methods, He Spared Nothing to Reach Results.

An Incarnation of Business Drive, Courage and Energy—Early In Life a Law Student, Jeweler and Mining Promoter—His Motto to Agents, "Get Up"—His Secretary the Highest Salaried Woman In the United States.

During the opening days of titanic struggle in the Equitable Life Assurance association, which shook the business world and whose end is not yet little was seen by the public of the real man who caused the conflict and who expected to benefit by it if the word of his enemies is to be credited.

Tarbell worked his way up from a country agent to a place that gives him charge of all the agents in the United States and Canada, with a salary of $60,000 per year and with very well defined hopes, it is said, of one day being president of the company. And that is why the battle was fought. At least that is the charge made by Henry H. Knowles, a former Equitable employee, who asserted that the plan of the Alexander-Tarbell faction was to oust First Vice President James Hazen Hyde, then in a few years President Alexander, who is growing old, would retire, after which Tarbell would naturally go to the head.

The career of Mr. Tarbell is of the most intense interest as a revelation of the business methods of the age. It exemplifies in an extreme degree the virtues and the faults developed in the modern struggle for wealth and place. Tarbell is the very incarnation of energy, self confidence and personal ambition. Strength, pluck, perseverance, are written in the lines of his face, are revealed by his words, are shown by his career.

Keynote of Tarbell's Life.

Often a man by one remark gives a glimpse of his whole character. Here is one of Tarbell's made in an address to a group of agents. He explained that it was his habit to rise early and walk out in the morning air. One morning Mrs. Tarbell joined him. "Why, Gage," she exclaimed, "isn't it perfectly lovely after you are once up?" In a flash he responded: "It is, yes. It is so all the way through life. It is perfectly lovely after you once get up."

After you once get up! That is the keynote to the man's whole life. That is the refrain running through the advice to his agents. Get up, get up, young man! Don't be a drudge. Don't be afraid. Make money. Go to the top. The world is beautiful after you get there. Have confidence in yourself. Push, drive, do things. Results count. Get up.

Evidently he has followed his own advice. He has got up. From a poor boy to the second vice presidency of one of the great insurance companies of the world. A company spanning two continents. A salary greater than that received by the president of the United States. Plans well laid for another step higher. He has driven for this, schemed for it, worked night and day for it, stirred up his agents for it, given rebates to write more business for it, kept his eye on the main chance for it, written more policies than any other agent in the United States for it, and it has come. "It is perfectly lovely after you once get up."

Told by His Enemies.

Tarbell has enemies strewn all along the way. One cannot drive and crowd and mount over other men without making enemies.

These enemies say rather uncomplimentary things. Enemies generally do. They say that Tarbell is so ambitious that he is selfish, that he thinks only of Tarbell, that he makes great schemes, and if the schemes collapse he gets from under and leaves others to be buried in the debris. They say that in the old days he organized mining schemes in the state of Wisconsin, that he sold large amounts of stock among others some to his former neighbors in New York, and that most everybody lost by these deals excepting Tarbell. He made good. They also say that to write his immense amounts of insurance he gives rebates, a thing opposed to the principles of all insurance companies and even unlawful in many of the states. They likewise assert that he has even continued this policy since reaching his present position; that he is reckless in expenditures in trying to achieve results Again, they aver, as before stated, that he organized this whole great Equitable fight so that he might succeed to the presidency of the company, a very proud position, by the way, paying $100,000 per year. And, lastly, they say that the board of directors have "got wise" to this and that they are unanimously of the opinion that Tarbell must be forced out. This is the latest development of the immense struggle for millions. Still, one can never tell. Gage E. Tarbell has a strange habit of lighting on his feet.

GAGE E. TARBELL.

A Picturesque Career.

Mr. Tarbell's career is picturesque. Born in Chenango county, N. Y., in 1856, he helped pay his way through school by soliciting life insurance. Then he went into the jewelry business at the little town of Marathon. Then he studied law. Waiting for clients was not to the liking of his active mind, so he began again soliciting insurance. Then the western fever took him, and he went to Madison, Wis., bought out an Equitable agency and began to develop his wonderful powers as an insurance agent. So well did he succeed that he was not satisfied with his $5,000 salary and asked to be placed on a commission basis. He dreamed of $100,000 policies. The smaller ones he took as fillers. It was for the big ones that he planned. Then came along the iron mine excitement, and he embarked in this. As a promoter he had the same success as he had as an insurance solicitor. The mine bubble burst after a time, but Tarbell got out with a good stake. About this time he went to Milwaukee. There was a great furniture company that failed, and Tarbell in some way was in as having been assigned some of the claims. There were assertions of irregularity in connection with this assignment, and the case went to the courts. Tarbell won as usual. Then back into the insurance business. More success than ever. Given the state of Wisconsin, then transferred to Chicago and given several other states. It was here that an incident occurred which probably explained the reason Tarbell was made the third vice president of the company at the age of thirty-six. Let him tell this in his own language. Here is his account:

"On the last day of November, 1891, I received a telegram from Mr. Henry B. Hyde, the late president of this society, asking me if I could give him from the field under my management $3,500,000 of business in the month of December. The amount was much larger than had ever been produced in the agency in a single month, and at first blush it seemed impossible of accomplishment. Then immediately the thought came to me that the greatest life assurance man in the world would not have asked me for that amount if he had thought its accomplishment impossible, and I wired Mr. Hyde that he should have the business. I immediately asked every agent in my employ to work during the month of December with the one purpose of writing the largest possible amount of first class business every day. I kept the thought before them constantly for the whole month and found at its close that the agency had written and forwarded to New York in a single month more than $5,000,000 of business."

Tarbell's Success Recipes.

On the death of President Hyde James W. Alexander became president, and Gage E. Tarbell was promoted to the second vice presidency of the company. When he was called to New York he was made supervisor of agents, and this was still his work after his final promotion. One element of his success lay in his power to stir his men. One of the ways he had of doing this was by sending out circular letters in book form containing success recipes, if one may use the term. Here are a few of the more juicy of these:

Make every day count, and if possible make some of them count two.

What a man can do is his greatest ornament.

By desiring a thing sufficiently and determining to have it and working earnestly and intelligently for it, that thing must be accomplished. It simply cannot elude your grasp.

The only Milton the world respects is the glorious old blind man who lived and sang, and it has never given a laurel wreath yet for a deed undone.

It is the enthusiasts who do the climbing, making progress every day, and who get to the top.

I may be censured for "driving," but I tell you that work—keeping busy—is the cure for half the ills of life and the source of nine-tenths of its happiness.

Good mottoes, these, not only for life insurance, but for life.

His Summer School.

Mr. Tarbell had many other ways of stirring up the agents under him. One of these was to hold a summer school in New York, instructing college boys in the ways of soliciting insurance and between lectures sending them out to secure business in the metropolis. At the close of the school in 1903 a banquet was held, and Tarbell near the close of his address used this language:

"You will find that the reputation of a life insurance company is almost as sensitive, if not quite, as the reputation of a man or a woman, and I beg of you never to do anything to tarnish it in the least."

In the light of subsequent events that remark takes on a peculiar, almost a mournful, significance and perhaps one not originally intended. The most secret affairs of the Equitable have been brought before the public, and the two factions have not been at all sparing in the charges they have made against each other.

Still, Mr. Tarbell's loyalty to the Equitable is one of his most marked traits. He talks it, dreams it, lives it. His whole being apparently has been bound up in the company. He has filled those under him with this spirit of loyalty to the great institution they serve.

His $12,000 Secretary.

This is strikingly shown in the attitude of his secretary, Miss Anna L. Amendt, who, by the way, is the highest salaried woman in the United States.

Miss Amendt's personality is almost as interesting as that of her chief. She worked her way up from a poor Ohio schoolteacher. It was then, she said, she used to pray not to awake in the morning, she hated the work so. She went to Chicago, studied stenography, went into the local office of the Equitable in a minor position, and her tact and capacity for business have done the rest. Now she receives a salary of $12,000 per year, besides almost as much more made by writing insurance outside of the office. Her motto is, "Molasses goes a great deal farther than vinegar." Her chief fad is a horse, Black Secret, and the proudest hour of her life perhaps was when this apple of her eye took a ribbon in the New York horse show.

Why Not a Caesar?

The man who fights harder after being knocked down than before is the one who usually wins out. Tarbell has been knocked down often, as who has not? In two of these instances the blows were delivered by the Chicago and National Underwriters' associations. In both cases he was a candidate for president, in both he was declared beaten, and in both he challenged the vote, and rather serious altercations ensued.

There have been all sorts of Napoleons—of finance and what not? Why not a few Caesars? If there is such a thing as a Caesar of insurance, that describes Gage E. Tarbell. It will be remembered, by the way, that the first Caesar was slain for his ambition, and if Tarbell is slain in the battle he is now waging it will be for that. This fact remains—that he is the most forceful character in the fight—courageous, spectacular, inimitable in methods, energetic, resourceful and a master of men.

SIMSON

By ROBERT C. V. MEYERS

Copyright, 1904, by Robert C. V. Meyers

REDDY SULLIVAN and the Kid said they would clean out the place. Bart O'Donnell would not go so far as that, but he would work the racket for all it was worth. The racket was to impede the operations of the Sunday school to be opened at the mission on the morrow. A smiling gentleman who insisted upon treating the men and women of the neighborhood as so many children had come upon "the gang" at Bernstein's corner and spoken of the opening of the school on the Sabbath, inviting the boys to attend.

The Kid was for fainting on the spot. Reddy Sullivan drew the back of his hand across his upper lip with a loud report. Bart O'Donnell said, "Oh, mamma!"

The next day Bart sauntered from Bernstein's corner with Reddy and the Kid in the direction of the mission. All at once he ran from the others out to the cart way and dragged a woman from under the very feet of a horse. She looked at him in a confused way as she righted her hat. He saw a thin, small creature in plain, cheap garb, without adornment save for a not too fresh white rose upon her breast.

"I was thinking. I did not see the horse," she said and, with a nod, passed on.

Reddy and the Kid came up and wanted to know if she had given Bart anything.

"Who wants anything?" demanded he.

At the mission the gentleman who had invited them looked nervous as he assigned them to a class.

"Naw," said the Kid; "we don't want no man." And, followed by the others, he darted over to a bench before which stood a girl.

"Miss Calderson," said the gentleman, "these young men elect to become your pupils."

"I have no others," returned she. And Bart saw that she was the girl he had taken from under the horse's feet. She recognized him.

She was a tired girl, Bart thought, and he understood better when, to put herself en rapport with her class, she explained that she was a stranger in the city, had come from the country and was working in a factory.

The services proceeding, she opened her Bible and said she would speak about Samson. She read a part of the story of the strong man.

"The moral of this story is," she said bitterly, "that the greatest strength is only weakness if it is not equal to battle against deceit and slyness. Delilah"—

"She's all right, lady," interrupted the Kid. "She was right in it. He'd held trumps so often he thought he alwus had the ace."

"Simson ought to knowed better," said Bart, shaking his head, his eyes on her. "If he could take a mule's jawr and strike all them people where they lived, he ought to been a match for Delie."

"He certainly should," she assented, with animation; "but, then, Delilah saw his weak spot. The strongest man has his weak spot."

"What's the matter with the strongest woman?" asked Bart.

"There is no strongest woman," said Miss Calderson. "A woman's brain is governed by her feelings, and her feelings are only as strong as their weakest moment finds them, and"—

She blushed violently and shut the book with a snap, giving out the page of a hymn the school had begun to sing.

In the midst of this hymn Bart saw Reddy give the wink to the Kid, who set his eyes to rolling in a ghastly fashion. He went over to him.

"Come off. Don't get gay," he simply said and returned to his seat.

The Kid did not have a fit, and the school was dismissed.

Sunday came, and Bart went early to the mission. He was one of the first in the long, bare room. When Miss Calderson came in she was as white as ever. He had thought that possibly her last Sunday's danger from the horse had paled her for the day. But she was just as decolored today. And upon her breast was another white rose.

She gave Bart her hand, a rough little hand, with marks of toil on it. "So you are my only pupil today," she said. And so he was.

She read today from another part of the Scriptures and was altogether a quiet, peaceful creature.

When service was over Bart did a bold thing.

"May I walk alongside of you?" he asked her.

She hesitated at first and then may have thought of what he had done for her only a week before. "I suppose you want to ask me something about religion," she said. I am very ignorant, very wicked. What can I do for you?"

"I want to ask you about Simson," he said, going out with her. She looked puzzled.

"Simson and Delie," he explained; "them you read about last Sunday."

"Oh," she said; "Samson."

"That's what I said," he returned; "Simson."

"His name," she corrected, "was Samson."

"I thort it was Simson," said Bart. "Anyway, Simson sounds more like as if you knowed him. I'll call him that."

She explained the story as well as she could, but she seemed uneasy. "I ought not to have read that," she said. "It was not the lesson of the day. But I felt like it. Do you ever do a thing you feel like doing even when you know it is wrong, Bart?"

"Alwus," answered Bart.

She laughed.

"There," she said. "I guess that's all. Goodby. I hope to see you next Sunday."

Bart was not so sure she should see him the next Sunday; he had not been much impressed today. But the next Sunday found him at the mission.

She was certainly glad to see him today; it seemed to her that a work taken up in a sort of desperation was bearing fruit. She was interested in her single scholar. Today she drew him out; at another time he would have withheld many things; but, the feeling of depression lifting so miraculously, he felt that he must say everything he knew about himself.

When school was over she asked Bart to walk with her that she might talk to him. She gave him no advice, but she told him she had thought over and over again how brave he had been in rescuing her that first Sunday they had met.

"Oh, that!" said Bart and flushed and felt good.

"And," she went on, "brave people are seldom idle. You must think of yourself as brave and strong—strong as"—

"Simson?" he interrupted.

She laughed.

"If he is your idea of strength, yes," she said.

A few days later Bart got work. "The gang" jeered and called him a star member. Saturday night he brought home a white rose. "I'm thinkin' I'd like to treat you like a lady," he said to his mother. Mrs. O'Donnell had a fit of laughing, in the height of which Bart snatched up the flower and dashed it out the window. He afterward saw it in the belt of Mame Reilly, who said that a gentleman friend had presented it.

Bart was angry all night, angry with himself. In the morning he resolved not to go to the mission. But he would not give up his job of work, simply because "the gang" expected he would.

When the time came for the school he went. Miss Calderson was there with her white rose. The sight of the flower made Bart wish he had stayed away, made him angry with the wearer of it. But she held out her hand and looked glad to see him.

Today the lesson went on without interruption. After school again did the teacher ask her pupil to walk with her. She now looked upon him as her mission. Today he told her of his getting work. She said this made her glad; that he must always work and learn to love work.

Then she wanted to know what he did evenings, and, on his telling her about "the gang," she asked him to come and see her some evening.

"What evening?" he asked quickly.

She had to mention one.

That evening he went, taking with him a white rose. At sight of his gift she frowned.

"You alwus wear one,'" he said.

"Yes," she returned and put the flower in a little glass on the table of her mean room, where was the faded remnant of the one she had worn the Sunday before.

She had some slight refreshment for Bart, and, strangely enough, he resented this. He did not wish to be thought of like that. The evening was not particularly brilliant, and Bart went away feeling solemn.

He was solemn till Sunday. He considered it a part of the service now to walk with Miss Calderson when the school was over. At parting he asked her if he should come some evening that week also. This rather startled her, but she acquiesced.

That second evening she had a cold and could talk but little.

Bart astonished himself by his own eloquence. He asked her if she would mind reading his favorite story. He listened intently.

"That long hair o' his was a bluff," he said when she had finished. "And he didn't love De-lilah, or he wouldn't o' telled her such steep things. And she must o' been green, for the stories was too thin."

"You are right"—and Miss Calderson was in that semifeverous state attendant on a cold, when dreaminess of idea ensues; besides, it was no more than talking to a baby to talk to this boy—"he couldn't have loved her and told her such untruths concerning the secret of his strength. Maybe he cared for another woman, and Delilah took him from her. Delilah must have been more than a paid spy; she must have been revengeful because he had loved before he met her. That day when you saved me from being run over I was thinking of a Delilah I know, and I did not see the horse."

"You know De-lilah?" asked Bart.

"One of them," answered Miss Calderson.

"Barty," said Miss Calderson, "suppose I tell you a story. I have never told it to a living soul yet—perhaps because there was no one to tell it to; I am all alone in the world. There was a girl," she said softly, "who cared mightily for a man. He was a great strong man, but he had his weak spot. His weak spot was his love of beauty—beauty in a woman. This girl was not beautiful"—

"Delilah?" interrupted Bart.

"No," she shrilled. "Delilah was her friend and beautiful. Well, the girl became engaged to marry the man. Ah, he was so good to her; he was so strong! And she was so frail and weak—her frailty and weakness may have attracted him to her, those and her great love for him. She was fond of flowers, white flowers, such as she had seen in her mother's dead hand when she was a child. Every Saturday night he brought her a white rose to wear on Sunday. Once he met her friend, Delilah. After that he was lost to the frail girl. This frail girl was proud; she gave him up and seemed happy. She even went to the wedding. Then she left that part of the country and went to town. She grew frailer; she thought she had given him up, but she had not. And how did she know that she had not given him up? Why, every Saturday night when her work was paid for she bought a white rose, just as he had done, and she wore it Sundays. I think that rose is killing her, but she will wear it to the end."

Her head drooped over, and Bart thought she was asleep, till all at once she raised her hand and smote herself upon the breast again and again, raining blows upon her bosom where he had seen the roses resting and broke into a passion of sobs that seemed almost to rend her. Bart was appalled. Once again he saw that she was strong, and he looked at her with a hot spot on his cheeks.

When the storm had expended itself she put out her hand, keeping her face away from him, and said good night in an annoyed manner. But he lingered. "I won't give it away," he said; "that there story."

"That story?" she queried. "Oh, my friend's story! My friend is dead, you know."

"That's why you cried," he said. "Is that why you wear a white flower—out o' memory o' her, because she liked 'em, and they was on her dead mother's hand when she was a child?"

She looked at him with a sort of terror.

"Yes," she said. "But I shall never wear one again—never. Good night!"

And she had no white flower the following Sunday. Bart noticed it, as he noticed everything about her, as he noticed how ill she looked and how much worse was her cold. She did not ask him to walk with her, did not ask him anything concerning himself. And he had developed a love for work—had she not told him he ought to love work?—and he wished she knew it. But he could not tell her unless she were interested in the fact.

That day he went with "the gang." His mother had gone out, and there was nothing for him to do in the way of taking care of her.

He did not see her that week. Sunday he thought he would go and make up with "the gang;" but, drawn by a force to which he could not then have given a name, he went to the mission. Miss Calderson was not there. The gentleman told Bart that she was ill, but that he might go into another class. Bart turned on his heel. He went at once to Miss Calderson's.

She was lying back in her chair. Bart could have cried out, she looked so dreary, so lonely, so wasted. She had a doctor, she said, but the sickness had been coming on for a long time, and it ran in her family, her mother having died of it. But she grew cheerful now that Bart had come, and he sat there, her cheerfulness communicating itself to him. When it was time for him to go she said a strange thing.

"Barty," she said, "you have made a better woman of me—poor, lonely boy! You have softened my heart with your belief in me, and—that is all. Come Thursday evening."

He had never been so happy in all his life before. He could have kissed his mother if she would have let him.

Thursday evening he went to Miss Calderson, who was again cheerful in his company. The woman from whom she rented her room was with her now, but went away for awhile. Then the little, pale teacher turned eagerly to Bart.

"Quick!" she said. "That box under the table. There are some dead flowers in it—my friend's roses, those the man gave her. Burn them for me."

Bart took the box and obeyed her. Only, he kept one faded little bud in his folded hand.

She had turned her eyes to the stove; the faint crackling scintillation made by the burning flowers lighted them up. She was ghastly. "Thank you," she said when the dried blossoms were all gone and closed her eyes. "I should like to help you a little, Barty. What shall I do?"

"Read about Simson," he answered in a rush. He wanted to see in her face that look which had first attracted him to her, that look of strength which belied her feeble frame, that look of passionate feeling, and to see that look called forth by something she should do for him.

She held the book in her wasted hands and in a muffled voice read a part of the old story, but the old look did not come into her face.

She closed the book.

"Thank you, Barty," she said. "It is you who have helped, as usual. You saved me from the horse that time, your white rose told me how foolish I was to hold on to an old sentiment, and, reading tonight of Samson, I find I have forgiven a man and a woman whom I had thought did me a great wrong. You are a strong, good fellow, Bart, my Samson. Goodby, dear friend—not good night!"

Of course he did not understand her. He had her hand in his; there was something to say to her, something a man may say to one woman in the world, but he did not know what it was. He wrenched himself away from her. His fingers on the knob of the door, she called him back. "Be an industrious boy, a good man, a Samson without his weakness," she said. "Kiss me!" She held her brow to his lips. Touching her thus, he almost knew what he had to say to her, but she turned her face from him, and, awed, he crept from the room.

He was not prepared for what he should be told Sunday morning at the mission, but he was told it, and he went away. No one knew where he hid till late in the afternoon. Then, with soft, white rose in his hand, he went to Miss Calderson's.

They let him into the room where she lay, one small, cold hand folded over the other. Upon these hands so folded, as she had told him her friend's mother's dead hands had had white roses on them, he laid the pallid flower he had brought, looking down upon the still face that told to no earthly eye the story of the heart as still. And then he went away, his eyes buried in the sleeve of his coat, groping with his free hand for the side of the staircase.

Every Sunday when he has the money to spare a boy buys a white rose and goes and lays it upon a mound unmarked save by the dead flower he has placed there on a former occasion. Against his heart at the time is a crisping bud which was at the time Bart O'Donnell burned saved at the time Bart O'Donnell burned the dead flowers of Miss Calderson's friend. But this is not Bart O'Donnell; without act of legislature he has become Bart Simson, and so he is known. Did not Miss Calderson want it so? He has changed his life and his name for the little, pale teacher. Some day he may know that he loved her.

The lodge has received an invitation to attend a memorial service to be held by the Uniform Rank at Berkeley Temple, Sunday, June 11, at 3 p. m. It is hoped that all members who can do so will attend.

Charles Franklin Penniman died at his home 555 Washington street Braintree last Sunday after a few months illness. He was born Jan. 9, 1843, son of Daniel P. and Harriet (Wild) Penniman, Braintree and like his parents has always made Braintree his home. For many years he has lived alone, in his large house, except having for companionship a few cats. He was very deaf and therefore it was hard for him to entertain or go away from his home. It was seldom that he went even into South Braintree square.

With the advent of June the end of The Herald school contest may be said to be in sight. Only nine days more remain for the collection of coupons, and only 13 more for any activity by the contestants. June 11 gives the last coupon, and they must be in by Friday, June 16. Friends of Miss Underwood should not wait until the last day but forward their coupons today, to the Daily Ledger.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Commencing Monday, June 5, the Fadette Woman's Orchestra, the musical organization of which Bostonians are so proud, will begin their annual summer engagement at Keith's. This year, as last, there will will be 40 players, and the same style of "popular" selections which were in such great favor last season, will be continued during their coming engagement. The most beautiful scene ever given in a vaudeville theatre will be the setting for the young ladies and it is safe to say that it will create more "talk" than the handsome scenic investiture which they were given last year. The doors of the theatre will not be open until 1.30 and the first concert by the Fadettes will be at approximately 1.45. Among the more notable vaudevillians in the bill will be McIntyre and Heath, blackface comedians, who are making their farewell tour in vaudeville.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

Beginning Monday afternoon, June 5, the Empire theatre, Boston, will inaugurate a summer season of musical comedy, under the immediate direction of Adolphe Mayer, whose artistic and technical knowledge and experience admirably befit this important position.

It is the intention to present, at popular prices, a series of complete productions of those musical comedy successes that have enjoyed the most pronounced and enduring popularity, and to present them in a careful, painstaking manner. The organization that has been effected will number an ensemble of 75 voices, including a chorus of 50 selected from the best of this season's productions, the feminine contingent being particularly attractive, and a full score of clever and well known principals.

"The Belle of New York," by Hugh Morton, (C. S. McLellan) and Gustave Kerker, has been selected as the opening attraction. "The Belle of New York" is a distinctively American work, and its popularity has ever been of the most enthusiastic and sincere kind. The complete producing rights have been secured and scenery, costumes and all accessories will be new.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

A Boston playwright's dramatization of the novel by a couple of Boston men, having its first presentation on a Boston stage before a distinctively Boston audience was the rather unusual combination of circumstances offered at the Hollis St. Theatre last Monday night. The play is "On Satan's Mount" written by Ira B. Goodrich Jr., from Dwight Tilton's novel of the same name. The result is a clever blending of the central themes of money power and the common people with dashes of humorous coloring. The period of the story is the not-distant future and it purports to tell what may occur should the power of concentrated wealth be used to unduly oppress the American people. The play abounds in epigrams which cling to the memory and is full of vitality and action and the characters portrayed are such as are seen every day. The engagement is limited to one week more at the Hollis Street Theatre with the usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The final attraction of the Fall and Winter season at the Castle Square Theatre will be presented next week and will consist of a double bill, the comedy drama by Robertson, "David Garrick," and the play of modern Chinese life, "The First Born." The latter play made a distinct success when produced at Castle Square some seven years ago and in this revival its realistic scenes will be heightened by the introduction of a company of native Chinese players in the smaller parts. "David Garrick" will be played for the first time at this theatre and introduce Lillian Kemble and Howard Hansel and characters that have been assumed by the world's great players in recent years. The regular Summer season at the Castle Square will, as usual, follow immediately that of the Fall and Winter months, beginning on Monday, June 12th.

Cape Cod Attractions.

Of purely ocean scenery and the experiences that belong to ocean shores and surroundings, southeastern Massachusetts presents the finest examples that the United States coasts possess.

Cape Cod, the islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard and Buzzard's Bay shores teem with attractions for ocean-lovers and employments and enjoyments for recreations seekers such as no succession of shores of equal extent can ever rival.

The facilities furnished by the New Haven railroad for reaching these resorts are unexcelled.

FIVE TO THREE.

Shipbuilders Defeat the Sailors

At Association Foot Ball.

But It Was Not a One-Sided Affair.

The closing fixture of the Fore River Association foot ball team for the season of 1904-5 was played Saturday afternoon at Ward Two playground, against a team picked from the crew of the S. S. "Ivernia" at present docked in Boston.

It was rather a unique meeting to find the men who build ships pitted against the men who sail them, and while, as one might naturally expect, the landsmen, by their regular practice of the game, came out winners, the sailors put up a splendid fight, especially in the second half, to make honors even and at one part came very near doing so.

On account of duties on board ship, the visitors were unable to reach Quincy before four o'clock, and shortly after that they appeared on the field, accompanied by a large crowd of their shipmates.

The kick-off was called at 4.30, before a gathering of 500 people, to whom the "Jackies," in their red and black, looked as smart an eleven as has been brought to Fore River this season, and gave them every encouragement throughout the game.

The following line-up took the field:

FORE RIVER.		IVERNIA.
Neill	goal	Wainwright
MacAllister	right back	Fletcher, (capt.)
Connor	right half back	Yates
Lyons (capt.)	centre half back	Orme
MacDevitt	left half back	Campbell
Hendry	outside right forward	Finnegan
D. MacDonald	inside right forward	Smith
J. MacDonald	centre forward	MacDonald
MacEwan	inside left forward	Ross
Forsyth	outside left forward	Conlan

Losing the toss Fore River commenced the attack with the sun in their faces, and very soon Wainright was called on to save his charge. Play continued at the visitors end for some time, but through the efforts of Fletcher and Wright play was transferred to the home goal. Warming up to the game, however, the local men came away with one of their short-passing runs down the field, and Jack McDonald receiving the ball on the 12 yard line, made no mistake about putting it between the posts out of Wainwright's reach.

Resuming, the visitors made a dash into their opponents territory, but Capt. Lyons and his men were all there, and nullified every attempt to encroach on the citadel. It was not long before the continued pressure of the shipbuilders bore fruit, and point two was added to the score by a fine shot from Forsyth.

With a lead of two goals, the local men eased up somewhat, or rather it should be stated, the forwards did so, as the defense was kept busy repelling the attacks of the not-to-be-denied sailors. Fortune however did not seem to wait on them, but appeared to wholly favor the local men, as before half time was called, Billy McEwan brought the score up to 3, and this was unaltered when the whistle blew for the midway breathing spell.

With the change of ends however, a change made its appearance in the play of the visitors, and from being the oppressed, they at once became the oppressors, and this to such good advantage that shortly after resuming play, Finnegan capped a brilliant run with a shot which cleanly beat goal keeper Neil.

New life now seemed to be put into the game and both sides wakened up from their lassitude. Encouraged by their supporters the sailors again got possession of the ball and bore down on the opposing goal, where Ross, getting within range, let drive, but McAllister in his anxiety to stop the ball, unfortunately forgot himself and used his hands and being within the 12 yard line, Referee Fraser promptly awarded a penalty kick to the visitors. Conlan took the kick and scored the second point for his team.

With the score standing at 3 to 2, play now became very lively, and the Fore River began to press as in the early part of the game. The visitors' defense was put to the test, and as was the case at the other end, Capt. Wright used his hands to stop the ball within the penalty area. MacAllister took the kick, and speedily atoned for the goal his foul cost, by sending in a rocket shot which Wainwright had no chance to save.

Resuming, play continued very even and interesting. Then Finnegan once more got command of the ball and ably assisted by MacDonald and Smith, he succeeded in registering No. 3 for his side.

This was more than the locals had anticipated and their efforts, to enlarge their score were redoubled. The ball was kept in "Ivernia's" territory, but shot after shot went wild. Not to be denied, however, they kept up the pressure, and finally Hendry, nipping up the ball almost on the goal line, shot right across the goal mouth, and Forsyth had no difficulty in breasting it through. Time being called shortly after the final score was, Fore River, 5; Ivernia, 3.

A smoker was held after the game, President Hines in the chair, supported by Capt. Wright of the Ivernia team. If outpointed on the field of play, the visitors certainly outclassed the local men in furnishing entertainment at the smoker, and much of the pleasure was contributed by the orchestra of four pieces, which the visitors brought with them. A pleasant meeting was brought to a close with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and with a desire for another meeting of the teams early next season.

FLOATING HOSPITAL.

First Church Sunday School Hear of the Good Work.

The First Church Sunday school session on Sunday was given up mostly to the interests of the Floating Hospital, one of Boston's best charities. The penny collection this year have been devoted to charity, one hundred and twenty-eighty dollars being raised, of which twenty-eight was given to local charity and the remaining hundred is to go to the Floating Hospital to pay one day's expenses of the boat.

Charles H. Johnson, superintendent of the Sunday school, invited John Anderson, superintendent of the Floating Hospital, to come to Quincy and tell the children something of the objects and workings of the Hospital, and after the opening exercises of the school he introduced Mr. Anderson who spoke interestingly for half an an hour.

Mr. Anderson told of the starting of the Hospital by Rev. Rufus B. Tobey of Wollaston. During 1904 over 9000 babies and mothers were cared for, and yet many had to be turned away for lack of accommodation. There is a sad side to the work also, many babies are too ill to get well even with the sea breezes and best of care, and at night on the return of the boat the mother coming with confidence in the recovery of her little one, sometimes is told of its death.

The Hospital steamer not only gives life to sick babies but the mothers who go on the trip are taught sanitation and how to care for the little ones at home, so that not only on the ship is good being done, but also in hundreds of homes. First Church Sunday school is glad to add its mite.

Next Sunday will be children's Sunday, when services will be held in the church at half past ten, the school meeting in the chapel at quarter past ten. Saturday morning the children are asked to bring flowers to decorate the church. The service will be by the children of the school, and then will be an address by Rev. Daniel Munro Wilson, of Northfield, formerly of First church, and a christening of the babies of the parish. A collection will be taken up for the Sunday school picnic which will be held the last Saturday in June.

Japanese Celebration.

Togo's recent naval victory was celebrated Saturday by the Japanese of Boston and vicinity on the spacious grounds of Dr. Harris Kennedy on Blue Hill avenue, Milton. The house and grounds were gaily decorated with Japanese lanterns and at the foot of the hill was a littie open air theatre where the speaking was held. Handsome young ladies served ices, ice cream, pickles, tea and other refreshments.

The program of the afternoon was confined largely to speaking. S. Morimoto presided and the exercises opened with the singing of "America." Then came a toast to the President of the United States which was responded to by Hon. John W. Weeks. After a Japanese song, "Kimigayo," Osborne Howes spoke for "His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of Japan," and Rev. Clay MacCauley, formerly of Washington, spoke of America and Japan.

Then came R. M. Johnston of Harvard and three Japanese speakers, K. Matsuki, A. Shirabama and T. Suzuki.

The list of sports included fancy race with candles, Gekken, meaning fencing, juggling, popular and operatic songs, sword dance, etc. The celebration closed with a lantern procession which was very impressive and picturesque.

Games Wanted.

The Golden Rods of West Quincy would like games with 14-year old teams; the Wollaston Parks preferred.

The Shawmuts of Hall place would like a game with 13-year old teams of Quincy.

GEN. MILES

Guest at Reception of the Quincy Juniors

Sons and Daughters of Revolution.

Says There Are Many Opportunities for Patriotic Work.

Although a Quincy organization entertained Gen. Nelson A. Miles on Saturday, unfortunately the distinguished army man did not come to Quincy. The date for the reception was arranged several weeks ago, little realizing that the repairs at the birthplace of President John Adams were to be made at that time. Rather than postpone the event, it was decided to hold the reception at the State rooms in Boston of the Daughters of the Revolution.

The reception was tendered by John Adams chapter, Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution of Quincy, of which Mrs. Alice Granger of Randolph is director. There was a large attendance of members who had as guests the members of other chapters of Massachusetts and the State officers of the Daughters of the Revolution.

The rooms were prettily decorated with flags, pansies and roses. In the receiving line were Mrs. Adeline F. Fitz, general junior director; Mrs. Alice M. Granger, state junior director; Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Miss Edith M. Littlefield, Miss Louise Monk, Carl Prescott, Miss Louies Burleigh, Miss Helen Lincoln and Ralph Merritt.

An attractive musical and literary program was given at the close of the reception. "America" and "Our Starry Flag," the junior song, were sung. A brief welcome was extended by Mrs. Alice M. Granger. Miss Edith M. Littlefield introduced Gen. Miles and Mrs. Adeline F. Fitz as the speakers of the afternoon.

Gen. Miles spoke of the Pilgrims and said their principles gave us our country, with all its fine possibilities. Many boys, he said, think there is not such opportunities for the patriotic work today as existed in the past, but such opportunities, he declared, are to be found in other directions than on the battlefield, for there never was a time when nobility of thought and purity of purpose were more appreciated than they are today.

He paid a tribute to Mary A. Livermore and to Julia Ward Howe, and in conclusion declared that this is a land where every man is a sovereign and every woman superior to a sovereign.

The young people were very enthusiastic over Gen. Miles' brief talk.

Refreshments were served by the members of the chapter, who also acted as ushers.

The committee of arrangements were Miss Edith M. Littlefield, Miss Louie Monk, Carl Prescott, Miss Louise Burrell, Ralph Merritt, Miss Lora Emerson and Miss Florence Burnham.

Vote Tonight on High School Enlargement Order.

Two public hearings will be given at tonight's meeting of the City Council, one on laying out Charles street at 8 o'clock, and one on North Payne street at 8.15.

The Committee on Ordinances will report correctly engrossed on the order for $65,000 for enlarging the High School, and the question will be on passing the order.

The Committee on Streets will report orders for public hearings on petitions of the New England Telephone Co., and the Committee on Licenses will report upon a number of applications for minor licenses.

The Finance Committee have a number of orders before them, upon which reports may be expected. These include the orders extending Maple place and laying out a part of Upland road.

QUINCY REGATTA.

The Josephine and the Aleppo Take First Honors.

The second race under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club was sailed Saturday afternoon in a good wholesail breeze. There were no boats entered in classes A and B, and no corrected time could be given in Class C as the boats had not been measured.

There was a good list of starters in Class D, all the old rivals coming to the line for another try. The Josephine proved an easy winner on both elapsed and corrected time, and the Hustler a good second.

There were also three starters in the Motor boat class, the honors being carried off by the Aleppo.

REVERE BEACH RUINS

Fully 150,000 Gaze Upon the Work of a Great Fire

Revere, Mass., June 5.—Fully 150,000 people yesterday viewed the ruins left by the big $100,000 fire which wiped out the finest section of Revere beach early yesterday morning.

The buildings all the way from the state bathhouse to the Old Mill building were swept out of existence almost as completely as if a cyclone or a dynamite explosion had removed them.

The extensive ruins presented a strange and almost awe-inspiring spectacle, and thousands gazed all day at the spot where formerly stood big amusement enterprises, a hotel and some smaller residences.

The fire was marked by many thrilling escapes and daring rescues from the Hotel Irving and the adjoining buildings, and some people were injured in the scramble for safety.

Ice Cream and Cake as a Reward

Barton, Vt., June 5.—The streets of Barton Landing were thoroughly cleaned, the grass in public places raked and the entire village made to look bright and fresh by the women, who turned out in large numbers. The committee of the Women's Improvement society met and assigned a certain number of women to each street of the place. The plan worked well. After the last bit of rubbish had been removed, all adjourned to a nearby grove, where ice cream and cake were served to those who helped.

Used Knife and Poison

Cambridge, Mass., June 5.—Augustus Murree stabbed Allen Tyrill, a caller at his home, inflicted three stab wounds upon his wife, Jane Murree, and then drank a large quantity of carbolic acid. All of the persons are negroes. Tyrill's wound is not serious, but Murree and his wife are in a critical condition. Jealousy of Tyrill is alleged to have been the cause of Murree's act.

May Save the Moulton

Pasque Island, Mass., June 5.—The chances of saving the Boston-bound schooner Rebecca J. Moulton, stranded on the "graveyard" shoal in Vineyard sound, seems very encouraging. There is a hole in her starboard bow. Her deckload of yellow pine has been removed to a lighter.

Fell Into the Harbor

Boston, June 5.—Daniel Russell, 50 years old, died while being carried to a hospital last night from the effects of falling into the harbor from a sloop yacht. One of the crew rescued Russell, but he was so exhausted that he died shortly after being placed in an ambulance.

Suicide Is Unknown

Portland, Me., June 5.—A man who gave his name as T. F. Hale and his residence at Boston committed suicide by shooting last evening in a room he had hired but a short time before. There was nothing on his person that would lead to identification.

Centipede Bites Vermont Woman

Rutland, Vt., June 5.—Mrs. S. B. Thomas of Sheldon is in a critical condition as the result of a bite from a common centipede while gardening. The poison shows the same symptoms as a snake bite.

MEN ARE POWERLESS

To Fight Against Disease Unless They Strike at the Underlying Cause.

To treat Dandruff, and Falling Hair, with irritants or oils on which a parasitic germ will prosper, is like scooping water from the ocean to prevent the tide from rising.

You cannot accomplish a satisfactory cure without having a right understanding of the fundamental causes of the trouble.

You must kill the Dandruff Germ.

Newbro's Herpicide does this because it is specially made to do that very thing.

When the germ is removed, the hair has no choice but to resume healthy growth and beauty.

"Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

LIMPED TO MANILA

Admiral Enquist, With Three Cruisers, Eluded Japanese

SHIPS BADLY BATTERED

Forty-One Men of Their Crews Dead as Result of Fight In the Sea of Japan--Attack of Japanese Was Sudden and Savage

Manila, June 5.—Battered and limping, three Russian cruisers, under command of Rear Admiral Enquist, having escaped from the vigilant Japanese attack in the Korean straits, staggered into Manila for refuge, which will be granted to them within the limits of the laws of neutrality.

The American naval board which has examined into the condition of the Russian warships here reports that the Oleg will require 60 days, the Aurora 30 days and the Jemtchug seven days to effect repairs. Admiral Enquist has requested permission to repair here, saying that he would be unable to sail except in a smooth sea, on account of his vessels needing patching near the water line.

The Japanese consul at Manila called on Governor General Wright twice yesterday to make inquiries regarding the disposition of the Russian vessels.

Rear Admiral Train has offered the Russian ships the necessary coal in lieu of 14 days' stay here, but there is a question whether the Russians will be able to carry such quantity of coal on account of their damaged hulls.

The deaths yesterday aboard the Russian ships now bring the total of killed up to 41 and there are five additional cases in the hospital. American navy surgeons are assisting the Russian surgeons in their work of caring for the wounded.

Rear Admiral Enquist now claims that he lost his flagship in the naval fight and then transferred his flag to the Aurora and left the fight Saturday night. He said that he did not know that the fight was continued Sunday. He declared that the Japanese attack was so sudden and ferocious that his section was completely overwhelmed. The ships of his section, while attempting to reach Vladivostok, were at the same time looking for a fight with the Japanese and when they encountered their opponents, fought gallantly.

Rear Admiral Enquist states that the greatest damage done to his ships was when the Japanese were firing at a five-mile range.

Rear Admiral Enquist, accompanied by Rear Admiral Train and the French consul, formally called on Governor General Wright this morning. After the usual greetings had been exchanged, Governor Wright asked:

"Admiral Enquist, do you wish to stay at Manila permanently?"

Rear Admiral Enquist replied: "My ships are unseaworthy. I have not heard from my government and I request time to make repairs."

Governor Wright then said that according to his construction of the neutrality laws the Russian vessels could remain long enough to make necessary repairs, and after these were finished they must leave within 24 hours or dismantle and interne.

Washington Gets Reports

Washington, June 5.—The following cablegram was received at the navy department from Admiral Train, dated at Manila, and was sent immediately to the president:

"Admiral Enquist states that the Aurora and the Oleg are both seriously damaged and are not seaworthy. The Jemtchug is in bad condition. He makes the request to fill up with provisions and coal. Will require 14 days to repair damages. A board has been ordered to examine and report their condition. One hundred and thirty men wounded. Permission has been granted 50 to be landed."

Secretary Taft has received the following cablegram from Governor Wright, dated at Manila:

"Three Russian warships, the Aurora, Jemtchug and Oleg, under command of Admiral Enquist, anchored in Manila bay Saturday evening. One hundred and forty-three wounded. Admiral in command of Asiatic fleet made an inspection and states that they are without coal and supplies and unable to proceed."

Destroyer Towed Into Shanghai

Shanghai, June 5.—The British steamer Buling has arrived here, towing in a Russian torpedo boat destroyer, which was found helpless north of Shawaihan with three crews aboard. She had been drifting for six days with 180 men on board and water sufficient for only one day left and with very little food. The vessel is damaged forward. Her crew has already been transferred to the Russian transport interned at Woosung.

Togo Visits Rojestvensky

Tokio, June 5.—Vice Admiral Togo visited Vice Admiral Rojestvensky at the naval hospital at Sasebo and expressed his sympathy for the admiral's wounds. He praised the desperately courageous fight of the Russians and expressed his hope that Rojestvensky would soon be able to return to Russia. Rojestvensky was deeply moved by the admiral's words and thanked him. He congratulated Japan on the courage and patriotism of her sailors and said it lessened his regret and the sorrow of defeat to know the high character of the victors.

Crowd Wanted Funeral March

St. Petersburg, June 5.—Many persons were injured during a panic in a concert hall at Pavlovsk, near Tsarskoe-Selo, following the appearance of police to quell an uproar arising from the non-compliance of the orchestra with a popular demand that it play a funeral march in honor of the victims of the naval disaster in the Sea of Japan.

Memorial Service In Palace

St. Petersburg, June 5.—The czar and the members of the royal family attended a memorial service at Tsarskoe-Selo yesterday for those who have fallen in the naval battle in the Sea of Japan.

Non-Combatants Must Get Out

St. Petersburg, June 5.—A dispatch received here says that all non-combatants have been ordered to leave Vladivostok.

FRECKLED-FACE GIRLS

Dr Osler Says They Are Amiable and Make Good Wives

Baltimore, June 5.—This is a series of epigrams, hitherto unpublished, by Dr. William Osler:

"Choose a freckled girl for a wife. They are invariably more amiable."

"Punctuality is the only necessary virtue; have this, and all others will be added."

"The odor of bronchiectasis is potent; it bears the Standard Oil strain. John as known to himself and John as known to his Maker are totally different from John as known to us."

"As much pity should be given to a woman's tears as a goose going barefoot."

"Be suspicious of a man with white hair, a dark mustache and a florid complexion; he has served the gods."

"There are incurable cases in medicine, incorrigible vices in divinity and indissoluble cases in law."

"Here is a small boy who will not talk to anyone. He will make a wise man. Do not encourage him to talk."

Alfonso Goes to London

Paris, June 5.—The last day of King Alfonso's sojourn in Paris comprised an ample program, including a service at the Spanish church, a visit to the museum of the Louvre, and the witnessing of the grand steeplechase at Auteuil, where 125,000 persons were present. The day's ceremonies concluded with a dinner given by Foreign Minister Delcasse to the king, who left at midnight on his journey to London. King Alfonso left $5000 for the poor of Paris.

Big Batch of New Laws

Albany, June 5.—The law-making business of New York state for the regular session of 1905 came to an end last night with 760 new laws added to the statute books, as against 750 added last year. At midnight closed the period of 30 days after the adjournment of the legislature, during which time the governor must sign all bills left in his hands—failing which they are dead.

To Discuss Moroccan Reforms

Tangier, June 5.—Mohammed El Torres, the foreign minister, on behalf of the sultan, has invited the representatives of the powers to ask for an international conference at Tangier for the purpose of discussing reforms in Morocco. The members of the diplomatic corps have communicated with their respective governments requesting instructions in the premises.

Governor Mason's Resting Place

Detroit, June 5.—After reposing in a cemetery vault in New York city for many years, the remains of S. T. Mason, first governor of the state of Michigan, were yesterday interred with appropriate ceremonies in a stone-lined grave in Capitol Square park in this city, where stood the state capitol when Mason was the chief executive of Michigan.

In Honor of Bride-to-Be

Berlin, June 5.—All the visiting princes and princesses dined with Emperor William and Empress Augusta last night in honor of Duchess Cecelia and Crown Prince Frederick William, who are to married tomorrow. Altogether 240 persons were present at the dinner. Duchess Cecelia was animated, cordial and unaffected. There were no toasts.

Hoch Sentenced to Death

Chicago, June 5.—Johann Hoch, convicted wife murderer and confessed bigamist, was sentenced by Judge Kersten to be hanged June 23. The case was before Kersten on a motion for a new trial, which was denied, as was a motion praying for a stay of judgment.

Handled Dynamite Carelessly

Biscayne, Fla., June 5.—By the explosion of dynamite five negro convicts at the county camp at Ojus were blown to atoms. The men were serving short sentences on the county roads. Dynamite is used in road building and the negroes had become careless in handling it.

Exposition Building Burned

Milwaukee, June 5.—The Milwaukee exposition building, occupying a city block, was destroyed by fire last evening. The loss is $300,000. The fire is supposed to have been started from an electric light wire.

CITY BREVITIES

Circus week.

Another holiday next week Saturday.

An important meeting of the City Council this evening.

The City Council Committee on Streets go out on a view Tuesday evening.

Less than three weeks more of school for the pupils of the public schools.

A great local game on Saturday next, South Quincys vs. Atlantics, on Ward Three grounds.

It looked very much like a shower Sunday afternoon. Though was needed badly it came not.

The children are anxiously awaiting for Friday to come. The circus will be with us on that day.

The base ball friends of the Granite City club are arranging for another game on the morning of June 17.

Hon. John Shaw was registered at the Ebbitt house, the army and navy headquarters at Washington, on Sunday.

It is the house keepers and the storemen who appreciate to the fullest the street watering. It keeps lots of dust out of house and store.

The graduating exercises of the Quincy grammar schools will take place Friday afternoon, June 23, and of the Quincy High school Wednesday evening, June 28.

Several times petty thieving has been reported at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery. Between Thursday night and Sunday morning a highly prized glass dish and flowers which it contained were stolen from the lot of James W. Pierce. It is surprising what some people will do.

—One of the best places in this city to buy Pillsbury flour is at the corner of Franklin and Water streets. Messrs. Brown & Crowell are selling Pillsbury's best for $6.55 per barrel. Read their notice in today's issue.

Relics of Mexican Conquest

Mexico City, June 5.—Laborers excavating trenches for the underground cable system of the telephone company here uncovered a number of clay utensils, concrete foundations of temples, and pottery covered with hieroglyphics, also Spanish coins, whose dates are undecipherable, but which, mingling with the pottery, induces the supposition that the antiquities found appertain to periods of the conquest, when Cortez razed every building in the Aztec capital.

Patten on Christian Morality

Princeton, N. J., June 5.—In the course of a sermon on Christian morality before the Princeton students, President Patton of Princeton Theological seminary said: "I hate to see a cold-blooded, right-living rascal who has his $40,000,000 and can teach Sunday school regularly and drive his hard bargain every week, always keeping just within the range of the law. If I were asked what I thought of such a man I would say he was lucky not to be in jail."

Special Prey For Flames

Knoxville, June 5.—The ill-fated block of the retail district which has suffered a loss of $2,000,000 by fire in the past eight years was yesterday the scene of another fire which caused a loss of $175,000. The fire broke out in the drygoods, notions and millinery house of M. B. Arnstein & Co.

Hoke Smith's Ambition

Atlanta, June 5.—Hoke Smith, secretary of the interior under President Cleveland and at one time editor of the Atlanta Journal, announces his candidacy for governor of Georgia, subject to the Democratic primary. The primary, which is practically the election, is more than a year off.

Bark Sunk by Warship

London, June 5.—During a fog off Dungeness the British battleship Caesar collided with the British bark Afghanistan. The Afghanistan sank two minutes after the collision. It is feared that 23 men on board the bark were drowned, as only 11 of her crew of 34 were picked up.

NEWS IN BRIEF

John McIntyre, 50 years old, was drowned while fishing in the Wachusett reservoir at Clinton, Mass.

The body of an unknown man, evidently a seaman, was found on the beach at Vineyard Haven, Mass. It is thought that the man fell overboard from some passing vessel.

The Williams college interscholastic athletic meet was won by Drury academy of North Adams, Mass., with a score of 27 1-4 points.

There were six deaths from spotted fever in Boston last week, and 16 from violent causes, both of which figures are in excess of any one week for a long time.

Robert C. Crowell of Worcester, Mass., aged 21, stroke of the University of Pennsylvania 'varsity crew, died of typhoid fever. He had been ill more than three weeks.

During a fire at Buxton, Me., which destroyed a number of small wooden buildings several dwelling houses in the vicinity were set on fire by sparks.

Brigadier General Davis has been reappointed judge advocate general of the army for a term of four years.

All attempts of fishing steamers to reach the Labrador coast have been futile, owing to the immense ice blockade, masses of floes obstructing the whole seaboard.

TALKED ON PEACE

President and German Ambassador In Conference

ASSISTANCE OF EUROPE

Diplomatic Activity at Washington Shows That the Course Pursued by Roosevelt Will Have Ample Endorsement

Washington, June 5.—Baron Speck Von Sternburg, the German ambassador, spent two hours in conference with President Roosevelt at the White House last night. As he left the White House at 11 o'clock the ambassador said he could not discuss the subject of his talk with the president, as it related to matters of entirely confidential character.

There is every reason to believe, however, that much of the time was occupied with a discussion of the general question of the war between Russia and Japan and the possibility of peace. The ambassador, in response to a direct question regarding the prospects of peace, said that so far as he knew there had been no progress in that direction in the past 24 hours.

Shortly after 9 Saturday night Kogoro Takahira, Japanese minister, called at the White House by appointment. He was immediately received by the president, and a long conference followed. Later Minister Takahira was seen, but beyond intimating that he and the president had a general talk on the whole war situation, he had nothing to say about the conference. He did not appear to be concerned about the presence of the Russian ships at Manila.

Saturday night's conference following so closely the visit of Count Cassini it was naturally inferred that the president took occasion to communicate to Takahira the views of Russia as presented by Cassini at the conference with him Friday.

Diplomatic activity in Washington indicates that the European powers are prepared to assist the president in any efforts he may make in the interest of peace, and it is learned that the German emperor heartily shares the earnest wish of President Roosevelt for an early ending of the war. Neither the president nor the emperor, however, is ambitious to assume the role of peacemaker, although anxious to do all that is possible to assist Russia and Japan to enter upon peace negotiations as soon as practicable.

From information received here it is believed that the King of Italy can be relied upon to cast his influence for peace and the long conference of Baron des Planches, Italian ambassador, with Count Cassini, after the latter's call at the White House, is but one of several evidences of the activity of the king's envoy at Washington in the interest of peace.

Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador, in a visit to the White House, placed the president in possession of the views of King Edward, who would welcome an early peace. The views of the French government are known to be of a similar character.

Several of the more prominent diplomats were enabled to cable their governments the general features of the conference between the president and Count Cassini.

No official word has reached Washington regarding the probable attitude of the czar toward the ending of the war. Meantime exchanges are in progress between Washington, Berlin, London, Rome and Paris regarding the whole situation, and an entirely informal discussion is taking place as to what will be the best measures to adopt when Russia has had the opportunity fully to realize her situation.

It is fully expected here that weeks may elapse before Russia decides upon her course. Until Count Cassini has had some reply to his cablegram to his government and is in a position to speak authoritatively and officially upon the subject of peace, it is improbable that he will have another conference with the president.

Roosevelt's Efforts Appreciated

St. Petersburg, June 5.—President Roosevelt's tender of his good offices to bring about peace is received with general favor in the press and by the public and a desire that some steps should be taken towards securing an honorable peace is increasingly manifest. It is declared that the president's offer should be commended as an act of friendship tending to bring out Japan's terms of peace and Russia's acceptance of an offer which would not mean surrender on humiliating terms.

Settlement Still Far Away

Chicago, June 5.—Adjustment of the teamsters' strike by mediation seems as remote as it did two months ago. Peace negotiations have been abandoned for the present, and the strike will be allowed to take its "natural course," according to President Shea of the teamsters' organization. All the business firms now involved in the trouble refuse to concede anything further in the controversy, which they now regard as a thing of the past.

Grand Outing For Newsboys

New York, June 5.—Four thousand newsboys enjoyed an outing at Rockaway beach Sunday as the guest of Jackson Wallace, a lawyer of Brooklyn. Rev. N. D. Hillis of Plymouth church delivered a sermon to the boys on the beach and other addresses were made. The addresses were followed by a shore dinner and the rest of the day was devoted to sightseeing and sports.

TO TEST EFFICIENCY

Artillery and Navy to Engage In Hide and Seek Game

DAY AND NIGHT ATTACK

Defenses of Chesapeake Bay, Washington and Baltimore Will Put Up Bloodless Fight Against Sixteen Warships

Washington, June 5.—Sixteen warships will attack the defenses of Washington and Baltimore at midnight, June 11, and continue their offensive operations for six days and nights. Meanwhile the fortresses along Chesapeake bay and the Potomac river, constituting the artillery districts of the Chesapeake, Washington and Baltimore, will put forth every defense of which they are capable. With it all the struggle is to be bloodless, practically noiseless, devoid of the spectacular and intensely interesting only to the army and navy experts, who are playing the game and know the constructive effect of the unloaded mines and the empty shells.

These exercises are to constitute the only joint operations of the army and navy during the year. They have been designated "joint exercises" to distinguish them from the more elaborate program of "combined army and navy maneuvers," which was first planned, but which failed of approval for lack of an adequate appropriation from congress. The operations are to be conducted under rules which have been agreed upon by a joint board of army and navy officers. Considerable importance is attached to the distinction between maneuvers and joint exercises. Maneuvers are held to apply to operations where actual war conditions are simulated, while exercises mean only that certain prescribed problems are to be attempted.

In the present instance the object of each of several forms of attack by the navy will be to demonstrate the strength or weakness of some particular phase of the defense. The results will be known only at the conclusion of the exercises and then known only to the proper authorities. This precaution is emphasized as important that the character and strength of the various defenses may not become known to possible enemies of the country.

None of the ships of the navy will be ruled out of the action by the umpires and none of the guns of the fortifications will be declared silenced.

From the information obtainable the program first contemplates the test of Fortress Monroe. Expert artillery opinion has long held that this fortress is the principal defense of the Chesapeake and consequently the cities of Washington and Baltimore. Her big guns are said to cover the channel completely and, together with the mine fields, to constitute a barrier that would be impassable to any hostile fleet. This mine field has been extended for the present exercises, the garrison has been doubled and extra drills in the manipulation of the artillery have been in daily progress for some time and will be kept up until the date of the exercises.

The "hostile" fleet has been assembled under command of Rear Admiral Dickins and with his flagship, the Texas, is now lying at Annapolis. On June 10 Admiral Dickins will hold his last communication with shore. He will not divulge his plan or place of first attack, but it is the supposition that he will put out to sea, having technically established a base at Norfolk. His squadron consists of one battleship, two protected cruisers, five monitors, the old line cruiser Hartford and four torpedo boat destroyers.

Anchor is to be weighed June 8 and from then on a fascinating game of hide and seek will be indulged in between the artillery and the navy, that the whereabouts of the ships may be definitely known at midnight of June 11.

It is expected that the night attacks are to ascertain the efficiency of the searchlights of the fortifications and also to give the navy exercise in constructively making these lights dark. Actual experience has demonstrated that it is most difficult to hit a searchlight and, incidentally, most difficult to navigate a ship on which a searchlight has been turned, the effect of the light being to blind the navigators as well as the gunners. To render this exercise the more effective, the ships of the squadron have been painted four colors—eight are white, three war color, one black and the others dark green. Artillery fire will be directed on the ships as they are picked up by the lights, but for this exercise the mines are not regarded as in existence.

Tabulated observations of what has been accomplished on each side are to be made by the umpires and observers. None of the big guns of the navy will be fired; neither will the big guns of the fortifications be heard. These guns on both sides, however, will be trained on the target the same as in actual warfare and their fire will be indicated by the discharge of a blank cartridge in a one-pounder. This is in the interest of economy.

Multi-Millionaire Dead

Chicago, June 5.—Peter L. Kimberley, a wealthy miner, died here of apoplexy. Mr. Kimberley's wealth is estimated at $10,000,000. He was a pioneer in copper mining in the Lake Superior region. When not attending to his mining interests he lived at Sharon, Pa., where he was born 59 years ago.

Blew Up House and Himself

New York, June 5.—After a quarrel with his wife in their cottage at Evergreens, John Zeller went out, threatening to return and blow up the whole family. When he was seen coming back a little later, carrying what appeared to be a stick of dynamite, Mrs. Zeller fled out of the back door. A moment later an explosion completely wrecked the house. Zeller's mangled body was found in the ruins. A son who was in the house when the explosion occurred escaped with slight injuries.

Libel Suit Against Shea

Chicago, June 5.—President Shea of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters was arrested on a charge of criminal libel preferred by Robert J. Thorne. Thorne, in addition to making the charge of criminal libel, asks for damages to the amount of $25,000 from Shea. The suit is based on statements Shea is said to have made to the effect that he had been offered $10,000 by Thorne to call a strike against Sears, Roebuck & Co. Thorne denies all of the alleged statements.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The W. R. C. has presented the Wollaston school with a silk American flag.

John Adams commandery, Knights of Malta, will have a strawberry festival Thursday evening.

Mrs. Mary E. Powers of Washington street will entertain the Brownie whist club on Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Bessie McCarty of Marlboro was the guest of Mrs. Jennie McCarty of Beale street, Wollaston, the past week.

A barber shop has been opened at Norfolk Downs which proves a great convenience to the people of that vicinity.

Goffe street now that it has been put in good shape needs frequent visits from the watering cart to continue the good work.

Miss M. Lillie Taber of Quincy avenue has returned from a pleasant visit spent with relatives and friends at Newport, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Burgess of Whitney road take up their summer residence at Rose Cliff, North Weymouth, this week.

The engagement of J. Henry Glidden of Quincy Point and Miss Elizabeth Wesley of Kennebunk, Me., has been announced, the past week.

Albert Keating of Washington street, who has been seriously ill the past few weeks, is slowly improving, and was able to walk out on Saturday.

One of the census enumerators found six different nationalities in one house, so some idea of the difficult work of taking the census are apparent.

Mrs. Emma E. Marnock of Bennington street has been appointed for the second term District Deputy of Waverly lodge, K. and L. of H., of Charlestown.

It has been asked if there is anything that could be done to keep the clock on the Universalist church up to time. It is generally four or five minutes behind hand. A few minutes ahead of time would better please the public.

Among the expert autoists of the city who has explored all the territory of eastern Massachusetts, is Fred W. Austin of Chestnut street, the superintendent of the Quincy Electric Light Company. Sunday, with guests, he visited most of the South Shore towns, including Hingham, Cohasset, Scituate and Marshfield. He seldom has an accident and when he does, he is master of the situation. He has a good machine.

The Ladies' Physiological Institute of Boston, probably the oldest woman's club in Massachusetts, is to visit Quincy on Thursday for their June outing. They have always been guests of Mrs. Marion MacBride at Arlington but this year she asked the club to come to Quincy. They will meet at First church at half past ten and visit all the places of historical interest after which they will go to North Weymouth to the home of Mr. James MacBride.

The McKenna residence is much improved by its new coat of paint.

Miss Bernice Kindred of Worcester spent the week end with Miss Ruth Bassett of Walker street.

L. C. Hewson, wife and daughter, of Newcomb place, left Friday for a few weeks' rest at Nova Scotia.

The Smart Set whist club took an all-day trip to Marblehead on Saturday and had a delightful time.

Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, attended holy communion in a body at St. John's church on Sunday.

The Adams school building reopened this morning after being closed several days on account of diphtheria.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burgin were entertained over Sunday by Dr. A. E. Angier at "Oak Knoll," Marion.

Quincy members of the Ancients are in Boston today for the annual parade, church service, election and banquet.

Mrs. Annie B. Arnold of Elm street is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Curtis at Marshfield.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Talbot and W. G. Comey of Greenleaf street, leave Tuesday for a month's visit at Addison, Maine.

Miss Nellie O'Dowd severed her connection as book keeper with Julius Johnson on Saturday and has accepted a position in Boston.

Miss Mary Webb Dinegan, daughter of John H. Dinegan of School street, will be one of the 38 to graduate from the Vassar college with high honors.

The new house on Botolph street is donning its colors a bit late for Saint Patrick's day. Such a shade of green ought to make the good old saint's ghost quiver with appreciation.

The Houghs Neck hose wagon was called out on a still alarm Sunday evening for a slight fire in a cottage on Island avenue caused by a shelf drapery taking fire from a lamp.

E. W. Branch, who has resumed private practice as a civil engineer, has acquired control of the plans and equipment of H. T. Whitman, and will have his office in the Adams building.

Henry Taylor who is shortly to leave for Grand Rapids, Mich., where he will make his home in the future, held an informal reception Sunday afternoon attended by a number of his friends.

The illustrated lecture of Rev. L. B. Tenney at Bethany church Sunday evening was a most interesting and instructive one. He took his audience on a cruise through the Mediterranean and to the Holy Land.

The Herald reports that Mr. Henry Brooks Adams of Washington, who is an older brother of Mr. Brooks Adams of Quincy, with General Porter and others, took luncheon with Secretary Hay in Paris on Sunday, May 28. Then the party was taken on an automobile ride in the Bois de Boulogne.

While Mr. and Mrs. Charles Furnald of Roxbury, accompanied by his uncle N. B. Furnald and Miss Furnald were on their way to Houghs Neck, near the Adams farm, on Sunday, the connecting rod on their automobile broke, shaking up the occupants, but fortunately no one suffered serious injury. Through the kindness of a gentleman who came along at that time, a horse was procured and the damaged car was drawn to the residence of N. B. Furnald.

A Surprise Coming.

It is not the intention of the committee working for Miss Underwood in the Herald contest to forward many votes until the last week of the contest, when her total will surprise both her friends and her rivals.

While some candidates believe in forwarding every vote as quick as received, it has been the policy of the friends of the Quincy candidate to roll up a reserve vote.

Some day this week, perhaps tomorrow, a coupon good for five votes will be printed, and the last coupon, on Sunday next, will be good for ten votes. Quincy people must now be alert and win.

Funeral of Old Cracksman

New York, June 5.—"Jimmy" Hope, the old-time bank burglar, was followed to his grave in Woodland cemetery by a procession of 30 carriages in which were many men prominent in political and sporting circles. The little flat in which Hope died was thronged with mourners and around the coffin were numerous floral offerings.

Irish Exposition Coming

New York, June 5.—An Irish exposition is to be given here in September for the benefit of the Hibernian institute building to be erected in this city. Scores of woodworkers, stoneworkers, weavers and other workmen will be brought from Ireland. There will also be Irish dramas, concerts and dancing contests.

Relics of Bygone Days

Bloomington, Ills., June 5.—Notable discoveries of relics of the mound builders have been made by N. D. McEvers, near Montezuma, on the Illinois river. In a mound about 80 feet in height he excavated many implements of war, with fully 1250 discs of flint, each about three or four inches in size.

SATURDAY GAMES.

South Quincys Win from Boston Unions.

Merrymounts Defeat Dorchesters.

Other Contests on the Local Diamonds.

South Quincy won her second game, by defeating the Boston Unions on Saturday on the Ward Three grounds by a score of 11 to 5.

The South Quincy batsmen solved Foley's delivery in the third inning and hit him freely for six hits and scored five runs, and in the sixth touched him up for five more hits and scored four more runs. The features of the game was the pitching of Patterson, allowing only five hits; home runs by Jack Duffy and James Birnie; and the fielding of Tim Callahan of the visiting team.

The Merrymounts won from the strong New Dorchester team at Merrymount Park on Saturday in one of the most interesting games of the season by the score of 9 to 8.

The visitors were the first to score. In the third inning they made four runs on three hits and three errors. They scored again in the seventh and in the ninth by clean hitting and daring base running they added three more.

The Merrymounts did not score until the fifth. Weston, the first man up got his base on balls, Taylor neatly sacrificed him to second, Donaher beat out a bunt. Baker then drove the ball over the right fielder's head for a home run. Cole followed with a single, and scored on Osgood's out and an error.

Merrymount scored four more in the eighth. Atkins singled and was forced by Kolson. Weston singled, scoring Kolson, but Weston overran second and was thrown out. Taylor, Donaher, Baker and Cole all hit safely, but Cole was out trying for second.

In the ninth with the score a tie, Osgood the first man up got a life on Ewing's wild throw, and scored on Bennett's sharp drive to left.

Features of the game were the fielding of Osgood and Cole, and Baker's long hit.

The Sacred Heart base ball club of Atlantic defeated the Hurons of Boston by a score of 23 to 5 on the Atlantic playground on Saturday afternoon.

Field Day Honors.

Many High school boys were surprised to find the full summary of the field meet in the Daily Ledger on Saturday because it was nearly 2 o'clock before the games were over. The Ledger went to press about 2.30 and one boy obtained a copy on his way home from the games.

The revised figures give the honors to the class of 1905 with 43 points. The class of 1906 won 24, and the class of 1907 won 32, while the class of 1908 did not win a point.

The class of 1907 was first in as many events as the class of 1905—four each—while the class of 1906 led in three events. The fact that the class of 1905 won points in every event without exception was what won the honors for them.

The class of 1905 won the 100 yard run, the 220 yard run, the 120 yard hurdle race, and in putting the shot.

The class of 1907 won the mile run, the running broad jump, throwing the hammer, and throwing the base ball.

Gram of 1905 won the highest individual honors, 24 3-4 points, while Jordon of 1906 was second with 16 1-4 points.

The judges were S. B. Southworth, L. E. French and W. C. Bennett; the time keepers, W. R. Parker and E. R. Hall; the starter, P. F. Parsons, and the scorer, H. C. Hallowell.

Held for Perjury.

Arthur P. Johnson, a government witness in the Edgar Hayden liquor case of Braintree, which was heard before Judge Avery in the district court this morning, was held for the grand jury in the sum of $200 for per jury.

TODAY'S COURT.

William E. Haskel was fined $10 for speeding an automobile at the Blue Hills reservation.

Patrick Kiley was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John P. Moran and William Jackson were arraigned for violation of the by-laws of Weymouth, by playing ball on Sunday. They were fined $2 each.

Robert J. Marrow was arraigned for keeping a tenement used for gaming. Case continued until Friday.

Warren B. Bearce, Patrick J. Hyland, Francis J. Harrington and John Lonergan were arraigned for being present at an unlawful game of cards at Weymouth. Bearce, Hyland and Harrington were also arraigned for playing cards for money. Cases continued until Friday.

James McNulty and Thomas Hughes were fined $3 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

Edgar Hayden and Abel Thayer of Braintree were fined $50 each for violation of the liquor law.

Arthur P. Johnson a government witness in the Hayden case was held in $200 for the grand jury for perjury.

A BOLD FORAGER.

How a Predatory Soldier In Sherman's Army Fooled His Colonel.

"During Sherman's march from Raleigh to Richmond," said one of Sherman's brigadiers, "the orders were that we must not forage off the country through which we passed, but the men frequently broke the rule. One evening just before pitching camp we passed a flock of sheep, which created quite a commotion among my men. I turned and gave a very sharp order for them to maintain their places in the ranks, which, of course, had the effect that I desired. Next morning there was mutton on my table for breakfast, and I knew then that some one had managed to secure a sheep.

"The man who started out late that night with his rifle for the locality where he had seen the sheep during the day met his own colonel making the rounds. He straightened up as though doing patrol duty, and, as the colonel came up, halted him and demanded the countersign, which the colonel gave. The colonel eyed him a trifle suspiciously on passing, asking, 'On patrol duty, are you?' The man answered very promptly and properly. The colonel passed on, while this shrewd person, armed with the countersign (to which he was not entitled), had no difficulty in passing all the other pickets and patrols and reaching the sheepfold, where he shot and skinned the largest and fattest animal that he could find. Being in possession of the countersign, he, of course, had no trouble in getting back to camp."—Washington Post.

ORIGIN OF MEMORIAL DAY.

General Joseph Wheeler claims that General Logan's attention when, on May 5, 1868, as commander of the Grand Army of the Republic he issued the first order in regard to keeping green the memory of the brave "boys in blue," had no doubt been called to the custom of the southern people of annually setting apart a day to pay reverence to those who sacrificed their lives for a principle that was dearest and nearest to their hearts.

"The women of the south," says General Wheeler, "were ever assiduous in their care of the resting places of their dead, perhaps because of the customs peculiar on this side of the Atlantic to Mobile and New Orleans, where on All Souls' day each year the cemeteries were carpeted with untold myriads of rare and costly flowers strewn by devoted hands over the graves of the beloved dead."

April 26 was the day set apart by a consent spontaneous in its universal adoption. Alabama's and Georgia's first public Memorial day was in 1866.

"Women, and women alone," says General Wheeler, "inaugurated the custom. Men, more reserved in their expression of the sentiments of their hearts, might permit their departed comrades quietly to become a part of general history, but women would not have it so. The southern states fell quickly into line, and then the custom found its way into the northern states."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

General Grant's Cigar Case.

Private Harmon Brown of Cincinnati, one time military secretary to General Grant, has in his possession a cigar and a cigar case which General Grant carried over forty years ago. A package arrived at the general's headquarters one day, and Brown opened it in the presence of Grant. In the top of the package was a box of choice cigars, and with it was a fine cigar case.

Grant looked at both for a second, and then said, with a smile, "Fill it, Brown." His military secretary filled the case with cigars from the box and handed them to the general. He started to put the case in his pocket and found his own already there. Extracting the old case, which still contained one cigar, Grant handed them to his secretary and said, "Take the case and have a smoke." Brown took them, but instead of smoking the cigar carefully preserved both. He has them now.—St. Louis Republic.

What the Bishop Said.

As is well known, General Leonidas Polk of the Confederate army was a bishop of the Episcopal church. His great friend, General Cheatham, on the other hand, was renowned for the freedom of his language. His favorite expression to his men on going into battle was, "Give 'em hades, boys!" General Gordon writes in his autobiography: "On one occasion as the bishop general rode along his lines when they were charging the works in front and as the rebel yell rang out his natural enthusiasm carried him for the moment off his balance. In the exhilaration of the charge the bishop was lost in the soldier, and he shouted: 'Give it to 'em, boys! Give 'em what General Cheatham says!'"—Chicago News.

The First Civil War Monument.

To the little town of Tipton, Franklin county, Mich., belongs the distinguished honor of erecting the first monument built by public subscription in the United States in memory of those who fell in the civil war, says the Rev. E. B. Allen in the Christian Endeavor World. The funds for its erection, $1,500, were raised by four subscriptions of $50 each and the rest by contributions of $1.

An Episode With Cupid.

One Decoration day I went,
With reminiscent mind,
Where General Dan Cupid lay
So tenderly enshrined.
Of course I knew where he reposed,
No more to shoot his darts,
For I had buried him myself
Deep in my heart of hearts.
So mournfully I sought his tomb,
As is the way of men.
I laid my tribute there, when, lo,
He sprang to life again!

SINGULAR LAW.

Reed Estate May Not Go As Bequeathed.

Quincy Relatives Will Then Receive Larger Legacies.

The will of Mrs. Simeon G. Reed, a sister of the late John Wood of Quincy, is being contested. Mrs. Reed died in Pasedena, California, May 16, 1904, and left an estate estimated from three to five millions of dollars, the bulk of it to institutions at Portland, Oregon, their former residence.

Mrs. John Wood of Quincy was with Mrs. Reed at the time of her death, but received a bequest of only $5,000, and her son and daughter received similar bequests. Whether they are the contestants does not appear, but it is probable that they are, as the children of Mrs. Wood are among the nearest relatives.

"It is seldom that the relations of a person who has a property and makes a will are willing to acquiesce in the disposition of the property made by the testator. They who suppose themselves heirs at law think they ought to inherit the property which they did nothing to accumulate. To them it matters not what the wish of the testator was. Their relative was beloved, not for his character or wishes, but for the estate he left behind.

"S. G. Reed and wife were early citizens of Portland. The state of his health took him to the milder climate of Southern California. Before he could make the disposition of his property that he had intended, he was taken away by death, leaving everything to his wife. As the years drew on she made a will, by which she directed that large part of the property was to be devoted to a public use, in educational lines. The couple had no children. But the estate was a large one, and Mrs. Reed, in her will, generously remembered the relations of herself and of her husband—dedicating, however, large portion of the estate to the foundation and support of an educational institute at their home in Portland.

"But there is a law of California which forbids a testator to devote more than one-third part of his or her estate to any charitable or public use. It is an old law, framed apparently on the idea that it was necessary to curb the disposition to make bequests to ecclesiastical bodies, under whose influence the testator might be. Now, in order to make the claim upon the Reed estate, the contestants of the will of Mrs. Reed have assumed that she was a resident of California and, therefor, that disposition of her property must follow the law of that state. But in fact the Reeds were citizens of Oregon and residents of this state. They were simply visitors in California, and their sojourn there was only temporary domiciliation in that state, for climatic change. Their home, as they always said, was Oregon, to which they returned with frequency; and both are buried here.

"The Reeds left a large estate. It was accumulated in Oregon, through an active business career, beginning in early pioneer times. They were loyal to Oregon, and wished the bulk of the estate to be employed here, in perpetuity, for the worthy public purpose indicated in the will dictated by Mrs. Reed, who, as the survivor of her husband, knew his intent as she knew her own. But the assumption of the contestants of the will, that the Reeds had become citizens of California, would, if allowed, tie up the will, defeat the intent of the testators, divert the property accumulated in Oregon from the public purposes to which they devoted it, and perhaps waste large part of it through prolonged litigation.

"The technical ground on which the will is contested surely cannot hold. It ought not to hold, certainly; for this couple, man and wife, whose active lives were spent here, whose estate was made here, who had that degree of remembrance and love of Oregon which caused them to enjoin that they should be buried here and the bulk of their estate devoted to beneficent purposes in the community where they accumulated it, should not be defrauded of their intent, either by the greed of contestants or by figment of law."

Mrs. A. W. Reed, who died in Pasadena, California, in May 1904, left an estate valued at about $5,000,000. She bequeathed $2,000,000 to found an institute to combine instruction in the fine arts and sciences and manual training, to be conducted with especial regards to the need of young men and women compelled to earn their own living.

Mrs. Reed was not known to the present generation very well, having left Quincy in the early '60s. She was the daughter of the late Henry Wood and was born in Quincy 72 years ago.

Her husband was Simeon Reed of North Abington, who came to Quincy in the '50s and bought out the grain business of the late Henry Souther, who left here about that time for California. Mr. Souther owned a grain store at the corner of Washington and Coddington streets, and the old tide grist mill at the foot of Mill street.

After Mr. Reed took control of the business John A. Wood went to work for him, and in this way Mr. Reed became acquainted with Mr. Wood's sister, Amanda W., whom he afterward married. It was generally understood that Mr. Reed was worth considerable money when he came to Quincy. A few years after his marriage Mr. Reed went to Oregon, where he invested his money with success.

Besides a fine estate in Oregon, Mr. Reed also owned a valuable estate in Pasadena, Calif. For many years he was accustomed to spend his winters in New York city. He died several years ago. So far as known in this city he had no children.

Mrs. John A. Wood of this city, who went to Oregon in 1903, was with Mrs. Reed when the latter died in Pasadena.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Italian at Shipyard Crushed to Death by Box.

Dimoso Labatino, an Italian employed at the Fore River Shipbuilding plant, was instantly killed Monday by being crushed by a heavy box of machinery falling upon him.

He was engaged in unloading heavy boxes of machinery from a car to the elevator when one of them slipped and fell upon him, crushing out his life.

The remains were viewed by Medical Examiner Jones. Labatino was 31 years of age and is said to have a wife in Italy. He boarded at 31 Winter street.

A Family Affair.

The last of a series of musicales given by Mrs. Laura T. Tirrell not long since entertained thirty in number, nearly all being her own family. Two generations were present, grandma, children and grandchildren, singing together "Nearer My God to Thee" and other familiar airs. J. H. French gave a Mother Goose sermon, the man in our town. The subject of its criticism with fine effect. Mr. Jesse F. Curtis grave a comic recitation which caused an uproar of laughter. Master Harold sang very sweetly "In the shade of the old apple tree." Mr. William Winsor gave a sermon on "Old Mother Hubbard," by riddle showing great dramatic power. Mrs. Henry Tirrell sang two numbers in a charming manner. Mrs. Laura Tirrell gave one number, also a duet with sister Gurney with songs of childhood days. After serving ices they all prounounced it the most enjoyable of the season of 1905.

Hickey Case Fatal.

John Hickey of Wollaston, who was taken to the City Hospital some fourteen weeks ago, suffering with cerebro-spinal meningeis, died Monday.

When Hickey was taken to the Hospital he was given the anti-toxine treatment, 10,000 units being injected. For a time he continued to improve, and it was thought that he was on the road to recovery when he begun to fail, until he passed away. He was 21 years of age and unmarried. The burial was held Monday afternoon at St. Mary's cemetery.

Order In City Council Must Have Sixteen Votes.

The High school enlargement order did not come to a vote at Monday night's meeting of the City Council as only seventeen members answered to the roll call. The absent members were Councilmen Adams, Barry, Burgess, Chamberlin, Hynes and Sawyer.

SEWER NEEDED.

A communication was received from the Board of Health setting forth the need of connecting the Adams school with the sewer. To Committee on Public Buildings.

LICENSES.

A number of petitions for minor licenses were received and referred. Those for license to keep and sell fireworks were laid on the table until later in the evening when they were granted.

The Committee on Licenses reported upon a number of applications for minor licenses.

REPORTS.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing June 19, on the petition of the N. E. T. & T. Co. for permission to attach wires to poles on Walnut street. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing July 3 on the petition of the N. E. T. & T. Co. for a location for poles on Granite street. Adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported favorable on the order for $800 for a gravel sidewalk on Beach street. To Ordinance Committee.

The Committee on Finance reported favorable on the order for $800 for laying out a part of Upland Road. To Ordinance Committee.

HIGH SCHOOL ENLARGEMENT.

The Committee on Ordinance reported correctly engrossed on the order for building an addition to High school.

Councilman Stone moved to lay on the table.

Councilman Loud asked reason.

Councilman Stone replied because there should be a full meeting when the matter was taken up. It was necessary every one favorable to the order should be present to secure passage.

Councilman Polk favored the motion, and Councilman Piper opposed.

Motion voted and doubted. Verification showed 9 voting in the affirmative, and 7 in the negative.

EVERETT STREET.

Upon motion of Councilman Polk the Council referred back to petitions and Councilman Polk offered a petition for the acceptance of Everett street. To Committee on Streets.

A SIDEWALK.

Councilman Gassett offered an order for $500 for a gravel sidewalk on the northerly side of Billings road. To Committee on Streets.

A public hearing was held on laying out Charles street. No one appeared for or against and the hearing closed, when the order was recommitted.

Upon motion of Councilman Loud it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be for one week.

ORDERS PASSED.

The following orders took their second reading and were passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules.

Granting the New England Tel. & Tel. Co. locations for 1 pole on Granite and 9 poles on Quarry streets, for 7 poles on Warren avenue, for 24 poles on Quarry street, for 1 pole on Granite street, to attach wires to poles on Granite street, to attach wires to poles on South Central avenue, and to attach wires to poles on Hall place.

Granting Quincy Electric Light & Power Co., locations for 3 poles on Federal avenue, and for 4 poles on Presidents avenue.

NORTH PAYNE STREET.

A public hearing was held on laying out North Payne street.

Edward H. McGinty favored. At present there was a narrow passage way to Franklin street. This was simply to widen that passage and lay it out and light it. It was now very dark. It can be done with but little cost.

John J. Byron favored. It was a deplorable condition that should not be allowed to exist. There were some land damages and the moving of a barn. The main street is all built upon. There was considerable travel through this street. It was disagreeable going through this street at night. There was a condition here that should not exist any longer.

Judge George W. Kelley of Rockland appeared for the Cutting heirs. The plan takes off a strip ten feet wide. It also takes away every tree on the north side. Any owner would prefer ten feet of grass rather than a street or sidewalk. If it is thought they will be satisfied with only the assessed value, it will be found that they will not.

Councilman Bass asked if the heirs will claim damages. Judge Kelley replied yes.

In reply to further questions, Judge Kelley said he understood the heirs of the Cutting property were James M. Cutting and Ina G. Cutting.

John D. McKay, Esq., representing Mrs. Kincaide, opposed. The way was already wide enough for public necessity. It was not necessary to make it a public street. Then it would remove fruit and shade trees. It would depreciate her property and no money the city could pay would satisfy her.

The hearing closed and the order was recommitted.

Adjourned at 8.40 to meet June 12.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

THE BRALEY MYSTERY

Incident Which Police Hope May Throw Some Light on It

Canaan, N. H., June 6.—Frank Tobine, a farmhand in the employ of August Braley, was placed under arrest here on a warrant sworn out by his employer, charging assault and battery. Tobine will be taken to Grafton and given a hearing.

The assault is said to have taken place at the Braley farm, during which, the police state, Tobine declared he would put Braley "where the baby was." A child of Mr. and Mrs. Braley mysteriously disappeared some six weeks ago, and no trace of it has been found, although diligent search has been made of the neighborhood by the authorities and private parties.

The police, who are again investigating the matter, are hoping that the hearing at Grafton may lead to an unravelling of the mystery surrounding the child's disappearance.

Interesting Race of Coasters

Boston, June 6.—An interesting ocean race from the capes of the Chesapeake to this port between six of the fastest schooners in the coastwise coal fleet was won by the six-master George W. Wells of Bath, Me., which arrived in the harbor early this morning. The fleet left Cape Henry between 7 and 9 o'clock Friday morning. The Wells, which got away in the lead, was apparently never headed, although the run up the coast was not made in very fast time.

Hamlin Leaves State Committee

Gloucester, Mass., June 6.—Chairman Flaherty of the Democratic state committee has received the resignation of Charles S. Hamlin of Boston as a member of the state committee. Flaherty declines to say whether Hamlin has ascribed any reason for his withdrawal. Hamlin has been one of the most active workers on the state committee for many years. During Cleveland's administration Hamlin was assistant secretary of the treasury.

Unable to Furnish Sureties

Bar Harbor, Me., June 6.—Charles A. Weaver was arraigned in court here, charged with assault with intent to kill Martin Davis on May 20. Weaver is said to have shot Davis in the mouth, inflicting wounds that ordinarily would have proved fatal, but Davis is now practically out of danger. Weaver pleaded not guilty and was held in the sum of $8000, which he was unable to furnish.

Householder Had Gun Ready

South Allentown, N. H., June 6.—Robert McConnell discovered someone trying to open a window in the back of his house and fired. The man, who proved to be Alexander Raymond, dropped to the ground with a bullet wound in his leg. He was arraigned in the local court on a charge of attempting to enter and in default of $500 bail was committed to jail.

Robbed of Cash and Check

Boston, June 6.—Lillian M. Walsh, a clerk in the employ of Cobb, Yerxa & Co., was robbed of $110 in cash and a check for $5.85 in broad daylight. She was walking down Washington street at about 12:30 and had in her hand a bag containing the money. At the corner of Corning street she was met by two young men, who snatched the bag and ran away.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. MUST BE INTERNED

Russian Vessels at Manila Cannot Leave That Port

ARE TO BE DISMANTLED

Drastic Application of Principles of International Law--Vessels Not Unseaworthy to the Point of Endangering Lives of Crews

Washington, June 6.—The Japanese minister here formally inquired of the department of state what action the United States government intended to take respecting the Russian war vessels now in Manila bay. Acting Secretary Loomis responded that these vessels would be interned, provided they did not leave the harbor at once. This exchange took place in order to formally establish the responsibility of the United States for the detention of the vessels in Manila harbor until the end of hostilities.

Secretary Morton says that no request had been received from Admiral Enquist, in command of the Russian cruisers, for their internment, the understanding of the navy department being that he had asked for time in which to repair and supply his ships. Exercising its discretion in the matter, however, this government decided to order the ships to be interned to await the conclusion of hostilities.

Secretary Morton said that he would send orders immediately to Rear Admiral Train, in command of the Asiatic station, directing him to take the necessary steps to interne the Russian cruisers. The vessels will be dismantled and will be kept under the observation of the United States naval squadron at Manila until the conclusion of peace.

In issuing orders for the internment of the cruisers the United States government has acted upon its own initiative, as to what is best to be done in the circumstances. It is regarded in official circles as certain that if the ships were allowed to make repairs at Manila and then to leave that port, they would become comparatively easy prey for the Japanese fleet. Then, too, it was regarded by the administration that ships which had received their injuries in battle could not be permitted to make repairs in a neutral port. If the injuries had been received in a storm at sea, for instance, the case would be different. In such circumstances they would be allowed to make the necessary repairs, even if the making of repairs should consume more than 24 hours.

The government, in refusing to allow the Russian ships at Manila to repair war damages and then depart, has made a rather drastic application of the principles of international law. The application was to have been expected, as it is merely a repetition of the course followed in the case of the transport Lena, now interned at San Francisco.

As the rule is generally stated, a belligerent ship has a right to make in a neutral port such repairs as are necessary to her seaworthiness; but not such repairs as shall increase her offensive power. The privilege of making repairs was granted originally as a matter of mercy, and as the rule grew up in the days of sailing ships, damage by sea and storm were the accidents especially covered by it.

The government has decided with entire soundness practically this: That as the Russian cruisers were able to make their way some 1500 miles from the scene of their injuries to Manila, they are not unseaworthy to the point of endangering the lives of their crews, which is the original basis of the rule. To permit the vessels to make thorough repairs would therefore be to convert seaworthy vessels of little fighting power into sound vessels of much greater fighting power than those which entered the harbor of Manila, and would be undoing a part of the execution accomplished by Japan.

"Japan will, I believe, be entirely satisfied with this government's instructions that the Russian ships at Manila must interne or put to sea," said Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister last night. The minister, upon receiving from the state department the official report of the action of the president regarding the disposition of the three Russian ships which have put into Manila, sent a long cablegram to Tokio on the subject.

Squadron to Remain at Home

Hamburg, June 6.—German seamen who were employed at Libau for service with the fourth Russian squadron, which it was intended to send to the far east, have received orders to return home, as their contract has been cancelled by recent events. This is considered proof that Russia has definitely abandoned further efforts to wrest the sea power from Japan.

Says Fourteen Thousand Perished

London, June 6.—The Tokio correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that the total Russian casualties in the naval battle were 14,000 perished and 4000 captured, while 8000 escaped. He adds that a large percentage of the prisoners are suffering from disease.

Auto Went Over Embankment

Coshocton, O., June 6.—With their machine speeding 40 miles an hour, four automobilists were dashed over a 20-foot embankment and severely injured by the breaking of the front axle. The owner, John P. Thomas, was at the motor.

DARK DAYS FOR RUSSIA

Zemstvo Congress Prohibited at the Eleventh Hour

St. Petersburg, June 6.—The meeting of the all-Russian zemstvo congress, called for today, for which 280 delegates from various zemstvos and municipalities, including the mayors of 25 cities, arrived here yesterday, and at which it was proposed to introduce resolutions calling for the immediate cessation of hostilities, has been prohibited.

The order of prohibition, which arrived only late last night, has aroused the greatest indignation and resentment. Very many of the delegates are determined to defy the government and to proceed with the congress, in which case trouble may be expected. The more radical of the delegates are proposing measures of an extreme type and there is the greatest anxiety over the probable developments today.

The Union of Russian Journalists yesterday chartered a steamer and cruised in the Neva for six hours so as to hold a meeting free from police interference. The meeting passed a resolution demanding a constituent assembly and hailing the advent of a Russian revolution.

The czar's ukase virtually creating Governor General Trepoff dictator has given rise to a mighty sensation. It is the imperial recognition of the crisis in the internal affairs of Russia. "Reaction and repression" will doubtless be the quick interpretation put upon the czar's act as soon as it becomes known to the liberals.

The ukase came like a bolt from a clear sky. M. Bouligan, minister of the interior, could not face the humiliation and immediately resigned and it is not improbable that other ministers will follow suit. It is rumored that Count Lamsdorff, the foreign minister, has already resigned.

Alfonso on a Visit to Edward

London, June 6.—Alfonso XIII, King of Spain, was welcomed to England with the most elaborate of ceremonies, every detail of which was supervised by King Edward himself. If only the weather had been propitious the celebration would probably have been the most brilliant ever accorded a foreign visitor to England. A deluge of rain at Portsmouth and at London, however, marred all the spectacular effects.

Railway Employes Skip

New York, June 6.—General Superintendent Stanley of the Public Service corporation of New Jersey announces that many conductors and other employes of the trolley company have disappeared since Friday, when it became known that there had been unearthed a conspiracy by which the company had been defrauded of hundreds of thousands of dollars by means of fraudulent transfers.

Italian Demand on Turkey

Vienna, June 6.—Die Ziet's Constantinople correspondent reiterates the story that the Italian government has sent 10 warships to the coast of Yemen, Arabia, and refuses to withdraw until the Turkish government makes amends for the murder in Yemen of Italian subjects. This Turkey's lack of sovereignty in Yemen makes impossible, and the situation is considered grave.

Dropped Stealings In Wall Street

New York, June 6.—Thomas G. Wylie, aged 23, was committed to the Elmira reformatory after pleading guilty to the theft of 34 $1000 bonds from the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust company. Wylie was employed by the company and on May 9 took the securities, on which he raised $11 000 in cash, which he soon lost in Wall street speculation.

Grafter Salsbury's Sentence

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 6.—Lant K. Salsbury, formerly city attorney, was sentenced by Judge Wolcott to pay a fine of $2000. Salsbury was convicted of entering into a criminal conspiracy to secure a water contract from the city and of accepting $75,000 or a portion of that amount from the agent of the water deal promoter.

Whites and Blacks In Conflict

Turner, S. C., June 6.—A race riot here has resulted in the death of Burrell McLane, a white man, the serious wounding of his son, the death of one negro and the wounding of three others. Several members of the party of negroes are being pursued by armed white men, who threaten lynching.

Banana Peel Caused Drowning

Philadelphia, June 6.—Slipping on a banana peel while standing near the edge of Race street wharf last night, a man, who is thought to have been Thomas Sheffin of Rhode Island, plunged overboard and was drowned. He sank at once and efforts to rescue him were without avail.

Game Preserve of 57,120 Acres

Washington, June 6.—Putting into effect a law passed at the last session of congress, the president has proclaimed the entire Wichita forest reserve a game preserve. The reserve is in Oklahoma and contains 57,120 acres. Game will be protected and encouraged to propagate there.

To Ask Divine Intercession

New York, June 6.—A call to prayer for the restoration of peace between Russia and Japan has been received at the Salvation Army headquarters here. The call was made by direction of General Booth and appoints the week from June 10 to June 17 as a time for special intercession.

On Lookout For Anarchists

Rome, June 6.—The Italian police have received information to the effect that some Italian anarchists have left the United States for Italy. Descriptions of the men have been supplied, and steps have been taken to watch them.

CITY BREVITIES

The City Council Committee on Licenses will meet Thursday evening.

Mayor Thompson, who has been out of town for a few days, returns today.

The girls of Quincy High school will have their annual field day on Saturday.

Children's day will be observed at Bethany Congregational church on Sunday.

Councilman W. T. Spargo leaves the latter part of the month for a trip to England.

The High school enlargement order did not come to a vote in the City Council.

Another Council meeting next Monday evening. For the past two months the meetings have averaged one a week.

There was a heavy shower during the night and it did a great deal of good, as rain was needed badly. Perhaps now we will have plenty of rain.

The floats at the Mus-we-tus-ket landing are very late in being put into the water this season, a fact which made it extremely inconvenient for those who had the moorings of their boats at the Atlantic beach.

Governor's Findings Accepted

Fall River, Mass., June 6.—The Textile council met last evening and voted to accept the report of Governor Douglas as arbitrator of the strike of last year. This disposes of the strike and of the agitation. The council also voted to ask the manufacturers for a conference on the entire industrial situation and will request an early hearing.

Revere Beach Fire Was Set

Boston, June 6.—The Revere beach fire of Saturday night, which destroyed property valued at nearly $100,000, and which, but for the absolute calm which prevailed, would have swept the waterfront, was of incendiary origin, in the opinion of the state police, who will conduct a searching investigation to ascertain the origin of the fire.

Clemency For Seven Prisoners

Hartford, June 6.—The state board of pardons broke the Connecticut record for clemency when it pardoned three prisoners and granted paroles to four others. With the exception of C. D. Perkins, who was serving 12 years for burglary, all the prisoners were filling out short sentences.

Successful Escape From Jail

Middlebury, Vt., June 6.—Harry McCormick, aged 20, who escaped from the Addison county jail Wednesday, where he was awaiting trial on a charge of forgery, is still at large. It is believed here that the man has made his way across New Hampshire and into Maine.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

SHEA WAS DEFIANT

Engaged In Wordy Warfare With Sheriff Barrett

FINALLY LANDS IN JAIL

Failed to Respond to Capias Issued on Indictment Charging Conspiracy and Was Arrested In a Saloon

Chicago, June 6.—Cornelius P. Shea, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and leader in the strike which has existed in Chicago for the last two months, was arrested and taken to jail last night. With him on the journey from the saloon in which he was arrested to the office of the sheriff, and then to the jail, was Hugh McGee, president of the Truck Drivers' union. Both men were taken into custody on capiases issued on indictments charging them with conspiracy, which were voted by the grand jury that adjourned last Saturday night.

It was the understanding at the office of Sheriff Barrett that Shea, who was aware of the indictment returned against him, would appear at his office during the day and give bonds. He failed to do so, and Deputy Sheriffs Wilson and Honan were sent after him. After a short search Shea was was found in the rear room of a saloon. He was at once placed under arrest and his temper commenced to rise immediately.

"Why do you come for me at this time?" he asked. "I suppose that you intend to take me to jail," he said.

"That part of it rests with Sheriff Barrett," replied Deputy Wilson, and the two deputies with Shea drove to the office of Barrett in a cab. Two other deputies followed with McGee, who was also in the saloon.

Hardly had the party reached the sheriff's office when Sheriff Barrett arrived. "Hello Shea," said the sheriff.

"I am the president of the national organization of the teamsters," said Shea. "Why are you not on the square? We never treated a fellow like this in Boston."

"What do you mean by not 'being on the square?'" asked the sheriff.

"I mean that you have had these capiases since Saturday and that they have not been served upon us until now," said Shea.

"I was assured by your attorneys," said Barrett, "that you and the rest of the indicted leaders would be brought into this office today and given up. That is why you were not served. You did not come and we went after you."

Shea lost his temper completely at this point and denounced the sheriff and all his work in emphatic language. He was told by the sheriff that he would be given all necessary time to procure bondsmen, but that he would be taken to jail at once unless he moderated his manner of talking.

"I would not mind going to jail," said Shea, "if it was not for Levy Mayer. He has directed your action in this matter."

"I want you to understand that not another word must come from you regarding Levy Mayer," retorted the sheriff. "I am sheriff and I am conducting this office."

Shea finally succeeded in reaching his attorneys by telephone, and one of them, Daniel Cruice, came quickly to the sheriff's office. He and Shea commenced to argue with the sheriff about the unreasonableness of taking Shea into custody at such a late hour and the consequent difficulty they would have in procuring a bondsman. The sheriff declared that he had done nothing but his duty and that the trouble was of their own making, because they had not appeared during the day. Shea broke into violent language and the sheriff again warned him that he would be given but little time to prepare bonds if he did not cease his abusive language.

"I don't know that even if you did say that I should go to jail whether that would settle it," replied Shea.

"I'll show you whether it would settle it," said the sheriff. Turning to Deputies Honan and Wilson, he commanded them to take Shea to jail immediately.

Shea saw that he had gone too far, and attempted to say something to the sheriff, but the deputies took him quickly to the street, where they hailed a cab and took him to jail. President McGee followed in another cab and in another few minutes the men were inside the jail. Both were searched, according to the usual custom, and were then taken to cells and locked up.

After being prisoners for a little more than two hours, both Shea and McGee were released, their attorneys having procured bonds which were approved by Judge Tuthill.

Very Fast Traveling

Chicago, June 6.—A Pennsylvania railroad train broke all records for fast traveling between New York and Chicago by making the run of 897 miles in 17 hours flat. The feat was accomplished by one special train running from New York to Pittsburg in 8 hours and 50 minutes and another making the run from Pittsburg to Chicago in 8 hours and 10 minutes.

Garrison Reported Killed

London, June 6.—A dispatch from Cape Town says native reports have been received in official quarters to the effect that Warmbad, the German headquarters in Southwest Africa, has fallen and that the garrison has perished.

Harmony Gets a Jolt

New York, June 6.—Plans to establish harmony in the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance society have been further complicated by the resignation of two more directors, making five in all who have recently retired from the board. T. J. Coolidge of Boston has tendered his resignation, as has also Jacob H. Schiff, head of the banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who has been a member of the board of directors for 12 years. In addition, announcement is made that M. E. Ingalls of Cincinnati will also resign.

Ziegler Left $30,000,000 Estate

New York, June 6.—The will of W. C. Ziegler, the patron of Ziegler Arctic explorations, shows the estate to be worth $30,000,000. After provision is made for $50,000 annuity to Mrs. Zeigler, together with the use of the Ziegler city and country homes, the residue of the estate is bequeathed to Ziegler's adopted son, who is now 14 years old. No provision is made for the continuation of Arctic exploration.

Steamer Ashore Off Long Island

New York, June 6.—A big incoming steamship has gone ashore off Point Lookout, near Freeport, L. I. The steamship is supposed to be a liner, but it has been impossible to learn her name. The sea was running extremely high and the people of Freeport dared not venture far enough out in boats to learn anything about the stranded vessel.

Fine Specimen of a Policeman

Philadelphia, June 6.—Director of Public Safety Potter yesterday discovered that a policeman who was recently appointed had been arrested once for larceny, once for highway robbery, four times for breach of the peace, three times for drunkenness, and also served two years in prison for assault and battery. He was immediately dismissed.

PEACE SIGNS FADE

Russia Will Not Yield Until She Becomes Bankrupt

THE JAPAN SEA BATTLE

It Has Led Japan to Increase Demand to Include Territorial Indemnity-The Russian War Party Looking to Manchuria

London, June 6.—Accounts of President Roosevelt's interviews with Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister at Washington, Count Cassini, Baron Speck Von Sternburg and other ambassadors, which are alleged to have been along the line of efforts to bring mediation, are receiving much attention here, but in diplomatic circles it is not believed that they will result in securing peace.

The belief is firm in all quarters that Russia will continue the war. Peace reports come from Paris, Berlin and St. Petersburg, as well as from Washington, but not a single definite indication of peace or even of intervention can be obtained.

At the Russian embassy it is declared that the war will be continued and at the Japanese embassy it is said there is no expectation of a peace offer, while the foreign office states that it does not know of any movement towards peace.

As far as can be ascertained the British government has made no attempt to bring about intervention, though it is undoubtedly acquainted with the terms Japan will accept and is in a position to take up negotiations with France, Russia's ally, immediately it is understood that such a movement will not meet with a rebuff.

Among the many advocates of peace in this country probably the most active is Sir Thomas Barclay, who was largely instrumental in bringing about the Anglo-French entente. Sir Thomas, who led a powerful effort for mediation between the combatants a few months ago, says that three months ago the Japanese would have agreed to these peace terms:

"First, the evacuation of Manchuria by the Russians and its return to the control of China, under Japanese supervision; second, a Japanese protectorate in Korea; third, the surrender of the lease of Port Arthur, and also the surrender of the Manchurian railway to international control and the dismantling of the fortifications of Vladivostok.

"Since the naval battle, however," said Sir Thomas, "I believe that Japan has increased her demand to include territorial indemnity, comprising Vladivostok and probably the island of Sakhalin. Russia will never pay a money indemnity, nor will she sue for peace until she becomes bankrupt. So long as she possesses funds she will spend them on armaments."

The principal centre of interest in the war from now on is likely to be the Manchurian campaign. Everything in the present signs indicates that the but present signs indicate that the Russian war party wants to throw the dice again with the army under Linevitch. If the czar consents to discuss peace in the near future, it will probably be due to the defeat of his armies in the east. The new measures taken by the emperor to suppress in Russia all organized discussion of political reforms do not indicate any present disposition to make peace under any compulsion of public opinion.

Burdens For Telegraph Companies

St. Johns, June 6.—The colonial government has introduced into the legislature a bill imposing an annual tax of $4000 on every telegraph cable landed on the coast of the island; a tax of 1 percent on the traffic receipts of every telegraph company doing business in the colony; a tax of $4 on every telephone operated and $4000 on every wireless telegraph company doing commercial business, those which only report ships being exempt.

No Grade Crossings at Cleveland

Cleveland, June 6.—The city council last night authorized the Pennsylvania Railroad company to begin the elimination of its grade crossings in this city. The road crosses all the important thoroughfares. In most instances the street roadway will be depressed and the entire cost of the improvement will be more than $4,000,000, to be borne jointly by the railroad company and the city.

Beautiful Gift to Roosevelt

Washington, June 6.—President Roosevelt was the recipient of a beautiful equestrian statuette of himself as colonel of the Rough Riders, which is the latest of the works of Sculptor Macmonnies. The presentation was made at the White House by Miss Janet Scudder of New York, a pupil of Macmonnies. The president expressed his unfeigned pleasure over the gift.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

A rainy day.

Boys are wanted.

Herald coupons today are good for five votes.

It is time for the city to get up in arms over the High school question.

It was so dark this morning many of the shops at the ship yard were lighted.

Mrs. Fred Thompson of Providence, R. I., is visiting her cousin, Mrs. G. K. Carter, for a few days.

The executive committee of the W. R. C. will meet Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Fox, Franklin street.

The gantry-crane at the shipyard was very prettily lighted last night. People from quite a distance were able to see the illumination.

The Woodward Institute is proud of the fact that one of its graduates, Miss Mary Dinegan, '01, will graduate with honors from Vassar college this month.

At the annual election of the Ancients on Monday, Henry L. Kincaide of this city, a member of the Governor's staff, was elected sixth sergeant of infantry.

Mothers, and children under six years, will be entertained at the Mothers' meeting at Bethany chapel tomorrow afternoon. Dr. Sargent will be the speaker.

Quincy should hustle today for the 5-vote coupons in the Boston Herald. The success of Miss Underwood will depend on the number obtained today and next Sunday.

The Woman's Guild of Christ church is to meet in the parish house on Wednesday afternoon to pack a missionary barrel for which contributions of wearing apparel are asked. Also to arrange for the autumn fair and the assignment of booths.

—It is said the N. Y., N. H. & H. will expend $1,000,000 at Norwood for repair shops.

DROWNED.

Promising Thayer Academy Student Loses Life.

Was At the Quincy Reservoir.

Had Passed Examinations to Enter Dartmouth College.

Alfred M. Vinton, a student at Thayer academy, and one of the best known young men of Braintree was drowned Monday afternoon in the old Quincy reservoir.

The young man with two companions, Cleveland Palmer and John Beach, went to the reservoir to study their lessons in Greek. While sitting on the bank they decided to go in swimming.

Vinton, who could not swim, left his companions and went to a spot where he thought the water would not be so deep. While wading out he suddenly got beyond his depth and sank.

At the time the Vinton boy went in swimming there were several boys about, including Albert Jones, Albion Norling, D'Arcy Curwin and Stanley Sherman of Quincy.

Their story of the sad affair is that Vinton came over where they were, near the breakwater, as the water is shallow at this point. Vinton undressed and waded in up to his arm pits. At that time he stood near an embankment.

He placed his hand over his face and ducked his head under water. When he took his head out, his eyes were filled with water, and losing his balance he fell off the brink into deep water. He made no outcry whatever and it was a few minutes before the boys in bathing and those gathered on the shore realized that he was drowning.

Palmer and Beach hearing the cries ran to his assistance, but he did not rise again. Beach dived for the body, but was unable to bring it up.

The boys shouted to Vinton's companions for help and waded in themselves trying to find him. Two of the boys also dove off the enbankment in hopes to find him and bring him to the surface but were unsuccessful.

Assistance was summoned, and several men dived repeatedly, but were unable to locate the body. The place was then dragged with grappling irons but the body could not be recovered.

Work dragging the reservoir was commenced again this morning, and the body was recovered about 7 o'clock.

Vinton was the son of Elmer H. Vinton of Liberty street, Braintree. He was 19 years old and had been a student at Thayer Academy for four years. He was to be graduated in about two weeks and had passed his examinations for entering Dartmouth College in the fall.

Young Vinton was captain of the football team of the academy in 1904, and was manager of this year's baseball team. He had been defraying his own expenses through the academy being in the employ of the New England Telephone Company for two years, first serving as one of the night operators at the Quincy exchange, and for the past 18 months as night operator of the Braintree exchange.

He was a young man of unusual promise and was regarded by all as having a bright future.

Quincy reservoir is about a mile in length and 500 feet wide, and from 20 to 60 feet deep.

Dagger Money.

In former times when traveling was not so safe as in the twentieth century the judges often needed an escort when passing from one town to another on circuit. It was the duty of Newcastle to provide such protection for the journey between that town and Carlisle. As time went on the actual provision of a guard was replaced by the payment of money for the purpose, and it was this contribution that became known as "dagger money." To this day the old custom is kept up, and at the Newcastle assizes the judge receives from the mayor a coin that is probably itself a curiosity and also serves as an interesting souvenir of this strange survival.—London Mail.

NOT COMING.

Visit to the City of the Presidents.

Not Convenient for Roosevelt.

All the Time Allotted to New England Taken.

Citizens of Quincy will generally regret that President Roosevelt can not accept the invitatson sent him by Mayor Thompson to visit Quincy while he is in Massachusetts the latter part of the present month. The following letter has been received by Mayor Thompson.

The White House
Washington
June 2, 1905

My Dear Sir:

Your letter of the 1st instant has been received, and the President appreciates the kind invitation extended to him. He regrets, however, that it is out of the question for him to undertake another engagement as the time allotted for his trip to New England is already completely taken up.

Thanking you in the President's behalf for your courtesy, I am

Very truly yours,
William Loeb, Jr.,
Secretary to the President.

Hon. James Thompson, Mayor, Quincy, Mass.

Sea Gypsies.

In the archipelago of Mergui, off the coast of lower Burma, Asia, live the "sea gypsies." Instead of carts they own covered boats, in which, with their families, dogs, cats, chickens and pets, they float about on the sea and wander from island to island. By day they fish or harpoon turtles or dive for oysters, but every night they put back to the shore. If the weather is bad at sea they land with their dogs and then poach, catching porcupines, squirrels, armadilloes, hog deer and the like, of which they make savory stews, like our gypsies.

An Artist's Criticism.

Probably no two artists ever criticised each other more severely than did Fuseli and Northcote, yet they remained fast friends. At one time Fuseli was looking at Northcote's painting of the angel meeting Balaam and his ass. "How do you like it?" asked Northcote after a long silence. "Northcote," replied Fuseli promptly, "you're an angel at an ass, but an ass at an angel."

Why We Can't Be Great.

Emerson defined greatness as simplicity. "Indeed, to be simple is to be great." The question emerges, Is life simple today? If not, will it be simpler tomorrow? If not, then how can there ever again be such greatness as in the past in a world of ever increasing complexity?—Harper's Weekly.

Why She Left.

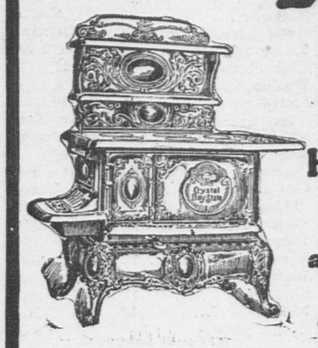

"Yes, my wife attended but one session of the club."

"What caused her to quit it?"

"She found out that the rules put a time limit of five minutes on all speeches."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It is strange that in Asia and Africa, where grass will not grow, the most beautiful flowers and shrubs flourish to perfection.

TO RANDOLPH.

Daughters of the Revolution Enjoy an Outing.

Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, were guests Monday afternoon, of Randolph members, the hostess being Mrs. Edmund Cottle and the assistants, Mrs. Patience Braley, Mrs. Frank Granger, Mrs. William Porter, Mrs. Henry A. Belcher and Mrs. Charles Belcher.

The trip was made by electric about fifteen going from Quincy, and several from Braintree. Being a warm day, the ride in the open cars was very enjoyable.

A short business meeting was held, Mrs. Titus the regent, presiding, after which Mrs. Braley chairman of the entertainment committee took charge introducing Mr. Edmund Brown of Brockton, who played most delightfully on the cornet, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Cottle of Ashmout. He gave several selections during the afternoon, all of which were much enjoyed and heartily applauded.

Mrs. Granger, who represented the chapter at the recent annual meeting of the national society in Asheville, told of the trip, the business meetings and the pleasant social side of the meeting, especially the reception at Biltmore, the beautiful home of the Vanderbilts.

A pretty surprise was the recital of the "First Inaugural Ball," by one who was there. This was impersonated by Mrs. Edmund Cottle in costume of ye olden times, the inaugural marches, etc., being played on the piano by Mrs. Cottle. It was very well done, and called forth the hearty applause of the hearers.

The hostesses served ices and cake, after which a hurried leave was taken as cars like time wait for no man.

It was one of the pleasantest afternoons of the year, and Randolph ladies were acknowleged to be the best of hostesses.

WITHOUT A FIELD.

South Quincy Base Ball Club May Play Out of Town.

Owing to the inability to get suitable grounds the South Quincy Base Ball club will have to play out of town after June 17, or disband. The Ward Three playground is very much in demand on account of the Granite City league having two ball teams in South Quincy.

The people of South Quincy desire to see first class ball but are unable to on account of this league. The South Quincy base ball club is recognized as one of the best semi-professional teams in New England and it seems nothing but right that they should have the field for all the dates they can get, as the people as a whole want to see the first-class teams play, not a few school teams which do not play good ball.

The management would like to hear from some of our prominent citizens in regard to the matter, and see if some means couldn't be arranged whereby the team could play in South Quincy.

South Quincy Base Ball Club.

The Tribunal of Nations.

The big railroad aggregation of all new great feature shows, announced to pitch its tents in Quincy, Friday, June 9th promises, in its "Tribunal of Nations," to introduce a pageant novelty of notable historic and spectacular splendor and interest. On a number of great ornate floats, drawn by sextuple blue ribbon teams of splendid thoroughbreds, are introduced representations of the most famous conquerors and kings of ancient and modern times, each living substitute in form, feature and costume being respectively a wonderfully accurate double of his or her prototype. For example, we may look upon Frederick the Great of Prussia, just as he is immortalized in bronze in the statue of him presented to our country by his royal decendant, the Emperor of Germany, and recently unveiled on the esplanade of the new war college at Washington. We may see, too, the counterpart of Napoleon as he appeared on the field of Austerlitz, or scaling with his army the dreadful passes of the Alps, of Cæsar, Rome's great dictator and Conqueror of the then known world, of the Emperor of Austria, the Kings of Sweden, Spain, and Italy, of Wilhelmina, the beloved young Queen of the Netherlands, and of others, arreyed in armor or royal robes. Such a living portrait gallery as this surely must be well worth seeing, in connection with the wild beasts, arenic and hippodramatic attractions of which it forms a brilliantly conspicious feature.

C. E. Union Meeting.

Norfolk Union of Christian Endeavor held a well attended meeting on Monday evening with the Baptist society at Randolph, Quincy members making the trip on special electrics. The banner which has been in the possession of the United Presbyterian Society of Quincy, was captured by the Bethany Congregational society which had the best percentage of attendance.

There was a business meeting, also addresses by the pastor of the church, and the president of the union, singing and a good social time.

NEW DRUNK LAW.

Those Arrested May Be Released After Making Statement.

A new drunk law went into effect this week, which provides for the release of persons arrested for drunkenness when they become sober without arraignment in court. It is Chapter 384 of the Acts of 1905 and reads as follows:

Section 1—Chapter 212 of the revised laws is hereby amended by striking out sec. 37 and inserting in place thereof the following:

Sec. 37—Whoever arrests a person for drunkenness shall make a complaint against him therefor at the next session of the court or of the trial justice having jurisdiction of the case; and such court or trial justice may proceed to hear and to dispose of the same according to due course of law; and may, if the accused has been released under the provisions of this section order the issuance of a warrant for the arrest, or a summons for the appearance, of the accused for trial, or if the court is satisfied by the report of its probation officer, or otherwise, or if the trial justice is satisfied upon inquiry that the accused has not twice before been arrested for drunkenness within a year, and that his statement in writing hereinafter mentioned is true, the court or trial justice may thereupon direct that the accused, if still in custody, be released without arraignment; and if not in custody, that further proceedings in the case be suspended or that the complaint be dismissed.

A person so arrested may, after he has recoved from his intoxication, make a statement in writing, addressed to the court or trial justice having jurisdiction of his offence, giving his name and address, setting forth what persons, if any are dependent upon him for support, his place of employment, if any, and whether he has been arrested for drunkenness within the 12 months next preceding, and requesting to be released from custody; and may deliver such statement to the officer in charge of the place in which he is confined, who will endorse thereon, the name of the arresting officer, and if the arrest is made within the jurisdiction of a trial justice, his opinion of the probable truth of said statement for the use of such trial justice; and shall transmit the same to such trial justice; and if the arrest is made within the jurisdiction of a court having a probation officer, the officer in charge of the place in which he is confined shall transmit such statement to said probation officer.

Said probation officer, or his assistants, shall forthwith inquire into the truth thereof and shall investigate the record of said person as to previous similar offences, and, for the use of the court having jurisdiction of the case, shall indorse on such statement, with his signature, the result of his investigation. The officer for the time being in charge of the place of custody in a town where no probation officer resides forthwith may release and elsewhere the probation officer or assistant probation officer of the court having jurisdiction of the offense may direct the officer in charge of the place of custody forthwith to release, and such officer so in charge shall thereupon release such arrested person, pursuant to his request; provided, that the officer so releasing or directing the release believes the person arrested has given his true name and address, that he will appear upon a summons and that he has not twice before been arrested for drunkenness within the preceding 12 months.

Sec. 2—The officer in charge of the place of custody in which a person arrested for drunkenness is confined shall inform him when he is recovered from his intoxication, of his right to make a statement in writing and request for release as aforesaid, and an officer making an arrest under the authority of the preceding section shall not be liable for illegal arrest or imprisonment, if the person arrested is released at his request as herein provided.

The new drunk law is similar to the drunk law that was in effect several years ago. In brief it permits a man arrested for drunkeness to be released by the keeper of the station or lockup without being brought to court if he has not been arrested twice before within twelve months.

When a man is arrested for drunkenness he is locked up. When he becomes sober he may apply to the keeper of the lockup or station to be released. He fills out a statement giving his age, residence, occupation, family, etc. The man is then released.

The signed statement is then filed with the probation officer who satisfies himself as to the truthfulness of it.

The officer making the arrest must appear at court, and make out a complaint in due form against the drunk. This goes to the court as usual, as does also the report of the probation officer.

If the probation officer's report is to the effect that the statement is true the court will dismiss the complaint. If however it appears that the statement of the drunk was false the case will probably be suspended and the man arrested on sight and brought into court.

MANY CANDIDATES.

Wollaston Lodge of Masons Entertain Visiting Brethren.

An important meeting of the Wollaston lodge, A. F. & A. M., was held Tuesday evening at Wollaston, when five well-known gentlemen became Master Masons. Two of these were city officials. There was a large attendance of Masons from Quincy, Milton, Boston and other lodges.

City Treasurer Henry G. Fay is worshipful master and the wardens are Sidney F. Copeland and Walter S. Pinkham. The work was well performed by the above and the regular officers of the lodge who were assisted by Worshipful Brother Joseph P. Prout of Rural lodge of Quincy, Past Worshipful Dexter E. Wadsworth of Macedonian lodge of Milton, Past Worshipful J. W. Hill of Faith lodge of Charlestown, and Past Worshipful J. H. Studley of a Boston lodge.

The Wollaston Male quartette assisted in the work, and the lodge is fortunate in having as its chaplain the Rev. Edward A. Chase of the Wollaston Congregational church.

After the work, the lodge served a banquet, which included salads, ices, cake, cigars, etc.

Wollaston lodge is now making additions to its membership at nearly every communication, and is doing good work. Visiting brethren appreciated the hospitality extended.

NEW EXPRESSES.

Better Train Service for Quincy Stations.

West Quincy Also Included.

New Schedule on N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Next Monday.

The different stations in Quincy, including West Quincy as well as those on the main line, will have better train service on and after Monday. New trains will be run and there will be more expresses as promised, as will be seen below.

On and after Monday next, June 11, trains now leaving Boston at 9.25 and 11.25 A. M. and making all stops to Braintree, will leave at 9.27 and 11.27 and run express to Atlantic.

Outward train now leaving Boston at 8.24 P. M. and making all stops will leave at 8.13 P. M., run express to Harrison Square, and be due at Quincy at 8.38 P. M.

Outward train leaving Boston at 10.27 P. M. will run express to Harrison Square and be due at Quincy at 10.53 instead of 10.57 P. M.

Inward train now leaving Quincy at 8.26 A. M. will leave at 8.31 A. M. and run express to Boston, arriving at 8.47 A. M., this being a train from Fall River via Middleboro, and will accommodate Brockton people wishing to spend the day at Hough's Neck. This train also makes close connections at Middleboro with trains from Hyannis, Woods Hole, Fairhaven and way stations on the Cape between those points and Middleboro.

Train now leaving Wollaston at 8.30 A. M. will leave at 8.26 A. M., stop at Norfolk Downs and Neponset, and be due in Boston at 8.41 A. M.

Train now leaving Quincy at 11.08 A. M., and making all the stops will leave at 11.13 A. M., and run express from Atlantic.

Inward train now leaving Quincy at 10.08 P. M. will leave at 10.01 P. M., arriving in Boston at 10.25 P. M.

Quincy's existing express trains to and from Boston stand without change.

The 9.16 and 11.16 trains from Boston to East Milton and West Quincy are restored. The 11.16 A. M. inward train from West Quincy is also restored.

The summer people at Plymouth are to be accommodated with a Saturday train leaving Boston at 1.15 P. M., making stops only at Whitman, Monponsett, Kingston and Seaside, and due at Plymouth at 2.15 P. M., making the run of 38 miles, including four stops, in just an hour.

More Diphtheria Cases.

There is quite an epidemic of diphtheria in the South Quincy district, all of which can be traced to the Adams school. All of the cases, however, are those that have been under quarantine since the Adams school was closed last week, so that none of the present pupils of the Adams school have come in contact will the disease.

The cases are not all confined to children of school age. Some are under school age and others are grown people. Two new cases were reported this morning making nine this week.

If you want a delightful wedding trip, take one of the new palatial steamers Eastern States or Western States, which run daily between Detroit and Buffalo. Staterooms and parlors reserved in advance. Send two-cent stamp for illustrated booklet. Address D. & B. Steamboat Co., Detroit, Mich.

Only Half a Day.

Many were disappointed because the Boston Herald failed to keep its agreement relative to the 5-vote coupon. It promised to print such a coupon on some week day—not half a day or in the morning editions but for one day as it would insert an advertisement for one day in all editions.

The morning Heralds of Tuesday contained the 5-vote coupons but the evening papers did not, just the 1-vote coupon. Certainly it was not what the people expected.

REDUCE THE GRADE.

Granite Manufacturers Will Ask It at Atlantic.

The Quincy Granite Manufacturers' Association appointed a committee at its meeting Tuesday evening to appear before the County Commissioners on Saturday at City Hall, when a hearing will be given on changing the decree for the rebuilding of the Hancock street bridge at Atlantic.

The granite quarrymen and manufacturers, who team considerable granite to Boston, find the grade on the Quincy side of the bridge to be the heaviest between Quincy and Boston. With the proposed relocation of Sagamore street, they claim that the southerly approach to the bridge can be lengthened, and the percent reduced one half, and at small cost, as there will be no land damages.

They claim the approach should begin near the Sacred Heart church.

The granite manufacturers are not the only ones interested but the expressmen and local stores which team heavy loads over the road are desirous that the grade shall be reduced. Lighter travel would also appreciate an easier grade.

Hancock street was built before the railroad was established, and is the turnpike between Quincy and Boston, and the railroad should not cause grades which are almost prohibitive. The work should be done at this time when the railroad is paying part of the cost.

Woodward Teachers.

The Trustees of the Woodward Institute at their last regular meeting re-elected Frank E. Parlin as superintendent, and also reelected the following teachers: Frederic W. Plummer, Charlotte J. Burgess, Ruth B. Mears, Grace S. Burke, Adella W. Bates, Helen H. Claflin, L. Florence Kimball, Martha E. Maccarty, Susie T. Sproul, Georgiana C. Lane and John D. Buckingham. The board also voted to make some repairs to the building during the summer vacation.

Wants of Cuban Moderates

Havana, June 7.—The national convention of the Moderate party met here and elected as president Mendez Capote. The platform declares for the invariable interpretation of the Platt amendment in the sense most favorable to Cuba for the development of all government functions in compliance with the duties of an independent nation; in favor of developing treaties with other nations on the basis of reciprocal advantages; for an increase in the means of sanitation, and for reform of the tariff in harmony with the reciprocity treaty with the United States.

Stuck In Ten Feet of Sand

New York, June 7.—The steamer which grounded on a sandbar off Jones inlet near Freeport, L. I., and which was at first supposed to be a trans-Atlantic liner, was found to be the steam dredge Caucus, built at Greenport, L. I., for the United States geodetic survey. A squall has driven her onto the bar so that she is embedded in 10 feet of hard sand.

More Equitable Desertions

New York, June 7.—Three more directors have resigned from the board of the Equitable Life Assurance society and at least one more will retire today, making in all 10 resignations since the present troubles of the society began. A. J. Cassatt, John A. Stewart and John Sloane are the latest ones to resign. The resignation of D. O. Mills will occur today.

Chair Valued at $7500

Nashville, June 7.—Colonel Andrew Jackson has sold the old Washington chair, the most prized relic of President Jackson, to the Mount Vernon association for $7500. This chair was willed by General Washington to his family physician, Dr. Craik, and members of the Craik family gave it to General Jackson.

Canadian Capital In Mexico

Mexico City, June 7.—The Mexican Light and Power company, a Canadian concern operating here, has purchased all the light and power plants of this city, the total figures of the deal being $11,000,000. The expenditures of the Mexican Light and Power company, when work is completed, will be $40,000,000.

Drydock to Cost $1,925,000

Bremen, June 7.—The North German Lloyd company will soon begin the construction of a drydock, to cost $1,925,000, below Bremerhaven, where the state of Bremen recently acquired a strip of territory from Prussia by treaty. The dock will accommodate the largest steamers.

Highly Valuable Plot of Land

New York, June 7.—Establishing a new high record per square foot for New York city real estate—$598.20—the property at the southeast corner of Wall street and Broadway, opposite Trinity church, an old four-story brick building, on a lot 30x39 feet, was sold for $700,000.

Italy Has Not Sent Warships

Rome, June 7.—The statement that Italy has sent warships to Yemen, Arabia, as reported in Vienna, is untrue. An Italian citizen was killed there by mistake, but the local authorities gave satisfaction and the incident was closed amicably.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A SIMPLE FUNCTION

Duchess Cecilia Becomes Bride of Crown Prince

A VERY SHORT CEREMONY

Reception, Supper and "Torchlight Dance" Followed Union According to Lutheran Church Ritual--Royalty Out In Force

Berlin, June 7.—Crown Prince Frederick William and Duchess Cecelia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin were married in the palace chapel yesterday afternoon while the clock in the plaza marked 5 and guns here and in every garrison town in Prussia and in every sea where German warships were began firing 21 guns at the same astronomical moment. At least they had been commanded to do so.

In the chapel several hundred persons, one of the most distinguished assemblages that could be gathered in Europe, saw the simple wedding service of the Lutheran church. There were 60 or 70 members of royal families present from German and foreign states. These all stood in a wide circle around the altar, for there were no pews, and behind them, without regard to rank, were the members of the foreign embassies, the cabinet ministers, a number of admirals, the commanders of army corps, a couple of hundred of men and women of the high nobility, one newspaper correspondent from each of the principal countries and five correspondents from Germany.

The Crown Princess, for she was already crown princess by civil rite, came in on the arm of the crown prince. She was wearing a wreath of fresh myrtle on her head, over which was a small crown, set there by the empress, of diamonds and rubies set in a gold frame on purple velvet. A triangle of diamonds rested on the front of her low-cut bodice and round her neck was a necklace of large diamonds.

The wedding dress was of Russian silver brocade, with a train 4½ yards in length and 2 1-4 yards wide attached to the shoulders. Four maids of honor in dresses of pale blue silk, the crown prince's favorite color, carried the train, and behind them walked two pages. The bridal veil was of old Brussels lace. The crown prince wore the light blue uniform of the First Foot Guards with a major's insignia and his decorations. He carried his helmet in his left hand.

Dr. Dryander, the court chaplain, with nine of the cathedral clergy standing near him, began the service. It is the privilege of the pastor, according to the Lutheran rite, to read either one of the several admonitory addresses to the bridal couple or to make one of his own. Dr. Dryander elected to lay aside the book, taking as his subject the Book of Ruth, chapter 1, verses 16 and 17, beginning: "For whither thou goest I will go," etc.

Dr. Dryander spoke briefly on the beauty of love, the large responsibilities resting on the youthful pair, their need for the support of faith and spiritual vision. The pastor then asked the crown prince if he took out of God's hand to have and to hold, according to God's word and will, Her Highness Cecelia? The crown prince answered: "Yes." The same question was addressed to the duchess, with the additional question of "and obey," to which she also answered: "Yes." These were the only responses.

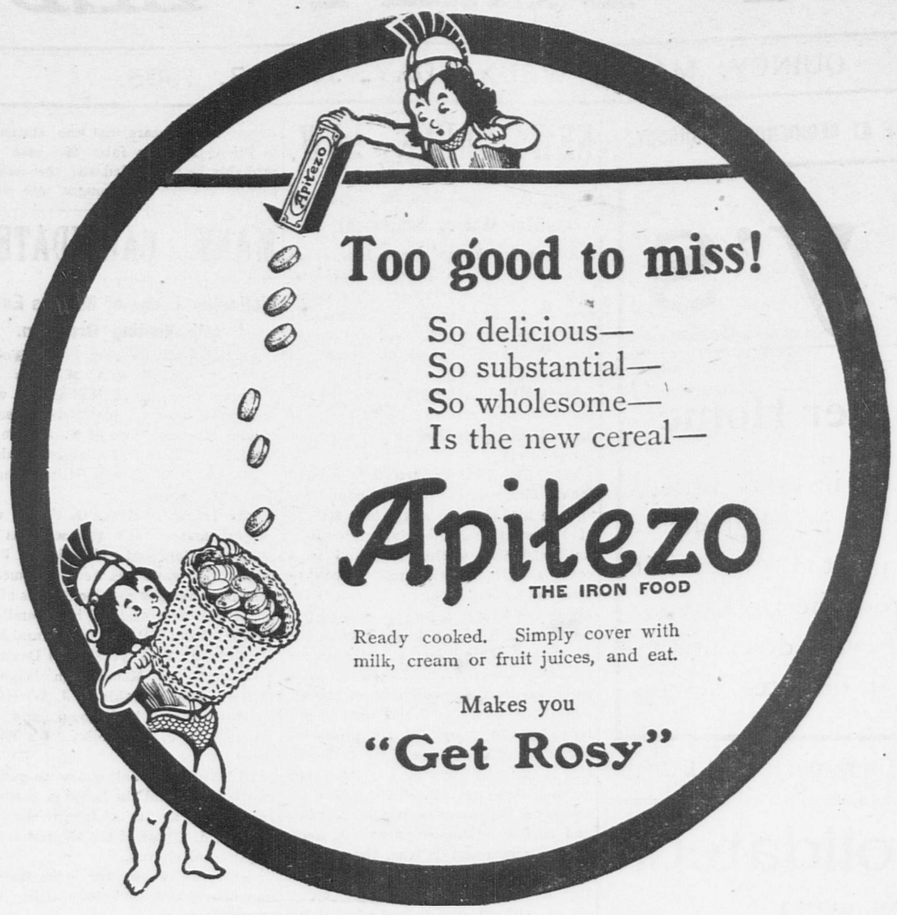

The rings were then exchanged, and the bride and groom knelt while Dr. Dryander read the liturgical prayer closing the ceremony, which had taken precisely 20 minutes.

Dr. Dryander shook hands with the crown prince and kissed the hand of the crown princess. He then presented the bridal couple with a Bible, ornamentally bound. The emperor kissed the bride on both cheeks and then kissed his son, the empress doing likewise.

The bridal party slowly moved out, followed by the princes and princesses, but all others waited in the chapel, which had become very hot, owing to the 300 candles that had been burning for half an hour, until the reception began in the White hall adjoining the chapel.

Besides those present at the wedding, several hundred others had been invited to the reception, which consisted of each person bowing to the crown prince and to the crown princess, on either side of whom stood other royal personages. The dresses, jewels and uniforms worn at the reception made a most brilliant picture.

After supper had been served a torchlight dance, a unique practice at weddings in the house of Hohenzollern for centuries, was performed by 12 pages, bearing thick candles about 2½ feet tall. The crown prince took the hand of the crown princess and walked slowly behind the pages, keeping step to the music, around a quadrangle formed by men and women standing 10 feet deep along the sides of the drawing room, which is 105 by 50 feet, all bowing as the bridal couple passed. The emperor then led the crown princess, and the crown prince led his mother around the same walk. Next the crown princess took each of the other princes and the crown prince each of the other princesses around the hall, occasionally several at a time, so that precedence might not be disregarded. This function came to a close after 9 o'clock, the wedding party having lasted more than four hours.

TOBINE RETRACTS

Admits to Deputy Sheriff That He Lied About the Braleys

Grafton, N. H., June 7.—After furnishing a thrilling sensation for a few hours, Frank Tobine finally admitted that he lied about Mrs. Braley when he charged that she had told him that she had accidentally killed her child, who disappeared mysteriously last April.

"Frank Tobine, you lie, and you know you lie!" said Mrs. Braley when, in her presence, before Deputy Sheriff Murray and Lawyer Clark, Tobine insisted that she told him she had accidentally killed her missing 29-month-old child on April 27 last, and had disposed of the body by placing it in the box under the seat of a buckboard.

When Mrs. Braley had left the room Tobine turned toward the officer and remarked: "You can put it down as all a lie." He stated that the story he told about Mrs. Braley's confession came from a dream he had in the Canaan lockup.

Tobine was brought into court, charged with assault on Ernest Braley, father of the missing baby. Justice Smith found probable cause of Tobine's guilt, and held him in bonds of $300 to appear before the October term of court. On the specific charge of assaulting Braley he was fined $1 and costs, and a similar penalty was imposed on him for striking Mrs. Eliza Braley, the grandmother.

Higher Wages For Carpenters

Providence, June 7.—As a result of the decision of Bishop McVicar in favor of an increase to 37½ cents an hour for journeymen carpenters, when the unions and the Master Builders' association laid the matter before him as umpire, nearly all the members of the master carpenters are acceding to the demand for an increase, although they had not acted on the matter as an association.

New Law Affecting Drunks

Boston, June 7.—A new state law as to the disposition of intoxicated persons went into effect in Massachusetts today. Under the provisions of the law persons placed under arrest for drunkenness may be released from custody after they have recovered from the intoxication, providing they have not been arrested for a similar offense twice within 12 months next preceding.

Providence, June 7.—Terence F. McGrath, aged 42, of Brookline, Mass., was probably fatally injured here while attempting to board a moving train which was leaving this city for Boston. McGrath was about to swing aboard when his foot slipped and he fell partially under the wheels of the car. His left leg was crushed terribly and amputation was necessary.

Tucker Exceptions Allowed

Cambridge, Mass., June 7.—Judges Sherman and Sheldon of the superior court, who sat at the trial of Charles L. Tucker, when he was convicted of the murder of Mabel Page of Weston, have approved the exceptions filed by counsel for the convicted man. They will now go before the full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court.

Had Been Dead Many Days

Hartford, June 7.—The body of Marie Westerman, aged 30, was found in her room at a boarding house on Spring street. It was somewhat decomposed, indicating that death occurred several days ago. The gas jets were open and it is supposed to be a case of suicide, though the cause of the woman's act is not known.

No Sign of Foul Play

Melrose, Mass., June 7.—The investigation into the death of Charley Chinn, a Chinese laundryman, who was found dead in his shop by local officers, was ended last night, when Medical Examiner Provandie held an autopsy and pronounced death due to natural causes. There was a suspicion that Chinn had been poisoned.

Providence Strike Is Off

Providence, June 7.—With the exception of the engineers formerly employed by the Eastern Coal company, the coal handlers and hoisting engineers who went on strike to secure recognition of the union are gradually going back to work in their old places, the local unions having decided to call the strike off.

Stricken Man Killed by Train

Lime Rock, Conn., June 7.—While walking on the track on his way home from work last night, Frank Doty, 46 years old, fell to the roadbed unconscious, the victim of a paralytic shock. A passenger train came along and struck Doty, killing him instantly.

Thief Got Two Bank Books

Somerville, Mass., June 7.—Mrs. Rhoda J. Brown of Portland, Me., had her handbag, containing two bank books, representing $700, snatched from her while on Craigie street, this city, by a young man, who escaped.

A Cancelled Stamp Operator

Hartford, June 7.—A fine of $100 and costs was imposed on Paul B. Graeber of Meriden, formerly a letter-carrier, who pleaded guilty to the charge of washing cancelled postage stamps and selling them.

Scorching Weather

Washington, June 7.—One fatality, that of John T. Gibson, aged 65, and a number of prostrations is the result of the hot wave which has prevailed here for the past two days, the thermometer during yesterday afternoon reaching 92 degrees.

Insurgents Take Two Towns

Hodeida, Turkish Arabia, June 7.—The insurgents of Yemen have captured the towns of Kataba and Ibb and are now investing Taiz. Turkish reinforcements are being hurried to Taiz.

CITY BREVITIES

Commencing this week the granite yards close on Saturdays at noon.

Tuesday's rain did lots of good. Now warmer weather is needed.

Next week Saturday will be the Seventeenth of June, Charlestown's great day.

Probate court for Norfolk County will be held in Quincy next Wednesday morning.

Miss Clara Barton was in Quincy on Monday to inspect a monument built for her at the works of A. M. Deane & Co.

A Swedish concert will be given at Faxon hall, Saturday evening by Awid Asplund and Mrs. Dagmar Moltrecht Asplund.

Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., will elect officers at its regular meeting this evening in Wilson's hall. Several candidates will also be initiated.

Unless the High school enlargement order passes the City Council next Monday evening, it is probable nothing will be done on enlargement this year.

The Shawmuts of Hall place would like games with any 13 or 14 year old teams. Columbias, Defenders or American Boys preferred. Address William Buckley, 57 Hall place, West Quincy.

The County Commissioners will give a hearing in the Council Chamber, City Hall, Saturday morning on the petition of the Mayor and Council to change the decree for the new bridge at Atlantic.

Burns Proved Fatal.

Mrs. George D. Perkins, who was severely burned Saturday, May 27, died Tuesday morning at her home on Billings road as the result of her injuries.

At the time of the accident Mrs. Perkins was using a lighted torch to burn gypsy moth nests, when her clothing accidently took fire.

In an instant her clothing was a mass of flames. Neighbors hearing her cries rushed to her assistance and extinguished the flames with a rug, but not before nearly all her clothing had been burned off. She was severely burned about the legs and arms. It was thought at first that she would recover, but her injuries were too severe.

The case is a particularly sad one. Their home had recently been thoroughly refurnished and with a loving husband and daughter the future seemed bright for them. Then came the accident and death and now there is an aching void that can never be filled.

—Medford will mark with tablets 39 of its historic sites, for the anniversary June 15—18.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

GIVEN FULL POWER

Chicago Teamsters Appoint Men to Settle Strike

WILL MEET EMPLOYERS

Truck Drivers Decline Arbitration In Matter of Deliveries to Boycotted Houses --Open Violation of Agreement

Chicago, June 7.—The teamsters' joint council last night appointed a committee with full power to settle the strike and today a conference will be arranged with the employers. The appointment of the committee followed the announcement of Attorney Mayer, who, speaking for the Employers' association, said two days ago that no more conferences would be held with the men unless the committee came to the meeting with full power to act and this power must be explicitly stated in writing.

The teamsters promised to appoint the committee Monday night, but instead of doing so sent a committee to arrange individual settlements with a number of large drygoods houses. This attempt failed completely, the employers having announced that no separate settlements would be made, and that if the strike was declared off it must be declared off in every direction.

Failing in the effort to effect a settlement with the stores yesterday, the teamsters' joint council last night appointed the committee which it had agreed to appoint 24 hours earlier. It is composed of one representative of each union involved in the strike and is headed by W. J. Gibbons, president of the teamsters' joint council.

At a mass meeting of the truck drivers, called to consider the question of arbitrating the demand of the Team Owners' association for deliveries to the boycotted houses, it was decided to decline the arbitration, notwithstanding the fact that the agreement between the teamsters and the Team Owners' association contains a provision calling for arbitration in exactly such cases as the one under consideration. The action of the truck drivers, however, loses much of its importance compared with the appointment of a committee empowered by the men to settle the strike.

No action will be taken by the team owners, pending the meeting of the committee appointed last night with the employers. President Shea of the teamsters was not present at the meeting of the joint council when the committee was appointed.

Alfonso Having a Great Time

London, June 7.—King Alfonso of Spain saw the sights of the metropolis in typical London weather. Rain poured down all day long, accompanied by a chill east wind, and overcoats were worn and umbrellas carried. The limp decorations gave the entire city a bedraggled and forlorn appearance. The young monarch, however, carried out a long program with evident enjoyment. The day concluded with a state banquet.

To Test Structural Material

Washington, June 7.—The geological survey and the bureau of forestry have entered into an arrangement with eminent chemists and engineers for testing stone, cement, timber and other structural material, as well as coal. A meeting was held here from which it is expected will be established an advisory board to work with the two government bureaus in the conduct of these official tests.

Boys Met Horrible Death

Atlantic City, N. J., June 7.—Ordner J. Delaney, aged 7, and William Jeffries, aged 5, had gone to a brush heap of pine trees on the beach front, which trees were used to build a jetty. They dug a hole beneath the pile and crawled under. It is believed they had matches, for soon the brush was ablaze and before the boys could crawl out they were cremated.

Preference Claim Set Aside

Cleveland, June 7.—The bankruptcy court has handed down a decision sustaining the contention of Nathan Loeser, trustee of Cassie L. Chadwick, and setting aside as a preference the $10,000 chattel mortgage given by Mrs. Chadwick to the Savings Deposit Bank and Trust company of Elyria. The bank will appeal the case.

Weaver Lops Another Head

Philadelphia, June 7.—Arthur R. H. Morrow, assistant director of the department of supplies, has resigned at the request of Mayor Weaver. Andrew P. Chism, who was a clerk in the office of the receiver of taxes and who was removed at the instance of Morrow for political reasons, was given Morrow's place.

Engineer Disobeyed Orders

Los Angeles, Cal., June 7.—Two trainmen are dead and several others are injured as a result of a collision between a passenger and a newspaper special four miles from Riverside. The failure of the engineer of the passenger train to observe orders is alleged to have been the cause of the wreck.

Four Advisers Absent

Washington, June 7.—Only five members of the cabinet attended yesterday's meeting, Messrs. Hay, Taft, Shaw and Cortelyou being out of the city. Beyond routine matters relating to the several departments nothing of importance was considered.

President's Peace Ideas Have Been Laid Before Czar

DELCASSE'S RETIREMENT

It Has Increased Washington's Opportunity to Promote Peace Efforts--War Party at St Petersburg Lose Men of Influence

Washington, June 7.—Pending the decision of the czar regarding war or peace in the far east, the president and the European ambassadors with whom he is daily conferring have agreed that silence regarding their activity is necessary, and word to this effect has been passed along lest Russia take offense and go contrary to what the neutral powers believe to be for her own advantage.

Count Cassini remains without advices from St. Petersburg that throw any light on the probable policy of the czar. The ambassador has not yet received an acknowledgment of his long cablegram of last week regarding his conference with the president. Acting on his own initiative, the ambassador made a faithful report of what was described at the time as an "informal and general conversation." No formal tender of mediation was made nor was any reported. The ambassador, however, felt that his government should be in possession of the views expressed by the president to him, in favor of peace, and therefore incorporated them in his cablegram. It is expected that later on the Russian embassy here will be informed whether the result of the battle in the Sea of Japan has affected the determination of the St. Petersburg government to continue the war. Any information on this subject will be promptly placed before the president.

Peace talk is temporarily supplanted in diplomatic circles by comment upon the resignation of M. Delcasse and the developments in the Moroccan situation. It is believed here, however, that the effect of the retirement of the distinguished diplomatist will be to increase the opportunity of the president and the ambassadors at Washington in the efforts toward peace negotiations. Commenting on this, a European diplomat said:

"While M. Delcasse was at the head of the French foreign office his intimacy with Lord Lansdowne gave to London and Paris a splendid opportunity for concerted action that would induce Russia and Japan to talk of peace. The retirement of Delcasse must necessarily have an effect upon the Anglo-French entente as well as the Franco-Russian alliance. Not only was Delcasse largely responsible for the former, but he was generally recognized as the best friend Russia possessed in France. The radical party, which is now in power, is not as friendly to Russia as was Delcasse. Without Delcasse's assistance Lansdowne can hardly hope to accomplish much toward peace. This latest development only increases the opportunity of the president, with the assistance already assured him from Berlin, to lead neutral powers in assisting peace negotiations by concerted moral suasion rather than by any act savoring of intervention or mediation."

STRUGGLE IS HOPELESS

Opinion Expressed to Czar by Influential Advisors

St. Petersburg, June 7.—Beyond the statement that the advisability of confiding the opening of peace negotiations to President Roosevelt in the event that the czar shall have decided that the time has arrived to indicate to Japan Russia's desire to end the struggle was presented in a favorable light, no definite announcement can be made regarding the result of Foreign Minister Lamsdorff's audience with the czar on the subject of Count Cassini's dispatch communicating the president's practical tender of good offices.

It can, however, be stated in addition that Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, the emperor's brother-in-law, who undoubtedly exercises a greater personal influence with the czar than any other member of the imperial family, and who, until the disaster to the Russian fleet, was the most uncompromising advocate of war to the last ditch, has joined Grand Duke Vladimir, uncle of the czar, counselling the conclusion of peace.

Grand Duke Vladimir, at a recent family council, while urging the futility of continuing the struggle, stoutly maintained that the loss of Manchuria and even a portion of eastern Siberia would not mean the ruin of Russia's prestige, but that she could continue to grow in influence and power, just as Great Britain did after the loss of her American colonies. Another important convert made by the advocates of peace is Admiral Alexieff. With Michaelovitch, Vladimir and Alexieff on the side of peace, the backbone of what has been denominated the war party seems to have been broken. Nevertheless, the final word rests with the czar himself.

Cannot Repair at Manila

Washington, June 7.—The following announcement was made at the war department: The secretary of war is in receipt of a cablegram from Governor Wright announcing that Secretary Taft's instructions of Monday had been formally transmitted to the Russian admiral, and at the same time inquiry was made whether he would be required to put to sea within 24 hours after taking on coal and provisions sufficient to take them to the nearest port; that up to this time only enough coal and sufficient food supplies for use in harbor to last from day to day had been given, as they arrived in Manila with practically no coal or provisions. Governor Wright submitted the question as to whether they were entitled to take on coal and provisions to carry them to the nearest port.

Governor Wright was advised that the president directed that the 24-hour limit must be strictly enforced; that necessary supplies and coal must be taken on within that time, these instructions being consistent with those of June 5, stating that, as the Russian admiral's ships were suffering from damages due to battle, that the American policy was to restrict all operations of belligerents at neutral ports. In other words, that time should not be given for repair of damages suffered in battle.

Faith In "Sainted Image"

St. Petersburg, June 7.—A communication from Moscow signed "A Simple Peasant," which was printed in a newspaper here, says: "Instead of calling a zemsky sobor let the emperor send the sainted image of the Iberian Mother of God at the Moscow gate to General Linevitch and assure the final defeat of the Japanese."

Peace Sentiment Prevailed

Moscow, June 7.—The all-Russian zemstvo congress met here, notwithstanding government prohibition, and resolved with practical unanimity to demand the convocation of a zemsky sobor, and the submission to it of the question of peace or war. Practically all the delegates are in favor of peace.

Linevitch Would Prosecute War

Godzyadani, Manchuria, June 7.—Undismayed by Rojestvensky's defeat and full of confidence as to the outcome of the approaching battle, General Linevitch says that he is for war to the bitter end, and he believes that the Manchurian army is now strong enough to assume the aggressive.

No Attempt to Kill Czar

St. Petersburg, June 7.—Stories of the attempt to assassinate the czar were telegraphed back from abroad and spread throughout the city. General Masloff, the czar's chancellor, announces that absolutely nothing occurred at Tsarskoe-Selo to give rise to such reports.

France and Germany May Clash

Paris, June 7.—The resignation of M. Delcasse has caused much uneasiness in parliamentary quarters, where a pessimistic view prevails concerning the relations between France and Germany. Some deputies declare that a situation involving the possibilities of war has been narrowly averted and that it will be difficult even now to reconcile the differences already created. Premier Rouvier has appealed to the deputies not to press their interpellations regarding Morocco.

Chadwick Records In Court

Cincinnati, June 7.—The transcript of the records in the case of Cassie L. Chadwick, whose sentence of 10 years in the Ohio penitentiary for conspiracy to defraud was stayed pending the hearing of the appeal, has been filed in the United States court of appeals in this city. The document comprises 563 typewritten pages. The case will be the first taken up at the October term of court.

Statesmen In Street Fight

Belgrade, June 7.—A street fight occurred on a public square between former Premier Pasics and M. Nikolics, the minister of justice. The two exchanged a few words when Nikolics struck Pasics on the head with a stick. Pasics had seized his opponent by the throat when bystanders interfered and separated the combatants. Minister Nikolics has resigned.

Don't Want Carnegie Money

Jackson, Miss., June 7.—The board of trustees of the state university have declined the offer of Andrew Carnegie to give them $25,000 in case a like amount was provided by the state to build and equip a library at the state university. Governor Vardaman says that the state is in a position to supply the university with any equipment that is needed.

Toy Beads Caused Death

Chicago, June 7.—A chemical analysis of toy beads obtained as a prize by Henrietta Crisp, 5 years old, revealed that the beads contained enough arsenic to cause death. The child died after having put the beads in her mouth. Coroner Hoffian says the use of the toy beads as prizes to children is general.

Great Flood Feared In Michigan

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 7.—The flood situation in western Michigan as a result of the torrential rains shows no improvement in the watershed of Grand river, and railway traffic from this city is at a standstill. The heavy fall of rain has swollen all streams and a flood equal in extent to that of 1904 is feared.

Gully to Become a Peer

London, June 7.—In the house of commons William C. Gully officially announced his resignation, on the ground of ill-health, of the speakership, which he had held for a decade. Gully will be elevated to the peerage, as is customary in the case of retiring speakers of the house of commons.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Ray F. Weston of Newport avenue has gone to Nonquitt, Mass., for a week.

T. L. Williams, the jeweler, of 1473 Hancock street, has gone on a business trip to New York.

There was a call for heat today in some of the business blocks, rather unusual for June 7.

Sixty years ago today the sloop Hero was launched at Quincy by John L. Souther,—June 7, 1845.

On June 7, 1889, Quincy offered a reward of $1,000 for the conviction of persons starting incendiary fires.

The public bathhouse on Town river opened for the season on Monday, in charge of Mr. Starr and Miss Feeley.

The three Quincy Yacht clubs will unite in a race off Houghs Neck on Saturday, the first of a series of three.

Tomorrow will be the anniversary of the organization of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., in this city 36 years ago.

Lawrence F. Loring, of Willow street, has accepted a position as stenographer in a lawyer's office on State street, Boston.

The monthly meeting of the Quincy Historical Society will be held this evening at the birthplace of President John Quincy Adams.

The Assessors have completed their yearly rounds with the exception of Squantum and Houghs Neck. These will be visited this week.

Julius Johnson is building a modern house at Squantum for Baron Von Scholly of Jamaica Plain, who will occupy it as a summer residence.

Seats were reserved for the members of the W. C. T. U. at the memorial service for the late Mary A. Livermore on Tuesday at Tremont Temple.

Councilman Peter Hynes is no longer in the employ of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, having resigned because of a consolidation of departments.

The Wollaston Unitarian church will not close until about two weeks later than usual this summer. Church services will be discontinued after July sixteenth.

General Manager Smith of the Fore River Engine Co., will address the members of the Quincy Board of Trade at their meeting in the Adams building this evening. Refreshments will be served.

St. Margarets Guild of Christ church is to hold an important meeting on Friday evening when business will be transacted and money in the treasury will be appropriated.

The regular teachers' meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School was held in the vestry Monday evening. A committee was appointed to consider the annual picnic.

Another Question Yet.

It appears that Selectman Philander Bates is legally a member of Cohasset board. On Tuesday Lawyer Albert P. Worthen, representing Atty.-Gen. Parker, appeared before Judge Loring in the supreme court, in quo warranto proceedings, brought on the petition of Ezekiel James of Cohasset, to test the case of Philander Bates, chairman of selectmen of Cohasset.

On hearing the pleas and answers of Atty. Worthen, Judge Loring ruled that Selectman Bates was legally a member of the board by virtue of his last election two years ago, it being a hold-over election. This ruling did not deal with the matter of the legality of the town meeting held March 6, 1905.

—Miss Mabel W. Harris of Weymouth was among the graduates of the Boston Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday.

SPEED REGULATIONS.

State Highway Commission and the New Law.

The state highway commission is about to send out another circular letter explaining its position in regard to the new law that allows cities and towns to make new rules regarding the speeding of automobiles in their communities. Some time ago the commission sent out a letter calling attention to the fact that the rules fomerly in force would become operative after June 3. This was taken by many city and town officials as an order to them to adopt new orders. As the commission is to post whatever rules a city or town may adopt, it ran in the circular a picture of a sign board that it approved. As this told of a rate of speed not exceeding ten miles an hour many cities and town have adopted that limit seeming to believe that it was the wish of the commission.

The Massachusetts Highway Commission considers that the speed regulations of the commonwealth are amply sufficient except in special cases, and it therefore does not wish to be considered as urging the passage of special regulations by the cities and towns.

All special regulations passed prior to June 3d, 1905, are now void.

Now if any community wants to adopt special regulations they must after taking the necessary action advertize them in some paper published in their community or in their county if none is published in their town. If within 15 days no objection is made the highway commission will post a proper sign on the highway referred to in the regulation at the expense of the state. If, however, any one cares to object the highway commission must give a public hearing in the community and its decision is final.

From the tone of the circular about to be sent out it is apparent that the board will not countenance a less rate of speed on the ordinary highway than ten or 15 miles according to whether it is a city or country district. Of course this ruling of the board that all regulations passed previous to June 3d are inoperative have not been tested. They have not taken that position at the suggestion of the attorney general even. It is their own interpretation of the statute, and a test case in court might change it.

Meanwhile the new law requiring clerks of the different courts to send copies of records of cases of overspeeding to be sent to the highway commission is commencing to make work for the clerks in the office of the board. Besides filing away each return a card catalogue is being kept so that if a man is arrested more than once the whole data of facts may be kept together on one card. Already quite a bunch of cards has accumulated, and a perusal of then seems to show concerted motive on the part of automobolists brought before the courts to plead nolo contendre, pay a fine and go away. In case of subsequent arrest this will leave the record clear as to be convicted. It is understood that the argument is that the man arrested says he is too busy to bother to contest the matter in court, and wants to make that plea, and get away. Yet when he is confronted with a number of these records, they will not show guilt, or even that he admitted that he was guilty.

Verdict Against Priest.

A verdict against Fr. T. J. Danahy of Newton, formerly of Quincy, was rendered in the Superior court on Tuesday in the case of John T. and James M. Fitzgerald, undertakers of Wellesley, to whom the jury awarded $500.

The suit was for $5,000, the plaintiffs alleging that Fr. Danahy had made statements in his church which tended to injure them in their business as undertakers.

Maiden Trip.

The new steamer Providence, built at Quincy, made her maiden trip Monday night from Providence, R. I., to New York city, returning Tuesday night. The new ship received much attention at New York and en route.

Junior Games.

The Hemlocks and Columbia Juniors played on Bigelow field on Monday and the former won 3 to 1. Allen Connors knocked a home run.

Death at Pond Home.

Miss Mary H. Ware of Wrentham, the oldest inmate of the Pond Home for the Aged, died on Tuesday, aged 88 years.

—The steamer Ivernia sailed for Queenstown and Liverpool on Tuesday.

The New Battleships to be Built for Uncle Sam.

The United States battleships South Carolina and Michigan, plans for which are now being perfected by the Bureau of Construction in Washington, will be the greatest war vessels of the battleship type that any nation has yet built, says a Washington dispatch to the Boston Transcript. Paul Morton, Secretary of the Navy, when in New York recently, said that these plans were well under way and the innovations will be radical departures in a great many ways from the types of battleships now completed or on the ways.

Mr. Morton said that the batteries of the new ships will be among the most powerful afloat and that the vessels will be unusually heavily armored. The adding of a third screw, which will of course call for the addition of another engine, is reported to have been definitely decided upon by the Bureau of Construction. Another innovation under consideration is in the utilization of 12 and 10-inch guns as a complete battery.

In tonnage the ships will about equal the splended new British vessels of the King Edward VII. and Africa class. Those vessels displace between sixteen thousand and seventeen thousand tons and are about 425 feet long. They carry four 12-inch, four 9.2-inch, ten 6-inch and twenty-eight smaller guns. As the South Carolina and the Michigan, if the 12-inch and 10-inch plan is adhered to, will carry at least eight of the latter guns, the new warships would be a great deal more powerful than the King Edward VII. and Africa type.

Merrymounts vs. Dewey Club.

The Merrymount club base ball team will go to Weymouth, Saturday afternoon, to play the Dewey club team. Tbis is the strongest team on the south shore. The game will be played at Garfield Park, Weymouth Landing, and is called at 3.30. Organized cheering under the direction of W. O. Parker has greatly added to the success of the Merrymounts this year, and it is hoped that a large crowd of rooters will be present at the game Saturday to help by cheering the team on to victory. The team will leave Wollaston by train at 1.45. They will change at Braintree and take the electrics to Weymouth.

Commencement Week.

Commencement at the Quincy Mansion school begins on Sunday when the baccalaureate sermon will be preached at 8 P. M. The class day exercises will be held on Tuesday at 3 P. M., and on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock there will be a concert. Thursday, June 15, will be graduation day, with exercises at 2.15 P. M. At 7.30 P. M. the alumnae reception to the class of 1905 will take place to be followed from 8 to 10 by the principal's reception.

THE MAGIC HAT.

Priscilla had a new spring hat,
All trimmed with roses red,
And when she wore it out to church
It turned a young man's head.

He didn't know her father saved
And slaved and sweat to buy
That hat and pawned his overcoat
When he was still some shy.

He only knew the hat was swell
And noticed that it gave Him funny feelings round the heart
To see its feathers wave.

So when in this new top piece gay
He met her in the hall
He took his courage by the hand
And asked if he could call.

Of course Priscilla gave consent,
Though seeming not to care,
And when he called around that night
They occupied one chair.

Vows were exchanged, and later on
A bright and costly ring
He'll learn a few things when he buys
A hat for her next spring.

Repartee.

"There are better men than you in the penitentiary."

"You are standing proof that there are worse men outside of it."

"As long as you are at liberty I should think the police would be ashamed to draw their pay."

"Say, whenever I see you at large I can't help wondering what it costs you a year to bribe the dog catcher."

"On the square, how large a reward is there out for you?"

"Fifteen cents. Better try to capture it, and you will have more money than you ever had before in your life at one time."

"I'd be ashamed to take more than 5 cents of it."

"You mean life would be complete if you had the price of one beer."

Let Him Down Easy.

When some dear friend a book has penned,
Although a volume small,
See to it that the leaves are cut
Before he makes a call.

May Have Stolen It.

"He didn't even know that he had a solar plexus."

"I'll bet he knew it all the time, but didn't want to own up because he came by it dishonestly."

Economy.

"Why did he run for office when he knew he would get left?"

"He wanted to get his picture in the papers."

"Huh! It would have been cheaper to have been cured by some patent medicine."

Foiled.

A lady dignified and calm
Was seated in her chair
When, with a sudden spring, she rose
And bounded through the air.

And thrice she ran about the room,
Her hands extended wild
And beating at the air as though
It were an angry child.

Had she gone crazy all at once?
I really cannot say,
But that moth miller dodged her blows
And once more got away.

Lesser Evil.

"Poor man, he has lost his grip."

"Lucky it wasn't his trunk."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It is easy to say a mean thing, but it is hard to draw dividends on it.

A man that is always giving taffy to the girls need not be surprised to find them stuck up.

Some people smile because they feel like it and some because their teeth are good.

There are lots of people who wouldn't lie if they could get along just as well without it.

Many people will befriend you if it will pay them to do so, and some will even do so if it simply won't cost them anything.

It would be much easier to see that it would be wise to have nothing to do with some things if we could only begin with the end of them.

There are some people who really wouldn't know how to behave if they were out of debt.

Money won't buy everything, it is said; but, then, who wants everything?

Few men care to push a good thing along. They grab for it and try to nail it down.

A woman's artistic sense is always offended when she sees another woman with a more expensive hat than she herself can afford to buy.

Some men treat their stomach as though it were their worst enemy.

Report of Quincy Association for the Year.

Issued by President and General Secretary.

Work Varied and Far Reaching—All Wards Interested.

R. D. Chase, the president, and Ernest G. Gay, general secretary, have issued the following condensed report of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association, and its friends will be pleased at the success of the past year. The work is more varied than many suppose.

Report of the Young Men Christian Association of Quincy for year ending April 30, 1905, is condensed below from department reports presented at the annual meeting held May 27, 1905.

The year just closed has been the most important to this work of any since the Association's organization thirteen years ago.

A permanent home, complete in equipment, and beautifully appointed has become an accomplished fact for the young men and boys of this city.

On June 28, after a long, and earnest canvass for funds careful deliberation, and prayer for divine guidance, it was voted to begin building operations. Ground was broken on the Fourth of July. The corner stone was laid by Governor John L Bates, with appropriate exercises on September 29. The gymnasium was occupied December 20. The first dormitory was occupied February 27 of this year. The first Directors' meeting in the new building was held on February 21. The main part of the plant was open to the public, April 25, although not fully completed until two weeks later.

By the above it will be seen that a four months' work has been done, in the gymnasium, in addition to the educational work, commenced two months earlier.

The work under various hindrances, for instance that of the educational department, in hired rooms,—has been successful beyond expectation, and all other lines of work undertaken during the few months in the incomplete building give every reason to believe that this work has a great future. It is earnestly hoped that persons of large means will soon realize this and early come to the support of the movement fully and heartily.

Merited appreciation of the Women's Auxiliary is felt for their great fidelity and substantial financial help.

MEMBERSHIP.

The present membership is as follows:

Sustaining,	25
Full,	80
Limited,	70
Total,	239

These all joined before the building was completed. Sixty took educational class work, 150 gymnasium privileges. Every ward in the city is represented. There are sixteen nationalities and 10 religious denominations. Ages range from 12 to 60 years. Average age of seniors is 22 years.

SOCIAL AND ENTERTAINMENT.

Owing to the building being incomplete the social work was confined to the hospitable bearing of the employed officials and the general social atmosphere of the place. One entertainment was held, a mock trial, netting a round sum for the building fund.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

A reading room was established early after occupying the gymnasium, where daily papers were installed. Twenty-five regular periodicals are now on file, among them are such technical ones as Marine Engineering, American Machinist, Motor Age, Rudder and Granite.

Class work was inaugurated in the "Old Court Room," November first. The enrollment was as follows:

Arithmetic	8
English	11
Mechanical Drawing	33
Monumental and Freehand	19
Total	71
Total attendance,	1,420
Number of sessions,	124
Cost of Instruction,	$285.00
Cost of hall, light and advertising,	$133.00
Received from tuitions,	$280.00
Received from membership fees,	$130.00

The average attendance was remarkably good being above eighty-two per cent. for the four classes the entire year. When it is considered that this standard was attained in an unattractive bired hall with no other privileges to offer, all paying a tuition fee averaging $5.00 in addition to their membership fee of $2.00, some idea of the need may be seen and the future of the school estimated.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT.

The class schedule began January 7.

Number of classes held weekly, 11.

	Av. Attendance.
For business men 2,	5
For young men 3,	20
For students 2,	7
For working boys 2,	7
For juniors 2,	30

110 medical examinations were given by the examining staff, Drs. Johnson and Sargent.

Lockers rented 113. Bowling alleys are a marked feature, 3616 strings bowled.

Total number using gymnasium, and baths is estimated at 2,500 (for four months.)

BOYS' WORK.

There are 53 Juniors, and 11 Intermediates. The gymnasium has necessarily been the strongest feature. Bible class work was attempted with 20 boys enrolled. Six boys attended the State Conference in March, and five spent two weeks at Camp Durrell last summer.

RELIGIOUS WORK.

Much of this work is incapable of tabulation. Much help has already been given to many young men. Sunday afternoon meetings were begun in February. Nine were held in the gymnasium averaging 101 in attendance. Good music and strong speakers characterized them all.

Shop meetings at the Fore River Shipyard held weekly at noon for 21 weeks averaging 333 men (estimated.) The Association has recognized the value and needs of the State, International and Foreign work, by contributing to their support.

FINANCIAL.

Running expenses, chiefly for last four months.

The receipts were as follows:

Balance Apr. 30, 1904	$15.39
From Membership fees	1186.50
" Subscriptions	60.00
" Dormitory rentals	104.00
" Bowling Alleys (Net)	122.40
" Locker rents	94.75
" Educational Department	280.00
" Religious Department	71.00
" Miscellaneous sources	26.90
	$1,960.94

The expenditures were:

Salaries (Phys. Dir. and Janitor from Dec. 1.)	$572.50
Fuel and Light	285.42
Educational Department	471.50
Physical Department	34.35
Religious	92.69
Office and Incidentals	85.65
Miscellaneous including Insurance for three years	412.44
	$1,954.55
Balance on hand	6.39
	$1,960.94

Special attention is called to the Treasurer's report. It will be seen that nearly $2000 was raised from membership fees, rentals and other natural returns from the work, no money was solicited outside the board of directors. Expenses were wholly offset and a small balance is shown.

The Finance Committee take this occasion to solicit financial aid of friends for the year now entered upon. Some $3000 will be required in addition to membership fees and returns from work.

In rendering this report to the contributors and the community in general we desire to acknowledge with thankfulness the guiding hand of God during the whole year, and to look to Him, whose work this is, for future success in bringing young men and boys to a fuller knowledge and recognition of Him,—which means a better manhood for themselves.

BOARD OF TRADE

Hear Instructive Talk on Steel.

By R. C. Drinker of Shipyard.

Also Take Action on the Bridge Hearing.

An interesting meeting was held by the Quincy Board of Trade on Wednesday evening at its rooms in the Adams building. It was expected that H. G. Smith, general manager of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., would address the meeting. He was, however, unable to be present.

The committee were fortunate in securing R. C. Drinker of the steel department of the Fore River Co., who gave an interesting talk on steel. It was a very instructive address and one that every granite manufacturer and worker of steel should have heard.

In opening Mr. Drinker said the difference between steel and wrought iron was the amount of carbon contained. On a diagram he showed by a table the amount of carbon contained in rivet steel, the softest steel in use, also bridge steel, car axles, steel rails, spring steel, cutting tools, grey cast iron and wrought iron, the diagram also giving the tensile strength per square inch of each.

Mr. Drinker said his talk would be largely of technical language, but he was plainly so thorough a master of his business that he was able to make his hearers understand the subject.

He showed a diagram of the Catalan furnace, the most ancient used for producing steel.

He explained how steel was then produced, comparing with the method in use today at the Carnegie plant, which was also shown. By successive drawings he showed the furnaces and crucibles in use today, and explained their manner of use.

He explained the process of manufacture of bessemer steel. How the great heat necessary was obtained by chemical combination, and explained why it was this steel was so cheap.

From the steel furnaces, the speaker spoke of and illustrated by drawings the hearth system of furnaces, the combination of alloys used in obtaining nickel steel used on battleships, the method of tempering, and explained the pyrometer the delicate little machine by the use of which it was possible to get the exact temper desired.

He also said that the outside of the nickel plates used on battleships was hard but the inside next to the vessel was soft. If the plate was of equal hardness all through, the minute it was struck by a projectile it would break like a crockery plate but having a soft back it was able to withstand the shock.

Mr. Drinker then spoke informally of the method our government used for testing, and its system of inspections.

A number of questions were asked by the gentlemen present and were readily answered by the speaker.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Drinker for his talk.

Refreshments of hot coffee, sandwiches, etc., were served.

Before the meeting adjourned, a committee was appointed to appear at the hearing, before the County Commissioners Saturday, to have the grade of the approach to the Atlantic bridge reduced.

PRACTICAL TALK.

Mothers Addressed by Dr. Sargent on Contagious Diseases.

There was a large attendance of ladies and babies Wednesday afternoon at the Mothers' meeting in Bethany chapel. The meeting was an interesting as well as a practical one, as much valuable information was imparted to the mothers by the informal talk given them by Dr. W. L. Sargent. While this meeting was in progress the children were entertained in a side room.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. Edward A. Chase of Wollaston, and Mrs. Frank Moore sang two selections.

Dr. Sargent was introduced and gave a healthful talk on contagious diseases among children. He spoke particularly of scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, etc., defining the symptoms of each, their progress and development and manner of treatment.

Each subject was treated separately and was illustrated with photographs showing the eruptions and conditions of the skin.

He also explained the use of antitoxin, which is used so largely in diphtheria. A bottle of the fluid was shown and its method of manufacture was explained at length.

After the meeting refreshments were served by Miss Park and Miss Gilson.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Dr. Osler says freckled girls are good wives; they are invariably more amiable. Yet there are many ladies with Titian locks who are noticeably freckled; and there is a popular superstition, proven true by experience, that red haired ladies do not always maintain an amiable disposition under all circumstances.—Brockton Enterprise.

☞ America makes more beer than Germany, more caviare than Russia, is rapidly overhauling Italy in the spaghetti business, and as for Dutch cheese, Holland is nowhere in comparison with us. We have a practical monopoly in cotton, are far in the lead as a producer of tobacco, make them all still when it comes to corn, and ask few of them any odds as to wheat. But we must not become too proud or puffed up. We lead the whole world, except Russia, in professional grafters, our crop of predatory trusts distances competition in greed and law defiance, and as a nation we bave less regard for human life, and less respect for law enforcement than any people on earth. We are a great nation, but far from perfect.—Gloucester Times.

☞ They have crude ideas of justice in the sparcely settled portions of New Hampshire. It is not popular to put the county to a heavy expense to convict a criminal. If the victim of his crime is not too persistent, the demands of justice are satisfied if the wrong doer will leave the State. For crimes of less magnitude than injury to the person, as robbery or arson, in many communities the moral sense of the people is not severely startled. It is common to say that in the cities there is a lack of moral sense, and that vice and immorality have free rein there, but there are communities in the mountainous parts of the Granite State where the advocates of purity of life and conversation would receive a severe shock were they to make a little investigation. There is work for home missionaries in New Hampshire as well as in Tennessee.—Lynn Item.

☞ Opinion as to the degeneracy of the amusement-seeking public of America will have to be amended. Nan Patterson has discovered that she is no attraction upon the stage, and, with decreasing audiences, she has finally quit her engagement and gone into the retirement of her home. Undoubtedly the character of the play had something to do with her failure, although it must have been expected that no production of the first class would have made the bid which she accepted, but the fact is that she attempted to capitalize the reputatiou gained by her part in the murder trial in New York and has failed to realize upon the investment. She complains that the American people have been unkind to her and that she ought to have been allowed to succeed, after all the trouble she has been through, but it is also a most delightful hair dressing for regular toilet use. No other hair preparation is on this scientific basis of destoying the dandruff germs. It stops all irritation, keeps the scalp sweet, pure and wholesome. KING IS DETHRONED

Norway Declares Herself Free From Rule of Oscar

DISSOLUTION OF UNION

A Young Bernadotte Prince Is Wanted to Occupy Throne--Trouble Arose Over Maintainance of Separate Consulships

Christiania, Norway, June 8.—The storthing has declared the union between Norway and Sweden under one king to be dissolved, and that the king has ceased to act as king of Norway. The storthing further empowered the present state council to act as a government of Norway until further notice and to exercise the power heretofore appertaining to the king.

An address to the king was adopted, declaring that no ill-feeling was entertained against him, his dynasty or the Swedish nation, and asking his majesty to co-operate in the selection of a young prince of the house of Bernadotte to occupy the throne of Norway.

The Norwegians maintain that the king, by not revoking his veto of the law for separate consular representation, and partly also by his absence from Norway, has suspended his rights and duties as King of Norway.

One of the causes for the desire in Sweden and Norway for separate consular systems was the fact that Sweden is protectionist and Norway is for free trade and also because of Norway's extensive sea trade and other divergencies of commercial interests.

By the treaty of Kiel, Jan. 14, 1814, Norway was ceded to the King of Sweden by the King of Denmark, but the Norwegian people did not recognize this cession and declared themselves independent. A constituent assembly adopted on May 17, 1814, a constitution and elected the Danish Prince Christian Frederick to be King of Norway.

The Swedish troops, however, entered Norway, and, the foreign powers refusing to recognize the new king, the parties concluded on Aug. 14 a convention by which the independence of Norway in union with Sweden was proclaimed. An extraordinary storthing was then convoked and adopted the modifications in the constitution made necessary by the union of Sweden and then elected King Charles XIII King of Norway Nov. 4, 1814.

The following year a charter was promulgated establishing new fundamental laws on the terms that the union of the two kingdoms be indissoluble and irrevocable, without prejudice, however, to the separate government constitution and code of laws of either Sweden or Norway.

The founder of the house of Bernadotte was Jean Baptiste Jules Bernadotte, a field marshal of Napoleon I, who became minister of war in 1799, served with distinction at Austerlitz in 1805, was elected Crown Prince of Sweden in 1810, commanded the army of the north against Napoleon in 1813, and as Charles XIV, became King of Sweden and Norway in 1818. He died in 1844. He was succeeded by his only son, Oscar I, who married Josephine, a daughter of Eugene Beauharnais, formerly viceroy of Italy. Oscar I died in 1859 and was succeeded by his eldest son, Charles XV. The latter died in 1872 and the crown descended to his brother, Oscar II, who yesterday was declared by the storthing to have ceased to act as King of Norway.

The younger sons of the house of Bernadotte have borne the title of Prince of Sweden and Norway. Oscar II has four sons—Gustave, the crown prince, who acted as regent; Prince Oscar, Prince Carl and Prince Eugene. Gustave was born in 1858, is married and has three sons; Prince Oscar was born in 1859, renounced his succession to the throne and married in 1888 Ebba Munck; Prince Carl was born in 1861, and married in 1897 Princess Ingoberg, daughter of Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark. Prince Eugene was born in 1865 and is not married.

The eldest son of the Swedish crown prince, Prince Gustavus Adolphus (born in 1882), is betrothed to the eldest daughter of the Duke of Connaught, Princess Margaret Victoria (born in 1882). They are to be married in England on June 17.

Prince Waldemar, youngest son of the King of Denmark, was born Oct. 27, 1858, and was married Oct. 22, 1885, to Princess Marie of Orleans, eldest daughter of the Duke of Chartres. They have four sons and one daughter.

EUROPE DISTURBED

Separation May Result In International Complications

London, June 8.—The revolution in Norway, though anticipated and peacefully effected, has come upon Europe with unexpected suddenness, and the question is asked with some anxiety whether it will mean international complications. Had Russia not been involved in a difficult war in the far east it is doubtful whether Norway would have taken the present momentous step, which is not likely to be regarded with approval by European powers. Emperor William's omission of his customary tour of Norway this year seems to indicate his disapproval of the Norwegian policy and the fact that the coup d'etat is not unlikely to eventuate in the establishment of a Norwegian republic would alone be a reason why the step should not commend itself to the monarchial powers.

In their editorials London newspapers comment on the extreme seriousness of the step Norway has taken, many expressing the hope that there may yet be time for the Norwegian people to reconsider their position and endeavor to adjust the difficulty regarding the consular question by arbitration or other means so as to preserve the union which it is contended is necessary for the welfare of both countries. The prospects of such an adjustment, however, appear to be of the slightest.

British sympathies appear to be strongly on the side of Sweden and King Oscar, more especially as an English princess is about to marry a prince who is in direct line of succession to the Swedish throne.

Exhibition of Swedish Loyalty

Stockholm, June 8.—The Norwegian coup d'etat was answered here last night by a great patriotic demonstration of loyalty to and sympathy with King Oscar. A great procession went to Rosendal castle, where bands played the national anthem. In a few minutes the king and other members of the royal family appeared on a balcony of the castle and were enthusiastically cheered by the demonstrators.

Though greatly excited over the situation, the populace remains outwardly calm. King Oscar held a council last evening at which the situation was considered. Newspapers of Copenhagen, commenting on the action of the Norwegian storthing, take an extremely serious view of the crisis.

Manila, June 8.—Rear Admiral Enquist received at 1 o'clock this morning the following cable dispatch from St. Petersburg:

"Remain at Manila at the disposition of the American government. Effect repairs as much as possible.—Nicholai."

Governor General Wright has requested Rear Admiral Train to arrange for the disposition of the Russian warships and their officers and crews.

Alfonso Enjoying Himself

London, June 8.—Under improved weather conditions, King Alfonso of Spain paid an official visit to the city and was entertained at luncheon by the lord mayor and corporation of London. The processions were of the most imposing character and afforded the people an opportunity of giving a hearty welcome to the young monarch. Lord Lansdowne last night gave a dinner in honor of Alfonso. After the dinner the Spanish ruler was present at a ball given by the Marchioness of Londonderry.

Nan Patterson Disheartened

Altoona, Pa., June 8.—Discouraged at the support accorded her, disheartened by the severe adverse criticism of her conduct and completely broken in spirit, Nan Patterson, the "Florodora girl," severed her connection with "The Romance of Panama" company, with which she was touring, and left here for her home in Washington. Miss Patterson was greeted by a slim audience, and the few women in the house went away before the performance was half over.

New York, June 8.—Henry Wagner, aged 26, was stabbed to death at his home in Brooklyn last night by his wife, who immediately surrendered herself and is under arrest. Wagner is said to have attacked the woman, who seized a carving knife and stabbed him in the left breast, the knife penetrating the heart.

CITY BREVITIES.

A long cold storm.

Tomorrow is circus day.

The City Council Committee on Finance meet tonight.

Many children were on the lookout for the no-school signal this morning.

The High school girls will have score cards for their field day on Saturday.

Hugh P. Tracy, of Washington street, is agent for the Equitable Accident Company, and invites the citizens to call and see him if they would like a policy.

The weather has not been warm and pleasant enough to ripen native strawberries, but nevertheless the Knights of Malta will have some luscious ones this evening at their festival.

The hearing to be given Saturday by the County Commissioners on changing the decree for rebuilding the Atlantic bridge will be held in the Probate court rooms instead of the Council Chambers, City hall.

Missionaries Ready to Depart

Boston, June 8.—Seventeen newly appointed foreign missionaries, who will leave in a few days for their respective posts in India, Africa, Japan and China, were given a farewell reception here last night. S. B. Capen of the American Board said that if missionaries had not gone to Japan there would be no open door and no religious freedom in those islands.

Hanging Perhaps Accidental

Bristol, R. I., June 8.—The body of John Matroni, 18 years old, was found hanging in an office of a factory where he was employed as a messenger. According to fellow-employes, Matroni had been experimenting with gallows to experience the sensations of hanging and they suggest that while engaged in an experiment of this kind Matroni accidentally killed himself.

Alleged Fugitive From Jnstice

Boston, June 8.—S. H. Farnham, aged 40, was arrested here last night, charged with being a fugitive from justice from the state of Michigan. The officer who made the arrest refused to say in what city Farnham is wanted or the nature of the alleged offense for which he was arrested.

Fell In Front of Car

Lawrence, Mass., June 8.—Henry Kretviz, 71 years old, fell in front of a Lawrence-bound Haverhill car last night and received injuries from which he died. His skull was fractured.

Burial of General Boynton

Washington, June 8.—With distinctive military and civic honors, the former befitting his rank in two wars, and the latter his notable record in other spheres of service to his country, General Boynton, soldier, journalist and publicist, was buried at the National cemetery at Arlington. The ceremonies were attended by a host of friends he had made in over half a century of active public life.

Struck a Sunken Wreck

Delaware Breakwater, Del., June 8.—Schooner William R. Huston, Philadelphia for Boston with a cargo of soft coal, encountered a gale off the Delaware capes and in returning to the breakwater struck a sunken barge, knocking a hole in the hull. The vessel was saved from sinking by the energetic work of the crew at the pumps.

Beef Investigation to Go On

Chicago, June 8.—Instructions have been received by the federal grand jury which has been investigating the affairs of the beef industries for the past two months to continue the investigation and return indictments if the jurors find that the testimony warrants such action.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitntional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A CONFESSED THIEF

Accountant Karr Robbed Smithsonian Institution

MANIPULATED ACCOUNTS

He Carried on Dishonest Practice For Fifteen Years, During Which Time He Embezzled $40,000--Makes Clean Breast

Washington, June 8.—William W. Karr, accountant of the Smithsonian institution and disbursing agent for the government bureaus under it, is under arrest on the charge of embezzlement, which, according to his own confession, aggregates $46,000. His stealings, he confessed, have been going on for the past 15 years.

Karr is 50 years old, came to Washington from Memphis, and has been identified with the Smithsonian institution since 1880. The embezzlement was accomplished by making use of checks sent to the Smithsonian institution in payment of miscellaneous transactions. The warrant on which he was arrested was sworn out by Secretary Langley of the institution. It is expected that efforts will be made to secure Karr's release on bond. He has a wife and four children.

The Smithsonian institution has what is known as an international exchange service through which it forwards to foreign governments certain documents, books, etc., of various states and institutions of various kinds. For this service a charge of 5 cents a pound is made. It was Karr's practice, according to his statement, to have the checks sent to the institution for this work cashed, and the money, or such portions of it as he did not turn into the treasury, was used for his own purposes. He manipulated the accounts of the institution before their presentation to the auditing committee so as to cover up his stealings.

The shortage was first discovered early this week, when a check presented at the treasury department was refused payment. Prompt measures were taken to have Karr kept under surveillance, and following a close examination of the books of the institution he was placed under arrest. Karr had not been at his office since last Thursday. He is completely prostrated and when pressed for a statement of his wrong-doings finally yielded and made a clean breast of the whole affair.

Karr's salary was $2500 a year. As accountant of the Smithsonian institution he was not bonded, but as the disbursing agent for the allied government bureaus under it he was required to furnish bond. The government does not lose any money as a result of Karr's embezzlement, all the loss falling on the Smithsonian.

Got Dose of His Own Medicine

Portland, Or., June 8.—Charles McGinty, a wife beater, suffered 20 lashes on the bare back here, being the first sufferer under the new state law. The whip was a braided blacksnake made of rawhide, with four lashes. McGinty, after being sentenced, was hustled to jail, where he was stripped to the waist. His manacled hands were tied to a door in the jail corridor high above his head. Blood was drawn at the fourth blow. McGinty writhed and groaned and strained at the manacles binding his wrists.

Wanted to Marry Miss Roosevelt

Bloomington, Ills., June 8.—Secret service men from Washington arrested John Johnson, a Swede, for writing letters to Miss Alice Roosevelt. Johnson said that he was sent here from Sweden to marry Miss Roosevelt and communicated his mission in letters to the president's daughter. The arrest followed. Johnson was at once committed to an insane asylum. He was a former inmate, but had been out for two years.

Wants Charges Investigated

Washington, June 8.—Secretary Cheatham of the Southern Cotton Growers' association, who has made charges of irregularities in the preparation and publication of the government crop report, has left with Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture certain documentary evidence bearing on the charges which he has made and asks for an investigation of them.

Equitable Reforms Recommended

New York, June 8.—Resolutions suggestions suggesting radical reforms in the management of the Equitable Life Assurance society were adopted at a meeting of the directors. These affect all the high officials and presage a sweeping curtailment of the society's general expenses. The resolutions also imply many important changes in the financial policy of the society.

Deputy Shot Four Men

Saginaw, Mich., June 8.—The city is teeming with excitement as a result of the shooting of four men, one of them fatally, by a special deputy, who was acting as guard for the non-union crew of a street car. Fred Harris is under arrest, charged with the shooting. This is the fifth day of the Saginaw Valley street railway strike.

Senator Dolliver Undergoes Operation

Washington, June 8.—Senator Dolliver of Iowa has undergone an operation for an affection of the ducts in the upper part of the nose and above the right eye. It was entirely successful. It is expected that the senator will entirely recover soon.

To Wipe Out Colonization

Philadelphia, June 8.—Mayor Weaver has directed Director of Public Safety Potter to issue an order to the employes of the seven departments under the latter's control, directing them to examine the list of voters in their respective divisions and to report the number of voters registered from their residences and the number of actual voters entitled to vote from their homes. It is alleged that the police and firemen of the city have used their homes for the purpose of colonization of voters.

Nuptial Knot Tied In Buggy

Humboldt, Tenn., June 8.—Ira Cherry of Memphis and Miss Carry Tanner of Trenton drove up to the parsonage of the Methodist church and were united in marriage by Rev. J. W. Waters. The couple were married sitting in the buggy, saying they preferred to solemnize the affair underneath the wide spreading maples that adorned the church and parsonage lot.

American Racers to Contest

London, June 8.—The American yachts Atlantic, Utowana and Apache, which recently took part in the trans-Atlantic race for the Emperor of Germany's cup, have been entered in the race for auxiliary steam yachts from Dover to Heligoland, which will take place June 17.

McKinley Monument Unveiled

Reading, Pa., June 8.—An immense parade of Grand Army bodies in honor of the unveiling of the monument to former President McKinley took place here. The monument, which was erected at a cost of $10,000, was placed in City park.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Merrill memorial library, which was built at an expense of $26,000 by Joseph E. Merrill of Newton, Mass., was dedicated at Yarmouth, Me., with appropriate ceremonies.

The Boston Young Women's Christian association announces the receipt of legacies and subscriptions to the amount of $50,000. The money will be used to enlarge the association's building or to erect a new structure.

The plans to amalgamate the rival organizations of window-glass workers have been abandoned, and the old organization will not participate in the convention called for Cleveland on July 11.

The suicide of a prominent banker, Emmanuel Eggley, caused a slight flurry on the Paris bourse, where he had large interests. The disturbance was temporary.

MEYER VISITS CZAR

Asks What President Can Do to Assist Early Peace

THE REPORT OF CASSINI

Importance of Its Effect Upon Russia Can Scarcely Be Over-Estimated--Roosevelt Can Obtain From Japanese Minister at Washington General Statement of Japanese Terms

Washington, June 8.—Diplomatic Washington is aroused to a point of expectancy unequalled since the inception of the war in the far east by the news from St. Petersburg of the czar's wish to know Japan's peace terms. This interest is heightened by a call which Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, made at the White House by appointment last evening. He called shortly after 9 o'clock and immediately went into conference with the president. They remained together about 20 minutes. When the minister left he declined to answer any question about his call.

The press bulletin announcing the cabling of a message to the Russian ambassador at Washington and Paris that Russia wished to know Japan's peace terms was immediately communicated to the diplomats most interested.

The president had confided to an ambassador who called at the White House that he expected Ambassador Meyer to be received at Tsarskoe-Selo yesterday or today. The instructions to Meyer did not provide for a formal tender of good offices. While it is impossible to give their text, they may be correctly paraphrased in these words: "Find out from the czar what we can do to assist an early peace."

Much was left to the tact and diplomatic discretion of Meyer as to the manner and words in which the friendly readiness of this country in the present moment should be made known to the czar. Care was also taken that Meyer's conference with the czar should not occur until Cassini's report had reached Tsarskoe-Selo.

It can be stated very emphatically that in transmitting a faithful report of what occurred at the White House last Friday afternoon Cassini emphasized the sympathetic and friendly frankness with which the president, speaking informally and personally, expressed his strong desire for peace. It is generally realized here that the importance of that report can scarcely be over-estimated.

To all of his callers the ambassador, while admitting that "the moment was full of possibilities," had no news to impart, and this applied to his closest friends among his diplomatic confreres.

Whether, upon receiving from Cassini an official expression that the czar wishes to know the mikado's peace terms, the president will be able to obtain a statement of this subject from Japan remains to be seen.

Diplomats, however, recall the statement of Takahira some days ago to the effect that when Russia really wanted to know Japan's terms she could easily find them out without communicating directly with Tokio. This is taken to mean that with such an official intimation in his possession, the president can obtain from Minister Takahira a general statement of Japan's terms for transmission to Russia.

Great Britain, as the ally of Japan, it is understood here, has felt unable to participate in the preliminary activities initiated by the president since the annihilation of the Russian fleet. Desirous as is the London government for peace, its officials point out that, so far as an ally can determine, Japan has not been unreasonable throughout the present struggle.

It is declared on good authority that thus far no circular note has been addressed to the American ambassadors abroad, but that their instructions have been informal, though dictated directly from the White House.

Meyer's Visit to the Czar

St. Petersburg, June 8.—With Ambassador Meyer's delivery to the czar yesterday afternoon of President Roosevelt's message tendering his good offices, the prospect of the president's efforts to bring the belligerents together in peace negotiations is believed to be distinctly brighter.

It is equally evident that the situation is an exceedingly delicate one, Ambassador Meyer, when seen last night, absolutely declining to say a word regarding his visit to Tsarskoe-Selo, the mission with which he is charged, or the czar's response.

The centre of interest is again transferred back to Washington. Count Cassini has doubtless received instructions from the czar. However, it will probably require some little time to finally decide whether success shall crown the president's efforts to end the war.

The fact of Meyer's visit to Tsarskoe-Selo is up to the present known only in the higher official circles, many diplomats being entirely unaware of this important event.

In the meantime it is necessary to state that there is not the slightest surface indication of any change in the situation regarding the continuation of the war.

Eleven Policemen Lose Jobs

Philadelphia, June 8.—Mayor Weaver last night dismissed 11 men from the police force for dereliction of duty.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Mrs. E. A. Penniman has been spending the past few days with her sister at the Point.

The patrol wagon was called to the Point Wednesday to carry a drunken man to the station.

It will require sixteen votes in the City Council to pass an order for the enlargement of the High school.

Children's Sunday will be observed at the Washington Street Congregational church on Sunday morning.

The card of A. B. Hultman will be found in today's issue. He would be pleased to collect bills and rents for any who may wish.

Services will be resumed at St. Frances church, Houghs Neck, on Sunday with a mass at 8 A. M. During the past year the church has been enlarged and refurnished.

Quincy was well represented in the 271 members of the graduating class of the Boston University to receive degrees on Wednesday. The degree of A. B. was awarded to Elizabeth A. Burns of Quincy, Helen G. Holbrook of Atlantic and Frances W. Saunders of Wollaston.

At the session of the probate court at Dedham, Wednesday, administrations were granted on estates of Emma Peterson, Jeremiah J. Callahan and James Keniley late of Quincy; Edward E. Dyer and Frank W. Tisdale late of Weymouth.

Accounts were allowed at the probate court at Dedham on Wednesday on the following estates: Abigail Bosworth of Quincy, for $150; Arthur W. Austin of Milton, for $360,890.63; William A. Creed of Weymouth, for $3,137; Margaret L. Sullivan of Weymouth for $342.50.

The Monitor A. C. added another victory to their long list by taking the Merrywells of Penns Hill into camp on Wednesday by the score of 15 to 14. With the score against them, Higgins knocked a home run, coming in with a man ahead of him, thus winning the game.

FANCY DANCING.

Many Novelties at Dancing School Ball.

The grand climax of a season's training in dancing was shown Tuesday evening in Atlantic Music hall, at the exhibition of fancy figures given by the pupils of Miss Lena Crane. Not only had Miss Crane excellent material with which to work, but also her own unusual talent for imparting the dainty and pleasing touches of the finished dancer to every one of her pupils. Brilliant and appropriate costumes added to grace and vivaciousness, youthful unconsciousness added to technic the charm that is often absent from older dancers. The spectators not content with applause, offered many large bouquets to the deserving participants in the exhibition.

Only tireless efforts on the part of teacher and pupils could make such an undertaking culminate in perfection. The program was as follows, after a grand march led by Beatrice Rogers and Ruth Ewell and a waltz, two-step and schottische:

Cow Boys, — Percy Josylin, Guy Aldrich, Winthrop Safford, Jim Murray, Stanley Churchill, Maynard Dominick.

Highland Fling,—Marion Cockum and Willett Safford.

Skirt Dance,—Louise Churchill.

Piroquettes,—Francis Roster, Marion Cockum, Dorothy Greet, Eloise Chipman; Solo, Little Evelyn Forbes.

Scarf Dance,—Helen Courier.

ONE RELEASED.

A Shipbuilder the First One to Profit by New Law.

Patrick Graham, a ship worker at the Fore River Works, was the first man to be released in Quincy under the new drunk law. Graham was arrested Wednesday afternoon by Officer Larkin and in the evening when sobered off asked to be released.

He subscribed to the necessary statement, and Sergeant Barry after consulting with Probation Officer Spear by telephone released him.

Probation Officer Spear does not care to express himself at length as to the new law at present, as he desires to have an opportunity to observe the working of it for a few days. Some of the officers, however, are not favorably inclined toward it, believing that it will tend to increase drunkenness. Many do not allow themselves to be overcome with liquor for the fear of arrest and being brought into court. Knowing now that they may be released on the first offense they will not care.

THIRTEEN CASES.

A Dozen Autoists Fined in Court for Overspeeding.

Thirteen automobile speeders were lined up before Judge Avery this morning for exceeding the speed limit. Of this number five were held up in Weymouth, and eight were on the Blue Hills parkway. Fines were imposed as follows.

Walter A. Carl of Boston; T. Albert Oakes of Boston; Albert L. Lovejoy of Hyde Park; Joseph C. Fraser of Wollaston; Bliss A. Price of Boston; Arthur Ravbotham of Boston, Eben Van Evera of Boston, $10 each.

Samuel M. Hannon of Marshfield, F. B. Sharp of Boston, F. S. Onnish of Boston, Frank Brown of Milton, William G. Cook of Boston, $5 each.

The thirteenth man was Harry H. Newcomb of Boston, whose case was continued until June 15.

FAILDED TO RESPOND

Was Invited to Arrange Dates for Ward Three Playground.

Editor of the Ledger:

In your issue of June 6, the South Quincy baseball team laments that it is "without a field"; we are sorry that a team of its standing and reputation should be in such a plight considering that, it too, had the opportunity to meet with several other teams in the city and arrange, on equal terms, for dates on the Ward Three playground.

It is really too bad that the good citizens of Quincy should be deprived of the fine spectacle of seeing the South Quincys playing ball, there is, too the loss of some choice language, expletives that arrest the attention of the most phlegmatic, and "sauce" of a kind that sets the blood astiring; all this will be lost.

We admit that a few "school boys" trying to play ball would be a poor substitute for such cracks as the "South Quincys" and the public will bear us out in this, but the young men that form the "Granite City League" are a little more than mere "school boys" and guarantee to hold the public interest and tickle the taste for good play as much as the renowned "South Quincys."

We are short of jag rimmed epithets, however, and would warn the public that we are "kind o' innocent" in that respect, but make no apologies for our play and are ready to meet any team of whatever calibre.

The Granite City league, which has secured dates on the Ward Three playground, did so honorably, and intend to fill these dates with good play, and if the public has the time and the disposition to patronize us on these dates they will be treated to first class play, without any unseemly swagger.

Any appeal to the public for the purpose of favoring the "South Quincy" team with dates for the Ward three. Playground should be unceremoneously tabooed, as that team failed to respond, in any way to an invitation to meet at the residence of a prominent citizen with other Quincy teams, and arrange on dates that would as near as is possible, be fair to all, citizens of Quincy. What say you?

Granite City League.

SPARKS TWO FEET LONG

An Electric Current of 500,000 Volts Through a Man's Body

Lynn, Mass., June 8.—To demonstrate how little danger there is in electrical force when properly and scientifically handled, Professor Elihu Thomson of this city permitted over 500,000 volts to pass through his body without displaying the slightest tremor or experiencing the slightest physical discomfort from the test. The demonstration was made for the benefit of the members of the Commercial club of Boston.

Professor Thomson adjusted a special apparatus to his body. A high frequency current was used, and the professor completed the circuit. Suddenly there was a flash from the finger tips and electrical sparks two feet long flew into the air in quick succession, illuminating two incandescent lights that were held that distance from the fingers.

Robin's Nest on Car Truck

Providence, June 8.—A train which runs between this city and Blackstone, pulls into Blackstone at 1:40 p. m. one day and pulls out on the following day. Recently it was discovered that a robin had started to build its nest on one of the trucks. Naturally the train hands supposed that when the train started out the next day the building operations would come to an end, and the matter was temporarily forgotten. Their surprise was great when a day or two later they noticed that the bird had finished the nest. The other day a small blue egg was discovered in the nest, and now there is another egg there. The trainmen are greatly interested in their unusual passenger.

President Desires No Frills

Boston, June 8.—President Roosevelt has expressed the desire that on his trip to Massachusetts he should not be surrounded with ceremonies, but should be permitted to appear simply as a college man. The tender of an escort was made by Governor Douglas, and also a formal reception by the adjutant general of the commonwealth at the state line. By the president's desire, however, all such formalities will be dispensed with.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Ida Eaton, for selling leased property at Quincy, was heard and she was fined $10. George Abele, Esq., appeared for the government, and J. D. Mackay, Esq. for the defendant.

Big Time in Dorchester.

Committees having in charge the celebration of Dorchester day on Saturday, June 10, have perfected arrangements for a proper observance of the 275th anniversary of the settlement of Dorchester. In the afternoon there is to be a parade, historical exercises, athletic games and a sailing regatta.

The parade will start from Edward Everett square at 2. The line will be headed by the school battalion, Grand Army posts, school cadets, invited guests in carriages and the Dorchester Gentlemen's Driving club with a band in a barge will bring up in the rear.

The parade will proceed to Uphams Corner, thence along Columbia road and Hancock street to Meeting House hill, where, in front of the First church, Rev. E. R. Shippen will deliver a brief historical address. From that point the procession will pass along Pleasant street and other thoroughfares until Savin Hill is reached. There historical exercises will take place under the auspices of the Dorchester Historical Society.

At 3 o'clock a sailing regatta in Dorchester bay. In the evening there will be band concerts, and at 8 o'clock a parade by members of the city government, victorious ball team, band in a drag, etc. At the conclusion a big bonfire from 9 until 10.30.

ADAMS VICTORY.

Revere High Defeated by Score of 13 to 9.

Adams played five and one-half innings Wednesday with Revere High at the Park. It was a very uninteresting exhibition and one-sided till the fifth innings when Finn began to throw easy balls and let Revere knock out six runs. The game didn't begin till 4.30 and there was not time to finish it.

A return game with Hingham High has been arranged for Monday, June 12 at the Park. This game will close the base ball season at Adams Academy.

The coupons in the Sunday paper will be good for ten votes each, and if everyone buys one or more Heralds the aggregate vote will be large.

Don't put off until too late the forwarding of coupons to the Daily Ledger office. Better send what you have this week and one or two instalments next week. Considerable time is required in preparing the votes.

The last coupon will be printed the coming Sunday, and every coupon must be stamped and forwarded on or before June 16, next week Friday.

Married at Ware.

At Mt. Carmel church in Ware on Wednesday morning Mr. Charles Forrant of this city and Miss Ceaney Campbell, daughter of Moise Campbell of 18 Sherman street, were married by Rev. Fr. John Sheehan. The bride's gown was of dotted white swiss muslin with lace trimmings. She wore a veil and carried a prayerbook. Miss Josie Campbell, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of white dimity.

Stephen Forrant of Beverly, brother of the groom, was best man. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. The bride is one of the most popular young women of a large circle. Among many beautiful gifts she received was a golden oak dining room set from her shopmates. After a short wedding trip the couple will take up their residence in Quincy.

SUDDEN DEATH.

One of the Earlier Residents of Wollaston Passes Away.

The death of Mr. Samuel MacKay, of Wollaston, came as a shock to his relatives and friends. Although he had been confined to his home for several weeks on account of pleurisy, he was dressed and about the house on Sunday, when a sudden attack of neuralgia of the heart caused instant death.

He was born in Florenceville, N. B., in 1839, but had resided in Wollaston, for nearly thirty years. Mr. MacKay was modest and retiring and beloved by all who came in contact with him.

The funeral, which was held from his home on Central avenue on Tuesday afternoon, though simple was very impressive and was conducted by Rev. E. D. Webber of the First Baptist church, of which he has been a member for many years. Two solos by Mr. E. E. Bullock, "Passing out of the shadow" and "When I shall see him face to face," were beautiful and gave great comfort to the family.

The interment will be at Westbrook cemetery, Portland, Me.

He leaves a widow and five children to mourn his loss, Mrs. Lena M. Hill, Mrs. H. G. Dunham, Miss Ethel MacKay, Mr. Herbert MacKay and Mr. Albion MacKay.

A large number of beautiful floral offerings were contributed by friends and relatives. A beautiful standing piece of cross and crown by his friends and associates in the Mechanical department of the New England Telegraph and Telephone Co. of Boston; a wreath of calix leaves from the Granite Conclave, I. O. H., 707, and tributes from the Social and Benevolent society of the Baptist church.

RIVER WORK.

Government to Expend Over $22,000

On Town and Fore Rivers.

Will Widen and Deepen the Channels.

The United States engineer's office in Boston is receiving bids which are to be opened at noon time on June 26th for dredging in Town and Weymouth Fore rivers.

In Town river the work required is to dredge the channel to a width of 100 feet and to a depth of four feet at mean low water, extending from off Point Holes to the stone wharf, near the electric light station, at Quincy, a distance of about 4,800 feet. Except the northerly 50 feet of the channel, extending for a distance of 1,500 feet above Point Holes and the northerly 50 feet of the channel for the upper 1,000 feet, the work will all be redredging.

The government will expend $17,750 on the work, the amount to be done to be figured out approximately from the price fixed by the successful bidder.

In the Weymouth Fore River improvement the government will spend $4,500 on the same basis. In each case the government reserves the right to increase or decrease the amount 10 per cent.

The work here is to redredge to a depth of six feet at mean low water and to widths varying from 50 to 80 feet, the channel extending from the lower end of Richards' wharf to a point 900 feet above Braintree bridge, a total distance of about 2,400 feet.

To dredge to the same depth, so far as the balance of the funds will permit, a cut about 25 feet wide, from the upper end of Richards' wharf a distance of about 1,650 feet down river.

In the work of redredging both streams it is believed that the material to be removed consists of soft mud, and in the 25 foot cut of Weymouth river of mud and sand; but each bidder must examine for himself, as the United States does not guarantee the character of the material and no allowance will be made for misunderstanding as to its character.

The successful bidder is to be required to furnish a bond to the amount of 30 per cent. of the contract within 10 days. He must be prepared to commence work within 30 days and to complete it by May 31, 1906. Unless extraordinary and unforeseeable conditions supervene the time allowed for the work is believed to be sufficient for a contractor having the necessary plant, capital and experience. If the work is not completed by the date set the engineer officer in charge may, with the prior sanction of the chief of engineers, waive the time limit and permit the contractor to finish the work within a reasonable period to be determined by the engineer in charge.

The decision of this engineer in charge as to quality and quantity is to be final.

Payments are to be made monthly when the work is satisfactory and accepted. At each payment ten per cent. is to be deducted and retained until the satisfactory completion of the work.

The contractor will be required to hold the United States harmless against all claims.

An inspector, paid by the United States, is to be employed under the direction of the engineer officer in charge, to see that the requirements of the specifications are complied with, and to place and keep the ranges and gauges in proper position and order, but the presence of an inspector will not relieve the contractor of any responsibility for the proper execution of the work.

The work must be at all times directly conducted either by the contractor in person or by a competent superintendent fully empowered to act in the contractor's place, and who will promptly comply with all the requirements of the engineer officer in charge.

Navigation will not be obstructed more than is absolutely necessary.

Work on Sundays and national holidays will not be allowed except in case of extraordinary emergency.

The contractor must obtain the depths prescribed over the entire areas. Payments will be made for depth obtained six inches in excess of the prescribed depths but not for any greater excess.

Boulders less than three tons in weight are to be removed at the price to be paid per cubic yard for dredging. Boulders over three tons are to be paid for at a price per cubic yard to be named in the bids.

All excavated material is to be deposited east of a straight line drawn through Egg Rock and Minot's Ledge lighthouses, and so as not to cause shoaling that in the opinion of the engineer officer in charge would be objectionable.

Strawberry Festival.

John Adams commandery Knights of Malta, had a surprisingly large number at their strawberry festival in Greenleaf hall on Thursday evening, including a large number of ladies.

The entertainment was largely musical, including selections by the Granite City Male Quartette, which received double encores, solos by Miss Hazel Mowry, who was also recalled twice; Miss Walsh, Miss Roake, Mrs. Martin, Mr. Kelly and Mr. William Walker. Miss Davidson gave a piano solo, and Mr. Everett was accompanist.

Sir Knight G. H. Jacques, the commander of the commandery, was chairman of the evening, and told of the benefits of the order, and urged all to become members. Grand Commander Theo. H. Videto was among the guests and in a good natured speech, illustrated by stories, championed the order.

At intermission strawberries and cream, and ices and cake were served. Phonograph selections added to the entertainment of the evening.

More Autoists Fined.

Another batch of automobile speeders were lined-up before Judge Avery this morning, for exceeding the limit at Milton.

Fines of $10 were imposed on William D. Durphy, Frank Shea, Edward Kennedy, Simon W. Boyson, John Darling, Clarence Mark, William E. Eldridge, all of Boston.

Frank S. Pratt of West Newton was fined $10. Walter A. Carl, who was fined $10 Thursday for speeding at Weymouth, was fined $15.

Floral Sunday.

The order of exercises for Floral Sunday at the First church Sunday morning will include a baptismal service when four children will be baptised; also a memoriam service for James Francis Harlow, who died June 26, 1904.

The address of the day will be by Rev. Daniel Munro Wilson, a former pastor, and parts will be taken by the kindergarten and other classes and by the school and individuals.

By Night Work.

Commissioner Burke intends to macadamize a section of City Square in front of the Hancock House block and in order not to interfere with traffic the work will be be done during the night. Four arc lights are being placed near the section to be repaired so that it will be almost as light as day.

TWO AT ONCE.

Miss Dearborn and Mr. Finch Resign.

Long Principals of Quincy Schools,

Both Valuable Teachers Whose Loss is Regretted.

The Ledger has known for a few weeks that Quincy was to lose two of her best school principals, but by request has withheld the news. Miss Mary E. Dearborn of the Coddington, and Mr. Charles E. Finch of the Wollaston and Massachusetts Fields schools have both resigned, much to the regret of the School Committee and the people of Quincy.

The School Committee was in hopes to induce Miss Dearborn to withdraw her resignation, but have thus far been unsuccessful, while Mr. Finch goes to Rochester, N. Y., to a better position.

Miss Dearborn came to Quincy in September, 1876, a few months after Col. Francis W. Parker became superintendent of schools, and therefore completes 29 years of service this month. Should the city adopt the proposed pension for long service, she would by teaching one year more, be eligible for the benefits, 30 years being the usual number of years required in other cities. Miss Dearborn, however, does not think much of the pension plan in other cities which require the teacher to continue to reside in the city and be ready at all times to serve as substitute.

Miss Dearborn's position as principal or master of the Coddington school in the heart of the city has been unique, but at the same time of marked success. She is the only woman principal in the Quincy public schools, and it is an exception in cities to have a woman at the head of grammar schools, especially like the Coddington with 400 to 500 pupils.

Quincy was not the only city, however, that wanted her services. In 1891 she was offered a position in Newton at a salary of $1,600 with a prospect of increase to $1,800 in the near future but she declined.

Miss Dearborn has been associated with "the Quincy System" from its very birth; in fact, she has been a part of it. There is no one in this city today who knows the whole course from D primary to A grammar as she does. The Coddington school is known in all educational circles from one ocean to the other, and with it has gone the name of its principal, they are one and inseparable. Such being the reputation of the school, the remarkable work done there, the successful character building, the unity of the teachers' work, and the esteem of the public for the principal—the School Board, at a special meeting at the time, voted unanimously to offer Miss Dearborn $1,400 to remain in Quincy.

The reception given to Miss Dearborn in honor of the completion of 25 years of service is an event long to be remembered. It was held at Hotel Vendome, Boston, and largely attended. In the receiving party were Miss Dearborn, Former Superintendent George I. Aldrich and Supt. and Mrs. Frank E. Parlin.

Among the speakers on that occasion were: Supt. Parlin, ex-Supt. G. I. Aldrich, Chairman C. H. Porter of the School Committee, ex-Supt. H. W. Lull, Dr. H. C. Hallowell, Thomas B. Pollard, Miss Lizzie E. Morse, John O. Hall, Jr., Mrs. Weston W. Osborne, Edward Southworth, and Miss Dearborn.

At that time Miss Dearborn was presented a valuable watch with a long chain. The speakers also gave her considerable credit for Col. Parker's success.

Miss Dearborn was educated in a district, elementary and high school, attended a village academy and also a normal school in Ohio. Rich in intelligence and health, strong in character, she has made the Coddington what it is.

What was said four years ago is equally applicable today. It requires a rare combination of qualities to meet successfully all the many difficulties which come to a principal of a large school, to secure the confidence of the community, and to retain for twenty-nine years not only the respect but high esteem of pupils and parents. That Miss Dearborn possesses in large measure such qualities has been fully demonstrated. During these years she has devoted unsparingly her best thoughts and energies to the welfare of her pupils. She has not been satisfied with the mere assignment and hearing lessons, but has taught her boys and girls a thousand things not laid down in the textbooks, but which, nevertheless, have a most important bearing upon life—personal habits, good manners, patriotism and moral integrity.

Few teachers secure such a controlling influence and such a hearty cooperation in their schools as Miss Dearborn has always had. Her pupils and graduates are her enthusiastic champions. Those who have seen her at work with a class, all agree that she has a remarkable mastery of the art of teaching and and a method of correlating her instruction and of reaching the understanding of her pupils, which is as unique as it is effective.

Harmony, loyalty and pride in the good wook and good name of their school characterize the Coddington teachers, and these qualities are inspired in no small degree by the veteran principal.

Mr. Finch has resigned to go to a much larger city where he will have a chance to carry out the line of work in which he is specially interested, that of physical and industrial education. The call from Rochester, N. Y., came unsolicited as a result of his work at the Hyannis Normal school a year ago.

The superintendent at Rochester is C. F. Carroll, formerly of Worcester, Mass., who is very progressive, and is introducing very successfully the "new education." Mr. Carroll was elected for three years, the schools taken out of politics and he was given a free rein.

Rochester is a city of 180,000 population with modern improvements. The assessed valuation is over $100,000,000. Over 27,000 pupils are registered in the public schools.

In Mr. Finch's school there are about 1000 pupils and 27 teachers, so that his work as master will be largely supervision. There are in the building special teachers for manual training, and also five kindergarten teachers.

The salary of Mr. Finch at the start will be an advance of his present salary and will increase from a minimum to a maximum. So that his many Quincy friends will congratulate him while regretting very much that they are to lose him, both as a teacher and a citizen and neighbor.

Mr. Finch came to Quincy in 1895 to take charge of the Wollaston grammar school. In 1898 the principalship of the Massachusetts Fields school being vacant, he was made supervising principal of the two schools in which capacity he has served with unusual success up to the present time.

Although social in his habits and active in community affairs, he has never allowed outside interests to dissipate his energies or to distract his attention from his first duties but always devoted his best thought and effort to the children under his care. The graduates of his schools have regularly stood among the best prepared for the High school.

As a teacher he is careful in his preparation, clear in his presentation, patient with the slow pupil, appreciative of details and systematic in all his work.

As a principal he is a good organizer and has excellent executive ability. His schools are orderly and do their work with little friction. His administration during these years has generally met the approval of both parents and school authorities. The last year has been especially successful and Mr. Finch is to be congratulated not only upon his well earned promotion but upon closing his long service in such a satisfactory manner.

Mr. Finch has been president of the Quincy Teachers Association and the Masters Club. Also president of the Unity Club of Wollaston, the most successful literary club of the city; and interested in the Monday Evening Club of Atlantic.

He began teaching in 1887 at Southington, Conn., and while the youngest principal, early showed ability. He remained there five years, when he accepted a position as master at Meriden, Conn. It was three years later that he came to the Wollaston school at Quincy, and he and Mrs. Finch are very popular here.

Alfonso Takes In All the Sights

Loudon, June 9.—King Alfonso of Spain passed another busy day of sightseeing, crowned with a gala performance of opera. In his honor Covent garden was last night transformed into a bower of red and yellow roses, the stage being thus completely framed in the Spanish colors. The whole auditorium was looped and festooned with roses, orchids, spring flowers and brilliant lights. Supper was served between the acts.

Canadian Cruiser Sinks Tug

Ottawa, June 9.—The circumstances connected with the running down of the American fishing tug Gracie M. by the Canadian cruiser Vigilant off Middle Island, Lake Erie, is to be investigated. Captain Dunn's report alleges that the tug was unlawfully fishing in Canadian waters and was sunk in collision with the Vigilant after several shots had been fired to bring the tug to.

Seeks Forfeiture of Jewelry

Cleveland, June 9.—District Attorney Sullivan has filed nine informations in the United States district court to have a forfeiture declared for non-payment of duty against $5000 worth of jewelry imported into this country by Dr. Chadwick and Mrs. Chadwick three years ago. The jewelry is now in custody of Collector of Customs Leach.

ALL EXONERATED

Officials and Employes of Taunton Asylum Did Their Duty

REPORT ON "MAD VENUS"

Names of Three Former Attendants Guilty of Misconduct Not Mentioned In Finding--Miss Darby Can Stay In Maine

Taunton, Mass., June 9.—The Taunton state insane hospital, located in this city, whose management has been subjected to the most severe sort of criticism ever since the remarkable escape on May 4 of the "Mad Venus," Grace Darby, was given complete and absolute exoneration when the board of trustees of that institution adjourned after a series of secret sessions, announcing their finding.

Following the extremely sensational flight of Grace Darby during the early hours just preceding dawn on May 4, when the young woman, placing a dummy in her bed, crept past her guard, made her way single handed through a chain of supposedly impassable exits, walking a mile over closely guarded ground to the main gateway of the institution, where friends anxiously awaiting opportunity to assist her were stationed; then to make her way to the boarders of the state and into Maine, where freedom was hers, a shudder was caused to pass over the asylum city.

Many feared that in the escape of this woman there lay open, likewise, opportunity for flight on the part of more violent patients.

Chairman Borden of the trustees was seen at his home last night. He said: "Our investigation came to a close with the adjournment of today's regular monthly meeting, which ended at 4 o'clock this afternoon. With the exception of the nurse who was discharged a few days after Miss Darby escaped, and two nurses, a man and a woman, who left of their own accord a few days before Miss Darby escaped, and whom we have found guilty of certain violation of the hospital rules, and whom we believe were instrumental in the escape of Miss Darby, the entire management of the Taunton insane hospital is exonerated from all blame in connection with the escape of Miss Darby and the several other charges brought to our attention against the officers and employes of the hospital.

"From Superintendent Brown down to the most unimportant attache of the hospital we find that there is absolutely no ground for complaint on the part of the relatives or friends of inmates of the hospital or others who have taken it upon themselves to prefer charges.

"The charge of graft and false expenditure of funds of the institution by those connected with the hospital we find is not so.

"The names of the three former attendants of the hospital whom we have found guilty of misconduct will not be mentioned in the finding.

"The charge that inmates of the hospital have been brutally treated or even mildly ill-treated we also find to be absolutely false. Neither is there any truth in the claim that the patients were improperly fed.

"That Grace Darby was insane during her confinement at Taunton, we have only the word of the expert alienists who committed her. This we deem sufficient.

"We have gone into every phase of the case of Miss Darby, and as far as we could learn we know the manner in which she made her escape from the hospital. The only information that I can give out on this point is that the patient was given a key by a certain employe of the institution. She used this key in effecting her escape.

"As long as the state of Maine or any other community is willing to care for this woman we shall make no effort to again obtain her custody.

"Over a dozen witnesses have been summoned before us and examined. It is from that we have the evidence upon which we have based our decision. We have gone into the whole matter thoroughly and completely, and, in a word, we have found the institution and those who run it all that they should be and all that we can expect them to be."

Strong Guard Around Jail

Tampa, Fla., June 9.—The grand jury which has been investigating the killing of Police Captain Carter by P. W. Knapp reported "no true bill." Judge Wall ordered Knapp held to await the action of the solicitor of the criminal court, who may file another information. Rumors of intention to lynch Knapp caused Sheriff Jackson to place 20 special deputies, armed with rifles, around the county jail.

Colonel Chesebrough Dead

FIGHT IN CITY HALL

City Fathers Exchange Blows and Police Are Called Upon

Boston, June 9.—After one of the most exciting meetings of the common council seen for a long time, final consideration of the East Boston hospital bill was put over last night for another week. By suspending the rules the matter comes before the council next Thursday. This result was not reached, however, until after a most exciting session.

As a result of the feeling over the hospital bill Alderman Linehan and Councilman Fitzgerald came to blows in the anteroom of the council chamber. At the finish there was blood on the alderman's cheek.

Councilman Callahan of ward 16 claimed that he was struck on the jaw by Sergeant Fredericks of station 2, who had charge of the detail of police called to quell the disturbance.

A free fight followed the blows struck by the two members of the city government. City Messenger Leary was ordered to clear the anteroom, known as the west side of the chamber, and closed the doors.

For the second time within a week the council refused to sustain the ruling of President Dolan, an action that has not occurred before for years.

Accidentally Killed Playmate

Salem, Mass., June 9.—Milton W. Grinnel, 14 years old, who shot and killed Ernest Ramon, of the same age, in Salem, was discharged from custody by Judge Holden. The charge against Grinnel was assault with a dangerous weapon. The two boys had been playing with revolvers, when the one in Grinnel's hand was discharged, the bullet entering Ramon's body, killing him instantly. Judge Holden found that the shooting was accidental and ordered Grinnel's discharge.

Bill Collector Disappears

Burlington, Vt., June 9.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of J. W. De Rohn, who came here about three months ago and established the Cambridge Mercantile company. He arranged with several local merchants to collect unpaid bills and, it is alleged, succeeded in collecting a large sum of money, which, it is alleged, was not turned over to the merchants. The collector has disappeared.

Despondent Over Legal Troubles

Brattleboro, Vt., June 9.—The probable suicide of Herbert N. Gunn, a former real estate agent of this town, is announced by E. W. Gibson, a lawyer here, as the result of an investigation following the receipt of a letter from Gunn saying that he should drown himself. Gunn had recently had many legal troubles, the results of which are thought to have made him despondent.

Water Supply Failed

West Springfield, Mass., June 9—St. Thomas' Roman Catholic church and the parochial residence adjoining were destroyed by fire which started in the vestry of the church. It was discovered in time to be extinguished without much loss if the water supply had not failed. The church was valued at about $25,000. The parochial residence was valued at $7000.

Sentence of Counterfeiters

Boston, June 9.—In the United States circuit court Judge Lowell imposed sentence of 6½ years each in state prison upon Louis Berkowitz and Mark Levinson of Worcester, who were convicted of counterfeiting silver 50-cent pieces. Joseph Berkowitz, also of Worcester, who was tried upon the same charge, was acquitted.

Officer Shot by His Chief

Waterville, Me., June 9.—Police Officer Champlain was shot in a leg by City Marshal Adams, who arrested him on a charge of assaulting a young girl. The city marshal claims that Champlain attempted to pull a revolver and risist arrest, and that he was obliged to wound the policeman before the latter would submit.

Employers on "Unfair List"

Providence, June 9.—The members of the Master Painters' association, comprising about one-third of the boss painters in the city, have been placed on the "unfair list" by the Painters' union. The painters want an increase in wages, which in most instances has been refused.

Brakeman Fell Under Cars

Northampton, Mass., June 9.—George McGee, aged 35, a brakeman, died last night from injuries received while engaged in transferring freight cars. McGee slipped and was run over, both arms being crushed and internal injuries sustained.

Indicted For Killing Brother

Manchester, Vt., June 9.—Fred W. Johnson of Bondville was indicted by the grand jury of Bennington county for the murder of his brother, Fay Johnson, on Feb. 22. Johnson's trial will begin June 14.

British Prince Coming Over

Washington, June 9.—The navy department has been advised through the British embassy of the intended visit to American waters this autumn of Prince Louis of Battenberg, with a squadron of British warships. While the navy department is not advised definitely of the date of the prince's visit, it is understood that it will take place some time in October.

Railroad Cars For Japan

Philadelphia, June 9.—The Japanese government has placed with a Pittsburg car building company an order for 900 box cars for early delivery. This is supplemental to the order for 1000 box and gondola cars placed a few days ago with several Pennsylvania car building companies.

CITY BREVITIES.

The City Council Committee on Streets are making a tour of the City this afternoon.

The first interclub race between the Quincy, Squantum and Wollaston Yacht club will be sailed Saturday afternoon off the club house, Houghs Neck.

The hearing on changing the approaches to the Atlantic bridge to be held in the Probate court room tomorrow morning will probably be largely attended.

The through street car service between Neponset and Nantasket goes into effect tomorrow. Cars will leave Quincy square for Nantasket at 10 and 40 minutes past the hour.

THE LAST COUPON.

Will Be Printed on Sunday and Contest Closes Next Week.

From this time out friends of Miss Underwood may look for a substantial increase from day to day in her standing in the Herald contest, and with united effort the chances of success are good.

The coupons in the Sunday paper will be good for ten votes each, and if everyone buys one or more Heralds the aggregate vote will be large.

Don't put off until too late the forwarding of coupons to the Daily Ledger office. Better send what you have this week and one or two instalments next week. Considerable time is required in preparing the votes.

The last coupon will be printed the coming Sunday, and every coupon must be stamped and forwarded on or before June 16, next week Friday.

South Shore Trolley Trip.

The passenger department of the Boston & Northern and Old Colony Street Railways is planning an excursion to the various resorts and places of historical interest along their lines to the south of Boston, next week. The companies' handsome observation car will be used and newspaper men, only, will be invited.

The passenger department's idea in arranging the excursion is to sort of show up its wares, to show the great possibilities of trolleying, the many beautiful historical and interesting places to be reached by its lines of cars.

General Passenger Agent R. H. Derrah will be the host. It is proposed that the coming trip cover about 150 miles of track without twice passing the same scenery.

More Prosperous.

The first monthly financial statement of the West Quincy M. E. church shows the new conference year opening more prosperously than usual.

Eight additional gas jets have been put into the vestry and were used for the first time last Sunday evening. The result is much appreciated by those present.

A large company very much enjoyed the social in connection with the June business meeting of the league last Monday evening.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff Is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Women's rights — some of them — may be matters of discussion and dispute; but no one would deny woman's right — her duty — to be as beautiful as she may.

Whatever may be your face and figure, the beauty of health — the greatest of charms — should be yours. Beecham's Pills induce that perfect health which quickly shows in face and feeling.

Beautiful outlines — beautiful features — are always admirable; but they are no more to be wished for than the beauty of clear complexions, bright eyes and rosy cheeks.

For the first you must look to Nature; for the latter you may trust in Beecham's Pills. They cause the perfect digestion which means pure blood and vigorous nerves — true signs of health.

Beecham's Pills

No woman can escape certain ailments and weaknesses of her sex, but these should not be accompanied by distress or followed by other diseases and serious complications.

Taken at the proper time, Beecham's Pills will help mightily. They so purify the blood and strengthen the nervous system that health replaces suffering and danger. Full directions around every box.

Most of women's ills — men's too, for that matter — have their origin in constipation, with its accompanying disturbance of digestion and hindrance of action of the whole system.

Six million boxes of Beecham's Pills are sold annually. Why? Because Beecham's Pills have proved effective in curing constipation and other ailments to which we are subject. A trial is convincing.

Read special instructions to women wrapped around each box.

SOLD EVERYWHERE IN BOXES, 10c. AND 25c.

Czar Willing to Consider the Subject of Peace

NOW UP TO THE MIKADO

Hope That He Will Meet President Half Way In His Efforts to Assist In Bringing About an Early Peace

Washington, June 9.—The czar of Russia has at last been heard from here and the result is not unfavorable to peace. In his recent audience with Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador, the czar indicated a willingness to take under advisement the subject of peace and expressed a warm appreciation of the friendly words of Meyer, speaking as the personal envoy of the president.

The reception of Meyer was characterized by the greatest cordiality and friendliness, and the ambassador's cablegram to the president giving a general account of the audience is of a distinctly hopeful tone.

Mr. Meyer did not bring to the St. Petersburg government an offer of mediation, but a "friendly offer of good will," as it was described by Count Cassini, which apparently was gratifying to the czar. Further than this it is impossible to record the character of the cablegram.

Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, called by appointment at the White House and spent half an hour with the president. He was still unable to give the president the slightest indication regarding Japan's peace terms, but it is believed he was acquainted in a general way with the hopeful tone of Meyer's dispatch and, with this as a lever, the hope is expressed here that the mikado will meet the president half way in the earnest efforts he is making to assist in bringing about an early peace.

Earlier in the afternoon Baron Kaneko, the Japanese financial adviser, was received by the president, and discussed the whole situation for some time. Baron Kaneko last night said that Japan had not received directly or indirectly any request from Russia for a statement of peace terms. It was intimated that Japan would be loath to give any such statement until convinced that Russia was prepared to take up the question of peace with the intention of ending the war.

Later in the afternoon British Ambassador Durand saw the president and last night German Ambassador Von Sternburg was at the White House for nearly an hour. None of the callers would discuss his visit.

It is not expected that the situation will change radically in the next day or two. Until some indication comes from Japan of her attitude in the light of the spirit shown by the czar the negotiations can hardly be expected to progress. Meantime powerful, though friendly influence, is being brought to bear on Japan to be moderate in her demands. It has been pointed out that Japan and Russia must always be close neighbors and that if Japan is unreasonable now in her great triumph she might again be involved in war with Russia. What effect these representations may have on the mikado is of course only conjectural.

Strong hopes were entertained here in the highest circles that London could be relied on for active assistance in counselling moderation to Japan. These hopes have not yet been realized, although information has been received that Great Britain will welcome peace. It is still hoped, however, that some assistance from that quarter may yet be forthcoming. Berlin and Paris are both giving loyal assistance to the efforts initiated in Washington and the result of Berlin's activity is already being felt.

Count Cassini called at the French embassy yesterday, where he had a long talk on the situation with Ambassador Jusserand. The Russian ambassador has not yet made an appointment with the president and it is impossible to obtain any information regarding the cablegrams that have reached the embassy from St. Petersburg in the last 24 hours.

Ships Have Been Dismantled

Washington, June 9.—Governor Wright has cabled Secretary Taft officially notifying him that the orders of the president regarding the Russian ships in Manila bay have been carried out.

Right to Keep Statue In Cellar

New York, June 9.—The directors of the Metropolitan Museum of Art acted entirely within their rights when they removed Biondi's statue, "The Saturnalia," from the gallery in the museum where it was on exhibition to the cellar, where it has remained for many months. This decision was announced in the supreme court after a hearing on the suit in equity brought by Biondi against the directors.

Sixty Union Men Locked Up

Philadelphia, June 9.—Sixty members of the local branch of the National Structural Iron Workers and Bridge Builders' union are locked up here, pending the solving of a mystery surrounding the probable fatal shooting of one of the members of the organization, Edward Joyce, who refuses to tell the name of the man who shot him.

NEW FLAG HOISTED

Norwegian Government Now Running on Its Own Hook

Christiania, June 9.—The council of state, following the action of the storthing in dissolving the union of Norway and Sweden, proclaiming that King Oscar is no longer King of Norway, and placing the reins of government in the hands of the council of state, is proceeding with the reorganization of the government in the manner indicated in the program which had been more or less prepared before the final step was taken by which the peaceful revolution was accomplished.

The department of national defense has issued a decree to the army, acquainting it with the resolution of the storthing, and the resumption of government by the council of state, and intimating that the army must comply with the new conditions, rendering allegiance to those now conducting the government.

The council also resolved to eliminate the emblems of the union from the war flag of Norway.

The new Norwegian flag was hoisted throughout the country at 10 a. m. today. The council of defense ordered the flags over all the fortresses and warships of Norway to be saluted with 21 guns. The substitution of the new for the old flag at Christiania occurred at Akershus fort in the presence of the garrison of the capital.

Significant Newspaper Comment

Vienna, June 9.—The situation in Sweden and Norway is attracting much interest in Austria and Hungary. The Hirlap of Budapest says: "King Oscar thought it was possible to rule a nation against its will, but developments have proved this to be impossible. The Viennese at the Hofburg will now perceive that it is impossible to maintain even a personal union between two states against the desire of one of them."

Looking For a King

Copenhagen, June 9.—It is reported that the Norwegian government, in view of King Oscar's apparently definite refusal to consider the offer of the storthing to place a prince of the house of Bernadotte on the throne, is privately inquiring of the Danish royal family if an offer of the throne would be received by a member of it. The general opinion expressed here is that such an offer would be refused.

Submarine and Fourteen Lives Lost

Plymouth, Eng., June 9.—Submarine boat "A-8" was lost off the breakwater here. She had on board 18 officers and men, including her regular crew and men who were in training. Fourteen of the number were drowned and the others were picked up. One of the survivors said he was unable to explain the cause of the accident to the "A-8." She suddenly dipped while her hatches were open and the boat immediately filled and sank.

Chairmanship Not Decided

New York, June 9.—The nominating committee appointed by the directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society to name a chairman of the board who shall direct the affairs of the society met and adjourned without making an appointment in connection with the chairmanship. The adjourned meeting of the board of directors will be resumed today.

Pope Has President's Good Will

Washington, June 9.—President Roosevelt received a call from Archbishop Symon of Rome, a special papal visitor to the United States, authorized to investigate the condition of the Polish Catholic church in America. The president expressed a desire to Symon that he convey to the pope his sentiments of esteem, friendship and good will.

Miners Want Eight-Hour Day

Scranton, Pa., June 9.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers addressed a mass meeting at Minooka last night, outlining the policy of the United Mine Workers at the expiration of the agreement now in force in the anthracite region. It is evident that the main issue in the next agreement will be the eight-hour day.

Train Wreck In Michigan

Flint, Mich., June 9.—A fast through train bound for Chicago from the east was wrecked near Davison by spreading rails. No one was killed. Mrs. Cora Wafrous of Boston was, it is thought, fatally injured, and 10 others were less seriously hurt. Three coaches were ditched.

Phenomenal Speed of Train

Pittsburg, June 9.—The distance between Chicago and Pittsburg, over the Pennsylvania lines, 468 miles, was covered by a special train in 440 minutes without much effort. The actual speed per hour while the train was in motion was 68.1 miles.

Postmaster Rifled Mail

Hot Springs, Ark., June 9.—Postoffice inspectors have caused the arrest of Assistant Postmaster James S. McConnell on a charge of rifling registered mail. The inspectors say that McConnell admitted extracting money orders.

CHINESE BOYCOTT

Move of Cotton Men Disturbs the Adminstration

PLAN TO AVERT ACTION

State Department Thinks That Policy of Silence Will Aid Diplomacy In Checking Action Against Our Manufacturers

Washington, June 9.—Administration officials, it may be stated on good authority, do not view with great pleasure the announced call of the cotton manufacturers of America upon President Roosevelt for the purpose of securing some relaxation in the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws, and eventually some modification of them through congressional action.

One hundred manufacturers are expected, mostly from the south, whose cotton goods go to China chiefly, but including representatives of the trade in every part of the country, since New England mills, it was shown during the Boxer trouble, felt severely any curtailment in the outlet in Asia for the products of the southern mills.

State department officials believe this movement of the cotton manufacturers unwise, since it will encourage the Chinese who threaten the boycott to believe that they can accomplish something by it, whereas if things are kept quiet, the department believes that it can through diplomacy avert the boycott by citing America's friendship for China in the Boxer troubles and the high plane on which Secretary Hay has always treated that country. It is possible that the further payment of the indemnity of the United States growing out of the Boxer troubles might be used as a makeweight in diplomatic negotiations.

President Roosevelt has been too busy with peace discussions to give much attention to the Boston incident, which has been referred to Secretary Metcalf for investigation. The general answer of the administration to complaints in cases like these which are constantly arising, where Chinese persons are treated with great brutality, is that the administration does not make the laws, and that it required the extremest efforts of the conservative element in the senate to secure the adoption of as mild a code as the present one.

The senate committee brought in a much more drastic law, which was vigorously supported by senators from many of the states whose industries are now complaining. While business men everywhere would like a modification of existing law, the Pacific coast is evidently preparing to push the exclusion idea further by applying it to the Japanese. This threatens to provoke a sharp controversy in the next congress, especially if the Chinese do something with their boycott.

Criticism of Newspapers

Philadelphia, June 9.—Henry James, the novelist, was the guest of honor and orator at the commencement exercises at Bryn Mawr college. Mr. James chose for his subject "The Question of Our Speech." "The newspapers and common schools," he said, "are influences which keep our speech crude, untidy and careless." The newspapers, he said, "are nothing more than black eruptions of type, and they roar like monsters; like maniacs breaking loose."

Karr Under $15,000 Bail

Washington, June 9.—W. W. Karr, the veteran disbursing officer of Smithsonian institution, who was arrested on a charge of embezzling $46,000 from the funds of the institution, was arraigned in court, and, at the request of his counsel, a preliminary hearing was deferred until Saturday. Karr was placed under $15,000 bail, which was furnished.

Turmoil In Women's League

Chicago, June 9.—Mrs. Sue M. Simpson, accused of treason by Mrs. Brettell, president of the Women's International Label league, was expelled from the organization by a secret vote of 29 to 31. Many of the delegates present were not allowed to vote on the question. They say they will form a new order, with Mrs. Simpson at the head.

Hohenzollern Prince Dead

Berlin, June 9.—Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern died here last evening. The prince, who was a cousin of Emperor William, had been visiting his son, Prince William, during the festivities attending the wedding of the Crown Prince and Duchess Cecilia. Leopold was born in 1835, and was married to Infanta Antonia of Portugal.

New Jersey Corporation Taxes

Trenton, June 9.—The state board of assessors has filed with the state controller a schedule of state taxes levied for 1905 against corporations organized under the laws of the state. There are in all 5014 corporations and the total tax is $2,357,619. The highest tax is that of an insurance company, it being $204,011.

Alleged Misuse of Mails

Detroit, June 9.—Frank H. Farnham, who was arrested in Boston by United States officers, is wanted here to answer a charge of fraudulent use of the mails in connection with a "co-operative railroad" scheme he is claimed to have promoted for the building of an electric railroad.

Ordered to Answer Questions

New York, June 9.—Edward F. Hale, the tobacco company official who refused to answer questions put to him by the federal grand jury in connection with the investigation of the so-called tobacco trust, must answer those questions. This decision was announced by Judge Wallace in the United States circuit court.

House of Commons' New Speaker

London, June 9.—James W. Lowther (Conservative) was unanimously elected speaker of the house of commons, in succession to William Gully, who recently resigned. This is the first time since 1833 that the Conservatives have been able to put one of their own party in the chair.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Norwegian ship Almedia, bound from Melbourne to New Caledonia, struck a reef and foundered. The crew escaped.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be entertained for several days by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilmer at their old Virginia homestead at Rapidan. She has left Washington for her outing unaccompanied by any of her children.

A complimentary dinner will be tendered to Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain, at the Union League club, New York, on June 13.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

It takes a circus to make City Square lively.

Miss Underwood is moving up in the Herald contest.

M. R. Newcomb of Saugus was in town Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Seller of Edwards street entertained a few friends Thursday evening.

Many of the loafers are finding out that lounging about on sidewalks is not allowed in Officer Larkin's district.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey of Beach street who fell and cut his head a short time ago is improving rapidly.

James A. Pitts, of Wollaston Park received his B. S. degree at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology last Tuesday afternoon.

The patrol wagon is becoming a daily visitor to the Point. It came down again Thursday, and gave another drunken man a ride.

The large touring cars owned by T. C. Frazer and Robert Frazer are a great addition to the vehicles that pass through Wollaston Park.

Because of the fact that the dry dock at Charlestown is not ready, the battleships ordered to Boston for repairs will go to New York and Newport.

The Epworth League of the West Quincy M. E. Church is planning to hold a lawn party on the grounds of the church and parsonage June 20.

The Merrymount Club will send the strongest team possible to Weymouth tomorrow. In the Dewey Club they expect to find very formidable opponents.

On the Bigelow field on Wednesday the Hemlock base ball nine defeated the Hemlock, Jrs., 20 to 1 in a six innings game. Everett Harris pitched for the winning team.

It will be childrens day at the Wollaston Baptist church Sunday morning with baptism and presentation of Bibles. Music by the church choir and children.

The street railway case of George H. Mann vs. the Old Colony street railway is on trial at the Norfolk Superior court. It is to recover $5,000 damages for personal injuries.

At Farnum's hall, Thursday evening, June 8th, Roger Wolcott Circle, F. of A., initiated several new members. The degree team of Abigal Adams Circle assisted at initiation. After the degree work, refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

Members of the Physiological society of Boston, which has been in existence for 57 years and is the oldest women's club in the state, are in town today on a tour of inspection. They visited the Adams shrine this morning and later in the day will visit the birthplaces of the Presidents.

One case of diphtheria was reported to the Board of Health Thursday night from the Wollaston district.

William W. Thomas who has been on the Pacific coast for the past twenty years has returned to Quincy.

The funeral of Alfred M. Vinton, the victim of the drowning accident at the Quincy reservoir at Braintree, was held at the First Congregational church, Braintree, this afternoon.

Everyone is asking about the raft at the Atlantic beach. It is all very well for the boys to be playful in the fall and let it drift out to sea when they have no further use for it but when the warm weather comes, they begin to have vain regrets. It is strange that the destructive element should be so dominant in rising citizens.

MILTON.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harlow have returned from a visit to Manchester, N. H.

Prof. Ward of Milton Academy gave a talk before the Thursday Evening club this week on the Russian-Japanese war.

Rev. Carleton R. Mills of Wollaston will have charge of St. Michael's and the Mission church during the absence of the rector, Rev. T. I. Reese, who goes to Europe this month.

St. Catherine guild is planning for a lawn party to be held the latter part of the present month.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson of Bangor, Me., are guests of their daughter, Mrs. Charles Thompson of Brackett street.

Frank Manuel of Brackett street has purchased a new horse.

The fire department was called out on a still alarm from Box 71 at 4.15 Sunday afternoon for a brush fire on the Metropolitan reservation.

The State supervisor of drawing visited the East Milton schools on Wednesday.

A Great Greek Scholar.

When Professor Jacob Cooper of Rutgers was examined for admission to Yale in 1852 Tutor Talcott said to Mr. Cooper, "How much Greek have you read?" "Over 3,000 pages," was the reply. "You don't mean that, do you?" said Mr. Talcott. "Isn't it 3,000 lines?" "No, sir," was the reply. "When I say pages, I mean pages." In later life he declared that if all the Hebrew Bibles in the world were destroyed he could reproduce the text from memory.

A Desperate Remedy.

GIRLS FIELD MEET.

The Annual Games of the Quincy High Girls

The annual field meet of the girls of the Quincy High school will be held tomorrow morning under the auspices of Miss Eleanor W. Guild, and there is considerable interest among the pupils. Mr. C. F. Harper, head master of the school, will be referee, and Mrs. Harper and Mrs. Parsons will be patronesses. There will be judges, starter, scorer, timekeeper and basket ball referee.

First place in each event will count five points both for the girl and her class; second place will count three points, and third place one point. There is considerable good-natured rivalry between the classes to win the most points.

The events eleven in number will include:

100-yard dash.
50-yard dash.
High jump.
Broad jump.
Potato race.
Obstacle race.
Sack race.
Three-legged race,
Goal throwing.
Relay race.
Basket ball.

The Daily Ledger of Saturday expects to publish the complete list of prize winners if finished when the paper goes to press.

ROBBINS' CIRCUS

On the River Street Grounds Today—Well Endorsed Elsewhere.

The circus is with us. It is Frank A. Robbins & Co.' big show with two rings, and will give performances this afternoon and evening on the River street grounds off Washington street. It is said to be the best 25 cent show on the road this year.

In the parade this morning were open dens with wild animals, an elephant and camel, men and women riders, three bands, and several other features, which greatly amused the children. A special recess was given at some of the schools and City Square was full of children.

Yesterday the circus was at Plymouth and had large audiences although the day was very inclement. From Quincy the show goes to Milford, Marlboro and Fitchburg.

The Pawtucket Evening Times of Saturday speaks well of the show in that city. It says: Frank A. Robbins & Co.'s All Great Feature Shows delighted thousands on the Sabin street grounds in this city yesterday.

Never was there seen cleaner, more thrilling or more impressive and entertaining ring features under canvas in this city, a fact which speaks volumes for the popularity of this, one of the latest aggregations performing before the American public.

One of the most remarkable things connected with the show in this city was the entire absence of fakirs and hoodlumism. The most esthetic could view the show without the slightest fear of insult or vulgarity. Frank A. Robbins is a veteran circus manager, and order and respectability are his pet hobbies. He believes that the circus, like the individual, is known by the character, and to the end that decency shall be a feature attribute of his shows, he has retained J. C. Banks, one of the most respected and popular circus men in the country, as legal adjuster and chief of detectives.

Chief among the thrilling performances seen under the big two-ring tent last evening was "Leaping the Gap", a feat accomplished by Valiti. From the very top of the centre pole Valiti rode down a 45-degree incline which terminated with a rise which sent himself and mount flying through the air, only to alight on a smaller incline and go dashing against a rope held by circus hands who immediately picked him off his wheel.

The trapeze artists, the tumblers, the wire walkers, the jugglers, the riders and the Spanish web performer, Mille. Zena, stand high in the circus world, and sustained their reputations last night, to the delight, and appreciation of all who looked on.

The ring accessories are all new and are designed to facilitate the performance of each artist, and to promote the comfort of patrons.

The sideshow features drew hundreds while the circus was in this city. The fake element is entirely lacking, nothing being shown but bonafide wonders. Chief among these is the strong woman, who last night lifted upon her back a platform on which stood 12 men whose aggregate weight was 1986 pounds. This performance was easy for the madame, for her record is 2800 pounds. She is physically perfect and is conceded to be the strongest woman in the world, if not the nearest approach to Venus in face and form.

—In special recognition of King Alphonso's visit to gay Paris the actresses of that city shortened their stage gowns at both ends.

THE TOMBSTONE CENSOR.

He Sees That No Unseemly Inscription Mars the Cemetery.

A tombstone censor is employed by most large cemeteries. It is the duty of this man to see that nothing unseemly in the way of a tombstone is put up.

A young engineer in a Norristown mill was killed by the explosion of a boiler, and the family of this young man, believing that the mill owners had known all along that the boiler was defective, actually had carved on the tombstone the sentence, "Murdered by his masters." The tombstone censor, of course, refused to sanction such an epitaph.

On the death of a certain noted prize fighter the surviving brother of the man wanted to put in a glass case beside the grave a championship belt, four medals, a pair of gloves and other trophies of the ring. But the censor's negative was firm.

A widow who believed that the physician was responsible for her husband's death wished to put on the tomb, "He employed a cheap doctor," but the tombstone censor showed her that such an inscription would lay her open to heavy damages for libel.

Atheists sometimes direct in their wills that shocking blasphemies be carved on their monuments. The censor, however, sees to it that these blasphemies do not disfigure the cemetery. —Philadelphia Bulletin.

UNCANNY EYES.

Some of the Queer Things Brought Up In Deep Sea Soundings.

They caught one fish far down in the Caribbean that had no eyes at all nor any places for eyes, but long antennae ran out from its nose by which it felt its way and found its food. In the next haul was a fish with two convex lenses in place of eyes. These lenses were highly polished or burnished. They were of a golden hue, and they gleamed in the sunlight like jewels. Another fish, a big fellow, had eyes which grew on stems or stalks that stuck out six inches from its head. Then came one with an eye that grew on a long stem like a lily stem, quite eighteen inches from the nose, and the professor said that it was an eye made for poking itself into other fishes' business. The stem was flexible and waved backward and forward or bent with its own weight, and sometimes the fish traveled with the eye doubled under it about the middle of its body or trailing in the sand or mud.

Some of the eyes when put into sea water in the dark shone like lanterns. Others of the fishes had brilliant spots along their sides that emitted a ghostly radiance, and they seemed to have lighted portholes or windows like a slender steamer rushing through the seas after night.—St. Nicholas.

PEWS IN CHURCHES.

At First They Were Allowed Only as Personal Favors.

Private pews, first allowed as personal favors, appeared in churches in the reign of Henry VIII. In spite of the stout opposition of Sir Thomas More and others they gained ground under Elizabeth and Charles I. and after the restoration came into increased favor and use among well to do citizens who claimed and enjoyed—

* * * the Sunday due
Of slumbering in an upper pew.

Swift humorously described how one was appropriately made out of a large wooden bedstead, and in early Georgian times pews were to be found furnished with sofas and tables and provided with fireplaces.

Bishop Eden states that in one case a livery servant entered the pew of his master between prayers and sermon with sherry and light refreshments.

Thickly curtained or highly partitioned box pews were so numerous in some churches at one time that the poor were practically excluded or thrust back into comfortless sittings in the coldest and darkest parts of the church, where they could hear little of the service.—London Telegraph.

Harvey Combe's Reproof.

Perhaps the neatest reproof to a long winded preacher was that given by Harvey Combe when lord mayor of London to Dr. Parr. As they were coming out of church together Parr was so foolish as to ask the other how he liked his sermon. "Well, doctor, to speak frankly, there were four things in it that I did not like to hear. They were the quarters of the church clock which struck before you had finished."

Easy to Remember.

Hostess—My dear count, you must pardon me, but I have such a very poor memory for names. It's a real affliction. I have forgotten yours. The Count—You shoult gonzult a specialist on mendal diseases, my tear madam; you really shoult. My name is Kaskowowskichniffingloski.—London Answers.

A Way Out.

Mrs. Hiram Offen—See here, Maria, the dishes you have put on the table of late have been positively dirty. Something's got to be done about it. Maria—True for ye, ma'am. If ye only had dark colored ones, ma'am, they would not show the dirt at all.—Philadelphia Press.

Cash and Charges.

Quiziness—Which do you prefer, to sell for cash or charge things? Business—Cash, of course. But if they don't pay promptly, then I prefer charges.—Baltimore American.

Generous.

Nephew—Do you know, uncle, I dreamed last night you had lent me $10! Uncle (generously)—Is that so? Ah, well, you may keep it, Otto.—Perroquet.

Floral Festival.

Superintendent C. H. Johnson has prepared an elaborate program for the floral festival of the First Parish church and Sunday School to be held Sunday morning at 10.30, and the flower committee will probably see that the edifice is attractive for the occasion.

The parts by the whole school will include the processional, opening verse and song, three musical numbers and the closing service.

The Kindergarten class will give an exercise, the Samuel A. Eliot class will give the "Seven corner stones of our faith," and other classes will give verses.

There will be essays by Ralph G. Merritt and Harry E. Glover.

Four boys will be baptised and there will be a memorial service for James Francis Harlow, who was prominently identified with the church.

Officers of the Sunday school will make reports, and diplomas will be presented.

On Sunday, June 18, the annual celebration of Children's Sunday at the Wollaston Unitarian church will occur. There will be a christening service, after which the minister will preach a sermon especially adapted to the young people.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Patterns For a Gown For the Bridal Day Designed by Martha Dean—Nos. 6292 and 6293

The month of June is the month for brides and roses, and eager fingers have long been busy fashioning finery for that happiest day of all the year. Here is a suggestion for a wedding gown which will be welcomed by the amateur dressmaker as well as the young woman who is clever with her needle. Mull or Persian lawn may be used in its development, or the time honored ivory satin. The skirt is circular, fitting smoothly over the hips without seam or dart and flaring in graceful fullness at the lower edge. It may be finished with bands of satin, insertion or ruffles. The bodice is surplice in front, opening over a chemisette of all over lace or strips of insertion sewed together. A shaped collar fitted with tiny tucks and rippling at the edge forms a charming finish for the neck and front. This may be made of chiffon for the satin gown, or Persian lawn or organdie for the thin gown. The sleeve is mousquetaire, a style most becoming to the arm.

The pattern for the waist, No. 6292, comes in six sizes, from 32 to 42 inches bust measure, and the skirt, No. 6293, is in six sizes, from 20 to 30 inches waist measure.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 20 cents to this office, give numbers of these patterns, Nos. 6292 and 6293, and state sizes desired. They will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Or either of the patterns will be sent for 10 cents. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

THE CHEERFUL MAN.

All Doors Fly Open Wide to Him Who Radiates Sunshine.

"Fate itself has to concede a great many things to the cheerful man." The man who persistently faces the sun so that all shadows fall behind him, the man who keeps his machinery well lubricated with love and good cheer, can withstand the hard jolts and disappointments of life infinitely better than the man who always looks at the dark side. The man who loves shadow, who dwells forever in the gloom—a pessimistic man—has very little power in the world as compared with a bright, sunny soul.

The world makes way for the cheerful man; all doors fly open to him who radiates sunshine. He does not need an introduction; like the sunlight, he is welcome everywhere.

A cheerful disposition is not only a power—it is also a great health tonic. A depressed mind makes the system more susceptible to disease; encourages its development because it kills the power of resistance. A cheerful soul can resist disease, and it is well known among physicians that there is a greater chance of recovery from exhaustive diseases of a bright, sunny soul than of a gloomy, despondent one. "Cheerfulness is health; melancholy, disease." Gloom and depression feed disease and hasten its development.—Success.

JOHN PAUL JONES.

John Paul, the Kirkcudbright market gardener's son, who elected to be famous as Paul Jones, has long ceased to be the interesting personage he was in the eyes of the naval authorities of this country when, in command of a rotten ex-East Indiaman known as the Duc de Duras and rechristened the Bonhomme Richard, he was a holy terror in the firth of Forth and when he had engaged and captured a British frigate in British waters after one of the most singular sea combats on record.

The some time "blackbirder" and smuggler whom the Russian Catherine decorated and advanced somewhat per saltum to the grade of admiral was a traitor, of course, in the view of the British government, but none the less a thorough seaman of quite unusual talent and originality, with a bulldog courage and tenacity to match. The Captain Jones, too, who sent Lady Selkirk back her plate, with his compliments, had the instincts of a gentleman.

More than the other countries he served, America has recognized his merits.—Pall Mall Gazette.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit. Mich.

EQUITABLE FIGHT

HIGH OFFICIALS RESIGN

Hyde Disposes of Stock to Interests Led by Thomas Ryan, Who Is Closely Identified With Railway Interests--Reforms In Organization Promised

New York, June 10.—Paul Morton, who retires from the secretaryship of the navy on July 1, has been elected chairman of the board of directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society. His election marks the first and most important step in the reorganization of the society and was followed by the tender of the resignations of President Alexander, Vice President Hyde, Second Vice President Tarbell, Third Vice President Wilson and Fourth Vice President McIntyre.

The new chairman, to quote Senator Depew, did not consent to take office until he had received positive assurances that he would have a "free hand as to measures and men." Mr. Hyde has "divested" himself of the majority control, but as made clear in a letter to the board, retains a substantial interest in the society.

All of the resignations submitted to the meeting are subject to the pleasure of Chairman Morton, and none has yet been accepted. Just what action Morton will take as to these resignations is not disclosed, but it is strongly intimated that Alexander, Tarbell, Wilson and McIntyre retired with the belief that their executive relations with the Equitable had ended.

The interests to which Hyde disposed of his stock number some two score individuals, led by Thomas F. Ryan, vice president of the Morton Trust company, which has close relations with the Mutual Life Insurance company, one of the Equitable society's principal rivals. The price paid for the Hyde estate stock, which is to be trusteed practically in perpetuity, was not disclosed, but estimates vary from $3,500,000 to $5,000,000.

In addition to the 502 shares held by the Hyde estate, which includes the widow of Henry H. Hyde, founder of the society, and his daughter, Vice President Hyde is said to hold between 160 and 170 shares, and it is these holdings Mr. Untermyer refers to as the "substantial interests" which his client retains. Untermyer has, since the beginning of the Equitable controversy, acted as Hyde's counsel.

The men requested to hold the majority stock by Mr. Ryan are former President Grover Cleveland, George Westinghouse of Pittsburg, and Morgan J. O'Brien, chief justice of the appellate division of the supreme court of this district.

Mr. Ryan is the acknowledged head of the Metropolitan Traction companies and only a fortnight ago induced Morton to ally himself with this interest as the operating chief of the New York City Railway company

The selection of Morton, in the opinion of those who have followed events, is in the nature of a compromise and a victory for the Hyde faction. In any event, the outcome was seemingly a surprise to some of the members of the so-called Alexander forces.

Mr. Morton's election is believed to mean the solution of the controversy which began between the Hyde and Alexander factions in the Equitable society some six months ago. There were charges of irregularities and gross extravagances on both sides, the fight at times waging with such bitterness as to threaten the welfare of the institution, which numbers some 600,000 policyholders, with assets in excess of $400,000,000 and a surplus estimated at $80,000,000.

Chief among the charges preferred by Hyde was that Alexander, as a trustee of the Hyde stock, was desirous of wresting control from the estate. On the other hand it was charged by Alexander that Hyde and his friends were conducting the affairs of the society without regard for the welfare of the policyholders.

There were also charges of "syndicate operations" made by Alexander against Hyde and some of his associates on the board of directors of the Equitable and in reply to this Hyde stated that Alexander had participated in the operations.

As a result of these revelations an investigating committee was formed in the Equitable directorate, headed by H. C. Frick. The committee presented a voluminous report which criticised practically all the leading executive officers of the society. The report was rejected, whereupon Frick and his associates on the committee, with the exception of Brayton Ives, resigned from the directorate, as did also half a dozen others.

The proposition to elect a chairman of the board of directors with plenary power to organize the society in all its branches was then determined upon and resolutions were adopted calling for a complete change of policy in the executive and financial departments. Morton's selection under the conditions named will effect these reforms.

In financial and railway circles interest will doubtless be excited in Morton's election because of his close relations with the Ryan interests. In insurance circles also there will doubtless be keen curiosity as to the future relations of the Equitable and Mutual companies.

Patrick's Sentence Stands

Albany, June 10.—The court of appeals, by a divided court, voting 4 to 3, sustained the lower courts in adjudging Albert T. Patrick, the New York lawyer, guilty of murder, first degree, in causing the death of William M. Rice, an aged millionaire. On April 7, 1902. Patrick was convicted on an indictment charging him with the murder of Rice by chloroform and mercury, administered to him during his sickness on Sept. 23, 1900. It was not claimed that Patrick personally committed the murder; for the prosecution had the voluntary confession of Jones, Rice's valet, that it was he who did it, induced and aided thereto by Patrick.

Trade Depending Upon Weather

New York, June 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that although trade reports are still irregular and in many cities below expectations, there has been improvement in response to higher temperature and less rain. Weather conditions on the farms are now the most important influences.

More Cases of Yellow Fever

Washington, June 10.—Governor Magoon has reported two new cases of yellow fever on the canal zone. The bureau of insular affairs made an abstract of the compilation of yellow fever cases sent by Governor Magoon which shows a total of 86 cases and 30 deaths on the canal up to May 23 last.

NEWS IN BRIEF

At the annual session of the National Editorial association John Dymond of New Orleans was elected president.

Fire in the mills of the McDonald Manufacturing company, Portland, Me., destroyed lumber and machinery valued at about $25,000.

The French chamber of deputies adopted sections of the church and separation bill, placing the state churches gratuitously at the disposition of the parochial societies for the exercise of religion.

World of Sport.

A. G. Barry, a Mere Youth, Is British Golf Champion.

The British amateur golf championship meeting, which was notable for the overthrow of favorites and former title holders, was brought to a close at Prestwick, England, recently, when A. G. Barry of St. Andrew's university beat the Hon. Osmund Scott of the Royal North Devon club by 3 up and 2 to play.

Mr. Barry is the youngest player who ever secured the amateur championship, being barely twenty years of age. Although learning his golf at St. Andrew's, he was born in Cornwall of English parentage. He drives with a very full swing, and for one of his years he has rare confidence. His victory created a decided sensation throughout the British isles.

The final was contested in a heavy rain, which rendered the greens very heavy, and the ball needed hitting with the utmost firmness. Mr. Barry did this, but Mr. Scott was often short, and his failure to take chances on the green brought about his defeat.

Mr. Scott has a particularly pretty style and plays a plucky uphill game. He started badly in most of his matches.

A bad drive into the bunker at the twelfth hole made Scott's prospects very bad in the finals, still he won the fourteenth, and if he could only have secured the fifteenth, as at one time he looked like doing, the match might have ended differently. However, after reaching the green in two he was ten yards short with his run-up, and, missing his put, he could only halve the hole.

This incident practically settled the match, and Mr. Barry won the championship, as already stated, on the sixteenth green.

Danny Maher, the American jockey, at Epson Downs, England, recently followed up his Derby victory on Lord Rosebery's Cicero by landing another good race, the Great Surry Foal stakes of 1,000 sovereigns, five furlongs, with Anniversary II. He also captured the Riddlestown plate with Zanoni.

Pretty Polly, last season's popular mare, made her season's debut the same day and won the Coronation cup, a piece of plate valued at 200 sovereigns, and 1,000 sovereigns in specie, Derby course, about one mile and a half, cantering home with a record for the course of 2:33¾. Cicero's time over the same course in the Derby was 2:39 3-5.

LEADING AUTO TROPHY.

The Dewar Cup Is Coveted by All Racers.

The Sir Thomas Dewar international trophy race at one mile is the automobile classic. The event is the Derby for motorists and for which the greatest efforts will be put forth in machine construction and daredeviltry of driving.

The board of trustees in charge of the one mile international automobile trophy met at the New York Press club recently and formally approved of the bond to be given for its safekeeping by Louis S. Ross of Newtonville, Mass., who was the first winner of the trophy on the Ormond-Daytona beach last January. Mr. Ross won the cup in the time of forty-two seconds, Arthur MacDonald of London being second in the race, which had twenty starters. The cup is presented for the one mile straightaway record race and will be competed for at least twice annually if challenges are forthcoming.

Mr. Ross is a member of the Bay State Automobile association of Boston, and the cup will be delivered to Mr. Ross in a few days and placed in the rooms of the organization. The cup itself is probably the most unique, largest and costliest ever presented for competition. The value of the cup is $2,000.

The Savannah Pitchers.

In Kane, Savidge and Deaver the Savannah team has a trio of slab artists that promises well. Mowery at third is playing great ball, and the rest of the infield is fast. At the bat is where the team seems to be weak, judging purely from the opening games, but it may be that the men have not yet got their batting eyes in good working order.

The Bean Eaters' New Twirler.

Pitcher Young has done the best work of the Boston National pitchers thus far, yet on the best of authority it can be said that Young is the lowest salaried player on the team.

Question as to Whether Courts Will Permit Sale of Land Upon Which Principal Buildings of the Institute Stand

Boston, June 10.—The amalgamation of interests of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with Harvard university was tentatively decided upon at a meeting of the Technology corporation, and if the alliance can be consummated without legal complications the corporation of Harvard university is invited to co-operate with the Institute of Technology trustees for a union between the two institutions.

The following statement was issued by President Pritchett of Technology at the close of the trustees' meeting last evening:

"The corporation of the Institute of Technology, at a meeting held this afternoon, voted to announce to the corporation of Harvard university the willingness of the institute to co-operate in accordance with the tentative plan under discussion, provided that there shall be obtained first a favorable decision from the court concerning the Boylston street land, and provided also, that it shall apply to the supreme judicial court for instructions and that the court shall have made a decree that this agreement may be carried out without violation of the duties of the institute as a trustee."

The provision regarding the Boylston street land refers to the fact that the abuttors to the property where the principal buildings of the institute are located have applied to the courts to prevent the sale of the land. The state granted the land to the institute more than 50 years ago. The legislature of 1904 passed an act authorizing the corporation of the institute to sell this land, and the abuttors have since carried the matter to the courts, on the ground that the action of the legislature was unconstitutional.

The final decision of the corporation to join with Harvard comes at the end of a discussion which has been in progress for many months. A great majority of Technology graduates have been opposed to the alliance and for a year past the alumni association of the institute has been active in the matter. A vote of the graduates, taken a few weeks ago, showed that they were opposed to the union in the ratio of 3 to 1.

There has been little discussion of the matter at Harvard, where the plans have been dealt with only by the corporation of the university.

Danger In Submarine Vessels

Plymouth, Eng., June 10.—Submarine boat "A-8," which was lost off the breakwater here, rests on a sandy bottom. Thirteen bodies are still entombed in the boat, divers only recovering one body. The accident was due to the deflection of the horizontal rudder while the boat was running lightly on the surface with the cover of the conning tower open. The effect of the rudder being deflected under such conditions was the cause of a rapid downward movement. This brought the top of the conning tower awash, admitting an inrush of water. The divers discovered that there were no holes in the vessel.

Testimony Not Sensational

Washington, June 10.—In the presence of Assistant Secretary of State Loomis and Minister Bowen of Venezuela, Secretary Taft heard a statement from W. W. Russell, who was secretary of legation under Loomis when the latter was minister to Venezuela, regarding matters connected is what is known as the Bowen-Loomis controversy. The testimony of Russell was not of a sensational character. Its effect on the case cannot be learned at the war department.

A Murderer Murdered

Falmouth, Ky., June 10.—Dr. Edward S. Courtney has been assassinated near Neave. Courtney had formed a partnership with Dr. William Karney. During the partnership Karney was shot and killed. Since the occurrence there has been a feud in the neighborhood. Karney was a young man of great popularity. Courtney was under a $10,000 bond on the charge of killing Karney.

Murderer Not Known

Saginaw, Mich., June 10.—A limited number of street cars are running here under police protection. A coroner's jury has returned a verdict in the case of Henry Wieck, Jr., killed during a strike disturbance. The verdict attaches no blame to any one, merely stating that the fatal shot was fired by someone on a car.

To Try For Challenge Cup

Philadelphia, June 10.—The crew of the Vesper Boat club, which hopes to win the grand challenge cup at the Henley regatta, a feat never yet performed by any eight-oared shell crew belonging in America, departed last night for New York, whence they sail today for England.

Peace Attempts Again Fail

Chicago, June 10.—Aside from one or two feeble efforts to open peace negotiations, there were no developments in the strike situation yesterday. The attempts at peace failed utterly.

A BLOODTHIRSTY PAIR

Woman Calmly Assisted Lover In Slaying Her Husband

Liberty, Mo., June 10.—Frank Hottman, who is under sentence of death for his part in the crime, took the stand at the trial of Mrs. Aggie Myers and told his story of the murder of her husband. Hottman told of his planning with Mrs. Myers to kill Myers that they might marry.

Hottman said that he first refused to kill Myers, but consented after Mrs. Myers had repeatedly insisted. They planned the murder minutely and on the fatal night Hottman went to the Myers house and was let in by Mrs. Myers. Myers was awake and the woman gave him something that put him asleep. After Myers had gone to sleep, Hottman struck him on the head with a billiard cue. Myers arose, called to his wife for help and the men began a death struggle.

"While we were struggling," continued Hottman, "she got a bed slat and struck Myers with it. Then she went back into the bedroom and came out with a razor and cut his throat. I let him down to the floor and she leaned over him and cut his throat again several times."

While Hottman was telling this story Mrs. Myers sat unmoved, watching the witness. Hottman told of Mrs. Myers aiding him to get rid of the bloodstains and of her giving him money to flee from the city.

Captian Sick--Short of Food

Kingston, Jam., June 10.—Mail steamer La Plata, from England, reports that on May 29, when 400 miles southwest of the Azores, she signaled the Norwegian bark Triton, 118 days out from the Tonga Islands, bound for Marseilles. The captain was found to be dangerously ill. His removal was considered unwise, owing to his condition, so the La Plata's surgeon prescribed treatment. As food on the Triton was running short, provisions sufficient for the remainder of the voyage were furnished.

Fake Tipsters Gathered In

New York, June 10.—Sixty-five men selling tips at the entrance to the Gravesend racetrack were arrested in a bunch by Captain Dooley of Coney Island and all of his reserves, including a half dozen mounted policemen. Some of the prisoners fought the police and there was plenty of excitement. The cause of the raid was complaints from persons who had been swindled by fake tips.

Charged With Stealing Jewelry

New York, June 10.—A handsomely dressed woman, who said she was the niece of a prominent official, was arrested last night, charged with grand larceny, it being claimed that she had stolen jewelry valued at $4000 from Mrs. Dorothy Auerbach. The woman gave her name to the police as Miss Antoinette Cortelyou. Her colored maid, Ruth Bundy, was also arrested.

Forty-One Union Men Jailed

Philadelphia, June 10.—Forty-one members of the local branch of the National Constructural Iron Workers and Bridge Builders' union have been committed to prison without bail to await the result of the injuries of Edward Joyce, who is said to be dying. Joyce was shot during a meeting of the local Bridge Builders' union, but has steadfastly refused to say who shot him.

Alfonso Bids Adieu to London

London, June 10.—The ceremonies attendant upon the visit to London of King Alfonso of Spain ended last night with a dinner at Marlborough house and a state ball at Buckingham palace, which latter was the most brilliant function of the week's heavy program. King Alfonso left London this morning and will sail today from Dover.

Destructive Flood In Montana

Livingston, Mont., June 10.—In 10 minutes water destroyed $50,000 worth of property here. Rain fell in torrents. A wall of water four feet high came down the narrow valley and when it reached the station the stream was 1000 feet wide and two feet deep. The loss on perishable goods in basements is heavy.

$1,000,000 Damage by Flood

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 10.—The loss in this city attributable to the flood, which is now subsiding, is estimated at $250,000. The loss in all western Michigan is placed at $1,000,000. So far five lives in western Michigan have been lost in consequence of the flood.

Brown, the Crippled Twirler

Member of Chicago Nationals Is a Pitching Marvel---Lost First Digit of Salary Hand In Coal Mine, but He Wins Games.

Mordecai Brown, the three fingered pitcher and ex-coal miner, now on the twirling staff of the Chicago National Baseball club, was the first of the cubs this year to gain the distinction of winning his own game.

In the first clash of the year between the Cubs and the Pittsburg Pirates Brown not only pitched good old fashioned curves and fast ones, but he used his thinking apparatus in a pinch to such good advantage that he was able to cross the plate with the only run made during the whole game on either side.

In the eighth inning, when the score was 0 to 0 and after two men were out, Brown came to bat. Two strikes were called on him by Umpire O'Day. Then Phillippe, the veteran of the Pirates' staff, who was on the firing line, threw a wild curve. Like a flash Brown saw his chance to strike at it and run.

This is the second year Brown has been a member of the Selee Cubs.

Manager Selee traded Jack Taylor to the St. Louis club for him and Catcher John O'Neill. The trade has proved a good one for the Chicago team.

Brown is known all over the circuit as the three fingered pitcher. He lost the first finger of his pitching hand in a coal mine, but what is left of the finger helps him out wonderfully in directing the course of the ball.

As a pitcher Brown ranks high. He has everything in the way of curves that he needs, and as a fielding pitcher he is among the best in the league.

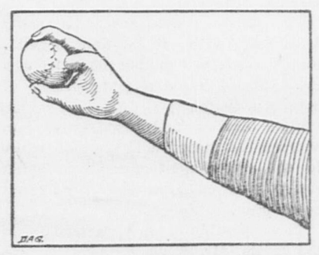

He is a graduate of the Omaha club of the Western league, going to St. Louis from there.

Manager Selee regards him as one of his most reliable pitchers because of his coolness and steadiness in pinches.

Owing to the absence of the first finger Brown is unable to negotiate the spit ball, but he says he can get along without the newfangled curve.

"I don't think the spit ball is going to cut as much figure as was thought early in the season," says Cy Young of the Boston Americans. "Many of the pitchers that were using it at the start of the campaign have cut it out now, and from now on the twirlers that use it will be dropping it one by one. I used it against Philadelphia and Washington and had it working nicely, but it hurt my arm, and I have cut it altogether. An old pitcher like myself has no business using it at all.

"The youngsters may get away with it all right, but no more of it for me. It hurt me in the forearm, for it is the forearm that is used principally in throwing the spit ball. It's the same thing that has knocked Jack Chesbro out.

"The same thing has hurt George Mullin and Doc White. Winters started off great for us with the spit ball, but you saw what Detroit did to his moisture ball.

"Harry Howell is another that is having his ups and downs with it. Case Patten says that it has lamed his arm, and I think the Cleveland pitchers are wise to begin to let it alone. If they stop altogether the better it will be for them. Even if it does not hurt a pitcher's arm I think it will eventually cause him to lose control of his curve ball and his fast ones."

HOPE IS EXHAUSTED

Mrs Rogers Will Probably Be Executed For Murder

Montpelier, Vt., June 10.—The decision of Judge Peckham of the United States supreme court, declining a writ of error in the Mary Rogers murder case, is taken by those interested in the case here as meaning that the last hope of saving the woman's life is exhausted. All the state courts, including the supreme body, the legislature, and now the United States supreme court have refused to interfere.

J. H. Senter of this city, who, with T. W. Moloney of Rutland, has acted as Mrs. Rogers' counsel in the attempts to save her life, said, when advised of Judge Peckham's decision: "I am afraid the woman must hang. I see no other legal step which can now be taken."

Middlebury, Vt., June 10.—Governor Bell was in Middlebury on business and when informed of the decision of Judge Peckham said: "My stand in the Rogers case is precisely the same today as when I first reprieved Mrs. Rogers. Under the law I was obliged to grant the second reprieve. Now that the writ of error has been denied, the law must take its course.' The governor said this entirely covered his position in the matter.

Quarreled Over Labor Troubles

Chelsea, Mass., June 10.—Fred J. Lessard, 21 years old, is locked up, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, and Phillip Smith, 25 years old, is probably dying from wounds in the abdomen, alleged to have been inflicted by bullets from Lessard's revolver. Lessard says he was attacked by Smith and several others and he shot in self-defense. The attack on Lessard is believed to have been the result of an old quarrel over labor.

Alleged Violation of Alien Law

Providence, June 10.—Deputy Collector of Customs Gardner of this port has filed in the district court a bill of complaint against John Z. Silva of the schooner Hattie and Lottie, from Brava, C. V. I. The bill alleges that Silva on May 10 last brought into this port 20 aliens, and did not present to the immigration officers of this port any list or manifest of the said aliens, as required by law.

Aged Man an Alleged Firebug

North Brookfield, Mass., June 10.—Eusebie Ribardy, 70 years old, was arrested last night, charged with having set fire to a dwelling house owned by his brother's widow. The house was a large four-story wooden building, unoccupied at the time of the fire. The police claim to have found a pile of rags in a corner of the hallway, and the banisters wound with oil-soaked cloth.

Granite For McKinley Memorial

Milford, Mass., June 10.—The contract for granite to be used in building the mausoleum as a memorial to President McKinley at Canton, O., has been awarded to a local company. It is estimated that $250,000 worth of pink granite will be needed, and that 300 men will be employed on the contract for several months.

Clothing Caught In Machinery

Providence, June 10.—James Dodd, aged 35, an employe of the American Ball company, was killed just before closing time last night through his clothing being caught by the machinery while he was engaged in placing a belt about the shafting. His body was whirled about the shafting and was terribly bruised.

Bullet In Milkman's Head

Manchester, N. H., June 10.—Girday R. White, 42 years old, a milkman residing at East Manchester, died last night from a wound self-inflicted. White shot himself at his home with a revolver, the bullet entering the head back of the left temple. No reason can be assigned for his act.

Fraud Order Against Brokers

Boston, June 10.—A fraud order has been issued against Bartlett, Cleveland & Co., stock brokers, with an office at 27 State street, depriving the firm of the use of the mails. The company advertised speculative investments which appear to the postal authorities to be fraudulent.

Receivership Made Permanent

Hartford, June 10.—Judge Roraback has confirmed Judge Holcomb as permanent receiver of the Co-Operative Savings society of Connecticut, under a bond of $100,000. Four months was ordered as the limit of time for creditors to present claims.

Has Perhaps Killed Himself

Providence, June 10.—Irving H. Potter, a bookkeeper, is missing from his home in this city and it is thought that he has committed suicide. Potter had been despondent for some time. He was 48 years old.

Sweetheart Peached on Him

Morristown, Pa., June 10.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Giacano Campollo, an Italian section hand, who is alleged to have stolen two gold bars valued at $11,500 from the ashes of a burned express car at Bethayres a few days ago. Campollo, it is said, sailed for Naples a few days ago. Campollo is alleged to have told his sweetheart of his good fortune, but because he refused to allow the girl to accompany him to Europe, she notified the police.

Croker May Re-enter Politics

New York, June 10.—The Herald says: Richard Croker will return to New York early in September. The time of his arrival in this city, which henceforth is to be his home for a part of each year, will be coincident with the real opening of the mayoralty campaign

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Quincy will hereafter have nine express trains on week days to Boston, and only 2 of the 37 trains will stop at all stations. From Boston there are six expresses and only three trains which make all stops. The expresses are long distance trains and will be appreciated in travel to the south of Quincy.

A new feature is inaugurated in the Daily Ledger today—New York fashions with illustration, description and direction for ordering. A different pattern will appear each day. It answers the important question to every woman, "what to wear and how to make it. The patterns supplied are correct in styles, up to date, and above all practical.

At this season of the year sporting events occupy considerable attention, and it the purpose of the Daily Ledger to give them more prominence especially in the Saturday edition. In this issue will be found four or five columns of sporting news and comments including the girls meet of the Quincy High school; base ball, both local and national; an illustrated base ball article, and also illustrated stories for those interested in horse trotting, golf automobiling, etc.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Mass. Press Association held this week, it was decided that the association hold its annual outing this summer at Nantucket, if proper arrangements can be made. The members and their ladies will be invited to leave Boston on Saturday, June 24, for four days' rest and recreation. Nantucket is an attractive place in hot weather, and the hotels and railroads hold out inducements to the editors to go to this summer resort before the rush of tourists, and undoubtedly a large and pleasant party will improve this chance.

Miss Mary E. Dearborn for nearly thirty years principal of the Coddington school has tendered her resignation to take effect at the close of the present term. Miss Dearborn feels that she has finished her work as teacher and that she has earned a complete rest from her long service; that if she is to enjoy fully her friends and the fruits of her labor she must begin before age shall diminish strength or dull the keen edge of interest in travel and in new fields of thought.

Miss Dearborn came to Quincy through the efforts of Col. Parker who had known her both as a student and as a young teacher of unusual promise. She was made principal of the Coddington school because she possessed in such large measure the qualities of an ideal master energy, decision, good sense, rare teaching and executive ability together with great strength and force of character.

During the years when Quincy was establishing a reputation for the excellence of its schools the Coddington became the educational Mecca for teachers from many parts of the world.

Miss Dearborn's long stay in Quincy, has not been due to any lack of opportunities to enter new fields, for it is a well known fact that she has received repeated invitations to go to Newton, Chicago and elsewhere, but she has chosen rather to remain with her old friends and the school around which cluster so many pleasant memories, and of which she has been such an important factor. Every pupil has felt her influence and his ideals of life, and of citizenship have been inspired by the Coddington spirit. While scholarship has not been neglected Miss Dearborn has been wise enough to appreciate the fact that a thousand most vital things in education are not found in the books. To develop a high standard of gentlemanly and womanly conduct is certainly a worthy end for any school, and the highest honor is due those teachers who train their pupils in the way of civic virtue and of noble living.

Without Miss Dearborn the Coddington school will lose its peculiar individuality. It cannot be the same. Another personality must set the standard and give the impress. Miss Dearborn has given her best effort and the best years of her life to the City of Quincy and to the children of this district.

Although we deeply regret her resignation, we are not surprised that, especially under the existing conditions at the Coddington, she insists upon retiring from the care and responsibility of a large school to the freedom and quiet enjoyment of well earned leisure. That she may find in this leisure the happiness she anticipates is the sincere wish of all the people of Quincy.

GODFREY--SMITH.

A Very Pretty Wedding at Wollaston on Thursday.

Among the many June weddings in Wollaston, there was none which occasioned more interest and good will than that of Miss Edna Breed Smith of Syracuse, N. Y., and Mr. Chester Noyes Godfrey of Wollaston, formerly of Hampton, N. H.

While the rain descended during the day, the clouds cleared away toward night and the sun came forth as if to give credence to the old saying, "Happy is the bride whom the sun shines on," and "Blessed is the bride whom the rain falls on."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Smith of Syracuse, and the groom an architect in the well known office of Messrs. Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson of Boston, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver H. Godfrey of Hampton, N. H.

The ceremony occurred at the home of the bride's sister Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Bailey before a small gathering of relatives and friends.

On the stroke of eight the groom, attended by his brother, Mr. Henry W. Godfrey, of the Harvard Medical school entered the parlor and as the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin pealed forth, played by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith of Wollaston, the bridal party descended the stairs.

Leading the procession was the seven year old sister of the bride, Miss Mary Southard Smith, dressed in white French mull, festooned with pink rose buds carrying a basket of the same flowers upon her arm, and Master David Washbury Bailey, aged 5, a nephew of the bride, both of whom held the ribbons through which the bridal party passed.

Following were the ushers, Mr. Charles W. Bailey, Mr. Amos T. Leavitt, cousin of the groom, Mr. George W. Bailey all of Wollaston, and Mr. Will Harold Smith of Syracuse, brother of the bride.

The bridesmaids, Miss Gratia L. Godfrey, of Hampton, N. H., sister of the groom, and Miss Kate A. Pattengill, of Utica, N. Y., were gowned alike in pink flowered silk mousseline with pink bodices, and carried pink weet peas.

Mrs. Charles W. Bailey as matron of honor, wore her wedding gown of white brocaded satin, with bertha of point applique, and carried a Bernhardt bouquet of pink roses.

Immediately following the matron of honor proceeded the bride leaning upon arm of her father, Mr. Rollin O. Smith. She was gowned in white Canton crepe over white taffeta, with yolk of oriental embroidery, wearing a veil, her shower bouquet consisting of white sweat peas and maiden hair fern.

The officiating clergmen Rev. Edward Abbott Chase of First Congregational church, Wollaston, read the marriage service, the Rev. Edmund D. Webber of the First Baptist church also of Wollaston, offering prayer.

The double ring service was used, and the responses were made in clear and fervent tones.

The bridal party stood amid a bower of ferns and palms, the back being festooned with mountain laurel.

At eight-thirty followed a reception for about 200 guests, who came from Cambridge, Hampton, Boston, Providence, Framingham and Fitchburg.

The parents of the bride and groom assisted in receiving.

The music room was artistically decorated with ferns and wigelia. Punch was served in this room from a table placed in a retreat formed of mountain laurel.

Field daisies and asparagus fern adorned the staircase in the hall, while in the refreshment room were pink roses. The color scheme throughout being pink.

The adjoining home of the cousin of the groom, Mr. Amos T. Leavitt, was connected by a canopy, the collation being served in this house. Here wigelia was largely used in decorating.

Both porches were curtained and hung with lanterns, thus forming a very picturesque effect.

The gifts which were exhibited in the library on the second floor were numerous and very choice.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey after a short honeymoon spent in the White Mountains hope to make their home in Wollaston, where a host of friends are eagerly waiting to welcome them.

—The estate of the late William A. Hodges on Hancock street, corner of Revere road, was sold yesterday at auction for $6,600.

Alfred M. Vinton.

A very large number of friends paid their last tribute of respect yesterday to Alfred M. Vinton.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in the First church Braintree, Rev. F. W. Burrows officiating. Remarks were also made by Dr. William Gallagher, head master of Thayer academy, of the high esteem in which the deceased was held by teachers' associates and the public. Anthems were rendered by the Young Ladies' choir.

The services were attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends, nearly filling the edifice. The pupils of Thayer academy, members of class 1905 and associates in the Telephone Exchange attended in a body.

The bearers were four members of his class and four friends from the exchange. The ushers were also associates. The casket and altar were completely enveloped in beautiful flowers; thousands of beautiful and choice blossoms as testimonials from his many friends. The interment was in the Plain street cemetery

Our Forestry Problems.

A bulletin of the State Forester's Office entitled, "Forestry in Massachusetts" is in press and will be issued in a few days. It deals with the fundamental conditions which are necessary to the development of forestry in any country. These conditions are,—the presence of a large body of non-agricultural land which is capable of producing timber trees, good markets for forest products, and proper transportation facilities. All of these conditions exist in Massachusetts.

Many land owners are taking a keen interest in their woodlands, and are applying for the preparation of forest working plans by the State Forest Service.

The Prussian government derives a net income of $9,000,000 per annum from its State forests. Massachusetts has much land that could be utilized in a similar manner.

Forest fires are annually consuming a large amount of timber. The State should have more effective forest-fire service, and the friends of our forests should endeavor to create a stronger sentiment against carelessness about fires in open ground.

—The American Ice Company has now a supply of 2,000,000 tons of ice on the Hudson and 500,000 tons in the Maine district. The independent companies have 1,000,000 tons packed away on the Hudson. These figures represent about the yearly crop for the supply of New York City.

BREATH DRAWINGS.

How to Make Them on a Mirror or a Pane of Glass.

Some curious experiments may be made with the breath. On a pane of glass or a mirror that has not been polished just beforehand trace a figure or a letter or a name with your finger. Nothing will be visible. But breathe on the glass, and the tracing will at once appear.

Now, on a freshly polished plate of metal or glass place a coin. After a few moments remove the coin, and nothing will be seen on the surface, but breathe on it where the coin was lying, and an image of it will appear. If you polish the coin instead of the metal or glass the same effect will be produced when you breathe on the surface.

If you have a plate of glass that has been against an engraving for several years breathe on that side of it, and the lines of the engraving will become visible. This may fail sometimes, but rarely.

Does all this sound like magic? The explanation is a natural one. On the surface of all solids a layer of gas, vapor and fine dust gathers. When you polish the object the layer is removed or it is altered by the contact of other solids. If the object is breathed upon the breath condenses more easily on some parts than it does on others, according to the condition or state of this layer, and therefore any marks made on it will become visible.

THE GAME OF TURTLE.

The Player With the Strongest Muscles Wins Out.

Any number may play, and no one player is "it," for all are "it" together. The game commences by each choosing the kind of turtle he intends to be. One perhaps is a land tortoise, another a snapper, another a mud turtle, and so on. Then they all sit in a row, resting their chins on their knees, and each holding his left ankle with his right hand and his right ankle with his left hand. This is a very difficult position to keep. At a given signal the turtles start for a goal a short distance away.

It is the object of the game for the turtles to waddle to the goal and back to the starting point without removing their hands from their feet. Many let go before the proper moment, the others shout, "Dead turtle!" and keep on, leaving their unfortunate companion in the background. The rules of the game demand that he wait there until the first successful racer reaches him on his way back and touches him with his elbow, by which he is supposed to instill new life into the poor dead turtle. The latter immediately starts out again and finishes in the best style he can. As there are always several dead turtles, he is never lonely in his effort to succeed. The winner is, of course, the one who returns to the starting place first.

Magical Increase.

Take a large drinking glass of a conical form—that is, small at the bottom and large at the top—and, having put into it a quarter, fill it about halfway up with water. Then place a plate upon the top of the glass and turn it quickly over that the water may not escape. A piece of silver as large as a half dollar will immediately appear on the plate, and somewhat higher another piece of the size of a quarter.

Might Have Been Worse.

Papa (looking over school report)—How is this, Johnny? According to the report you are at the foot of a class of seven pupils.

Johnny—Well, it might have been worse!

Papa—I fail to see how it could have been any worse.

Johnny—Why, there might have been more pupils in the class.

Riddles.

Why may carpenters think there is no such a thing as stone? Because they never saw it.

When may a man be said to take breakfast before he gets up? When he takes a roll in bed.

When is coffee like the earth? When it is ground.

I'll Tell You a Story.

I'll tell you all a story
About a man from Lynn.
And if you can't stop laughing
I'd better not begin.
The story is so funny
That it really is absurd.
And if you don't believe me
You needn't take my word.

CITY BREVITIES.

Today will pass for a perfect June day.

Ten-vote coupon will be printed in the Sunday Herald.

The new timetable of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. appears in this issue. There are several changes both on week days and Sunday.

The annual meeting of the officers and teachers of the Sunday school of First church will be held in the chapel Tuesday evening June 13 at 7.30. It is important that all attend

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Perkins having sold their place on Cherry avenue to Mr. Charles Miller of the firm or Abbot & Miller, are leaving the city permanently. They will spend the summer in New Hampshire as usual.

Increase of Fares.

A new system of fares on the Neponset-Nantasket and Neponset-Brockton line of the street railway went into effect to day. The fare to Nantasket is increased from 15 to 20 cents and the fare to Brockton from 15 to 20 cents.

On the Nantasket line the system of fares is 5 cents from Neponset to Quincy Point bridge, 5 cents from there to the Hingham line, 5 cents to Hingham square and 5 cents from there to Nantasket.

On the Brockton line the fares are 5 cents to the Braintree line, 5 cents from there to the Holbrook line and ten cents from Holbrook to Brockton.

To Visit Quincy.

The New England Woman's Press association some two hundred active newspaper women from all the large towns and cities in New England have planned to hold their June outing in Quincy, on Wednesday the twenty-first. A visit will be paid the old First church and the presidents' tombs, the Dorothy Q house and the birthplaces of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams, after which cars will be taken for North Weymouth where a box luncheon and picnic will be enjoyed with Mrs. Marion McBride as hostess and the Abigail Smith Chapter Daughters of the Revolution assisting her. Quincy members of the Press association, Mrs. Frederick H. Bisbop of Wollaston and Miss Annie L. Prescott of Quincy will do the honors in showing the guests about the city. It is an opportunity for many pleasant newspaper write-ups about historic Quincy.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. BRIDGE HEARING

On Change of Decree at Atlantic.

Sagamore Street Relocation Favored.

Railroad Refuses to Help Out on Reducing Grade.

The County Commissioners gave a hearing at the Probate court room at 9 o'clock, this morning, on the petition of Mayor Thompson to change the decree for the new Atlantic bridge.

The city was represented by Mayor Thompson, City Solicitor Thomas and City Engineer Flood. Representatives were also present from the Granite Manufacturers' Association and Board of Trade.

Mayor Thompson presented a plan of the proposed changes and agreements to the same signed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and the Old Colony street railway, whereby all three parties agree to share their proportionate part of the expense.

A special car was then taken for a view of the premises.

Returning from the view, Mayor Thompson took the stand and testified that Mr. Farnum of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. told him that the railroad would not pay one cent toward changing the grade to a lower grade.

In reply to questions by T. J. McAnarney Esq., Mayor Thompson said there was no doubt but what a 3 or 2 per cent grade was better than a 4 per cent. He had talked with several and this change of Sagamore street met with general approval, as the best solution to the situation.

In reply to other questions, he said that the action of the Granite Manufacturers' Association was on the statement of one man without hearing the other side. The estimate of cost to change the grade to a 3 per cent as he understood it was $5,000 or $6,000.

John Q. A. Field said he was familiar with the situation, and had given the matter careful attention. He had followed the matter from the first petition until the decree was made. Before the change in the grade was made the grade was 4 per cent up to 25 or 50 feet of the bridge, when it was greater possibly 5 per cent.

The effect of the proposed grade would be to lessen our loads a third. If a team stopped as the grade, the horses would be unable to start it. The sentiment as far as he had seen it was that a 4 per cent grade was prohibitory. He had an estimate made of changing grade to 3 per cent. which was $1,750.

Mr. Field was questioned at length by the City Solicitor in relation to the different loads carried. He also questioned him on his estimate of $1,750, as to how he got his figures. Nothing was estimated for land damages or for removing old paving. It did not provide for macadamize. At the Granite Manufacturers' Association meeting there was a quorum present when the vote was passed. A quorum is 18 members.

Ex-representative Peter T. Fallon did not belong to and did not think Granite Manufacturers' Association amounted to anything and left it. Had frequently inquired when this matter was to be settled. Believed for small amount of money it would cost it would be much better if it was lower than 4 per cent. The grade should be changed so as to do away with the hollow near the church.

Believed the job could be done for $1,700 and would benefit the whole community. The matter of cutting down this grade has been argued for years. If it can not be done without the city paying the whole expense, he would favor having the city doing it.

Ex-Mayor John O. Hall, representing Board of Trade, wanted to have matter adjusted to best interests of the city. Citizens have been put to long delay. Now desired that it should be completed as soon as possible and to the satisfaction of the citizens. As he understood it the powers of Commission were limited to a small section on Hancock street, that the balance is a question of figures. The Mayor feels present arrangement is the best solution.

Gilbert M. Miller, expressman, said that the grade up to September last year was a hard nip just before reaching the bridge. With heavy teams he usually had to get help over the bridge. The new grade should not be as much as the old grade. Thought paving might help the street.

Edward J. Sandberg said, up to last September there was a short distance it was hard on account of steep incline. As now, if he did not want to double up, would have to reduce load ten per cent. Would be just about the same as before. Would have to double up on a ten-ton load.

In closing City Solicitor Thomas said the city did not oppose an easier grade, only so far as it will change the whole scheme and cause a further delay in completing the bridge, and the necessity of applying to the courts.

The Commissioners took the matter under advisement.

The County Commissioners before whom the hearing was held were James Hewins, Sumner H. Foster and Associate Commissioner Lewis R. Whitaker who sat in place of Commissioner Marshall P. Wright, who did not act on account of being a resident of Quincy.

YOUR BLOOD VESSELS.

Keep Them Sound, and You Have the Elixir of Life.

Every age sees its earnest scientists still seeking how they may discover the elixir or the force which shall give us the energy, the vitality and the appearance of youth. A German who has been struggling with the subject is convinced that the secret lies in keeping sound our blood vessels. We are just as old as our hearts, he declares, and this is no pretty poetical sentiment, but a cold, scientific fact. As years creep on our arteries and the heart lose vigor, and we then begin to "age." Now, we can train this organ, it appears, to work better than it does. Like an old clock, if treated judiciously it will go on as well as a new one, but it does not do to give it any of the liberties of the latter. We must carefully regulate the exercise we take, the food we eat, the mental efforts we make, the muscular work we do. We should neither walk too much nor too little. We should get as much air as possible and never oversleep. We should never coddle, still less should we be rash about colds, fatigue, and so on. — London World.

Greeley a Lifelong Farmer.

"I would have been a farmer had any science of farming been known to those among whom my early boyhood was passed," Horace Greeley wrote in 1868. "Farming as understood and practiced by those among whom I grew up was a work for oxen, and for me the life of an ox had no charms." And in temperament Horace Greeley was a farmer all his life. He was born on a poor little farm in New Hampshire, and his childhood experiences of the vocation were those of terribly hard work and a meager living as its reward. It is no wonder that printing seemed more promising to him.—Oliver Bronson Capen in Country Life In America.

TWO FAMILY HOUSE.

It Is Attractive and Comfortable and Costs but $2,500.

The plan and design here shown represent an attractive and comfortable modern two family house, five rooms and bath on each floor, with provision in the attic for four rooms if desired.

There is a cellar under the entire house, with stone walls, cemented floor, coal bins and laundry, which is planned to be used by both families. The furnaces, which are of the hot air type, are also located in the cellar.

The frame is of hemlock lumber, and the walls are covered with hemlock boards, narrow beveled siding and two ply paper. The dormers, etc., are shingled with cedar shingles.

The main roof and piazza are covered with white cedar shingles, and the windows, except those of the cellar, are fitted with outside white pine blinds and rolling slats.

The floors are of narrow North Carolina pine, filled and varnished, and the walls are lathed and plastered with patent plaster, sand finished. The stairs and dressers are of clear kiln dried cypress of special designs, with plain molded heads, and the stair newel, rails and balusters are of turned and molded oak, finished natural.

The trim and other woodwork are stained mahogany in the parlors and halls and oak in the dining rooms, properly rubbed and varnished with two coats of brilliant flowing varnish. The bedrooms and kitchens are finished in natural wood in the same manner; the mantels are quartered dark oak, with tiled facings and plate glass beveled mirrors, and the hardware is ornamental dark bronze, with apple wood knobs, roses and escutcheons.

The house is piped for gas and fitted with fixtures. The sinks in the kitchens are steel gray enameled, with backs and brackets. The ranges are portable, with boilers over them. The bathrooms contain all copper, open bath tubs, with oak rims, and the basins are porcelain, with marble slabs and backs. The plumbing is open nickel work in each of the bathrooms.

This house is designed for a twenty-five foot lot and can be built in most places under favorable conditions for $2,500. The design can be greatly improved by making it four or six feet wider for a wider plot. It would make a comfortable home or a good investment.

BRAINTREE.

Webster Crosby is quite ill and threatened with the pneumonia.

The firemen's memorial Sunday exercises will be held in the Jonas Perkins school hall tomorrow at 2 P. M.

Mrs. William Stedman, of Berwick, Nova Scotia, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Burton, of West street.

Last Tuesday evening Puritan lodge 179, I. O. O. F., worked the second degree on former candidates and next Tuesday evening the third and final degree will be given to six gentlemen.

The wills of Mary E. Foster and Henry S. Thayer, late of Braintree, were allowed at the session of the Probate court at Dedham, Wednesday.

There is an interesting article in the June Review of Reviews on "American Rhodes Scholars" at Oxford. The author is Paul Nixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Nixon of Middle street.

Invitations are issued for the annual dinner which the King's Daughters are preparing for the elderly people in town to be given in the chapel of the South Congregational church, Wednesday, June 14, at twelve o'clock.

Today at 3.30 o'clock the Braintree base ball club will play the Winthrops on French's common.

The last dance of the season by the Braintree Fife and Drum Corps was held in the Town hall Thursday evening and it proved to be a success socially and financially. The heavy rain storm during the day was far from encouraging but the evening was fair, but a little cool for shirt waists. Cuff's orchestra played for dancing.

Work is progressing in the canoe house which H. A. Simonds is building for the convenience of canoe owners and will be placed in position on Sunset lake at an early date.

The gymnasium class under the direction of Miss Blanche Sears of Thayer academy held the last meeting of the season Wednesday evening at Miss Alice Holbrook's home on Washington street.

Little Mabel youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Borden is ill with scarlet fever.

Mr. Morgan who is employed in the cutting room at the D. B. Closson factory, is confined to his home on Franklin street with the mumps.

Miss E. A. Bates attended the Sunday School convention of the Taunton Baptist association at the Baptist church, Mansfield, on Tuesday. Rev. L. B. Hatch delivered an address on, "The Relation of the Child to the Church." Rev. R. O. Sherwood, Mr. W. W. Main and Mrs. T. R. Peede were among the other speakers.

Mrs. Abbie G. Langfitt has returned from a short sojourn in Connecticut where she was called by the death of her father, who had attained the ripe old age of 86 years.

Real estate agent George E. Sampson has sold for Bishop E. G. Andrews of Brooklyn, N. Y., the William G. Nixon estate, consisting of a twelve room colonial house, a stable and about three acres of land, to F. P. Luce, of the firm of Holmes, Luce & Co., Dock square, Boston. Mr. Luce after making improvements will occupy about July 1. This is the third sale Mr. Sampson has made in that neighborhood within three weeks. It pays to see Mr. Sampson.

Again we chronicle the death of one of our former townsmen. Mr. Alfred McPhee, who resided on Allen street for the past ten years, until a few weeks ago, when he moved his family to Malden. He was instantly killed Wednesday morning at 68 Beverly street Boston, (where he was employed,) by the explosion of one of the gas generators in the basement of the building.

Monatiquot Lodge No. 83, K. of P., will hold a roll call convention Monday evening, June 12, and it is hoped that as many members who can possibly, will attend or send a letter to the K. of P. S. to be read at that time in response to their name. A collation will be served.

Memorial services for those who had passed away during the last two years were held by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on Sunday afternoon, in Lawrence Encampment hall, Washington street, Boston, at which Rev. G. E. Whitehouse of East Milton delivered the principal address. Those from this village referred to, were Merrill T. Call, who died Dec. 8, 1903, and George W. Noyes, March 23, 1905.

On Sunday last Mrs. William H. Gurney, formerly of this place, was suddenly taken ill at her home in Cambridge. A physician who was immediately summoned, pronounced it black diphtheria and ordered her removal to the hospital, but before reaching there she passed away. The disease was diagnosed as spotted fever. Two children were also taken ill and at present writing one is improving and the other in a critical condition. The interment was in the Plain street cemetery, Monday.

Points of Interest.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACEOF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company where warships are being built for the government.

Match Races For Speedy Trotters

The Audubon Boy---Ecstatic and Audubon Boy--Hazel Patch Contest. Owner Gatcomb Anxious For the Fray---A Three Cornered Match?

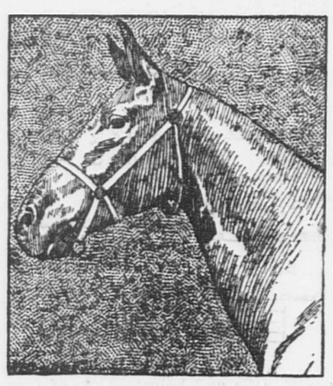

James Y. Gatcomb reports that his horse Audubon Boy, 2:03¼, was never in better condition for his match race with Ecstatic, 2:05½, than at present. He says that the match has already been made in proper manner and the forfeit put up in accordance with the wishes of John W. Dorey, the backer of Ecstatic, the amount being declared satisfactory by both parties.

As far as Audubon Boy and his owner are concerned, the match will come at the time and place agreed upon, with no thought of any backing down.

In regard to the proposed match race between Audubon Boy and the Milwaukee pacing mare Hazel Patch, 2:05½. Mr. Gatcomb writes: "I am ready and will be only too glad to make a match race between my horse and Hazel Patch, as has been proposed by the owner and admirers of the latter, the race to take place in the west or during the state fair meeting at Milwaukee. I leave it to the Wisconsin gentleman to name the amount of purse and forfeit. You can state on the strength of this letter that they are at liberty to make the amount as high as they are ready to risk. Audubon Boy did many things for me, and I am willing to give it all back if there is any horse that can beat him."

It will be timely and interesting to learn the opinion of Mr. Gatcomb in regard to the proposed three cornered race, with John M., 2:02¾, as the third horse. He makes no reference to this horse, but as far as the Audubon Boy-Hazel Patch matter is concerned his language is plain and to the point. It is now up to the backers of the western mare to give their answer if they are in earnest.

The match between Audubon Boy and Ecstatic will undoubtedly be one of the most interesting trotting events of recent years. Both horses will have thousands of dollars wagered on them.

Angiola has wintered in first class shape at Wheaton, Ill., and will be a dangerous competitor in the 2:09 classes this season. After the Hartford race last season Angiola was not in good condition and was several seconds from her true form. Just as the Charter Oak stake was finished a heavy storm came up, and the mare had to remain in the barn for three hours, being cooled out as was possible in such cramped quarters. The consequence was that she contracted a cold, and for the rest of the season she was weak across the kidneys. At the conclusion of the racing season she was shipped to Wheaton and after a spell of slow work was given a thorough course of physic, which resulted in an immediate improvement in her physical condition.

On the first of the year Trainer Oscar Ames commenced to give her daily exercise of from ten to twelve miles regardless of weather conditions. Under this treatment Angiola has filled out, her flesh is as firm as iron, and she weighs 1,160 pounds, an increase of at least sixty pounds, probably close to 100 pounds, over her weight of last summer.

In fact, Angiola is a young mare, and her growth is now about completed. Today she gives one the impression that she is larger and stronger in every way than she was last fall. She is one of the good big mares, for she stands fully sixteen hands high, and when her racing days are over she should make an ideal brood mare.

Considering the fact that Angiola is sound and can show a two minute gait for a piece of the road, it is reasonable to suppose that with ordinary racing luck she will be returned to winter quarters next fall with a mark of 2:04 or better. That she is game to the core was amply evidenced at Galesburg last summer. W. H. Smollinger will probably have her raced on the great western circuit.

A PLEA FOR PEACE

Indentical Note From President to Belligerents

FOR SAKE OF HUMANITY

Suggests That Negotiations Be Conducted Directly Between Japan and Russia--Willing to Aid In Properly Arranging Preliminaries

Washington, June 10.—An identical note, the text of which, by authority of the president, was made public late last night at the White House by Secretary Loeb, has been forwarded to the governments of Russia and Japan by President Roosevelt. In the interest of humanity the president urges the warring nations to conclude peace. It is suggested by the president that the negotiations for peace be conducted "directly and exclusively" between the belligerent nations.

The note indicates the president's belief that an intermediary may not be necessary to effect conclusive negotiations, but likewise expresses the president's willingness to do all that he properly may do to promote the preliminary arrangements for a time and place of the meeting of representatives of the Russian and Japanese governments. The following is the text of the dispatch as given out:

"On June 8 the following dispatch was sent by the president, through diplomatic channels, to the Japanese and Russian governments:

"'The president feels that the time has come when in the interest of all mankind he must endeavor to see if it is not possible to bring to an end the terrible and lamentable conflict now being waged. With both Russia and Japan the United States has inherited ties of friendship and good will. It hopes for the prosperity and welfare of each, and it feels that the progress of the world is set back by the war between these two great nations. The president, accordingly, urges the Russian and Japanese governments not only for their own sakes, but in the interest of the whole civilized world, to open direct negotiations for peace with one another.

"'The president suggests that these peace negotiations be conducted directly and exclusively between the belligerents—in other words, that there may be a meeting of Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries or delegates without any intermediary, in order to see if it is not possible for these representatives of the two powers to agree to terms of peace. The president earnestly asks that the (Russian), (Japanese) government do now agree to such a meeting, and is asking the (Japanese), (Russian) government likewise to agree.

"'While the president does not feel that any intermediary should be called in respect to the peace negotiations themselves, he is entirely willing to do what he properly can if the two powers concerned feel that his services will be of aid in arranging the preliminaries as to the time and place of meeting. But if even these preliminaries can be arranged directly between the two powers, or in any other way, the president will be glad, as his sole purpose is to bring about a meeting which the whole civilized world will pray may result in peace.'"

The foregoing note is rendered especially significant by the fact that it was prepared and sent only after assurance had been received from Tokio and St. Petersburg that such a proposition would be welcome. A formal reply to the note may not be received for several days. In view of the significant character of the document, and of the attitude toward it which both Russia and Japan have assumed, it is regarded in official and diplomatic circles as the first firm and decisive step toward ultimate peace.

When President Roosevelt left Washington on a two days' trip to Virginia he was confident that the result of the international negotiations for peace in the far east had been successful and that the final blow in the Russo-Japanese war had been struck. So deeply interested is he in bringing the two belligerent nations to a common understanding that he would not have left the White House at the time when the situation was so delicate, until he had obtained assurances that his efforts to bring Russia and Japan into contact, in an amicable spirit, had been successfully concluded.

Main Obstacles Removed

St. Petersburg, June 10.—France, instead of displaying jealousy at the initiative taken by President Roosevelt with a view to bringing Russia and Japan together for peace, has apparently warmly welcomed it and will give it co-operation. No further definite development is now expected until President Roosevelt returns to Washington from his trip to Virginia.

Statements in the dispatches that the president's sole aim is to bring the warring powers together in direct negotiations have been confirmed. The main obstacle to the president's efforts has been removed with the czar's acquiescence in his initiative, and negotiations are probably now proceeding at Tokio.

The czar, it must be pointed out, has not sued for peace. He has only assented to a proposition submitted by the head of a friendly power, and the matter officially goes no further than that Russia, now as ever, is ready to see if a common basis can be reached.

LYDIA'S QUORUM

By BELLE MANIATES

Copyright, 1905, by Belle Maniates

"Well, Lyddy, I'll get you the job if I can, but it's going to be a mighty hard thing to get a 'corum,'" Deacon Watrous was saying. "You see, that young Wight thinks we ought to have a man. Of course you'll have my vote, but Bill Stiles is always straddlin' a fence, and the last man he talks to gets him. This young feller's highfalutin talk kind of caught Bill's fancy, and he was totterin', but I took him in hand, and now he's leanin' our way again. I'll stick to him tighter than a brother and keep him away from Wight till the meetin' is over. It's tomorrow night."

"You are so good, Deacon Watrous," replied Lydia, raising grateful eyes, "and if I get the place I'll do my best to vindicate your choice."

"I'll do all I can, Lyddy," said the deacon.

Lydia Gardner had spent the past summer away from home, and when she returned to the farm she had found the family in a state of gloom. Crops had been poor, a number of cattle had died, and the inevitable mortgage had to be met. Lydia proposed to meet it by teaching in the district school. She had been reasonably certain of securing the position, counting on the deacon and Bill for a quorum, but now this young man, who had fallen heir to the farm of his uncle, John Wight, and had come to the Corners in her absence, might carry his point of hiring a man to teach.

She simply had to have the position, and she determined to help Deacon Watrous in his efforts to secure Bill's needed vote. It would be useless for her to appeal to Bill—"Weathercock Bill," as he was called. She resolved to make a bold move and encounter the enemy whom she had never seen.

Hugh Wight was in the sitting room of the old homestead pondering over this same subject of a quorum. When he succeeded to his inheritance he had determined to become a practical farmer and win the esteemed position his uncle had ever maintained in the hearts of the simple country folk. They had laughed at the young man for thinking he could be a farmer, but he had shown them he could learn from them and improve on their methods. They were glad to have him succeed his uncle as a member of the school committee. That seemed to be more in his line.

He had as firm convictions on the educational question as he had on most subjects, and he thought a man more fitted to wrestle with the difficulties of a country school than a woman. He had not seen this applicant, but he did not approve of a young girl who had no preparation or experience in teaching.

In the midst of his cogitations there was a rap at the outer door. He opened it to admit a winsome, willowy girl with big, innocent eyes and an artless manner.

"Are you Mr. Wight? I am Lydia Gardner."

He acknowledged the introduction gravely and asked her to be seated. Hugh Wight was not a susceptible man, and Lydia's beauty only strengthened him in his belief that she was not competent for the position of schoolteacher at the Corners.

"I am, as you know," she said, "a candidate for the position of teacher. I hear that you are in favor of hiring a man for the place, and I don't suppose anything that I could say would change your opinion. I came to ask you not to induce Bill Stiles to vote against me."

He was somewhat surprised at this frank appeal. He liked directness.

"It means a good deal to us," she continued earnestly, "and if I don't get the place it will go very hard with my father. My salary would help him more than you can know."

Hugh felt as if he had been stealing sheep. She did not want the money for fripperies, then, but to help her father.

"What do you mean by my influencing Bill?" he asked.

"It's like this," she explained. "Deacon Watrous is of course for me, and Bill is, too, or would be, if you leave him alone and say nothing about the advantages of having a man, but the last person that approaches Bill has him, and they say you have a convincing tongue. The deacon is going to try and keep Bill away from you until the meeting is over, but I didn't care to trust to that, so I came to ask you. I wouldn't presume to ask you to vote for me, only to let Bill alone."

Up to this time the eyes, voice and manner of the young man had not been at all encouraging, but in the hearty peal of infectious laughter that followed her request Lydia caught a note of appreciation, and some way she derived hope from his amusement.

"Miss Gardner, it strikes me as rather odd that you should come and show me the way to gain my point and then ask me not to take it."

"Maybe it is," she said wistfully, "but I didn't know what else to do."

He remained in deep study for a moment. He did not like to be influenced by personalities.

"Well," he said abruptly, "I'll not speak to Bill or in his presence about this matter, and I'll waive my objections for this year and vote for you myself, though I still believe a man should have the place."

Two bright spots burned in Lydia's cheeks.

"Thank you. I will now have another incentive to do my best. I shall try to show you that I can fill the position as acceptably as a man. You look incredulous. They all said about here that you, a 'city chap,' could never make a farmer, but you showed them you could. I'll show you I can make a teacher."

Having made this telling point, Lydia took her departure. Immediately the housekeeper came in and expressed her approval of Wight's concession.

"Lyddy's a smart gal, and for all her purty looks and baby way she's got a heap of grit. Pity her pa didn't have it. He used to be a professor, and he's eddicated Lyddy to use good speech."

At the meeting the next night Lydia received a unanimous vote, and when school opened she was installed as teacher. She made companions of the big boys and girls and pets of the little ones. The country people were perfectly satisfied. In due course of time Deacon Watrous and Bill Stiles came to make the accustomed visit. Lydia was fully prepared for this occasion and invited them to question the class. They knew but a few questions to ask, and as they had paid many visits to the school the pupils knew the answers by heart. Then Lydia asked them to sing a stirring war song and a hymn. Bill's little girl spoke a piece, carefully rehearsed beforehand. The two members went away enthusiastic over the new teacher and told Wight he had better go and see for himself.

And he did, appearing suddenly and unexpectedly near the close of an Indian summer afternoon. Lydia's expression of dismay caused a titter of appreciation among the older boys. Instead of a reprimand she gave them an imploring look that could not be withstood, and order reigned at once. Lydia felt that the visitor had noted the look and interpreted it as a confession of inability to govern.

Just as she was about to call upon the school for a song little Bob Hanks let loose a mouse he had carefully confined in his book bag. Excitement prevailed among the girls and delight among the boys. Had Lydia known that she was to lose her position she would still have done as she did now, jumped up on her chair.

Hugh caught the mouse, threw it out of the window, ejected Bob and his book bag and in stentorian tone restored order. Lydia came down from her chair and in her confusion called upon the arithmetic class to come forward. She wished that Lige Jenkins had remained at home that day. Arithmetic was not his forte. She planned adroitly to omit him, but the visitor instantly detected the omission and pounced upon the unfortunate lad.

"Lige," he asked, "how many times does 9 go in 27?"

To Lydia's dismay Lige promptly stepped to the blackboard and commenced a solution via long division, finally putting down 2 for an answer.

"Try again, Lige," urged Wight cheerfully.

Lige then substituted the figure 4 for 2.

"You've got another guess coming, Lige."

The boy looked bewildered, and Lydia desperately came to his rescue.

"Lige, won't it go three times?" she asked insinuatingly.

Lige looked at her axiously.

"Why, yes," he replied slowly, "it will, but it's a dern'd tight squeeze!"

Then came that delightful unconstrained burst of laughter that Lydia had heard once before from Hugh Wight. The school joined with him. The teacher looked at the clock and thankfully observed it was time for dismissal. She stood at the door until the last scholar had vanished. Then she came back to the platform, where Wight still sat and Lige lingered.

"Say," observed the lad earnestly, "t'ain't her fault. I never did know nuthin' about 'rithmetic nohow. She's the best teacher we ever had."

This touch of sympathy from the little champion was too much for Lydia. Her self control slipped, and her head went down on the desk.

"Lige," said Wight gently, "you did better than I expected. There are lots of things in life more desirable than a knowledge of the science of numbers. Take this dime and go down to the Corners and see what it will buy."

The boy sped happily away. Lydia raised her head. A little gleam of anger and defiance flashed through the tears.

"You can send and get a man teacher as soon as you want to. I am glad I am not a man."

"So am I, Lydia," he said heartily, with such earnestness of voice and eyes that the slender hand of the schoolteacher went up in a pathetic little way to her eyes.

"I am your 'quorum,' you know," he said whimsically, but with the new softness still in his voice, "and I didn't come to inspect the school nor the scholars, but to take the teacher driving. Will she go?"

Her hands came quickly down from her eyes, whose dimness was melting away in a glow of pleasure.

"Yes," she replied, "I will go."

The New England Kitchen.

There is a kind of sentiment about the kitchen in New England—a kind of sentiment not provoked by other rooms. Here the farmer drops in to spend a few minutes when he comes back from the barn or field on an errand. Here in the great, clean, sweet, comfortable place, the busy housewife lives, sometimes rocking the cradle, sometimes opening and shutting the oven door, sometimes stirring the pot, darning stockings, paring vegetables or mixing goodies in a yellow bowl. The children sit on the steps, stringing beans, shelling peas or hulling berries, the cat sleeps on the floor near the wood box and the visitor feels exiled if he stays in sitting room or parlor, for here, where the mother is always busy, is the heart of the farmhouse.—Century.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MRS. KENYON COX.

A Woman Who Has Achieved Fame as a Portrait Painter.

Mrs. Kenyon Cox, who was Louise King before her marriage to the well known painter, illustrator and decorator, was born in San Francisco and came to New York to study art when quite a young girl. She entered the schools of the National Academy of Design and subsequently went to the Art Student's league classes, where she was under the instruction of Mr. Cox. Her cleverness as a student was early manifest, and her progress was rapid. In 1896 she took the third Hallgarten prize at the exhibition of the National academy, and in Paris at the international exposition she was awarded a bronze medal in 1900. Then in the year following at the Buffalo Pan-American she was given a silver medal, while in 1903 the Julia Shaw memorial prize was voted to her at the exhibition of the Society of American Artists. In that year she also received the honor of election as an associate of the National Academy of Design and membership in the Society of American Artists.

It is perhaps unnecessary to say that the last two distinctions come to but few of her sex and are baubles fairly forced from those organizations. In all these years and particularly despite the many family considerations and responsibilities of recent times Mrs. Cox has worked seriously and faithfully, advancing logically and steadily in her art until her position is quite assured and her place among the portraitists unquestioned. Though she had done some decorative work and not a few genre pictures, her greatest success has been with likenesses of men, women and children, and perhaps with the latter she has succeeded best of all. It seems, however, but natural that women should catch better than most men the elusive qualities of adolescence. Their peculiar sympathy with children, their ability to comprehend their desires and moods, explain this in a measure, and so Mrs. Cox has had many fortunate results in representing the little ones.—New York Mail.

Count Your Talents.

Twice a year every merchant takes account of stock. When the work is completed the shopkeeper knows just where he stands. If a certain department in his store is losing money he plans on strengthening it or cutting it out entirely. If another department is making an unexpected success he specializes upon it and features it. He has what might be termed a commercial house cleaning.

Now, I have often wondered whether it would not pay for those of us who work for our living to take account of stock at regular intervals, not making an inventory of ribbons, laces, shirt waists and hats in our possession, but of talents. The influences of business life should tend to broaden and develop the feminine mind, so whenever I hear a business woman mourn because she finds herself in a groove, or, as most of us put it, in a rut, I wonder why she does not stop long enough to take account of stock. Perhaps she will discover some talent which will lead her into a more remunerative and congenial occupation.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Use of Perfume.

Much has been said of the vulgarity of scent. Well, of course, there are vulgar perfumes, just as there are low music and art. The real reason of the tirade against the vulgarity of perfumes no doubt lies in the fact that the scent bottle is made too evident. A woman of taste, in whatever class of life, will not pour on the eau de cologne by the pint. It is something far more delicate that she requires. It is not a rapid evaporation of strong scent that she delights in, but a very faint, clinging fragrance that is only got by packing fresh violets in her linen cupboard or hanging her dress in a wardrobe where a scent bottle is left to evaporate slowly. It takes a long time for the subtlest part of the scent to get into every fiber of the texture, but when she wears that dress there is no vulgarity about it. She brings a kind of fragrant presence with her into the room, and it accompanies her wherever she goes, reminding men of summer evenings in pleasant gardens where the lilies blow. —Modern Society.

The Mistress a Servant Respects.

A woman should insist upon being mistress of her own kitchen, but unless she possesses self control, patience and tact she is really just as unfit to manage her servants as a child. It is a very true saying that a man or woman who has not learned to control self is not fit to control others. If a woman cannot go into her kitchen without losing her patience or losing her temper she would do better to stay out of it. Fault must be found, but with servants, as with children, it should be in a quiet, dignified way, and a proper time should be chosen for it. A woman who does not know any better than to take a time when a servant is particularly busy or has some special piece of work she is trying to get through, such as washing, ironing or getting dinner, will never be likely to have good service. If she scolds or nags she at once lowers herself to the level of her servant and loses the respect which every mistress of a house should strive to deserve from those about her.—Woman's Life.

Trunkful of Practicalities.

A gift certain to be enthusiastically received by the bride or young housekeeper is a trunk containing freshly laundered and neatly marked dishcloths, kitchen hand towels, cleaning cloths, cotton flannel broom cloths, flatiron holders, ironing board covers and sheets of unbleached cotton with which to cover the furniture on cleaning day. Dust cloths of dainty silkaline and wash cloths with crocheted borders are tied in bundles with narrow white ribbon and meet the eye on raising the cover of the tray. For a more elaborate outfit cambric bags in which to hang gowns or suits of clothes in summer may be added as well as numerous other articles more often included in the bride's traditional linen chest.

Four Post Bedsteads.

The old fashioned four post bed appears to be coming back into favor, and amateurs are turning their attention to its decoration. Painting, carving, fancy basket work and embroidery are all employed. If the bedspread does not fall low at the sides a length of linen with a deep fall of lace is tied on at the corners. This has a very good effect on any bed and is easily and inexpensively done. Crochet is much in vogue now for the trimming of tea, toilet and sideboard cloths as well as for nightdress cases, pincushions and the ends of bolsters.

Toothbrushes.

The care of toothbrushes is not sufficiently observed. In our houses they stand in their cups or hang on their racks above the toilet bowls, absorbing any disease germs that may be floating about. They should be washed frequently—at least twice a week—in some antiseptic solution, strong salt and water or bicarbonate of sodium and water being two good and readily provided cleaners. Tooth washes and pastes should also be kept carefully covered.

The Hood Bath Robe.

A valuable garment for the baby is the hood bath robe. It is made of eiderdown, long enough to cover the body entirely, and its chief point of excellence is the hood. This covers and dries the wet little head as soon as the baby comes out of the tub, and no drafts have a chance to give an infant catarrh by striking its damp hair. The edges of the robe and hood are bound with washable ribbon, preferably in pink and blue.

An Effective Bleach.

Chloride of lime is an effective bleach. The only difficulty lies in its application by one not knowing its corrosive properties. On nearly all cans of chloride of lime there is a recipe for making what is called javelle water. This is a bleach and if made and used according to directions it will remove spots and will also bleach yellowed linen as well as that only partly bleached.

Painted Toys.

Do not buy painted wooden toys for the bairns, says an authority. During our early years of life we closely resemble the lower animals in bringing everything to the test of taste. Some toy manufacturers state that the colors they use are harmless, but without questioning their veracity one may say that the insides of little children can very well dispense with paint.

Soiled Clothes Barrel.

Where soiled clothes have to be kept in the bathroom, as in crowded flat houses this must be, a small barrel painted inside and out, with holes in the sides for ventilation, is better than a hamper—that is to say, it is better for the people in the house and just as good for the clothes.

Wrinkles and Creases.

Wrinkles and creases should always be massaged in the opposite direction—that is, upward and outward. It is well to learn the anatomy of the face before attempting to erase wrinkles. The general rule given above is established, but does not provide for exceptions in individual cases.

Matting will last for years if it is given a thin coat of varnish when first put down and again after each six months. The varnish certainly preserves the substance and gives it a handsome appearance.

To the ordinary warm water and ammonia used for freshening carpets add a tablespoonful of kerosene, and the result will be still more satisfactory than usual.

The white enamel paint so much used now is best cleaned with whiting instead of soap, as this cleans without injuring the surface.

Tea leaves moistened with vinegar will remove the discoloration in glass caused by flowers.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Fort street has been resurfaced.

Dr. A. A. Hunt of Hartford, Conn., is in Quincy for a few days.

The School street sidewalk near Fort street has been improved.

The Sunday School of Christ church will hold its annual picnic at Nantasket, Friday, June 30.

The Rev. William Gardner was called to Providence, R. I., this week by the illness of his mother.

W. R. C. will observe Flag day Wednesday, June 14th at the home of Mrs Jennie Ewell, Norfolk Downs.

Laurence F. Loring will act as stenographer for Judge Harriman of the Pemberton building, Boston, during the summer.

Abigail Adams circle of the Companions of the Forest of America will attend memorial services at Christ church, Sunday evening.

The Army Nurses association of Massachusetts is to hold memorial services on the afternoon of June 13th at three o'clock in the Arlington Street church, Boston.

The new house of Mr. Herman F. McIntyre on Presidents hill is progressing very fast. The frame is up, and floors laid. It will command a fine inland view, looking toward the south and west, and also get quite a piece of the bay.

Although F. P. Virgin, M. D., has been located in Quincy three years, many have not learned that they have among them a skilled and experienced occulist. His specialty is the examination of eyes for defects of vision. He has a card in this issue.

The body of Miss Elizabeth Brown Barrett, late of Boston, was brought to Quincy on Thursday for interment at Mt. Wollaston. She was the daughter of Nathaniel Augustus Barrett, and lived with her sister, Miss Sarah Barrett, at 30 West Cedar street.

Mr. L. M. Pratt who has taken the management of the Public market opposite the fountain has already been quite as busy as he feels able to be. It is a stand very convenient to travelers by steam and electric cars and under Mr. Pratt's careful management will attract first class custom. His window looks very inviting.

Friends of Edward H. Angier of Presidents hill are much interested in the improvements he is making in his estate. What would be a great undertaking for most men does not phaze him a bit, so he is having his house picked up and turned round. The idea is to get a southern and western exposure for the living rooms which is a very sensible idea as nothing is more cheerful than sunshine. The looks of the place will not be materially altered although the points of the compass may be confusing for a while for the occupants.

BORN.

MACDONNELL—In Quincy Point, June 9, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Angus G. MacDonnell of Madison avenue.

WALKER—In Hingham, May 24, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker, both formerly of Braintree.

DIED.

GRIGGS—In Hingham, June 9, Sarah P. Griggs of Canterbury street, aged 80 years and 12 days.

DYEING.

In case of mourning, Clothes Dyed Fast Black and finished in from 3 to 5 days, at Warshaw's Quincy Steam Dye House.

Established 1892.

1503 Hancock street, Quincy.

Mrs. Eddy Interviewed.

A few days ago, at her home in Concord Mrs. Eddy received a woman representative of the Boston Sunday Herald, and there in the seclusion of her home one of the most pathetic interviews ever recorded took place. The aged leader of the Christian Science movement was so deeply impressed with the interview that she wrote about it afterward. What The Herald woman saw at Pleasant View, her meeting with Mrs. Eddy, all that went on and goes on in a home about which there has always been the greatest mystery, will be told in The Herald on Sunday in one of the most remarkable interviews ever secured by a newspaper.

Crowd at Circus.

Robbins' circus drew a full house on the River street grounds last evening. Many of the old features were missed, there being very little bare back riding, with ring master, clown, etc. There were several very good aerial acts by men and women, closing with the daring bicycle ride from the top of the tent, and leap over wide open space. Clowns of the Happy Hooligan order were numerous and attracted much attention.

COOK'S WELCOME FOSS'

Pure Food Agitation Condemns Imitation Extracts.

Turpentine Enters Largely Into Spurious Lemon Flavoring.

Cooks Use Foss' Extracts With Confidence.

BECAUSE THEY ARE MERELY THE FRUITS IN LIQUID FORM.

Only a few years ago it was very difficult for the most painstaking woman to be sure that she was using a natural flavoring extract. The demand for extracts at soda fountains and in ice cream especially tempted manufacturers to use substitutes and adulterations for quicker and larger profits.

The imitations became so crude and deleterious that many persons ate sparingly of all flavored desserts. It was proved that it was the impure flavoring that made pies, cakes and ice creams disagree with grown-up persons as well as with children, and an urgent demand arose for a pure, reliable, natural fruit extract. A wide market was assured for such a wholesome flavoring and from the first appearance of Foss' Extracts, which are simply the fruits in concentrated, liquid form, hotel chefs, cooking school teachers and thousands of plain housewives entirely discarded the use of artificial extracts and began to stock their pantry shelves with nothing but Foss'.

Families that had been using flavoring extracts that were clever imitations of the true fruit were delighted and surprised at the delicacy, purity and wholesomeness of the new flavoring. They found in addition to a daintier flavoring imparted to desserts that it did not require so much of Foss' to get the proper flavor as it did of the old, dishonest kind and that it was therefore more economical.

As an example of the superiority of Foss' over all other extracts, let us instance that queen of flavors, vanilla, this best of all extracts has the peculiar natural odor of the vanilla bean, and the delicate delicious flavor that is unmistakable to those who have ever used the vanilla bean itself; but in the case of interior and low grade vanilla extracts, made hastily from poor and mouldy beans colored by burnt sugar to deceive the housewife, a rank unpleasant flavor is had, which sets all the housewife's skill and good luck at naught.

Foss' Extracts are indicated by Mrs. Lincoln in her receipt for ice cream on page 364 of her Boston Cook Book, simply because it is fruit in liquid form and the best. The superiority of this modern flavoring over all old fashioned extracts is due in a measure to the extreme care that is taken in selecting the soundest, most perfect and finest flavored vanilla beans the world affords, and secondly, all the flavor of the beans is taken out by a natural, slow process teat carefully preserves both the aroma and flavor.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The annual summer engagement of the Fadettes woman's orchestra which was begun last week at Keith's drew large and enthusiastic audiences or ardent music lovers from all over New England. There has been some changes made in the personal of the orchestra by Director Nichols, and it is now said to be by lovers of popular music everywhere "the best ever." The concerts will continue at approximately 1.45 and 7.30 P. M., so that those who enjoy the music may do so while the patrons of vaudeville may come later. For the week of June 12, the Fadettes will make an entire change of selections. Included in the vaudeville bill will be the Four Lukens, who have just returned from Europe, in the greatest "casting" act ever seen in the varieties; the Avolos, a quartet of expert xylophone players; Susie Fisher, a talented baritone vocalist; Louis Wesley, monologue comedian; Mlle. Chester and her beautiful statue dog; Gilday and Fox, in a comedy sketch and Norman D. Stell, a pleasing boy soprano. An entire new list of motion pictures will be shown in the biograph.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

There is every evidence that the summer season at the Castle Square Theatre beginning Monday next, will prove one of the most notable of any known in the long history of this popular play house. The management have brought together as members of the stock company for the coming three months an aggregation of former and present favorites with the Boston public. The complete list of players secured for the summer is as follows: Mary Hall, Mary Sanders, Alice Riker, Marie Falls, Florine Arnold, Lucille Stanford, Cordelia MacDonald, Mabel Colcord, Leah Winslow, Grace Elliston, Howell Hansel, Charles Mackay, William Humphrey, J. L. Seeley, Mortimer Weldon, Lindsay Morrison, Francis Ball, Fred Murray, Louis Theil, William J. Hasson, William Evarts, with E. L. Snader as stage manager and John J. Geary as prompter. For next week the popular American play "The Senator" is announced, its first performance here in six years, with many of the players in the cast who were seen in this play when last presented at this theatre.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

The summer season of musical comedy successes, opened at the Empire Theatre, Boston, last Monday, has proved an instant and unmistakable success from every point of view, and the potent combination of first-class presentations and popular prices is just what the amusement seekers of Greater Boston and vicinity have desired for a long time. Every newspaper in Boston accorded the initial performances most enthusiastic and sincere endorsement, and the public, which makes it possible for theatres to remain open, has evinced its approval through that infallible barometer of success, the box office. With such favorable signs at its back "The Belle of New York," which has been the attraction for the opening week, will be continued another week, in order to give full opportunity to the thousands who have never seen and heard this delightful musical comedy to do so; and to meet the insistent desire of those who have seen and heard it and know full well its meritorious and attractive qualities, and who want to repeat delightful experiences.

ANOTHER WOLLASTON DISASTER.

Locomotive Explodes and House Is Bombarded.

Miraculous Escapes From Death---One Brakeman Seriously Injured.

Both Tracks Blocked and Trains Unable to Pass for Several Hours.

A loud explosion followed by the crackling of breaking wood and the smashing of glass startled the residents of Wollaston at 5.45 Saturday night. People who looked in that direction saw the air full of flying timbers and a dense cloud of steam. That an accident of some nature had occurred was evident and a crowd was soon hurrying toward the Tublar Rivet works from which direction the explosion came.

The first thing that caught the eye was an overturned freight car and quantities of debris scattered along Newport avenue. Then a dismantled locomotive covered with white asbestos dust, derailed cars and a badly torn road bed. Locomotive 635 attached to a freight train of eighteen cars had blown up, and made a bad wreck.

The news of the wreck flew fast, and as it flew something was added to it, so that the first stories that reached the city proper were that many had been killed. Fortunately, however, while the accident was a bad one no one was killed and but one person seriously injured. He was the brakeman, John C. McKay of 587 Seventh street, South Boston. His injuries consisted of fractured ribs, and possibly internal injuries. He was quickly removed to the City Hospital in the Police ambulance.

It was an inward freight and the engine had reached a point just north of the Wollaston freight depot when without any warning the locomotive exploded with a loud report sending a shower of steam and broken and twisted iron flying through the air.

Directly west, on a siding, were several freight cars, one of which received the brunt of the explosion. This car was overturned, the trucks being left standing on the rails. The top of the car was smashed into kindling wood and the pieces of the debris scattered over a large area. A piece of timber four feet long was carried across the street through a window in a house at 241 and 243 Newport avenue occupied on the lower floor by J. W. Thompson and on the upper floor by Robert Bliss. The timber carried away the entire sash and after smashing things generally in the house buried itself in the wall on the opposite side of the room. When the explosion came Mrs. Bliss stood at the head of the stairs, and the shock was so severe that she fell the whole length of the stairs. While not severely injured the shock to her system was a severe one and she was cared for by a physician who had been summoned.

In the next house, occupied by J. W. Newcomb, the windows were also smashed as they also were in the houses of Mrs. Field, James McLeod and T. H. Adams. One piece of iron sailed over the houses and landed at the feet of Miss Howard, who was seated on the lawn. It was a close call for her and it was somewhat remarkable that she should have escaped injury.

Doctors Johnson and Adams were quickly on the scene and rendered aid to the injured, and other physicians responded.

The force of the explosion lifted the locomotive from the iron and it ran along for a distance of 700 yards before the train finally came to a stop. The bolts on the fish plates were cut off as clean as though done with a chisel and the roadbed was torn up and the rails twisted out of shape. Just before the train came to a stop, two of the freight cars left the iron and were dragged along the roadbed and when stopped they were so near the rails of the outward track as to completely block that as well as the inward rail.

In the cab when the explosion took place were Engineer George Williams and Fireman Fred Noble. The fireman was in the act of shovelling coal into his furnace and with the engineer was thrown to the floor of the cab. This probably saved them from being killed for while they were enveloped with steam they escaped with a severe shaking up. The force of the explosion seems to have been upward and sideways, for although the top of the cab was smashed, none of the flying iron seems to have entered the cab.

As soon as the train came to a stop the fireman seized a red flag and ran toward Norfolk Downs to stop an express train that was approaching. But for this, a further horror with great loss of life might have resulted.

On top of a car just back of the locomotive was Brakeman McKay. The force of the explosion threw him off the car to the ground with such force as to fracture his ribs and possibly injure him internally. Conductor George E. Orcutt and the engineer rushed to his assistance and rendered what aid was possible before the doctors and the police ambulance arrived.

Engineer Williams says that he shut off steam just after passing the Wollaston station and was running about fifteen miles an hour when the explosion came. Plate No. 2 was blown out entirely, pieces of the plate being carried several hundred yards. One piece weighing several hundred pounds landing near the Tubular Rivet building.

It is somewhat singular that the accident should have happened but a few hundred yards south from the scene of the disaster to the Silver lake excursion train of Oct. 8, 1878, when so many persons lost their lives.

Coming at the hour which it did when there is a great outward rush from Boston, passengers for points south of Wollaston experienced considerable delay in arriving home. Nearly all of the Quincy passengers left the train at Atlantic and finished their journey on the electrics. The street railway sent down a large number of extra cars and hundreds completed their homeward journey by this method.

There was a long string of trains both north and south of the wreck, and it was a long time before the wrecker was able to reach the scene. All trains were sent round through West Quincy to Braintree on a single track.

It was nearly 8 o'clock before the wrecker arrived, and work cleaning up the wreck under the direction of Supt. Taylor was commenced, and it was long after midnight before the rails had been cleared, and both rails were in condition for use.

There are several theories as to the cause of the accident, one of which is that the engine was an old one, and had become worn out. The railroad officials, however, say that she had been recently tested, and was pronounced all right.

It is particularly fortunate that a freight car was there to receive the brunt of the shock, and that a passenger train was not passing at the time, otherwise the accident must have been accompanied with great loss of life.

News of the accident reached Quincy, before 6 o'clock, and thousands of people visited the scene during the evening, and were interested in the work of the wrecker.

BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Had Smashed Store Window at Kittredge's Store.

Officer Crooker captured a burglar red handed early Sunday morning, as he was about to enter the store of Henry P. Kittredge on the corner of Hancock and Saville streets. The fellow, who is about 27 years of age, gives his name as John Hill, and claims to hail from New York.

It was about 2 o'clock Sunday morning when Officer Crocker, standing in front of Kittredge's store on Hancock street, heard glass smashed. He looked up to see where it came from but saw nothing. He walked around the corner onto Saville street and was surprised to see a man working on the side window of the store.

He had opened the blinds on the window and left them standing at right angles with the window. They thus afforded him some shelter from anyone passing along Hancock street.

Officer Crocker grabbed the fellow and successfully landed him at the police station.

The fellow wore a false mustache and was armed with a piece of steel flattened at one end. It was with this that he had smashed the glass near the catch so that the window might be opened easily. As it happened, however, the window was doubled fastened.

This is not the first time that Hill has been in the Quincy Police station. Sergeant Hanson says the fellow has put up there twice before, at least, and he thinks the fellow may not be in his right mind.

Sergeant Hanson says that the fellow walked into the station one night and wanted to be taken care of. He said he had a razor, and if not looked out for he would cut some one. His razor was taken away from him and he was given a lodging for the night. Hill was arraigned in court.

TRUE OR FALSE

Statements Relative to the High School.

School Committee Act Honorably.

Many Misrepresentations are Afloat to Defeat Order.

In an editorial in the Quincy Advertiser, much more ingenious than ingenuous, it is clearly demonstrated that if the School Committee will not consider any plans except one set which they have placed their hearts upon, they are bigoted obstructionists; that if they insist upon plans which an expert has declared will cost $150,000 to build upon, when other architects will furnish the same school accommodations for $75,000, they are enemies of economy and are wilfully wasting the people's money; that if they built one wing for $65,000 when the other will cost from $75,000 to $100,000 they are transparent frauds.

It says "Just think of that taxpayers, they (the School Committee) set aside all business methods and come right down to the point where they state we want a building according to the Gould plans; we will take no other and if your children suffer what do we care."

These conclusions are so logical and true that if the premises can be sustained they cannot be escaped. The writer of the editorial deems it for the interest of all that a few words of light should be shed upon the situation and then proceeds to establish his conclusions only affirming his hypotheses.

ARE THESE TRUE OR FALSE?

The one upon which most of the financial argument rests is absolutely false. The paid expert, whom the School Committee does not discredit and who was employed upon recommendation of the School Committee, has never reported upon the cost of these Gould plans or any Gould plans similar to these.

At the School Committee meeting on June 9, 1903, it was voted that the Gould plans be approved. It was also voted that the Wright plans would undoubtedly be approved when changed and worked out and because it was persistently argued that the Gould plans were extravagant, it was voted that the Committee advise that expert opinion be obtained giving the cost of each, adopting that which requires the least expenditure of money.

The expert's report showed that the Gould plan was less costly by more than $25,000 than the other plan referred to. Neither of these plans, however, were adopted by the City Council, and in November, 1903, the City Council passed an order authorizing the Public Buildings Committee to procure new plans.

In April, 1904, the present Gould plans for a complete new building very much changed from the first set were approved by the School Committee, as the Committee believe and assert, solely on the merits of the plans. The building of the addition was defeated, it seems, by those who were desirous of erecting an independent High School on the Lawton lot.

The Advertiser says "If this was the first year we might brush aside the opposition, but having been opposed for three years there must be some good reason for it." If there is a reason for the opposition other than that the plans are marked Gould, that reason has not appeared in the open. The Gould plans in each instance have met with the support of the regular Committees of the Council, have been favorably reported and have apparently had the support of the majority of the Council. They are endorsed by the Board of District Police and commended by experts. The opposition ought to be brushed away.

To the next hypothesis "If the Committee will not consider any other plans, etc." the answer is that the Committe have to the best of their ability considered five sets of plans, have studied them a great many hours, have hoped to find some of them adequate to the needs of the school, but according to their communication to the City Council they did not find any so satisfactory as the plans they had already approved.

Should the Committee to satisfy a factious minority stultify itself by approving unsatisfactory plans? If the answer is yea, the Committee is at fault and subject to adverse criticism. They contend that they ought to consider all plans properly before them, but that they ought not to approve any but satisfactory ones.

The School Committee would be enemies of economy if they should advise building for $150,000 what other architects would furnish for $75,000. Is there a sane man in the City of Quincy who believes that the Committee would take such action as that? The paid expert did not report upon the cost of the plans under discussion. The architect has repeatedly said that if the building should be constructed as a whole, if the contract could not be let guaranteeing its completion for $120,000 he would make no charge for plans or supervision. No reputable builder has made to the School Committee any offer to give a bond to build a similar building for $75,000.

The writer of the editorial says "As a compromise the School Committee offers the solution that only $65,000 need be spent this year and that a year or so from now they will call for the expenditure of the remaining $70,000 or $100,000. Is that the kind of business methods the tax payers of Quincy want?"

If the editor's memory is right and one wing will cost $80,000 then the whole project will at once fail. If $65,000 is voted for the addition and contracts cannot be made, then the Gould wing will be disposed of. If it can be built for that figure with complete heating and sanitaries then the other wing will surely not cost more than the estimated amount to make a total of $120,000. It is believed that the accommodations provided in the north wing will prove ample for three years and possibly for five years and the Committee will not call for the remaining "$70,000 to $100,000 within a year or so."

The introduction of politics into the discussion we will pass over as a subject not quite becoming. Is the High School suffering for lack of accommodations? Was the order for its enlargement held up and defeated last year by the Councilmen from Ward Three and Four? Is it so held up this year by the councilmen from the same locality for a different reason? Is there a geographical reason for opposition to High School accommodations?

Raid at Quincy Neck.

Chief of police Burrell accompanied by Lieut. McKay and Officers Larkin, Goodhue, Maloney, Curtin and Cahill made a raid on an express office on East Howard street Saturday afternoon and seized eight gallons of whiskey put up in pint and quart packages.

A house at 4 East Howard street was also visited and 35 empty beer and whiskey bottles were taken. At this place Louis Billings was arrested on a warrant charging him with keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

Archie McDougal and Leon Kesler alleged proprietors of another express company were also arrested.

There have been many complaints of places in this vicinity where it was believed an illegal liquor business was being carried on, and the police are determined to break them up.

Houghs Neck Fire.

The Houghs Neck hose company was called out on a still alarm at 4 o'clock Sunday morning for a fire in a small building situated on Manet avenue, owned by W. H. Ferris. It was of incendiary origin and destroyed the building. Loss $100.

KEEP YOUR HEAD UNCOVERED.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propogates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once became infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. Ten Years For Bank Thief

Milwaukee, June 12.—Frank G. Bigelow, confessed defaulter in the sum of $1,500,000 of the funds of the First National bank of Milwaukee, while president of the bank, pleaded guilty to an indictment of 10 counts, each count a violation of the national banking laws, and was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment at hard labor in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kas. Judge Quarles, in passing sentence, with emotion referred to his own long personal friendship for Bigelow.

Would-Be Bride Disappointed

Stamford, Conn., June 12.—Miss Annie Tero, who came here recently from New York, has requested the police to aid in the search for John Schrader, to whom she was to have been married yesterday. The wedding was to have been a notable event in the Polish colony. Miss Tero says that on Saturday night she turned over to Schrader her savings, about $150. When the hour of the ceremony arrived Schrader failed to appear. He has been employed in a factory here.

Hunted Buffalo In Automobile

Bliss, O. T., June 12.—Chased by cowboys and a band of Indians headed by Chief Geronimo, a buffalo was shot to death on "101" ranch by Dr. H. E. Thomas of Chicago, who hunted in an automobile. Thomas was recently injured in an automobile accident and could not ride a horse. The chase lasted several hours. As soon as the beast fell, Geronimo, despite his years, leaped from his horse and fired two shots into the dead buffalo and then, with his hunting knife, cut its throat.

Princeton's Great Endowment

Princeton, N. J., June 12.—The heirs of Mrs. Mary J. Winthrop's estate have finally come to an agreement by which Princeton Theological seminary will receive $1,750,000. This more than doubles the present endowment of $1,525,387, exclusive of buildings and real estate to the amount of $526,150. A committee has been appointed to discuss methods of spending the large amount to the best interests of the seminary.

Examples of Fine Gunnery

New York, June 12.—All records for shooting with five-inch guns were broken by four gunners of the battleship Kentucky 20 miles outside Sandy Hook. One gunner, with 14 shots a minute, hit the target 13 times. The second gunner fired 13 times a minute and hit the target each time. Two other men had each 12 hits out of 13 shots a minute. The range was 1600 yards and the target was 21 feet by 17 feet.

Christian Scientists' Communion

Boston, June 12.—Despite the fact that the officials of the church had requested the members of the denomination living at a distance to omit their visit to Boston this year, two services were necessary to accommodate the crowds at the annual communion service of the First Church of Christ, Scientist. More than 2000 persons living at a distance from Boston were present at the services.

Won't Recognize Independence

Stockholm, June 12.—Premier Ramstadt says that the Swedish government will refuse to recognize the revolution in Norway and will submit to the riksdag motions conformable to this standpoint. The premier thinks that the riksdag will adopt this view and is convinced that no foreign power will recognize Norway as an independent country against the will of Sweden.

AN ARMISTICE SOON

War In Far East Believed to Be Near the End

JAPAN WILL BE CAREFUL

Has Not Forgotten the Previous Thorny Experience In World's Politics--Russia Has a Strong Feeling Against Cession of Territory, But It May Be Overcome

Tokio, June 12.—Tokio has calmly received the news of American intervention and prospective peace. The absence of assurance that Russia will accept President Roosevelt's proposal and the knowledge that the final consummation of peace involves the adjustment of a series of questions of paramount importance, requiring the most careful diplomacy with the recollection of a previous experience in the thorny path of the world's politics, seem to create a disposition to await final results. There is, nevertheless, the keenest satisfaction over the preliminary step and a feeling of deep gratefulness over President Roosevelt's action.

There is also thanksgiving at the thought that the carnage and horror and waste of war will soon end and a genuine hope that the negotiations will bring a satisfactory and enduring peace. The national rejoicing and thanksgiving will probably be deferred until the treaty of peace is signed and all doubt ended.

The question of an armistice which will lower the bayonets of the two enormous armies facing one another on the Manchurian frontier has not been discussed, yet it is believed, however, that an armistice will be speedily concluded.

President Roosevelt's instructions to American Minister Griscom were delayed in transmission and did not reach the legation until late Saturday afternoon.

A press message on Thursday brought the earliest public intimation of prospective peace negotiations, out pending the receipt of the formal message from President Roosevelt and the transmission of Japan's response, the censor refused to allow the transmission of press telegrams bearing on the subject. All information was withheld from the public until 6 o'clock Saturday night, when the foreign office issued a statement containing President Roosevelt's letter and Foreign Minister Komura's response and newsboys were quickly on the streets of the capital with extra editions of the newspapers.

The Japanese plenipotentiaries to arrange terms of peace are already being discussed. The names of Marquis Ito, Premier Katsura, Foreign Minister Komura, Marquis Yamagata, and others are being suggested for possible heads of the commission.

Popular estimates of Japan's terms of peace vary widely and include both indemnity and cession of territory. It is believed that the peace commissioners will meet somewhere in the Orient.

St. Petersburg, June 12.—Russia is waiting for Japan to fix the time and the place when and where the Japanese terms will be placed in the hands of Russia's representative. The foreign office expects that the delay will be brief.

The czar's government would prefer that Paris should be the scene of the initial step, but it is explained that neither the place nor the personality of the Russian representative matters greatly. The Russian representative will not be a plenipotentiary with full power to negotiate. His duty will practically be confined to the reception and transmission to his government of the Japanese terms for decision as to whether they afford a basis for actual peace negotiations.

If Russia finds that the terms form a basis on which negotiations can proceed, regular plenipotentiaries will be appointed, the number being decided by the belligerents themselves, and then it is not impossible that the negotiations might be transferred to Manchuria, as President Roosevelt is believed to have suggested.

While proferring all the aid in his power, it is well understood here that President Roosevelt, having served to bring the representatives of the warring countries face to face, believes it would be to the best interests of all concerned that he step aside. The United States, it is recognized here, desires to keep all the powers out of temptation when the spoils of war come to be divided, and the position is considered to be the logical sequel of the pledges secured by Secretary Hay at the opening of the conflict.

The statement in these dispatches last week that Emperor William warmly supported President Roosevelt's effort is confirmed. Secretary Hay's note to the powers has been endorsed by practically all the European powers, notably France, Great Britain and Italy, and the fact that both belligerents now understand the solidarity of the powers in the view that the time has come to end the lamentable struggle imposes a moral pressure upon both which will compel them to come to terms or face the disapprobation of the civilized world.

Too much credit for the president's diplomatic triumph cannot be bestowed on Ambassador Meyer, who handled the Russian end with consummate skill, keeping his own counsel even against the appeals of his colleagues in the diplomatic corps and going stright to the throne with the president's message, thus avoiding the formalities, delays and possible complications of the regular bureaucratic channels.

There is an infinite amount of gossip here about Japan's terms, but it is almost altogether irresponsible. Russia is not likely to prove recalcitrant. According to the best opinion, she is prepared to abandon the whole of her Manchurian adventure and give guarantees. The rub will come on the question of indemnity which, is is the concenses of opinion in diplomatic circles, Japan will exact, but if it should be moderate and sugar-coated it might be overcome. Russia probably will insist on holding the railroad to Vladivostok through Northern Manchuria and will never submit to the humiliation of disarmament in her only port in the Pacific nor to the inhibition against having warships in those waters.

Considering the situation of the two countries, members of the diplomatic corps feel that Japan's status in the Pacific is so firmly established that she can afford to dispense with the exaction of so bitter a condition. Though the feeling against a cession of actual territory is strong, the island of Sakhalin, over which Japan and Russia once exercised co-domination, might be ceded or, as an offset to the cession of that island, all fishing and other Russian rights in the Kommander islands might be handed over to Japan.

In spite of official dubiousness as to the result, a well defined report is current everywhere that Russia has already practically obtained Japan's conditions and they have proved so surprisingly moderate that Russia certainly will accept them as a basis for negotiations.

Nothing New at Washington

Washington, June 12.—After a two days' sojourn with Mrs. Roosevelt at the woodland home recently purchased by her near Charlottesville, Va., the president returned to Washington last night. It is not possible at this time to indicate when the formal replies from Russia and Japan to the president's identical notes will be given to the public. It is possible it may be today and it may not be for several days. The situation is quite satisfactory to the president.

President's Efforts Appreciated

Vienna, June 12.—President Roosevelt's energetic and successful efforts to bring about peace negotiations have attracted to him and to the United States almost the undivided attention of the peoples of Austria and Hungary and have made a most lasting impression on all classes. The press of Vienna gives President Roosevelt unstinted praise for his initiative in bringing peace negotiations to their present status and is ready to give him full credit for putting an end to the fearful slaughter of the last 16 months in case peace results. He is declared to have rendered an immeasurable and lasting service to humanity and civilization.

Reported Terms of Peace

Paris, June 12.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to The Eclair gives the alleged detailed conditions of both sides. These are an indemnity of $650,000,000, a Japanese protectorate over Manchuria and Korea, the cession of Port Arthur and part of the trans-Manchurian railroad to Japan, forfeiture of the interned warships, the withdrawal of Russian warships from the far east for a period of 25 years and the occupation of Vladivostok until these conditions are fulfilled. The Russian conditions, according to the dispatch, reject the question of an indemnity and give a qualified acceptance of the other terms.

France Gives Approval

Paris, June 12.—President Roosevelt's success in opening a way for peace negotiations between Russia and Japan is the absorbing theme here and France has forgotten her own troubles with Germany over Morocco to join in enthusiastic approval of the American initiative. Pictures of the White House appear in the newspapers as the scene of historic origin of the peace movement. Without exception, comment on President Roosevelt's action is favorable with the expression of a slight sense of disappointment that France, as the ally of Russia, has not taken a more prominent part in effecting the preliminaries.

The Feeling In London

London, June 12.—Some of the London newspapers are still skeptical of the possibility of peace resulting from President Roosevelt's efforts, but all admit the unexpectedly swift progress of events and pay the highest tributes of praise to the president's successful diplomacy. If negotiations should reach the stage of an actual arrangement for an armistice it will be felt that peace is at last in sight.

Murderous Moors

Tangier, June 12.—Moorish robbers entered the Austrian vice consulate at Mazagan and murdered Vice Consul Madden, a British subject, who also represented Danmark, and who had been established there for many years. They also fired at and wounded his wife. The assassins escaped.

Finasseur Surprised the Talent

Paris, June 12.—The grand prix of $40,000 was won easily at Longchamps by Michael Ephrussi's Finasseur, with Nash Turner, the American jockey, up. The betting was 7 to 2 against Finasseur. Nine horses ran.

Convention Lasted a Week

Rutland, Vt., June 12.—The annual convention of the International Association of Marble Workers of the United States and Canada adjourned yesterday. The convention met here Monday last, and the daily sessions were often continued late into the night. J. F. Carder of this city was elected president. It was voted to make the office a salaried one, and to make it the duty of that officer to travel about among the marble centres of the two countries studying conditions and establishing unions.

Little Fellow Suffered Terribly

Manchester, Conn., June 12.—James Murphy, aged 11, died of burns received while using kerosene to start a fire in the kitchen stove. He lived 14 hours after the accident, most of the time being conscious and in terrible agony. The explosion occurred in the absence of the boy's mother, who was at work in a mill here. His father, who is serving a term in jail for drunkenness, was permitted to come to his home to see the child.

Fire Scare at Taunton

Taunton, Mass., June 12.—A general fire alarm was turned in for a fire in the heart of the business district, which destroyed the two-story building owned and occupied by L. E. Higgins & Co., dealers in men's clothing. The loss is $30,000. Surrounding property was seriously threatened and the firemen fought the flames for five hours before the "all out" signal was sounded. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A VISIT TO MENELIK

German Envoy Speaks Highly of the Black Ruler

MAN OF SOUND MORALS

Always Keeps His Word and Is Just to Traditions of His Country--Claims to Be Descendant of Queen of Sheba

Berlin, June 12.—Dr. Rosen, minister-elect to Morocco, has returned from Adis Ababa, Abyssinia, where he had gone as special envoy of Germany to King Menelik for the purpose of concluding a commercial treaty between Abyssinia and this country.

Dr. Rosen's personal estimate of King Menelik, whose language he speaks and whose associate he was for some weeks, is that he is essentially a man of sound morals and excellent principles, even according to the European standard, and that in the main he lives up to these principles.

Dr. Rosen says that King Menelik's easy rule over the feudal district kings and chiefs is due to his quick mind and mild conciliatory disposition, supported by occasional severity. He always keeps his word, doing what he says he will do, and is just to the traditions of his country.

King Menelik's own belief, according to Rosen, is that he is descended from a son of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba; that this son, who was called Prince Menelik the First, with a following of picked men, Jews and Sabians, went into Ethiopia and lived and thrived there and that these Jews were the founders of the present Abyssinian Semitic race.

Menelik the First is presumed to have taken the ark of the covenant with him and it is still asserted to be in a temple at Akhum. No European has ever seen it and it has not been seen even by the present ruler of Abyssinia himself, only priests of high grade, who are unmarried, being permitted to behold it.

Dr. Rosen says that King Menelik is in fine health and that, although he is 62 years of age, he looks only about 50. The king is fond of wearing a broad-brimmed American hat when out of doors, but otherwise he dresses in the loose garments of the country. When indoors the king wears a large handkerchief folded about his head.

Not one of Rosen's party of 18 was ill during the expedition. On the way out of Abyssinia the members of the party found supplies awaiting them at every station, as Menelik told them they would be. Although it has been said that Menelik's authority over the outlying districts is not supreme, Rosen found the chiefs in the most remote parts of the country very anxious to carry out the king's orders.

Peace Is Still Far Away

Chicago, June 12.—The Chicago Team Owners' association, an organization employing 8000 union teamsters, has decided to remain neutral in the present labor struggle now in progress in Chicago and will not order its drivers to make deliveries to firms involved in the strike. Negotiations for peace have been abandoned for the present, as both sides are so far apart on any plans of settlement by mediation that further efforts in this direction are believed by all concerned to be futile.

American Won Close Match

New York, June 12.—In a four-mile match race on a cinder track at Long Island City, John J. Joyce, who holds the 10-mile indoor and five-mile outdoor running championships of America, defeated Thomas S. Hynes, the champion cross-country runner of Ireland. At no stage of the contest was there more than a few feet between the pair and, with a splendid sprint, Joyce won by barely half a yard.

Electrical Workers' Proposition

Boston, June 12.—The most important business transacted by the New England convention of Electrical Workers here was a formal declaration that in the interests of public safety and for the protection of property all election installation should be subjected to state inspection. Committees were elected to interest the legislatures of the New England states to that end.

Murdered Her Husband

Liberty, Mo., June 12.—A jury found Mrs. Agnes Myers of Kansas City guilty in the first degree of murder of her husband, Clarence Myers. Death is the penalty. Frank Hottman, her paramour, and Mrs. Myers killed Myers on May 10, 1904, so that the murderess might be free to marry Hottman. Hottman is also under sentence of death.

The Joyce Shooting Incident

Philadelphia, June 12.—The 41 members of the National Structural Iron Workers and Bridge Builders' union who were committed to prison in connection with the shooting of William Joyce, a fellow-member, during a meeting, have been released on $1000 bail each. It is now thought likely that Joyce will recover.

FLOOD IN SUBWAY

New York Folks Experience a Rather Bad Fright

BIG WATER MAIN BURST

Cataract From Street Speedily Went Through "Waterproof" Roof of Subway--Ignorance of Water Department Men

New York, June 12.—A break in the 48-inch high pressure water main in Park avenue, about 150 feet south of Forty-Second street, resulted in the flooding of the block just below the Grand Central station, the street car tunnel and the subway, the stoppage of traffic in the subway for many hours, serious damage to the underground road and great danger to many passengers.

Incidentally it resulted in the caving in of Park avenue over an area 20 feet by 8, from which ran cracks that meant danger to adjacent buildings, if, by the accidental appearance on the scene of a man not connected with the water department, the terrific Niagara of Croton had not been stopped.

The watchman of the Belmont hotel, in course of erection, yesterday afternoon noticed water trickling between the paving blocks near the entrance of the Fourth avenue tunnel through which the surface cars run. Almost immediately there came a sound as though of the discharge of some heavy explosive underground and a moment later the water gushed forth in a cataract, pouring into Forty-Second street, which, in the immediate vicinity, soon was covered to a depth of two inches. Part of the stream ran down into the surface car tunnel. Pedestrians near the Grand Central station ran in every direction from what threatened to be a serious flood and several were caught by the waters but none was seriously hurt.

Some of the water poured into the basement of the Belmont hotel and, fearing danger to the foundations of this enormous structure, the engineer on duty put on a heavy pressure of steam and got all the big pumps to work.

Down through the slots of the electric road and through the supposed waterproof roof of the subway the water first trickled and then came in a deluge. The motormen first noticed that their trains got over the slippery tracks with some difficulty, but there appeared to be no real danger.

While the cataract flowed officials and workmen of the water department joined in vain search for the source of trouble. The department men admitted that they had no chart of the water supply system and that they did not know what was the matter. Finally the rising water in the subway made connection between the third rail and the other rails, short-circuiting the electric current, and this was attended by a series of explosions which endangered the lives of those who were in the cars.

About two hours after the break a train was stopped at Thirty-Second street and then moved intermittently. The air was pungent with the smoke of burning insulation and bright flashes from wheels and rails were continuous. The passengers shut the car windows tight and then, in considerable distress, waited for relief. The train finally got to within a block of the Forty-Second street station and then came to a final stop, when the passengers got out and waded through the water to the station. They carefully avoided the third rail and nobody was injured. Their faces were smudged from the flashing and burning of wire and insulations and their clothing was bedraggled and limp, but they made no complaint. That they got out of the tunnel alive seemed to them to be enough.

Gradually the entire service south of Seventy-Second street and to Fourteenth street was shut off. For a time trains ran up town to Fourteenth street and north of Seventy-Second street. Later this service was also discontinued. Meantime the representatives of the water department were making frantic though futile efforts to cut off the big water main, the flow from which every moment was becoming more dangerous.

Finally, after the flood had continued for four hours and a half, Frank McCluskey, foreman for a construction company who had supervision of the installation of the mains in Park avenue, pointed out a gate at Third avenue and Forty-Second street, which, on being closed, shut off the torrent.

After that the water in the streets soon ran down the sewers. Down in the subway the flood had done much damage, and traffic was not resumed until after midnight. A hundred men were set to work tamping down ballast in the subway and in the Fourth avenue tunnel so that trains could begin to run again. The total loss in the subway, including damage to equipment and loss of traffic, will reach about $100,000.

Three Killed In Auto Accident

Chicago, June 12.—Three persons were drowned and two others narrowly escaped a like fate when an automobile in which the five were riding plunged into the Chicago river through the open draw of the Rush street bridge. Those drowned were Jerome G. Kurtzman and wife and W. A. Hartley, manager for an automobile house.

A PATRIOTIC DUTY

Why Pope Might Respond to Call For His Nomination

Boston, June 12.—Colonel Albert A. Pope, who is considered a tentative candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, declares that he believes it the part of a patriot to accept a public duty. Colonel Pope said:

"A man's greatest honor is to be called to serve his own state as governor, but in saying that I am not to be considered as seeking political office, or in the light of being a candidate for the nomination for governor.

"It is the duty of the managers of the party to select the best man. It is their duty to disregard personal ambition in making the selection and to consider only the man's fitness to serve the state. I do not aspire to office. I have no ambition in politics. I want no extra work, but if called would view the case from the duty standpoint."

Murdered a Policeman

Plymouth, Mass., June 12.—Antonio Carpenito and James del Grasso were found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury in the superior court here. The men were accused of shooting Policeman James Malloy of Brockton in that city while endeavoring to apprehend several men who had been stealing wire from a Brockton concern. Malloy died two weeks later.

Vermont Convict Escapes

Windsor, Vt., June 12.—Edward Clark, aged 55, who was serving a 10 years' sentence in the state prison here, escaped while being employed in painting the prison warden's house. Clark was committed to prison in October, 1903, charged with assault upon a woman. His good behavior earned him the privilege of working outside the prison buildings.

Illegal Registration Charged

Cambridge, Mass., June 12.—Three additional arrests in the registration fraud cases were made here on writs of capias issued by the superior court. The men arrested are Fred E. Thyng, Dennis F. Hynes and Samuel Rosenburg, all of this city. Bail in each case was placed at $1000.

Child Died From Burns

Chelsea, Mass., June 12.—Louis Horwick, 2 years old, was so badly burned that he died in his mother's arms within a short time. The child's clothing ignited from the flames caused by the bursting of a kerosene lamp. His mother was severely burned in extinguishing the fire.

Must Go Back to Jail

White River Junction, Vt., June 12.—Harry McCormick, a prisoner at the jail at Middlebury, who escaped from there May 30 while awaiting trial on a charge of forgery, was rearrested at Franklin, N. H. McCormick was found at work painting a house in Franklin.

Missing Child Found Dead

Pawtucket, R. I., June 12.—The body of Alexander Calynoski, 4 years old, who disappeared from home last Wednesday, was found yesterday afternoon in a trench branching from the Blackstone river. It is believed that death was due to accidental drowning.

McLean Makes New Record

Revere, Mass., June 12.—Hugh McLean of Chelsea won a 20-mile motor-paced race and the title of champion of the world at the Revere cycle track, defeating Bobbie Walthour of Atlanta and establishing a new record for the track. The time was 28:30.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A holiday Saturday.

City Council this evening.

The Quincy Patriot will go to press early this week.

Councilman Chamberlin has returned from Sioux City.

Annual meeting of Bethany Brotherhood tomorrow evening.

Phillip May of Lynn has been the guest of relatives in this city the past week.

Eight drunks arrested by the police Saturday night and Sunday were released.

J. H. Oglesbie of Scranton, Penn., was entertained by friends in this city over Sunday.

Mrs. William M. Marden of Coddington street is confined to the house with tonsolitis.

Mrs. Fred Thompson has returned to her home in Providence, after a brief visit in this city.

Morris Zirlstein, the tailor, is having a building erected on the corner of Winter and East Howard streets.

Charles Barron and family moved the past week from Willard street to the Cannon house, on Orchard place.

Miss Alice E. Townsend of the City Treasurer's office has gone to her home in Vermont on a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Effie L. Rhines of Miller Stile road left Saturday for Bethlehem, Penn., where she will enjoy a week's vacation.

Some people in certain portions of the city seem to think that Sunday is a day for work, such as build boats, paint houses, etc.

Miss Nellie O'Dowd of Copeland street has gone to Manchester, N. H., for a week's vacation with relatives and friends.

It is necessary to fill out every coupon that is sent to Herald office. All votes sent to the Daily Ledger office will be printed.

Saturday was most certainly a busy day for the Quincy police. The citizens of Quincy Point are grateful for the good work being done.

Theophilus King is becoming an expert at golf, and on Saturday was tie with H. Vallance in Class B at Wollaston. H. W. Vinson won in Class A.

Mrs. Frank H. Ratcliffe of Newton and Mrs. Thomas H. Pearce of Epping, N. H., were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Furnald of Washington street, last week.

Ten of the King's Daughters of Bethany church entertained twenty poor children from Boston on Saturday at the home of Mrs. G. A. Taylor, Merrymount road.

Miss Annie Harkins of Main street has severed her connection at the office of C. H. Burgess, and accepted a position with J. F. Sheppard & Sons, Granite street.

Charles H. Emmons of Quincy is one of the committee of arrangements for class day at Tufts college on Friday. He is also the author of the class ode which will be sung in the chapel.

J. H. Dinegan and wife of School street left Sunday for Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to attend the graduation exercises of their oldest daughter, Mary Webb, at Vassar, she being one of 38 to graduate with high honors and great praise.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brown attended last week the opening reception in the new spacious and elegant Y. M. C. A. building at Portsmouth, N. H., where William F. Hoehn, formerly of Quincy, is general secretary. Mr. and Mrs. Hoehn assisted in receiving. Miss Helen M. Gould of New York City was the guest of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Brown and others accompanied Miss Gould on a visit to the Navy yard.

AXLE BROKE.

While Steamer is on Way to Fire.

Wheel Goes On a Spin.

And Injures Man and a Woman Standing on Sidewalk.

There came very near being a serious accident at Brewers corner Sunday evening, owing to the breaking of the axle of the central station steamer, while responding to an alarm from Box 445.

The steamer was going down the steep hill on Granite street when the axle snapped near the wheel.

The wheel went rolling along toward the sidewalk, where it struck Miss Flora B. Crooker, of 29 Ritchie road, and Charles F. Millard, who is employed by Dr. Welch.

They saw the wheel come off, but Miss Crooker was so intent upon watching James W. Connell, the driver, who is a relative, that they did not see it until they were struck.

They were knocked down and the heavy wheel toppled over onto them pinning them to the ground.

Driver Connell held onto his horses and soon brought them to a stop. Riding on the rear of the steamer was Engineer Costa and Assistant Griffin. They hung onto the guard rail until the engine stopped when they rushed to the assistance of Miss Crooker and Millard, and removed the wheel from them.

Miss Crocker was taken to Murray's drug store where she was attended by Dr. Ash, and Millard was attended by Dr. Welch who took him home. Both were severely bruised, but fortunately no bones were broken.

The alarm which was from Box 445 was for a fire in an unused engine house belonging to the Quincy Quarries Co.

Won by Miller.

H. F. Miller, Jr., a graduate of the Quincy High school, won the mile run at the Dorchester celebration on Saturday. A Boston paper says, "The final sprint was a heart-breaking one, Miller, who had been trailing Sullivan, starting a long spurt for the entire lap, and although Sullivan contested every yard he could not hold the stronger Harvard runner. In his effort to fight off Miller, Sullivan weal e nedhimself and at the head of the stretch he was challenged by Farrell, who beat him to the worsted by two yards. Miller won rather easily. The time, 4m, 43 4-5s, was fast under the conditions."

High School Vote.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight. The meeting is held largely to consider the order now on the table calling for an appropriation of $65,000 for building an addition to the High school.

The Committee on Ordinances will report on the orders for laying out a part of Upland road, and for a gravel sidewalk on Beach street.

The Committee on Licenses will report on applications for minor licenses, and on the petition of L. B. Titus for a license to plant and grow oysters at Squantum. Reports may also be expected from the Finance Committee.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Pretty Exercises in Churches—Several Children Baptized.

There was a large attendance at First church at the Children's day exercises at half past ten, Sunday morning. The pulpit was banked with flowers, and looked beautifully. The children formed in the chapel, and marched into the church, seats being reserved for the Sunday school on the broad aisle.

There was a pretty baptismal service by the pastor at which one little baby, William Francis Hodgkinson, Jr., and the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Round of Revere road—George Verrill, Louis Augustus and Harold Ford—were christened.

The exercise by the Kindergarten class was much enjoyed, and the Samuel A. Eliot class gave the "seven corner stones of our faith." There were essays by Ralph G. Merritt and Harry E. Glover.

The sad part of the program was the memorial service to James Francis Harlow, who was for many years the church organist and popular with all. Later a bouquet was sent to his mother.

It was a great pleasure to have the address of the day by Rev. Daniel Munro Wilson a former pastor. There were also remarks by the pastor and songs by the school. A bouquet was presented to Henry H. Faxon, Esq., who feelingly responded.

Annual reports were made by the Sunday School officers, and diplomas were presented to the following for perfect attendance throughout the year: Alice Arnold, Daisy Dean Brooks, Hazel Eugenie Dewhurst, Herbert Trask Dewhurst, Dorothy Emery Edwards, Kenneth Lewis Edwards, William Churchill Edwards, Harry Edwin Glover, Eliot Coolidge Johnson, Allan Pratt Miller, Ralph Guild Merritt, Harold Franklin Mitchell, Edgar Nichols, Walter Clarence Nichols and Carlena Walker.

BETHANY CHURCH.

Pretty exercises were held at Bethany Congregational church Sunday morning in observance of Children's day. Five infants were baptized, viz: David Forsaith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Gourd; Edith Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest V. Fitts; Nathaniel Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Parsons; Ruth Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bishop; and Sidney Vernon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Gage.

"Face to face" was beautifully sung as a solo by Miss Hazel Mowry, and there were also songs by a girls' chorus, the kindergarten department, the primary department, the choir and the congregation; recitations by Margaret Hunt, Dorothy Green, Walter Sargent, Ellen Sanderson, Evelyn Stewart, Helen Walker and Irene Williams (excused). There were also exercises, and the pastor spoke briefly.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Children's Day exercises were held in the First Presbyterian church, corner of Quincy and Water streets, Sunday morning. The audience was so large that many could not be seated. The children's program was interesting and well rendered. The pastor spoke on "Early mistakes in life," using a blackboard and illustrating by a problem in long division how a single mistake may change the whole of life, and make it to count for less than otherwise it would.

An interesting part of the exercises was the baptism of twelve children, making in all forty infants baptized by the pastor during the year. During the last fifteen months, 155 adults have been received into full membership by the pastor of this church.

AT QUINCY POINT.

Children's Day was observed at the Washington street Congregational church Sunday morning. The children's parts were taken exceptionally well. Miss Bessie Drew of Atlantic sang, "Consider the Lilies." There were two children baptized, Herbert Benson Colchester and Ruth Evelyn Andrews. At the conclusion of the exercises, the congregation was shocked at the sudden announcement of the pastor's resignation. Mr. Austin has been highly esteemed by both young and old, and it was with deep regret that his people received the news.

Plumbers Outing.

The first annual outing of the Local Union, No. 275, of the United Association of Plumbers, Steam-fitters, Gas-fitters and Steam-fitters' Helpers was held at North Weymouth, Saturday, June 10.

At the base ball game in the morning the "Never had a leak" team beat the "Never Sweats" by a score of 13 to 11 in a closely contested game. The features of the game were the fielding of Bro. Page and the scientific batting of Bro. Donohoe. The batteries were O'Brien and Burns, and Murray and Rhines.

After the game all adjourned to the Bay Side Inn and ate dinner.

In the afternoon there were races and jumping contests. Bro. Butler was declared champion of the plumbers of Quincy, and McDonald won the jump easily.

No school this afternoon because of the rain.

INTER-CLUB RACE.

Legs for Wawenock, Marvel, West Wind and Togo.

The first interclub race between the Quincy, Wollaston and Squantum Yacht clubs was sailed off the Quincy club house, Houghs Neck, Saturday afternoon. There was a good wholesail westerly breeze and a good complement of yachts participated.

There were four classes including the motor boats. Prizes of $8, $5 and $2, were given in both classes A and B, and prizes of $4 and $2, were given in class C and in the power boat class.

There were four starters in class A and the Waweenock was an easy winner. The Hattie led this class during the first round until near the stake boat when she carried away her topmast and and was obliged to withdraw. She was later towed in to the float by one of the power boats. But for this accident she would have given the fleet a good rub.

There were thirteen starters in Class B, and they made a pretty start. They went off well bunched and hung together throughout the whole race. Councilman Sawyer was out with his new flyer, the Eclipse, and was confident of winning out. He was beaten nearly two minutes on elapsed time, however, by the Marvel, and nearly three minutes on corrected time. He, however, received second money.

The Pocohontas led the fleet when crossing the line for the first time round and held her lead throughout the race, finishing first. She had to allow the other boats so much, however, that corrected time placed her in the fifth position.

There were but three boats in Class C, and they were well bunched throughout the whole race. The Miji finished first but had to give first place to the West Wind on time allowance. The Khaki was nearly seven minutes behind the winner.

There were but two starters in the power boat class, the Togo and Mischief. Both are very fast boats, but the Togo was more than a match for the Mischief, and finished with a lead of six minutes.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Victories for the Merrymounts and the Atlantics.

The Merrymounts won from the Deweys at Garfield Park, Weymouth, on Saturday afternoon, by score of 8 to 5.

Both pitchers were batted freely but Kolson was more effective with men on bases, and gave no bases on balls, while Bjorkland issued several free passes.

The Merrymounts were first to score. In the forth Drake singled and Osgood was safe on a fielder's choice. W. Bennett's hit and an error scored both runners, but Saunders went out on a fly to second, and Bennett was run down trying to score on Kolson's tap to third.

In the fifth with one down, Donaher, Baker and Drake hit safely, Osgood went out on a fly to left, but Wallace Bennett cleared the bases with a nice hit to left. Saunders walked but Kolson was thrown out by Bjorkland.

Two more runs were added in the sixth on Taylor's hit, a pass to Donaher, and Baker's safe drive.

In the seventh with two down Kolson hit safely and moved up on A. Bennett's grounder through short-stop and scored on Taylor's hit.

The Deweys scored three in the sixth. Burns hit into some bushes in right-field for a home run. Bjorkland was thrown out by Saunders. Baker miscued on Hall's long fly and A. Bennett slipped upon C. McCarty's bounder. A wild throw and a hit brought in two more runs.

In the seventh and eighth the home team had men on bases but could not score.

In the ninth Fogg and Gillis hit safely, Baker squeezed Burns' fly, Bjorkland was safe on a fielder's choice. Hall hit to centre and Osgood threw in poorly. Kolson then favored C. McCarty and J. McCarty hit a high one that Osgood held.

Features of the game were the timely hitting of W. Bennett and the fielding of Kolson of the Merrymounts, and the fielding of C. McCarty of the Deweys.

The Atlantics defeated the So. Quincy team on their home grounds Saturday afternoon. Owing to the poor condition of the field, the two teams could not play fast ball, for there was piles of gravel left in the middle of the field by the men that were repairing the field, and it took the South Quincy team a couple of hours with shovels and wheelbarrows to take the stones and cinders out of the field.

Both teams made many errors. The features of the game was the hitting of Birnie, Patterson, Reardon, and Spargo of the home team, and Forbes Doyle and Curley of the Atlantic.

LEAGUE GAMES.

The Athletics and Victors Increase their Lead.

The leading teams in the Granite City league won on Saturday, the Athletics defeating the Makarias, and the Victors defeating the Orients. The league standing is:

	Won.	Lost	Per Cent.
Athletics	2	0	1.000
Victors	2	0	1.000
Makarias	0	2	.000
Orients	0	2	.000

An interesting and exciting game was played between the Victors and the Orients of the "Granite City League" at Merrymount park on Saturday, resulting in a win for the Victors by the score of 3 to 1.

Collins of the Victors pitched superb ball, having 11 strikeouts to his credit, and Finn, formerly of Adams Academy, was not far behind his opponent in his pitching for the Orients, having 10 strikeouts.

In the fielding and Batting, Barron and Kelly excelled for the Orients, while Giles and John Smith did some stunts for the Victors. Altogether it was a most interesting game.

Athletics, 14; Makaria 8.

Up to the sixth innings it was a close game at Atlantic on Saturday. At the beginning of the fifth it was 3 to 1 in favor of Athletics. Then Makaria added three and took the lead only to surrender it in the last half. The home team then pulled away and won 14 to 8. The Makaria made a grand rally in the eighth, adding four runs.

Burditt of the Athletics scored a home run, and Hill and Eagan of the same team hit for three and two bases.

IN THE WAR GAME.

The Macdonough Reported to Have Been Blown Up.

The torpedo boat destroyer Macdonough is taking part in the game of war in the Chesapeake bay, having sailed from Solomons on Sunday with the Texas, Florida, Arkansas, Newark, Atlanta, Hartford, Nevada, Whipple, Stewart, Puritan, Hornet, Sirena, Sylvia and Terror.

A dispatch of June 12 to the Herald says: The army administered a crushing defeat to the navy, sinking or destroying 10 of the war ships, probably including the battleship Texas, the flagship of Admiral Dickins, in the first battle of the war game in the Chesapeake, which took place early this morning. The ships attacked the forts shortly after midnight, and the cannonading of heavy guns kept up until nearly daylight this morning.

The powerful searchlights of Forts Howard, Smallwood, Armistead and Carroll flashed their long white beams down the river, and out of the rainy blackness of the night they picked up what appeared to be a torpedo destroyer coming on at full speed. In five minutes Fort Howard opened fire on the approaching vessel with rapid-fire and short-range guns.

In spite of a heavy fire, the vessel proceeded on up the river and was soon under the combined fire of Forts Armistead, Smallwood and Carroll. It is supposed that she was theoretically blown out of the water by the first fort, but that she had been sent in to draw the fire of the fort and locate the guns.

A second vessel, which resembled a torpedo boat destroyer, followed in the wake of the first. She was picked up by the searchlights and received a withering fire that no vessel could have withstood.

On through the night came a fourth vessel, which was promptly picked up by the searchlights and greeted with a heavy fire which the craft did not answer. The vessels, supposed to be 25-knot torpedo boat destroyers of the Worden and Whipple class, or of the Macdonough or Lawrence type, passed on up inside the inner fortifications near Baltimore.

Next the explosion of a cap and the ringing of a bell in one of the casemates of Fort Howard showed that a vessel coming up the channel had struck a mine.

Gypsy Moth.

The attention of the members of Massachusetts Association for the suppression of the Gypsy and Brown-tail Moths, is called to the fact that unskilled and unscrupulous persons are going about the infested district soliciting work against the gypsy and brown-tail moths. Recently such parties managed to impose on the residents of a certain neighborhood to the extent of many dollars.

When parties solicit work they should give references and careful inquiry should be made before they are engaged.

Mr. A. H. Kirkland, the State Superintendent, (No. 6 Beacon street, Boston) will furnish parties desiring work done with a list of desirable men.

For Larceny of Pocketbook.

Officer Murray arrested Francisco Cappuccio Monday night for the larceny of a pocketbook of Agnes Cavanagh of Braintree. Miss Cavanagh came out from Boston on one of the early evening trains, and Cappuccio who sat behind her in some way obtained possession of her purse.

After leaving the train at Quincy some one told her that they had seen the Italian take her purse. She immediately notified Officer Murray, who overtook the fellow, and found the purse in his possession. He was locked up and arraigned in court.

TODAY'S COURT.

Joseph Murphy was arraigned for assault at Quincy. The complainant acknowled satisfaction and Murphy was discharged on payment of cost, amounting to ten cents.

Francisco Cappuccio was arraigned for larceny at Quincy. Case continued until Thursday.

Three or four cases against the city are in order for trial in the Norfolk Superior court; including those of Hook, Wight and Bates.

VOTE 10 TO 8

In Favor of Passage of Appropriation.

Four Councilmen Were Absent.

No Prospect of Getting the Necessary 16 Votes.

For two hours and a half the members of the City Council wrangled over the order appropriating $65,000 for building an addition to the High school. Then the order was put on its final passage and defeated by a vote of 10 to 8. By a close vote of 10 to 9, the President voting, the vote was reconsidered and the order again laid on the table.

Councilmen Barry, Burgess, Gearwar and Hynes were absent.

CHURCH INCORPORATION.

The Mayor forwarded a letter from the Secretary of State relative to the Mayor and Council endorsing the application of the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran church for incorporation. The application was endorsed by the Mayor and Council.

SEWER ORDER.

The Mayor sent a communication relative to petitions for main and lateral sewers. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Loud offered an order appropriating $25,000 for the construction of main and lateral sewers. To Committee on Sewers.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

The Mayor forwarded a letter from the Board of Health requesting an appropriation of $2,000 for contagous diseases. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Adams offered an order appropriating that amount. To joint Committee on Finance and Health.

PETITIONS.

The Telephone Co. petitioned for attachment of wires on Goddard street and Federal avenue. To Committee on Streets.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

Councilman Polk introduced a petition for the acceptance of Bromfield street. To Committee on Streets.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEE.

The Committee on Finance reported on the order for $800 for a catch basin and drain on Taylor street. To Ordinance Committee.

The Committee on Licenses reported on several petitions for minor licenses. Report accepted and adopted.

NO OYSTER BED.

The Committee on Licenses reported on order granting L. B. Titus permission to plant and grow oysters at Squantum. Report accepted. The question came on its adoption. The Council refused to adopt the order by a vote of 6 in favor and 12 against.

UPLAND ROAD.

The Committee on Ordinances reported on the order for $800 for Upland road. Passed to be ordained.

SIDEWALK.

The same Committee reported on the order for $800 for a gravel sidewalk on Beach street. Passed to be ordained.

STREET RAILWAY FARES.

Councilman Gassett offered an order that the City Solicitor appear before the Railroad Commissioners relative to securing a reduction in fares between Quincy and Nantasket, and Quincy and Brockton. Adopted.

HIGH SCHOOL ENLARGEMENT.

Councilman Loud moved to take the High school order appropriating $65,000 for enlargement from the table. Voted—10 in favor and 8 against.

Councilman Piper hoped order would not pass. He believed it was not what was wanted. The expense of carrying out the order was too great for the accommodation received. Especially so when we have plans that will provide for more with the same cost.

The plans sent to the School Committee were discarded for inadequate accommodation. We were asked to provide for 500 and we provided for 600. Two at least of these architects were asked for revised plans yet they were not considered, as the School Committee said it would not be fair to the others. Yet they allow Gould to do so. One of the requirements of the State is manual training. Gould's plan provides no rooms.

The School Committee also objected to a ten-foot corridor. Yet the Gould plans has but eight feet, after taking out the entrance to the basement. They wanted no school rooms on the third floor, but Gould plan has them. The assembly hall in the Gould plan will seat but 723; not as many as the present hall. Councilman Piper also spoke of other things which the School Committee objected to which were in the Gould plans.

He also referred to the lobbying in the rear of the Council chamber and other objectionable methods that had been adopted. If the Gould plans have merit there is no need of bolstering them up in this manner.

Upon motion of Councilman Bass, Dr. Hallowell chairman of the School board appeared before the Council.

Dr. Hallowell spoke of the urgent need of additional accommodations and briefly reviewed what had been done during the past two years by the School Committee. While the School Committee does not consider the Gould plans absolutely perfect they are the more desirable. While some of the rooms are of a size uncommon they are not undesirable. It was not desirable to have rooms of a uniform size.

There is a single corridor which is not as wide as the general rule, but as one room only opens into it, it is perfectly safe; the exits are satisfactory to the State police.

In reply to a question as to why the School Committee did not suggest changes in the other plans, Dr. Hallowell said that there were too many. For his own part, the idea was that none could be worked over into as good a plan as they already have.

The plan nearest was one that had been studied in competition with other plans two years ago. It was not then considered as good as the Gould or Wright plans. The general plans provide for manual training rooms in the south wing. There will be none until that wing is built. We have rooms which by liberal interpretation are manual training rooms.

Upon motion of Councilman Piper, James F. Burke of the School Committee appeared before the Council.

Mr. Burke said, with all due respect to the Chairman, this problem is a hard one to solve. In comparing the plans we find the rooms in the other plans are more uniform, and the Gould plan did not meet with his approval. In the interest of the taxpayers he believed two of the others could be made acceptable.

They would give the city what it should have, a completed building. After talking with able architects I found there was such a difference that I had to differ with the School Committee. A whole completed building for about the same cost as one wing. Acting in behalf of the taxpayers he could not vote for the Gould plan.

Mr. Burke was asked a number of questions.

Councilman Adams and Polk repeatedly asked Mr. Burke to explain the alleged excessive cost of the Gould plans. What there was in the Gould plans that made them expensive?

Mr. Burke could only reply that the estimates submitted by Gould and the other architects showed a difference.

Councilman Chase said if he expressed what was in his mind there would be some bitterness. He could not understand why there was not a stronger public demonstration. The question of location has no bearing.

The chairman of the School Committee says, this addition will provide for several years. The order calls for $65,000 if that does not do the job that kills it. Is it a coincidence that all the opposition comes from one section. What is the purpose of blocking the choice of the majority of the Council and of the School Committee.

If the opposition prevails what have the minority got to take the place of this? The charter places the duty of approving plans on the School Committee. They have done their duty. Everybody has had a hack at this plan business. No one has been able to explain why there should be any difference in a building of 1000 feet.

Councilman Stone—This matter has been looked into thoroughly. If not passed tonight it means we must get along another year. This is the third year that the opposition comes from the same source. Was it not better to pass this order and give the School Committee what they want and not hang it up any longer.

Mr. Burke was unable to tell us where the difference in price was. Not one of these other plans have been approved by the State police. This matter was put off last year by the same people who are delaying it this year. He believed everyone knew what the majority of the people want.

Councilman Chamberlin moved to lay the order on the table.

Vote lost; 7 voting yes and 10 no.

Councilman Polk—It has been stated that the Gould plans cost so much more because they are Gould. Every member ought to know that when accepted not one dollar can be added to this order.

A building of the same size and material cannot be built for less than the Gould plans. They have not a specification, but simply an estimate. A building can be built cheaper if cheaper material is used.

Councilman Bass said it was agreed that a completed building would be most desirable but this will answer all demands for sometime.

Councilman Hughes did not believe it could be built for $65,000. If a complete building can be had for $90,000 it would be economy to have it. The minority had been assailed, but it is a good thing to have a minority to keep the majority in check.

Councilman Chase read a letter from Mr. Gould, stating that he would waive all claim against the city if he could not get a builder to give a bond to complete the wing for $70,000, if he was given full charge, baring strikes etc.

Councilman Crane read letters from builders agreeing to build on the McFarland, Colby and McFarland plans for $64,837 and $59,000.

Councilman Chamberlin said this was a serious matter. It is proposed to overthrow everything done up to this time. Is there any man who will say when we will get a building. We are dealing with the lives of our children. We have a sanitary condition at the High school that by good luck has not cost a life. With a bit of ill luck and we will have an epidemic that will cost many lives.

If the Board of Health did its duty the High school would be closed to-

A CONFERENCE REFUSED

Fall River Manufacturers Will Not Meet Operatives

Fall River, Mass., June 13.—Secretary Taylor of the Fall River Textile council has received a letter from Secretary Hathaway of the Manufacturers' association of this city, denying a request made by the council for a conference between the operatives and manufacturers looking to an adjustment of matters unsatisfactory to the former. For some time there has been considerable unrest among the operatives, largely owing to the wage question.

A statement issued by Governor Douglas last month, in which, after an investigation into the conditions of the cotton cloth market, he gave it as his opinion that the state of the market up to April 1 did not warrant an advance in wages, was accepted by both mill men and employes. Since then, however, the operatives claim that market conditions have improved, and efforts have been made to bring about a conference between the two parties in an effort to make a readjustment of the wage schedule.

Trailed by Immigration Bureau

Boston, June 13.—Charged with violating the alien contract labor law, Peter Burrows was arrested at Dover, N. H., by Inspector Quinn of the Boston immigration office and was brought to this city for a hearing. Burrows came to this country from England on April 21. On his arrival he was arrested and, after a hearing, he was deported to England on April 23. Shortly after he reached England he boarded a steamer for Montreal and from that city went to Dover. There he entered the employ of the Cocheco Manufacturing company as assistant superintendent of their velvet mill. The authorities allege that he entered into a contract with the Cocheco company before he left England.

Sears Left All to Family

Boston, June 13.—The will of the late J. M. Sears was filed at the Suffolk registry of probate yesterday afternoon. Its disposition of the great estate, valued by the executors at $4,000,000, is made public. There are no public bequests and the entire property is left to the family. The estate is left in trust for five years. At the end of that time, according to the will, it is to be divided between the widow and the son. By a codicil, executed after testator's daughter's birth, she shares equally in the division at the termination of the trust.

Young Woman Badly Slashed

Lawrence, Mass., June 13.—While Angelica Sareione, an Italian, aged 20, was leaving the Washington mill she was suddenly attacked from behind by Raphael Mortinese, aged 22. He slashed her face from nose to jaw, inflicting an ugly, but not dangerous wound, and disfiguring her for life. After committing the deed Mortinese fled, but was arrested in Providence. The police allege that the assault was the result of jealousy.

Strike Against Fines System

East Brookfield, Mass., June 13.—All the weavers, 250 in number, in the mills of Mann, Stevens & Co., woolen manufacturers, have struck on account of the posting of notices of fines for imperfections in work. The company asked that the new arrangement be tried for a week, promising that during that time there would be no deductions in wages, but the operatives voted to remain out.

Long Sentence Deserved

Boston, June 13.—Not more than 20 or less than 15 years in state prison, the first day in solitary confinement, was the sentence imposed by Judge Bond in the case of Charles H. Johnson, charged with criminally assaulting Jennie McNeil, a blind negro woman, and also with injuring Cyrus Wilson, who went to the woman's rescue.

Escaped From Sanitarium

Newtown, Conn., June 13.—The woods in the vicinity of the village of Sandy Hook have been searched by many men engaged in the pursuit of Howard Hawley, aged 25, who has been an inmate of an sanitarium in Southport, and who escaped from a keeper. Hawley has been afflicted with melancholia.

To Answer Manslaughter Charge

Lynn, Mass., June 13.—Frank Huse, aged 33, is dead, and Frank Towle, aged 22, will be charged with manslaughter. Towle states that he met Huse in a saloon, after leaving which a dispute arose and Huse wanted to fight; that Huse struck at him several times before he (Towle) retaliated.

GOOD WILL OFFER

President Roosevelt's Efforts Are Crowned With Success

THE QUESTION OF PEACE

Russia Will Appoint Plenipotentiaries to Discuss Terms With Similar Representatives of the Mikado--President Assured of the Absolute Sincerity of Both Governments In Acceding to His Suggestion--The Final Arrangements For Conference a Question of Only a Few Days

Washington, June 13.—Official assurance that the president's efforts to bring Russia and Japan together to discuss peace will be crowned with success was brought to the White House by Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, who called by appointment, and in the name of Emperor Nicholas formally accepted the president's "offer of good will." The following official statement regarding the conference was issued at the White House:

"Ambassador Cassini has called to express the Russian government's assent to the president's proposition, and to state that they would appoint plenipotentiaries to meet the plenipotentiaries of Japan to discuss the question of peace. The place of meeting is at present being discussed."

During the past two weeks the president's efforts have been directed toward bringing the belligerents into amicable contact on the basis of a mutual agreement to consider terms of peace. This he accomplished finally yesterday. It remains now for the belligerent powers to name their plenipotentiaries and agree upon a time and place for them to meet to discuss terms and to negotiate a treaty of peace. These details are now under consideration, with a bright prospect that such minor differences as may exist will disappear within a few days.

Conferences of supreme importance were held yesterday in Washington. The Blue room of the White House was the scene, and President Roosevelt, Count Cassini, and Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese minister, were the principal conferees. President Roosevelt now has unequivocal assurances from both Russia and Japan of the acceptance of his proposition that they enter on negotiations for peace. The president likewise is assured of the absolute sincerity of both governments in acceding to his suggestion.

Japan was the first of the two powers to indicate its acceptance of President Roosevelt's proposition. The formal response to his identical note of Thursday last was received from the Japanese government Saturday. Informal assurances of acceptance of the president's suggestion were received from the Russian government a little later; but the assurances from St. Petersburg were not of the same definite character as had been received from Tokio. Ambassador Meyer, at St. Petersburg, informed this government that Russia had accepted the president's proposition and would name representatives with plenary powers to meet plenipotentiaries of Japan. While satisfactory, the response of Russia was not in the same definite form as that of Japan. It has been the expectation of the president to publish to the world the replies of the two governments to his identical notes, but under the circumstances this could not be done.

A few hours subsequent to the receipt of Meyer's cablegram, Cassini made an appointment to see President Roosevelt. The president received him at the White House. The ambassador, in the conference which followed, presented verbally Russia's acceptance of the president's proposition for a conference to discuss peace terms. He had been instructed by the St. Petersburg government to convey to the president the willingness of the czar to appoint plenipotentiaries to meet like representatives of the Emperor of Japan to negotiate a treaty of peace. While the response of the Russian government was not reduced to writing, it was regarded, for the time, as sufficient for the negotiations. Shortly afterward the official statement quoted was made public.

In addition to indicating the acceptance by the Russian government of the president's proposition, Cassini informed the president of Russia's desires as to the place of meeting of the plenipotentiaries and named those who probably would be delegated to represent the Russian emperor. At the conclusion of the conference Cassini declined to discuss for publication the details of his interview with President Roosevelt.

Mr. Takahira had a conference with President Roosevelt later. After the conference the minister, in response to inquiries, said that the situation was so delicate that he did not feel free to talk about it. He expressed the opinion that the situation would be resolved satisfactorily in due time, but declined to indicate the contents of the Japanese response to the president's identical note, saying that such information should come only from the president.

It can be said that the place of the meeting of the plenipotentiaries of the two governments has not been finally selected. In the arrangement of this detail, and others of like importance, President Roosevelt is acting as an intermediary between Russia and Japan. Russia has indicated her preference for one place for the holding of the peace conference and Japan has suggested another. It is intimated that an agreement on the place of holding the conference may be determined on in a few days, but no suggestion except of a negative character of the choice of either of the belligerents is obtainable. It is known that neither Washington nor the battlefield of Manchuria was the selection of either Russia or Japan. Further than that, information of a definite nature was withheld.

There is no suggestion that in the question of the location of the peace conference, President Roosevelt shall act as an arbiter. It is expected that the two governments principally interested will have no serious difficulty in reaching an agreement on that point, as Russia already has indicated informally that Japan's selection of a place probably would be satisfactory to the czar.

Negotiations between Washington and St. Petersburg and between Washington and Tokio are in progress and the final arrangements for the peace conference in its essential details are likely to be a question of only a few days. As soon as the arrangements are completed definitely, an armistice will be agreed upon and the great armies in Manchuria will lower their bayonets pending the formal negotiations of a permanent treaty of peace.

"Most Popular Man In Russia"

London, June 13.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times says: It is no exaggeration to say that President Roosevelt is the most popular man in Russia today. The president's rare insight, aided by the skill and tact of his ambassador (Mr. Meyer), enabled him to gauge the proper moment at which to offer advice which the initiator of The Hague peace conference could not refuse.

Carnegie a Friend of Labor

Pittsburg, June 13.—Theodore J. Shaffer, the retiring head of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, states that Andrew Carnegie's actions during the great Homestead strike of 1892 were in no way inimical to the members of the union. Shaffer's statement was occasioned by the recent opposition of the laboring class to the acceptance of Carnegie's gifts. "Mr. Carnegie has times innumerable demonstrated his friendship for the working man," said Shaffer.

Church Raffle Prohibited

Philadelphia, June 13.—In an effort to raise funds the Roman Catholic Church of the Ascension intended raffling a house valued at $2500. A complaint was made to the director of public safety on the ground that it was a gambling proposition. Rev. D. J. Proughal, rector of the church, called on the director in reference to the matter and was informed that the raffle could not take place.

Children's Lives Endangered

Pittsburg, June 13.—Two bombs were found on the premises of the Springfield public school in this city by Lewis Baker, the janitor. There are a number of Russian families in the vicinity of the school, many of whom, it is said, are, as far as Russia is concerned, intensely anarchistic. In view of this the police are conducting their investigation among the foreigners.

Canada-Mexico Steamship Service

Ottawa, June 13.—The prospects for the establishment of a steamship service between Canada and Mexico, it is semi-officially stated, have greatly improved. The Mexican government has relaxed its opposition to a call being made at a Cuban port and at Nassau. Interested steamship men expect to have their boats in the service during the present summer.

Boston Lawyer Debarred

Boston, June 13.—William G. Nash, a lawyer, has been ordered disbarred on a petition brought by the Bar association of the city of Boston. Nash was recently sentenced to pay a fine of $50 upon his plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with the larceny of $391 from a local hotel.

Gold Hidden In Old Building

Danbury, Conn., June 13.—Workmen engaged in demolishing an old building on White street found a pail containing $5 gold pieces. Some of the coins bore the date of 1834. The value of the gold is said to be $1500, although the finders refuse to state the exact amount.

Farmers In Packing Combine

Sterling, Ills., June 13.—The Farmers' Packing company has been organized here with a capital of $1,500,000, the intention being to compete with the Chicago packing industry. The corporation is composed of farmers, stock raisers and retailers in meats.

Imported Contract Labor

Sydney, N. S., June 13.—The Cape Breton Electric company was fined $200 here, under the contract labor law, for having entered into contract with A. F. Townsend of Boston and brought him here as general superintendent of the company's road.

A $10,000 Lift For Gomez

Havana, June 13.—The house of representatives has unanimously appropriated $10,000 for the benefit of General Maximo Gomez. The precariousness of the condition of Gomez is increased by the spread of gangrene.

Delegation of Manufacturers at White House

APPEAL TO PRESIDENT

Visitors Would Protect Cultivated Chinamen From Insult--President Takes a "Common Sense" View of Exclusion

Washington, June 13.—The harshness with which four high-class Chinese persons were recently treated by the immigration officers on entering the port of Boston, through a rigid adherence to the letter of the exclusion law, gave point to the protest which a delegation of influential manufacturers, headed by John Foord, secretary of the American Asiatic association, made to President Roosevelt at the White House.

Delegates were present representing the cotton industries of the entire coast. The Boston episode is only one of many like it. Our laws, which technically require a certificate of such travellers, provide no way by which the certificates may be obtained except in China. A Chinaman in any other part of the world, who desires to travel through the United States, has no feasible method open under our laws for doing so. These persons did the next best thing in getting, through their own embassy in London, a letter from Joseph H. Choate. But that did not suffice, and the Chinese woman was subjected to the flagrant outrage, from their point of view, of being publicly photographed.

President Roosevelt has many times before been appealed to in cases of this kind. When the Chinese representative to the World's Fair arrived with his suite in San Francisco, friends of the enterprise, who desired to avoid a Chinese boycott, waited on the port officers of San Francisco for mitigation of the rigors of the law, but they professed fear of the newspapers of the Pacific coast. The subject was taken to Secretary Shaw, who then had the immigration service in his charge, and he stood fearful before the majesty of the law, as guarded by the Pacific coast. The case was then taken to Oyster Bay, where President Roosevelt wrote two lines, directing, with great emphasis, that some common sense should be applied to the case.

The committee that waited on the president does not desire any flood of coolie labor, but they do wish such interpretation of the laws that the United States need not insult every cultivated Chinaman who comes to this country. They argued that it would make business for American labor to avoid such a treatment of the Chinese, who are now thoroughly aroused.

The delegation, numbering about 30, had a very satisfactory conference with the president. He expressed himself as in general sympathy with the purposes of the memorial, which set forth the importance of the Chinese outlet to American mills, the rapid growth and the potentiality of this business, and, accordingly, the importance of welcoming Chinese merchants and students to this country.

The president took exception to the paragraph in the memorial which asserted that "the treatment accorded by the immigration officers of this government to the exempt classes of Chinese visiting this country is more oppressive than either the letter or the spirit of the law requires. We believe, moreover, that the plainest principles of international justice demand that the law itself shall be made more liberal either by amendment or by the negotiation of a new treaty, or both."

The president said that the courts had usually sustained the immigration officers, and that he could not believe their enforcement more drastic than congress intended. The president read to the delegation from a letter which he had just written to Secretary Metcalf, with which this memorial will be enclosed. The president declines to allow this letter to Metcalf to be made public, since it deals purely with the internal administration of the law.

Grip on Leave of Absence

Washington, June 13.—Mr. Grip, the minister from Sweden and Norway, started for home today on leave of absence. His government has sent Mr. De Strade to this city to act as charge of affairs during his absence. De Strade was appointed before the severance of Norway and is now on his way to this country.

Fire Escapes Were Blocked

New York, June 13.—Forty-two women were fined $3 each in court here for obstructing the fire escapes of the tenements where they live. Most of the prisoners could not pay their fines and were locked up with their children in jail. Boxes, barrels and refrigerators were kept on the fire escapes.

Steamer Strikes Bottom

Montreal, June 13.—The Leyland line steamer Tampican, for London and Leith, struck bottom soon after leaving her pier. It is believed considerable dredging will be necessary to release the steamer. Her cargo is being lightered.

Cattle Succumb to Flood

Lacrosse, Wis., June 13.—What is believed to be the crest of the floods due to the rise of the Mississippi river and its tributaries has been reached. Thousands of head of livestock pastured in the lowlands have been drowned.

Ryan's plan is reported to be to consolidate the Equitable Trust company, the Mercantile Trust company and the Morton Trust company, all of this city, with the latter in control.

Fire Drill Proved Effective

New York, June 14.—Eighteen hundred pupils and 45 teachers in public school No. 15, Brooklyn, marched out of the school building at the sound of the fire alarm gong with all the coolness and precision of a drill. A fire which had been discovered in a vacant room was extinguished with a loss of $100. There was only one fire extinguisher in the building and that was ineffective.

Delicate Situation In Morocco

London, June 13.—A dispatch from Fez says: German friendship for Morocco has already been shown by several minor commercial concessions. This is regarded as a precedent liable to create complications if other grants follow. The sultan maintains his absolutely independent attitude, while the Moorish officials regard the head of the German mission to Morocco as a guardian angel.

Would Reform New Englanders

Worcester, Mass., June 13.—The appointment is announced of Rev. A. S. Gregg as field secretary of the International Reform bureau, to succeed Rev. O. R. Miller, who becomes the legislative superintendent of the National Temperance society. Gregg will devote himself to reform work in New England, with headquarters in Boston.

Patrick's Fight For Life

Albany, June 13.—David B. Hill, attorney for Albert T. Patrick, convicted and sentenced to die for the murder of William M. Rice, appeared before Chief Judge Cullen of the court of appeals and asked permission to make a motion for a re-argument in the Patrick case. The matter will be submitted to the court today.

Car Banged Into Carriage

New York, June 13.—In a trolley car collision last night Miss Sadie Michaels was killed, her sister, Essien, bad'y bruised, their father injured about the face and back and their mother so severely injured that she may die. They were run down by the car while riding in an open carriage.

City In Grasp of Smallpox

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 13.—By order of the board of health all schools and churches have been closed on account of the alarming spread of smallpox, which has taken on the nature of an epidemic. There are 75 cases now in the city.

JAPAN SEA BATTLE

But Little Cause For Wonder at Russians' Defeat

ADMIRALS IN THE DARK

Knew Nothing of Plans of Rojestvensky, Whose Maneuvering Was Decidedly Careless--Crews Untrained In Gunnery

Vladivostok, June 13.—A series of interviews with naval officers who survived the battle of the Sea of Japan has developed a most sensational story of the causes of the Russian disaster first of all and the complete demoralization which followed the sinking of the flagship Kniaz Souvaroff and the wounding of Admiral Rojestvensky.

It is explained that not a single officer of the fleet knew the commander-in-chief's plans. The admirals in command of divisions knew no more than the sub-lieutenants and had to rely entirely on the signals of the flagship. Admiral Nebogatoff, on whom the command devolved, had seen Rojestvensky only once after the juncture of their squadrons and then only for 15 minutes.

All the stories of extensive target practice in Madagascar, it seems, were false. During the entire voyage there practically was no training in gunnery worthy of the name and the big gun practice was confined to three shots per vessel. Ugly stories are told of the happenings at Madagascar. Some of the crews certainly were untrained in gunnery and, exhausted by the eight months' voyage under trying moral and physical conditions, were no match for the veteran Japanese, whose marksmanship was wonderful.

The latter concentrated their fire on one ship until she was placed out of action and then on another, thus successively sinking the Oslabya, Alexander III and Kniaz Souvaroff. Some ships developed deplorable structural defects. The Oslabya sank without having a single hole below the water line. Heavy seas entered the vessel above the water line, and the watertight compartments, which were changed several times during the voyage, did not stand the strain they had been calculated to stand and burst, flooding and heeling the vessel over until she turned turtle.

Lack of homogeneity among the ships made it impossible to maneuver in harmony. The Vladimir Monomach, Admiral Oushakoff, and Admiral Seninvin had to lag behind, on this account becoming easy victims. Finally the ammunition was exhausted after the first day's fight.

Even the very morning of the battle, while the buzzing of the wireless instruments on the Russian ships showed that the Japanese scouts were communicating his dispositions to Togo, Rojestvensky continued his careless maneuvering, and when the Japanese actually appeared the Russians were caught in an impossible formation and were attacked on three fronts. Rojestvensky's position was cramped and his transports were badly placed and caused confusion, while the Japanese were raining projectiles, even from machine guns, on the Russian ships.

The latter were huddled together, blanketing each other's fire. Only the leaders of the columns could bring their guns to bear and even those the untrained gunners fired wildly. To render matters worse the mines and floating torpedoes sown in the paths of the Russian divisions added to the confusion. The Borodino, Admiral Nakhimoff and Navarin fell victims to these obstructions.

It is a heartrending narrative that Russia and the world should know. The sailors and officers were not altogether to blame. The main fault lies elsewhere. There were many heroes among the Russians. Captain Berkh of the Oslabya committed suicide on her bridge as the ship sank, rather than save himself. There were thousands of other heroes whose names the world will never know.

Australia Comparatively Defenseless

London, June 13.—An interesting sidelight on far eastern developments comes from Melbourne, where former Premier Deaken has drawn attention to the striking growth of three naval powers revealed in recent events, namely, the United States, Germany and Japan, and to Australia's comparatively defenseless condition, with 16 foreign naval stations within striking distance of her shores. Mr. Deaken calls on Australians to make sacrifices and to extend the defensive arrangements on land and on sea.

Bigelow's Courage Deserts Him

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., June 13.—Frank G. Bigelow, the former Milwaukee banker, who was brought here to begin his 10-year sentence in the federal prison, is in the hospital in a serious nervous condition. After Bigelow had been photographed his condition was found to be such that it was decided not to undergo the other requirements until later.

In London to Claim Bride

London, June 13.—Prince Gustavus Adolphus, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Sweden and Norway, who is to be married to Princess Margaret Victoria of Connaught on June 17, arrived in London last night from Stockholm. The Khedive of Egypt also arrived last night to attend the royal wedding.

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Worm's

Hundreds of children and adults have worms, but are treated for other diseases. The symptoms are:—indigestion, with a variable appetite; foul tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; eyes heavy and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; starting during sleep; slow fever; and often in children, convulsions.

TRUE'S ELIXIR

is the best worm remedy made. It has been in use since 1851, is purely vegetable, harmless and effectual. Where no worms are present it acts as a Tonic, and corrects the condition of the mucous membrane of the stomach and bowels. A positive cure for Constipation and Biliousness, and a valuable remedy in all the common complaints of children. Price 35 cts. Ask your druggist for it.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Lieut. A. R. Shedd has gone to Chicago for a brief trip.

Another of those 10 cent fashion plates appears in this issue.

The Squantum Yacht club hold a country dance Friday evening.

Probate Court for Norfolk County will be held in Quincy tomorrow morning.

It is probable that the next move in the High school question will be a public hearing before the City Council.

Mayor Thompson has appointed George F. Phillips, Jeremiah Dinneen and Arthur J. Parker as special policemen.

The Park Commissioners announce that the bath house on Town river will be open for the season on Thursday, June 15.

A man who gets arrested for drunkenness may be released twice within a year but when he comes up before Judge Avery for the third time the fine that is imposed makes him feel sick.

The City Council Committee on Public Buildings will meet tonight, the Committees on Fire Department and Sewers on Wednesday evening, the Finance Committee on Thursday evening and the Committee on Streets on Friday evening.

Bradley Lincoln, formerly of Atlantic, and at present engaged in very prosperous business in the west, is in town for a few days. Mr. Lincoln was little more than a child when his parents moved from Atlantic, and the tall young man with the breezy western manners has taken his old friends by storm.

George H. Mann of Quincy secured a verdict of $1700 in his case in the Norfolk Superior court against the Old Colony street railway for personal injuries caused by collision of car with an ice wagon.

Sergt. George H. Wilson of this city has been appointed on the staff of Capt. William A. Morse, the new commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, being one of the color guards.

Miss Mary Hawes Moody, who has been a guest of Miss A Maud Briggs, of Appleton street, for a few weeks, has returned to New York to make preparations for her theatrical engagement in the fall.

Despite the unseasonable weather the two hundred or more who attended the roller skating at the Coliseum Monday evening were treated to an impromptu exhibition of fancy skating that surpassed anything seen in this vicinity in many years, the performer being Joe Kaufman of Boston one of the foremost exponents of roller skating and physical culture of the day.

WEST QUINCY.

At the Methodist church Sunday morning the pastor baptized four children. His sermon was concerning "Josiah, the Boy King." In the evening the Sunday school gave a concert.

DRAWING FINE WIRE.

Diamond Dies Are Used, Steel Not Being Hard Enough.

Diamonds are used quite extensively as dies for drawing wire of the smallest sizes—for instance, the sizes less than, say, twenty-five one-thousandths of an inch diameter.

The hardest steel dies are not suitable for this work for the reason that the wear upon them so enlarges the die that the diameter of the wire is not uniform within the required percentage of variation at the beginning and end of a drawing. Sapphires are used sometimes for this work. Copper, silver and platinum are the metals usually drawn to the very small sizes.

With diamond dies it is practicable to draw platinum to a diameter of five ten-thousandths of an inch. An idea of the fineness of a copper wire drawn to only three one-thousandths of an inch in diameter may be gathered from the fact that in one pound of the metal there are over six miles of such wire.

The weight of the diamonds used for this work is from four to five carats, and they are uncut except as to the die. The value of these dies, which, of course, are not of the first water, varies from $15 to $20 a carat, and several hundred thousand dollars' worth of diamonds are utilized as dies in the various wire factories of this country alone.—Electrical Review.

GEOMETRY IN BATTLE.

How Marlborough Won His Great Victory at Ramillies.

The genius of Marlborough seized upon the simple fact that the arc is greater than its chord when he won his great victory at Ramillies. The French army under Villeroi was posted in an arc on a ridge of hills. Their left extended to the village of Autre Eglise and owing to the steepness of the hills and the river and marsh in front was in an almost impregnable position. Their forces swept round on the top of the ridge till they reached on the extreme right a height behind the village of Ramillies known as the Tomb of Ottamond.

Marlborough saw that this height was the key to the position. He first made a vigorous feint on Autre Eglise and so caused the French generals to hurry in person to that point. Then he moved large bodies of troops rapidly and secretly along the chord of the arc and carried the position on the French right before Villeroi had time to bring up reenforcements by the longer line of the curve.

This is easily understood when it is remembered that the chord of an arc is a straight line joining the extremities of an arc or two points in a curve.—London Standard.

Stevenson and Wallace.

Sir Donald Mackenzie Wallace once found himself at a club in Edinburgh, where he fell into conversation about Russia with a youth who put forward some views in which he could not acquiesce. "Oh," said this personage, "it is all very well for you to say that you do not agree with me, but I know all about it. I have just been reviewing Wallace's 'Russia.'" "And I have just been writing it," was the natural reply. The former speaker lived to be famous. He was R. L. Stevenson.

Sorrow.

Sorrow is not an incident occurring now and then. It is the woof which is woven into the warp of life, and he who has not discerned the divine sacredness of sorrow and the profound meaning which is concealed in pain has yet to learn what life is.—F. W. Robertson.

CITY COUNCIL.

morrow. Until we get this out of the way nothing can be done to the other buildings. The School Committee have worked night after night until they have tuned these plans up to their present form.

The order was put on its final passage, and was defeated by a vote of 10 in favor and 8 against, not the necessary two-thirds. The vote was as follows:

YES—Adams, Bass, Chamberlin, Chase, Gassett, McLane, Polk, Sawyer, Sidelinger, Stone—10.

NO—Crane, Flaherty, Hughes, Loud, Piper, Savage, Spargo, Stewart—8.

ABSENT—Barry, Burgess, Gearwar, Hynes—4.

NOT VOTING—President Nichols.

Councilman Stone moved that the vote be reconsidered.

Voted, 10 in favor and 9 against, President Nichols voting in the affirmative.

The order was then laid on the table.

Councilman Piper offered an order for $1,000 for grading Centre street, between Intervale and Albertina street. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Bass offered an order for the Board of Health to investigate the sanitary conditions of the different school buildings. Adopted.

Adjourned 10.35 to meet June 19.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Lady's Girdles by Martha Dean—No. 6290

More and more prevalent grows the appreciation of those dainty little accessories which give such a chic touch to our frocks. These charming little "nothings" are usually so expensive when purchased at the shops that only a favored few may revel in their possession. The making of fancy belts and girdles is not beyond the skill of an average dressmaker, and the ones shown here are very simple in construction, but wonderfully smart when worn. The crushed style may be made of shaded ribbon or silk, and further elaboration may be effected by the use of buttons or rosettes in silk or braid. The other style is quite the newest idea in a fitted girdle and should be made of the same material as the skirt. The idea of suspender suits is not a new one, for the younger members of the family have been wearing them all season. The style is so becoming and so practical that it is being adopted with much eagerness by "grown-ups," who realize that it gives that long, slender line so much desired by every one. Sizes, small, medium, large.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6290, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

STRONG CANDIDATE.

District Attorney French in Field for Attorney General.

There is no candidate whom southeastern Massachusetts would rather see elected to the responsible office of Attorney General than Hon. Asa P. French, who has been tried and not found wanting. As District Attorney for Norfolk and Plymouth counties for four years, his service has been most satisfactory. He has ably and fearlessly performed the duties of the office, notably in the Marion whitecap cases, the Randolph shooting case and the Brockton disaster. Lawyer French has also been very successful at the bar.

District Attorney French is in the prime of life, being 45 this year. He is a graduate of Yale college having been prepared at Adams Academy in Quincy and Thayer Academy in Braintree. He is one of the Adams gold medalists.

Mr. French's home is in Randolph, and he has issued the following statement:

"My candidacy for the office of attorney general was announced at a meeting of the Norfolk club which was held a few weeks ago. Since the announcement an organization to take charge of the campaign has been perfected, and I have received assurances from many sections of the Commonwealth of the hearty support of leading citizens, and especially of members of the bar. The assurances which I have received from Suffolk County and the whole of southeastern Massachusetts have been particularly strong and of course very pleasing to me.

"I consented to become a candidate for the office at the earnest solicitation of leading Republicans of southeastern Massachusetts for the reason that they believed that the time had come when that large section of the Commonwealth should be recognized on the State ticket of the Republican party. Norfolk County has not had a candidate on the State ticket since 1876, when Charles Endicott was first elected treasurer of the Commonwealth, and Plymouth County has had no representative on the ticket since Henry B. Pierce was first elected secretary of the state in 1876.

"These counties which comprise the district I have had the honor to serve during the past four years as district attorney, have always been loyal supporters of Republican principles and nominees, and have given the ticket big majorities, and the people of those counties feel that the time has come when the Republicans of the State should honor them with one of the important positions on the State ticket."

Will Look After Hebrew Immigrants

Boston, June 13.—For the purpose of distributing as advantageously as possible the Hebrew immigrants who arrive at this port, the Boston branch of the Baron De Hirsch committee has planned the establishment of points in the various states in New England from which places the foreigners seeking homes and employment in this country may be sent. The work has already begun in Maine.

LADIES' NIGHT.

Quincy Council Knights of Columbus, Entertain.

There was a very large gathering of the Sir Knights of Quincy Council, K. of C., their ladies and friends, Tuesday evening, at Colonial hall. It was the eleventh anniversary of Quincy Council, and was observed as a ladies night. There were a number of invited guests present, who included Edward McEvilla, chairman of Boston Chapter, K. of C.; Rev. John J. Coan, of St. John's church; Rev. John P. Cuffe, of the Sacred Heart church, and Rev. Matthew McDonnell, of Braintree.

The address of welcome was by Peter J. Cahill, Grand Knight of Quincy council.

A short entertainment followed which included vocal solos by Miss Elizabeth Curley, Edward J. Sullivan, D. J. Seward McCurdy and William McConarty; piano solos by Clarence Fouche, and recitations by Councilmau B. A. McLane.

Dancing concluded the festivities, music being furnished by Lyon's orchestra. During the evening refreshments were served.

TRUSTEE MISSING.

Also Funds of the Boiler Makers' Union.

It was reported to the police this morning, that Alexander Cruikshanks, one of the trustees of local 214 Boiler Makers' Union had absconded with $413 of the funds belonging to the union. It is alleged that he visited the Savings Bank last Friday, and drew the funds of the union, and skipped.

Cruikshanks was employed at the Fore River Works, and resided on Quincy avenue. He is said to have a family in England. The officers of the union are inclined to think that he has headed for Japan, as he had been heard to speak about going to that country.

This noon Inspector Bradley armed with a search warrant visited Cruikshanks boarding house and searched his trunk. The only reward, however, was to find a lot of clothing. Nothing whatever, was found that would give any clue as to where he had gone.

Mr. Cruikshanks was a ship fitter and has been in Quincy about four years and was well known.

The union has offered a reward of $100 for his apprehension, and efforts are being made to head him off.

Saw Off the Limbs.

If some of the trees in Atlantic, which have a tropical verdure near the ground and compel the passerby to bend his head with something very far from a benediction on his lips, should be stripped of their obstructing limbs it would be a favor to the general public. It is bad enough on a clear day, especially for women with pretentious feathers in their hats, to have "low bridge" for a yard or so until they can clear the shade of the all too sheltering leaves; but when it rains! Then trouble is four-fold, for no one can pass under the trees with an umbrella, and the trees pour their concentrated moisture down the neck and over the face with fiendish frolic in the face of the mildest breeze. There is no need to mention the location of these low-growing trees. Everyone knows where they are, and everyone would gladly get busy with an axe if the opportunity offered.

Public Bequests.

The will of Robert C. Winthrop, Jr., filed in the Suffolk probate court Tuesday, contains $31,000 in public bequests, including: $5,000 each to the Massachusetts Historical Society, the Boston Episcopal Charitable Society, the trustees of Bowdoin College and the trustees of Phillips Academy, Andover; $3,000 each to the New England Historical and Genealogical Society, the Colonial Society of Massachusetts and the Bostonian Society, and also $2,000 to the Massachusetts Historical Society.

STRUCK BY POLE.

Serious Injuries to Conductor Tribou at Atlantic.

Warren Tribou, a conductor on the Neponset-West Quincy line of the Old Colony street railway, was seriously injured this morning by being struck by a pole on Hancock street near the Atlantic bridge.

It appears that Tribou, who is one of the new men, stood on the running board collecting fares. In passing from one seat to another he leaned out too far, and was struck by a pole. He received a terrific blow on the head and was knocked from the car.

His injuries were a bad scalp wound besides being bruised about the body. He was taken aboard the car and brought to the car barn, and then to the residence of Dr. Gordon, where his injuries were dressed. He was then removed to his home in Wollaston.

—According to Japanese statements it took but two minutes to sink the Russian cruiser Jemtchug, and according to cable from Manila the Jemtchug is at that port badly rent but still in the ring.

Almost a Centenarian.

Mrs. Susan Preston Weld Curtis, widow of Ebenezer Curtis, died at Norfolk Downs on Tuesday at the age of 95. Mrs. Curtis was born in the old Preston house at Harrison Square, Dorchester, in 1810. Her father was the son of John Preston and grandson of Edward Preston, 1st, who bought a small mill privilege in Dorchester in 1737, operating a fulling mill a number of years, and about 1770 established a chocolate mill.

In 1829 the deceased was married to Ebenezer Curtis of Dorchester. She leaves two children, W. D. C. Curtis, secretary of the Dorchester Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and Mrs. S. C. Pierce.

Funeral services, which will be private, will be held at the residence of her niece, Mrs. George Vinton, 53 Holmes street, Norfolk Downs, Thursday at 2 o'clock.

Non-Residents.

Among the high salaried teachers in the Boston schools, who are non-residents and the subject of controversy are: Charles E. Stetson, a master at the English High, salary $3,060 and Henry M. Wright, a junior master in the same school, salary, $2,916; also Charlotte A. Kendall, a special instructor in the South Boston High school. At the Mathers school is Edward Southworth.

There are in the Boston schools more than 500 non-resident teachers.

In other departments of Boston there are only 60 non-residents drawing salary, including the following:

Theodore Parker, of Atlantic, an assistant in the engineering department, at $4 per day; and in the street department: Thomas F. Callahan, Quincy, foreman $1800 per year; Robert Harding, Quincy, gateman $2.50 per day; Michael W. Gerry, Quincy, gateman $2.50 per day; Cushing Baker, Quincy, steam engineer $2.50 per day; Carl Callahan, Quincy, laborer $2.00 per day.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Philadelphia has been having a little experience with "tainted money" on her own account.

It is doubly dangerous to eat green fruit these days, the doctors are all so fond of the apendicitis knife.

Secretary Shaw attributes the fact that his presidential boom stuck in the mud, within three hours after its launching, to Secretary Taft.

There are many indications that the Secretary of War will himself prove the champion heavyweight in the next Republican National prize-ring.

The $25,000 sewer order in the City Council will probably be rushed through flying, but a much smaller appropriation should suffice, for 1905. There are improvements the city needs more.

Universal regret is heard because of the resignation of Miss Dearborn as principal of the Coddington school. With a modern building perhaps Miss Dearborn might have been induced to stay longer.

It is estimated that nearly a million emigrants will arrive in this country this year. That means 200,000 more voters for the next congressional election unless the federal government gets to work in earnest on the justice shops where one year's residence is recognized as constituting citizenship.

It continues to be one of the nine day wonders that the recent railroad disaster at Wollaston was not more serious. Had a passenger train been passing at rapid speed, and they run close to each other at that hour, the accident might have rivaled the Quincy disaster of years ago. As it was the damage was really very small.

Some of the Councilmen who voted against the order for the enlargement of the High school building, do not like the publicity given to their vote, and are trying to explain that they are not against the enlargement, but all their votes have been that way; some members for two or three years. How and when do these Councilmen propose to enlarge, if they are in favor? The responsibilities certainly rest upon them.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The man who went to sleep in an outside stateroom of a sound steamer with $120,000 in stocks and bonds between the sheets, must have regarded it as a trifling matter. Not so, the thief who entered his sleeping room and abstracted the valuables. A more careful man might have left his big wallet with the purser, and received it intact in the morning. To the owner of gold mines, however, the large sum was a trifling affair, and so he was careless about it. The thief opened negotiations promptly enough, and the mine owner will get his securities back by the payment of the burglar's fee. The incident shows how easy it is for a person to be robbed on a sound steamer, and suggests the wisdom of leaving valuables with the purser if the loss of them should be an embarrassment.—Lynn Item.

Chicago Man Says He Paid It to Labor Officials

EXPERT STRIKE SETTLER

Claims to Have Documentary Evidence of Having Handled Money Given by Employers For Prevention of Strikes

Chicago, June 14.—The teamsters' strike proper has almost been lost sight of, the attention of both sides to the controversy being occupied more with the charges of bribery in connection with labor unions in Chicago than with the original issue. Within the next 24 hours, it is said, a history of the secret transactions of labor unions in Chicago for the last four years will be made public and that the information will implicate many labor leaders whom it is asserted accepted bribes to call off strikes. The man who is expected to give this information is John S. Driscoll, formerly secretary of the Coal Team Owners' association, who has been the intermediary between the employers and the Teamsters' union in this city for the last four years.

Driscoll says he will appear before the grand jury with documentary evidence showing that several labor leaders have been receiving large sums of money through Driscoll, which, it is declared by the latter, the employers were forced to pay to prevent their employes being called out on strike. To substantiate his statement, Driscoll displayed a bank check-book, the stubs on which, he said, correspond to the amounts of money paid to these labor leaders. This bank book will be offered in his testimony before the grand jury.

The fees, according to Driscoll, paid the union men ranged from $100 to thousands of dollars, the aggregate being estimated by him at $80,000. Driscoll declares that he never received a dollar of this money for his efforts in averting trouble, except from the organizations of which he was acting as secretary.

"I will prove that this is absolutely true," said Driscoll, "by the evidence that I have on hand. The charges that I have been a 'grafter,' that I have been paid money to bring about strikes, that I conspired with union officials to levy blackmail on employers under threat of strikes, are all made of whole cloth. I am tired of being abused by these charges.

"I want every business man that I have ever had dealings with to go before the grand jury and tell just exactly what I did for them, what my fee was and whether or not I 'delivered the goods.' I consider that it is absolutely legitimate to act in the capacity of labor commissioner and I think that in that capacity I have done vastly more good to Chicago than harm. Many of the strikes that I settled were fixed in their incipiency, and my efforts prevented perhaps serious industrial complications, such as the present strike controversy."

Preacher Won't Mix With Negroes

Chicago, June 14.—At the quarterly convocation of the University of Chicago one of the students that received a degree was Alexander B. Terrell, a negro. The convocation chaplain was Rev. Beverly E. Warner of New Orleans and in a speech delivered before the university faculty and members of the graduating class he declared himself against the higher education of the negro. The south, he said, would join hands with any section of the country in a settlement of the negro question, but "with the understanding that the idea of social equality be left outside from the beginning."

Must Have Consent of France

London, June 14.—Great Britain, as one of the powers signatory to the Madrid convention of 1880, in answer to the request of the Sultan of Morocco to join an international conference for the consideration of the Moroccan question, has announced that its preference is not to take any part in the conference unless such action would be satisfactory to France. The United States has taken the same stand, the two powers being in accord with France that such a conference would not be the best way of promoting urgent reforms in Morocco.

Taft Is Very Busy

Washington, June 14.—Secretary Taft had planned to attend a complimentary dinner given to Mr. Choate at New York last night, but cancelled the engagement on account of the pressure of official business here. The main reason was his desire to conclude the consideration of the Bowen-Loomis case.

Pasha and Family Killed

Constantinople, June 14.—A cyclone here caused enormous damage to property. It demolished the house of General Vassif Pasha, killing the pasha and his family. Most of the windows in the suburb of Pera were broken. There were many accidents to shipping in the harbor.

Hooker Refuses to Resign

New York, June 14.—Following a conference with former Governor Odell, Supreme Court Justice Hooker gave out a statement in which he refuses to resign, even though it necessitates convening the legislature in extra session during the summer months.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Patterns For Ladies' and Misses' Collars Designed by Martha Dean—No. 6289

To have a neat, dainty finish at the neck is a good half of the modistic battle. Little it matters whether the dress be smart or extravagant in fashioning; anything in the least degree untidy or unprepossessing at the throat condemns the whole gown. Of course there are all kinds of neckwear to be had, but if the work is well done and the qualities of materials the best the price runs into such appreciable sums that every girl cannot afford to buy. Quite the handsomest stocks, when analyzed, present themselves as composed of small scraps of lace, lawn or linen ornamented by handwork. When fashioned at home—and every one has a few such scraps from the last year's dresses—excellent results are achieved for a very little or no outlay. The pattern includes two styles, one a crossed tab effect and the other which includes the shaping for the frill as well as for the collar proper. In addition to these the stamped design may be copied, and thus one is saved that expense. By exercising a little ingenuity a dozen collars may be made from this pattern and no two alike. Sizes, small, medium and large.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6289, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

NOT YET HIGH ENOUGH

An Expert's Opinion on Rates of the Royal Arcanum

Boston, June 14.—Insurance Commissioner Cutting believes that the Royal Arcanum's rates are not yet high enough, in spite of the announcement of an increase. "Its simply a question of getting a rate schedule that will pay the death benefit," the commissioner says. "Of course, they will lose members. But they can afford to lose a good many, as it will stop that number of death benefits. Its tough on the old members of course.

"But the older members were down so low that they were not paying anything like the cost of their insurance. The new scale is much fairer than was the 1898 readjustment. I don't see how the matter can be taken to the courts. In the case of the A. O. U. W. the courts decided that a fraternal order had the right to fix its own rates. The only way this question could be taken into court would be on an injunction applied for through the attorney general or the insurance commissioner. On just what grounds they would ask for one I can't conjecture."

Charges Against Police Sergeant

Cambridge, Mass., June 14.—The many recent arrests in this city for alleged fraudulent registration brought about a sensation at a meeting of the board of aldermen last night, when resolutions were adopted calling upon Mayor Daly to institute proceedings against Police Sergeant Gordon. One resolution charges Gordon with procuring fake evidence to be given against James A. Montgomery, who was recently arrested, charged with complicity in the alleged registration frauds. In support of this latter charge the signed confession of John Lavin was produced.

Legal Proceedings Recommended

Boston, June 14.—Receivers of the Ubero Plantation company filed their first report yesterday in the United States circuit court, showing that the company's receipts from stock sales were $571,037.02. The assets are $7037. After reviewing the history of the company and disclosing some of its methods of doing business, the receivers tabulate the receipts, expenses, assets and liabilities and close their report with the recommendation that legal proceedings be initiated against those who are responsible for a wrongful expenditure of the funds.

Decision In Strikers' Favor

Chicopee, Mass., June 14.—The strike of the spooler girls in the mill of the Chicopee Manufacturing company was settled last night by arbitration, it being agreed by both parties to abide by the decision of three disinterested citizens of Chicopee. The committee decided in favor of the strikers and they went back this morning at the same wages as before the cut which led to the strike. About 600 employes were affected by the strike.

To Check Reckless Automobiling

Hartford, June 14.—A new automobile speed bill has been reported to the legislature and its final passage is expected. It permits a speed of 12 miles an hour within city or borough districts and 20 miles in the country districts. There is a penalty provision which fixes a fine of from $25 to $200 or a jail sentence of 30 days, or both, for a first offense, and $500 fine or 60 days' imprisonment, or both, for subsequent violations.

Hawley Is Still Missing

Newtown, Conn., June 14.—Another day has been spent fruitlessly in the search for Curtis Hawley, an inmate of the Southport sanitarium who made his escape from a keeper. Hawley disappeared into the woods and it is thought that he may be still in hiding in the wild section of country known as Great Quarter. Hawley, who is 24 years old, has been suffering from a mental trouble.

Warrant For Jewelry Agent

Lynn, Mass., June 14.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of W. W. Smith, 35, who was the Lynn agent for Gordon & Burgin, wholesale jewelry dealers of Boston, on the charge of embezzlement, and the police of other cities have been notified to keep a lookout for him. Smith has had an office in Central square for the past year, and did an extensive business on the instalment basis.

Strawberry Crop Ruined

Canterbury, Conn., June 14.—The heavy rains of the last few days have done much damage to the strawberry crop in eastern Connecticut, and many farmers regard the yield as practically ruined. The fruit already ripened was beaten off and destroyed and growing fruit was filled with sand and made unmarketable.

Hailstones Big as Walnuts

Manchester, N. H., June 14.—One of the most severe hail and electrical storms that has been felt in Manchester in years passed over the city last night, stripping fruit trees, killing a horse and causing bad washouts. The hailstones were in some instances as large as walnuts.

Towle Held For Manslaughter

Lynn, Mass., June 14.—J. F. Towle, held in $300 on Monday for hearing on a charge of simple assault on W. S. Huse, was arraigned on a charge of manslaughter and held in $1000 for hearing. Huse died as the result of a blow struck by Towle, it is alleged, in a fight.

Put Bullet Into His Brain

South Manchester, Conn., June 14.—Fred Keach, aged 42, for 16 years an engineer on the Boston and Maine railroad, committed suicide by shooting, the bullet entering his brain. Temporary insanity is the cause assigned.

CITY BREVITIES.

Now for fair weather.

Today is flag day and many residents are displaying their colors.

The Atlantics will play at West Roxbury on the afternoon of the Seventeenth of June.

Quincy yachts and yachtsmen will be well represented at Marblehead on Saturday.

The Crescents defeated the Honeysuckles on Tuesday, at Williams field, by a score 19 to 18.

A good place to get your salmon and peas for the Seventeenth of June is at the Consolidated fish market.

Councilman William T. Spargo leaves the latter part of the month for a visit to his native town in England.

Mrs. William Martin and Miss Lena Allen have returned after a pleasant visit spent with friends in Lowell and Chelmsford.

The Merrymounts and West Quincys meet on the diamond at Merrymount park on the morning of the Seventeenth of June.

On the morning of the Seventeenth of June the Sacred Heart base ball team will meet their old rivals, the Warrens of Neponset, on the Ward Six playgrounds.

The Spaldings beat the Victors 14 to 12 on Tuesday, at Williams field. The work was done by the pitcher, Harold Prout, and the catcher, Emanuel Berlucchi.

Judge W. W. Brookings, a pioneer and former judge of Dakota, died very suddenly at the Relief Hospital, Boston, Tuesday evening. He was on his way back from a few days' visit with his old friend, Mr. A. F. Hayward. The judge was well known to many of the prominent men of Quincy.

Lake Memphremagog.

Lake Memphremagog, in northern Vermont and Canada, is one of the most charming resorts in the Green Mountain State. This lake is thirty miles long and two and a quarter miles wide, and over two-thirds of its length is in Canada. In early days a favorite haunt of the Indians for fishinging and camping; it was named by them Memphremagog, meaning "beautiful water" The Steamer "Lady of the Lake" leaves Newport sailing the entire length of the lake to Magog, occupying about four hours. The view as witnessed from the decks of the steamer is magnificient; the charms of the rocky and uneven shore; the towering cliffs, the long stretches of green forest land and the distant peaks of Owl's Head and Orford Mount, with intervening sweeps of beautiful valley land, present a panorama which appears more beautiful at every turn.

The "Switzerland of America" this region has been called, and many people see in Memphremagog another Lock Lomond, while the Canadian portion has frequently been termed the "Geneva of Canada." In order to get a comprehensive idea, of the marvelous scenic surprises of this region, send two cents in stamps to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, for their beautiful illustrated booklet, entitled "Lake Memphremagog and About There," and two cents for the companion booklet, entitled "Valley of the Connecticut and Northern Vermont."

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, innocculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

"Destroy the cause—you remove the effect."

A POSSIBLE HITCH

Washington Rumor as to Peace Negotiations

TACT OF THE PRESIDENT

It Is Relied Upon to Smooth Out Any Differences Which May Arise--A Common Basis Upon Which Plenipotentiaries May Meet May Prove a Snag

Washington, June 14.—A note of pessimism is discernible in the tone of the discussion of the negotiations for peace in the far east. So far as is ascertainable at this time, no permanent ground exists for the supposition that the negotiations are not proceeding favorably. It is realized in both governmental and diplomatic quarters that until the two belligerents actually are brought together on a common basis of understanding the possibility of a hitch must be taken into account.

Among members of the diplomatic corps the formal response of the Russian government to the president's appeal for a cessation of hostilities was received with keen interest. It was made the subject of a conference at the White House yesterday between the president and Minister Takahira. The details of the conference were not disclosed, but Minister Takahira intimates strongly that the negotiations are proceedingly smoothly. In other diplomatic quarters it is suggested that possibly a too optimistic view of the situation generally is being taken. This idea, coupled with a call of M. Jusserand, the French ambassador, at the White House last night, led to the rumor, extensively circulated, that something akin to a hitch in the peace proceedings actually had occurred.

Ambassador Jusserand returned last night from West Point, where he went to deliver an address. At his embassy he found a note from President Roosevelt requesting him to call at the White House. He reached the president's home at 9:15 p. m. and remained with the president until 11 o'clock. To a representative of the press Ambassador Jusserand, after the conference, said it would be discourteous to the president for him to discuss for publication the nature of his interview. Asked the direct question whether a hitch had occurred in the peace negotiations, he replied frankly that he had heard of none.

Notwithstanding the lateness of the hour of Jusserand's departure from the White House, information concerning his conference with the president excited lively interest. In an important quarter the belief was expressed that no differences had arisen in the progress of the negotiations which would amount to a hitch or which could not be smoothed out with tact and earnest persistence on the part of the president.

Direct communication between St. Petersburg and Tokio has not yet been established. The White House is yet the medium for all communications between the two capitals. Important details remain to be agreed upon before the plenipotentiaries of the belligerents can meet to discuss means of ending the war. There is adequate authority for the statement that there is no actual hitch in the preliminary negotiations. Progress is being made, but it may be several days or even longer before all details for the meeting can be definitely fixed.

Russia regards her consent to appoint plenipotentiaries to discuss means of ending the war as a tentative arrangement. Although the word "plenipotentiaries" is used in the Russian reply, it is understood that their appointment does not commit Russia to any pledge to end the war. Russia's object in appointing these fully-empowered envoys is to find out whether Russia can obtain from Japan peace terms which it is possible for the czar to accept. Japan is naturally cautious, although she too has accepted the president's offer of good will and agreed to appoint plenipotentiaries. The negotiations have progressed far enough for the belligerents to be discussing, through the president as the channel of communication, a suitable place, the number of the negotiators and, what is more important than either, a common basis upon which the plenipotentiaries may meet.

Russia seems to be thoroughly opposed to the suggestion of any place in the far east for a meeting point and it is not believed that Japan's opposition to Paris was at all unexpected in St. Petersburg. Russia has shown strong prefereence for a European capital. Japan's wish is to secure a point free from outside influences. Direct negotiations with Russia has been her demand throughout and hence her original preference for a point in the far east. The Hague, it is believed, would prove fairly acceptable to both.

London on the Anxious Seat

London, June 14.—London is anxiously awaiting the next step in the peace negotiations. Japanese official circles are somewhat pessimistic in the fear that Russia will not accept Japan's demands as a basis for negotiations looking to the settlement of the far eastern question.

ON EXTENSIVE PLAN

Germany Issues Orders For the Fortification of Kiao Chou

DIPLOMATS SPECULATING

Kaiser's Intentions and Further Defenses Talked of by France Call Attention to Unprotected Condition of the Philippines

Berlin, June 14.—An imperial order to fortify Kiao Chou bay, the German concession in the southern part of the Shantung peninsula, has been issued. The extent of the fortifications and the amount to be spent on them are facts which have not been disclosed, but it is probable that the work now contemplated is only the beginning of an extensive plan.

Washington, June 14.—Berlin advices announcing that extensive fortifications are to be erected in Kiao Chou bay have aroused considerable interest here and in diplomatic circles have led to speculation about Germany's intentions. In a conversation last night on this subject, Baron Speck Von Sternberg, the German ambassador, said:

"Plans for the defense of Kiao Chou harbor, which is Germany's naval base in the far east, were drawn up some time ago, in accordance with Germany's agreement with China, which provided for the fortifying of the harbor.

"Lack of funds, however, has made impossible the execution of the project until now, owing to the great amount of money necessary to cover the cost of erecting docks, piers and other landing facilities for trading vessels and junks. Having provided excellent facilities for ships of commerce, attention apparently has now been turned to the fortifications. It is possible that certain changes will be made in the plans, but my idea is that the work will be along the line of the original project.

"The announcement now that the work is to be done shows that the necessary funds have at last been obtained. The appropriation will be used in the construction of forts and their equipment with modern ordnance. I should say the defense would be of the same general character as those at Hong Kong, or the American naval base at Guantanamo. It is, of course, realized that a naval base not defended is almost a handicap, and whatever plans for the work have been approved in Berlin are in accordance with our agreement with China."

It has been reported here for some time that France contemplated further defenses along the coast line of her far eastern provinces, and news was recently received that the plans of the French admiralty for these fortifications were becoming more popular in France, since the sweeping victories of Japan in the present war.

At the navy department the news of Germany's intentions as to Kiou Chou recalled to the officers the unfortified condition of the Philippines, a situation to which Admiral Dewey has frequently called attention, and the hope was expressed that the action of the German government would result in action by congress to meet the needs of the American naval base at Olongapo, plans for the defense of which were prepared long ago by the general board of the navy, of which Admiral Dewey is president.

Oscar to Norwegians

Stockholm, June 14.—King Oscar, in a long and vigorously worded letter to the president of the Norwegian storthing, declares that the accession oath of Norway's king makes it the king's duty not to pass over in silence the pronouncement of the Norwegian council of state on the occasion of the king's veto of the consular bill. The king maintains that he did not overstep his prerogatives under the constitution and says that the duty of exercising his constitutional rights is imposed upon him.

Czar Honors an American

New York, June 14.—In recognition of his services to science generally and to the cause of ethnological research in particular, the Czar of Russia has appointed Morris K. Jessup, president of the natural history museum, a knight of the imperial order of St. Stanislaus of the first class. The insignia of the order has been received by Jessup from the Russian ambassador at Washington.

Confederate Veterans In Wreck

Albion, Ills., June 14.—Three persons were killed and 29 injured in the wreck of a passenger train at Golden Gate. The train was carrying Confederate veterans to the reunion at Louisville. While running at a speed of 50 miles an hour the engine struck a spread rail on a trestle 20 feet high, and the engine and four coaches were overturned and fell to the bottom of the ravine.

Ninety-Cent Gas Near

Boston, June 14.—The Boston Consolidated Gas companies have filed with the gas commissioners an acceptance of the consolidation act, as amended by the recent legislature. The act as amended provides for 90-cent gas for Boston.

Jews Knocked Out In Riot

KILLED BY GAMBLER

Greece Loses Popular Official In Death of Premier Delyannis

Athens, June 14.—Theodore P. Delyannis, the popular premier of Greece, was stabbed and mortally wounded by a gambler named Gherakaris at the main entrance of the chamber of deputies at 5 p. m., yesterday. The premier died within three hours.

The assassin, who was immediately arrested, said he committed the deed in revenge for the stringent measures taken by Delyannis against the gambling houses, all of which were recently closed.

About 20,000 persons followed the body of the premier from the Red Cross station to his late residence. Members of the cabinet and of the chamber of deputies were among the crowd, many of them weeping.

Investigation by the police shows that Gherakaris was recently liberated from prison, having been sentenced to 18 years for the murder of his wife.

"Invaders" Are Repulsed

Fort Hunt, Va., June 14.—The first gun in the defense of Washington was fired by one of the 8-inch batteries of Fort Hunt at 9:11 last night. The target was one of the units of Admiral Dickins' squadron, which appeared to be of the cruiser type. After the initial fire the shooting became general and six minutes was taken up by Fort Washington's 12-inch batteries. Not a reply came from the warship and when the required number of shots from the fort had been fired to constructively put the ship out of action, the firing ceased.

Fort Monroe, Va., June 14.—For the third time within 24 hours battleship Texas, training ship Hartford, and gunboat Hornet were constructively sunk at Fort Monroe at 10 o'clock last night.

Fresh Fight In Quaker City

Philadelphia, June 14.—Amid the cry of "thieves" and "crooks," and under the protection of a squad of police, the committee on street railways of city councils referred to the city solicitor for his opinion as to their legality four bills repealing ordinances granting street car companies the right to use 110 miles of street to lay tracks without the city receiving any compensation for the franchises. The "repealers" were introduced at the instance of Mayor Weaver. Another sensation was the arrest of Frank H. Caven, select councilman, on the charge of violating his councilmanic oath by being interested in city contracts. He was held in $10,000 bail for a further hearing.

Burrows' Deportation Ordered

Boston, June 14.—A special board of immigration inspectors gave a hearing to Peter Burrows, the Englishman who returned to America a few days ago and was arrested again, only two months after having been deported from this country. The board decreed that he shall be deported again, and he took an appeal to Washington. The claims of the immigration officials are that he was engaged by the Cocheco Manufacturing company before he left England.

Middy Drowned While Bathing

Annapolis, Md., June 14.—A wireless message was received at the naval academy from the U. S. S. Newark, conveying the news of the death by drowning of Midshipman Vertrees. The Newark is one of the vessels now engaged in the army joint exercises and was at anchor off Hackett's point when young Vertrees was in swimming.

Firebug Again at Work

Boston, June 14.—For the 11th time within eight weeks an incendiary attempted last night to burn the tenement block at 15 Hammond street, Roxbury, containing 12 families. Whether it is the work of boys or a fire fiend is not known. Police of station 10 are conducting a rigid investigation, and so are the state police.

To Advance Price of Cement

Atlantic City, N. J., June 14.—The Association of American Portland Cement Manufacturers of the United States, in convention here, decided by resolution that it will be advisable the ensuing year to make a raise in prices of about 5 percent. The association represents $50,000,000 capital and 30,000,000 barrels of cement.

Grip's "Leave of Absence"

Stockholm, June 14.—The Swedish government has dispatched Gustaf Strale to act as charge of affairs during the absence of Mr. Grip, the present minister at Washington. Grip, as well as Secretary of Legation Hange, are both Norwegians, and the secretary has been granted a temporary leave of absence.

Train Travelled 70.9 Miles an Hour

Buffalo, June 14.—The Lake Shore has established a new record between Chicago and Buffalo. The distance, 526 miles, was covered in 453 minutes, thus beating the world's record of 470 minutes made last Monday. The average speed, deducting for stops, was 70.9 miles an hour.

Tried to Cash Forged Check

New York, June 14.—John Carsons, 20 years old, was held in court here on advices received from New Canaan, Conn., charging him with the larceny of several gold watches and other jewelry. Carsons was arrested while attempting to cash a forged check for $60.

Look to Your Food

IT IS a well known fact that nearly 80 per cent. of the people living in cities are anæmic. Their blood is pale and weak. It is deficient in red blood corpuscles. This condition is due largely to wrong choice and preparation of foods. The necessary food elements are not supplied in correct proportions. What is most generally lacking is iron, which is the only element known to make the red of the blood—its vital property. Apitezo supplies iron in abundance, and of the right kind—organic plant iron, the same as that found in vegetables, such as peas, beans and spinach—not the metallic iron of tonics and tinctures, which harms the teeth and upsets digestion. Apitezo is so perfectly balanced in the necessary food elements as to furnish complete in itself what dietists call "The adequate ration." Apitezo is wholesome, delicious and substantial. It is the unequaled energy food for everybody, every day, while it is actually needed by those whose blood is "short on reds." Apitezo is pre-eminently a red blood builder. It gives strength and rosy health to all; that is why it makes you

THE PERFECT FOOT.

It Is Said to Be Found Only Among American Women.

"The American woman's foot is the prettiest," said the shoemaker. "It is at once slender and robust and very supple. The instep is high and beautiful—in a word, a perfect foot, charming and serviceable alike in a pink satin slipper in a ballroom or in a white rubber soled shoe on a tennis court or in a stout, hobnailed boot on the side of the Jungfrau or the Matterhorn.

"The Frenchwoman's foot comes next. It is long and slender and elegant, but weak, no good for service, very ornamental—a foot for show.

"The Spanish foot is small, and its instep is high and arched. Here, too, there is not enough strength. There is a tendency to softness and in later life to fat.

"The German foot is large, but shapely and strong. It resembles the American foot, only it is much bigger.

"The English foot is the—is the—well, it is the limit! It is long; it is bony; it has no instep; it wears its shoe over on the side. Nowhere in the world will you find a race with such ugly feet as those of the English."—Minneapolis Journal

—Wellesley will build a $100,000 High school on the Moody lot on Kingsbury street.

Meet Postponed.

Because of the lack of entries there will be no athletic meet held by the "Granite City League" at Merrymount park on Saturday, June 17. The athletic committee met a few days ago, and on ratifying the entries found that only a few had been filled, each of which had only one or two competitors. Because of this state of affairs it was decided to postpone the meet until August.

Saved the Day at Gettysburg

Minneapolis, June 14.—Colonel Colville, a hero of the battle of Gettysburg, died suddenly while in attendance on the veterans' reunion here. Colville's leadership of the First Minnesota volunteer regiment at the battle was one of the acts that made the Union victory possible. There were 262 men of the regiment on the field when General Hancock ordered them to charge a division of the rebel army 8000 strong. He did this to gain five minutes' time, until the Union forces could be brought up to keep the rebels from securing a vital position. The 262 Minnesotans made the charge and held the enemy in check until the reinforcements arrived. When the slaughter was over, 215 were dead or wounded on the bloody field.

COST OF SEWERS.

Construction Assessed on Valuation

Maintenance However, on Population.

Basis in Metropolitan District Continues the Same.

The Metropolitan sewer basis of assessment will continue as in the past, the cost of construction being assessed on the valuation of the municipalities, and the cost of maintenance according to population.

Relative to construction the report of the commissioners says:

"We, therefore, determine and award that the several cities and towns in the south metropolitan district shall annually pay into the treasury of the commonwealth for the term of five years, from 1905 to 1909, both inclusive, money to be used to meet sinking fund and interest requirement for each of said years, as estimated by the treasurer of the metropolitan sewerage loan, authorized and issued for the construction of said south metropolitan system; including, also, the interest and sinking fund requirements of the Charles river valley and Neponset valley systems, so called, and any deficiency in the amount previously paid in, as found by said treasurer in accordance with the right-hand column of the following tables:

BATES---METHERALL.

A Pretty Wollaston Wedding in Methodist Church.

A large number of friends assembled at the Wollaston Methodist church Wednesday evening to attend the wedding of two very well known and popular young people of Wollaston. The bride was Miss Eliza Lois Metherall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Metherall, and the groom Mr. Emerson Thayer Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bates.

The wedding ceremony was performed at eight o'clock, the officiating clergyman being the Rev. Mr. Heath, pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith.

The bride looked very charming in her dress of white crepe de chine. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jane Metherall, also gowned in white, as maid of honor, and Misses Louise Bates and Winnifred Backus, gowned in pink, as bridesmaids. The bride was given away by her father.

The groom was attended by Mr. Montgomery Winship as best man. The ushers were Messrs. Walter Ela, Edward Mitchell, Roscoe Sanders and Raymond Parlin.

The church was beautifully decorated with daisies and potted plants. After the wedding ceremony the bride and groom held a reception to their friends in the church vestry.

Mr. and Mrs. Bates left for Lake Winnepesaukee where they will spend the summer. In the fall they will make their home at Concord, N. H.

Dewson-Forbush.

Quaint old First church, of Cohasset, was beautiful on Wednesday, in its decorations of yellow and white flowers, daisies being used profusely, for the wedding of Miss Maria Forbush and Mr. George Badger Dewson, of Quincy. Miss Mary Dewson was maid of honor, and then were two bridesmaids all in yellow. Col. F. S. Billings, of Woodstock, Vt., was best man. The church was filled with friends of the bride, and groom, a special car bringing down the Quincy and Boston friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewson are to spend the summer at their cottage on the Jerusalem road, Cohasset, returning to Boston in the fall.

Patch—Keene.

At the home of ex-Representative Walter S. Keene of Stoneham Wednesday evening was solemnized the wedding of his daughter Nellie I. and Mr. Claude E. Patch, son of Prof. Edgar L. Patch also of Stoneham. Mr. and Mrs. Patch are to reside at No. 44 Bigelow street, Quincy; Mr. Patch holding a responsible position in the estimating department of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company.

A HOLIDAY GAME.

The Old Rivals—Quincys and South Quincys to Meet.

What should prove to be one of the best games of the season will be played Saturday morning between the Quincys and South Quinys at the Ward 3 playground, game to be called at 9.45.

The South Quincy team have been playing the article of ball this season that makes them a dangerous opponent for any of the strong semi-professional teams in this state.

Patterson who last season proved himself to be one of the best pitchers in New England, will be in the box for South Quincy, and this younster has always proved a stumbling block for the opposing batsmen.

Manager Maggiani has decided on making quite a few changes in his team, and a number of new faces will wear a South Quincy uniform.

While little is known as to the makeup of the Quincy team, it is learned from good authority that Manager Flynn has strengthened the team and it will be stronger than in 1903 when the team won the championship in the Quincy league. He will give no information as to who the new players are, being content to say that an exciting game should be the result.

In the past, when these two teams have met, a fast game has been witnessed and Saturday's game should be a record breaker so far as the size of the crowd is concerned. It is a good holiday morning attraction and undoubtedly anyone journeying to South Quincy will go away satisfied that they have witnessed a good game.

Commencement Concert.

The annual commencement concert given by the pupils from the pianoforte, vocal, and violin classes, held at the Quincy Mansion School, Wednesday evening was an enjoyable event. The music was pleasing and showed clearly what excellent training the pupils have had.

Wollaston Picnic.

The seventh grade of the Wollaston school went on a picnic Tuesday. Thirty-seven children were present. The picnic party went to the beautiful spot called Pine Hill Ridge, off Beale street. Mr. Finch, the principal, was the guest of honor. The supper was served at six o'clock. Two table-cloths were spread on the grass. This rustic table was prettily decorated with ferns, daisies, buttercups and fleur-de-lis. A large green fern was put at each place. After lunch, ice cream was served. The picnic closed with three cheers for Miss Blair, the teacher, and Mr. Finch, their principal.

STATE BOARD.

The Guests of the Quincy Y. M. C. A.

Were Entertained at a Dinner.

The New Association Plant Receives Favorable Comments.

By invitation of the local board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association, the State Executive Committee of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Associations held their regular June meeting in the new building on Washington street, and 4.30 o'clock on Wednesday.

On the way to the building, the party visited the tomb of the Presidents which proved of great interest to the visitors The local board held a special meeting at 5.30, at which time the budget for the fiscal year was presented by the finance committee. The budget was adopted with slight changes, and committees appointed for the year.

The expense of running the work for the year is estimated at $7,500, of which $3,000 will be raised by subscription. $1,000 additional was added to the total budget to be applied to the outstanding mortgage on the building, making the total budget $8,500.

The directors will raise $1,000 among themselves as a starter, leaving but $3,000 to raise outside. An immediate canvass will be made for this amount that it may be disposed of this summer and the energies of the board given to the general work in the fall.

At 6.30 o'clock the directors and their guests gathered in the hall for dinner which was beautifully and bountifully served by a committee of the Women's Auxiliary.

After the dinner a brief time was spent in speeches and a tour about the building. The visitors left by the 8.13 train for Boston.

All commented favorably on the beauty and practical features of the building, several stating that it was the most complete and practical plant they had seen for the money expended.

Those present from out of town were:
D. Chauncy Brewer, of Boston.
Preston B. Keith, Brockton.
F. P. Shumway, Melrose.
S. B. Carter, Boston.
Hon. Frederick Fosdick, Fitchburg.
Judge Hitchcock, Springfield.

A. W. Hall, Winchester.
E. D. Pease, Fall River.
A. C. Stone, Chelsea.
F. O. Winslow, Norwood.
A. S. Johnson, Boston.
E. F. Green, Newton.

And the State employed force: R. M. Armstrong, State secretary; D. L. Rogers, field secretary; C.A. Coburn, financial secretary; A. G. Bookwalter, educational and college work secretary; and H. W. Gibson, boys' work secretary.

Fourteen of the local board were present.

The Glad Hand.

Bradley Lincoln of Cleveland, Ohio, who has been a guest of Walter Nichols of Botolph street this week, has according to his own phrasing, "taken the town by storm." If all Atlantic's young men could branch out and from the life of school boys be, as Mr. Lincoln is, freight agent of the L. S. & M. S. railway in Cleveland, with every chance of advancement for a lad who is promising, the town would have need to be proud of its "young blood." During his short stay in Atlantic, Mr. Lincoln has called on all his old friends making in one day sixteen calls in an hour. He carries the cordiality of the west with him and he found no less cordiality in Atlantic, where as a boy he was very popular with old and young.

GEYSER IN STREET

Big Fifty-Year-Old Water Main Bursts at Boston

NEW SUBWAY IS FLOODED

Men at Work In It Had Barely Time to Escape With Their Lives--Water at Times Shot Seventy Feet Into the Air

Boston, June 15.—With a roar that could be heard for several blocks, a 50-year-old, 24-inch water main, in the new section of the subway on Washington street in front of The Globe building, broke a little before 9 o'clock last night, tearing up about five feet of the planking, sending a geyser more than 50 feet in the air, and causing excitement in general for more than an hour before the water was finally shut off.

Engineer Stearns of the transit commission and his assistant, working within three feet of where the pipe broke, barely had time to get out of the hole, leaving their tools behind, while Foreman O'Connell, for Coleman Bros., the contractors, and 10 of his men had to rush for their lives to get out of the hole ahead of the onrush of water.

That there was no loss of life is due to the fact that the men were working at the end of the section nearest to the entrance from the street. If they had been at the end nearest where the break occurred the 13 men would not have been able to get out alive.

The part of the subway where the break occurred is but five feet deep, having been excavated only enough to allow the workmen to work underneath after the planking had been laid down. This five-foot trench runs from in front of 260 Washington street to 252 Washington, where it drops into a hole 14 feet deep.

The water department was immediately notified and within half an hour a gang of men were on the scene. It was half an hour more before the water was finally shut off. It was necessary to shut off the water at seven gates.

In the meantime the water rushed out, at times going as high as 70 feet in the air, and spraying the buildings on both sides of the street. The news of the break travelled fast, and within a few minutes the ordinary crowd that frequents Newspaper Row was augmented by more than 1000.

Police were early on the scene, and the street was roped off. Water Commissioner Sullivan immediately started an investigation.

Range-Finders Supplant Guns

New York, June 15.—Orders have been received at the New York navy yard from the navy department at Washington to remove the guns from the fighting tops of the battleship Alabama and the battleship Indiana. It is reported that the guns are to be replaced by range-finders and that similar orders are to be issued regarding other battleships. The news of the victory of Admiral Togo is said to have influenced the decision to put range-finders in place of the one-pounders which have occupied the tops.

Parents Killed--Sons Fatally Hurt

Middletown, N. Y., June 15.—An automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sayer and their two sons was struck by an Erie train near Goshen. Mr. and Mrs. Sayer were instantly killed and their sons fatally injured. The chauffeur saved his life by jumping before the train struck the automobile. Several persons called to the party not to attempt to cross the tracks ahead of the train. Witnesses declare that Sayer, however, ordered the chauffeur to proceed.

Duchess Gets Back Stolen Jewels

Cambridge, Eng., June 15.—All the jewels of the Duchess of Westminster, of which she was robbed, and which are estimated to be worth $80,000, have been recovered. They were buried in a field two miles out of town. A former night watchman at Grosvenor house confessed the theft and detectives came here and arrested an accomplice, who conducted them to the place where the jewelry was hidden.

Preserving Dignity of the Flag

New York, June 15.—New legislation in four states to prevent desecration of the American flag was the record of part of the year's work reported at the annual meeting of the American association in this city. The states in which the laws protecting the flag from desecration have been secured since the association began its work in 1897 number 32.

England Sticks to France

Fez, Morocco, June 15.—Great Britain's reply to the sultan's invitation to that country to join an international conference on the Moroccan situation consists of a categorical refusal. This is quite unmistakeable in terms, showing the loyalty of Great Britain to her agreement with France. The reply of Germany accepts the invitation.

War on Yellow Fever

Panama, June 15.—In order to facilitate the sanitation of Panama, Colonel Gorgas, the chief sanitary officer of the canal zone, has divided the city into eight districts, each in charge of a local physician, who will report any suspected cases of yellow fever. All the houses in Panama are being fumigated.

VAST GRAFT REVEALED

British Stores Valued at More Than $30,000,000 Involved

London, June 15.—A blue book, containing the report of the war office committee, headed by Lieutenant General Butler, has been issued. It fully confirms the forecast of the report cabled abroad, showing that the improper disposal of military stores at the conclusion of the South African war had revealed a huge scandal.

The report censures a number of officers, who are alleged to have worked in collusion with contractors. The latter bought stores at absurdly low prices and afterwards resold them to the military authorities at enormous profits.

The value of the stores involved in these transactions is between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000. The officers involved all belong to the army service corps and pay department.

To Appeal to High Court

New York, June 15.—Secretary McAllister of the American Tobacco company was adjudged guilty of contempt in the United States circuit court for having refused to answer questions before the federal grand jury in connection with the investigation of the so-called tobacco trust and was fined $5. Judge Lacombe ordered that McAllister be taken into custody by Marshal Henkel until such time as he purges himself of the contempt by answering the questions and producing the books and papers. McAllister furnished $1000 bail for his appearance pending an appeal to the United States supreme court.

A Money Order Swindler

Pittsburg, June 15.—John M. Reed, one of three men arrested here on the charge of altering, raising and forging United States postal money orders, has admitted that his name is John Wilson and that he had served three years in the Chicago penitentiary. Wilson has operated in almost every city of importance in the United States. The accused, in default of $2000 bail each, were committed to jail for trial.

Startling Stories Did Not Materialize

Chicago, June 15.—John C. Driscoll, the much desired witness in the bribery investigation conducted by the state attorney and the grand jury in connection with strike troubles in Chicago, appeared before the inquisitors for three hours. The proceedings were kept secret, but it is said that Driscoll did not tell all the startling stories of corruption accrediated to him.

Bank President In Court

St. Paul, June 15.—Thomas B. Clement, president of the defunct First National bank of Faribault, was arraigned in court here and pleaded not guilty to 18 counts of the indictments against him. He entered a demurrer to the other counts on the ground that they charged more than one offense. His trial was set for June 21.

Will Again Brave Dangers

St. Johns, June 15.—Dillon Wallace of New York, who two years ago accompanied Leonidas Hubbard on his expedition to Labrador, where the latter perished of hunger, started today by mail boat from here with four companions, intending to penetrate the wilderness again beyond the furthest point of the former journey.

Minister's Unlucky Horse Sale

Asbury Park, N. J., June 15.—Before the Reformed church synod, Rev. S. Koster of Hull, Ia., whose pastoral relations were severed owing to the charges connected with a horse sale and who took the matter to the general synod, withdrew the appeal. The synod, however, confirmed the decision of dismissal.

Serious Explosion on Battleship

Gibraltar, June 15.—During gun practice on board the British first-class battleship Magnificent off Tetuan, a six-inch shell exploded. Eighteen men were wounded, 11 of them seriously. Four officers are among the seriously wounded. The explosion was due to a defect in the breach. The shell burst inside the gun.

Double Tragedy Due to Drink

Elmira, N. Y., June 15.—Robert Hagardorn, 30 years old, shot his mother four times, fatally wounding her, at their home near Almond. A brother interfered when Robert put a bullet into his own temple, dying instantly. He had been drinking and his mother remonstrated with him.

Amateur Shot Beat All Records

Durham, N. C., June 15.—During a contest here between trap-shooters representing Virginia and North Carolina, Collins of North Carolina, amateur, beat all records, both amateur and professional, in five regular events of 20 targets, making 99 out of a possible 100.

Successful Test of Airship

Berlin, June 15.—Count Zeppelin has constructed a new airship with which he has made a successful trial trip, sailing from Manzell, on the north shore of Lake Constance, to Romanshorn, on the south shore of the lake, in three hours.

Grafter Gets His Freedom

St. Louis, June 15.—All the charges of perjury and bribery against Charles F. Kelly, former speaker of the house of delegates, have been nolle prosequied because Kelly had been used by the state and is physically and mentally run down.

ONE POINT AT ISSUE

Place of Meeting of Peace Envoys Not Yet Decided

WASHINGTON IS FAVORED

The Hague or Geneva, However, May Be Final Selection--President May Name the Place In Case of a Deadlock

Washington, June 15.—Gradually the negotiations for peace in the far east are nearing a focus. The one point to which the energies of those directly concerned in them are being directed is the choice of a place for the holding of the conference of the plenipotentiaries of the belligerent powers.

It is known officially that three cities are now under consideration by Russia and Japan. These cities, named in the order of the likelihood of their final selection, are Washington, The Hague and Geneva. Thus far no decision has been reached. Paris and London have been eliminated from the equation.

It is understood that the Russian government objects to an Asiatic city, its preference being for some European capital. After objecting to the holding of the conference in Paris, the Japanese government expressed a willingness to consider other places which afforded adequate facilities, although it is assured that Japan's preference would be some far eastern city, practically within the theatre of war.

Finally, however, the selection seems to have narrowed down to the three cities named. Objections have been made by the Japanese to The Hague, but it is not believed that those objections are fundamental or unalterable. However, as the situation now is, Washington appears to be the city most likely to be selected. It can be said on authority that if the conference is held in the United States it will be in Washington. No other place in this country has been considered seriously.

An announcement of the selection of the place for holding the conference is expected within a few days. Thus far President Roosevelt has acted merely as an intermediary between Russia and Japan in the conduct of the negotiations regarding the selection of a place of conference. He is in no sense of the term an arbiter in the matter and, at this time, there is no probability that he will be the arbiter. It is expected that Russia and Japan will be able to reach an agreement without the assistance of an arbiter. Should a deadlock ensue—a condition that is regarded as quite unlikely—it is not improbable that the president may be requested by the two powers to name the place of conference.

After the selection of the place of meeting of the plenipotentiaries, the two governments will name those who are to represent them, respectively, at the conference. Then an armistice between the contending armies in the field will be arranged and, pending the result of the peace conference, the great armies facing each other in Manchuria will lie on their arms awaiting the final signal from their governments.

Czar Will Remain In Seclusion

St. Petersburg, June 15.—The court is about to remove from Tsarskoe-Selo to Peterhof, where the czar and his immediate family will occupy the Little Palace for the remainder of the summer. This palace is situated in the corner of the vast park where there are famous fountains, which, with the military music, attract immense crowds. The palace, however, is tucked away in the corner of the park and, as it is surrounded by high walls, is inaccessable to the public.

Britain Angry at Russians

London, June 15.—Considerable anger has been created in shipping circles as a result of the sinking of the British steamer St. Kilda by the Russian auxiliary cruiser Dnieper in the China sea. The foreign office has been bombarded with telegrams, urging that action in the matter be taken. The foreign office is awaiting details, but in the meantime has drawn the attention of the Russian government to the reports so far received.

Big Orders For Ammunition

Berlin, June 15.—The Russian war office invited proposals from German ammunition works this week for 200,000,000 cartridges and also for considerable quantities of regulation infantry rifles. The largest arms and ammunition factory in Germany has been obliged to decline contracts because it already has orders far ahead from several foreign governments. Upwards of 125,000 persons are now employed in the various German small arms and gun factories.

Suggestive Newspaper Article

St. Petersburg, June 15.—A liberal paper, without mentioning Rear Admiral Nebogatoff, prints prominently a translation of Daudet's historical sketch of John Byng, the English admiral, who, in 1757, was shot on the quarterdeck of his own ship for cowardice.

Fruitless Strike Conference

Spring Hill, N. S., June 15.—A conference took place between a committee representing the men and the manager of the mines here, but it was without result, both parties having taken a determined stand. Twelve hundred men are out.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.
Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.
The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleaning the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

West Quincy people are pleased with the improved train service on the Granite branch.

Sun rises at 4.07, and sets at 7.23, making the days 15 hours, and 11 minutes long.

The store building at the corner of Willard and Crescent streets is being altered over into a dwelling house.

The Quincy foot ball club will tender a reception to Councilman W. T. Spargo at Malnati hall next Tuesday evening, previous to his departure abroad.

Frank W. Jones has been appointed manager of the Quincy Column Turning Co. plant. It has recently been thoroughly rebuilt and new machinery installed.

Miss Esther D. McDonnell, of Elm street, is at the Carney Hospital, Boston, where she has undergone an operation. Her many friends will be pleased to hear that she is doing well, and will soon be home again.

A Thanksgiving Wedding.

A Thanksgiving wedding which will come as a surprise was announced today, friends having received cards from Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, giving the news of the marriage on Nov. 24 of Mr. Everett O. Eastwood of that city and Mrs. Effie L. Rhines of Miller Stile road, Quincy. Mr. Eastwood was recently employed at the office of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company in this city, and Mrs. Rhines has held a responsible position at the National Mount Wollaston bank, and her services have been in demand as accompanist at entertainments and dances. If the marriage means that the future home of Mrs. Eastwood will be in the Keystone state her many friends will greatly miss her, but unite in extending best wishes.

Clam Digging.

There should be a law preventing clam diggers from extracting their treasures along the Atlantic bathing beach. The space for this latter enjoyment is narrow enough as it is, without having great black holes yawning under the water to catch the swimmer unawares when he tries to regain his footing. There are enough places in which to dig clams where the holes will not interfere with anyone's comfort. Why is it that the very spot where one should not unearth the hard shell martyrs is the one place which everyone chooses? The complaint over this grievance is general and keen, especially among the young women who do not venture out far enough to escape the pitfalls.

CHINESE BOYCOTT

President Has Made a Study of the Matter

A LETTER ON EXCLUSION

Arousing of Antagonism by Way of Immigration Service Will Kill Business For American Mills--Campaign In China to Bring America to Terms

Washington, June 15.—President Roosevelt's letter to Secretary Metcalf regarding Chinese exclusion laws, though not published, is known to be characteristically vigorous. The president has followed these cases of harsh treatment to high-class Chinese closely and he has been made "indignant," to use his own word. He asks Secretary Metcalf to find a way to stop the constant recurrence of such episodes. The one at Boston the other day is not regarded as by any means the worst. In fact, the immigration officers extended many personal courtesies to mitigate the severities of the law.

But the president is weary of such occurrences. He realizes that Metcalf's department, established at great expense for the promotion of American commerce and about to send special agents out to stimulate American trade, can, by arousing Chinese antagonism through its immigration service, kill more business for American mills than artificial means of inflation can accomplish in a century.

No decision has yet been reached at the immigration office as to whether this "tip" from headquarters shall be communicated to the agents along the boundary in the form of an amended regulation, or by an official note suggesting more intelligent personal discretion. The immigration service clings to the law, and clearly justifies itself on that basis.

Secretary Metcalf suggests to the president that the diminution of these cases might only be obtained by going to congress. When the treaty was terminated last winter by the Chinese government, the department of commerce, through the state department, suggested that Pekin should designate some person in each capital who should be entitled to issue the certificates required by law for such travelers as those who recently came to Boston.

The Chinese government has never done so, presumably because it is not interested in making our present laws more palatable. If the Chinese minister in London, when this recent case arose, had cabled his government requesting his designation for this purpose, these Chinese people could have come to Boston properly equipped. Instead of that, they came with a personal note from Joseph H. Choate, it is said, after he had ceased to be our ambassador.

But this made no difference, since section six of the act of 1884 specifies that no Chinese person shall be admitted without the certificate, the details of which it sets forth as "the sole evidence permissible on the part of persons so producing the same to establish a right of entry into the United States."

Evidence accumulates of a vigorous campaign in China to bring America to terms through the boycott suggested by Wu Ting Fang, former minister here, who went home convinced that the way to reach American sentiment was by touching the pocket nerve. Minister Rockhill finds the Chinese alarmed over the popular report that more drastic laws have been adopted against them. Chinese newspapers are refusing to advertise American goods, showing that a real fight is on.

The president's letter to Metcalf must rank with his reinstatement of Foreman Miller at the government printing office and his rebuke to the Chicago teamsters, as most courageous expressions of defiance to certain dictates of organized labor.

Ex-Senator Wilson of Washington, the owner of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, who was at the White House yesterday, said, in discussing this affair, that the business with China on the Pacific coast was growing with sensational rapidity. Shipments out of the Puget sound in May aggregated $6,000,000. He declared that if a boycott were actually made effective it would provoke some change in sentiment on the coast regarding the rigors of the present exclusion law, or at least a division of sentiment there. The labor unionists have heretofore looked upon a Californian at the head of the department as an additional source of their strength, assuming that Pacific coast sentiment was unanimous.

Labor Considers Chinese Exclusion

Scranton, Pa., June 15.—At the third day's session of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor here, discussion arose relative to a matter of an alleged attempt being made to nullify the Chinese exclusion law. President Gompers, Vice President O'Connell and Secretary Morrison were appointed a committee to wait upon President Roosevelt to present to him this subject.

Winged by Chief of Police

Williston, N. D., June 15.—A man upon whose person were found a number of letters postmarked Detroit and addressed to Henry Wandrel, Great Falls, Mont., was shot and killed here by Chief of Police Markell. The man had been terrorizing the crew of a freight train by shooting at them.

Question of Separate Schools Is Agitating a Bay State Town

Harwich, Mass., June 15.—The proposition which has been agitated here recently to establish separate schools for the Brava children, as the Cape Verde colored Portuguese children are called, provoked an animated discussion at an adjourned special town meeting. It was finally voted to refer the matter to the next annual town meeting, which will be held next February.

For several months past separate schools for the colored Portuguese children have been agitated by a great proportion of the white residents of this town. There are a great many natives of the Cape Verde islands living in the town, and those who favor separate schools have argued that the interests of both the whites and the negroes will be served better if the children of each race be separated. The adherents to the separate school idea claim that racial prejudice has nothing to do with the matter, the efficiency of the schools being the only issue.

Drowned In Peculiar Manner

Boston, June 15.—Howard M. Wallace, aged 11, had been allowed to leave the Dearborn school at 2:30 yesterday on account of his good behavior and his proficiency in his examinations, and went fishing and bathing in the South bay. Someone had thrown an old chair into the water, and Howard, swimming to it, seated himself in it, and was enjoying the novel sensation of rocking on the water, when his feet became caught in the rungs. In trying to free himself he lost his balance and fell in the mud, where he stuck and was drowned.

Society Man a Suicide

Providence, June 15.—The sequel to the suicide of Irving H. Potter, the former society man, whose body was found in the Pawtucket river, was furnished when it became known that he was a defaulter with the firm for which he had worked for 25 years. Confronted with exposure and punishment for his crime, he chose death. Potter was employed as a bookkeeper for the firm of Oliver Johnson & Co. He disappeared from his home and later his hat and overcoat were found in a canoe that he had hired.

The Case of Sergeant Gordon

Cambridge, Mass., June 15.—Mayor Daly announces that he will take up the charges against Police Sergeant Gordon, made at a meeting of the board of aldermen. The resolutions passed charged Gordon with procuring false evidence before the grand jury in connection with the recent indictments charging registration frauds, and that he had made false certification of his payroll. The hearing will begin this evening at the city hall.

Fishermen's Complaint Heeded

Newport, R. I., June 15.—Rear Admiral Evans, commanding the north Atlantic squadron, has received orders from the navy department to discontinue the use of the waters around Woods Hole and No Man's Land as a place of target practice for the warships in this vicinity. Fishermen who frequented those waters claimed that the use of the big guns killed and drove away the fish.

Comstock's Lost Securities

Boston, June 15.—Henry W. Comstock, who reported to the police last Monday that he had been robbed while on his way to this city from New York of securities amounting to $112,500, says that he has not yet recovered his property, but that the situation is being handled to the satisfaction of all concerned. He declines to say what action, if any, has been taken in the matter.

New Yale College In China

New Haven, June 15.—Intelligence has been received at Yale that the governor of the province of Hunan, China, has given permission for the establishment of the new Yale college at Chengsha, in that province, which hitherto has been unfavorable to foreign enterprises, including missions. The result was brought about by the good offices of Yale graduates in China.

Strike Satisfactorily Settled

East Brookfield, Mass., June 15.—The strike at the Mansfield Woolen mill, which has been in progress for the past few days, affecting 250 operatives, has been settled and the operatives will return to work Monday. The terms of the settlement are not made public, but are said to be satisfactory to all concerned.

Death Watch Over Mrs Rogers

Windsor, Vt., June 15.—Mrs. Mary Rogers probably knows by this time what her fate is to be, as a death watch has been put in front of her cell by Superintendent Lovett. She will not be formally notified that all efforts in her behalf have come to naught until a day or two before the execution.

Reward For News of Hawley

Newtown, Conn., June 15.—A reward of $200 has been offered by Mrs. Julia Hawley for information that will lead to the finding of her son, Curtis Hawley, who escaped from the keeper of a sanitarium while visiting at his home in Sandy Hook village.

Brother and Sister Slain

Valdosta, Ga., June 15.—What is believed to be the sequel of a feud of long standing has resulted here in the assassination of the 17-year-old son and the 16-year-old daughter of W. L. Carter, formerly a Baptist minister. The police arrested Jesse, Milton and Leonard Rawlings, and two negroes, charged with the crime. A coroner's jury returned a verdict laying the crime to the Rawlings.

Lawyer Misappropriated $60,000

London, June 15.—Five years' imprisonment was imposed on Alfred Fossick, a lawyer, who was found guilty of misappropriating $60,000. During the trial Mrs. James Brown Potter, the actress, testified that Fossick, as her lawyer, undertook to raise from his clients a $65,000 mortgage on her property at Maidenhead. The money was required to work the Savoy theatre. Mrs. Potter said she never knew that Fossick was personally advancing the funds.

A Ray of Hope For "Bluebeard"

Chicago, June 15.—The case of Johann Hoch, who was sentenced to be hanged June 23 for the murder of one of his numerous wives, may be taken to the supreme court of Illinois. Governor Deneen says that in case the state attorney's office is assured by June 21 that sufficient money is forthcoming to provide for the preparation of the necessary record, a reprieve will be granted until the October term of the supreme court. The sum needed is $700.

Congratulations For Alfonso

Madrid, June 15.—The chamber, after unanimously adopting a motion expressing indignation over the attempt on the lives of King Alfonso and President Loubet during the king's visit to Paris, appointed a deputation to congratulate the king on his escape.

NEWS IN BRIEF

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Chic Blouse Made In One Piece by Martha Dean—No. 6311

Embroidered effects are the keynote of this season's styles, and hats, coats, gowns and stocks show the effect of this latest fancy. To be sure, patterns—and many of them strikingly effective—may be bought ready for the dressmaker's scissors, but the girl who has nimble fingers and ideas of her own prefers to purchase the material, have it stamped with a design which appeals to her personally and then introduce her favorite stitches. This greatly reduces the cost of a blouse, is exceedingly simple and really takes but little time, as the mercerized cotton used in such work fills very rapidly. A plain background shows the work to better advantage than a more elaborate model, and the shirt waist illustrated is particularly good for this purpose. A broad box plait, tapering at the waist line, gives shape to the back, while the front has a slight blouse. The box plait may or may not be used, depending on the width of material employed in the construction. As there is no underarm seam, some widths require seaming in the back, and the box plait is then applied to cover the seam. Butchers' linen, crash, pique or lawn are materials which are very popular and well adapted for the pattern illustrated, while the colors should be those likely to stand wear and washing without losing any of their original brilliancy. This pattern is in sizes from 32 to 42 inches bust measure.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6311, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

Too Much Danger.

Boys who were amusing themselves Wednesday evening by throwing torpedoes on the car-track and under horses' feet came near causing a serious accident. Just as a carriage came along Washington street, near Edison park, some boys appeared and threw a torpedo under the horse's feet. Of course the horse became almost unmanageable, and as an automobile came along at the same time, the driver found it difficult to avoid a bad smash-up. These boys better find some other means of amusement while on the streets, or else remain in their homes at night.

Harbor Commissioner.

There is a possibility that George H. Wilson may yet receive the appointment on the Harbor and Land Commission. A dispatch in a morning paper says that Capt. John J. Flaherty who was appointed by Gov. Douglas may not accept. He finds that the duties of the office will take too much time, and that he could not fill its duties without sacrifices in other respects. He has until July 1 within which to make up his mind.

ROCK AND A WHIP.

As Well as Fists Used in a Fight on Granite Street.

A one-round scrap was fought to a finish on Granite street this morning, between a carpenter and a painter. As there had been no preliminary announcement of the affair there was not a large audience. There were quite a few spectators, however, who had an unobstructed view.

The row is said to have originated from a dispute over a bill which one of the participants claimed the other owed him.

The argument began quietly, but rapidly grew to fever heat. Then it is alleged that the carpenter seized a rock and gave the painter one that caused the blood to flow.

Upon this the painter seized a whip from the carpenter's wagon, and gave the latter a blow with the butt end, following it up with his fist.

It is said the carpenter soon tired of the punishment he was receiving, and jumping on his team drove rapidly away.

The second round will probably be fought in court with Judge Avery as referee.

Please forward Herald coupons without delay. Friday will be the last day.

Flag.

The 128th anniversary of the birth of the American flag was fittingly observed at the home of Mrs. Jennie Ewell, Wednesday, June 14, being also the 33d anniversary of Mrs. Ewell's marriage. All were invited to come early and take dinner with her. The house was prettily decorated with flags and cut flowers. Twenty-four Corps members were present, also several other ladies and children.

The program under direction of Mrs. Eliza Penniman, patriotic instructor, was as follows: Reading of Scripture, Mrs. Penniman; Lord's Prayer; Singing, "Star Spangled Banner" by the Corps; reading sketches of victory of flag, Mrs. Eliza Penniman, Mrs. Jennie Ewell and Mrs. Mary E. Powers; reading of patriotic poems by Mrs. Isabel Souther and Mrs. Laura Holt; singing, Miss Elvira Ewell; recitation, Miss Mabel Sherwood; singing, little Ramah Baker; recitation by Mrs. Kate A. Hayden; piano solo by Miss Elvira Ewell; reading by Miss Given; recitation by Miss Marian Baker. The exercises closed with Flag Salute and singing America.

In the evening, the ladies through courtesy of Mr. Given visited the Wollaston Yacht Club house. The hall was decorated with flags and bunting. This was a pleasant ending to a delightful day.

AN ANGEL UNAWARES

By KATE M. CLEARY

Copyright, 1905, by Kate M. Cleary

The April downpour was at its fiercest when the knock came to the kitchen door. It was a timid knock—so timid that Nan stood with knife suspended over the pan of apples she was paring, thinking her imagination might have played her a trick. It came again—low, entreating.

The girl crossed to the door and opened it.

"Good land!" she cried. "Come in! You poor little soul, whoever you are, come in!" And out of the blinding rain she caught the little black, shrinking figure and whirled it into the warmth and spicy scent of the big kitchen.

She stood and looked at her unexpected visitor, her gaze a curious blending of amazement and compassion. Such a frail, old figure of a woman. The plain black cashmere gown, the thin shawl, the close little bonnet, all were dripping rain, from the stiff jet spirals ornamenting the bonnet to the hem of the poor skirt. And the face that looked up at Nan, dumb and beseeching, was childishly pathetic in its wistfulness. The woman held a worn bag clutched in one hand.

"I," faltered the stranger deprecatingly—"I got caught in the rain!"

Nan threw back her head and laughed—a girlish laugh, crisp and infectious, and the shriveled countenance of the intruder relaxed into a smile.

"Pardon me," cried Nan, controlling herself; "only it was so evident you had not been under shelter the last hour that I couldn't help laughing. Here, sit down in this rocker near the stove." She deftly unpinned the soaking shawl and removed the pulpy bonnet. "Dear, dear," she exclaimed, "you've no rubbers on! And your feet are dripping! You're just a bundle of wetness! Whatever will I do with you?"

She spoke with the air of solicitude she might have used toward a child. Nan was only seventeen, but she had many burdens on her shoulders, and she bore them with courage. A year ago, when she had graduated from the high school, the hope that she might go to college was strong within her. But her aunt and cousin had condemned her desire and derided her ambition. There was no money to spare for such foolishness. There was work to be done at home.

The latter fact the girl was given no opportunity to doubt. The maid of all work had been dismissed the week of her graduation, and Nan had been installed in her place. And silently, but with fierce inward rebellion, she accepted her duties. But her father had been a man of letters and a professor in a university, and she had inherited his love of learning. So it was with a heavy heart she saw the days slipping by and with them the time she would fain have given to the acquirement of further knowledge. Today many bidden tasks still remained to be accomplished, and here was this forlorn creature on her hands.

"I'm sure I'm sorry to be making you trouble, my dear," piped up the plaintive old voice. "If when after I'm rested a bit you'll be telling me my direction I'll be moving on."

But suddenly she went ghastly white. She caught her hand sharply to her side, and her lips turned blue.

"Here," cried Nan, "take this!" She had gone for a stimulant and was back, holding it pressed to the twitching mouth. The old woman swallowed the liquid and tried to rise.

"Sit still!" commanded Nan. "You're ill! You mustn't stir!"

Nan stood before her, tall and slender in her blue cotton gown, with a big white apron belted in at her waist. The pure pallor of her skin was accented by the blackness of her brows and lashes. Her gray eyes were wide with perplexity.

"Wait a minute," she ordered and went flashing up the back stairs. She reappeared with a load of garments over her arm. "You're such a mite of a thing the clothes that I've outgrown will fit you," she said. "Your bag? Here it is—safe behind you. There!" She worked rapidly as she talked. "Now you're dry and comfortable anyhow, if you do look funny."

The old woman smiled up at her gratefully. She did look funny in the schoolgirl gown of red, but the color had come into her cheeks, and her chilled feet were growing warm in the dry stockings and slippers.

"Now I'll make you some tea and toast," declared Nan, hanging the wet clothes to dry. "And then I must get back to— Good gracious, my cake is burning!"

She was on her knees in a minute and had snatched the oven door wide open. A smoking, blackened mound confronted her. And, as ill luck would have it, at that very moment Helena Burnet, her cousin and mistress of the house owing to the invalidism of Mrs. Burnet, came sailing into the kitchen.

"What's this?" she cried sharply. She was in street attire, but had been well protected from the storm. "Your cake ruined! And that—who is that person?"

Her cheeks scarlet from embarrassment and the heat of the oven, Nan was hastily removing the cake.

"She's an old lady who got caught in the shower," the girl explained nervously. "Did Aunt Ellen come, Helena?"

"No, she didn't," snapped Helena. "I've waited in that drafty depot until I am nearly sick. I suppose you made that chicken broth the way mother says she used to like it?"

"Yes, and the little honey hearts too."

"You've got the spare room all ready, I dare say?"

"Yes. It's clean, and I lit the fire half an hour ago."

"Such a lot of trouble and expense to go to for a foolish old woman," grumbled Miss Burnet. "Mother says she always had as little sense as the law allows. But that doesn't alter the fact that she is coming to spend her few remaining years with us and that she has $60,000 to leave. I suppose she will land here tomorrow, and we'll have this bother all over again. Well, I'll spend $100 on mourning for her when I inherit it!"

"She will never leave me anything," averred Nancy Goodwin. "My mother did not marry to please her, and Aunt Ellen never forgave her. But"—briskly buttering some fresh toast—"if she ever were to remember me I'd"—

"Go to college, I presume!" ended Helena contemptuously.

"Yes, that I would!" rejoined Nan resolutely. "There's no hope of that!" she sighed. "Now, try to eat a few mouthfuls of this and drink your tea."

Helena stared from her cousin to the strange guest and back again.

"Do you mean to say you've gone out of your head, wasting good food on a tramp?" she shrieked.

"Hush!" begged Nan, trembling with mortification. "You will hurt her feelings!"

"Feelings, indeed!" She glared at the stranger. "The rain is over now. She can go about her business."

Nan stood before her cousin.

"She is sick and cold. She can't go out of the house tonight. Let her sleep in my bed. I'll make up a shake down on the cot." Then, hurriedly, as she saw angry refusal in the other's eyes, "Don't make me leave you if you value my work!"

"What do you mean?"

"Only that Mrs. Hunter across the street has offered me $10 a week as housekeeper in her home. I would have no more labor there than here, where I am paid nothing. And I shall accept her offer today if you make me turn this poor old creature out!"

"Well, I declare!" ejaculated Miss Burnet. But, aware that Nan was quite capable of doing what she threatened, she made a tempestuous exit from the kitchen. Overcoming her apologetic objections, Nan assisted the old woman up the stairs. On the second floor they passed a bright room, hung with rosy chintzes, with a jolly fire rollicking in the grate.

"I wish I might take you in there," she whispered. "But that is intended for Mrs. Franklyn, who is coming to stay here. You shall have her chicken broth, though," said the girl determinedly. "She can't need it any more than you do."

And when she had tucked the feeble body into her own narrow bed she brought the chicken broth. But that night when the dishes were washed the girl climbed to her room she found her protegee very ill. She was feverish, and the pain in her side was worse. Occasionally she lapsed into delirium. Nan was frightened, and as the woman grew worse she sped down the stairs and across the street for Dr. Meeker.

"Pneumonia," he said. "Exposure, eh? I thought so. Practically hopeless. What's that, eh? You want a lawyer?" He bent to listen. "Poor soul, what have you to will?"

"John Meeker," she panted, "don't you know me?"

"I'm young Dr. Meeker. John Meeker is my father. I'm trying to be as good a man. If I can build up his practice that had fallen off I hope to make a home for this little girl here."

The old woman smiled and nodded.

"You'll get me a lawyer maybe if you know that I am Ellen Franklyn. No, don't call the others. Helena is like her mother, cold and selfish. I heard her for myself today."

The physician did what he could and hastened away. His experienced eye told him she had been ill several days and that the exposure of the afternoon was hastening the climax. The lawyer returned with him, and the household was aroused. The old woman chuckled, exhausted, but triumphant, as she fell back after signing the will.

"I've left Helena a hundred dollars to buy that mourning she was so set on," she whispered. "You can get your learning while he's making the home for you. 'Twas the fine fellow his father was, I mind well."

And not all the wrath or lamentations of Helena Burnet and her mother availed to impeach the validity of the will, which left the property of Ellen Franklyn to Nancy Goodwin.

"I shan't hold you to your promise now, dear," Charlie Meeker said when he came to see the girl off to the university. "You are an heiress now. Everything is different."

"That isn't different!" she replied, with emphasis. "You loved me when I was a common drudge. You mustn't stop loving me now that I am going to fit myself to be a wife of whom you may be proud."

He smiled down at her.

"My dear, my dear," he said, "a prince might be proud of you. Here's the train."

Counterfeiters and Weddings.

The marriage of convenience is an institution among criminals, at least in England. In a recent case in London a detective testified that it was common for counterfeiters to marry women solely for the purpose of passing bad coins on the public. These marriages are not contracted from any feelings of mutual attraction or even trade partnership, but in the belief that juries have a reluctance in convicting wives.

Monatiquot Lodge, Braintree.

Monatiquot lodge, No. 83, Knights of Phythias held a roll call of its members last Monday evening and it was the grandest convention ever held by the lodge. D. D. G. C., Thomas Fallon and Grand Vice-Chancellor John P. Scott were present and made fitting remarks. Others present were Brother Maynard of America lodge, the blind musician, also several brothers of Marathon lodge as well as brothers from the Grand Domani of New Hampshire and New York.

Brother Maynard entertained the lodge in a manner which words cannot express and the members who did not attend do not know what they missed.

Every member is requested to be present next Monday evening, June 19. They are also requested to take up the Grand Chancellor's motto, "Do something."

The lodge is invited to attend the wedding reception of our Vice Chancellor Waldo B. Fay to be held at Brookline Wednesday evening, June 21.

JULIA WARD HOWE

The graduating exercises at the Quincy Mansion school Thursday afternoon were exceedingly interesting. Not only were the singing and essays above the average, but the whole atmosphere of culture and refinement was helpful and pleasant.

The crowning event of the day was the presence and address of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. In the natural course of events opportunity to listen to this rare gifted woman will be less and less. All felt a deep sense of gratitude to her for the effort she made to be present. She spoke as usual wisely and wittily, taking the class motto "Now is the time for action," as her theme.

Not only were Mrs. Howe's words appreciated, but it was pleasant to listen to graduating exercises where the graduates take part. The modern custom of relegating them to the part of mere figure-heads, is not always the best for the school or the students. The importance of the day is in danger, by this method of being lost sight of by pupils, parents and teachers. Quincy should be proud of her Mansion school and its environment.

Dr. Willard is a good deal of a naturalist, as well as a scholar. The grounds of the school are a witness to this, from the beautiful flower gardens and lawns, to the handsome vegetable gardens, which are all under his personal supervision.

Inside the house and school buildings everything is homelike and artistic Livermore hall where the graduating exercises were held, is particularly well adapted to the purpose. The late Mrs. Livermore's portrait bust, a most remarkable likeness, looks entirely in keeping with the fine Greek copies there. Dr. and Mrs. Willard are realizing high and ideal standards.

The Cochato Club.

The house committee have arranged for summer music the following Saturday evenings: June 17, July 15, August 12, and Sept. 9.

The Committee also gives notice that the hall will be open to members for informal dancing the following Saturday evenings: June 24. July 8, July 22, Aug. 5, Aug. 19 and Sept. 2.

Points of Interest.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACES OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Gosse street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company where warships are being built for the government.

A LABOR SCANDAL

Chicago Is Promised One of Vast Proportion

IS TOLD TO GRAND JURY

Trade Agreement Between Employers and Union Labor Leaders by Which Coal Consumers Suffered--Driscoll's Story

Chicago, June 16.—The greatest labor scandal Chicago has ever known, according to State Attorney Healy, is to follow the disclosures made before a grand jury by John C. Driscoll, formerly secretary of the Associated Building Trades council and of the Coal Team Owners' association. Driscoll revealed the history of the dealings between employers and union labor leaders, particularly that branch of union labor represented by the Chicago Teamsters' union. State Attorney Healy said:

"More serious offences have been committed than bribery and conspiracy, and the evidence presented to the jury has been of an extremely startling character. It is important and will lead to surprising results. The names mentioned by the witness are those of prominent men on both sides."

Today will witness the gathering before the grand jury of a score of prominent business men, together with leading members of the bar. Subpoenas have been placed in the hands of detectives employed by the state attorney, but it is impossible to learn the names of those for whom subpoenas have been issued.

Driscoll yesterday told how the coal teamsters and coal team owners had made a trade agreement which provided that the owners should employ only members of the Coal Teamsters' union and that the members of the union should work for no employer not a member of the Coal Team Owners' association. The effect of this arrangement, the witness declared, was to force every coal wagon owner into the Coal Team Owners' association and every coal wagon driver into the Teamsters' union. The owners behind this provision increased the cartage rates of coal from 30 cents to 50 cents a ton for short hauls and to as high as $1 a ton for long hauls.

Driscoll was agitated as he left the criminal court building last evening. He refused, however, to discuss the nature of his testimony, merely saying: "I told the jury about strikes in which I have been involved for several years and also told what I knew about the present strike. That is all I can say now."

It was learned that one of the statements made by Driscoll to the jury was that President Shea of the Teamsters' union accepted $8000 at the time of the stockyards strike last summer. Driscoll declared that he raised the money and paid it to Shea, who was not able to prevent the men from walking out. Driscoll afterward, according to his story, demanded the return of this money, and Shea declared that he had paid it over to two other men connected with the Teamsters' union.

A Fraternal Order Row

Richmond, June 16.—The "Loyalist" faction of the Junior Order of American Mechanics has been defeated in its fight against the "Insurgent" faction. An opinion was handed down by the supreme court of appeals recognizing the "Insurgent" branch of the order, chartered by the general assembly, as the one entitled to all the rights and benefits as an order in this state.

Catching Carp Whith Pitchforks

Pinckney, Mich., June 16.—Owing to floods the lakes and Huron river have overflowed and German carp have come into the marshes and lowlands so that they have been taken by hundreds with pitchforks and by hand. Some farmers have taken as high as 500 and 1000 pounds. They are dressing and packing them in salt for future use.

Organization on the Decline

Louisville, June 16.—Alarm is felt by the officers of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans over the lack of interest in the organization. Not a committee even sent a report at the annual meeting, and few Sons of Confederates were present. W. L. Williams of Macon, Ga., says the Sons of Veterans, as an organization, is nearly dead.

Heavily Armed Guard For Jail

Lincoln, Neb., June 16.—Max Ploehn, who assaulted and killed Miss Alma Goose near Plattsmouth last Saturday, has been captured near that place. A mob gathered last night and lynching is feared. Deputy sheriffs and police, heavily armed, are guarding the jail at Plattsmouth.

Tug a Total Loss

New London, Conn., June 16.—The tug James Hughes was burned and sunk while between Bartlett's reef and Gull island, in Long Island sound. All on board the tug got off safely. The vessel went down in deep water and will be a total loss.

Women Drown Themselves Together

Freeport, Ills., June 16.—The bodies of Mrs. Young, aged 28, and Miss Meda Pyle, aged 16 years, were found in the Peckatonia river yesterday afternoon. Both declared they would kill themselves and later they walked into the river.

Judicial Bonds

When called upon to give bonds in Judicial Proceedings, apply to the American Surety Company.

Should you require Probate Bonds, or Bonds in Insolvency Proceedings, we will provide them on the shortest notice, and without red tape.

We also issue the various Court Bonds used in the collection of debts and the recovery of damages, and, through our agents, will furnish them quickly to responsible parties at any point in the United States.

The fact that many of these bonds involve great risk, forms a strong argument against their being assumed by personal sureties.

MET INSTATN DEATH

Head of Insurance Company Is Killed In Auto Accident

Boston, June 16.—William B. Woodbridge, founder of the Columbian National Insurance company of this city, was killed instantly and three of his friends were seriously hurt by the overturning of a big automobile in which they were taking a pleasure ride at an early hour.

In the heavy touring machine with Woodbridge were Samuel H. Wolfe, a wealthy insurance man; A. E. Childs, the president of the Hotel Somerset company, and W. E. Tenzier, an old-time bicyclist. The accident occurred at the corner of Broadway and Felton street, Cliftondale.

The journey along the old Newburyport turnpike, now called Fenton street, was without accident until a sharp curve turning into Broadway was reached.

Tenzler was at the steering wheel, and it is believed that he did not know of the abrupt turn that the road took at this point. He failed to turn and the machine went crashing down a gully and then up into a barbed wire fence. The huge car went through this into the rough farm land beyond, where it was overturned.

All the members of the party were pinned under the car. Tenzler and Childs were the first to crawl out. They summoned help and raised the machine. Woodbridge was found with Wolfe. The full weight of the machine was resting upon them. Woodbridge was dead when removed. Wolfe is in a hospital, seriously injured.

Disease Carries Off Thousands

Boston, June 16.—The American Board of Foreign Missions has received reports relating to the peculiar disease which is seriously affecting the districts in Central Africa. These reports show that there have been 19,081 deaths within the kingdom of Uganda from the sleeping sickness, as the disease is called. It is believed that the disease is connected with the presence of the tsetse fly, which hitherto has not been supposed to be harmful to man, though fatal to cattle and horses.

Engineer Killed In Collision

Providence, June 16.—A head-on collision between two freight trains near the South Auburn station resulted in the death of Engineer Oldham of one of the trains. Oldham's fireman and Patrick Keenan, the engineer of the other train, with his fireman, escaped injury by jumping. The collision occurred on a sharp curve and both engines were making good time, the engineers both believing they had clear tracks.

Attempt to Wreck Train

West Brookfield, Mass., June 16.—Flagman McCuen of a west-bound freight that had stopped for water at this station found a switch thrown open on the east-bound track, on which an express train was due in 15 minutes. The switchlock had been broken and the rails were wedged with stones. Five railroad ties were across the rails near there on a 20-foot embankment. An investigation is in progress.

Must Pay Tax on Masonic Temple

Burlington, Vt., June 16.—The Masonic temple, owned by the Masonic grand lodge of Vermont, was placed on the list of taxable property at a meeting of the board of civil authority last night. The meeting was marked by heated discussion. The grand lodge was represented at the meeting by H. F. Peck, who argued that the order was a charitable one and that the property could not be legally taxed.

Passenger Train Derailed

Walpole, N. H., June 16.—A passenger train was derailed while coming through North Walpole. Although the train was going at a high speed when the engine was thrown, no one was killed and the only one injured was Engineer Gilett, who was badly scalded by escaping steam. The accident was caused either by the expansion of the rails due to heat, or a loose switch.

Talked of Death; Dropped Dead

Middleboro, Mass., June 16.—Jabez Frank White, aged 46, hanged himself to a tree in a pine grove not over 100 yards from the rear of his house. Rev. W. C. Ryder, aged 65, of the Independent Congregational church at Rock, was talking of the suicide and of the details of the funeral when the strain of the excitement proved too much for him and he dropped dead.

Comstock Gets His Stock

Boston, June 16.—Henry W. Comstock declares that the $120,000 securities, which he alleged were stolen from him Sunday night while he was asleep in his stateroom on the Fall River steamer Puritan, have been returned to his representative in New York upon payment of $1500. "So far as I am concerned," said Comstock. "the incident is now closed."

Boston Lawyer Disbarred

Boston, June 16.—Edmund S. Spaulding of this city, who has been a lawyer since 1895, was disbarred by Judge Sheldon in the superior court for misconduct. The Bar association of the city of Boston had petitioned for his disbarment, and Spaulding admitted he had converted to his own use $2521 while acting as agent for Sarah F. Adams and others.

Typos For Eight-Hour Day

Hartford, June 16.—Delegates representing 15 typographical unions in Connecticut and southwestern Massachusetts met in this city to further the endeavors of the national body to secure an eight-hour day, beginning with the first of next year. Resolutions in support of the movement were adopted.

A Mile In Fifty-three Seconds

Champion Oldfield Tells How It Feels to Whirl Through Space on an Auto---"Danger Makes the Sport Greatest on Earth."

By BARNEY OLDFIELD.

How does it feel to travel a mile in fifty-three seconds? Well, that is hard to describe. I worked myself up to this wonderful speed, so I cannot tell the sensations a novice would experience when making the trip. I have taken on different occasions a newspaper man for a ride with me, and his experience has always been such that he says he will never forget it. There is a roaring in the ears, a stinging sensation from the dust and obstacles that strike the face when traveling at this great speed. My companions say that the dust the driver who may be ahead turns up feels like hail being dashed into the face. Then there is the pressure against the face. When going a mile in fifty-three seconds I cover 120 feet per second. It feels, I am told by those who drive with me, that something seems as though it is being pressed against the face, forcing the flesh tight against the bones. Added to that is the roaring sound in the ears from the wind. The long stretch looms up ahead of one like a gray ribbon, and then we are into the turn.

There is a sickening, sliding feeling as the rear wheels slip and try to take hold of the track and the front ones point inward. It is the friction that wears through the tires in a few miles. Then we turn into the back stretch and head for the next turn. Again the faltering sliding as before. It takes the coolest hand and most practiced eye to execute these turns, as traveling at this rate of speed the least variation is fatal. Of course there are many ways one can be hurt. There is the wearing out of the tires and the expansion from the friction that causes them to burst, and then there is the breaking of some part of the machine. I never think of them excepting in a general way.

It is only before the start that I am at all nervous, and then it is about the machine. Is it right? Is every nut and bolt in place? Sometimes I look two and three times at certain parts to see if they are as they should be. And then I think about the way the car will start. Will I get a good lead around the first turn or will I have to take the dust which is sometimes so blinding that I have to feel my way as in the dark? I know I think about several of these things, but with the start of the race they seem to vanish. And then it is speed, speed, speed! Can I get more out of the car? No matter how far I am ahead there is a desire—a cry that comes from within—which says faster. And faster, still faster, I urge my now sliding, bouncing car.

Around the turns and into the stretch until I see the man I am in pursuit of just ahead of me, which shows that I have lapped him, and then it is the desire to pass him. To get as far ahead as possible, as the machine may falter or go bad, and then I will need the lead that I have attained while I adjust it. Yes, I think many things when I am going at this speed, which men of science said a few years ago was impossible. I think two miles a minute possible on a circular track, and I hope to be the first man to do it.

I said that it was possible on straightaway courses, and this has been demonstrated, as my car has earned the name of the two miles a minute car for straightaway racing. And it will be possible on the track also when they get the regular automobile tracks finished they are now building in several parts of the country. A mile in less than a minute was considered more impossible on a circular track a few years ago than two miles a minute is considered now. Yes, it is a great game, the greatest on earth because of the danger. I have defeated foreigners much easier than I defeated Americans. I consider the American the greatest automobile driver of them all.

The LUCKY STONE

By HOWARD FIELDING

Copyright, 1904, by Charles W. Hooke

MISS ANNIE JOHNSON, whose station in life was in front of a washtub, had been "off post" all day. She had deserted the tub and had gone out to get some money. Annie had wasted eight hours and had raised 60 cents.

It was an afternoon at the end of summer. The city had been left in the oven a little too long that year; it was overdone; it had begun to smell burned. The coolest looking place that Annie had seen during the day was a high stoop house on the shady side of the street. She herself was upon the sunny side because she had been too much occupied with pecuniary problems to consider the advisability of crossing. She stared at the high stoop house, and she said, "I wonder could Miss Colbert be back from the country yet?" speaking aloud, for she had reached that degree of nervous tension where the safety valve of unintended utterance gives its warning of danger.

Miss Colbert was an actress who had played in the city nearly all of the previous winter, and Annie had been her laundress.

"She would give me a little somethin' in advance," said Annie, "but of course she isn't here."

However, being at her wits' end for a very small sum of money, Annie crossed the street and rang the bell at the basement door of the high stoop house. Nobody answered, and, as the door was ajar, Annie entered the lower hall. Failing to find a servant, she ascended the stairs to the first floor, and as she thus came directly at the door of the large room at the rear of the house, Miss Colbert's room, it seemed simplest to knock.

It was always hard to hear a knock or a call to "Come in!" at this door, for it opened from a small vestibule and there was a portiere at the other end of it. Upon this occasion it is probable that Annie experienced a genuine hallucination. She was so anxious to hear Miss Colbert's voice that she heard it, though the actress was not there, and Annie entered an empty room.

Upon a table standing near the window there was a glass plate, and it was heaped high with jewels. The light of the fervid day surged in and beat upon them, and they dashed it back in a thousand sparkling sprays.

"Gee!" said Annie softly. "Wouldn't that jar you?"

She glanced fearfully toward the window.

"It's a wonder she wouldn't set 'em out in the back yard!" she continued. "I never saw the like of her. Anybody could climb in here."

On the edge of the plate there was a loose stone about the size of an average pea. In comparison with the others it looked very small, and Annie was of the opinion that it could be removed without Miss Colbert's missing it. This, then, represented the extreme of prudence and forbearance. Annie rolled the stone around in the palm of her hand. It may have been perspiration which dulled the glitter of the stone or the phenomenon may have had an explanation within the domain of morals, but the simple fact is that the gem's light faded and its attraction died. Annie laid it back upon the plate at last, with a faint sensation of nausea. The touchstone had revealed her weakness; she lacked the power to steal.

There was a noise under the window, and Annie looked out upon the top of a man's head and upon a long stepladder which he was bringing out of the basement into the yard. He glanced upward, and then his mouth and Annie's opened simultaneously, and their eyes became round.

"Tom Wilson," said Annie, "where'd you come from?"

"I'm workin' for Mrs. Booth," said he.

"You wasn't the last time I heard of you," said she, with a woman's cruelty toward the man she favors.

"That's right," said Tom in a cautious tone. "I was in the Tombs. That's where I was, an' I never done it. They got the wrong man when they got me. An' they took a drop to themselves after awhile an' let me go. I wasn't tried; indictment dismissed. You know what that means."

"It means that they couldn't prove it," replied Annie. "No, Tom; that ain't fair. I won't say it. You wasn't guilty—that's the truth—an' I've always believed it."

"Where's Mrs. Booth now?" said Annie, to change a painful subject.

"She's gone out," he replied, "an' the girls are upstairs. I've been cleanin' up the yard."

A sudden resolution seemed to seize upon him. He turned the ladder about and mounted to the top of it, coming almost to a level with Annie at the window.

"I told Mrs. Booth that I'd been down to Mexico," he said hurriedly, almost in a whisper, "an' now I'm goin' for fair, an' you're goin' with me."

"What d'you mean?" demanded Annie, frightened by his manner.

"What do we want to be so poor for?" said he, white with excitement. "Look at them diamonds! I saw 'em from across the yard. I saw her tryin' some of 'em in her hair an' lookin' at 'em in the sun. What d'you think that outfit's worth? Well, well, I guess we wouldn't do a thing with that money down in Mexico."

"You're dreamin'," retorted Annie. "Who told you I'd go with you even if the money was yours?"

"You as good as told me that once," said he, with fierce intensity, and the next instant, exercising an agility of which he would have been incapable in a calmer moment, he transferred himself from the ladder to the window, where he perched with his feet hanging out.

"If I ever told you that," said Annie, "it was when I took you for an honest man."

"I'm that today," he replied. "I never stole nothin'. I'll swear to that. But I've been behind the bars for three months. I've had my medicine, an' now"—

He choked with a dry throat, and, being unable to proceed, he made his meaning clear by extending a hand toward the plate. Annie caught him by the wrist.

"Don't do that, Tom!" she cried. "You can't get nothin' that way in this world—nothin' that's worth havin'. It ain't the way to get me—that's certain. I wouldn't go with you if you had as many of 'em as would fill a keg o' beer unless they was yours."

"How long would it take you an' me to earn enough money to buy one o' them stones?" he asked angrily. "An' how much work has she ever done to get 'em all? Men give 'em to her. Dudes send 'em round to the stage door with mash notes. I know all about it."

"She's a good girl," said Annie, with at least as much vigor as she would have resented an attack upon her own reputation. "She works hard. I've seen her in the dead o' winter, with both these windows open, walkin' up an' down this room with the sweat runnin' off of her face. I've seen her sit down on the floor an' sob till it near shook her to pieces because she couldn't speak her words the way that she wanted to. She earned those diamonds, she gets big pay, an' she has to have 'em to wear on the stage."

"I don't care how she got 'em," he broke in. "I know how you an' me can get 'em. There'll never be another chance like this."

"Tom," she pleaded, "I do honestly care a lot about you. If you care anything about me now's your time to show it. Don't say another word like you've been sayin'. What's the use? We'd both be mis'rable. We ain't thieves, neither one of us. If there'd been any thief about me you wouldn't have had much show with your stepladder, Tom. I'd 'a' had a big start o' you."

Wilson drew in a hard breath like a long gasp.

"You don't care nothin' about me," he said. "You never did. I didn't have any money. I couldn't take you out. An' you was always tied to the house anyway. That's the way with women. They"—

"Tom," said she, "you're talkin' crazy. I never took any pains to fool you about it. You could see how I felt. All I ever asked o' you was that you should go to work steady an' not hang around at odd jobs—a day's work for Mrs. Booth an' a day somewhere else next week. If you want me you know how to get me—even now, after this. Why, Tom, there ain't anything in stealin', there ain't anything into it at all. An' I know because I've tried. Look at this."

She picked the small stone out of the plate.

"I did my best to see if I couldn't pinch that little bit of a di'mond," she continued, "an' I couldn't."

"I can!" he cried and clutched at it, but she eluded him.

She stepped back from the window and stood trembling, the pallor struggling with the flush of the heat upon her thin cheeks and shining temples. Her blue eyes were big and bright, and they looked him through and through.

"Then this is our finish, Tom," she said. "I never knew you before. It would 'a' been just like me to make a mistake that would 'a' done for me forever. I guess this is my lucky day. I don't feel much as if it was, but there can't be any better luck for a girl than to find out her mistake before she makes it."

He leaned in from the window sill, thrusting his face as near to hers as possible.

"Are you goin' to stand in my way?" he whispered.

"Me?" she said confusedly. "Me stand in your way?"

"I'm goin' to have those di'monds," said he. "It's for you to say whether you'll squeal on me or keep still."

His voice sounded sharp and hard. He was in deadly earnest. Annie was frightened, heartbroken and angry all together.

"Don't count on me, Tom," she said. "This is our finish. I've said that once before, an' I mean it. I'm done."

He gathered himself up in the window, watching her with dire intentness.

"You can get out o' here," he said. "There's nobody in the lower part o' the house. You needn't know anything about this. Go. Now's your chance."

"Don't fool yourself," she retorted angrily. "I'm stayin' right here."

His face took on a peculiar expression. She saw that his lower lip was between his teeth, and suddenly there was blood upon it. The next instant he sprang at her. He had made his plan upon the assumption that she would try to run away, and perhaps this error accounts for the surprising sequel. Annie did not run; she advanced. The collision between them occurred very much earlier than Mr. Wilson anticipated. He was overbalanced; he lost the battle and vanished from the scene of it. There was a horrible crash of the stepladder, and Wilson lay for a few seconds quite still amid its ruins, while Annie, weak with fright, hung over the window sill. She had not intended to push Tom out of the window; she had merely accepted combat with true courage.

A voice from above cried, "Foh de lub o' heaven!" And Annie, looking upward, saw the ebony countenance of Mrs. Booth's cook.

"Tom climbed up on the ladder to speak to me," said the girl. "Tom, you ain't hurt? Say you ain't hurt."

Wilson sat upon the ground and glared up at her.

"I'm no such liar as that," said he, with unconscious humor.

It was passing through his mind that the game was up, that Annie's explanation was the only way of discretion and that he was lucky to be alive. He struggled to his feet and began to brush his clothes. At this moment Annie heard a voice behind her.

MARCIA COLBERT WAS STANDING IN THE DOORWAY.

"Why, it's Annie Johnson! Now, isn't this the greatest luck! I'd lost your address."

Marcia Colbert was standing in the doorway, a vision of loveliness in the eyes of poor Annie.

"I hadn't ought to have come in here," said the girl, "but I knocked, an' I thought I heard your voice. An' after I got in I waited because—because"—

"Well, I'm mighty glad you did," said Miss Colbert. "I've some clothes for you—about a dray load, I should judge. I don't know how you'll carry them."

She removed a gold chain from around her neck. It had supported a little bag which was so full of money that it burst open when it was dropped upon the table. Beholding the display of green notes, Annie passed into a species of trance, which was so long continued that it attracted Miss Colbert's attention.

"I've just drawn some money for clothes," said she. "Had to have it, Annie. I've got to buy costumes in a terrible hurry, and I hadn't a cent. So what could the poor manager do?"

Intensity of thought wrinkled and twisted Annie's brow. She was engaged in the high grade intellectual labor of classification and comparison.

"You don't need any costumes to wear when you wash clothes," she said at last, "and you don't have any manager."

Miss Colbert looked at her steadily, with a broadening smile.

"How much do you need?" she said very kindly, and then, handing Annie a five dollar bill, "Will that help you out?"

The tears came into Annie's eyes.

"I said to myself that if you was home I'd be all right," said she somewhat irrelevantly.

"Well, if you'd come yesterday," replied Miss Colbert, "you'd have found me as poor as yourself. I came mighty near pawning my one poor little diamond, the only one I ever had."

She turned a pretty ring backward and forward upon the third finger of her left hand.

"That's my engagement ring, Annie," said she, "and the dear boy who gave it to me is many miles away. But never mind, he's coming soon, and I wouldn't want him to find his ring in pawn."

"The only one you ever owned," said Annie in a hushed and solemn tone. "How about them? How about all them beautiful ones in that plate? Ain't they yours?"

"They're as glassy as the plate," replied Miss Colbert. "I guess they were made in the same factory. That's stage jewelry, Annie. Some of it is pretty good of it's kind, and I've just been cleaning it up, so that it shines right smart, but the whole lot isn't worth as much as my little ring."

"'Tain't real!" said Annie under her breath. "Blessed mother, think of it! 'Tain't real!"

She picked up the loose stone with which she dimly perceived that she had tested both herself and the man who might have wrecked her life.

"You've always been good to me," she said, "an' I'm after takin' your money today when I ain't got any right to it. You must think queer o' me, an' you'll think queerer if I ask you to give me this."

"That?" exclaimed Marcia. "Why, it isn't worth 4 cents. What could you do with that? You can't wear it."

Annie was very red. She stood there upon her awkward legs, with her thin shoulders working up and down nervously.

"I dunno," said she faintly. "I just want it, that's all. I think there's luck in it."

"Of course you can have it," Marcia said, "and I hope it will bring you luck. The love of a good man is the best luck there is, Annie. I hope you'll have that."

"An' the love of a bad man's the worst," said Annie, tying up the bit of glass in her handkerchief. "May Providence preserve all women from that."

"Amen," said Marcia.

HOME DRESSMAKING.

An Important Point For the Amateur to Bear In Mind.

An important point which the home dressmaker must learn is not to depend too closely on her pattern. A professional dressmaker, as a rule, builds her garment from a well fitting lining, but trims and drapes and adds the accessories without any aid but her own ingenuity. The amateur usually buys a pattern and is afraid to alter it by means of a hairbreadth for fear the result will not be satisfactory. This fear of being original is what makes so many garments have the "home-made look," and it should be combated by the worker trying her hand at making a garment after her own ideas, using at first some cheap material easy to handle, which, if it is spoiled, will count for just so much experience gained instead of being a total loss. Money will be saved in the purchase of patterns, and the worker will soon find that by following out her own ideas she will save likewise on material and on time.

One home dressmaker bought a nine gored skirt pattern one year ago, and several skirts of different styles were evolved from that foundation. In one the second and fourth gores were cut off at the knee and a box plait of the goods inserted, with a pretty finish of embroidery where the gore and the box plait met. In another the same two gores were cut off about ten inches below the band, and a gathered panel, with a heading, was added, the panel being gathered several times across.—Brockton Times.

DISHWASHING.

The Way to Make a Pleasure of This Disagreeable Task.

Do not get discouraged about having to wash dishes 365 days in the year. Dishes must be washed, and of all the many duties that fall to woman's lot this seems to be the most disliked. But there is an ideal way.

The chief things required to make it a pleasure are care, order, plenty of good, hot water and a stack of dry tea towels, two dishcoths and a large enameled bowl. The dishes, when removed from the table, must have each of its kind put together. Put all the cooking utensils on the range and fill them with water until the time comes to clean them.

Have a recepticle in which to place all the scraps that come from the dishes, plates, etc. The most important thing is to have plenty of hot water, not merely warm, but hot, and use some good soap in the water to make your suds. It cleans the greasy meat dishes and plates twice as quickly. Have your mops with handles for deep mouthed jugs, and have nice dishcloths made of cheesecloth.

Begin with the glassware and next china, and follow with spoons, forks, knives, etc. Never use a wet towel.—Woman's Life.

DRESS HINTS.

Don't wear your walking dress in the house.

Don't use a cheap, poor ribbon in millinery.

Don't on any account put a dress away without brushing it.

Don't take a bodice off and put it away immediately. Lay it out to air.

Feathers uncurled by damp weather are quickly dried by shaking over fire in which salt has been thrown.

A simple device for fastening laces at the top is to draw the loops the same length as the ends and then knot them tightly.

No one can be healthy who wears tight shoes and high heels. The tight shoes impair the circulation, while the high heels strain the muscles of the back and cause nervousness. The sensible shoe has a low, flat heel.

Uses For Old Papers.

Make your old, discarded newspapers serve you as labor savers instead of fuel, and when paring vegetables or cleaning and dressing a chicken do it all on one of these handy papers.

When you are through bundle the paper and its contents into the stove or garbage pail, and you will have no mess to clean up and no pans to wash. Place a paper on the table before cleaning the lamps. It will catch all superfluous oil, bits of soot and dirt and will save you scrubbing the table.

A newspaper spread on the floor is large enough to catch all the dirt and dust from the carpet sweeper and is easily rolled up and thrown away, while you will not have to brush up part of your kitchen floor as you did when you tried the plan of emptying the sweeper in the coal hod.

Three Kinds of Dressers.

A clever woman has summed up her sex who succeed in the art of dress in three classes this wise: The good dressers, the clever dressers and the intellectual dressers, but of these last there is a hopeless minority. Intellectual dressing depends on one's power of imagination, and of this inward and spiritual grace there is a sad deficiency. The lady should add to this the fat pocketbook, which alone makes it possible to employ the "dress artist" to think for her client and keep her in the intellectual path.—Boston Herald.

Baked Beets.

Baked beets will please those who are fond of this vegetable in other forms. After boiling till soft slice and lay out on a platter. On each slice place a bit of butter and salt to taste; next a little paprika dusted lightly over the whole. Upon this place another layer of slices and bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven, basting carefully at intervals. Minced parsley is to be sprinkled over this dish just before serving.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

The unanimity with which the nations of the earth are turning to the United States as the world power most likely to be called upon to further the cause of peace between Russia and Japan, and the concensus of opinion among diplomatists the world over that no nation is so well fitted to conduct the delicate negotiations which must attend the birth of that peace movement so earnestly desired by the humanitarians of the world, must prove gratifying to every patriotic American. At this crisis in the affairs of the Muscovite Empire it is evident that Great Britain and France are debarred from acting the role of peacemaker because of their alliances with the respective belligerents. Germany because of the close friendship of the Kaiser for the Czar, would unquestionably prove persona non grata to Japan and of the great powers, the United States alone remains.

Moreover, throughout the prolonged hostilities this country has preserved the most perfect neutrality between the contending powers, and President Roosevelt has, all along, displayed a tact which has rendered it possible for both the Russian and Japanese diplomatic representatives in Washington to frequent the White House with entire absence of constraint or formality. It is also suggested by the representatives of the foreign powers in Washington, that President Roosevelt's reputation as a champion of the square deal has extended so far beyond the confines of this country that both Russia and Japan would experience no hesitation in entrusting their interests to his solicitous care. For these reasons it seems probable that if peace negotiations are instituted, President Roosevelt's offer of his good offices will be called into requisition.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Is it worth while to waste sympathy for the Rogers woman condemned to death in Vermont, who in the most cold-blooded, heartless manner killed her husband, binding him hand and foot in pretended sport while she lulled his scarcely aroused suspicious with loving words? The sooner such a beast is put out of existence the better.—Waltham Tribune.

☞ A half a million was poured into the Ubero hole by New England victims, and but a few thousand in cash, and a plantation of very doubtful value remain to tell the story. Dividends were paid through a manipulation of the money received from the sale of stock, and at no time has the property been such as would commend itself to an investor after a personal investigation. It is a curious fact that this "buying a pig in a bag" proves so attractive to people who earn their money by hard work and ought to know its worth, when many an opportunity for investment close at home and available for inspection is allowed to pass by.—Haverhill Gazette.

—America's national capital has been selected as the seat of negotiations between the plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan for a treaty of peace. Official announcement was made on Thursday at Washington.

—Mrs. Emma Duncan of Ceylon street Dorchester, had a chicken born this week with four legs, and she has called it Judge Emmons.

NO GUYING WANTED.

Married Men and Single Men to Play Again Tomorrow.

Unless all signs fail the base ball fiends of the Granite City club will repeat the exhibition game given by them Memorial day on the morning of the holiday at Merrymount park. Since the game on Memorial day the boys have put in some practice, and the single men have made themselves believe that they can knock the married men off the field in less than two innings, whereas it took three innings at the last game for the married men to do up the single fellows.

There are quite a few of the club members who believe that they know all about the game, who did not show up the morning of Memorial day on account of the early hour. They promise to be on hand this time, however, if they have to sit up all night to get there.

The exact time at which the game will be called is an uncertain factor just at present. It all depends upon how soon the players arrive on the field. It is probable, however, that 9 o'clock will see the stuffing being knocked out of the ball.

No fee is charged to see the game, the the only requirement being that the spectators shall not guy, and rattle the players.

A Word of Appreciation.

Editors of the Ledger:

While I was nurse at the contageous hospital, at which place I was domiciled about six weeks, I had occasion to use the telephone connecting the hospital and City stable. It was owing to this fact that I was in communication a great deal with the men employed at the latter place. No one can realize, as I did, what a great pleasure it was to receive kindness and assistance, especially during my trying ordeal of the past few weeks.

The men employed at the City stable I found to be courteous, kind and obliging, and at all times willing to assist me in every way possible, and through them I was able to accomplish a great deal.

I feel it my duty to show to these men that their kindly efforts have not been ignored, but have on the contrary been greatly appreciated by me, and I take the liberty at this time of extending to them, through the columns of your worthy paper, my sincere thanks for the many kindnesses extended, and will further say that men of their calibre are a credit to the city which they represent as employees.

Very respectfully yours,
Miss Tamson Gray.

Built in the Night.

One morning last week the residents of Belmont street were greeted by the sight of a new and complete house that had sprung up in the night. Mr. J. P. Seely is the proud owner of a Stanley steam automobile. He had a portable garage built at Neponset and delivered at his home in sections. Mr. Alex. G. Fisk came out from Boston to see the new house, reaching Wollaston about 8 o'clock at night. The house not being put together, Mr. Fisk suggested that it be put up immediately. Mr. Seely went down to the hotel corner and gathered in four husky youths and with their assistance the house was erected in two hours and a half. The roof sections, which weigh about 400 pounds each, were lifted in their place as though they were wafers. This is thought to be the first portable automobile house in Wollaston.

Hot and Suffocating.

Today is a record breaker for heat. At noon the temperature was 90 degrees. Hardly a breath of air was stirring and it was almost suffocating. The nearest approach to today's temperature was May 29, when the mercury registered 85 degrees at noon. At no time since August first last year has the temperature reached 90 degrees at noon., June 26 last year the temperature at the above hour was 92 degrees.

Sunday will be observed as children's day at the Atlantic M. E. church. At 7.30 P. M. there will be a concert.

CITY BREVITIES

No Daily Ledger tomorrow.

A three-column story today by Howard Fielding.

The indications are for a pleasant day the Seventeenth.

A session of the district court will be held Saturday as usual.

City Hall will be closed all day Saturday, the Seventeenth of June.

All the Saturday features will be found in the Ledger today.

The historic points of interest in Quincy are republished in this issue.

There will be a great rush at the Hardware Supply Co. on Monday to get a free sample of Jap-a-lac.

The interclub yacht race scheduled for June 17 has been postponed until June 24.

A lawn party given by the Epworth League will be held on Tuesday evenning on the grounds of the M. E. church.

At the annual meeting of the Woodward Alumni Saturday, June 24, the entertainment will consist of a play and music.

McInnis has opened the dancing season at the Houghs Neck Casino. There will be dancing this evening and every evening, also on the afternoon of the holiday.

The Sabbath school outing of the United Presbyterian church will be at Nantasket beach, July 5th. The members, parents and friends of Sabbath school are invited.

The sporting news today includes the result of the games in the base ball leagues, an illustrated article on fast automobiling, rules for water base ball, events for the holiday, etc.

Miss Ella Ames Horton would like to correct the error in the notice of the concert given in Hardwick hall, appearing in the Patriot, Saturday, May 27, under South Quincy news. The recital was given in Hardwick, Mass., not South Quincy.

Patrick Murphy, a long and well-known resident of Quincy, died at his home on 23 Faxon avenue, Thursday afternoon, after a long illness. For 30 years he was a section foreman on the Old Colony and New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. He leaves a family.

On Saturday, June 17, the Merrymounts will play two games. In the morning they will cross bats with the Hyde Parks, one of the strongest semi-professional teams in the state. In the afternoon they will play Braintrees at French's Common, South Braintree, and the game will be called at 3.30.

COOKS WELCOME FOSS'

Pure Food Agitation Condemns Imi'ation Extracts.

Turpentine Enters Largely Into Spurious Lemon Flavoring.

Cooks Use Foss' Pure Extracts With Confidence.

BECAUSE THEY ARE MERELY THE FRUITS IN LIQUID FORM.

Only a few years ago it was very difficult for the most painstaking woman to be sure that she was using a natural flavoring extract. The demand for extracts at soda fountains and in ice cream especially tempted manufacturers to use substitutes and adulterations for quicker and larger profits.

The imitations became so crude and deleterious that many persons ate sparingly of all flavored desserts. It was proved that it was the impure flavoring that made pies, cakes and ice creams disagree with grown-up persons as well as with children, and an urgent demand arose for a pure, reliable, natural fruit extract. A wide market was assured for such a wholesome flavoring and from the first appearance of Foss' Extracts, which are simply the fruits in concentrated, liquid form, hotel chefs, cooking school teachers and thousands of plain housewives entirely discarded the use of artificial extracts and began to stock their pantry shelves with nothing but Foss'.

Families that had been using flavoring extracts that were clever imitations of the true fruit were delighted and surprised at the delicacy, purity and wholesomeness of the new flavoring. They found in addition to a daintier flavoring imparted to desserts that it did not require so much of Foss' to get the proper flavor as it did of the old, dishonest kind and that it was therefore more economical.

As an example of the superiority of Foss' over all other extracts, let us instance that queen of flavors, vanilla, this best of all extracts has the peculiar, natural odor of the vanilla bean, and the delicate delicious flavor that is unmistakable to those who have ever used the vanilla bean itself; but in the case of inferior and low grade vanilla extracts, made hastily from poor and mouldy beans, colored by burnt sugar to deceive the housewife, a rank unpleasant flavor is had, which sets all the housewife's skill and good luck at naught.

In this matter of flavoring extracts, nature defies imitation.

Foss' Extracts are indicated by Mrs. Lincoln in her receipt for ice cream on page 364 of her Boston Cook Book, simply because it is fruit in liquid form and the best.

All grocers sell Foss' Pure Extracts in Quincy. Wollaston, Braintree, Weymouth, East Weymouth, South Weymouth, Atlantic and Norfolk Downs.

DUST IN OUR EYES.

We at Times Collect Curious Things Without Looking For Them.

Few people are aware, says Fred W. Saxby in the Strand Magazine, that we are all constantly "collecting" curious things without looking for them:

In the very act of looking up at the fleeting spectacle of a fiery orb the reader with the big, wide open eyes may easily receive in one of his own orbs a tiny sphere from afar that was produced in a glowing streak of light like the one he is admiring.

Meteoric dust is ever falling and upon all parts of our planet. The little spheres have been found upon the decks of ships far out at sea, in all the deserts of the earth and on the tops of snow clad mountains. Dredgings brought up from the silent depths of the ocean give testimony of their universal presence. The particles all contain iron and are easily collected by the magnet from the roof of any outhouse or other place exposed directly to the sky.

Seafarers are sometimes pelted with dust of quite a different kind, composed of the microscopic flinty skeletons of beautiful plants called "diatoms."

These tiny plants live in both salt and fresh water and occur in enormous numbers in some localities. Occasionally water courses and inundated areas dry up, and the flinty shells of the diatoms which grew there are blown about as dust. There are several instances on record of diatomaceous dust falls at sea. During the thickest part of the fall the sailors have experienced much pain in their eyes, the inflammation being caused by the little flinty shells.

SECRETARY SEWARD.

His Influence Upon the Foreign Policy of This Country.

The importance of Secretary Seward's influence in the domestic affairs of the United States during Johnson's administration has probably been exaggerated, but it would be hard to exaggerate the importance of what he achieved and of what he initiated in his own proper field of diplomacy. His chief, occupied as he was with fierce controversies over other subjects, found, we may well suppose, but little time for foreign relations. He does not appear to have interfered with policies which were already adopted or to have initiated any new policies of his own. Seward must therefore be held responsible to a degree somewhat unusual for the conduct of the delicate negotiations, involving very far reaching consequences, which the war gave rise to. It was he who first presented America to Europe in that attitude of conscious strength which the thorough establishment of our nationality at last enabled us to take. It was he who reasserted effectively, yet without any arrogance, our traditional stand in reference to the Latin republics to the south of us. It was he who, facing westward, accomplished an expansion of our system into a region never contemplated until his day by those who guided our destinies and turned our thoughts upon the shores of the Pacific as a field for American trade and American influence.—William Garrott Brown in Atlantic.

The Pole Star.

We will try to give you some idea of the distance that separates us from the pole star. As you know, light travels at the rate of about 186,000 miles a second—more than seven times round the earth while you are saying "John Robinson" slowly. Well, suppose that a ray of light, traveling at this terrific speed of a million miles in less than five and a half seconds, had started from the polar star on its journey to the earth at the moment of your birth that particular ray will not reach you until you are more than halfway between your thirty-sixth and thirty-seventh birthdays. When you look on the pole star you see it not as it is today, but as it was about fifty years ago.

An Australian Treat.

A treat in an Australian wilderness camp is thus described by an explorer: "On our way down, of course, it was necessary to stop at McLeod's camp to get something to clear the bronchial tubes. There was one great Scotchman among the party, who said, when I asked him what his poison was, 'Weel, I'll just take a tin of fruit.' He had a tin of pineapple. Now, the price of preserved fruit at that time and in such a place was something to make you sit up, so that Scotchman scored."

The Brass Band.

"George!"

"Yes, dear?"

"Before we were married you once asked me if I enjoyed a brass band."

"Y-yes, perhaps I did."

"You did. And I said yes. But it seems I misunderstood you, George. My wedding ring is making a black mark on my finger."

"! ! !"—Cleveland Leader.

Joy.

Joy is one of the greatest germ killers in existence. It is a positive radiant force, irresistible and compelling, before which all discouragements and ills go down in utter defeat. A good dose of joy will do more for you than any tonic or medicine you can name.

Where Ignorance Is Bliss.

A well known physician has observed that the best thing that can happen to a man with diabetes is not to find it out, and the same might be said with some justice of a number of diseases.—Hospital.

There seems to be no art of knowledge in fewer hands than that of discerning when to have done.—Swift.

STRANGE ACCIDENTS.

A Broken Neck as the Result of the Turn of a Foot.

"The man who fell out of bed and broke his neck will scarcely attract more than passing notice," said a thoughtful man, "for there have been many cases equally remarkable. I recall one case where a man's neck was broken by a very slight turn of his foot. He attempted to 'catch himself'—that is, to preserve his balance—and the effort was of such violence that he broke his neck. Many men have broken their necks by a sudden stumble and a fall on the sidewalk or by being knocked down by some hurrying pedestrian, or by a street car or a vehicle of some sort.

"It is not at all uncommon for a policeman, with no intention of doing more than subdue an unruly member, to break an offender's neck by rapping him over the head with his club. Sometimes the fall which follows and sometimes the blow breaks the neck of the offender. Sometimes a sudden, violent motion of the head, a quick jerking motion, the kind we make when dodging, will break the neck.

"I recall a case where a man threw his neck out of joint without breaking it by throwing his head to one side in an effort to dodge a bullet fired at him at short range. The bullet passed through the rim of his hat. Even after that he carried his head tilted over the right shoulder and was never able to straighten it."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

DUST OF THE DESERT.

It Is an Affliction, but It Is Not Impure, Like City Dust.

A traveler in Egypt writes: "With all its heat and dust the desert has its charms. True, the desert dust is an affliction, for when certain evil winds blow the desert is shrouded in dust—vast swirling clouds through which no eye can see. But when the dust storms have blown over and the desert is calm again you forget the dust, for the desert dust is dusty dust, but not dirty dust. Compared with the awful organic dust of New York, London or Paris it is inorganic and pure.

"On those strips of the Libyan and Arabian deserts which lie along the Nile the desert dust is largely made up of shredded royalty, of withered Ptolemies, of faded Pharaohs, for the tombs of queens and kings are counted here by the hundreds and of their royal progeny and their royal retainers by the thousands. These desiccated dynasties have been drying so long that they are now quite antiseptic.

"Dust of these dead and gone kings makes extraordinarily fertile soil for vegetable gardens when irrigated with the rich waters of the Nile. Their mummies are also said to make excellent pigments for the brush. Rameses and Setos, Cleopatra and Hatasu—all these great ones dead and turned to clay—when properly ground make a rich umber paint highly popular with artists."

The Stuart Kings.

The family name of the Stuarts was originally, as Mr. Bayley observes, Fitzalan. The original Walter Fitzalan, brother of the ancestor of the dukes of Norfolk, was lord high steward of Scotland, and from this circumstance his branch of the family appears to have adopted the name of Stewart. When the change began is not certain, but it was probably not later than the time of Alexander, the great-grandson of Walter Fitzalan, for both his sons—James, the grandfather of Robert II. and all the Scottish Stewart kings, and John, the ancestor of Lord Darnley—appear to have borne the name of Stewart.—Notes and Queries.

A Designing Doctor.

The Sydney Bulletin tells of a motoring doctor who ran into and capsized a pedestrian. He looked behind him and, seeing the man still prone, made a circuit and ran back, intending to stop beside and help him. But the motor shot a yard or two beyond the mark and hit the man again just as he was getting up. The doctor turned his car once more and was cautiously stealing near to the prostrate sufferer when an excited spectator rushed from the sidewalk and, shaking the victim, exclaimed: "Look out! He's coming at you again!" Whereupon the man scrambled up and started to run.

Hate All Around.

The famous English Chief Justice Holt and his wife hated each other to the limit, and when she fell dangerously ill he was so delighted that he became disgracefully tipsy. But his wife was equal to the emergency and sent for the great Dr. Radcliffe, who hated Holt, and therefore out of spite when the case was presented to him came with great promptness and saved her life.—London Chronicle.

Horrible Example.

"Maw, what is a horrible example?" asked the youngest boy, looking up from his newspaper.

The eldest boy stopped his figuring long enough to say, "Wait till you get into algebra, and you'll find any amount of 'em."

The Royal Road to Learning.

Freddie—What's an honorary degree, dad? Johnson—That's a title a college confers on a man who would never be able to get it if he had to pass an examination.—Tom Watson's Magazine.

The Boys' Work committee will be appointed later.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Five street hearings and several telephone and electric light pole hearings will be held by the City Council next Monday evening.

The hours at the Quincy post office tomorrow will be from 6 to 10 A. M., and 5 to 8 P. M. There will be but one collection and one delivery.

The Quincy foot ball team has already arranged for games in Barre, Vt., and Montreal in July, playing in the former place July 22, and in the latter July 24 and 26. Quincy has a strong association team, which will make a good showing.

Clotho Club.

On Monday evening, June 12, the last meeting the "Clotho Club" was held at the residence of the Misses Mary and Elizabeth Dunn, of Whitwell street. It proved to be an occasion of unusual interest and pleasure, from the fact that one of their highly esteemed members was about to leave them, and plunge into the tumultously uncertain sea of matrimony. Miss Mary E. McDonnell was the heroine who has consented to join the "noble army of martyrs" who devote their lives to the cheering, (and steering), of one of the masculine persuasion.

The club members decided that to commemorate this happy event they would present her with a token of affectionate regard. The result was, they presented her with an exceptionally fine and heavy cut glass carafe, and a half dozen glasses to match. The recipient, though much surprised and pleased, responded in a few graceful and well chosen words, after which music, mirth, symposium and song was the order of the evening. A dainty menu of ices, sherbet, and cakes was served, and at a late hour the happy company "folded their tents like the Arabs, and silently stole away" each one wishing no doubt, it might be her turn next.

Holiday Foot Ball.

A red hot game of foot ball Association rules, will be played on the Ward Three playgrounds at 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, between the Quincys, and a eleven from the steamship Saxonia of the Cunard line. The Quincys are one of the strongest elevens in the state, and a good game may be expected.

Reward Offered.

Circulars containing the picture and description of Alexander Cruikshanks, have been issued and sent all over the country. The Union has offered a reward of $100 for his apprehension.

More for P. O. Clerks.

A dispatch from Washington says that four clerks of the Quincy post office will get promotions of $100 each per annum on July 1. At the Quincy office this noon, while admitting having seen the dispatch, no one seemed to know just who would get the plums.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The return of Mary Hall to the stage of the Castle Square Theatre next week is being anticipated with intense interest. Few artists of the day have gained a greater popularity and her reappearance in the character of Rosalind in Shakespeare's "As You Like It" next week will afford an opportunity of seeing this most enjoyable actress in a character in which she has made a pronounced success in other cities. The cast of the principal characters in this production has been arranged as follows: Orlando, Howell Hansel; Jaques, William Humphrey; Oliver, Frederick Murray; the banished Duke, J. L. Seeley; Duke Frederick, Lindsay Morison; Touchstone, William Evarts; Le Beau and William, Mortimer Weldon; Sylvius, a shepard, Francis Ball; Corin, a shepard, William Hasson; Adam, John J. Geary; Amiens, Walter Coupe; Charles, Louis Thiel; Rosalind, Mary Hall; Celia, Mary Sanders; Audrey, Alice Riker; and Phebe, Lucille Stanford.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

A worthy successor to "The Belle of New York," which has opened most auspiciously the first two weeks of the summer season of musical comedy at the Empire Theatre (Boston), will be "Jack and the Beanstalk," one of the prettiest and most tuneful entertainments ever produced. The concluding performances of "The Belle of New York" will be given on Saturday of the current week, and on Monday afternoon, June 19, the Empire Musical comedy company, under the general direction of Mr. Adolphe Meyer, will appear for the first time in "Jack and the Beanstalk." All Bostonians at least know that this dainty musical extravaganza, with book and lyrics by R. A. Barnet, and music by A. Baldwin Sloane, was prepared originally for a Cadet production, when it scored a tremendous success. It was immediately seized on for professional production, and had several hearings in Boston, always with the same flattering success. In Boston alone "Jack and the Beanstalk" holds a record for a total of thirty weeks, a certain indication of its popular vogue.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The really delightful concerts of popular music by the Fadettes Woman's Orchestra are easily the hit of the summer vaudeville bill at Keith's, and inasmuch as they make a weekly change of program, it is pratically a new act. The new members included in the roster of the orchestra have added a snap and go to the selections that is a delight to all true music lovers. There is no dimunition in the quality of the vaudeville talent, in fact, some of the acts lately have been even stronger than those included in the winter shows. Some of the entertainers scheduled for the coming week will be Clayton White and Marie Stuart, in their latest character sketch, "Paris," with singing and dancing specialties by the lady; Emma Francis and her Arabian Whirlwinds, introducing her original and novel specialty; Keno, Walsh and Melrose, one of the world's greatest comedy acrobatic acts; Mitchell and Cain, burlesque comedians, and Taylor Holmes, in a comedy effort at serious comedy. The Biograph will make the usual change in the list of motion pictures.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued cases of Frederick A. Thayer and John McKenzie, for violation of the liquor law at Quincy, was called, and again continued until next Wednesday.

Charles Symonds was fined $10 for speeding an automobile on the Blue Hills parkway.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ADMIRALS RESIGN

Czar Loses Two of His Official Family

CREATES A BIG SURPRISE

Grand Duke Alexis, Uncle of the Ruler, Had Supreme Direction of Navy--Head of Admiralty Department Also Steps Out

St. Petersburg, June 16.—The sensational announcement was made shortly before midnight that Grand Duke Alexis, the high admiral, who is an uncle of the czar, and Admiral Avellan, head of the Russian admiralty department, had resigned. This announcement was followed a few minutes later by an imperial rescript relieving the grand duke of the supreme direction of the navy, which he had held since the days of the emperor's father, Alexander III, when Russia resolved to enter the lists as a first-class sea power and to build up a great navy, the remnants of which were destroyed in the battle of the Sea of Japan.

Although from time to time since the war began there have been rumors that the grand duke would retire on account of the savage criticism, not to use harsher terms, directed against the administration of the navy, especially in the construction of ships, the announcement of his resignation came like a bolt from a clear sky. It was not preceded by any of the rumors which usually give warning of such an act, consequently it was assumed that some sudden event precipitated it, and ugly stories immediately came to the surface.

Among those sojourning in the cafes and hotels the editorial in The Nasha Schisn yesterday, demanding an accounting of the popular fund subscribed for the rebuilding of the navy and declaring that "great names are no longer guarantees," was instantly recalled.

The words of the rescript give no hint of imperial anger and the real explanation probably will not leak out for several days, but the instant disposition is to regard the retirement of Alexis and Avellan as a concession to public opinion following the crowning tragedy of the Sea of Japan.

Charges of mismanagement and inefficiency and tales of corruption and even worse against the marine department have been rife for years. After the war began they increased ten-fold and lately a regular campaign against the department has been openly conducted in the newspapers. Some startling revelations have been made in this campaign and Captain Clado, who was one of the leading critics of the conduct of the navy, was dismissed from the service for his persistence.

It was felt even in quarters where charges of corruption were not entertained that it would be unwise to entrust the rebuilding of the navy to the hands which were responsible for the hapless fleets of the past.

Grand Duke Alexis himself did not escape personal attacks, and scandal was so busy with his name that he was several times the subject of public demonstrations.

The name of the grand duke was high on the list of those condemned by the terrorists and after "Red Sunday" (Jan. 22 last) it was reported that he had fled abroad, but it developed that he was merely keeping closely within his palace. Recently he has shown himself more frequently, usually in a closed carriage. A press correspondent saw him Wednesday last driving down the Neva quay in a low, one-seated drosky, drawn by a fast-trotting stallion, which was going like the wind. The driver, it was noted, did not wear the imperial livery. The grand duke, who was servously glancing to right and left, kept his right hand deep in the pocket of his military overcoat and was evidently grasping a revolver.

The retirement of Admiral Avellan has not yet been published. The names of Vice Admiral Biriloff, who is returning from Vladivostok, and of Vice Admiral Chouknin, commander of the Black sea flee,t are mentioned among those likely to succeed Admiral Avellan.

Reminder of Great Disaster

New York, June 16.—A granite shaft erected in memory of those who lost their lives in the disaster to the excursion steamer General Slocum in East river on June 15, 1904, was unveiled yesterday in the Lutheran cemetery in Middle Village, L. I. Nearly 1000 lives were sacrificed when the Slocum was burned and of those who perished 61 were buried in the plot where the monument was erected.

Bowen Prepared to Fight

Washington, June 16.—After Minister Bowen has been relieved from duty, and that will be the outcome of the present controversy without question, he will be free to talk, and some sensational allegations may be expected. Bowen's friends assert that Loomis' explanations will bear further investigation, and this they purpose to give them.

Special Session For Hooker Case

Olean, N. Y., June 16.—Governor Higgins has issued a proclamation convening the legislature in extraordinary session at Albany on June 21. The governor does not announce what subjects are to be treated at the special session, except to say that the charges against Justice Hooker will be presented.

Ryan Owns Equitable Stock

New York, June 16.—Grover Cleveland, Morgan J. O'Brien and George Westinghouse, trustees of the Equitable Life Assurance society stock formerly owned by James H. Hyde, met here and a trust agreement was executed. Mr. Cleveland was elected chairman and George F. Parker secretary. At the conclusion of the meeting last night the trust agreement, with a letter from Ryan to the trustees and an appeal from Cleveland to the policyholders were made public. Ryan's letter announces his individual ownership of the stock.

Suburban Goes to Beldame

Sheepshead Bay, L. I., June 16.—Beldame, August Belmont's great 4-year-old mare, won the Suburban easily. Delhi, the favorite, went to the front at the start and stayed there for a mile with open daylight between him and Beldame. Beldame rushed up to Delhi at the turn and passed him like a flash. Delhi died away under the whip. The winner was a heavily played second choice at 3 to 1. Delhi finished sixth.

New Star to Shine.

Sadie Calhoun, Relative of Famous Senator, Has Leading Role.

Miss Sadie Calhoun, one of the talented young actresses on the American stage, has been engaged to create the leading role in the production next season of the stirring and successful drama, "The Shadow Behind the Throne."

The play calls for the highest histrionic ability. That Miss Calhoun is qualified to meet this demand is attested by virtue of her experience and the high measure of praise accorded her by the press and public.

Miss Calhoun has acquired her reputation as an artist solely by dint of hard labor in that best of all schools, the stock company. Her most recent engagement during the past season was a leading feminine role in Walter Perkins' comedy, "Who Goes There?" a difficult role to which she was called at a moment's notice and from which ordeal she arose with positive triumph. Besides being an artist of recognized merit, Miss Calhoun possesses other accomplishments that tend to make her envied by less fortunately endowed sister professionals. She is the possessor of a sweetly sympathetic soprano voice of range and flexibility. She is also a skilled and graceful dancer.

Miss Calhoun is a young woman of culture and education, and her ready pen has turned itself to the writing of plays, two of which are already in the hands of well known managers. She comes by her talent naturally, her family being one of the oldest and most distinguished in the south. She is a direct relative of the famous Senator Calhoun, one of the foremost figures of American history. Her home is Portsmouth, O.

The new play in which Miss Calhoun is to play the leading role next season is from the pens of Miss Alicia Ramsay and Rudolph De Cordova, two well known newspaper writers of London, and will have its first production in this country in New York under the direction of the author's brother, Leander De Cordova, and Sam E. Allen, a young theatrical manager widely known as a director of the tours of prominent American stars.

"Hans Wagner says in the 'Prince of Pilsen' that there is only one place in the world where a man is born with a title, and that's in Kentucky," remarked Raymond Hitchcock recently. "Along the same line," continued the player, "I had a rather amusing experience in the above state. You know in

SADIE CALHOUN.

Kentucky it's 'Colonel' this and 'Colonel' that until sometimes it gets monotonous. Well, I met a very distinguished old fellow—wide hat, snow white goatee and a man you would naturally think had marched under the 'stars and bars' to the tune of 'Old Dixie.'

"'Colonel Calhoun,' I asked him, 'were you in the militia?'

"'No, suh,' replied he in what I thought was a tone of surprise.

"'Then I suppose you took part in the late unpleasantness?'

"'Wrong again, suh,' responded the colonel.

"'You must pardon my insistence,' I hastened to add, 'but would you mind telling me how you became a colonel?'

"'Not at all, suh; not at all,' he answered smilingly. 'The fact, suh, is I married the beauteous widow of the intrepid and lately lamented Cunnel Johnson, suh.'"

Reginald De Koven has completed the score of "Elysia," the new musical comedy which he wrote in conjunction with Frederick Ranken for the use of De Wolf Hopper. The elongated comedian is soon to shelve his revival of "Wang" and will produce the later composition in September. Mr. De Koven, by the way, is getting some little reputation as a wit. Speaking of his scrapbook recently, a newspaper man remarked, "The average journalist begins by clipping everything he writes."

The composer of "Robin Hood" smiled. "Yes," he answered, "and ends by writing everything he clips."

TO TALK ON PEACE

Washington Is Chosen as the Meeting Place

WILL BE A LONG DELAY

Negotiators of Belligerents May Not Be Able to Get Together Before September--Is Deemed Probable That Japan's Terms Will Be Regarded by the World as Reasonable

Washington, June 16.—America's national capital has been selected as the seat of negotiations between the plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan for a treaty of peace. The choice of Washington as the location of the peace conference marks another forward step in the negotiations toward ultimate peace in the far east instituted by President Roosevelt.

Official announcement of the selection of Washington was made by Secretary Loeb at the White House. It was in typewritten form and read as follows:

"When the two governments were unable to agree upon either Chefoo or Paris, the president suggested The Hague, but both governments have now requested that Washington be chosen as the place of meeting and the president has accordingly formally notified both governments that Washington will be so selected."

This statement was supplemented shortly afterward by a semi-official announcement that "after meeting and organizing, the plenipotentiaries of the two governments, if it should be found to be uncomfortably hot in Washington, may adjourn the meeting to some summer resort in the north and there continue their sittings until such time as the weather in Washington shall be more comfortable."

Now that some of the details of the negotiations which have been pending for more than two weeks are known, the selection of Washington is regarded as the only logical solution of the problem presented to the belligerent governments. After the acceptance by Russia and Japan of President Roosevelt's proposition that they consent to consider the question of peace, Russia indicated Paris as the most desirable place for the meeting to negotiate a treaty and Japan indicated Chefoo.

There the subject rested for 48 hours. Finally Japan declined to consider Paris for obvious reasons, and Russia objected to the holding of the conference in any Oriental city. Washington then was suggested as a place at which the belligerents could meet on common ground, undisturbed by either political or personal influences.

As a means of facilitating the negotiations, the president suggested that the conference be held at The Hague, the seat of the international arbitration tribunal and the location of the first general arbitration conference called at the instance of the Czar of Russia. He indicated that for both practical and sentimental reasons The Hague would be a most desirable place of meeting for the plenipotentiaries. Further consideration of the subject developed the practically unalterable objection of Japan to any European capital as a seat for the conference. She objected particularly to The Hague, believing that it was too far within the sphere of Russian influence; and for a similar reason she declined favorably to consider Geneva.

Until yesterday, however, Japan's irreconcilable opposition to the selection of any European capital was not known definitely. At a conference which Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese minister, had with President Roosevelt yesterday, he conveyed to the president the Japanese government's final refusal to consent to the holding of the conference in Europe.

Both Russia and Japan are moving with the utmost deliberation, for the game of diplomacy now being played is of even greater importance to each government than are the movements of the armies on the battlefield. It will require at least a month for the negotiators of the two governments, with their respective staffs, to come together, the distance from Japan particularly being so great that a shorter time scarcely could be allowed. In view, therefore, of all the conditions and including in the equation the factor of unforeseen delays over matters of minor consequence, it seems quite likely that the conference will not assemble formally before the middle of August or the first of September.

Prior to the formal assembling of the conference it is probable, if precedent be followed, that a peace protocol will be negotiated. The making of the protocol will take place before the declaration of a formal armistice. It has not been learned yet who will be authorized by the Russian and Japanese governments to arrange and sign the protocol. The negotiations regarding it probably will be conducted in Washington.

President Roosevelt is gratified that the arrangements of a preliminary nature have been completed without undue friction. He would have preferred that the conference be held at The Hague, although the selection of Washington naturally is complimentary to him personally and to the American government.

It is not expected that the selection of Washington will interfere materially with the summer plans of the president. While no definite arrangements yet have been made, it is regarded as quite likely that he will come to Washington from Oyster Bay to receive the plenipotentiaries when they assemble, after which he will probably return to Oyster Bay. Officially this government will have but little to do with the negotiations between the representatives of the two powers.

It is well understood that the Japanese government will not make known, prior to the assembling of the plenipotentiaries, the terms on which she will be willing to conclude peace. The Japanese emperor is known to desire that, when peace is concluded, it shall be coupled with reasonable assurances of its permanency. Among well informed diplomatists it is deemed probable that Japan's terms, once they are stated, will be regarded by the world as reasonable and likely to be acceptable to Russia.

Bloody Battle Not Unlikely

St. Petersburg, June 16.—The selection of Washington as the place for the peace conference makes it certain that several weeks must elapse before the first meeting of the negotiators is possible. Unless President Roosevelt, on his own initiative, is able to induce the belligerents in the meantime to agree to an armistice, the fear is general that the interim will witness another bloody battle in Manchuria. Russia, while she could not place herself in the position of directly requesting an armistice, might welcome it if the suggestion came from the president.

Doubt is, however, expressed in certain quarters as to whether even an appeal by President Roosevelt could induce Japan to forego her present strategical advantages and the chance to deliver another blow before the plenipotentiaries meet. All the news from the front indicates that Field Marshal Oyama is ready to strike, and if, in advance of the meeting at Washington, he could administer a crushing defeat to General Linevitch, it would be all the easier for Japan to secure the acceptance of her terms.

Our Influence Is Growing

London, June 16.—The acceptance of Washington as the place for the conduct of peace negotiations is regarded by the London newspapers as a further proof of the growing influence of the United States in international politics. Moreover, it is felt that Japan would not have proceeded thus far unless convinced there was a reasonable prospect of the negotiations bearing fruit. It is therefore concluded that Japan has resolved to propose moderate and reasonable terms.

Diplomatic Victory For Japan

Paris, June 16.—The choice of Washington for the meeting of the peace plenipotentiaries gives general satisfaction here, as it is considered the appropriate result of President Roosevelt's initiative. Diplomatists are inclined to take the view that the selection of Washington is the first diplomatic victory for Japan, as Russian influence favored a European point, while Japan was opposed to a meeting in Europe.

Fears For British Shipping

London, June 16.—The Singapore correspondent of The Daily Mail says that the Russian cruiser Rion has left for Odessa and that great uneasiness is felt for the safety of British shipping.

Royal Wedding at Windsor

Windsor, June 16.—Princess Margaret of Connaught (eldest daughter of the Duke of Connaught) was married to Prince Gustavus Adolphus (eldest son of Crown Prince Gustavus of Sweden) at Windsor. The Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the bishop of Oxford and others, read the service of the Church of England. After the ceremony luncheon was served. The wedding cake, which formed the centrepiece of the table, was five feet in height.

Fire Quickly Destroyed Steamer

Mackinac, Mich., June 16.—Passenger steamer Harriet Hart, bound from Mackinac to Detour, Mich., was burned to the water when a few miles from Detour. The vessel was valued at $37,000. She carried seven passengers and these, together with the crew, were picked up by steamer Juniata and brought to Mackinac. The fire started in a pile of life-preservers and spread so rapidly that all hands were compelled to take to the small boats.

An Alleged Clothing Thief

New York, June 16.—Joseph A. Marcullica, 34 years old, was arrested in Brooklyn on a warrant from Boston charging him with being a fugitive from justice. His arrest in Boston was on a charge of stealing a quantity of trousers from a clothing company. It is understood that, in view of his default in Boston, requisition papers will not be necessary for his removal to Massachusetts.

Caven Held In $2500 Bail

Philadelphia, June 16.—Sensational testimony was adduced at the hearing of Select Councilman Caven, who is charged with violating his councilmanic oath by being "directly and indirectly interested in city contracts." At the conclusion of the hearing Caven was held in $2500 bail for court.

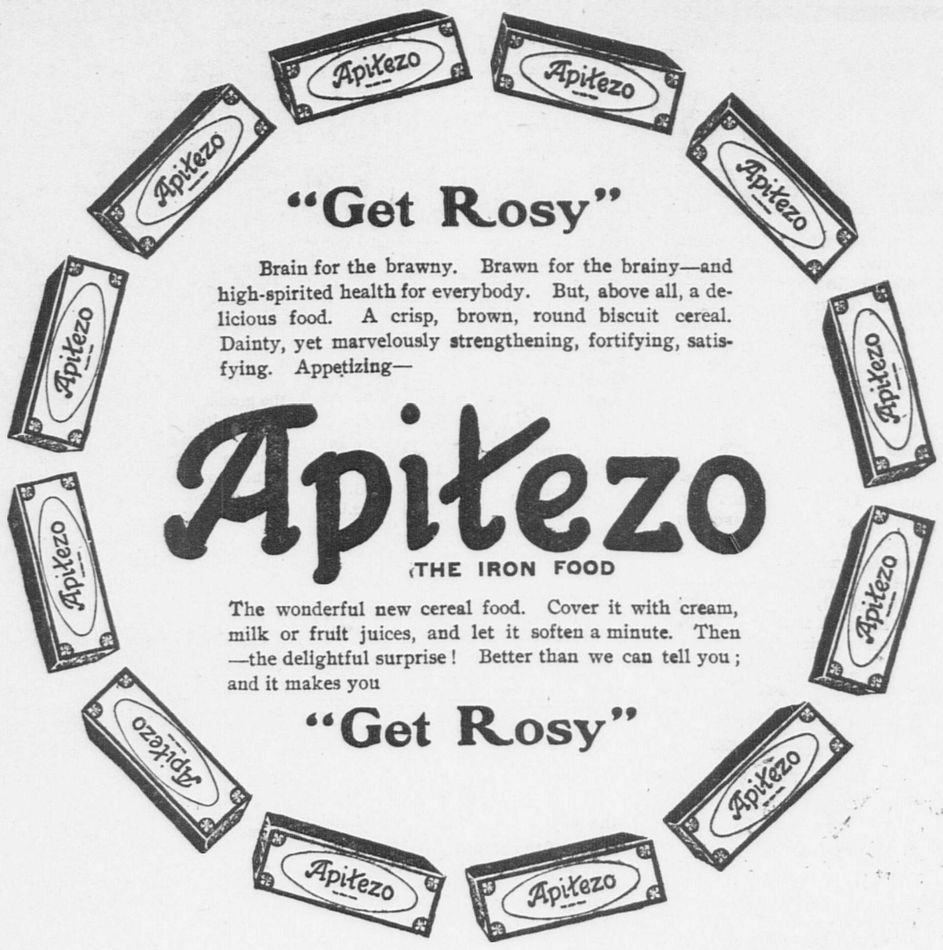

Confederates Elect Old Officers

Louisville, June 16.—General Stephen D. Lee was unanimously re-elected commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans. The other officers were also re-elected. The next convention will be held in New Orleans.

Water Ball, Game For Swimmers

Simply a Form of Baseball Played on Lakes or Rivers With Rafts or Floats For Men to Stand On. The Rules Easy to Understand.

The game of water baseball, or water ball, although little known, is one of the most interesting games imaginable, since it combines the main points of both baseball and water polo.

The rules of the game are simple, the only requirements being ability to swim well and to throw a ball. One large raft and four small ones about a yard square are needed, which are set out as in a baseball diamond, the large raft serving as home plate and the small ones as pitcher's box and the three bases. The diamond is of course much smaller than a baseball diamond, the distance between bases being about twelve yards. The ball used is a tennis ball and the bat a club about eighteen inches long. Five boys play on each side, the catcher playing on the home raft and the others at the pitcher's and base rafts. Each man stands on his raft, the batter also being on the home raft.

The batting rules are different from those in baseball in that there is no calling of strikes and balls. Everything is fair, and one strike is out if caught. The "everything fair" rule makes it possible to turn and hit the ball directly toward the catcher. If you are the first to bat and hit the ball, say, toward third, splash! and you are off for first. As you rise to the surface after the dive you see the third baseman and the pitcher furiously swimming after the ball. Oh, how fearful you are of getting caught!

To your excited eyes it seems as if first base were a mile away. As you near the base you see the pitcher seize the ball and turn in the water to throw it. But it is no easy matter to throw a ball while treading water, and the chances are that the throw is a bad one, and you are safe.

You now turn your attention toward second. To steal it seems easy, and so, as soon as the pitcher delivers the ball, you start. But if all goes well with the other team, when you have gone about a third of the distance you notice that the second baseman has the ball. Giving up all hope of gaining second, you turn to regain first, and to your horror note that the first baseman has followed you and waits for the ball about five feet to your rear.

Madly, now, you again turn your efforts toward second, only to see the second baseman, who has also jumped into the water, rapidly swimming toward you. With sheer desperation and much splashing you try to evade this latest comer, but you are put out and retired amid the excited yells of the onlookers. To the boys the game is full of fun. Sometimes an ardent first baseman will lean too far over to one side in his efforts to get the ball. This will cause the raft to tilt until the boy loses his balance, and in his efforts to regain the center of the raft it will shoot from under him, and he will land smack on the surface of the water. This funny side, together with the real interest of the game, makes it one of the best summer sports for a boys' camp.

Stadium at Princeton.

Once more Princeton university has revived the talk of building an athletic stadium similar to those now possessed by Harvard and the University of Pennsylvania. As it is the Tigers are compelled every year to build temporary stands for their big games and then tear them down, all of which is done at great expense. If Princeton would profit by the experience of Harvard and Penn she would construct permanent stands at once, for they would pay for themselves within a few years.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Infant's Wardrobe Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4675

No reform has been more sweeping or contributed more to the wearer's comfort than in the making of the wee baby's clothes. It is no longer necessary to use pins that might prick, buttons that press upon the little body or to smother the baby in yards of embroidery. The one object is to make everything for his babyship as sanitary and comfortable as possible. The design must be simple, though not severe. Clothing must hang from the shoulders, and it must be soft and loose, warm and light. In the making simplicity and daintiness are the attractive features—a hemstitched hem is much prettier than tucks machine stitched; long stitches and coarse material are not in keeping with the dainty face and figures. A little hand work and a very little trimming of real lace and insertion are charming, but superfluous trimming under the ruthless handling of the average laundress soon becomes a disappointment. Cambric and nainsook are used for dresses, and the little princess skirt opening on shoulder should be made of silk flannel. The sack should be made of cashmere or flannel and the coat and cap of silk or cloth. The set comprises five pieces—round yoke dress, one piece kimono, cloak and cap and princess skirt. What baby would not be happy upon his arrival to find such a wardrobe all complete? But his happiness would have no comparison to that of the mother who had manufactured the little garments.

THE WEARING OF SHOES.

A Custom That Is Almost as Old as the Race Itself.

What is regarded as the earliest reference to shoes is found in the Old Testament where Abraham refuses to take as much as a shoe latchet from the king of Sodom. Among the Jews the shoe played an important part in many social usages. When buying or selling land it was customary to deliver a shoe, and the act of throwing down a shoe on territory implied occupancy. The finding of sandals on Egyptian mummies proves that the wearing of shoes is almost as old as the race itself. In Venice in the seventeenth century every lady of any pretension to fashion or position wore what were called "choppines," high clogs or pattens, to elevate them from the ground. Thomas Coryat, a traveler who visited Venice in 1611, says of them: "They are so common in Venice that no woman goeth without either in her house or abroad. It is a thing made of wood and covered with leather in sundry colors—some white, some red, some yellow. Many of them are curiously painted; some also of them have I seen fairly gilt. There are many of these chapineys of a great height—even half a yard high—and by how much the nobler a woman is by so much the higher are her chapineys. All their gentlewomen and most of their wives and widows that are of any wealth are assisted or supported either by men or women when they walk abroad, to the end that they may not fall."—Chicago News.

SERPENT EATING SNAKE.

A Venomous Reptile That Will Attack Man or Beast.

The serpent eating snake, or king of serpents (Ophiophagus elaps) found in Burma, is among the most interesting of our venomous snakes and the only really aggressive member of the ophidians, readily attacking any man or animal that happens its way. The female is especially irritable during the season of modification, and an adult snake attains a length of from twelve to fifteen feet, is superlatively swift and active and possesses a poison fang three inches in length and charged with a very powerful venom. It will be admitted that Ophiophagus elaps, Naia bungarus or serpentivore, as it is also called, is a foe that had better be avoided.

While being neither an arboreal nor a water snake, the Ophiophagus elaps climbs trees with facility and takes to water readily, swimming with great ease and skill. Its poison is as deadly in its effect as that of the lesser hooded snake (the Ophiophagus elaps also carries a hood), the cobra, but it is believed that the action of the venom is not quite so rapid.

The shortest period within which it proved fatal to a fowl was fourteen minutes, while a dog expired in two hours and eighteen minutes. Nicholson relates an account of an elephant which succumbed to a bite in three hours.—Amrita Bazar Patrika.

Vine Covered Buildings.

If, as some say, ninety-nine out of a hundred American buildings are commonplace or ugly, it is a good thing to cover the walls completely, but when we have a piece of architecture that is a joy to everybody—something in which we can really take pride—vines should never be allowed to cover it entirely. In such a case the beauty of the vine is its aspiration, its incompleteness. This is particularly true of a beautiful church, and the right relation of architecture and foliage is well understood in England, but not in this country except in Boston and a few other communities.—Garden Magazine.

The Game of Quintain.

The game of quintain survives only in the village of Offham Green in Kent, England. It is so named from an instrument used in tilting on horseback with the lance. It consisted of an upright post, surmounted by a crossbar turning on a pivot, which had at one end a flat board and at the other a bag of sand. The object of the tilter was to strike the board at such a rate of speed that he would be past and out of the way before the bag of sand, as it whirled round, could hit him in the back.

Pleasant by Comparison.

Old Hunks (sitting for his photograph)—Well, ain't you ready? What are you waiting for? Photographer—A little pleasanter expression, please. Mrs. Hunks (who is standing at one side)—He's got his pleasanter expression on, Mr. Smith. I guess you didn't notice how he looked when we came in.—Chicago Tribune.

Evened Up.

Von Blumer—While I was watching the ticker some stock I bought went up 20 points in an hour. Dimpleton—So you made big money. Von Blumer—No, I came out about even. My wife was at her dressmaker's at the same time.—Life.

His Busy Day.

Cassidy—Hello! How's things wid you? Casey—Busy, very busy indade. Cassidy—Is it so? Casey—Aye! Shure, every time I'm at laysure I hov somethin' to do.—Philadelphia Press.

Anvil Duet.

Gladys—If she thinks her young man is such a paragon of perfection why does she watch him so closely? Esmeralda—She is afraid he is too good to be true.—Chicago Tribune.

Knows the Notes.

"I hear the cashier of your bank is very musical."

"Try working off a false note on him, and you'll think so."—Judge.

Wedding Postponed

Austin, Tex., June 19.—Sydney Lawson, 21 years old, who was to have been married yesterday afternoon, killed his brother-in-law, Walter Biles, yesterday and is now in jail here. As a result of feeling between Lawson and Biles the latter called at Lawson's house and tried, it is said, to get him to come out and fight. Lawson finally came out with two shotguns and began firing, killing Biles almost instantly. Lawson then came to Austin and surrendered.

Lightning Causes $225,000 Loss

Pewaukee, Wis., June 19.—Armour & Co.'s icehouses were struck by libhtning last night and destroyed, melting 200,000 tons of ice. The house of the superintendent, the barns and a boarding house of 50 rooms were also destroyed. The loss is $225,000. Each of the great icehouses was protected by a water tank, but the lightning set all the houses on fire at once and the water tanks were useless.

Killed Sweetheart and Self

Lafayette, Ind., June 19.—Harry Hatton, 30 years old, shot and killed his sweetheart and niece, Lulu Hatton, 17 years old; fatally shot the girl's father, Daniel Hatton, and then, running a mile to the home of his sister, sent a bullet through his own head, dying instantly. The tragedy, it is said, is the result of the refusal of Daniel Hatton to give his consent to the marriage of his daughter to Harry.

Army Officer an Embezzler

Washington, June 19.—The president has approved the sentence of dismissal and imprisonment for one year in the case of First Lieutenant Smith, artillery corps, recently convicted at Fort Preble, Me. He was tried upon the charges of making fraudulent claims and embezzlement. A part of the sentence was a fine of $1200, which the president has remitted.

Rioters Got a Flogging

Reval, Russia, June 19.—A riot of 200 prisoners, owing to alleged maltreatment, broke out in the prison here and was only quelled with the aid of troops. The rioters, who included women, smashed the furniture and the windows and attempted to escape, but the police and soldiers effectively held all exits. The offenders were flogged.

Prince Carl May Become King

London, June 19.—A Copenhagen dispatch says that the majority of the members of the Swedish riksdag are ready to accept King Oscar's third son, Prince Carl, as King of Norway, provided the Norwegian government shall demolish the fortifications on the frontier and enter into an arbitration treaty with Sweden.

Boys Tampered With Switch

Troy, N. Y., June 19.—A crowded trolley car ran into a freight train, because of a misplaced switch, near this city. Three persons were severely, but not dangerously injured. Boys mischievously tampered with the switch.

HOLIDAY ELECTION.

Annual of Quincy Historical Society.

More Social Gatherings to be Held.

School Graduates and Others Invited to Historical House.

Notwithstanding the intense heat on the afternoon of the Seventeenth a goodly number of the members of the Quincy Historical society gathered at the home of John and Abigail Adams, at four o'clock, for the annual meeting of the society.

Mr. Brooks Adams, president, presided. Reports were read by the officers and the old by-laws were rescinded and a new set adopted which will, it is hoped, simplify the carrying on of the work of the society.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President,—Mr. Brooks Adams.
Vice President,—Mr. Fred B. Rice.
Secretary,—Mrs. William E. Alden.
Treasurer,—Mr. James L. Edwards.
Librarian, — Mr. Houghton Schumacher.
Curators.—Mr. Brooks Adams, Mr. W. G. A. Pattee, Mr. Fred B. Rice, Mr. George W. Morton, Mr. James L. Edwards, Mr. Emery L. Crane, of Quincy, and Mr. J. White Belcher, of Randolph.

The president made Mrs. Alden, Mr. Edwards and Mr. Crane a committee on printing.

At the suggestion of the president, it was voted that the members enjoy the old house more, making it a place for social meetings, small receptions, teas, parties, etc., and invite their friends. He believed if the social life of the society was looked after the historical side would care for itself.

The society has extended an invitation to the graduating classes of the Quincy schools to visit the old Adams house. Each class to set a date and to be accompanied by the principal of the school.

An invitation was also extended to the New England Woman's Press association to visit the home of John and Abigail Adams when they come to Quincy on Wednesday June 21 for their annual outing.

After the business meeting Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Adams entertained the society at tea, serving ices, cool refreshing punch, sandwiches and cake.

It was a most enjoyable occasion and a pleasant way to pass a few hours on a patriotic holiday, amid historic souvenirs, in a house older than the time of the revolutionary war. It carried one's thoughts back to ye olden days.

Tennis Tournament.

There was a large number of entries, and some good play on the holiday at the open tournament in the Quincy club tennis courts on Whitney road. It was impossible, however, to play off the finals. They will probably be played next Saturday. The summaries:

PRELIMINARIES.

Plympton and Walworth beat Rice and Sampson, 6-0, 6-1.
Faithful and Hale beat Hosmer and Moore, 6-2, 6-1.
Plympton and Johnson beat Hillman and Barker, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3.

John W. Harrington, arrested at Milton for speeding an automobile and admitted to bail, was called and defaulted.

Joseph R. Smith was fined $15, and William Stone $10 for speeding automobiles at Milton.

William McEwen, John Stewart, Robert Menzie and John Cahill were fined $10 each, and Naman McTuren and Hector Anderson $3 each for disturbing the peace at Quincy.

MORNING WEDDING.

Groom from Providence and Bride a Quincy Lady.

At the St. Johns church this morning at half past nine was solemnized the marriage of Miss Mary E. McDonnell, daughter of Mrs. Mary A., and the late Thomas McDonnell of Bridge street, and Mr. John J. Carville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carville of Providence, R. I. The rainy weather did not prevent a large gathering of friends and the church was brilliant with electric lights, ferns, potted plants and happy faces.

Edward F. McAdams and William L. Dolan of Forest Hills, Edward J. Dunn of Quincy and William H. Carville of Providence, R. I. were the ushers.

The bride was very beautiful in a gown of white satin crepe de chene, with lace and chiffon trimmings. The tulle veil was caught up with lilies of the valley and she carried a white ivory prayer book.

She was attended by her sister Miss Loretta E. McDonnell, as maid of honor, who was charmingly gowned in white Swiss mull, trimmed with lace and ribbon. She wore a white picture hat and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Thomas Carville, brother of groom, was the best man.

Rev. Fr. Matthew McDonnell of St. Francis church, Braintree, uncle of the bride solemnized the marriage, and Rev. Fr. John Coan of St. Johns church celebrated the mass. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Matthew F. McDonnell.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride from eleven until two o'clock, the young people being assisted in receiving by their parents. Guests were present from Boston, Providence and Quincy.

Roses, ferns and potted plants were used for the house decorations. There was a beautiful display of valuable presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Carville go to Washington for the wedding trip, and on their return are to reside at Grove Hall, Boston, where they will be at home to their friends after August first.

Shedd-Collins.

A wedding of local interest was solemnized at Chicago, June 15, when Albert Rix Shedd, of Greenleaf street, an inspector of the United States naval department, was united in marriage to Miss Ellen Lovira, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Haynes Collins of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Shedd will pass their honeymoon at Cohasset, where they have taken a cottage for the summer, returning to Quincy in the fall for the winter.

The New Newsboy.

The new newsboy at Wollaston seems to be a general favorite. He is unique like "Togo" and "Jim Jeffries." He is in a class by himself, and is "not like other boys." He does not go around with a doleful face trying to sell soap to get a pair of foot ball breeches, and try to put them on when his father is about to spank him. Neither does he stand in the middle of the street when he plays ball and hurl pictorical vituperation at people in "Benzine buggies" and other vehicles when they claim the right of way. He does not say good morning to the neighborhood cats with a "bean blower," nor sneak off with his sister's bicycle for a couple of hours, when she wants to use it. He never puts buttons in the "chewing gum slot," and when the "no-school" whistle blows, he never turns three or four somersaults on somebody's lawn, and fire off a yell that would make the recent Wollaston explosion sound like a whisper. The new newsboy indulges in none of these charming social amenities. The reason is very obvious, he is too young. His name is Leland Chester, he was born in Arlington street last Thursday, June 15, and congratulations are in order to Mr. Gilbert C. Shunk, our popular newsdealer, and his wife. Of course they are delighted over the happy catastrophy.

Holiday Regatta.

Quincy boats made a good showing in the race of the Boston Yacht club off Hull on the holiday.

The Adams Bros' boat secured first money in the 18 foot class. It was, however, in the Cape cat class that local boats participate largely.

The Josephine and Hustler, both Quincy club boats, secured first and second position, while the Stranger, a Wollaston club boat, and the Marvel of the Quincy club secured third and fourth places.

Other Quincy, Wollaston and Squantum club boats participating in this class were Argestes, Moondyne, Goblin and Dorothy III.

Quincy chapter, Order Eastern Star, will hold a strawberry festival in Greenleaf hall, Wednesday evening. 3t

THE SEELY BOYS.

Sons of Uriah Seeley Making Their Mark.

The Red Bank (New Jersey) Register, says: "Three former Port Monmouth boys—Walter, James and Fred Seely—are making their mark in the world. They are the sons of Uriah Seely and were all born at Port Monmouth. A number of years ago the family moved to East Orange. Walter has just accepted a responsible position with an insurance company at San Francisco, California. For the past ten years he has been engaged in newspaper work. For two years he was business manager of the Newark Evening News. At the time of the assasination of President McKinley he worked 72 hours on the News without rest. This brought on nervous collapse and for nearly a year he was obliged to lay aside his work. When his health was sufficiently restored he took a position in the advertising department of the New York World. It was while he was on a trip to the Pacific coast in the interest of the World that the insurance company became interested in him. Mr. Seely is only 31 years old.

James, another of the Seely boys, is connected with a banking house in Boston, Massachusetts. Fred married the only daughter of E. W. Grove of Laxative Bromo Quinine fame, and is interested in the business. He is the inventor of improved machinery for the manufacture of medicinal tablets, on which he receives large royalties.

There are two other sons not mentioned in the above article: Uriah Seely, Jr., a druggist in Providence, R. I., and William Seely, connected with the Newark, (N. J.,) Advertiser. Mr. James P. Seely of Wollaston says: "Perhaps I have succeeded, but I have never thought of it in just that way. I have a nice family and a happy home in Wollaston. What more could a man desire?"

Miss Elsie C. Phillips is home from New Hampshire for the summer vacation.

Rev. Edward Norton preached at both morning and evening services at the Quincy Point church, Sunday.

The roller skating season at the Quincy Coliseum is over.

The Reapers will hold an experience meeting Thursday evening at the parish house of Christ church.

—Chairman Flaherty of the Democratic State Committee will resign to accept appointment on the board of Harbor and Land Commissioners.

SUED FOR LIBEL.

Eastwood Says He is Not Married.

Cards Issued by Mrs. Eastwood

The Grounds for the Suit Which Has Been Brought.

There is a sensational sequel to the announcement of the marriage of Mr. Everett O. Eastwood of Bethlehem, Penn., and Mrs. Effie Rhines of Miller Stile road, Quincy. The couple are not living together, and Mr. Eastwood is reported to have entered a suit against Mrs. Rhines for libel in the sum of $5000, because of her having circulated cards stating that they were married.

Mrs. Eastwood returned to Quincy on Sunday evening from Pennsylvania as she said she would a week before when she went away, and is today at her regular place of employment.

Probably Mrs. Eastwood will not deny that she caused the wedding notices to be issued last week at Bethlehem, as they bear the imprint of Boston stationers.

Mrs. Eastwood claims that they were married in New York city on November 24 last, and that she had a certificate from the officiating clergyman. The marriage was kept secret at the request of Mr. Eastwood, who did not wish his parents to know just yet.

Prof. Eastwood came to Quincy in 1901, after his graduation from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At that time he gave his age as 27. It was understood here that he was a graduate of the university of Virginia before he came to Technology. When Prof. Eastwood secured a position as a draftsman at the Fore River shipyards he found a boarding place at Mrs. Rhines' home, where he remained till he went to Pennsylvania in the fall of last year.

The attachment between the two was noted generally, and a marriage would have caused no surprise, but to keep it secret for nearly seven months was another thing, and proves to have been a mistake.

Mr. Eastwood was a guest at the Quincy home at Christmas time, and also at Easter, and has made her many handsome presents.

Y. M. C. A. CLASSES.

The Students Last Year Passed Good Examinations.

Returns from the International examinations in mechanical drawing, taken by several of the Y. M. C. A. class last winter are now in, and show creditable results, commendable both to school and student alike. Of the five papers sent to the examiners in New York, one received a mark of 82, one 87, two 92 and one 95. A larger proportion of the class will doubtless participate next year.

Inquiries are already being made regarding the school for next season and some applications are already filed.

The work will be continued in the building and on a broader and more complete basis than was possible last year. The Association is in the field not as a "trailer" of the technical schools and colleges or even city evening schools, but as an educational movement which stands for a unique work adaptable to the varying needs of men, and is recognized and commended the country over as such.

The committee will meet for its first meeting early this week to begin the plans for the season which will open about Oct. 15, Mr. A. G. Bookwalter, the State secretary on educational work will meet with committee at this first meeting.

Waiting the Result.

The result of the School contest will not be known until next Sunday, but the chances are good that Miss Julia E. Underwood will be one of the three successful teachers in the Greater Boston grammar district. About 100,000 votes were put in for her during the last week. It was surprising where so many votes came from. But they came from everywhere, several non-residents as well as the Quincy schools and Quincy pupils contributing to the total. It was no small task to prepare the votes they came in so rapidly.

COUNCIL TONIGHT.

Several Important Reports Expected—Other Business.

The 21st meeting of the year of the City Council will be held this evening. There is considerable business to come up.

The Committee on Sewers will report on the order for $25,000 for sewer extensions.

The Committee on Public Buildings will report on the matter of connecting the Adams school with the public sewer; on the matter of setting aside the old school house lot at Quincy Neck as a park; and the Willard school playground.

The Committee on Fire Department will report on two petitions for fire alarm boxes, and the Committee on Ordinances will report on the order for $800 for a pipe drain, and catch basins on Taylor street.

The Committee on Licenses will also report on applications for minor licenses.

Besides there are a number of public hearings advertised for this meeting. These include those on the acceptance of Freeman, Holmes and Coe streets, widening Granite streets and extending Sea street from high to low water mark. There are also several hearings on pole locations.

It is also possible that the Finance Committee will report upon some of the matters before them and another attempt may be made to pass the High school enlargement order which is now on the table.

Six Arrested.

There was quite a lively scrap on Washington street near the Canal early Sunday morning, during which Robert Menzie had his head split open either with a bottle or a bar of iron. The row is said to have started from a dispute over the foot ball game Saturday afternoon. A large window in the office of Myett's express was smashed in, and Mr. Myett telephoned the police.

Meanwhile, Officer Stewart who had heard the racket arrived on the scene and placed six of them under arrest. They were all taken to the police station. The men arrested gave their names as Norman McSween, William McEwen, Hector Anderson, John Stewart, John Cahill and Robert Menzie.

The gang were arraigned in court upon a complaint charging them with disturbing the peace. McEwen, Stewart, Menzie and Cahill were fined $10 each, and McSween and Anderson $3 each.

Commodore Wiley of the Wollaston Yacht club will sail June 28 for his annual cruise along the Maine coast.

BABES IN THE WOOD

Two Bound and Gagged and One Dies of Injuries

Plympton, N. S., June 19.—The citizens of this town are aiding the authorities in an endeavor to solve the mystery surrounding one of the cruelist tragedies ever enacted in this province. Two small children were gagged and bound and left to die in the woods a mile from the house where they lived. One child, 18 months old, was alive when found and has recovered. The other child, known as May Young, 6 years old, was dead when found, and it is believed that she was killed before being left in the woods.

Both children lived under the care of a young woman called Hope Young, who claimed to be the widow of Fred Young of Boston. The woman had been living at the home of Kingsley Melanson, a laboring man. The woman states that on Friday afternoon she went to the home of a neighbor and returned 15 minutes later to find that the house had been entered, a small sum of money stolen and the two children missing.

The neighborhood was soon aroused and searching parties were organized. When the searchers were in the woods about a mile from the Melanson house, the cry of a child was heard and a few minutes later Elma, the 18-months-old girl, was found lying in a thicket with her hands and feet securely bound, while a hood had been bound over her mouth as a gag.

Search was continued and the body of May, the 6-year-old girl, was found. Her hood was pulled entirely over her head and face. Her mouth was stuffed and bound with burdock leaves and her head was securely tied and bound with strings. Although her hands and feet were not tied, the brush had evidently not been disturbed, which led to the suspicion that the child was dead or nearly dead when placed there.

Was a Dangerous Cracksman

New York, June 19.—Homeless and apparently in a dying condition, Frank McCoy, known as "Big Frank," a famous old-time bank burglar, was picked up in the street last night and taken to Bellevue hospital. McCoy was a partner of Jimmy Hope, who died here a few days ago, in the famous Manhattan bank robbery and in that of the Beneficial savings bank of Philadelphia in 1872, when the burglars carried off $60,000. McCoy, who is a giant in stature, is now upwards of 60 years of age.

Fatally Hurt at Baseball

Auburn, Me., June 19.—Frank C. Wilcox, 19 years old, died from injuries received while playing baseball. Wilcox was catcher on a local nine and he turned his head at the very instant the ball was pitched. He received a blow in the head, causing a rupture of a blood vessel near the brain.

Spanish Politicians Excited

Madrid, June 19.—A ministerial crisis is believed to be imminent. The government candidates for the vice presidencies of the chamber of deputies were defeated on Saturday and other government motions were rejected. There is much excitement in political circles.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Mills Nos. 1 and 2 of the Bay State Moulding company, Malden, Mass., were damaged by fire to an extent of $9000. A member of the company states that he believes that the origin was incendiary.

A granite monument, embellished by four bronze tablets, to the memory of the early settlers of Newbury, Mass., was dedicated in that town scarcely a gun shot from the spot where the first inhabitants of the town landed from the ship Mary and John in 1635.

James Maloney, 12 years old, was drowned at Northampton, Mass., while assisting in rescuing a playmate.

Indications point strongly to the suicide of Silas H. Wyman, aged 57, foreman of a sash and blind factory at Gardiner, Me. Wyman was at one time prominent in social and business circles in Augusta, but reverses had made him despondent.

Rev. Dr. William R. Clark, a prominent Methodist clergyman, died at his home at Cambridge, Mass., aged 82. He was a native of Greenfield, Mass.

O. O. Iselin, the yachtsman, is ill at his home at New Rochelle, N. Y., under the care of a specialist and nurses. He is said to be suffering from nervous breakdown.

A LOSS TO CUBA

All Classes Regret the Passing Away of Gomez

FORMER HEAD OF ARMY

Tireless and Aggressive Fighter For Freedom of The Island--Reduced to Absolute Want After Close of Last Cuban War

Havana, June 19.—The first day of mourning for General Maximo Gomez, who died Saturday, was characterized by cloudy weather and occasional rain sprinkles. The flags of every nation represented in Havana are at half mast over the legations and consulates, and from Cabanas fortress a gun booms every half hour. In every street there are long rows of Cuban flags, draped in mourning, and even the poorest tenements have crepe tied to the windows. The Spanish club joined in the mourning by hoisting the Castilian flag at half mast.

The body of General Gomez was taken to the palace, where it now lies in state in the principal salon, surrounded by great masses of flowers. The body is guarded by a detachment of rural guards and several of the general's former officers are acting as a guard of honor. There was a procession of visitors to the palace yesterday, but the face of the general was not exposed after it was finally looked upon by the members of his family. Band concerts and performances in the theatres, where customary on Sunday, as well as all social gaieties, were wholly suspended.

Maximo Gomez was born at Bani, San Domingo, in 1836. His aptitude for warfare was first shown in his native country, but while still a young man he went with a military contingent called the reserves to Santiago de Cuba.

At the outbreak of the revolution in Yara he enlisted in the Cuban army as a private in the command of Jose Joaquin Palma. Promoted to the rank of captain soon afterward, he was one of the most tireless and aggressive of partisans during the entire war.

In October, 1868, Gomez had an encounter with the Spanish troops near Baire in which his forces were outnumbered three to one. The Spanish commander was the famous Colonel Quiros. The next year he was made lieutenant colonel, and his victories near Jiguani and Holguin earned for him the rank of colonel. During the following years he was busy campaigning near Guantanamo and Tiguabo. With General Calixto Garcia he captured Holguin in 1872.

The commander-in-chief (Agramonte) of the Cuban army, hearing that Gomez was the bravest and most intelligent officer in Santiago, ordered him to go to Puerto Principe, and promoted him to the rank of brigadier general. In Puerto Principe he was known as "the terror," for wherever he went the Spaniards fled before him. Thus he was able to capture Nuevitas, Santa Cruz, Guaimaro and Cascorro. His most important battles were those of Palo Seco and Las Guasimas.

During 1874 the Spaniards built a chain of forts between Moron and Ciego de Avila, hoping to thus separate the patriots of the two ends of the island. Gomez and his soldiers, however, were able to pass the forts and invaded Santa Clara. He pushed his way as far as Cienfuegos, and at Loma del Gibaro defeated the Spanish general Jouvellar.

By this time Gomez was a major general, and he was made commander-in-chief when Agramonte died. When the revolution was dying out he escaped to Jamaica.

In 1885 he made an attempt, with Maceo and Crombert, to land in Cuba, but the expedition was a failure. When Marti was made president of the revolutionary party he was heartily joined by Gomez in the movement to free Cuba.

In 1895 Gomez was the military chief of the most formidable insurrection in the history of troubled Cuba. The Spanish general, Campos, was soon forced inside of Havana by the patriot, who was then at the head of 50,000 men.

In March, 1899, he was deposed as commander-in-chief of the Cuban army. He had the full confidence of the American authorities, and was a prominent candidate for the Cuban presidency.

After the close of the war Gomez, being in absolute want, was the recipient from the United States government of a sum sufficient for his support for the remainder of his life. He came to New York and remained there for some months, and then returned to Cuba, where he had since resided.

Caterpillars Invade Texas

Houston, Tex., June 19.—Throughout the eastern and southeastern sections of Texas there is a pest of caterpillars and they are doing great damage to fruit trees, cotton, corn and truck gardens. State Entomologist Conrad says that, while the insects are usually controlled by natural enemies, all specimens examined by him this year are free from the usual parasites.

Run Down by a Train

Danbury, Conn., June 19.—The mutilated body of Charles Young, a hatter, aged 30, was found on the railroad tracks near the White street station. It is supposed that he attempted to board a freight train while it was in motion and fell between the cars. A wife and two children survive him.

FISHERMAN SUNK

Struck Amidships by a Vessel Off Nantucket

Boston, June 19.—While fishing in the South channel off Nantucket during a thick fog, with 10 dories out and only two men on board, schooner Nellie G. Adams of Provincetown was run down and sunk by schooner J. Holmes Birdsall of Philadelphia. The two men on the sinking craft were rescued immediately and, by blowing her whistle, the Birdsall was able to collect the balance of the fisherman's crew. The Birdsall then turned back and reached this harbor last night.

Captain Robinson of the Birdsall stated that his vessel came upon the Adams without the slightest warning and the vessels were too close for the Birdsall to swerve on her course.

Leaving Boston late Friday, Robinson said that he headed down the South channel on account of the thick weather and the southwest breeze. The fog was very dense off Nantucket and the Birdsall had reached a point off Great Rip when the fisherman was discovered dead ahead. The Adams was struck amidships and sank within a few minutes, the skipper and cook clambering over the bow of the Birdsall, without waiting to save any of their effects. The captain of the fisherman reported that he had 10 dories out in the vicinity, with two men in each. The engineer of the Birdsall was ordered to get up steam and blow the whistle and within two hours the 10 boats had been collected and the men taken aboard. The Birdsall was practically uninjured.

New England's Torrid Wave

Boston, June 19.—The torrid wave that rolled over New England on Friday not only lingered Sunday, but increased in intensity, and with a high increase of moisture brought much discomfort to man and beast. Heat records for the particular day were broken in many places, and maximums of more than 90 degrees were reported from many interior points. A few scattered showers fell and several thunderstorms of mild intensity prevailed in the northern part of New England and some of them resulted in cooler weather for a few hours.

Joy Resigns From Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., June 19.—In a communication to The Harvard Crimson, the university daily, Dean Hurlburt announces the resignation from the university of Benjamin Joy, who was implicated in the "Med Fac" society disturbances. Joy is a member of the senior class and, although he has successfully passed his examinations, he will not be graduated with his class and will not receive a diploma.

Killed In Runaway Accident

Saunderstown, R. I., June 19.—Miss Alice J. Gould, 50 years old, matron at a vacation home for poor girls, started out on a drive with three of her charges. The horse became frightened at two fast-speeding automobiles, and ran until the carriage was overturned. The three girls escaped with slight bruises, but Miss Gould struck on her head and sustained a fracture of the skull, dying within two hours.

The Corinthian Yacht Race

Marblehead, Mass., June 19.—Of the 33 small yachts that started at dark Saturday night on the Corinthian Yacht club's 67-mile ocean race to the Isles of Shoals and return, 29 finished after an interesting but uneventful voyage in which the leader, the Sally VII, covered the distance in about 14 hours, and the last boat crossed the line a little more than four hours later.

Probable Case of Suicide

Naugatuck, Conn., June 19.—Lying in a secluded place in a clump of trees in Union City, the body of an unknown young woman was found by a party of boys. There was a bullet hole in her right temple and a revolver was tightly clutched in her right hand, indicating suicide. The woman was apparently about 25 years old and her features were comely.

Eleven Arrests In Fraud Case

Cambridge, Mass., June 19.—Thomas Daly and James Jordan, who were indicted by the grand jury in the Cambridge registration cases, surrendered to the police and were taken to the house of correction. They were later admitted to bail of $1000 each. Eleven men have thus far been taken into custody in connection with the registration cases.

Conductor Fatally Hurt

Lynn, Mass., June 19.—Albert L. Davis, a street railway conductor, was passing along the running board collecting fares when he was thrown against a trolley wire support. His skull was fractured. He was taken to the Lynn hospital, where it is said that he cannot survive his injuries.

Storm Crippies Railway Service

Rutland, Vt., June 19.—One of the severest thunderstorms for several years prevailed in this vicinity for two hours last evening, badly crippling the electric service of the street car, telephone and telegraph companies. Two barns were struck by lightning and destroyed.

Killed Himself In Woods

Lowell, Mass., June 19.—The body of Henry Perron, 28 years old, of this city, was found in the woods near Mountain Rock with a bullet wound in the head and a revolver by his side. From two notes found by his side it is believed that he took his own life.

Strangled by Barbed Wire Fence

Brockton, Mass., June 19.—Michael F. Sullivan, aged 42, fell across a barbed wire fence which struck his throat and choked him to death. Medical Examiner Paine reported that death was due to accidental strangulation.

CITY BREVITIES

A cold storm.

Auctioneer Johnson will sell furniture at 56 Edison street on Thursday afternoon.

Dr. C. W. Garey and H. H. Hill returned this morning from a three days' trip to New York.

This is the last week for the grammar schools, and about 300 boys and girls will be graduated on Friday.

The Finnish church and Sunday school held an all day picnic at Merrymount park on the holiday.

The low temperature of today is in marked contrast with the record breaking hot days of Saturday and Sunday.

It was ideal holiday weather on the Seventeenth, and the rain predicted for Sunday, did not come until after midnight.

The time for schools to close for the summer vacation is near at hand and still no signs of the High school being enlarged.

Mrs. Sara J. Clark of Flandreau, S. D., is visiting her sister, Mrs. P. W. Kribs, at her apartments in the Durgin-Merrill block.

Mr. William Vinton of East Bridgewater was a guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Vinton of Chestnut street. For a man of 87 years he is remarkable well and erect. He served in the Legislature with Henry H. Faxon in 1864 and the two gentlemen were pleased to recall old reminiscenses. During his stay Mr. Vinton also visited Boston and took in the sights.

For excellent work, prompt attention in Barber work, call at H. C. Chaloner's shop.

School Attendance.

The average daily attendance at the Quincy public schools for the four weeks ending June 2 was 5069, a percentage of 93 plus. The daily attendance at the High school was over 535. The Cranch building had the best percentage, but had close rivals in the John Hancock, High and Willard. The John Hancock had only four tardinesses for the forty sessions, and there were only seven dismissals at the Willard. Six buildings reported a total of 14 cases of truancy.

Germany In Favor of International Conference

PROPOSITION TO FRANCE

Latter Wants Definite Information as to Scope and Limitations Before Assenting--Will Have Aid of Great Britain

Paris, June 19.—The improvement in the Franco-German situation has taken a more definite turn, as the semi-official version of Saturday's conference between Premier Rouvier and Prince Von Radolin, the German ambassador, has become known. This version shows that the ambassador asked France to accept in principle the plan of an international conference, leaving the details to be adjusted later. Rouvier answered that he desired at first to be advised upon Germany's object in securing the conference and the questions it would be called upon to consider.

As the result of instructions from Berlin, Von Radolin was able to respond to these inquiries and to give definite information regarding the German government's ideas upon the scope and limitations of the conference. More particularly was he able to relieve the conference plan from any appearance of being a menace to France or of being a preliminary step to override French prestige in Morocco.

With these explanations, pour parlers will continue with a good prospect of resulting in a definite agreement. There is, however, a necessity for further exchanges between the governments with a view of fully defining the extent of the conference.

Premier Rouvier also conferred at considerable length with Paul Cambon, the French ambassador to Great Britain, following the latter's conversations with Lord Lansdowne, the British foreign minister. These conversations showed that the British declination to participate in the conference had been entirely free from the belligerent tone ascribed to it. Moreover, Great Britain is resolved to adhere to article 9 of the declaration of April 8, which says: "The two governments agree to lend each other diplomatic support for the execution of the clauses of this declaration."

Great Britain intends to loyally interpret this article, and, according to the indications furnished by her, will assist France in settling Moroccan affairs.

Therefore if the conference takes place Great Britain will partake therein with the proviso that the scope of the conference must first be clearly defined.

France at the outset was not disposed to accept an international conference upon Morocco, while Germany was insistent. The effect of this was to create a direct issue as to whether a conference should or should not be held. France has shown a disposition to consider the question of a conference if Germany will give full assurance that this does not mean a sacrifice of any right which France has acquired or of obligations incurred by other international agreements concerning Morocco.

Inquiry in highest German quarters show that it is Germany's purpose to give every reasonable assurance on these points. It is said also that Germany sincerely desires to avoid the appearance of placing France in an embarrassing or humiliating position. The chief point Germany would ask of a conference is a guarantee that Germany shall enjoy an open door to Morocco, and she does not wish to accept this guarantee through an Anglo-French entente.

Eleven Negroes Killed in Row

Griffin, Ga., June 19.—Chief of Police Phelps says his latest information regarding the shooting on the negro excursion train on the Southern railway Saturday night is that 11 negroes are dead. Two Griffin negroes of bad reputation are held as suspects. They say a crap game which had been going on all day Saturday was the cause of the trouble and that the fighting began in Atlanta and raged unceasingly with revolvers and razors til Griffin was reached.

Girl Killed by Skyrocket

Cayuga, Ind., June 10.—Madeline Ashley, 19 years old, was instantly killed, and Madeline Adams, 2 years old, was probably fatally injured by a skyrocket during a fireworks exhibition here. The rocket struck the smaller girl and the stick then penetrated the brain of Miss Ashley.

IT IS FOR LADIES, TOO.

They Can Stop Their Hair Falling Out With Herpicide.

Ladies who have thin hair and whose hair is falling out, can prevent the hair falling out, and thicken the growth, with Newbro's "Herpicide." Besides, Herpicide is one of the most agreeable hair dressings there is. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ that eats the hair off at the root. After the germ is destroyed, the root will shoot up, and the hair grow long as ever. Even a sample will convince any lady that Newbro's Herpicide is an indispensable toilet requisite. It contains no oil or grease, it will not stain or dye. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

RUSSIA AGREEABLE

Willing to Discuss Peace Terms at Washington

"REBUFF TO ROOSEVELT"

Envious Prediction of Collapse of Negotiations Failed to Materialize--Operations In Manchuria in Full March Toward a Big Engagement

St. Petersburg, June 19.—Russia has finally and definitely accepted Washington as the meeting place of the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries, the foreign office having waived its request for reconsideration at the personal direction of the czar, whose desire to give the fullest and fairest opportunity to President Roosevelt's proposal for a peace conference is thereby manifested.

After a conference with Ambassador Meyer, Foreign Minister Lamsdorff went to Peterof and laid the matter before the czar, who, on learning that insistence on The Hague might endanger the negotiations, directed Lamsdorff to inform Meyer that Russia would accept Washington.

It was after midnight when the foreign minister returned from Peterhof, but Meyer was forthwith notified and a cipher dispatch was prepared and sent to the state department at Washington at an early hour Sunday morning. Count Lamsdorff yesterday afternoon issued a public announcement of the selection of Washington.

The result is looked upon as a decided triumph for American diplomacy. In certain quarters here envy and jealousy of the United States are ill-concealed. The entire collapse of the negotiations was predicted Saturday and there was almost open exultation at what was declared to be a "rebuff to Roosevelt." Even in peace circles gloomy faces were drawn at the report that Russia would insist upon The Hague; but thanks to the personal attitude of the czar and to the well-put representations of Ambassador Meyer, the threatened diplomatic mountain has decreased to a mole-hill over which negotiations can now proceed rapidly.

The Gazeta, which is known as a mouth-piece of the foreign office, declares that nothing is yet known regarding Japan's terms. It intimates that Russia may not balk at an indemnity, significantly stating that international control of the Chinese eastern railroad is possible as a means of insuring payment of an indemnity. It says that the plenipotentiaries will have special powers and may be authorized to conclude peace.

Although the way has thus been smoothed for a peace conference, the operations in Manchuria appear to be in full march toward a big engagement, the Japanese having pushed forward west of the Liao river, 83 miles north of Fakumen. The Japanese have strong forces here as well as in the rear of General Linevitch's advance detachments near Chantufu, and even threaten the flank of the fortified positions at Sipingai, where Linevitch intended to offer battle, but from which he pushed far to the southward during months of inactivity on the part of the Japanese army.

It is not known here whether Linevitch will retire slowly on these positions, or whether, as he intimated recently in an interview with a press correspondent, he intends to meet the Japanese flanking operations to the westward by a counter-offensive movement.

Sinking of the St Kilda

St. Petersburg, June 19.—British Ambassador Hardinge has brought the case of the British steamer St. Kilda, which was sunk by the Russian auxiliary cruiser Dneiper June 5, in the China sea, before Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, asking that reparation be made and that steps be taken to prevent the recurrence of such actions by Russian warships. Count Lamsdorff promised the ambassador that the matter should be investigated.

Cavalry Base In Manchuria

London, June 19.—The correspondent at Tokio of The Daily Telegraph says: A Russian cavalry base has been established at Pedue, in Mongolia. Fears are expressed by the Pekin government that Russia, expelled from Manchuria, may seize Mongolia.

Steamer Sunk In Collision

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., June 19.—During a thick fog which prevailed in the upper lakes the steel freight steamers Etruria and Amasa Stone collided in Lake Huron. The Etruria was damaged so that she sank within a few minutes, the crew narrowly escaping with their lives. The lost steamer was valued at $240,000. The Amasa Stone escaped serious damage.

Wreck of Special Train

Niagara, Ont., June 19.—A special train, consisting of two engines and nine day coaches, was wrecked at the foot of Queenstown Heights. All the cars were crowded. Scores of people were cut and bruised, but no one was seriously hurt.

Sacrificed Life For Baby

Watertown, N. Y., June 19.—Mrs. Chester Doney, aged 40, sacrificed her life to save her 3-year-old boy, who had upset an oil can and ignited it by stepping on a match. The woman was horribly burned. The house was destroyed.

McGraw Not Popular at St Louis

St. Louis, June 19.—At the conclusion of the St. Louis and New York National league baseball game here, while the New York players were entering an omnibus, by the side of which Manager McGraw of the New York team was standing, a crowd assembled and began jeering McGraw. He replied, and instantly the crowd made for him. Somebody struck McGraw with an umbrella, and this was followed by a shower of stones. A number of officers hurried up and dispersed the crowd. The omnibus was accompanied from the grounds by several policemen and there was no further trouble.

Wreck Victims Number Twenty-Five

Baltimore, June 19.—The death roll of Saturday night's disaster on the Western Maryland railroad now foots up 25. Disregard of orders caused the wreck. All the dead were employes of the railroad, returning to their homes in the small towns along the railroad to spend Sunday. The train carried a large number of passengers, all the coaches being filled. As many of the workmen as could do so went into the baggage car, the remainder of the gang of 35 finding places on the platforms between the mail and baggage cars and between the latter and the tender. An extra freight, made up of heavy coal and provision cars, was running east. It should have taken a siding to allow the passenger to pass. Such were the orders. Why they were disregarded will never be known, for all those who should have seen that they were obeyed are dead.

"Professional Lobbyist a Criminal"

Sandusky, O., June 19.—Governor Herrick has declared, in a speech at Cedar Point, his purpose to set on foot a movement for the eradication of professional lobbying in the legislative halls of Ohio. He said: "Lobbying is responsible for the low estimate in which our lawmaking bodies are held by many throughout the entire country. The professional lobbyist is a criminal."

Boys Struck by Lightning

Albany, June 19.—While on a day's outing with his father, Edgar S. Maguire, aged 13 years, of this city, was struck by lightning while seeking shelter from a rainstorm under a tree, six miles from Albany, and instantly killed. His stepbrother, who was alongside of him, was also struck and rendered unconscious, but will probably recover, although maimed for life.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A STRENUOUS REMEDY.

How a Servant Tried to Sober Up a Bibulous Diplomat.

The story had reference to a former senator of the United States who was sent to Russia as minister. There were various evidences in the archives of the legation that sobriety was not this gentleman's especial virtue and among them very many copies of notes in which the minister, through the secretary of legation, excused himself from keeping engagements at the foreign office on the ground of "sudden indisposition."

Mr. Prince told me that one day this minister's valet, who was an Irishman, came to the consulate and saidi "Oi'll not stay with his igsillincy anny longer. Oi've done wid him."

"What's the trouble now?" said Mr. Prince.

"Well," said the man, "this morning Oi thought it was toime to get his igsillincy out of bed, for he had been drunk about a week and in bed most of the toime, and so Oi went to him and says gentle-loike, 'Would your igsillincy have a cup of coffee?' when he rose up and shtruck me in the face. On that Oi took him by the collar, lifted him out of bed, took him across the room, showed him his ugly face in the glass, and Oi said to him, says Oi, 'Is thim the eyes of an invoy extraor-r-r-rdinary and ministher plinipotentiarry?'"—From the Autobiography of Andrew D. White.

HUMMING BIRDS.

Feeding the Bantlings Looks Like a Dangerous Operation.

When I first crawled in among the bushes close to the nest the little mother darted at me and poised a foot from my nose, as if to stare me out of countenance. She looked me all over from head to foot twice. Then she seemed convinced that I was harmless.

She whirled and sat on the nest edge. The bantlings opened wide their hungry mouths. She spread her tail like a flicker and braced herself against the nest side. She craned her neck and drew her dagger-like bill straight up above the nest. She plunged it down the baby's throat to the hilt and started a series of gestures that seemed fashioned to puncture him to the toes. Then she stabbed the other baby until it made me shudder. It looked like the murder of the infants. But they were not mangled and bloody. They were getting a square meal after the usual humming bird method of regurgitation.

They ran out their slender tongues to lick the honey from their bills. How they liked it! Then she settled down and ruffled up her breast feathers to let her babies cuddle close to her naked bosom. Occasionally she reached under to caress them with whisperings of mother love.—Country Calendar.

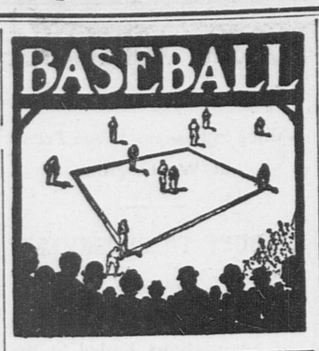

SURE HER TOOTH WAS OUT.

Force of Imagination as Exemplified In a Dentist's Chair.

Dentists have a splendid opportunity of studying the power of imagination. A New York practitioner by way of illustration told a reporter about one of his women patients. She entered, accompanied by her husband, and, pointing to her swollen face, asked the dentist to extract the offending tooth. He placed her in the chair and, taking the small hand glass which dentists use, put it into her mouth for the purpose of examining the molar which was to be extracted.

The glass had no sooner touched the tooth than she uttered a frightful scream and, bouncing out of the chair, rushed out into the waiting room, crying that her jaw was broken. The united efforts of her husband and the dentist were for some time unable to persuade her that the tooth was not extracted and that she could not possibly have been hurt. After examining her mouth with the aid of a glass she finally became convinced that the tooth was still in its place. Taking her seat in the chair again, she submitted to the operation of extracting the tooth without a murmur and expressed her surprise that the pain was so slight.

BASEBALL

Two games played and each side has a victory. This is the record of the Granite City Club ball players. The first game was played on the morning of May 30. The second game was played on the morning of the Seventeenth. The first game the honors fell to the married men. The second game fell to the single men. It should be recorded however that if the kids had not augmented their team with several star players, not club members, that the victory would doubtless have gone the way of the first game.

As a whole the married men played a better game Saturday than they did in May and it was only by strengthening themselves with outside talent that the single fellows were in it at all.

The game started in with President Jones at the bat. The first time he hit it he missed it. The second time he hit it, he missed it in the same place. The third time he hit it, the ball fell into the pitcher's box and young Cy Saunders with the assistance of the umpire was able to get it to third in time to put the doctor out.

Mark Reed got a hit and scored the first run for the married men. Then John Curtis and Charlie Penniman, he with the billiard eye, came to the bat in turn but were unable to find the ball and went out.

The single men had their innings and the first seven men at the bat scored runs. Bunco made the first out and young Dr. Marstin followed suit. A fine catch of a fly ball by Johnnie Lennon put the side out.

I forgot to mention that in the first inning the man who hangs out at 92 Franklin street made a swipe at the ball, missed it and was declared out.

Chimmie Penniman picked up the stick and made ready to make a hit for a home run. He missed calculations, however, and the umpire said he was out. Morgan was the next victim. Pierpont had brought down his pretty gym suit with red stripes down the panty legs but was too bashful to put them on.

John Lennon hit the ball and dumped it behind third. City Solicitor Thomas who according to his own account, never made a mistake in judging a ball, said it was a foul but the umpire overruled the bar and Johnnie scored a run.

The Single men went out in the one two three style the second innings and the Married men went at it again. Reed, Johnson and Penniman were out quicker than it takes to tell and the kids were again at the bat.

The only run they scored, however, was made by one of the outsiders although Bunco Milne thought Ben Johnson did not do right in not letting him get to firstl. The next time that Lennon hit the ball it went out of sight and consternation reigned supreme. Everybody started to run for the spot on the horizon where the ball disappeared when a halt was called, for the ball had been found, and John had made another dot on the score sheet.

Two runs had been scored to the credit of the Married men before the side was out. By this time Cuddy had arrived, and had taken his place behind the pitcher as umpire. His rapid fire decisions showed how little he knew about the game, and left no doubt but if he had been earlier on the field the result would have been different.

Ernest Saunders hit the ball a swipe and it went sailing through the air like a cannon ball, and Ernest started to make a home run. He ran like all tarnation and had the satisfaction of having a run credited to his name. Hen Tilden said if he could only get a hit like that he would set up the segars for the crowd, if it cost him twenty cents.

The Single men scored four runs this innings, and the Married men with blood in their eyes came in to tie the score. They firmly believed that with the aid of Umpire Cudworth that they would have no difficulty in doing this, and for a few minutes it looked as though they would succeed, for they made six runs before Tilden again fanned the air a few times and went out while trying to reach first. It was only a matter of a few minutes before two others followed his lead and the side was out.

Lon Litchfield made a brilliant play at second in the third innings. The ball hot from the bat came toward him. In attempting to stop it, his feet became tangled up with the ball, he rolled over it several times, then by an heroic effort regained his equilibrium, got the ball into his hand, and threw it to first where in found lodgment in John Walsh's hands in time to put out the boy who started to run the bases for Jim Penniman. John "extinguished" himself several times at first, and received the commendation of the spectators who were watching the game from the shady side of a tree.

There was quite a distinguished crowd under this tree. Among them were several members of the advisory board, and one of the frenzy finance twins. The other played ball. Park Commissioner Wadsworth was also an interesting spectator. He came down to see that the lower field was not too badly cut up by the base runners falling all over themselves.

There were numerous assists during the game. The one that deserves special mention, however, was the assist that Tilden gave Thomas at third base. It was so forcible that it was some minutes before Thomas realized what had happened. It enabled Tilden to make third, however, and he would have scored a run, if Jim Penniman had not foolishly struck out.

By this time it must have been a hundred or two in the shade, and remembering what someone said about being sunstruck, Tilden said he had enough, and the game was called off.

Johnson in the box worked hard for his side and his curves were something that must be seen to be appreciated. There was one thing that Ben wanted bad and that was to let the audience see him run around the bases but it was not until the last inning, that the opportunity occurred. The umpire had told him to take his base on balls but he refused, declaring that he was going to hit the ball or die in the attempt. Then he got the ball where he wanted it and made a smudge. He was then willing to quit and coats were then donned and the crowd started up town somewhat sore and tired in the legs but joyful in spirits.

The score was 12 to 10 in favor of the Single men. For the Single men every one scored a run with the exception of Milne and Marston, while for the Married men John Curtis and the aforementioned Tilden were the only men who did not score. Curtis almost got round several times, but was left on the base.

For brilliant plays John Lennon carried off the palm by making two pretty catches. Charlie Penniman got hit in the jaw by the ball and lost a little skin, and Billy Thomas still had a little talk he had not used when the game ended.

The score by innings was as follows.

Hyde Park, 5; Merrymount, 2.

The Merrymounts were defeated at the Park on the morning of the 17th by the Hyde Parks by the score of 5 to 2. The game looked like Merrymounts until the eighth when after two were out a base on balls, three hits and a bunch of errors gave them five runs.

Kolson pitched good ball and struck out five of the visitors, while the Merrymounts tapped Drinkwater rather easily but found it difficult to get the ball by the fielders.

In the first Taylor singled, moved up on Baker's hit and scored on Drake's tap to Dean. In the third Taylor beat out a bunt and scored on Baker's grounds through Dean. Merrymount did not have a look-in afterward, getting but two men on base during the remainder of the game.

The score by innings:

Innings.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Hyde Parks,	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	5	0	0—5

Earned Runs,—Merrymounts. Double plays—Cole to Atkins; Baker to Cole, to Taylor. Hit by pitched ball, — Dean. Time,—1 hour, 35 minutes. Umpire,—Cunningham.

Merrymount, 10; Braintree, 6.

Merrymount defeated Braintree at Braintree on the afternoon of the holiday.

Merrymount scored one in the third, and in the fourth got after Dam and sent him to the stable after making five runs. Morales was more effective but was found in the seventh and ninth for four more runs.

Kolson was very effective considering that he had pitched a hard game in the morning and kept the home team guessing. He struck out six men and fielded his positson in fine shape.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Merrymount,	0	0	1	5	0	0	1	0	3	—10
Braintree,	2	0	1	2	0	0	1	0	0	—6

West Roxbury, 6; Atlantic, 5

The Atlantics were defeated at West Roxbury on the holiday by a score of 6 to 5. The home team made 8 safe hits, and 4 errors, while the Atlantics were credited with 6 hits and 5 errors.

The score by innings:

Innings,	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
W. Roxbury,	1	1	1	0	1	2	0	0	0	—6
Atlantic,	0	2	1	1	0	0	0	0	1	—5

Runs,—Hallahan 2, Phœnix, Butler 2, Baker, for West Roxbury; Marion, Martin, Kappler, Haley 2, for Atlantic. Sacrifice hit,—Watkins. Stolen bases.—Hallahan, Peters, Phœnix 2, Butler, Watkins, Martin 2. First base on balls—Off Barker 1, off Marion 1. Struck out—By Barker 8, by Marion 4. Double plays, —Kammer and Hallan; Curley and Martin. Hit by pitched ball,—Granahan, Haley. Time—, 1h. 40m. Umpire,—Connolly. Attendance—600.

Warrens, 6; Sacred Hearts, 0.

On the morning of the holiday at Atlantic, the Sacred Heart team was defeated by the Warrens of Neponset, 6 to 0, the score by innings being:

Innings.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Warrens,	1	1	0	2	1	1	0	0	0	—6
Sacred Hearts,	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—0

Hits by Warrens, 10; by Sacred Hearts, 6. Errors by Warrens, 2; by Sacred Hearts, 2.

South Quincys, 4; Quincys, 2.

A close game was played on the morning of the holiday between the Quincys and the South Quincys, and the latter with Patterson and Reardon as battery, won 4 to 2.

The Quincys had a man on base in every innings but the sixth, but were able to score only in the fifth, when Duffy opened with a single, and Mullane followed with a double into the right field crowd. A pass by Patterson filled the bases. A hot hit by Black into the short stops territory yeilded one run, and Mullane scored on Eldridge's hit. With the bases full Dunn struck out and Rooney and Dorley were out on flies.

Tate scored three of the four runs for the South Quincys. In the first he got first on balls, went to third on errors and stole home. It was a close decision and caused a little dispute.

Again in the third Tate reached first on a pass, stole second, and scored on Kileys two bagger.

Duffy opened the fifth with a two bagger near the left field flag, and Tate reached first while Duffy scored. A muff by Eldridge gave Tate his third run.

In the first half of the seventh Reardon, the South Quincy catcher, broke a finger on a foul trip and Duffy took his place. Dunn was third out; and game was called.

The score by innings:

Innings,	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
South Quincy,	1	0	1	0	2	0		—4
Quincy,	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	—2

Runs made—By Tate, 3; Duffy, for South Quincy. J. Duffy and Mullane, for Quincy. Two-base hits—Duffy, Kiley, Welch, Mullane. Base on balls—Off Black, 5; off Patterson, 3. Struck out—By Black, 5; by Patterson, 5. Double play—Spargo to Kiley, Tate to Kiley. Umpire—Forbes Time—1 hour and 30 minutes.

Plymouth, 6: South Quincy, 5.

The South Quincys lost on the afternoon of the holiday in a 11-inning game at Plymouth, with Powers and Patterson as pitchers and Forbes as catcher. A large number of rooters accompanied the team to Plymouth. The home club took the lead, but were overhauled by the visitors in the fifth, and again in the ninth. It was a home run by Bunker which clinched the game for Plymouth in the eleventh inning, after two were out. Patterson Oswald and Duggan played a good game for the South Quincys. Sanderson and Cash were the battery for Plymouth.

The score:

Innings,	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Ply'h C.Co.,	1	1	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	—6

Seidlitz Powders In Siam.

Sale of seidlitz powders is prohibited in Siam. Some fifty years ago Phra Mongkut, the then ruling emperor, bought a box of seidlitz powders from a trader missionary, and, misinterpreting the instructions on the lid, mixed the six blue papered powders into one tumbler of water and the six white papered ones into another. Then he proceeded to swallow the resultant decoctions, one after the other. The result to the monarch may be imagined. In consequence of this the further sale of the remedy in question was prohibited—a prohibition which still remains in force.

Proof of Originality.

"Yes," remarked Mrs. Upstartia, "that picture is an original Raphael. Husband had heard so much about counterfeit Raphaels that he not only ordered this from an artist upon whom he could depend, but he went so far as to go to the studio every day while it was being painted, so you can take my word for it that this is a real original Raphael."—Boston Transcript.

Coming Around.

Mrs. Caffrey—And how is that pretty young widow? Is she reconciled to her loss yet? Mrs. Malaprop—No, she ain't exactly reconciled yet, but they do say she's got the man picked out.

What It Costs
... AND ...
What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchan has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in cheaper paper?

WHITE WEDDING.

Miss Helen Sibley and Mr. Frank H. Wright.

At Christ Church at 4.30 P. M.

Followed by Reception at Bride's Parents.

What would have been the prettiest church wedding in Quincy for some time was somewhat marred by the rain on Monday afternoon. As it was, Christ church was filled with people in beautiful gowns, and was brilliantly lighted for the wedding of Miss Helen Sibley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sibley, of Grand View avenue, Wollaston, and Mr. Frank Herbert Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wright, of Milton. The hour, half past four, was an ideal one for a summer day wedding.

The decorations were green and white with bunches of white peonies on the pews and the bridal party were all in white.

E. Landis Snyder was the organist and the full vested choir preceded the bridal procession to the chancel. Following the choir were the ushers, Eliot B. Ware, and Oliver Hall of Dorchester, John L. Andrews and Roger Pierce of Milton, and Arthur Emerson Sibley and Robert Hinckley Sibley of Wollaston; the bridesmaids, Miss Louise Wright of Milton, sister of the groom, and Miss Margaret Sibley of Wollaston, sister of the bride; and the maid of honor Miss Katherine Sibley of Wollaston, sister of the bride. Then came the bride and her father. At the altar they were met by Rev. Carlton P. Mills of St. Chrysostoms church, Wollaston, and the groom and his best man Walworth Pierce of Boston. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Sibley made a most charming bride in bridal white. She wore a long tulle veil and carried a white prayer book. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore white Swiss muslin, large white hats and carried white roses.

Mrs. Sibley wore a beautiful gown of grey with white toque and Mrs. Wright, the groom's mother, was in heliotrope with toque to match. There were other noticeably pretty gowns.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Grand View avenue, Wollaston. Mr. and Mrs. Sibley and Mr. and Mrs. Wright assisted the young people in receiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright, left for Boston at about six o'clock. They are to spend the summer in Maine and in the fall are to reside in South Hingham, where they will receive their friends at their pretty home on Main street, which is near the home of Mrs. Wright's brother, Mr. Arthur Emerson Sibley, on the first and third Wednesdays in October.

Return Safe.

Henry E. S. Lightfoot and David Blanchard, the two Norfolk Downs young men who have been missing since Saturday, returned home Monday. The men started for Newburyport on Saturday in a launch. They ran into a squall that night and put into Gloucester where they spent the night, but were unable to notify their homes. When good weather came they started for home. The harbor police who had been notified of their disappearance had been looking for them.

ON A NEW TACK FOR HIGH SCHOOL ENLARGEMENT.

COMMISSIONER

Authorized to Procure New Plans.

Says He Will Invite Competition.

The $65,000 Order for Enlargement is Killed.

Monday nights meeting of the City Council was marked by a spirited debate on the order appropriating $65,000 for enlarging the High school by plans of Aaron H. Gould. There was considerable sharp shooting on the part of some of the Councilmen and insinuations as to the executive department which called forth a sharp reply from Mayor Thompson.

Councilmen Adams, Barry, Burgess and Hughes were absent.

APPOINTMENTS.

The Mayor forwarded the appointment of Michael Riordan and Thomas F. Ferguson as constables. Confirmed.

PETITIONS.

A petition was received from L. B. Titus for permission to plant and grow oysters at Squantum for five years. To Committee on Licenses.

T. F. Mannex petitioned for permission to run a compressed air pipe across Willard street. To Committee on Streets.

A petition was received for lights upon streets at Wollaston Park. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Stewart presented a petition for the acceptance of Curtis street from Ryden to Darrow streets. To Committee on Streets.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order for $2,750 for connecting the Adams school with the public sewer. To Finance Committee.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order placing the school house lot at Quincy Neck under charge of the Commissioner of Public Works with instructions to put it in safe condition as a recreation ground. Adopted.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported no legislation necessary on the communication from the School Committee with reference to the Willard school playground. Adopted.

The Committee on Fire Department reported an order for $125 for fire alarm boxes at the corner of Willard and West streets and on Washington street corner of Pray street. To Finance Committee.

The Committee on Sewers and Drains reported ought to pass on the order for $25,000 for extending the main sewer. To Finance Committee.

The Committee on Finance reported no legislation necessary on the petitions of Julius Johnson, William Harkins, A. Pierson, A. N. Weeden and Edith W. Whiton for refund of half cost of sidewalks as the Commissioner of Public Works would approve the bills. Accepted.

MAPLE PLACE.

The Committee on Finance reported recommending that as no releases had been obtained on the order extending Maple place, and as the awards should not exceed valuation of land and buildings taken that the order remain pending. Laid on the table.

The Committee on Ordinance reported correctly engrossed on the order for $800 for catch basins and drains on Taylor street. Passed to be ordained.

The Committee on Licenses reported upon several petitions. Report adopted.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

Public hearings were held on the widening of Granite street, extending Sea street from high to low water mark, accepting Freeman, Coe and Holmes streets.

D. King, L. S. Anderson, ex-Mayor Hall and Postmaster C. L. Hammond spoke in favor of the Granite street widening.

Ex-Councilman Poland spoke in favor of the acceptance of Freeman street.

There was no opposition to any of the matters and the hearings were closed and the orders recommitted.

Public hearings were also held on the petitions of the Quincy Electric Light & Power Co. for location of poles on Woodward avenue, Whitney road, South Walnut street, Taber street and Columbia street. No one appeared for or against and the orders were recommitted.

Public hearings were held on the petitions of the N. E. T. & T. Co. for location of poles on Billings road and Elm street.

Mr. Green representing the Telephone Co. explained why the locations were wanted. That on Billings road was not now necessary.

Mr. Taylor objected to the Billings road location.

Hearings closed and orders recommitted.

Public hearings were held on the petitions of the N. E. T. & T. Co. for attachments on Walnut street. Hearing closed and order recommitted.

HIGH SCHOOL PLANS.

Councilman Gassett offered an order that the Commissioner of Public Works be requested to procure plans for an addition to the High school, submit them to the School Committee and district police for approval and then to the Council with estimates as to cost.

Councilman Bass asked if he had conferred with the Commissioner.

Councilman Gassett.—Yes.

Councilman Bass asked the Commissioner just what he proposed to do under this order.

Commissioner Burke—It has been the custom to invite competition.

Councilman Bass—Do you intend to send all the plans to the School Committee or to select one yourself.

Commissioner Burke—Send them all.

Councilman Bass—This order instructs the Commissioner to do what the Public Buildings Committee have already done. It was certainly unusual. The result was impossible to anticipate. He did not think he would object if it entailed no expense.

Councilman Stone—So long as this matter is pending it is not proper for the Commissioner to procure plans. The Public Buildings Committee should be the one. It shows the hand of the executive department, and is not good policy.

Councilman Gassett—It is apparent that the Gould plans will never go through. It is time we did something.

Councilman Stone—It is apparent the majority does not rule.

Councilman Chamberlin—We have had three competions in three years. He presumed they had been fair, the whole city is crying for a settlement. The members of the Council who are blocking this will hear the cry between now and fall. The spirit of the opposition is not fair. If we have another competition the Gould plans will be the only ones accepted by the School Committee.

Do you want the honest judgment of the School Committee or something else? These plans meet in every particular their requirements. In nine cases out of ten he would follow a committee. Such a plan as that of Mr. Gould can not be made for less than $400 or $500. He was anxious for the reputation of the city. Every competition has been in favor of the Gould plans. These plans have cost him more than $1,000. He has been before the Committee for three years. It is only fair to meet him half way. Is there anything against his plans that they have been approved by the majority each year!

We are now in a position where the responsibility for failure to build the addition is to be placed on half a dozen men and they can not escape it. I want you to have the responsibility placed on you, and every father and mother to know where it belongs.

This order means to begin all over again. The only thing gained is the escape of the men who are holding up the order for enlargement. Someone has got to break.

Councilman Gassett was surprised to hear such a statement that no other plans would be accepted. He asked how the speaker knew the School Committee would favor no other plans?

Councilman Chamberlin—That is my judgment.

Councilman Crane asked if he considered ten votes a majority of the Council.

Councilman Chamberlin—No. When the vote is taken tonight the vote will be made clear.

Councilman Stone.—Do you know why only ten voted for the Gould order?

Councilman Crane—Because only ten favored it.

Councilman Stone—That is not the reason. It was not a good idea to throw mud, but as a matter of fact he was told the matter would not come up at the last meeting. For that reason two or three who would have voted for it were absent. There is no doubt but ten is a majority of eighteen. I think the time has come when the Gould plans have got to be given up as the administration has been against them from the start.

This order must have originated in that district. They are not willing to trust the majority of the Council. He did not believe but what the School Committee would approve any plan that will better accommodate the children, but I do think that the administration could have passed this order long ago.

Councilman Gassett objected to the reflection on the Mayor. He had not had his hand in this in any way.

Councilman Polk asked the Commissioner if this order passed what his procedure would be.

Commissioner Burke—I will act when the order comes to me.

In reply to a further question the Commissioner said he would invite the plan of any architect.

Councilman Bass opposed the order as it now stands. In its present form it does not accomplish what it might. It would be advisable for the Commissioner to take the matter up with the School Committee and Public Buildings Committee, to see if some satisfactory plans could not be adopted.

He offered an amendment that the Commissioner of Public Works confer with the School Committee and Public Buildings Committee.

Councilman Chase—This order would place the responsibility in the hands of

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Any method which will accomplish a speedy enlargement of the High school building will be welcome by the pupils, teachers and parents, who deplore the present situation. By any plans; at any cost. The failure to enlarge has been a financial loss to the city.

It looks now as though the Quincy Historical Society would become a benefit to the city, and at the same time a prosperous association wherein people of Quincy will be pleased to be enrolled as members. As President Adams stated, if the social life of the society was looked after the historical side would care for itself. With frequent receptions at the birthplaces of the Presidents, and pilgrimages from other towns, there will be an awakening of interest in historical Quincy which will be of benefit.

TENSION RELAXED

An International Conference to Consider Moroccan Question

Paris, June 20.—An international conference for the consideration of the affairs of Morocco is now practically assured and attention is now directed to defining the scope of the conference. This result, after the strain which tested diplomatic resources of both governments, has the effect of relieving the tension, diplomats agreeing that an amicable adjustment is near at hand.

Germany had suspected that France had designs on the sovereignty of Morocco, but the negotiations disclosed that France had not questioned this sovereignty. Similarly it was disclosed that France had not designed to interrupt the present territorial or political status quo of Morocco. This appears to have been one of Germany's chief apprehensions, as any change in Morocco's status quo might involve an ultimate French protectorate similar to that over Tunis.

With both governments favorable to the sovereignty of Morocco and to her territorial and political status quo, it remains for the conference to adjust the equality of commercial rights, as Germany desires this assurance from an international conference instead of through the operations of the Anglo-French agreement. Therefore the conference is not likely to consider changes in the political status of Morocco, but rather internal reforms and commercial privileges.

Held For Death of Child

Digby, N. S., June 20.—At the conclusion of the inquest held on the death of May Young, 5 years old, whose body was discovered at Plymton, Mary H. Young, guardian of the child, and Kingsley Melanson, for whom Mrs. Young was employed as housekeeper, were arrested last night and lodged in jail. The coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that the child came to her death by suffocation at the hands of Mary H. Young and that the evidence was strong against Melanson as a partner to the death of the child. A further examination into the case will be made.

May Not Return to Panama

Colon, June 20.—It was publicly announced that Chief Engineer Wallace of the canal zone, who has sailed for the United States, was going home for the purpose of a consultation on important matters prior to the sailing of Secretary Taft for the Philippines. It is said in influential circles, however, that Wallace has gone home to confer with Taft on the subject of his resignation. The fact that Wallace went home accompanied by his wife and his two secretaries seems to lend credence to the rumor that he does not intend to return.

Carrington's Case Before President

Washington, June 20.—The proceedings in the case of Major Carrington, tried by court martial in the Philippines, have arrived here for review by the president. Carrington's trial was based on charges of misappropriation of funds and the duplication of accounts. The court sentenced him to dismissal. Carrington was tried by the civil authorities of the Philippines and sentenced to a total imprisonment of 60 years and five days.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Said to Have Been Granted by Judge of United States District Court--Contention of Lawyer Who Acted For the Woman

Windsor, Vt., June 20.—It is reported here that a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Mrs. Mary M. Rogers, whose execution for the murder of her husband is fixed for Friday next, was granted late last night at Brattleboro by Judge Wheeler of the United States district court.

According to the report, the prison officials will be required to produce the woman in court in this town at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, only 48 hours before the time set for her execution. It is said that the state will be required to show cause why Mrs. Rogers is not illegally restrained of her liberty.

It is understood that Attorney Flinn, who asked for the writ, based his contention for its issuance on the ground that the supreme court, when passing upon the question raised, which led to the granting of the reprieve by the governor, did not resentence Mrs. Rogers, and that she is being held on a "pretended" warrant issued by Governor Bell and not by reason of a sentence imposed by a court of competent jurisdiction. He further contends that Mrs. Rogers was deprived of her liberty because the legislature had neglected to establish a supreme court in Bennington county, as required by the constitution.

Mrs. Johanna Callahan, mother of Mrs. Rogers, visited the prison yesterday and had a short talk with her daughter. She was much affected with the interview and left the prison crying hysterically. A dentist also visited Mrs. Rogers yesterday and extracted a tooth which had given the condemned woman considerable pain of late.

No One at Judge's Home

Brattleboro, Vt., June 20.—An effort was made late last night to see Judge Wheeler relative to the report of the granting of a writ of habeas corpus for Mrs. Mary M. Rogers, but no one could be found at the home of the judge. It was learned, however, that Attorney Flinn was closeted with the judge about 9 o'clock last night and that he left town on the train leaving this town at 10:18 o'clock.

It was learned that no official paper granted by the court had been filed with the clerk of the court last evening at Bellows Falls, although it was understood that this would not have been necessary in the actual granting of the petition until the court proceedings began.

Says Writ Has Been Granted

Rutland, Vt., June 20.—T. W. Moloney, one of Mrs. Mary M. Rogers' attorneys, states that Judge Wheeler of Brattleboro has allowed the writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Mrs. Rogers and that the writ is returnable at Windsor on Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Moloney further states that should Judge Wheeler deny Mrs. Rogers any relief under the writ, she has by law the right to appeal to the United States supreme court, and that if such appeal be allowed by the circuit court it will necessitate a further delay of the execution.

Complaint Against Railroads

New Orleans, June 20.—The interstate commerce commission has filed complaints against seven railroad companies, based on the failure of these roads to obey the order in the yellow pine case. Last February the commission issued an order commanding the roads to take off a 2-cent advance from the east bank of the Mississippi to Ohio points and this order the railroads have ignored by agreement. July 17 is the date on which the railroads must answer.

Hay and President Confer

Washington, June 20.—Secretary Hay arrived from New York last evening. At 8:30 he called at the White House and was at once received by the president, with whom he spent the greater part of the evening. The secretary is expected to remain in Washington but a few days and will spend the summer at his home in New Hampshire.

To Get Fine Silver Service

Washington, June 20.—The armored cruiser Tennessee, when completed, will be sent by the government to New Orleans, where she will receive a magnificent silver service to be presented by the citizens of Tennessee. The silver service, as well as the armored cruiser, will rank as among the finest in the United States navy.

Union Will Remain Dissolved

Christiania, June 20.—The storthing adopted a reply to the long letter which King Oscar sent to its president, in the form of an address to the king and the Swedish people. The reply, while expressing the utmost good will, adheres to the action taken by the storthing in dissolving the union.

Fever Not Under Subjection

Washington, June 20.—Governor Magoon, at Panama, has reported to the war department three new cases of yellow fever, all the patients being Americans. He also reports two deaths from yellow fever.

ONE YEAR IN JAIL

Men Who Participated In Election Fraud Case Sentenced

Cambridge, Mass., June 20.—"While we hear of corruption in other states, we hope to keep Massahusetts as clean as possible," said Judge Sherman of the Middlesex superior court, when passing sentence on W. H. Ford and Albert Rogers, who pleaded guilty on the charge of aiding and abetting in the illegal voting which took place in Cambridge in the city election in December, 1904.

Continuing, the judge said: "These men pleaded guilty and saved the county the expense of a trial, which ought to be taken into consideration, as does the fact that they had never before been convicted of crime and that they were not the originators of the scheme."

Sentence in the house of correction of one year each was then imposed.

Sullivan, the third man who was to have been arraigned, was not present. The court was informed that he was confined in the Rutland sanitarium and was in a very serious condition.

"Borrowed" Money From Bank

Boston, June 20.—Joseph Adams, who was brought to this city from Denver and found guilty of the larceny of $500 from the Roxbury Institution for Savings, was sentenced to from eight to 10 years in prison. Adams had assumed the role of a clergyman and presented to the bank officials a man named Dugan. The two succeeded in borrowing $500 and left the city. The police have been unable to locate Dugan.

Increase For Ring Spinners

Fall River, Mass., June 20.—An increase of about 5 percent in wages has been given the ring spinners employed in the Iron Works cotton mills here. About 300 or 400 hands are affected. The management of the mill declined to discuss the matter. It is understood that other manufacturers will not, for the present at least, follow the lead taken by these mills, of which M. C. D. Borden of New York is the proprietor.

In Navy Under Assumed Name

Boston, June 20.—During the trial of Joseph Lee at the Charlestown navy yard the fact was revealed that the man for whose murder on the cruiser West Virginia Lee is being held was John Richards of Chicago, and not John Warren. Richards has a wife living in Chicago. The testimony of witnesses was to the effect that Lee was knocked down and severely beaten previous to his attack on Warren.

Spotted Fever Killed Baker

Boston, June 20.—Medical Examiner Draper viewed the body of Thomas N. Baker, the young man who was found dead at his room, 32 Upton street, and pronounced death due to cerebro-spinal meningitis, or "spotted fever." Untidy conditions of the room and the appearance of a struggle before death caused the police to be suspicious, but spotted fever victims usually struggle in their death agony.

Whittier's Light Sentence

Salem, Mass., June 20.—Before Judge Lloyd E. White, in the superior court, Seth K. Whittier of Lynn, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Mrs. Susan A. Fuller, his former wife, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for a term of 2½ years in the house of correction.

Present Laws Suit Augusta

Augusta, Me., June 20.—The special election held in Augusta resulted in all of the five proposed changes in the city government being turned down by a majority of about 3 to 1. The only question that was closely contested was whether the assessors should be elected by the people, the vote standing 377 yeas to 385 nays.

Land Settlements Indorsed

London, June 20.—The report submitted by H. R. Haggard, who, as commissioner of the colonial office, has recently been investigating the conditions and character of agricultural land settlements organized in the United States by the Salvation Army, speaks in the most favorable terms of the settlements and says that similar settlements might be successfully established in the colonies as a means of providing for the surplus agricultural population of the United Kingdom.

Heat Kills Four Children

New York, June 20.—Many prostrations and four deaths, the latter all of young children, accompanied torrid temperature, aggravated by a high degree of humidity. Relief came in the form of a cool breeze from the sea, accompanied by a rapid fall in temperature, which continued until last night, when the air was almost too chilly for the comfort of thousands who had fled to seaside resorts to escape the heat.

Spontaneous Generation Possible

London, June 20.—Experiments conducted for six years in the Cavandish laboratory at Cambridge university by J. B. Burke, a young professor, have almost certainly demonstrated the possibility of spontaneous generation. By means of radium and sterilized bouillon placed together in a test tube Burke obtained cultures presenting many appearances of vitality, such as growth and subdivision.

Of Interest to Fishermen

Washington, June 20.—W. H. Jordan, collector of the port of Gloucester, Mass., and B. A. Smith of the board of trade of that city asked the president to have the bureau of fisheries investigate the reasons for the gradual disappearance of mackerel from the waters of New England. It is probable that the suggested inquiry will be made.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. TOWN UP IN ARMS

Political Factions Engage In a Pitched Battle

WRANGLE OVER A BOND

A Force of Constables Roughly Handled by Crowd Armed With Primitive Weapons--Interior of Town Hall Wrecked by Angry Invaders

Block Island, R. I., June 20.—The intense rivalry between two factions of New Shoreham voters, the one led by State Senator Champlin, the other by Samuel M. Rose, reached a climax when a dozen special constables, said to have been hired in Providence by the Champlin element, to keep order at the town meeting called to authorize a town bond issue, were attacked by 200 of the Rose supporters and completely routed, after which the flushed victors returned to the town hall, wrecked its interior and thus prevented the holding of the meeting.

This was the fourth attempt of the so-called Champlin faction to bring before the voters a proposition to bond the town for $172,500 to discharge the existing debt, a measure which had been introduced by Champlin at the last session of the general assembly and which became law. The riot was strongly reminiscent of the old-time "faction" battles and was successful in carrying out the desire of the Rose supporters, that of adjourning the meeting without action on the bond question.

Three meetings have been called on the same question in the last two months, but before any conclusion could be reached conditions developed nearly resembling pitched battles between the two factions. Yesterday the feeling between the warring elements was at fever heat, especially so among the Rose party.

The meeting had been called for 2 o'clock at the town hall. An hour earlier some 200 of the Rose supporters gathered near the building armed with slungshots, black-jacks, stones and other implements of primitive warfare. They had been waiting in battle array about half an hour, when 12 special constables from Providence, in uniform, put in an appearance, marching in military fashion to the town hall with Lieutenant Scott in command. Scott had the key to the building, but just as the constables were about to enter, the Rose followers advanced to the attack, shouting and yelling at the constables.

At the first onslaught the officers pushed their way into the building, but the Rose forces soon gained entrance, and literally kicked and clubbed the constables out again, who retreated, with bruised bodies, torn uniforms and smashed helmets.

The Rose element then turned their attention to the wrecking of the interior of the hall, and 20 minutes later, when they had finished the destructive work, not a window pane was left intact, while the furniture and fittings were thoroughly demolished.

While all the constables bore marks of the affray, the only one seriously injured was Earnest Olney, who sustained several bad gashes on the head. Lieutenant Scott was kicked several times in the abdomen.

About 2:30 o'clock the town moderator and a few more peaceably inclined citizens arrived at the hall, with Sheriff Anthony of Newport county and 13 deputies acting as an escort. The futility of attempting to hold the meeting was at once apparent, and the moderator adjourned the meeting sine die.

It is said that the Champlin leaders will make still another effort to obtain a vote on the bond issue.

Municipal Ownership Disapproved

Chicago, June 20.—The Civic Federation of Chicago, at its biennial meeting, adopted a special report made by the executive committee committing the organization against the operation or the ownership of public utilities by the city, the reason given being that the city's operation of Chicago's water works system has not been successful enough to warrant a belief that the city would successfully operate a street car system or other public utility.

Mitchell Makes Personal Plea

Portland, Or., June 20.—For the purpose of insuring the government against any technical objections to the plea of Senator Mitchell of not guilty, as entered by his attorneys last week, District Attorney Heney had Mitchell appear in court in person to make his plea. The senator pleaded not guilty to the charges preferred against him in connection with the land fraud cases in this state.

An Exchange of $6000

Washington, June 20.—Secretary Taft yesterday heard additional witnesses in the Bowen-Loomis controversy, but the only development was the fixing of the amount of money exchanged between Loomis and the asphalt company at $6000 in two checks, one for $5000, and the other for $1000.

Catholics In Public Affairs

Rome, June 20.—The pope has issued an encyclical encouraging Catholics to participate in public affairs. While seeking the advice of the ecclesiastical authorities, the encyclical says, Catholics should retain complete liberty of action regarding their temporal interests.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. DIPLOMACY GAME

Next Move Is Up to Far Eastern Belligerents

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Both Russia and Japan Satisfied Over Selection of Washington as Seat of Negotiations--Convention, If One Be Formulated, Will Be Known as "Treaty of Washington"

Washington, June 20.—Practically no new developments are observable in the negotiations for peace between Russia and Japan. While President Roosevelt has not for a moment lost sight of the arrangements for bringing together the far eastern belligerents, he realizes fully that the next move in the great game of diplomacy is with the contending nations themselves. That move is the selection of envoys.

Both Minister Takahira of Japan and Ambassador Cassini of Russia called on the president yesterday afternoon, Takahira remained with Mr. Roosevelt for nearly half an hour, but declined, later, to discuss the nature of the interview.

Soon afterward Cassini was received by the president. As he was leaving the White House he said that the negotiations were moving forward smoothly. He added that he had not conveyed to President Roosevelt the names of the Russian plenipotentiaries and had not received from him the names of those of Japan.

Each of the diplomatists presented to the president official advices from his government expressive of the satisfaction felt at St. Petersburg and Tokio over the selection of Washington as the seat of the peace conference. The president already had been advised by Ambassador Meyer at St. Petersburg and Minister Griscom at Tokio of the cordial feeling felt toward Washington by the Russian and Japanese governments.

The Japanese minister informed the president that the Japanese plenipotentiaries would be able to reach Washington the first part of August, if it was deemed desirable for them to be here by that time. The personnel of the mission has not yet been announced. The information brought by the minister was communicated to Cassini, who is cabling his government to find out when the Russian mission will arrive. When this is known it will be possible to decide upon a date for the conference. The general belief is that it will convene about the middle of August.

Whether the conference will actually sit in Washington or not has not been determined, as that is a detail which will be left to the envoys themselves by their respective governments. It is said that no decision will be reached on that point until the conferees meet here and organize. If the weather in Washington at that time should be unfavorable to continued sittings in this city, it will be within the authority of the plenipotentiaries to adjourn to some other city.

During the past few days the president has received as many as a hundred letters suggesting various cities in the country as desirable places for holding the conference. It can be said that the president will not permit himself to be drawn into the discussion of this subject and the government will not attempt to interfere in any way with the choice. It is regarded as probable that this city will be at least the scene of the beginning and the ending of the conference, although the intervening sessions may be held elsewhere. It will be known in diplomatic history, therefore, as already stated, as the "Washington conference," and the convention, if one be formulated, will be the treaty of Washington.

Will Not Be Harsh With Russia

St. Petersburg, June 20.—Japan's terms of peace, according to an interview had by The Novoe Vremya with a member of the Japanese embassy at Vienna, will prove to be more moderate than had been expected and will be based on the propositions made in the Japanese note on the eve of hostilities, with the addition of an indemnity covering the cost of the war. Japan will not insist on humiliating terms, such as the cession of the Island of Sakhalin, the disarmament of Vladivostok or the limitation of Russia's naval rights in the Pacific, but will insist on guarantees against the renewal of the war for half a century at least. The diplomat is quoted as saying that Japan wishes to live on terms of friendship with Russia in the future and is not disposed to make over-harsh stipulations.

Roosevelt's Action Approved

Rome, June 20.—The chamber of deputies discussed a petition bearing 400,000 signatures for a movement on the part of the Italian government to intervene for the cessation of the Russo-Japanese war. In the course of the debate the action taken by President Roosevelt in bringing the two countries together in a peace conference was warmly approved.

War Party Has Not Surrendered

St. Petersburg, June 20.—Backed by the military element, the war party is making a concerted effort to dissuade the emperor from concluding peace. Even with the two armies already clinching, they are filling St. Petersburg and Peterhof with optimistic views, and General Linevitch and his lieutenants are reinforcing their arguments with roseate reports of the strategic situation. Many Russian correspondents at the front, evidently inspired from St. Petersburg, are flooding their papers with dispatches in the same strain.

Barbarity of Cossacks

London, June 20.—The Tokio correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, describing a Cossack attack on a Japanese field hospital, which occurred during an attack on a Japanese convoy at Taipoushin May 20, says: "Despite the prominent display of Red Cross badges, the Cossacks fired volleys at close quarters and then charged with drawn swords, with the result that many non-combatants were killed or wounded. Some of the Russians dismounted and used their bayonets. The steel was thrust down the mouths of the Japanese, their heads were nearly cut off and their bodies disemboweled. Finally the Cossacks burned and otherwise destroyed all medicines and medical appliances."

Peace Envoys to Use Cruiser

Washington, June 20.—Orders have been given by the navy department to place the cruiser Mayflower in commission by Aug. 1 after certain repairs are made, so that she may be available for use in the entertainment of the peace envoys of Russia and Japan.

Raised by the Woman's Auxiliary.

For Young Men's Christian Association.

Successful Work by Mrs. Sheppard, who is Reelected.

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Y. M. C. A., which was held in the Association hall Monday afternoon, proved to be one of the most enjoyable afternoons of the year.

There were but few changes in the list of officers. Mrs. Sheppard's year has been remarkably successful and the crowning success was the Colonial fairfete given May 4, 5 and 6, in aid of the Association work. The Auxiliary have paid to the Association nineteen hundred dollars as proceeds from the year's work, including the fair.

The officers for the coming year are as follows:

President,—Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard.
Vice Presidents,—
Ward One,—Mrs. Walter Blanchard.
Ward Two,—Mrs. William Gardner.

THE SHABBY BATHTUB.

It May Easily Be Made Bright, Fresh and Inviting.

Among the crosses many housewives have to annoy them is a bathtub of uninviting appearance in a room that otherwise looks fresh and clean. The tarnished surface may refuse to become bright, no matter what cleaning materials are employed.

By being your own workman you may at a trifling expense make the tub quite desirable. Procure a small can of common paint of any light color desired, a can of enamel paint of the same color and a good sized brush. Cut eight or ten inch pieces of yellow soap into bits and put it over the fire to dissolve in a couple of quarts of water. Fill the bathtub with hot water and throw in a generous handful of powdered borax and the dissolved soap. When the water becomes cool enough to put the hands in it scrub the surface with a brush, letting the water run off as the work is done. Again partly fill the tub with hot water and scrub it with the brush and sand soap to make sure that all greasy particles have been removed. Then rinse it in clear hot water and thoroughly dry.

Cover it with two coatings of the common paint, letting one thoroughly dry before putting on the second coat. Then give it several coats of the enamel paint. This paint will dry more quickly than the other, and the bath will no longer be an unsightly object. Care must be used not to run hot water into the bath alone until the paint has hardened.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE CARE OF HER GOWNS.

This Woman's Method Is Worthy of Being Widely Copied.

A time saver is the plan which a woman who has much of her dressmaking done in the house has evolved in the care of her gowns. She keeps all of her waists for each gown if not the whole gown itself in boxes. With it she puts the little bunch of silk or scraps of lace and ribbon that were left. She also puts in the particular bunch of ruching that she has selected for wearing with it so that in case of a fresh piece being needed or any little change being thought of she has everything at hand ready when she takes down the box.

As may be imagined, she is one who can add a touch here and make a change there in her collar or belt arrangements, little improvements which in true feminine fashion she often makes a few minutes before she puts the dress on. For this and for any accident which happens to the gown the scraps already at hand are invaluable.

The same plan applies in keeping the veils which go with it in the box with each hat, where they have more room than in a common veil box and where the time is saved which it takes to get out two boxes.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

DRESS HINTS.

Don't wear big sleeves and big hats if you are short.

Don't jump into your clothes and expect to look dressed.

Tight gloves will go on more easily if warmed before putting on the hands than if put on when cold.

In sewing on buttons have the knot of the thread on the right side directly under the button and see if the button does not stay on longer.

Whatever may be the shape of her foot a woman should be particularly careful to be well shod, and the uglier the foot the more careful she ought to be.

Never have the top of the boots tight, as it interferes with the action of the calf muscles, makes one walk badly and spoils the shape of the ankle.

In making buttonholes in goods that fray easily it is a great help to stitch twice around on the sewing machine before the hole is cut, as a firmer foundation is secured and no fraying results.

Physical Training.

A physician points out in a contemporary that there is not the slightest need of girls to engage in elaborate gymnastic exercises or to practice beauty culture in order to obtain good complexions and healthy physiques. The very best training for the muscles is to be found in ordinary housework, and when the body is perfectly healthy the skin will be cleared and the eyes brightened. It is not given to all girls to be able to indulge in outdoor sports, which is, of course, the ideal way of getting exercise, but all can perform simple household duties, and these, if done with open windows and in a brisk way, will do far more for those who perform them, says this doctor, than ordinary drilling.

The Tale of the Mouth.

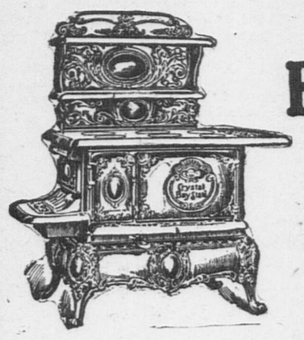

It is the mouth which tells the tale of a fretful and irritable disposition. It is this feature which acts as a giveaway when a woman wishes to appear something that she isn't. A woman may spend a small fortune in cosmetics and massage, but if she doesn't watch her mouth and keep it sweet her money is wasted, for she cannot be good looking. A perpetually smiling woman is an offense against good taste, but a woman with a sweet, expressive mouth is the loveliest thing in the world, but there are very few of them.

The Improved Feminine Physique.

Mrs. Stannard declares that the modern woman is not athletic, but that the tall, finely developed young creature of the day owes her appearance to the fact that she is no longer scourged by tuberculosis and that she has been brought up more by her mother and more in the dining room instead of by persons of lower class in rooms at the top of the house.—London Post.

What It Costs

... AND ...

What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchan has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in cheaper paper?

Lid Still Off at Race Track

St. Louis, June 20.—Despite Governor Folk's order to the sheriff of St. Louis county directing him to arrest all principals and accessories found violating the anti-betting law, which went into effect last Saturday, no arrests were made yesterday at Delmar race track, although six so-called bookmakers did a fair business.

Higgins Reprieves a Murderer

Albany, June 20.—Governor Higgins has reprieved until Aug. 1 Emil Totterman, who was to have been executed yesterday at Sing Sing prison for the murder of a woman in New York. The governor is examining some new information in relation to this case, especially an alleged service of Totterman in the United States navy.

Teamsters Talk of Settlement

Chicago, June 20.—At a meeting of the teamsters' joint council, called last night to consider the best method of bringing about the termination of the strike, it was decided to appoint a committee which is to confer with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and decide upon terms to be offered to the employers.

Milk Skimmed and Adulterated

New York, June 20.—Philip Arbeit, the owner of about a dozen grocery stores in the lower East Side of this city, has been sent to jail for 15 days for having on sale milk that was marked "fresh from the cow," but was found by analysis to be skimmed and to contain 14 percent of water.

Swedish Conservatives For War

London, June 20.—The correspondent of The Standard at Stockholm says that the Swedish conservative papers now openly advocate war. They urge mobilization of the troops and demand the cession of northern Norway as compensation to the Swedish people for the dissolution of the union.

Bank Declared Insolvent

Washington, June 20.—The Fredonia National bank, Fredonia, N. Y., has been closed by order of the comptroller of the currency on information received from the examiner that it was insolvent. J. W. Schofield has been appointed receiver.

CITY COUNCIL.

the Commissioner. It is somewhat unusual. It would in a measure relieve the opposition to order No. 5 until too late to accomplish anything under it this year. The majority favors it which shows that the minority is preventing its adoption.

If this order prevails common fairness will insist that the Gould plans should be first considered. We should not expect the School Committee to approve any inferior plans. He could not understand why the minority was so anxious to relieve the Council of that responsibility. Why do they put their judgment against the School Committee? It is an attempt to dodge the responsibility? We want it so clearly placed that every taxpayer can put his hand on every man who opposed order No 5.

Councilman Gassett—By what authority is it unusual for the Commissioner of Public Works to procure plans? It has always been the custom previous to the High school enlargement.

Councilman Chamberlin it is perfectly clear now that it is the desire of those who are blocking the enlargement to get the matter from the hands of the Public Buildings Committee into the hands of the Commissioner. If we take no back step we place the responsibility on these eight men.

Councilman McLane—I voted for the Gould plans as I wanted to see something done. The gentleman from Ward Two admits the Gould plans could not be adopted. The only way is to get down to business and do something.

Mayor Thompson—As far as the present order is concerned, we have only had to do with it since Jan. 1. So far as these plans or any other are concerned I want to say for myself I am not a partisan. I have stood so when the matter came to me I could consider it on its merits. The gentleman from Ward Two has, without any basis, said something for which there is not the least foundation. The only architect that came to my house was the man for whom the gentleman from Ward Two stands. I never met the others except in the committee room.

What I said on Jan. 2, I do not receed from today. I stand as I stood then, to provide accommodations for a complete building as advocated by the School Committee, that shall dispose of it. Not something that is still incomplete.

When we tear this building down let us make it complete. I stand for an economical expenditure of the city's money. It is true the School Committee have to approve the plans but the City Council must take the responsibility of appropriating the money.

The Council has performed the duties of the executive department in procuring plans. Your duty is to legislate, and that of the executive to execute.

I had hoped at this time something would have been accomplished, that the work could have proceeded immediately on the ending of the present school term. The executive department does not solicit the privilege of procuring plans. It is only from a sense of duty which the executive, the legislative and School Committee owe to the public to furnish accommodations. If we have reached a condition when it has become stagnated, and it is time something was done.

Councilman Gassett moved the previous question.

Voted, 10 in favor and 8 against.

Upon motion of Councilman Bass the motion was laid on the table that Councilman Stone might reply to Mayor Thompson.

Councilman Stone—I have stood for Gould because he was delivering the best goods. The majority opinion of the School Committee was good enough to follow.

While perhaps this new move does not come from the executive, it is from his department. Does the Mayor intimate that an architect attempted to bribe him?

Mayor Thompson—The gentleman made certain inferences. If what I said was construed to say that Mr. Gould come to me with a bribe. I wish to say it was nothing of the kind. As far as I know he is a gentleman of honesty and integrity.

The order of Councilman Gassett was taken from the table.

The amendment of Councilman Bass was rejected.

The order was then passed by a vote of 12 in favor and 6 against.

THE $65,000 ORDER.

Upon motion of Councilman Loud, Order No. 5, appropriating $65,000 for enlarging the High school was taken from the table by a vote of 10 in favor and 8 against.

Councilman Bass moved to lay on the table. Lost by a vote of 8 in favor and 9 against.

The order was then put on its final passage. It failed to pass, 12 voting against passage and 6 in favor, as follows:

YEAS,—Chamberlin, Chase, Polk, Sawyer, Sidelinger and Stone—6.

Fate of Murderess Rogers Will Be Decided Today

HER RELEASE ASKED FOR

Halt In Final Arrangements For Woman's Execution Pending Result of Hearing on Writ of Habeas Corpus

Windsor, Vt., June 21.—Governor Bell, Sheriff Peck and Superintendent Lovell of the state prison were in conference for several hours yesterday afternoon with reference to the arrangements for the appointed execution on Friday of Mrs. Mary M. Rogers. At the meeting it was decided that the Vermont statute would be followed as far as possible as to their provisions for executions, and particularly as to the law that only 12 citizens of the state shall be summoned as the official witnesses of an execution.

MARY M. ROGERS.

Nevertheless, the conferees took into consideration that the latest legal step to stay the punishment of Mrs. Rogers might be successful, and the arrangements therefore were not of the definite character which they would have been taken on were it certain that Mrs. Rogers was to die upon the gallows on Friday.

Nothing was done in the way of selecting the 12 men who would serve as the official witnesses, this matter being left open pending the result of today's hearing on the writ of habeas corpus which has been issued in behalf of Mrs. Rogers.

Superintendent Lovell has been ordered by United States Marshal Bailey to produce Mrs. Rogers before Justice Wheeler at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Windsor courthouse. Sheriff Peck has received a similar notification. At this hearing counsel for Mrs. Rogers will present reasons why the condemned woman should be permanently released from prison. In the event that the court refuses to grant the writ permanently, it is considered likely that an appeal will be taken to the United States supreme court.

Attorney Flinn called upon Mrs. Rogers and explained to her the various parts of the writ which had been issued in the case. Flinn told Mrs. Rogers that there was some hope that that the court would grant a postponement of the carrying out of the sentence. This information came at a time when the woman was suffering greatly from an operation upon her teeth, and relieved a night and morning which were marked both by mental distress and physical pain. The ulceration in Mrs. Rogers' mouth became aggravated and it was necessary for a dentist to remove two more of her troublesome teeth. Later in the day, however, the woman, eased from her physical inconvenience, and relieved mentally by the assurances of her counsel, grew calmer, though she still remained somewhat nervous.

After the conference it was stated that nothing more definite would be fixed upon until after the court hearing today.

FACE PICTURE TO WALL

Clark Would Feel Shamed by Woman's Execution

St. Joseph, Mich., June 21.—Captain Lloyd Clark of the United States supply station here and a brother of Admiral Clark, U. S. N., who commanded the battleship Oregon during the battle of Santiago and when the battleship made the famous voyage from Pacific waters to join Admiral Sampson's fleet, has sent the following telegram to Governor Bell of Vermont, protesting against the hanging of Mrs. Mary Rogers:

"Vermont is again threatened with the horrible disgrace of 22 years ago. The reputation and honor of the old Green mountains is in your hands alone, and every true Vermonter believes in that highest justice that is the sister of mercy. Should this poor, weak woman meet her doom on Friday, in a state where my brother has been so greatly honored, please face his portrait to the wall. Every real Vermonter would hang his head in shame before the world. Have the mercy of the Master, and may that peace of the bravely merciful be always yours."

Soon after Admiral Clark's daring performance of bringing the Oregon to Cuban waters the Vermont legislature voted an appropriation to have a life-size portrait of Captain Clark placed on the capitol walls. It is with his brother's consent that Lloyd Clark makes his request. He declares that he has made provision to see that it is carried out.

Picture Won't Be Turned

Essex Junction, Vt., June 21.—Governor Bell arrived here last night from Windsor. When shown the dispatch regarding to the telegram sent to him by Lloyd Clark, he said:

"I, as governor, do not propose to accept advice from any ex-Vermonter who wishes to disgrace his native state in this way, especially from one whose brother has been so highly honored by the state as Admiral Clark has been. The picture is the property of the state of Vermont and it will not be tampered with by any outsiders. It will hang in the state house just as it has hung. Vermont is in the habit of standing on its own bottom and it will do so now."

DIAMOND RING.

Presented to Miss Dearborn of the Coddington.

At the beginning of the afternoon session at the Coddington school today, when the children were assembled in the schoolyard ready to march into the building, the principal, Miss Dearborn, gave the usual command, "Forward!"

As in the time of Barbara Fritchie, however, the ranks stood fast. For once, the pupils disobeyed orders, but it was because they had received other orders.

It was the last day when Miss Dearborn and all the present teachers and pupils of the school will be together, Miss Dearborn having resigned after an honorable and efficient service of 29 years.

The laudations given in concert on Memorial Day were adapted for the occasion and repeated by the pupils. Then Ernest Taylor stepped forward, and in a pretty speech presented Miss Dearborn a little box containing a beautiful diamond ring.

Then children of the lowest primary grade showered Miss Dearborn with flowers.

Miss Dearborn responded with praise for the children and spoke of their loyalty to the Coddington. She thanked them heartily for the gift.

Within a week's time almost the sum of $110 was raised by pupils and graduates, and so quietly that Miss Dearborn knew nothing of it.

Tuesday the teachers at the building presented Miss Dearborn a beautiful brooch, and she in turn presented to each teacher a silver spoon marked "Coddington."

There is genuine regret that Miss Dearborn has resigned, but she will always have the best wishes of those who have been her pupils.

Granite Consolidation.

A Milford dispatch to the Boston Herald says, the granite interests of Milford which were not included in the big consolidation of last March under the name of the Milford Pink Granite Quarries were nearly all absorbed today by a new company, headed by George D. Webb of Worcester. The combination controls about 340 acres of granite land, including the quarries and plants of Carroll Bros. and Hogan & Duddy. The new company will build sheds on Dilla street, install railroad spur tracks and equip its plant with modern machinery. The organizers expect to have 1000 men at work. Peter Ross and Chas. W. Carroll were largely instrumental in bringing about the combination.

Runaway at Houghs Neck.

There was a lively runaway at Houghs Neck Monday afternoon. A green horse of W. E. Hanrahan, attached to a market wagon, started near the market made a circuit through different streets, and returned via Sea street at a lively clip. One wheel struck a pole causing the harness to break and free the animal who dashed on through a crowd. Luckily no one was hurt, but there were exciting times for a few minutes.

Sanitation at Schools.

The Board of Health and the inspector of plumbing are today inspecting the different public school buildings of the city. They have expedited matters under the recent order of the City Council that they might see the actual condition of affairs at each building before the schools close for the summer. Also that such improvements as may be found necessary, may be done during the vacation season. It is probable that the City Council will be called upon to make a special appropriation.

Up to noon they had inspected all of the buildings with the exception of the High, old High, Coddington and Washington. These were inspected this afternoon.

County Loan for Bridge.

Proposals were opened by the Norfolk County Commissioners on Tuesday for a loan of $100,000 on notes dated July 1, 1905, payable in one year, with interest payable semi-annually, the loan being negotiated to cover the expense of the reconstruction of the bridge over the Fore river. The only bidders were two Boston firms—George Mixter, whose bid was 3.60 per cent. per annum, and Loring, Polman & Tupper, whose bid was 4.25 per cent. The bid was awarded to the former.

The Morning Fire.

The alarm Box 72 at 6:58 this morning was for a fire in a clothes closet in the Claremont house on Claremont avenue, Quincy Point. The fire started from the igniting of matches in some of the clothing. The loss was not large.

LARGE INCREASE.

Grammar Schools Will Graduate 430 Pupils This Year.

The graduation exercises of the grammar schools will be held Friday afternoon at High school hall. Admission will be by ticket only. The doors will be open at 2.30 and the exercises will commence at 3 o'clock.

The exercises which will be similar to other years will open with the grand march when the graduating classes from each building will enter.

There will be singing by the graduates under the direction of Mr. Snyder, and an address by Supt. William C. Bates of Fall River who has recently been elected superintendent of schools at Cambridge.

The address will be followed by the presentation of diplomas by the chairman of the sub-committee from each school.

The graduating class this year numbers 430, which is considerable larger than last year. The number to be graduated from each school will be as follows:

	1905.	1904.	1900.
Adams,	36	40	36
Coddington,	32	32	43

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Having learned the secret of the strenuous life Paul Morton feels able to tackle the Equitable problem.

Some of our exchanges wonder how the Russian gunners managed to hit the Dogger bank fishing smacks. Those editors have evidently never shot enough to know that it's different when you're scared.

An increase of over 38 per cent in grammar school graduates in five years shows the great need of increased accommodations at the High school. In 1900 the number of graduates was 311. This year, 430.

When the city of Boston decides that it will not employ people who live in Quincy, it will be time for Quincy people to say they will not trade in Boston. The aldermen of Boston should vote to build a Chinese wall around the city.

There is no reason why New Yorkers should make any fuss over the sale of Captain Kid's house in their city. Captain Kid was only a miniature palid pirate compared with certain gentlemen who have had to do with the Equitable.

J. J. Hill has purchased a simple and inexpensive summer residence at Lenox, Massachusetts, instead of the "elegant mansion" which he was expected to select. What an astounding change would be made in the United States if millionaires, their wives and daughters, should copy modesty and simplicity.

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old.
In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible ones youthful appearance.
It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.
The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.
Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use
Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure.

BOWEN IS DROPPED

President Dismisses Him From Diplomatic Service

IS SEVERELY ARRAIGNED

Minister's Conduct Declared to Have Been "Especially Reprehensible"--Loomis Not Dishonorable, but Was Indiscreet

Washington, June 21.—The dismissal of Herbert W. Bowen, for some years United States minister to Venezuela, and the exoneration of Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Loomis of the allegations brought against him by Bowen, are the outcome of the Loomis-Bowen controversy, which has attracted wide attention for many months past. This disposition of the case is made by President Roosevelt in a letter addressed to Secretary Taft, approving Taft's report on his findings and conclusions in the case.

The president scathingly arraigns Bowen, declaring that his conduct "is especially reprehensible;" that Bowen asked one of his witnesses to enter the employ of a certain company for the purpose, "in plain words, of stealing" documents which he hoped might incriminate Loomis, and that Bowen has "evidently for many months, indeed, for the last two years, devoted himself" to hunting up scandal and gossip until it became a monomania and caused him "to show complete disloyalty" to the country he represented.

The president says he had helped to promote Bowen, as during much of his service he had done good work, but that his usefulness in the diplomatic service is now at an end. The president adds that he would direct that Bowen's resignation be requested but for his statement that he would consider a resignation an admission of misconduct and the dismissal is therefore ordered.

The letter quotes correspondence and testimony. The president states that it appears that Bowen, while minister, secured the publication of attacks on Loomis and furnished to the press documents pending before the state department for approval, and that his explanation is inexcusable and shows his "entire unfitness" for the service. Even if Loomis had been guilty, says the president, Bowen's conduct would be unpardonable. The letter quotes certain correspondence and testimony. The report of Secretary Taft on the case, on which the president's action is based, is a voluminous document reviewing the charges and the evidence taken.

In his report Secretary Taft says that there was nothing dishonorable in the transactions in which Loomis figured, but that he was not discreet. The report says that Loomis was not justified in becoming personally interested in any of the schemes, either with a mere nominal interest or substantial interest.

He holds, however, that Loomis has been "most cruelly slandered," commends him for the self-restraint with which he has met the charges, and points out that Loomis' bitter experience in this case makes it unnecessary to point out the moral that a minister cannot afford in the country to which he is accredited to make personal investments, etc.

Cause of Collision Not Known

Hartford, June 21.—Engineer Pruitt, who was injured in a collision of engines near Newington, is still alive, but his condition is very serious. His right leg was terribly mangled, his right arm broken and his skull fractured. He has not recovered consciousness since the accident, so that it has not been possible to learn from him how the collision happened. Engineer Wilcox and Flagman Senecal, who were also injured, are expected to recover.

Alexander and Hyde Out

New York, June 21.—Chairman Morton of the Equitable directors announces that he has accepted the resignation of James W. Alexander as president and James H. Hyde as first vice president. He declines to say whether he has taken any action on the resignations of the other officials. Inquiries at the residences of Alexander and Hyde elicited the information that no statement would be given out by either of those men.

Bound to Remain Friendly

London, June 21.—Sir Charles Dilke contributes an article to The Standard on imperial defense and the Anglo-American entente. It says that the reduction of garrisons and dockyards throughout Great Britain's American stations are heartily and sufficiently explained by the government's evident conviction of the stability of the friendly Anglo-American relations.

Hungarian Cabinet Boycotted

Budapest, June 21.—The Fejervary cabinet is almost certain to be defeated at the next sitting of the diet, when a motion of want of confidence will be introduced, which will receive the support of the united opposition as well as that of the Liberals. The boycott of new ministers is complete.

Russian Ships to Be Built Here

SEEK ANOTHER TEST

Both Armies In Manchuria Anxious For Big Battle

London, June 21.—An armistice in Manchuria is now generally regarded as out of the question until after another battle. Tokio reports that Japan expects great things of Field Marshal Oyama, who has long been preparing for a heavy blow at General Linevitch. It is generally felt that Japan, from her point of view, cannot afford to suspend hostilities until this effort has been made, and that is distinctly the line of probability. In Russia, also, the war party has taken courage of the internal dislike of onerous terms of peace, as expressed in the Liberal press. Dispatches from the Russian officers in the field are optimistic, and the whole temper of both belligerents seems to be for another test before settling down to work on the problem of peace terms.

Russians Completely Outflanked

London, June 21.—The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Tokio sends the following: "The Japanese are continuing their victorious advance in Manchuria. The Russians have been completely outflanked on both wings and news of Japanese victories may be expected shortly. The Japanese have considerably over half a million men in the field. Their preliminary operations began as far back as May 20."

Linevitch Wants to Fight

St. Petersburg, June 21.—Diplomatic measures for the peace conference are continuing in the face of the steady pressure brought to bear by the militant factions. General Linevitch has again wired the czar, saying that victory is almost at hand and begging that he and his army be not deprived of the opportunity to restore the prestige of Russian arms.

Important Railway Deal

New York, June 21.—President Belmont of the Interborough Rapid Transit company states that an agreement has been signed by which the Interborough company and the Long Island Railroad company have become the joint owners of all the traction lines on Long Island outside the Brooklyn Rapid Transit properties and establishing an important alliance between the Interborough and the Pennsylvania Railroad companies.

Panama Purchasing Agents

Washington, June 21.—Chairman Shonts of the isthmian canal commission has decided to place assistant purchasing agents as follows: A. F. Anderson at New York, S. F. Redfern at New Orleans, C. A. Devol, U. S. A., at San Francisco, and N. H. Haraden at Tacoma. Arrangements are being perfected under which advertisements will appear simultaneously in the leading newspapers in each section of the country.

Fighters In Need of Repairs

Salt Lake City, June 21.—Billy Stift, who was defeated by George Gardner at Ogden, has a broken right wrist, having sustained the injury in the fourth round. Stift also bit off the end of his tongue. Jimmy Gardner, who fought a 20-round draw with Jack O'Keefe in this city, is confined to his bed as a result of a low blow delivered by O'Keefe. Gardner's injuries are serious.

Infant's Body Left In Car

Boston, June 21.—A shoe box containing a still-born male baby was found beneath the seat of a Neponset car yesterday afternoon. The conductor, on arriving at the car barn, observed the box and, supposing it to be a forgotten parcel, placed it in the hands of the lost article room, where investigation disclosed the ghastly contents.

Disorder at Gomez' Funeral

Havana, June 21.—The body of General Maximo Gomez was interred last evening after a funeral so replete with demonstrations in honor of the dead general as to lead in several instances to scenes of disorder. There were several sharp charges by mounted police, with no worse result, however, than some bruised heads and bodies.

Crawford Case Goes to Jury

Washington, June 21.—The case of W. G. Crawford, accused of conspiring with A. W. Machen and G. E. Lorenz to defraud the United States in connection with a contract for supplying the postoffice department with letter carriers' satchels and straps, was given to the jury yesterday afternoon.

Johnson's Fate In Jury's Hands

Manchester, Vt., June 21.—The jury that has been hearing the evidence in the trial of Fred Johnson, charged with the murder of his brother Jay, has retired to consider the case. Johnson admitted the shooting, but claimed that it was done in self-defense.

Hundred Thrown Out of Work

New Haven, June 21.—One hundred people are thrown out of work by the burning last night of the buckle factory of the Wire Novelty Manufacturing company at West Haven. The plant was valued at $10,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Alfonso's Cabinet Resigns

Madrid, June 21.—The entire cabinet has resigned and its resignation has been accepted by King Alfonso. The resignation followed the rejection of a vote of confidence in the cabinet introduced in the chamber of deputies.

HUB MERCHANTS' STAND

Declare For Tariff Revision Upon Reciprocity Principle

Boston, June 21.—At a special meeting of the committee of 100 of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, appointed to consider the general question of reciprocity, it was voted that a committee of 11 be appointed to consider and report what further action shall be taken towards the endorsement of a candidate for state office pledged to the advocacy of reciprocity and tariff revision, or the selection of candidates to go before the people as representatives of these policies.

The meeting also adopted a declaration on reciprocity and tariff revision. In this it was asserted that the country is confronted with a commercial and economic situation which threatens alike American varied interests, from agriculture to manufacture. The declaration says:

"We believe a revision of the tariff upon the principle of reciprocity to be necessary, and we affirm that the adoption of a maximum and minimum tariff system, having for its purpose reciprocity rather than retaliation, is best calculated to promote and maintain a rational system of protection and to guarantee the equitable treatment of all foreign nations.

"We demand that hides, coal, iron ore, lumber and wood pulp be placed upon the free list, and we urge the advisability of reducing the duties upon manufactured and other articles, where such duties are higher than are needed for any just purpose of protection."

Boston's Bald-Headed Cops

Boston, June 21.—Boston's big army of 1200 blue-coated policemen is becoming bald. The board of police are considering the advisability of having the men wear straw helmets in the summer time, so that their hair will be better ventilated and will not fall out so rapidly. It has been shown that after three years most policemen become bald. The helmets which they wear, hair doctors state, is the direct cause for this premature falling of the hair.

Two Boys Badly Mangled

East Greenwich, R. I., June 21.—Daniel Meehan, 16 years old, and a youth named Sloaney, aged 20, of Lowell, Mass., were struck and instantly killed by a train here last night. The boys were on the track and the train crashed into them before they could jump aside. The bodies were frightfully mutilated, the heads being crushed in and the limbs cut off.

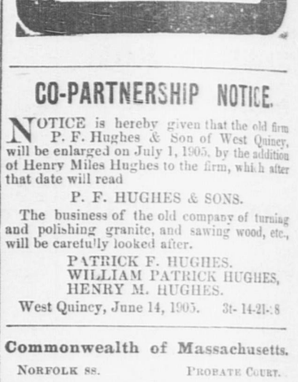

A Man Perhaps Burned to Death

Lynn, Mass., June 21.—A small wooden dwelling house occupied by the family of Charles Emerson was completely destroyed by fire late last night. Mrs. Emerson and two children were away from home, but Emerson was seen in the neighborhood two hours before the fire and it is feared that he was caught and burned to death.

Fire In Boston Subway

Boston, June 21.—The overturning of a gasolene lamp last night in section 4 of the Washington street subway, now under construction, set fire to a number of supporting timbers and building material and resulted in a slight injury to one of the firemen and several workmen. Little damage was done to the structure.

Philadelphia Banker Made a Specialty of Forgery

REVEALED BY HIS DEATH

Bought Small Shares of Gilt-Edged Securities, Raised Figures, and Secured Large Loans --Banks Lose Over $750,000

Philadelphia, June 21.—One of the most sensational cases of forgery that has ever been brought to light in financial circles of this city was disclosed when it was announced that certificates calling for small numbers of shares of stock had been fraudulently raised to hundreds of shares, causing a loss to certain banks and trust companies of this city of from $750,000 to $1,000,000.

The forgery involves the name of Benjamin H. Gaskill, who went to his grave four weeks ago. Gaskill was the sole member of the banking and brokerage concern known as Benjamin H. Gaskill & Co. He had offices in the financial district and his credit was considered gilt-edged.

Gaskill died four weeks ago and at the time of his death he was believed to be worth about $500,000. He left no will and administrators began to close up his business. A patron of the firm, whose name is not given, bought from the estate 100 shares of Philadelphia Traction company stock and 100 shares of stock of the United States Steel corporation. He turned his account over to E. C. Miller & Co., which firm sent the 100 shares of traction stock to the Philadelphia Traction company's office to have the transfer recorded.

The certificate did not agree with the company's books, and an investigation showed that the certificate had been raised from six shares to 100. The discovery was reported to E. C. Miller & Co., which firm immediately notified the Stock Exchange of which Gaskill was a member, which in turn sent out notices to its members not to receive stock certificates from the Gaskill estate.

A further investigation brought to light a surprising state of affairs. It was found that Gaskill had credited himself on his own books with 6000 shares of Philadelphia Traction stock valued at approximately $600,000, while the traction company's books showed he had only 400 shares. It was also discovered that he had raised stock certificates of the United Railways of New Jersey from two to 200 and the certificates of the Frankford and Southwark Street Railway company of this city from two to 20. The latter stock is worth $450 a share.

Gaskill kept two accounts—one recording the transactions of his customers, which was correct, and another giving his own transactions. His books showed that he was losing from $15,000 to $25,000 a year in his business. His method of operation was to obtain certificates of gilt-edged securities, calling for one, two, three or some other small number of shares, raise the figures and give them as securities for large loans.

Gaskill was 41 years of age when he died. He was a member of the Manufacturers' and other clubs and well and favorably known. The administrators of the estate have retained counsel to protect the interests of the estate.

Gaskill left a wife, to whom the Stock Exchange a few days ago paid $5000 as life insurance. His seat on the Stock Exchange is valued at $15,000.

Will Serve as Practice Vessel

Boston, June 21.—Vesuvius, the torpedo boat training vessel, formerly known as a "dynamite cruiser," has been commissioned at the Charlestown navy yard, after having been out of active service for about six years. The Vesuvius was turned over to Lieutenant Sexton by Captain Eaton, executive officer of the yard. The ship will be used as a practice vessel for officers at the torpedo training school at Newport, R. I.

Broad Scope of Beef Inquiry

Chicago, June 21.—Railroad rebates, the relationship between the railroads and the packing industries and questions concerning icing charges are to be reopened by the federal grand jury, which is investigating the beef packing industry. Eight members of traffic departments of as many railroads have been served with subpoenas.

Alleged Forgery by City Official

Philadelphia, June 21.—John W. Hill, who resigned last week as chief of the bureau of filtration, has been arrested on the charge of forgery and falsifying certain books and papers belonging to the city and the annulment of a $700,000 contract. Hill entered bail in the sum of $10,000 for a hearing.

Held on Smuggling Charge

Portland, Me., June 21.—Deputy Marshals Haskell and Hasty have arrested four residents of northern Aroostook county on a charge of smuggling, which, it is claimed, has been going on for years. The men were taken to Bangor.

Thompson's Light Punishment

Concord, N. H., June 21.—Arthur A. Thompson, who was indicted for using the mails for fraudulent purposes, but who escaped and was recently captured in Sacramento, Cal., was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and spend 60 days in jail.

No Further Reason For Existence

Cambridge, Mass., June 21.—The South Reading Mechanic and Agricultural institution, organized as a corporation in 1833, has petitioned the superior court for leave to dissolve. The directors say that the institution was constituted a corporation by special act of the legislature in 1833 to carry on a business of banking. The capital stock was $10,000, there being 1000 shares of the par value of $10. The business continued in Wakefield up to recently. The debts of the corporation are all paid with the exception of a few hundred dollars which it is impossible to find owners for. The petitioners say there is no reason why the company should longer act as a corporation.

Cigarmakers' Union Defeated

Trenton, June 21.—The court of errors and appeals in the case of the Cigarmakers' International Union of America against William H. Goldbergh set aside as unconstitutional the 10th section of the law of 1898 respecting labels and trade marks. The law provided a penalty of from $200 to $500 to be recovered by the party injured for the infringement of any label or trade mark. This is a defeat for the Cigarmakers' union, which brought suit for the alleged misuse of union labels.

To Look For "Mother Peach"

Brookline, Mass., June 21.—Professor Arthur W. Hartt, who was recently appointed by Secretary Wilson of the bureau of agriculture at Washington to explore the Yang Tse river valley in China, to gather seeds and plants adapted to the climate of the United States, left here last evening on his long journey by way of San Francisco. He will endeavor to find the "mother peach."

The Young Murder Mystery

Boston, June 21.—Elmer E. Young, a Boston detective, who is said to have been the guardian of May Young, the child murdered at Plympton, N. S., has left for Nova Scotia to investigate the case. According to statements said to have been made by Mrs. Young, one of the prisoners at Digby, her late husband, Fred Young, was a distant relative of the detective.

Roosevelt's Picture For London Club

London, June 21.—The Carlton club last night accepted the offer of John Wanamaker, former postmaster general of the United States, to present a portrait of President Roosevelt to the club in appreciation of the honor conferred upon Wanamaker in electing him an honorary member. The portrait will be painted by Sargent.

State Bank Shutters Up

Dunkirk, N. Y., June 21.—The state bank of Forestville has closed its doors, owing to the failure of the Fredonia National bank. Fred R. Green, cashier of the Fredonia National bank, was one of the founders of the Forestville institution.

President on Massachusetts Trip

Washington, June 21.—President Roosevelt left here at 9 o'clock last night for Massachusetts to attend the commencement exercises of Clark university at Worcester and Williams college at Williamstown. He traveled in a special train.

Three Hurt In Auto Accident

Burlington, Mass., June 21.—An automobile ran over a dog on the highway here and was overturned by the collapse of a wheel. Theodore Farrington sustained a fractured skull, Miss Bessie Ludlum had a rib fractured and Miss Emily Ludlum was injured about the head. The party was bound from Lowell to Boston.

Kick on Arcanum Assessments

Stamford, Conn., June 21.—Stamford council of the Royal Arcanum last night denounced the acts of the supreme council regarding assessment changes, and appointed a committee to suggest a plan for co-operation with other councils in Connecticut in an effort to secure a reconsideration of the matter by the supreme council.

Police Investigation Wanted

Cambridge, Mass., June 21.—The Cambridge board of aldermen last night adopted a resolution authorizing the committee of that body to investigate the police department of the city. The proposed investigation grows out of a number of arrests of political workers for alleged registration frauds.

Further Delay In Tucker Case

Boston, June 21.—The exceptions of Charles L. Tucker, convicted of the murder of Mabel Page, will be argued before the full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court on Sept. 6, a further postponement having been granted by Chief Justice Knowlton. The original date set was June 23.

Across Continent For Thief

Boston, June 21.—Police Inspector Wolf of this city started last night for Seattle to bring back Lewis J. Urann, who is wanted here on a charge of stealing about $12,000 from a firm in Faneuil hall market. He was employed as bookkeeper by the firm.

Suicide In Poorhouse

Sterling, Mass., June 21.—Despondent over his confinement in the town's poorhouse, John Kalarky, aged 69, a native of this town, committed suicide by cutting his throat. He leaves a widow and three children.

$100 Reward, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Fair weather is not predicted.

Two drunks arrested Tuesday night were released this morning.

The City Council Committee on Finance will meet Thursday evening.

The Quincy Yacht club will hold a race for all classes on Saturday at 2.30.

Fashion patterns are now a daily feature of the Daily Ledger. They may be ordered by mail.

The Quincys will play at Dorchester on Saturday, and probably with the Merrymounts the next Saturday.

The alarm from Box 43 at 7.28 Tuesday night was for a chimney fire on the John Evans building at Brewers corner.

Sergt. David J. Barry is having his annual vacation. One of the things Dave will take in will be a league game of ball—his first.

This week Saturday in the Granite City league the Victors will play the Markaria at Merrymount park, and the Orients the Athletics at the Ward Three playground.

Rev. E. N. Hardy of Bethany church was the guest and speaker at the "Field Day" of the Ashuelot Congregational Club at Wheelock Park, Keene, N. H., on Friday of last week.

Dr. Henry C. Hallowell, City Physician, was elected one of the executive committee of the Massachusetts City Physicians' Association, which was organized at the American House, Boston, on Tuesday.

Sydney C. Hardwick of this city received the degree of doctor of medicine at Tufts college on Tuesday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Hardwick of Revere road. The class was the largest ever graduated from the college.

The closed car on the Squantum line no longer presents to the public a dusty set of windows, for Wednesday morning Edward Dunn, one of the most popular conductors on that line, improved the time between trains by polishing each window until it shone like a mirror. Much credit is due Mr. Dunn for keeping the car looking as well as it does for he labors under difficulties.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

An addition is being built on the rear of the Harting residence on South street.

Quincy will be represented at the Jones-Bennett wedding, to take place in Somerville this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Daly of Boston will occupy the Richard house at Squantum for the summer months.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Washington Street Congregational church held its annual supper in the vestry Tuesday evening.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Browne of Clive street for the death of their youngest child, who has been ill for the past week with spinal meningitis.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Browne of Clive street, Atlantic, have the sympathy of their many friends in the death of their youngest child of one year who was a victim of cerebro spinal meningitis. The funeral took place yesterday.

The Boston Teachers' School of Science went to Newport last Saturday for an over Sunday lesson. Miss A. Maud Briggs of Appleton street, who is one of its members, describes the journey, through Cliff-walk, Purgatory and Paradise as especially interesting.

SINKING OF THE SUVAROFF.

Japanese Captain Tells How He Sank Rojestvensky's Flagship.

The captain of the Japanese destroyer Murasag, in describing how he attacked and sunk Rojestvensky's flagship, the Suvaroff, in the battle of the Sea of Japan, spoke as follows, says a special cable dispatch from Sasebo to the New York American:

"At daybreak on May 27 we received warning that the enemy's fleet was approaching. Our squadron opened fire from a concealed spot which the Russian guns couldn't reach. We merely threatened, and the Russians unsuspectingly returned our fire. My destroyer was outside the battle circle watching the movements of the Russians, whose firing was lamentable. Many of their shells passed over the Japanese fleet and dropped in the water astern. One, however, hit us astern, and at the same time an order came for us to attack the enemy's flagship.

"Although our boat was damaged, we made up our minds to face death bravely for the sake of the emperor and our country. So, with engines going at full speed, we dashed through the heavy seas toward the enemy's ship to within 100 meters. When we fired our first torpedo, a fish shaped eighteen inch Whitehead, we saw it strike the Suvaroff astern and soon realized that it had smashed her steering gear.

"From this moment the whole of the shell fire of the Japanese fleet was concentrated upon Rojestvensky's flagship. Her funnels were shot into tinsel and her masts, with one exception, collapsed with a terrible noise. The officers and sailors crowded around the one remaining mast as though demented. It was really an awful sight even for me, who in war have witnessed many terrible incidents.

"Then we fired a second torpedo. It struck the engine compartment and the flagship immediately listed nearly to the water's edge.

"Meanwhile the cannonading of the whole Japanese fleet, as if controlled by one automatic switch, was concentrated upon the crowd of officers and men standing beneath the solitary mast.

"Within a few seconds they were scattered into fragments, like dry leaves before the wind. Almost simultaneously the flagship reared up and plunged to the bottom of the sea. Then we retired from the battle circle."

WANT HIM TO SEE.

Marine Glasses Presented to Councilman Spargo.

Councilman William T. Spargo, who will sail Saturday for a visit to his native place in England, was given a reception Tuesday evening at Malnati hall by the Quincy foot ball team. The evening proved to be one of rare enjoyment. There was speaking and refreshments. During the evening Councilman Spargo was presented with a pair of marine glasses, with the hope that he would find them useful on his voyage both going and returning.

Mr. Spargo responded briefly, thanking his friends for their pleasing gift, and assuring them that he should not forget his friends in Quincy.

During the evening Councilman Spargo was showered with well wishes for a pleasant voyage, and visit to the scenes of his boyhood days, and a safe return to Quincy.

Is It Quite Common.

A woman in Houghs Neck who stands, according to modern rating, at the top of the literary ladder, was spending a few days last week in New Hampshire. Her husband had just joined a lodge, and in the initial burst of enthusiasm he allowed his wife to wear his badge on her watch fob. It was a beautifully engraved charm, and one evening at dinner, one of the guests, after examining the trinket asked suddenly, "What does the writing mean, 'In hoc signo vinces' that is written on one side of this badge?" The literary woman raised her brows in surprise. "That?" she enquired condescendingly, "why that means 'in God we trust,' didn't you ever hear the phrase? It is quite common." There was silence around the table. Unfortunately a few guests had studied Latin in their school days and they all had their private opinion of literary women from Houghs Neck.

Milton Suicide.

The body of Wallace Tisdale aged 30 years was found on the East Milton playground. There was a bullet hole through the heart and a revolver was near the body. The body was cold and had evidently been dead some hours.

Tisdale's home was in Medfield but he boarded in Brookline where he was employed in a grocery.

He left his boarding place Saturday saying that he was going to Medfield. He was not seen afterward until the body was found.

It is said that he had been despondent over a love affair.

Tomb Decorated with Flowers.

Owing to the bad weather but few of the members of the New England Woman's Press association came to Quincy today for their annual gathering. They were met at First church by Mrs. MacBride and Miss Prescott where they spent half an hour inspecting the church and visiting the tomb of the presidents. The inside grill door was hung with roses inscribed with the card of the Press association. After a short visit with Mr. Henry H. Faxon, cars were taken for North Weymouth, where Mrs. MacBride entertained at luncheon at the home of her son James D. MacBride. As it continued to rain hard other places of historical interest were not visited and the afternoon trip up into the quarries was also given up. Another date may be arranged for the newspaper women to come to Quincy later on when it is hoped the weather will be more favorable.

Cheaper Fares.

A meeting of the committees of the Board of Trade, City Council, Mayor Thompson, City Solicitor Thomas and Representatives to the General Court has been called for tonight to consider the subject of cheaper fares between Quincy and Boston.

Art Post Cards.

The Ledger has received specimen sets of the latest post cards issued the "Wide, Wide World" series, produced by the famous "Oilette" process, direct from either an original oil painting or water-color drawing—each post card being practically a miniature painting.

The reception which the "Wide Wide World" series of post cards, although of comparatively recent issue, has met, already gives every promise that they will become the most appreciated post cards of the age.

The educational value of post cards, which has long since been recognized by many of the most eminent men in America and Europe, has received valuable testimony in an article appearing in the current issue of the "Contemporary Review" on "Civic Education and City Development."

The Wide World series is issued by Raphael Tuck & Sons Co., 122 Fifth avenue, N. Y., who will send catalogue.

Choir Entertained.

The choir of St. John's church was entertained at a banquet at the Greenleaf on Tuesday evening by Rev. John J. Coan, the pastor. A pleasing menu was served, after which an adjournment was made to the parlors, where an hour or more was passed in social intercourse and music.

Q. Y. C. Flag Abroad.

The Quincy Yacht club is becoming known in foreign waters as its flag is now flying from a trim little yacht in Manila bay, owned by W. V. Vose, formerly of Quincy, and a member of the Quincy Yacht club. The yacht, which is of teek wood, was built by Leung Foo at Manila. She is 23-8 overall, 15-6 water line, 1-8 draft, and carries 380 square feet of sail.

Woodward Graduation.

As usual, music will be a feature of the graduation exercises of the class of 1905 at the Woodward Institute this evening at 8 o'clock. The address to the graduates will be by William Edwards Huntington, LL. D., whose subject will be: "Some things expected of the educated girl." A class ode has been written for the occasion by Miss Margaret Lyons. Twenty-four young ladies will be graduated.

To Be Ordained.

Rev. Charles H. Emmons who was graduated from Tufts Divinity school Tuesday is the pastor of the Universalist church of this city, and services of ordination will be held in that church tomorrow evening at 7.30, to which the public is invited.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Girl's Frock Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4641

Nothing is prettier or more attractive for girls who have outgrown the one piece dresses than the belted frocks which mark their advancement from the nursery to the schoolroom. The school girl's frocks should be simple in appearance and of dainty, inexpensive stuffs, as one must contend with the "growing" problem, and it does not pay to spend too much time or money in the fashioning. In this model the salient feature is the prettily shaped bertha. It is made all in one, but trimmed as if in sections. Each section is adorned with an applique, and the mode of trimming is just as effective in gingham dresses with white embroidered motifs as a cashmere one trimmed with silk applique. The dress may be made in guimpe style or finished all in one piece. The style is very pretty to be worn without guimpe. The fullness of the blouse is outlined by box plaits, which affords a place for additional trimming if desired. The sleeve is large and attached to a deep cuff. The skirt is full and round and may be simply finished with a hem or with insertion, ruffles or any preferred manner. Sizes, 4 to 12 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 4641, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

BEAU BRUMMEL.

Some Incidents In the Life of This Noted English Fop.

An English paper prints a number of stories of Beau Brummel, some of which perhaps are not generally known. At the Pavilion, at Brighton, he ordered the footman to empty his snuffbox into the fire because a bishop had taken a pinch unasked. A man whom he had met at dinner offered him a lift in his carriage to Lady Jersey's ball "Thank you exceedingly," said the Beau, "but how are you to go? You would not like to get up behind, and I cannot be seen in the same carriage with you." He made no secret of his humble birth and when asked about his parents declared that "the poor old creatures both cut their throats years ago eating peas with a knife." Once at least Brummel met his match. He was playing hazard at Brooks', when a well known alderman, a brewer, was one of the party. "Come, Mashtub," said Brummel, who was the caster, "what's your set?" "Twenty-five guineas," was the reply. "Well, then, have at the mayor's pony," said Brummel, who proceeded to cast, and by a run of luck won the stake twelve times in succession. Pocketing the money, he thanked the brewer and promised that in future he would drink no one's porter but his. "I wish, sir," replied the brewer, "that every other blackguard in London would tell me the same."

AN AID TO HEARING.

Opera Glasses Help the Ears as Well as the Eyes.

"Hurry them along, please," said the woman customer as she left a pair of opera glasses for repairs at a Chestnut street store. "I can't hear well at the theater without them."

Another customer who was waiting smiled when the woman left at her apparent mistake. "She meant she could not see," he observed.

"No," rejoined the optician; "she meant just what she said. Opera glasses are an aid to hearing as well as to sight. You can prove it any time you are seated well toward the rear in a theater by training the glasses on a singer. As long as you keep the singer under scrutiny with the glasses you will be able to follow the words of the song with ease. Drop the glasses and you will notice a difference. It will require more or less of a strain to catch the enunciation distinctly.

"By the use of opera glasses a theater patron is enabled to note distinctly every movement of a singer's lips, and the unconscious 'lip reading' greatly aids the sense of hearing. If you ever attend a public meeting where it is impossible to get close to the speakers provide yourself with opera glasses, and you will be surprised how greatly they will aid you in hearing."—Philadelphia Record.

CHANGING THE SUBJECT.

What Lincoln Said When Harvey Ended a Two Hours' Talk.

The late Hon. Charles W. Slack told the following of the Hon. Peter Harvey, the friend and biographer of Daniel Webster:

Mr. Harvey was a large man with a small voice and that pomposity of manner that many very diffident men possess. Above everything he valued and prided himself upon his friendship with the "great expounder."

The first year of the War of the Rebellion he went to Washington, and on his return was asked how he liked President Lincoln.

"Well," he said, "Mr. Lincoln is a very singular man. I went on to see him, and told him that I had been an intimate personal friend of Daniel Webster; that I had talked with him so much on the affairs of the country that I felt perfectly confident I could tell him exactly what Mr. Webster would advise in the present crisis, and thereupon I talked to Lincoln for two solid hours, telling him just what he should do and what he should not do, and, will you believe it, sir, when I got through all Mr. Lincoln said was, as he clapped his hand on my leg, 'Mr. Harvey, what a tremendous great calf you have got.'"—Boston Herald.

Hard on Norah.

Scene: The Wilsons' dining room.

Norah, the slovenly cook, puts her head in at the door.

Norah—Plaze, ma'am, will ye be afther tellin' me whin I'm to know whether th' puddin's baked or not?

Mrs. Wilson—Stick a knife into the middle of it, and if the knife comes out clean the pudding is ready to send to the table.

Mr. Wilson—And, Norah, if it does come out clean stick all the rest of the knives in the house into the pudding.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Brick In His Hat.

"Shorry I'm sho late, m' dear," began Dingle apologetically, "but shome fresh jokers stopped me an' wouldn' lemmee go"—

"Indeed?" interrupted his wife. "Why didn't you take the brick out of your hat and hit them with it?"—Philadelphia Press.

Be Not Rash.

One need not thrust his hand into a raging furnace even though he knows that a precious jewel lies therein. He may be patient until the flames are spent.—From "The Bishop's Niece," by George H. Picard.

His Part.

Wife—I see by this paper that the average family has four and seven-tenths persons. Husband—I suppose I'm the seven-tenths in this family!

Wit should be used as a shield for defense rather than as a sword to wound others.—Fuller.

ORDINATION

Of Rev. Charles H. Emmons This Evening.

Graduated from Tufts This Week.

Two New Doctors of Divinity to Take Part.

Rev. Charles Henry Emmons, a young man of 25 years, will be ordained this evening to the office of the christian ministry at the First Universalist church of this city, where of late he has supplied the pulpit. The order of services will be:

Invocation, Rev. Stanley Gates Spear
Hymn 3, Tune Gettschalk
Lesson from Holy Scriptures, Rev. Stanley Gates Spear
"The Lord is My Shepherd" S. Liddle
Mr. Leon R. Maxwell
Sermon, Rev. Charles Conklin, D. D.
Hymn 742, Tune, Mornington
Prayer and Act of Ordination, Rev. F. A. Dillingham, D. D.
"My God and Father," Marston
Miss Myra L. Richmond
Fellowship of the church and charge to the minister, Rev. R. Perry Bush, D. D.
Hymn 411, Tune, Woodland
Benediction, Rev. Charles H. Emmons

Both Mr. Dillingham who is a pastor at Bridgeport, Conn., and Mr. Bush, who is located at Chelsea, were given the degree of doctor of divinity on Wednesday of this week at Tufts college. Dr. Conklin, who preaches the sermon was a recent pastor of the church, and is superintendent of Universalist work in the state and secretary of the State convention.

Mr. Emmons was born in Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 28, 1879. He attended the schools of that city, and secured what education the schools had to offer. At the age of 16 he entered into commercial life with two of his brothers, remaining with the business when it was sold to Mr. C. A. Campbell, with whom he was associated during four years.

During this time he became connected with the Church of The Redeemer, Universalist, Rev. F. A. Dillingham, D. D., pastor, and was actively associated with all its departments until the fall of 1901 when he entered the Tufts College Theological School for a four years' course, to prepare for the Christian ministry. At the end of his sophomore year he took charge of the First Universalist church at West Derry, N. H., for the summer, returning to the college in the fall, to continue his studies.

At the end of his junior year, he was called to take charge of the Universalist church at Hartland Four Corners, Vt., where he conducted service, and attended to pastoral duties, until it was time to return to college for his senior year, to complete his course of training.

Upon returning to college he was called to take charge of the Universalist church in Quincy, where he has been doing missionary work while finishing his theological course at Tufts college.

While at the college, he has been actively connected with the musical organizations of that institution, and was leader of the Mandolin club during the season of 1903-04. Owing to the press of work, both church and college, he was obliged to sever his connections with the musical clubs during his senior year. Mr. Emmons was a member of the Class Day committee, and odeist of his class. He received the degree of bachelor of divinity on commencement day, Tuesday, of this week.

FOR LOWER FARES.

City Government and Board of Trade Acting Together.

A meeting of the committees appointed by the Board of Trade and City Council, to take steps toward securing lower fares between Quincy and Boston on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. was held Wednesday evening at the rooms of the Board of Trade.

Aside from the committees, Mayor Thompson, City Solicitor Thomas and Representative Harry S. Nicoll were present.

The committee organized with Representative Nicoll as chairman, and Councilman William G. Gassett as secretary.

A sub-committee was appointed to confer with railroad officials in relation to securing lower fares.

This committee is composed of Mayor Thompson, City Solicitor Thomas, Representative Nicoll, Councilman Gassett, and Julius Johnson representing the Board of Trade.

Councilman Gassett was instructed to confer with Mr. Byrnes, assistant to President Mellen, and arrange for a date for the conference.

Fay—Smith.

There was a large attendance of Quincy and Wollaston people Wednesday evening at the marriage reception of Miss Lillian Gertrude Smith and Waldo Brigham Fay, which was held at Brookline at 89 Aspinwall avenue, the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith, uncle and aunt of the bride.

The wedding, which was solemnized at half past seven, was witnessed by only the immediate families. Rev. Frank Wright Pratt of the Draper Memorial church of Hopedale, formerly of the Wollaston Unitarian church, tied the marriage knot. Miss Caroline M. Smith of Brookline, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and the best man was Louis D. Smith of Boston, brother of the bride. Mrs. Carry B. Luard at the piano played the wedding march

It was a very pretty grouping of dainty coloring. The bride's gown was a mousseline de soie over white satin, with long tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and she carried Bride roses, while in delicate contrast the maid of honor wore a pink and white muslin and carried a bouquet of roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held from eight until ten which was largely attended, guests being present from New York, Gardner, Worcester, Southern Pines, Brookline, Quincy, Lynn, Boston and other cities. In the receiving line besides the newly wedded young people were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Smith, the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith, and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Fay.

The ushers were Gordon Gannett, Christopher C. Daw and Tyler Brigham of Wollaston, and Roscoe M. Horton of Atlantic.

Among the many beautiful presents of silver, cut glass, china, etc., was a gold watch and chain, a gift to the bride from the groom. The house was profusely decorated with June flowers, roses and peonies predominating.

The young people are very popular and well known in Quincy, the groom being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Fay of 345 Newport avenue, Wollaston, and the bride the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Smith of 30 Bowman street, Dorchester. Their friends speeded them on their wedding trip, with good wishes and showers of rice and confetti.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay are to reside on Beale street, Wollaston, where they will be at home Thursdays during September.

Torrey—Barnicoat.

Two well known young people, Clara Gertrude Barnicoat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Barnicoat of Independence avenue, South Quincy and Lester Thurlow Torrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Gleason Torrey of Pond street, South Braintree, were united in marriage at Dorchester on Monday afternoon. The ceremony was solemnized at half past three by Rev. Dr. Albright of the Dorchester Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. Torrey are spending their honeymoon in New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

They are to make their home with Mr. and Mrs. N. Gleason Torrey, 20 Pond street, South Braintree, receiving their friends on Wednesday evenings after September sixth.

EDUCATED GIRL

Some Things Which are Expected of Her.

Graduating Exercises at the Woodward.

The Class of 1905 Numbers 24 Young Ladies.

The class of 1905, numbering 24, was graduated on Wednesday evening from the Woodward Institute. The exercises were held in the school hall at 8 o'clock and were only one hour in length, so that they were not tiresome.

Green and white are the class colors, and the motto of the class "Prudence wins reward," was displayed in a suspended arc in large white letters on a green background entwined with green vines. The portrait of Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, the founder, was also entwined, and there were plants on the platform.

The evening was very inclement, but there was as usual a full house.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the school marched in, and the graduates were greeted with applause. White dresses predominated, both among the graduates and the undergraduates, and it was a pretty scene.

The program opened with three excellent musical numbers by the school under the direction of Mr. John D. Buckingham, who presided at the piano, viz:

Sunset Hugo Jungst
Evening Rest C. Hering
Daybreak W. T Deane

Each number received applause.

Frederic W. Plummer, the principal, briefly introduced the speaker of the evening, William Edwards Huntington, LL. D., whose subject was "Some things expected of the educated girl."

Dr. Huntington felt that the Woodward and Boston University were bound by ties, because graduates of the former were now students at the latter. They also stand well. He complimented the school on the good music.

People, he said, are never fully educated. They find many things to learn. An educated girl we shall consider as one who has improved all the opportunities offered in a school. An educated girl should first know something of English, sometimes fearfully neglected. Also history and English literature.

The speaker emphasized good manners as one of the things expected. Doing things in an acceptable way. He warned graduates against slang, against loudness and against frivolity.

We expect of educated girls good character. When my watch was smashed by a fall, said the speaker, I was advised to take it back to the maker. So when you are in trouble take the mechanism back to the Maker. He will always be your help.

In the absence of Rev. E. C. Butler, chairman of the board of managers, Mr. Frank E. Parlin, superintendent of the school, spoke briefly and presented the diplomas.

Most of the graduates also received bouquets, some two and three, from friends.

The graduates were:

Jessie Orr Shirley
Lucy Leah Hennigar
Lula Gertrude Barry
Margaret Cotter Carey
Helen Louise Curtin
Abigail Madeline Duane
Grace Josephine Elcock
Jessie Delight Gardner
Mary Evelyn Gavin
Emma Frances Hayden
Margaret Hill
Louisa Williams Hinkley
Martha Ellsworth Jenkins
Mary Esther Keenan
Ella Veronica Keefe
Margaret Lillian Lyons
Genevieve Margaret Magee
Loretta Elizabeth McDonnell
Mabel Elsie Miner
Muriel Angell Rogers
Margaret Knox Shirley
Helen Marilla Sprague
Helen Marion Tirrell
Katherine Marie Whelan

The Class Ode written by Margaret Lyons follows:

Farewell the shore where we've lingered long,
Adieu to the friends we have made,
Stay us not on our course, we are strong
And of peril and toil unafraid.

Though the waves of Temptation may rise
And threaten to scatter our fleet,
We will ever turn forward our eyes
And trust in the harbor to meet.

After crossing the fathomless ocean
To our goal on the opposite shore,
We'll remember with fervid devotion
The days when we toiled at the oar.

Miss Jessie Orr Shirley the valedictorian, is the second one in her family to win that honor at the Woodward. Miss Lucy Leah Hennigar was the salutatorian.

All were invited at the close of the exercises to view a display of drawings in one of the upper rooms. They found a very creditable exhibit. On the blackboard in the music room was drawn and exquisitely colored several poppy blossoms which were admired by all. The cooking room was open and many also admired the equipment.

This evening the class of 1905 will give a reception at Woodward hall, admission being by ticket.

Work by Brockton Team.

Wollaston lodge, No. 174, American Benefit Society, enjoyed an excellent treat Tuesday evening when the degree team of Loyal lodge of Brockton was present to work the initiatory degree upon three candidates. Their movements on entering and retiring were exceptionally fine and won hearty applause. Supreme President Hon. W. H. Carberry and Supreme Medical Dr. M. Morey Pearson were present, and gave encouraging addresses. The charter has been framed and hung on the wall since last meeting.

Addresses were also made by President Dow of Loyal lodge, also by Brothers Carter, Reed and Blodget of the same lodge, and Sisters Reed and Small. Also Benjamin Pearson, president of Athens lodge of Boston and President Merrill and Brothers E. R. Johnson, Clyde V. Saunders, Miss Mildred Saunders and Sisters Waterhouse and Miller of Wollaston lodge. At the close of the meeting ice cream and cake were served, and a hearty vote of thanks was given the degree staff for its excellent work and for their visit. A social time followed till the late train.

A Stiff Bill.

It is understood that the three members of the commission appointed by the Supreme court to apportion the cost of building the Quincy Point bridge have submitted their bill for services to the court for approval. The commission was in session twenty-one days, and their bill for services was $100 each per day or a total of $6,300. The court allowed the bill, but said it did not know where they would get the money, as but $4,000 had been provided for the services rendered by the Commission.

Association Football.

At Association foot ball on Tuesday afternoon on the Ward Three playground, the Quincys defeated a team from the S. S. Arabic 3 to 0. Game was called at five, and it was hotly contested. The Quincys have not been scored against in the last five games.

On Saturday, the Quincys go to Fort Warren to play the military champions of Massachusetts. They will take the 10.10 A. M. train from Quincy Adams.

☞New York city is to permit the station officer to discharge any drunk who is a first or second offender and who makes application for freedom without appearance before the court, or even the probation officer. By and by we shall have licenses issued to all applicants to get drunk twice a year, the license to be revoked upon second offending, so that the police may be saved the trouble of making the arrest if the unfortunate can show his license. —Haverhill Gazette.

☞Here and there and everywhere are to be found the man and the woman who "never have time." They would read good books if they had time. They would visit the sick and needy, but somehow they have not the time. They would call on their friends, cultivate good fellowship and add to the comforts of living, but they have so many other things to do that they can find no time for this. They deceive themselves and think they are deceiving others. They are not. "Never have the time" simply because they do not take the time. Doers always have the time to do. Busy men always find time to complete their tasks.—Gloucester Times.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

ASK FOR RELEASE

Mrs Rogers' Counsel Argue on Her Petition

IT IS STRONGLY OPPOSED

Attorney General Declares That Subterfuge Is Being Resorted To--Condemned Woman Is In Court, But Shows No Emotion

Windsor, Vt., June 22.—For the first time since her incarceration in the state prison here, more than a year and a half ago, Mrs. Mary M. Rogers, the convicted murderess of her husband, Marcus Rogers, yesterday passed out through the doors of the prison and for a few brief hours breathed the air of freedom. Her brief respite from the unceasing monotony of prison life was one of the incidents in the attempt of her attorneys to save her from death on the gallows.

The developments in Vermont's most famous criminal case included a trip to Brattleboro, where the attorneys for the condemned woman argued a petition for her release before Judge Wheeler, in the United States circuit court. Mrs. Rogers was taken to Brattleboro by Marshal Bailey on a writ of habeas corpus.

Mrs. Rogers appeared nervous and depressed on the trip from Windsor to Brattleboro and took but little notice of what was going on about her. On the return trip to Windsor, however, she was in noticeably better spirits, conversed animatedly with the matron, Miss Durkee, and with Superintendent Lovell and Sheriff Peck. She also took considerable interest in the other passengers in the car.

The legal proceedings at Brattleboro occupied about two hours. Mrs. Rogers' petition was supported by Attorney Moloney and Judge Butler of Rutland, her attorneys, while Attorney General Fitts opposed the granting of the petition. At one stage the proceedings became heated, Fitts charging that the prisoner's attorneys were trying to delay proceedings and that they were resorting to subterfuge. Moloney made an impassioned reply to the charge of Fitts and declared that he would not stand by and listen to such imputations without resenting and denying them. Judge Wheeler will today render his decision on the petition.

All along the journey from Brattleboro back to Windsor crowds were massed at every station, waiting to get a sight of Mrs. Rogers. The woman appeared to be embarrassed by the notoriety, but at no time did she exhibit any marked emotion. At three stations the doors of the car were locked to keep out the throngs of curious people who endeavored to pass through the car.

Mrs. Rogers was accompanied by Superintendent Lovell of the state prison, High Sheriff Peck of Windsor county, who will be her executioner if the final attempt of counsel fails to save her from the gallows; Miss Durkee, the prison matron; Deputy Sheriff Kinjry, and Marshal Bailey. On the return to the prison the marshal did not accompany the party.

Held For Alleged Smuggling

Bangor, Me., June 22.—Raymond Albert, Alexis Albert, Thomas Daigle and Deloire St. Anent, who were arrested by Deputy United States Marshals Hasty and Haskell, were arraigned here before Commissioner Hamlin on charges of smuggling. All waived examination, St. Anent being held in $500 bonds, and the others in $1000, for their appearance at the September term of the United States district court. All four men furnished bail.

Detective Young Investigating

Digby, N. S., June 22.—Elmer E. Young, the Boston detective and guardian of May Young, the 6-year-old girl who was murdered at Plympton last Friday, has arrived here from Boston to aid in the investigation of the girl's death. Young was permitted to see May H. Young, who is under arrest on suspicion of causing the child's death. After leaving the jail Young started for Plympton.

Philadelphia Bank Goes Under

Philadelphia, June 22.—The City Trust and Safe Deposit company has closed its doors. The company will liquidate and it is the belief that all depositors will be paid in full. The failure of the company was the direct result of the forgeries of the late Benjamin H. Gaskill, the banker, who, it was learned, a month after his death, had raised many certificates of stock.

Senator Mitchell's Trial Begun

Portland, Or., June 22.—Charged with using his office for private gain in connection with land frauds in Oregon, United States Senator Mitchell is facing a jury. District Attorney Heney's arraignment of Mitchell was severe. Counsel for the defendant denied the allegations of the prosecution, asserting that Mitchell was guiltless in intent.

Millions For Defense of India

London, June 22.—Indian Secretary Brodrick, on presenting the Indian budget in the house of commons, said it was his duty to ask the house to increase the charge for military services by about $12,200,000. He contended that the main reason for which the military forces of the country were now organized was the defense of India.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Pretty Russian Blouse Frock Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4657

A sweet simplicity characterizes the gowning of the little people, and this makes them appear all the more adorable as well as answers the requirements of sense and economy. Here is shown a small frock which is not only modish, but individual in its cut and adornment. Blue serge was used in the original, with trimming bands of red ornamented with a narrow gold braid in Greek border design. The belt, which girdles the blouse in long waisted effect, was of red patent leather. This design is one which lends itself to any durable fabric. Butchers' linen in blue, white or old rose shade, gingham or madras might be used and a very pleasing result be assured. The belt may be of leather or the material, and a button might fasten the latter if it were a washing fabric. The front is plain, closing at one side in true Russian manner. Broad plaits extending full length provide fullness for the back, and the broad, round collar adds a becoming finish. The sleeve is the popular bishop, being most suitable for frocks of this description. The pattern, No. 4657, is in sizes 3 to 9 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 4657, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

SHORTAGE OF $8186

What Books of Late Sheriff of Berkshire County Show

Boston, June 22.—Controller of County Accounts Prescott gave out from the state house the following statement relative to the investigation of Berkshire county finances:

"A recent examination made by the office of the accounts of the late Charles W. Fuller, sheriff and master of the house of correction of Berkshire county, shows a shortage of $8186.84. This deficit, with the exception of one small item, is in the heel shop accounts and extends back through 1899."

The late sheriff's bondsmen have stated to Attorney General Parker that there is not in fact a shortage and that the private account books of Fuller show advances to the county sufficient to offset the shortage. The attorney general has notified the bondsmen that if the books are not presented to him immediately action will be taken by the commonwealth.

Bank Embezzler Pardoned

Lawrence, Mass., June 22.—President Roosevelt has pardoned William S. Jewett, who was convicted in a federal court in Massachusetts for the misapplication of funds of the late National Bank of Wolfboro, N. H. Jewett was sentenced for seven years, and his term of imprisonment would have expired on Sept. 4, 1906. The application for pardon was based on the ground of ill-health. Jewett was notified of the pardon yesterday afternoon. He was released from the jail at 8:30 o'clock last night and went to his home.

Notables Honored by Tufts

Medford, Mass., June 22.—Tufts college celebrated its 50th anniversary by conferring honorary degrees upon Governor Douglas, Togoro Takahira, Japanese minister to the United States; Lieutenant General Chaffee, U. S. A.; Caroline Hazard, president of Wellesley college; Herbert Parker, attorney general of Massachusetts; Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Institute of Technology; William E. Huntington, president of Boston university, and several others eminent in religion, science or commercial life.

Indicted For Boycotting

St. Johnsbury, Vt., June 22.—James Duncan of Quincy, Mass., secretary-treasurer of the National Granite Cutters' union, and 10 members of the local union at Hardwick, Vt., were indicted by the Caledonia county grand jury for instituting a boycott against five granite manufacturers, who were formerly members of the union. Nine of the indicted men were arraigned and held in $400 for their appearance in court in about 10 days.

Wants Immediate Possession

Boston, June 22.—As the result of a disagreement as to the transfer of property, Isador Morse, son of the late Leopold Morse, has brought suit against his mother and his uncle, Godfrey Morse, in which he seeks to have it decreed that he is the lawful owner of the property, some $300,000, left him by his father's will. The property is now held in trust for 10 years. Young Morse wants immediate possession.

Four Sailors Locked Up

Providence, June 22.—On complaint of Captain William Hartzog of the schooner Harbeson Hickman, which arrived from Norfolk with a cargo of lumber, four negro sailors were brought before Commissioner Cross and accused of disobedience of orders on the voyage to this port. After a hearing the four men were bound over to the federal grand jury. No bail was provided and they were locked up.

A Christian Endeavor Proposition

Boston, June 22.—A plan for the recognition of the 25th anniversary of the Christian Endeavor society, which occurs Feb. 2, 1906, is for the erection and endowment, by the Endeavorers of the world, of an international headquarters building in honor of the founder of the society, Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D. The amounts suggested as suitable range from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Vermonters Get Memorial Contract

Barre, Vt., June 22.—The contract for constructing and erecting the McKinley national memorial at Canton, O., has been awarded to a local granite company. Pink granite, quarried at Milford, N. H., will be used in the construction of the memorial, which will be 95 feet high and have a circumference of 250 feet. The total cost of the memorial will be $250,000.

Hotel Proprietor Shot

Burlington, Vt., June 22.—John Powers, proprietor of a small hotel on the banks of the Winooski river, was shot and seriously wounded during a fight with four young men from this city, who had gone to the river to fish The authorities are undecided as to which of the men to charge with the shooting. All are locked up to await the outcome of Powers' wounds.

Three Charged With Murder

Waterbury, Conn., June 22.—The grand jury brought in indictments for murder in the first degree against Joseph Chenesky, Edward Leonard and Charles Bassett. They are charged with the killing of Thomas C. Lockwood, an aged recluse, who was attacked and robbed by three men, receiving injuries from the effects of which he died.

Property Attached For $1,000,000

Boston, June 22.—To avoid the necessity of following the assets of the corporation into other districts in case there is a change in the organization, property of the United States Shoe Machinery company has been attached for $1,000,000 by Harry E. Cilley, a shoe manufacturer of this city.

The Franco-German Hitch

Paris, June 22.—Prince Radolin, the German ambassador, has received from Premier Rouvier a note setting forth the French position in Morocco. The note shows that France is favorable to the integrity of Morocco, the sovereignty of the sultan and the observance of the open door. Rouvier announced his willingness to consider the question of a conference if the scope is fully defined in advance.

Great Battle May Have Begun

St. Petersburg, June 22.—A great battle in Manchuria is now beginning, and official dispatches from both sides bear out the idea that the Japanese have commenced their main advance, though as yet there have been no heavy collisions. If negotiations for an armistice are on foot they must bear immediate fruit in order to prevent a battle perhaps greater in its casualties than that of Mukden.

Strike Settled by Compromise

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Bowen Replies to President's Letter of Dismissal

CALLS LOOMIS DISHONEST

Denies That He Was Instigator of Charges Against Predecessor, Who, He Says, Established Hts Own "Unsavory Reputatoi"

New York, June 22.—Herbert W. Bowen, formerly minister to Venezuela, has made public a long statement in reply to President Roosevelt's letter dismissing him from the diplomatic service as a result of the investigation made by Secretary Taft into the controversy between Bowen and First Assistant Secretary of State Loomis.

Mr. Bowen declares the "Venezuelan scandal constitutes a national disgrace." He asserts that "the Loomis scandal" pervaded Caracas and constantly "grew worse and worse." He says that shortly after he called the matter to the attention of the department of state, he received a cable offer from Washingon of diplomatic promotion that would remove him from Caracas.

"I admit," he declares, "that I regarded the offer as an attempt to bribe me, veiled under the offer of a higher position and inspired by Mr. Loomis. I make no doubt that in the course of the recent inquiry it has been sufficiently plain that I did not think Mr. Loomis an honest man and that I did not believe his conduct as minister to Venezuela had been honorable."

When he went to Venezuela in 1901, as successor to Loomis, Bowen declares he found current rumors seriously affecting the honor and integrity of his predecessor, both as a man and as representative of the United States government. Bowen says that, feeling a sense of pride in representing the United States, these rumors were a source of continual mortification to him. Epitomizing the rumors, Bowen says:

"Mr. Loomis, while minister, was reported to have used his public position to fill his private purse by obtaining interests in concessions and in various claims against the Venezuelan government. He was commonly thought also to have been in the pay of the Bermudez Asphalt company and to have made use of his own official position to give color to the belief that the United States government was especially favorable to the side of that company in its controversy with the Venezuelan authorities. I had no means of refuting these scandalous statements. Their substantial truth was assumed by my diplomatic colleagues, as well as by the general public at Caracas."

Referring to the documents left by his predecessor in the legation at Caracas and forwarded by Bowen to the state department, the latter says: "I cannot better express my own feelings in regard to their contents than in the words of the secretary of state, who, in his letter acknowledging their receipt, said: 'I have been greatly surprised and pained in reading the documents you sent me.'"

After referring to the appearance of the Loomis charges in several papers, Bowen says: "To say that I instigated the charges is the product of a heated imagination. It was right after this that I was summoned by the state department to Washington and a departmental inquiry was made into Mr. Loomis' conduct in Venezuela, and I was dismissed from the diplomatic service. Yet I am neither responsible for Mr. Loomis' unsavory reputation in Caracas nor for the circulation of scandalous reports about him. He established his reputation himself while living there as American minister from 1897 to April, 1901, and the statements charging him with dishonest and dishonorable conduct were made with such detail of circumstances that mere denial by me was useless. What was needed was not their denial, but their disproof." Bowen says that subsequent developments strengthened his belief in Loomis' dishonesty.

"The statement that I attempted to steal or otherwise improperly procure information," continues Bowen, "is unwarranted. I made use of confidential agents only and of our consular offices in Venezuela. The state department on at least two occasions provided me with money to procure secret information.

"My personal fate and fortunes are of light interest to the public. But it does concern the whole country that its diplomatic representatives abroad should be men of clean character and unsullied reputation, and every American citizen should be especially concerned when a man who, as minister to a foreign state, has been the cause of grave scandals affecting his personal integrity and the honor of his government, is promoted to the high office of first assistant secretary of state and controls important negotiations with the very government at whose capital he caused the scandals and gained a tainted reputation."

Woman Charged With Perjury

Boston, June 22.—Isabelle M. Stone of Cambridge, who brought suit against the Boston Elevated Railway company for $20,000 for alleged personal injuries, was last night placed under arrest on a charge of perjury, the allegation being that the offense was committed during the trial of the case last week. It is charged that Miss Stone made untrue statements on the witness stand.

STRUCK OPEN SWITCH

Wreck of "Twentieth Century Flyer," World's Fastest Train

Mentor, O., June 22.—Running at the rate of 50 or 60 miles an hour, the Twentieth Century limited, on the Lake Shore railroad, dashed into an open switch at the passenger station here shortly before 10 o'clock last night. Four or five persons were killed and 12 or 15 badly injured. The combination baggage and smoking buffet car, and the coach behind it caught fire and were destroyed. The train was eastbound and, as it does not stop here, was running at great speed. The engineer did not notice the open switch until the train struck it.

The scenes following the collision were pitiful. The moans of the dying mingled with the cries and screams of the women on the train. Those in the rear coaches were not injured, and they set about at once to rescue those pinioned in the burning cars. The fire spread with great rapidity and it was with much difficulty that the passengers in the two coaches behind the engine were pulled from the debris.

The officials have not yet determined who is to blame for the accident, but it is believed the switch was left open by a freight crew, whose train had occupied the siding a short time before the limited came dashing along.

Scores Equitable Officers

Albany, June 22.—The report of Superintendent Hendricks of the state insurance department upon his investigation of the Equitable Life Assurance society was made public last night. It is decidedly critical of the management of the society, as well as of the new trust arrangement for voting the stock. The pith of the report is: "Superficial measures won't do. Restitution is mild punishment." Alexander and Hyde are severely arraigned. Tarbell is exonerated. Miss Hyde's $25,000 pension is "probably illegal." "Complete mutualization is the only panacea."

Officers Not to Blame

London, June 22.—The court martial which has been inquiring into the cause of the sinking of the submarine boat A-8 returned a verdict last evening to the effect that the boat had foundered as the result of alteration in her buoyancy trim from some unexplained cause. The court acquitted the officers and surviving members of the crew of all blame and returned their swords to the two officers on trial.

A Peaceful Arrangement

Stockholm, June 22.—The separation of Norway and Sweden seems likely to be amicably arranged by a modus vivendi between the two countries. The request of King Oscar and the council of state for authority to grant the wish of the Norwegian people and dissolve the union, but to preserve the friendly relations of the two countries so as to ensure co-operation in the future, will be granted by the riksdag.

Student Days Recalled

Delaware, O., June 22.—Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks were the central figures at the Ohio Wesleyan university on its alumni day. They attended all the exercises and visited the old sulphur springs, where they first met as students in the institution years ago. Mr. Fairbanks also called at the little house on Liberty street where, as a poor student, he sat up nights and mended his own trousers.

Weapon For Opposition Commoners

London, June 22.—The belated scandal in connection with army stores during the South African war, involving losses to the government of several million pounds, is being used with considerable effect by the opposition in the house of commons. The scandal may force a dissolution of parliament before the end of the session.

Believers In Pure Medicines

Gloucester, Mass., June 22.—At the second day's session of the State Pharmaceutical association here the establishment of a scholarship at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy was favored and the state board of health was commended for its action in regard to prosecutions for sales of impure medicines.

The Quaker City Scandal.

Philadelphia, June 22.—On charges of forgery and of falsifying statements, John W. Hill, former chief of the filtration bureau, at a salary of $17,000 a year, was held by Magistrate Isenbrown in $8000 bail for trial. Hill resigned his office a week ago and the resignation was accepted by Mayor Weaver.

Arcanian Executives to Meet

Boston, June 22.—The meeting of the executive committee of the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum will be held in Brooklyn on June 29, instead of in this city as previously announced. It is expected that the question of new rates for insurance in the order will be considered at the Brooklyn meeting.

A Northern Korean Skirmish

Tokio, June 22.—It is officially announced that a Japanese detachment in northern Korea completely occupied Kangsong on Tuesday. A few thousand Russians with artillery retired toward Siasong, 12 miles northward.

Peace Envoy Named

St. Petersburg, June 22.—M. Nelidoff, Russian ambassador to Paris, has been definitely appointed one of the Russian peace plenipotentiaries.

Guilty of Registration Frauds

Cambridge, Mass., June 22.—Five of the men who were arrested on charges of fraud in connection with registration in Cambridge, and who were tried before Judge Sherman, were sentenced to the house of correction. Twelve of the defendants pleaded guilty. Of these three were sentenced to three months in the house of correction and two were sentenced to one month. The cases of seven others were placed on file. Superintendent of Parks Montgomery held to his plea of not guilty. He and John Keane were placed on trial on other counts of "taking false oath and signing false certificate."

Eighteen Paraders Killed

Lodz, June 22.—A procession of workmen which had been organized as a demonstration against the government, paraded last night, 50,000 strong, with 30 red flags, shouting "down with despotism." They gathered in the old market place, where speeches were made by Socialists. The procession reformed and marched up Glowna street, when Cossacks and dragoons rushed from the side streets and fired a number of volleys. The crowd fled, panic-stricken, leaving 18 killed and 100 wounded.

Solons to Investigate Hooker

Albany, June 22.—Both houses of the legislature met in extraordinary session under the call of Governor Higgins and adjourned last night until June 28. The assembly adopted the formal charges against Justice Hooker. Governor Higgins presented to the legislature only the matter of the charges against Hooker. Resolutions requesting the investigation of the Equitable Life Assurance society were tabled in the assembly and declared out of order in the senate.

Raid on Gamblers

Revere, Mass., June 22.—Police last night raided the old Grove hotel at Oak Island Grove and arrested 36 men, all but one of whom are charged with being present where gaming implements were found, the other for aiding and abetting illegal gaming. A telegraph instrument gave the pool selling at a number of race tracks in various parts of the country. Over 100 men were in the building when the police arrived in motor cars, but the majority escaped.

Policeman Killed Striker

Chicago, June 22.—Joseph Sleeting, a striking teamster, was shot and killed last night by Policeman O'Neil. O'Neil was attacked by Sleeting, who struck him over the head with a bottle, cutting the policeman severely. The officer shot Sleeting through the body.

Big Appropriation Turned Down

Rome, June 22.—The chamber of deputies, voting secretly, rejected the proposed increase in the naval budget by a vote of 190 to 48. The minister of marine asked for an appropriation of $56,000,000 for the speedy construction of war vessels.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The annual outing of the Mayors' club, an organization composed of mayors and former mayors of Massachusetts cities, was held at Newton, Mass. The outng closed with a banquet.

Andrew Onderdonk, aged 56, well known throughout the country as an engineer and contractor, died at his home at Oscawana, N. Y., from overwork and general breakdown.

The employing printers of the middle states met and adopted resolutions in opposition to the proposed eight-hour working day decided upon by the International Typographical union.

Harvard house, at Stratford-on-Avon, Eng., was sold for $4700 to a local resident. Harvard house was the early home of John Harvard, founder of Harvard university.

The new club house of the recently organized State of Maine club of Boston was formally opened at Boston with appropriate exercises, attended by a large number of former and present Maine residents.

Fair weather tomorrow.

Slowly rising temperature.

Tomorrow will be class day at Harvard.

High school graduation next Wednesday evening.

High school pupils will have a holiday tomorrow.

Reception tonight by the class of 1905 at the Woodward institute.

The grammar schools of the city have closed for the long summer vacation.

The sunshine today was very welcome after the long continued cold storm.

The program for the ordination of Rev. Charles H. Emmons at the Universalist church this evening appears in this issue.

The horse found by James Mattie on Monday was one which broke lose while being led behind a buggy by W. J. Wellington of Wollaston.

The graduates of Woodward are anticipating a very pleasant time on Saturday evening at Woodward hall. The entertainment will consist of music and a play.

A small dog belonging to John McKenzie was run over by the electric cars on Washington street, Wednesday. Officer Larkin, who happened to be near, soon put the dog out of misery.

A number of the business and personal friends of John H. Dinegan called upon him Wednesday evening to wish him a pleasant voyage to Europe. They presented him a handsome trunk.

The fence and sidewalk on South street, near the Fore River house, are in need of immediate attention. Persons walking along there after dark stand a fair chance of tumbling down into some of these holes.

The Shawmuts of West Quincy would like games with any 13 or 14 year old teams in Quincy. Defenders, Riversider, Columbias or Railroad baseball Club preferred. Address: Francis Cronin, 47 Hall place, West Quincy.

The 430 pupils who will be graduated from the grammar schools tomorrow afternoon will assemble at the High school in the morning for their first and only joint rehearsal. Because of the limited room considerable planning is necessary for the grand march.

Miss Kathryn Birch of Squantum street, has achieved such distinction as a swimmer, that she easily holds first place in all Quincy. Miss Birch thinks nothing of venturing out where even a man would feel unsafe, and has gone to Squantum and back from the Atlantic beach without resting and unaccompanied by a boat.

—"Paw, what does it mean where it says here that the girl's ideal was shattered?"

"Why it means she found that she could marry a wealthierman."—Detroit Tribune.

FORMER PASTOR.

Death of W. W. Dean, an Old Treasury Clerk.

Mr. William W. Dean, the oldest clerk in the Treasury Department at Washington, died in Auburn, N. Y., Monday night. He was in his ninety-third year, and since the close of the Civil War had served as clerk in the Treasury Department. He was graduated at Union College in 1837, and served in the ministry until he took up his duties in Washington.

Mr. Dean became pastor of the First Universalist church in this city in the spring of 1847, and had a peaceful pastorate of seven to eight years, closing his labors Oct. 1, 1855.

He was a lawyer by profession before assuming the ministry. While in Quincy he was a strong friend of education in the common schools, and was a member of the School Committee in 1849, 1851, 1854 and 1855. It was in the last year of his service that Miss Julia E. Underwood was elected a teacher at the Coddington school, a position she holds today.

Mr. Dean during his ministrations here, revived the charter of Rural lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, which had been surrendered during anti-Masonic times. It has flourished during all the years since.

Mr. Dean delivered the prayer at the consecration of Mt. Wollaston cemetery on November 1, 1855.

Grinding Incense In China.

A missionary traveling down the Lan river in Mongolia says he passed thirty-one rapids in one day. At most of them were water mills for the grinding of aromatic trees into powder to make incense. The trees are chopped into small pieces and thrown into a hole in a heavy millstone, which revolves on a larger stone as the water rushes through below. In the rainy season, when the river flows full and fast, a pair of mills can grind 200 catties (266 pounds) of incense a day. It is made up into bundles of this weight and sold on the spot for fifty strings of cash (about $6).

The Original Pygmies.

African pygmies are about four feet to four feet three and a half inches high. To be in harmony with their name, however, they should measure only thirteen and a half inches in height. For the original pygmael, whom Homer believed to live far to the south and who were warred upon by cranes and whom Herodotus knew to exist in Africa, were named after the Greek measure "pygme," literally a fist. This was supposed to be the distance from the elbow to the knuckles, reckoned at eighteen "dactyll," or fingers, equal to thirteen and a half inches.

Almost Too Late.

Colonel McSchwartz was telling the caller how wonderfully the town had grown.

"Why, when I moved here with my wife and daughter twenty-sev"—

"Papa," interposed Miss McSchwartz, "there's a mosquito on your neck. Let me pinch it off."

"Ouch!" exclaimed the colonel. "As I was saying, when we moved here, quite a number of years ago," etc.—Chicago Tribune.

Gave Himself Away.

Detective Captain—How did you manage to spot the thief through his woman's disguise? Detective—I saw him sit down and noticed that he gave his skirt a hitch with both hands, as if to keep it from bagging at the knees. Then I grabbed him.—Washington Star.

An Undeserved Imputation.

Magistrate—You are charged with playing cards for money. What have you to say? Prisoner—The charge is false, your honor. It was the other fellow that played cards for money.

Generosity often clasps hands with extravagance, while economy sometimes walks shoulder to shoulder with avarice.

FOR CONSPIRACY.

Secretary Duncan Interviewed on Reported Boycott.

Secretary Duncan, when seen this morning, said it was true that nine men had been indicted in St. Johnsbury, Vt., not for boycott as reported, but for conspiracy. Also that he had received word by telephone that there was a warrant for him.

The statement in the printed dispatch he said, is not true. These nine men never ordered a boycott, and no order was given the blacksmiths not to sharpen for them.

The five men in question were old members of the union at Hardwick, Vt. In accordance with the provisions of the constitution, they applied for cards to go into business for themselves.

These cards were given by the Hardwick branch. The branch later determined that they were not employers and that the cards had been received under false pretences. The Union then called upon the men to prove their right to the cards by becoming employers or return them that is the whole story.

QUINCY GROWING.

Assessed Polls This Year 8,727; Increase of 448 in Year.

The total number of assessed polls in Quincy according to the returns of the Assessors just complied is 8,727, an increase of 448 over the year 1904. Every ward in the city shows a gain with the exception of Ward 4 which shows a loss of three. The largest gain was in Ward 2, the Fore River district, the gain there being 333. Ward 1 gained 96, Ward 3 gained 4, Ward 5 gained 16, and Ward 6 gained 2. The total number of polls by wards is as follows: Ward 1, 1585; Ward 2, 1626; Ward 3, 1678; Ward 4, 1612; Ward 5, 1228; Ward 6, 998; total for the city 8727.

OFF FOR SCOTLAND.

Mr. and Mrs. William Birnie to Visit Native Country.

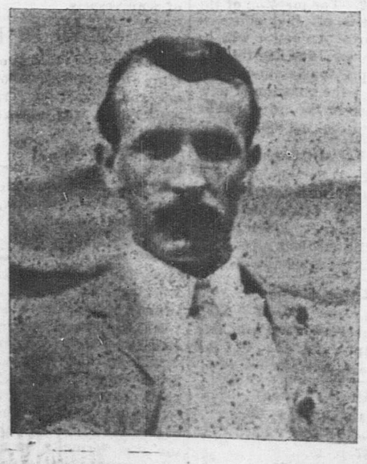

William Birnie, of the firm of Birnie & Diack, granite dealers of Columbia street sailed from Boston today June 22, on the Arabic of the White Star line, on his way to Scotland. At the firms place of business Wednesday afternoon a farewell was given by Mr. Birnie, in which all the workmen participated. Much kindly feeling by all present found expression, and Mr. Galen V. Bowditch, who does some business with the firm happened around, and entertained the party with some fine singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Birnie intend to be gone for a couple of months or longer. In that time they expect to renew acquaintances with friends and relatives they have not seen since they left Scotland nearly twenty-five years ago.

DOING NOTHING.

Rebuilding of the Atlantic Bridge at a Standstill.

Nothing has yet been done toward completing the building of the new bridge over the railroad track near the Atlantic depot.

Inquiry as to why work has not been resumed brings out the fact that they are waiting for the County Commissioners decree, in regard to the change in the approach to the bridge from the south side made necessary by the change in the location of Sagamore street.

The County Commissioners have held two meetings since the public hearing held in Quincy, June 10.

From what can be learned it would appear that the County Commissioners are willing to report a favorable decree.

It claimed however, that they can not do so until they have been furnished with a detailed description of the changes desired giving meets, bounds and distances. They have a plan but that is not sufficient.

Just who is at fault in not forwarding these details is a question, although it is reported to be because the City Solicitor and counsel of the railroad and railway have been unable to arrange a joint meeting.

MILTON.

The graduating class of the Belcher school was given a reception Tuesday evening at the school hall by the members of the class of 1906. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion. The program included speaking, music and refreshments.

Rev. A. H. Mulnex, formerly pastor of the East Milton Congregational church, was in town this week.

The marriage of George F. Choate, Jr., son of Chief Engineer Choate, and Miss Marion McLoud of Taylor street, Wollaston, is announced for June 28.

The Milton High school graduation exercises were held at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening.

The alarm from Box 71 at 12.15 P. M., Sunday was for a grass fire on the reservation.

The funeral of Mrs. William H. Rand was held from her late residence on Bryant avenue, on Wednesday. The services were conducted by Rev. A. H. Mulnex, formerly of East Milton.

Mrs. George Clements has returned from New Hampshire.

The assessors have about completed their labors and will announce the tax rate next week.

Schools close for the summer vacation on Friday.

Patriarchs Militant.

The Massachusetts division, Patriarchs Militant, I. O. O. F., hold a field day at Brockton on Friday. There will be a parade in the morning, to be followed by a council meeting. In the evening there will be a grand ball, the conferring of the degree of chivalry, and a drill by Canton Malden. Gen. Reney the head of the Patriarchs Militant for the United States and Canada will be present.

Account Lewis and Clark Exposition will be in effect via Wisconsin Central Railway. If you intend to go to Portland this year ask the ticket agent to make your ticket read via Wisconsin Central between Chicago and St. Paul. Pullman sleepers, free reclining cars and a la Carte meals make the journey comfortable and pleasant. Further information cheerfully given by addressing Wm. Kelley, T. A., 290 Broadway, New York, N. Y. tf

TODAY'S COURT.

James Sullivan was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Joseph T. McGunn was arraigned for vagrancy at Quincy. Case continued.

Walter F. Erchler of Waltham and Michael Cummings of Boston were fined $10 each for speeding automobiles at the Blue Hills reservation.

The climbing rose-bush on the McKenna residence is attracting considerable notice.

DOCTOR OF LAWS

Degree Conferred Upon President by Clark University

A VISIT TO HOLY CROSS

Heavy Rain Did Not Dampen Enthusiasm of Worcester Citizens on Occasion of President's Visit--Now Guest of Williams College at Williamstown

Worcester, Mass., June 22.—Steadily falling rain disappointed the people of Worcester, but detracted not at all from the enthusiastic reception which they gave to President Roosevelt upon the occasion of his visit to Clark university and Holy Cross college. The president, himself, did much to overcome the possible influence of the weather, for he rode through the streets of the city in an open carriage and with his head bared in order that the crowds of people who had assembled along the streets might see him and receive his acknowledgement of their welcome.

The president delivered addresses both at Clark and Holy Cross, and Clark university institution conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D. While at Clark the president took occasion to pay a tribute to President Wright of the college, as well as to the late United States Senator Hoar.

At Holy Cross he addressed a large body of people, many of whom stood in the rain, underneath a canvas. He also greeted each member of the graduating class. The president ate his luncheon at the home of Rockwood Hoar and departed soon afterwards.

A feature of the railroad trip to Worcester was the sending of telegrams by the president to the captains of the Harvard and Yale crews at Gales Ferry, Conn., through which he had passed earlier in the day, while asleep. In his message to the captain of the Yale oarsmen he facetiously expressed the hope that he would not be regarded as an offensive partisan if, under the particular circumstances, he did not wish Yale good luck in the coming Harvard-Yale races.

President at Williamstown

Williamstown, Mass., June 22.—The entire student body of Williams college, headed by President Hopkins, greeted President Roosevelt upon his arrival here from Worcester at 6:30 last night.

The advent of the chief magistrate was unaccompanied by any marked demonstration, according to his expressed wish, and after the exchange of a few words of welcome and pleasure at his arrival between Hopkins and Roosevelt, the executive party followed them through a long line of students to the carriages, and were at once driven to Hopkins' home. As rain, which had been falling heavily all day, ceased just as the president arrived, the streets were well filled and there was some cheering.

Last evening at 9 o'clock an informal reception was held at Hopkins' home, where the president received the trustees of the college and members of the faculty. The reception lasted about an hour.

At the close of the reception an informal visit was paid by the president to the Williams chapter house of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, of which he is a member. His fraternity friends gave the president a characteristically hearty reception into which he entered with all his old college enthusiasm.

The president remained at the chapter house for a short time and then returned to Mr. Hopkins' house for the night.

President Roosevelt received at Clark university the degree of Doctor of Laws for the seventh time. Williams college will today confer upon him the degree of Doctor of Letters, in recognition of the notable literary work he has performed.

GRADUATION DAY.

An Army of 430 from the Grammar Schools.

Exercises Held in High School Hall.

Choruses by Graduates a Prominent Feature.

The graduating exercises of the Quincy grammar schools will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and diplomas will be presented to 430 boys and girls who have completed the eight years' course.

Choruses by the graduates will be a prominent part of the program, there being eight in all, under the direction of Mr. E. Landis Snyder.

The address of the day will be by Mr. William C. Bates, superintendent of schools at Cambridge. There will also be remarks by Supt. Parlin by way of introduction, and by Chairman Hallowell of the School Committee in conclusion.

The program will be as follows:

March by schools.

Chorus,—"With Horse and Hound" Alfred J. Caldicott

Introductory Remarks,—Frank Edson Parlin, Superintendent of Schools.

Chorus,—
a. "He in Tears That Soweth," from "Song of Victory." Ferdinand Hiller
b. "Lovely Appear," from "The Redemption." Gounod

Address.—William C. Bates, Superintendent of Schools, Cambridge.

Chorus,—"Our Jack," H. Trotere

Presentation of Diplomas, by Chairmen of Sub-Committees.

Chorus,—
a. "O Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast," Mendelssohn
b. "The Future," F. H. Himmel

Concluding Remarks,—Dr. Henry C. Hallowell, Chairman of the School Board.

Chorus,—
a. "Olav Trygvason" Edw. Grieg, Op. 31
b. "Salute to the Flag.
c. "America."

Many who would like to attend the exercises were unable to secure tickets, because of the smallness of the hall. There being 430 graduates it was necessary to limit each to one ticket for parent.

GYPSY MOTHS.

Said to Have Infected Parts of the City of Quincy.

Prof. A. H. Kirkland, the superintendent of the Gypsy Moth Commissioner was in Quincy, on Thursday, and held a conference with Mayor Thompson in relation to exterminating the pests which are said to infest trees in certain parts of the city.

Under the new law relating to gypsy and brown tail moths cities of a population and valuation of Quincy shall, if necessary, expend $5,000 a full year in exterminating the pests.

For any amount expended in excess of that sum the state reimburses the city one half.

Just where the infected districts in Quincy are is not quite clear at present, as it is believed that what many call gypsy moths are the brown-tail moth.

An expert from the State office is to visit Quincy, Saturday, and make an inspection, and try and locate the infected spots.

The trees that are found infected will be burlapped at once.

Q. Y. C. SMOKER.

Vaudeville Talent Furnishes Entertaining Program.

The annual vaudeville smoker of the Quincy Yacht club was held at the club house Thursday evening and it was a good one. The house committee had charge of the affair and they are to be congratulated on its success.

Although the night was stormy and disagreeable it did not keep the yachtsmen from turning out, thus proving that they are not of the class known as fair weather sailors. The attendance was much larger than usual and many were obliged to stand or roost on the window seats.

The entertainment was provided by Dan MacNevin and his corps of artists included Miss Amy Allen, soubrette; Miss Kitty Hoffman, monologuist; Miss Maud Emerson, pianist; Joe Roth, comedian; and Henry T. Waite, violinist.

Commodore Crane welcomed those present and said that the club was in a very prosperous condition. The high water mark for membership was 317. There were now 310 members enrolled, and he believed that the high water line would soon be passed. He also said the club had an energetic house committee, and if the members wanted anything, to ask Ira Whittemore, and it would be a Marvel if they did not get it.

Smokers were then passed, and Dan Mac Nevin opened his program by introducing Miss Emerson who gave a piano solo.

Miss Allen followed. Amy made a hit in her songs. She opened with "Down by the sea shore," and upon the demand for more, sang "What's the matter with Sarah Brown," "Philippine Girl" and another whose title was lost.

The choruses of these songs were catchy and the boys joined in.

Joe Roth came next and sang a couple of comic songs and gave a monologue.

Kitty Hoffman told several funny stories and sang one or two songs that caught the boys. One of these songs was full of local hits aimed promiscuously at the audience. One of the random shots found its mark in a well known member, and the applause was deafening. He took it all right, however, but it was not "Till he" presented Kitty with a bunch of roses that the laughter quieted down.

Henry T. Waite, the violinist, was the last number in the regular program. He certainly was a master of the instrument, and was repeatedly recalled.

After this, Miss Emerson played all the popular airs for the boys, who let their voices out, and the hall resounded with musical echoes.

It ought to be mentioned that between the numbers Dan Mac Nevin cracked a joke or two by way of variety.

At 10 o'clock, the club cannon boomed a salute, and the smoker came to an end.

As a whole it was a most successful affair. One that pleased the boys who were loud in their praises for the good time provided by the house committee.

K. of C. Visitation.

Nearly five hundred were present at St. Mary's hall Thursday night, to witness the conferring of the third degree by Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus. Of this number 300 came from out of town, Canton, Stoughton, Brockton, Boston and Weymouth being represented. The degree was conferred upon twenty-four candidates, eighteen of whom were from Quincy. After the work of the evening a banquet was served and then came speaking.

Coming Again.

The Granite Manufacturers' Association of Barre, Vt., at a meeting last week voted to have their summer outing with the Quincy Association, at the shore. The arrangements of the Quincy end of it are in the hands of a committee of three: J. L. Miller, president, Harry S. Nicoll and James H. Elcock.

C. H. EMMONS.

Ordained into Office of Christian Ministry.

At First Universalist Church.

Sermon by Dr. Conklin on Work of the Ministry.

Rev. Charles Henry Emmons, who received his degree this week, as bachelor of divinity, at Tufts College, was on Thursday evening ordained to the office of the Christian ministry at the First Universalist church in this city, where he has acceptably supplied the pulpit for a year. Only a brief notice was given and the weather was very unclement, but there was a large attendance. Roses and other June flowers were used for decorations.

The program was as follows:

Invocation, Rev. Stanley Gates Spear
Hymn 3, Tune Gettschalk
Lesson from Holy Scriptures, Rev. Stanley Gates Spear
Solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd" S. Liddle, Mr. Leon R. Maxwell
Sermon, Rev. Charles Conklin, D. D.
Hymn 742, Tune, Mornington
Prayer and Act of Ordination, Rev. F. A. Dillingham, D. D.
Solo, "My God and Father," Marston, Miss Myra L. Richmond
Fellowship of the church and charge to the minister, Rev. Charles Conklin, D. D.
Hymn 441, Tune, Woodland
Benediction, Rev. Charles H. Emmons

Dr. Conklin took his text from Ephesians 4: 12—The work of the ministry. It was an age for the specialist, he said, and the work of a minister is that of a specialist. After four years of careful preparation the candidate presents himself for ordination to the office of the Christian ministry. It was not so hard as years ago to be a Universalist. Then the doctrine was misunderstood. Now there is more of unity. It was the Universalists who were striving to bring about the unity of man.

Dr. F. A. Dillingham offered prayer and was assisted by Dr. Conklin and Rev. S. G. Spear in the act of ordination, the candidate kneeling during the ceremony.

In the absence of Rev. R. Perry Bush D.D., of Chelsea, the fellowship of the church and charge to minister was by Dr. Conklin, a former pastor. He caused the candidate to subscribe to the articles of faith, and to promise to be governed by the convention and rules by which the Universalist churches are governed. He also admonished him to be faithful and careful, and to take the word of God as his guide.

The beautiful solos by Mr. Maxwell and Miss Richmond added much to the service. The hymns were sung by the congregation. Mrs. Florence Cutter presided at the organ.

After the service the newly ordained minister was congratulated, and there were also kind greetings for Rev. Dr. Conklin.

On Sunday Rev. Charles H. Emmons will preach his fareweil sermon as pastor of the Quincy church. It will also be Children's Sunday.

WOODWARD 1905.

Largely Attended Reception at the School Hall.

The reception of the class of 1905 of the Woodward Institute on Thursday evening was a brilliant social event for the younger set. It was very largely attended, the rain apparently not dampening the ardor of the friends of the class.

The receiving party included Principal Plummer and the class officers, who were stationed in the easterly corner of the hall with a pretty background of green. The class officers are Miss Muriel A. Rogers, president; Miss Jessie O. Shirley, vice president; Miss Helen L. Curfin secretary; and Miss Lillian Lyons, treasurer.

The reception was from 8.00 to 8.30 and was followed by dancing until 11.30 delightful music being furnished by the Criterion orchestra.

Among the honored guests of the evening were Mayor and Mrs. James Thompson.

Frappe made by Sparrow of Wollaston was served on the upper floor by undergraduates. The exhibition of drawing by pupils of the school was also enjoyed.

To Fly American Flag.

W. J. Tilley, one of the enthusiastic members of the Quincy Yacht club, thinks that the American flag should fly at all times from the clubhouse. In order that such shall be the case he has been raising the necessary funds by subscription. He has been unusually successful and it will not be many days before the colors will float from a new flag staff.

NINETEEN ARE DEAD

Wreck of Twentieth Century Limited Deliberately Planed

Cleveland, June 23.—Nineteen dead and a dozen slightly injured comprise the revised casualty list made by the wrecking at Mentor of the east-bound Twentieth Century Limited, the Lake Shore railroad's 18-hour train, which ran into an open switch, crushed the Mentor depot and partly burned it up, scorching several of the mangled corpses. The surviving injured are not much hurt, although several of the dead lived to reach hospital beds before expiring.

The Twentieth Century Limited, according to announcement from New York, will hereafter return to a 20-hour schedule, although none of the railroad officials ascribes the wreck to excessive speed.

It is still maintained by railroad officers that the switch was thrown open and locked and the switch light extinguished by some person, either a maniac or some one seeking revenge. It is still unknown to the police who this person is. A careful examination of the switch showed that it was in perfect condition. Detectives are working on the case. Trainmen are of the opinion that the engineer of the Twentieth Century was deceived by the light of a switch just beyond the open switch, the light of which is said to have been out.

General Manager Marshall of the Lake Shore says the speed of the train was not a contributory cause to the wreck. He said that other Lake Shore trains travel through Mentor at a speed equal to that attained by the Twentieth Century, which was not, Marshall said, above 60 miles an hour. The schedule for the train called for a speed of 57 miles an hour at Mentor.

Venezuela May Cheat Creditors

Washington, June 23.—The state department has received official advices of the establishment of a custom house at Carenero, Venezuela, about 75 miles east of LaGuaira, by decree of President Castro. It will very materially diminish the hypothecated customs revenues of La Guaira, just as the port of Porto Cabello was affected in less degree by the recent establishment of Tucacas as a port of entry. Thirty percent of the customs revenue of the ports of La Guaira and Porto Cabello is pledged to the creditor nations of Venezuela.

THE PEOPLE ALL

In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means, a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. GETS NEW RESPITE

Life of Mrs Rogers Is Saved For Another Period

REPRIEVE UNTIL DEC 8

Case Meanwhile Will Go to the United States Supreme Court --Judge Wheeler Criticises Procedure of State Courts

Brattleboro, Vt., June 23.—A reprieve until Dec. 8 for Mrs. Mary M. Rogers, the condemned murderess, was signed yesterday afternoon by Governor Bell, and for the third time the woman who was to have been hanged at Windsor today for killing her husband has been saved through the operation of the governor's power of staying the execution.

The reprieve was granted in order that the case of Mrs. Rogers may be carried to the supreme court of the United States on constitutional questions which were raised yesterday at a hearing before Judge Hoyt H. Wheeler, sitting as a justice of the United States circuit court.

Mrs. Rogers' attorneys petitioned for her release on a writ of habeas corpus. The court declined to grant the petition, but suggested that the points of law raised by the petitioner were such as to be passed upon by the supreme court of the country. The refusal of the judge to grant the writ was at once followed by the filing of an appeal.

Judge Wheeler thereupon announced that he would render his decision upon the question of appeal late in the afternoon in order to give Governor Bell an opportunity to reprieve Mrs. Rogers. He gave the attorneys to understand that he would grant the appeal and intimated that he would remand Mrs. Rogers to the custody of the United States marshal, which would, in effect, bring about a stay of execution, provided Governor Bell did not sign a reprieve.

In giving his decision on the main question before him, Judge Wheeler criticised the procedure of the state courts in relation to the Rogers case. He declared that he found some cause to see justice in the attitude of Mrs. Rogers that she had been confined as a solitary prisoner for a very long period, which acted as a hardship to her. However, he could not see legal reasons for releasing Mrs. Rogers.

Late yesterday afternoon Judge Wheeler received a telegraphic message from Governor Bell, announcing that Mrs. Rogers had been reprieved. The judge at once signed the paper which gave to Mrs. Rogers the legal right to have her case heard by the United States supreme court.

Following is a review of the long fight to save Mrs. Rogers from the gallows:

Aug. 12, 1902—Marcus Rogers killed by wife, Mary Rogers.

Dec. 22, 1903—Mrs. Rogers found guilty of murder. Leon Perham, confessed accomplice, pleads guilty. Mrs. Rogers sentenced to be hanged Feb. 3, 1905; Perham imprisoned for life.

Nov. 2, 1904—Vermont legislature refuses to commute death sentence of Mrs. Rogers.

Feb. 1, 1905—Reprieved by Governor Bell until June 2, 1905.

May 31, 1905—Reprieved by Governor Bell until June 23, 1905.

June 9, 1905—Judge Peckham, United States supreme court, denies petition for writ of error.

June 22, 1905—Judge Wheeler, United States circuit court, decides to permit appeal. Stay of execution of death sentence. Reprieve to Friday, Dec. 1, by order of Governor Bell.

Signing of the Reprieve

White River Junction, Vt., June 23.—In the office of the national bank at White River, in the presence of State Attorney General Fitts and Sheriff Peck, Governor Bell signed a document which reprieves Mrs. Rogers until Dec. 8. The governor at once telegraphed Judge Wheeler at Brattleboro of his action in order that the latter might authorize an appeal to the supreme court from his refusal to grant a writ of habeas corpus. Governor Bell reached here late yesterday afternoon from Northfield. The case was thoroughly discussed by the governor and the two officials. After the announcement of the reprieve the governor and attorney general spent some time in drawing up papers necessary to bring about a legal postponement of the execution of Mrs. Rogers.

After signing the reprieve, Governor Bell left the rooms of the bank and went to his hotel to rest, being very tired. Interviewed later, the governor said: "I said enough in the first place; there is nothing more to be said now. You know we all have to change our minds."

News Broken to Mrs Rogers

Windsor, Vt., June 23.—Sheriff Peck arrived at the state prison this morning to read the reprieve to Mrs. Rogers. The gallows, which has been ready for the execution for some time, was taken down this forenoon.

Oliver Will Occupy Taft's Chair

Washington, June 23.—Assistant Secretary Oliver of the war department will be acting secretary of war several months during the absence of Secretary Taft on his Philippine trip. Secretary Taft will leave here Sunday for New England and will return Thursday. Friday he will leave for San Francisco, from whence he will sail for the Philippines.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Lady's Blouse Designed by Martha Dean—No. 6299

Nothing can be farther from the original shirt waist than the soft feminine blouses one sees everywhere this summer. The foundation is simple, but the trimmings make up for any other feature that is lacking. The thrifty woman is now rapidly giving the finishing touches to her summer wardrobe, and unfortunate indeed is she who does not include some of the style shown here in her outfit. The model shown is made of lace net, but any soft material would be just as pretty. The blouse has just enough fullness to look well in the front, and any style yoke finish may be adopted. A pretty idea is to make the yoke of heavy eyelet linen, and this, worn over white net, is very effective. The opening is in the front in duchess style, and, if a plain everyday waist is desired, the fronts and shoulder could be ornamented by embroidered bands about two inches wide. These bandings can be bought ready made and are a great saving in time and expense. Sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6299, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

THREATENED DEATH

Blackmailer Tries to Squeeze Money From Taunton People

Taunton, Mass., June 23.—Prominent residents of this city have been receiving letters demanding large sums of money with threats that if the money was not deposited in stated places bodily injury or death would follow.

The attention of the police has been called to such a letter received by Mrs. George T. Hartshorn, wife of one of Taunton's wealthiest citizens. The letter, which was not signed, was to the effect that if Mrs. Hartshorn did not deposit $1000 at a given place on Ashland street, the writer would kill Mrs. Hartshorn's son. The police were notified and a watch was set, but without developments.

It has also been learned that Mrs. Harriet Clemson, another wealthy citizen, recently received a letter threatening her with bodily harm unless she should place a sum of money in a drain pipe on a street near her home. The same person is evidently the author of both letters. The police are investigating the matter.

Twenty-Five Lads Deported

Boston, June 23.—Twenty-five Greek and Italian lads, who came to Boston last week on the steamer Romanic, were deported today by order of Commissioner of Immigration Billings. Fifty others who arrived this week on the Canopic have been denied entrance to this country and have appealed to Washington. In regard to minors the law is strict and Billings has decided to deport all who have not near relatives in this country who can support the lads.

Autos Spread Moth Pest

Boston, June 23.—The spread of the gypsy moth pest is largely due to the increasing abundtnce of automobiles, in the opinion of Professor Kirkland, state superintendent of the moth extermination service. "The moths drop upon automobiles from the trees," said Kirkland, "particularly when the automobile stops for any length of time. Thus the insect is carried many miles from its original haunt, and wherever it is deposited it begins to breed and do damage."

Killed Fellow Seaman

Boston, June 23.—At the conclusion of a court martial which has been in session at the navy yard trying Gus Lee, a negro seaman on the armored cruiser West Virginia, on a charge of killing John Richards, a fellow seaman, Judge Advocate Campbell asked the court to find Lee guilty. The findings of the court will be announced in Washington. Richards died from wounds inflicted by a razor drawn by Lee during a quarrel.

Longshoremen on Strike

New Bedford, Mass., June 23.—Steamer Maine was obliged to sail for New York just before midnight last night without taking any heavy freight on account of a strike of 50 longshoremen on the dock here. The men demand an increase from 17½ cents to 25 cents an hour. The demand was refused by the management. Fifty freight handlers who continued at work loaded all the light freight available on the steamer.

Explosion Came Unexpectedly

Winterport, Me., June 23.—By an explosion of dynamite near South Hampden last night, Vincenzo Catalone was killed and three other laborers, Italians, were severely injured. The men set fire to a fuse attached to a rock which they were blasting, and after waiting some time for the discharge, went to investigate. Just as they reached the fuse a terrific explosion occurred, hurling them a long distance.

The Powers Shooting Case

Burlington, Vt., June 23.—Frank and Orson Bouger of this city were arraigned in court on a charge of being concerned in the shooting of Fred Powers at Winooski and were held in $1000 each for a preliminary hearing pending the outcome of Powers' wounds. Hollis Bean, who was present at the shooting, was held in $200. It is reported that Powers is in a very critical condition.

Twelve Years For Killing Brother

Manchester, Vt., June 23.—A term of 12 years in the state prison at Windsor was the sentence imposed by Judge Rowell of the county court upon Fred Johnson, convicted of manslaughter in having killed his brother, Jay Johnson, at Bondville on Feb. 22 last. It is understood that exceptions will be taken by Johnson's attorneys.

Charged With "Cribbing"

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 23.—Cornelius Daly, the Yale oarsman, was informed last night for the first time of the report that he was accused of cribbing in an examination. He declined to make any statement in the absence of any official notification about it.

Laborer Killed by Cave-In

Bristol, Conn., June 23.—A cave-in of the sides of a trench in which three Italian laborers were at work caused the death of Pascale Onorata and serious injury to the others. All were buried up to their shoulders by the earth.

Third Rail Electrocutes Child

Bristol, Conn., June 23.—George Therrien, 4 years old, wandered onto the track of the third rail line and was electrocuted last night, receiving a current of 670 volts. The body, badly burned, was found by the boy's father.

Woolen Man In Bankruptcy

Boston, June 23.—With liabilities scheduled at $56,577.07, William Clark, a woolen manufacturer of Adams, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. The assets are scheduled at $45,231.53.

CITY BREVITIES

Pleasant at last.

It is a happy day for the 430 grammar school graduates of this city.

The Atlantics and Boston Unions will play on Saturday on the Ward Six playgrounds.

Several columns of illustrated sporting articles will appear in the eight-page Ledger tomorrow.

The Bethany "I's" meet on Tuesday evening with Stanley Sherman at 44 Greenleaf street.

Sunday will be observed as children's day at the Universalist church, with a special address by the pastor.

Miss Florence Buxton and the Young Men's quartette will sing Sunday evening at the Atlantic M. E. Church.

Mrs. M. E. Hunt and family, of Bigelow street, are at their cottage at Bay Side beach, North Weymouth, for the summer.

"How Jeremy went to the circus" will be a special feature of the Saturday eight-page Ledger for the children. It is a two-column illustrated story.

There will be eleven candidates this year for the Adams gold medal, and prizes will also be distributed for excellence in studies and deportment.

Ex-Councilman Charles H. Hardwick has opened a law office in the Hancock building City Square, with office hours morning, afternoon and evening.

The regular monthly meeting and dinner of the Old Colony Grocers' and Provision Dealers Union was held this week at the Hampton House, South Braintree.

The Merrymounts will play South Quincy at Merrymount Park on Saturday. This game is the first of a series to be played for the championship of Quincy, and the rooters of both teams look forward to a close game. On Saturday July 1, Merrymount will play Quincy at the park.

Country Life.

No one on Walker street needs to go to the country this summer for farm life is constantly before their eyes, and not always peaceful farm life at that. Wednesday afternoon several calm and placid cows were browsing on the wet grass in an open field, when a horse near by, pulled away from his tether and trotting over a neighbor's lawn, leaving great dents in the soft ground, he deliberately backed up to the first cow he saw and greeted her with a vigorous kick. Then there was trouble, trouble for the poor cow, who was hindered from puttting up a good fight by her rope. It was impossible for the observers to go out in the pouring rain and interfere, so the unequal battle went on to the bitter end. It is feared the cow was unfit for the milkman that night and the milk unfit for customers. As for the horse, the man whose lawn bears the deep hoof marks has an opinion of animals who are allowed to run wild, that wouldn't stand repeating.

A Nuisance.

These last few stormy days have augmented the inconvenience of passing under the low branches of certain trees. As it is a matter easily attended to, there is no excuse for allowing such a public nuisance to continue. If the owner feels loath to spoil the symmetry of his foliage, his unselfish spirit should take into consideration the welfare of his fellow men, and the fact that when one is hurrying for a train it is not always the most comfortable condition of affairs to have to bend the head and shoulders to avoid getting slashed across the face by wet branches

WILLIAMS' BIG DAY

Commencement Is Honored by Roosevelt's Presence

A DOCTOR OF LETTERS

Honorary Degree Conferred Upon the Chief Executive, Who Brings Pleasant Trip to Massachusetts to an End

Williamstown, Mass., June 23.—The zig-zag journey of President Roosevelt among the colleges of western Massachusetts ended with his departure from Williamstown after he had received from Williams college the honorary degree of L. H. D. His stay in this state, which was of scarcely 32 hours' duration, was a busy one. He attended three college commencements, at two of which he received nigh honorary degrees, travelled several hundred miles, and besides delivering significant addresses at each commencement, made a number of speeches from his car platform to citizens who had gathered to greet him.

After his active day in Worcester and his speeches on the way from Worcester to Williamstown and the social evening at the home of President Hopkins of Williams college, the president had a restful night.

At the commencement exercises the president spoke twice here, once upon receiving the degree and again from the steps of the church where the commencement exercises were held, to the people who could get into the auditorium.

There was a large crowd at the open meeting, the salient points of the president's address being:

"I believe in the Monroe doctrine and the Panama canal, but to uphold them we must be great in fact. We must have a great navy in the highest efficiency or abandon both the Monroe doctrine and the canal.

"We must never allow mob rule of this government, and never a government of plutocracy.

"I hope to see federal supervision of railroads and legislation so that when rates are improper and unjust, there will be executive power to examine and determine what is fair and just. Such legislation, I think, will be introduced. Measurable good will come if officers intrusted with the duty will protect the railroads from the people, but will pledge themselves to do justice to the people."

Then came luncheon and before 2 o'clock the president was on his way back to Washington. His train made stops at North Adams, Adams and Pittsfield, when the citizens joined in demonstrations and were addressed briefly by Mr. Roosevelt.

During the trip there was not an unpleasant incident. Wednesday's rain was disagreeable, but yesterday, though the skies were cloudy, no rain fell until after the train bearing the president had started south. The arrest of Jennie G. Hirsch, a harmless young woman who had mentioned the name of the president in a way to attract attention, was made so quietly that few knew of it until after she had been delivered to her friends.

One of the happy incidents of the trip occurred when the president had pointed out to him here Barney Wright, 100 years old, formerly a famous bear hunter. The president walked up to him, grasped his hand, and said: "So you have shot some bears, have you? Well, I have got some, too."

The president will return to New England next week to attend commencement at Harvard university.

President Reaches Home

Washington, June 23.—President Roosevelt and party reached Washington at 2:05 o'clock this morning over the Pennsylvania railroad on the return from their New England trip. The president's carriage was in waiting. The president had not retired and he was driven directly to the White House.

Schools Rather Than Battleships

Madison, Wis., June 23.—The commencement day address at the University of Wisconsin was delivered by Carl Schurz, who said in part: "This republic should stand as the gentleman par excellence among nations; a gentleman scorning the role of the swashbuckler whose hip pickets bulge with loaded six-shooters and who flashes big diamonds on his fingers and shirt front; a gentleman modest in the consciousness of strength and carrying justice, forbearance and conciliation on his tongue and benevolence in his hand, rather than a chip on his shoulder. If this republic is to endure and be successful in its highest mission, it must put its trust rather in schools than in battleships."

Must Have Czar's Approval

St. Petersburg, June 23.—The Novoe Vremya announces definitely that the powers of the new popular assembly, which will be composed of 500 members elected for five years, will be coequal with those of the council of the empire, and that all legislation to become law must pass both houses and receive the czar's approval.

HAS EYE ON INDIA

Russia May Engage In Struggle With Great Britain

WARNING BY KITCHENER

Deserts of Central Asia Spanned by Railways Which Have But One Possible Significance--Defects Are Pointed Out

London, June 23.—General Lord Kitchener, commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, seems to regard as inevitable a great struggle with Russia for the possession of India and to believe that the existing arrangements for the defense of the Indian empire are altogether obsolete and ineffective.

These views form the striking and central points of interest in a bulky blue book issued last night dealing with the recent conflict of opinion between Viceroy Curzon, the Indian council and Lord Kitchener, which the government has just settled by a compromise, giving the latter extended powers in the direction he desired.

Lord Kitchener, in an important minute addressed to the home government, speaks in the plainest possible terms in denouncing the faulty system prevailing in India which, he points out, has not changed since the time of the mutiny and which was framed to meet requirements instead of the possibility of a great war. He describes the system as one entailing endless discussion and delay, as well as great expenditure with poor results. In a pregnant paragraph, Lord Kitchener says:

"Slowly but surely the deserts of central Asia, once believed to be an impenetrable barrier, have been crossed by a great European power. They are now spanned by railways which have only one possible significance, and we have every indication that our northern neighbor is pushing forward her preparations for a contest in which we shall have to fight for our existence."

In conclusion Lord Kitchener instances Japan as having shown what was possible by thoroughly modern methods in army administration, while the disastrous consequences to Russia give the other side of the picture. He urges that there is danger in hesitating to break the chains of custom and in tolerance of admitted defects.

The viceroy and the council strongly criticised Kitchener's views, but in the end the home government, over-riding the views of the Indian government, decided in favor of Kitchener's reorganization plans in all essentials.

Jerome on Equitable Trail

New York, June 23.—Following the publication of the report of Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks as to the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance society, came the statement that District Attorney Jerome has undertaken an inquiry into the conduct of the society. The list of salaried officers given in the Hendricks report includes the names of several men either dead or for many months out of the employ of the Equitable society.

Complete Mutualization Needed

Boston, June 23.—State Insurance Commissioner Cutting says that the Hendricks report on the Equitable Life Assurance society supports his opposition to stock life insurance companies, and that he agrees entirely with Hendricks that the remedy is complete mutualization, and that the matter should be taken to the New York legislature.

New Cabinet For Alfonso

Madrid, June 23.—General Rios announces that he has completed his cabinet. The Villaverde ministry resigned as a result of the rejection, by 204 to 45 votes, of a motion expressing the confidence of the chamber in the government, following which King Alfonso charged Rios, former president of the senate, to form a new cabinet.

A Hull With a History

New York, June 23.—The hull of the steamer General Slocum, on which hundreds of people lost their lives when the steamer was burned in the East river last summer, was towed out past Sandy Hook last evening. It will be rebuilt as a coal barge.

Hill Denies Charges

Philadelphia, June 23.—John W. Hill, former chief of the bureau of filtration, who was held in $8000 for trial on the charge of falsifying the records of his bureau, has issued a statement in which he denies the charges made against him.

This Season's Cotton Crop

Atlanta, June 23.—Reports from the correspondents of the Southern Cotton association throughout the cotton belt, based upon existing conditions, indicate that the yield of cotton for the season of 1905-6 will be 10,283,876 commercial bales.

Reprieve For "Bluebeard"

Springfield, Ills., June 23.—Governor Deneen has granted Johann Hoch, Chicago's condemned "bluebeard," a reprieve until July 28, in order that the case may be taken to a supreme court justice for a writ of supercedeas.

Drowning of Eight Persons

Rhinelander, Wis., June 23.—Mrs. Ezra Craw and Mrs. Edward Craw and six children were drowned at Newbold by the capsizing of a boat in Rainbow Rapids.

Yale and Harvard Tied

Cambridge, Mass., June 23.—A rainstorm at the end of the 11th inning brought to a close, but left undecided, an intensely exciting game between Harvard and Yale on Soldiers' field, with the score 1 to 1.

No Designs on Caribbean Waters

Deer Park, Md., June 23.—That Germany has any designs upon a coaling base in Caribbean waters, a report to which effect has been heretofore disclaimed, was given an emphatic denial by Baron Sternburg, the German ambassador, in an interview last evening. The ambassador is spending this month at a cottage here, but is in constant touch with the embassy at Washington, whence newspaper reports had reached him about alleged designs of Germany in the Caribbean.

Manchurian Plains Flooded

London, June 23.—Dispatches from the seat of war indicate that it is not unlikely the heavy rains will stop the progress of the great battle. The Manchurian plains are flooded and the roads are almost impassable to heavy transport, but the conditions are more favorable to the light wagons of the Japanese than to the heavy ones of the Russians.

German Troops to Leave China

London, June 23.—A Tokio dispatch says that the German troops in China, with the exception of those at Taingtau, will shortly be recalled. The object of their occupation during boxer troubles has been fulfilled and Germany is said to be diplomatically desirous of ending the strain caused by the presence of foreign troops in China.

NEWS IN BRIEF

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Mr. John Fahey and family have moved to Milton.

Mr. Washington Godfrey and family have moved from Wollaston to Salem.

Mr. Rawson and family, formerly of Wollaston, are now living at Norwood.

Mr. Arthur Stanley and family of Wollaston have gone to Newtonville to reside.

Joseph Kelley, who has been a patient at the small-pox hospital, was released this morning.

Mr. Jacobs, of Washington street, Quincy Point, is improving considerably in health.

Mr. Sparrow, janitor of Wollaston School, gave his annual treat of ice cream and cake to the teachers this week.

The children from the grammar schools carried quantities of roses to the High school this morning for the graduation.

City Messenger Tirrell is to attend the annual meeting of the City Messengers' club at Bass Point on Saturday.

Mrs. Winneberger of East Howard street is confined to the house by malaria. She is being attended by Dr. Middleton.

The will of Theodore Gullicksen was allowed at probate court this week, and administration granted in the estate of James Nightingale.

George W. Penniman of Brockton left this week for Toronto, Canada, where he will attend the International Sunday-school convention.

The many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Keevil of New York, will be grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. Keevil, which occurred at her home in New York city on Tuesday, June twentieth.

Quite a bunch of Quincy people sailed Thursday, on the steamship Arabic for Europe, viz: Councilman and Mrs. William T. Spargo, Mr. and Mrs. William Birnie, Mrs. John Birnie, Mrs. James Milne, Mr. and Mrs. John Tytler and Rev. James Todd, D.D.

During the storm of Wednesday the launch of Jenness & Jones parted her moorings and drifted onto some rocks off the Quincy Yacht club house. Fortunately, however the tide was just turning and she did not pound any and was left high and dry undamaged.

BY THE SEASIDE.

The Season a Promising One at Houghs Neck.

The season at Houghs Neck has started with a boom. Many families have already arrived for the season. Now that schools have closed there will be a grand rush for the seashore. Quite a few new cottages have been erected since last season. Lunch rooms and dance halls have sprung up like mushrooms.

Almost every other place on Sea street is a lunch room and there is a continuous round of music at the dance halls from the Hose house to the Fensmore. All expect to get rich during the summer months. A new enterprise has also started here. That is the manufacture of potato chips and popcorn in all shapes and kinds. Taking it all in all, things look bright.

J. L. McIntire of Nashua, N. H., has erected a new cottage on Rogers street.

Archie Proctor, private secretary to Senator Lodge, has arrived at his cottage on Great Hill for the season.

J. A. Couths and family of Jamaica Plain are at the Sky Farm cottage.

Ira M. Whittemore is at the Crest Haven on Great Hill.

George E. Bell is building a cottage on Great Hill.

J. A. Buckman of Somerville is building a cottage on Nut Island road.

Services are held every Sunday morning at St. Frances church.

Mrs. K. S. Sweet of Wollaston is at the Highland cottage on Great Hill.

E. N. Thayer and family of Holbrook are in the Sea Shell.

E. F. Lincoln and family of Holbrook are in the Nautilus.

H. W. Rollins is at the Clifford on Great Hill.

George H. Wade and family of Hyde Park are in the Life Preserver cottage.

George A. Wilkins of Campello is in the Sea View cottage.

D. C. Keith of Campello is in the Fairview cottage.

J. L. Ayer and family of Winchester are at the Langworthy cottage.

Perley Glass and family of Boston are in the Sea Gull.

F. S. Johnson and family of Campello occupies the Upland cottage.

Roosevelt's Sailing Delayed

Portland, Me., June 23.—Steamer Roosevelt, which was built to convey Lieutenant Peary to the Arctic regions, will not leave this city for New York until some time next week. It was intended to send the vessel to New York on Saturday for the purpose of taking on supplies, but the trip has been delayed by work which remains to be done. If possible the Roosevelt will leave New York on her voyage on July 10.

Driven From Office by Scandal

London, June 23.—It is said that Lieutenant General Lyttelton, chief of the general staff and first military member of the army council, has resigned as the result of the South African army stores scandal. Lyttelton took over the command of the forces in South Africa at the close of the war and it is alleged that under his regime Lord Kitchener's system of checking contracts was allowed to drop.

George Williams' Misfortune

Havana, June 23.—Former Congressman George Fred Williams of Boston, who arrived here from Mexico on his way home, was taken from the steamer suffering from erysipelas of the right leg and inflammation of the veins. He was carried to the fever hospital, where at times he became delirious. His condition has improved.

Helping Hand to Closed Bank

Philadelphia, June 23.—Call loans to the amount of $300,000 were repaid yesterday to the City Trust, Safe Deposit and Surety company which closed its doors Wednesday. The repayments in every case were made voluntarily. President Moore of the company says that he hopes to be able to pay depositors dollar for dollar.

The indications at six o'clock last evening were that Quincy was threatened with a severe thunder shower. There was a heavy downpour of rain, but only a little thunder.

GERMS IN DOCTORS' BEARDS

Why a Coroner Looks For Baldheaded and Clean Shaven Physicians.

"I find that people are believing the story about doctors carrying disease germs in their beards," said Dr. O. H. Parker, a deputy coroner, the other morning to a reporter of the Kansas City Star. "I think it is policy for me to sacrifice my whiskers. They must go. Too many of my patients mention the connection between germs and whiskers. I see they take it seriously. One woman told of a doctor who, she said, carried typhoid germs in his beard. Of course it is ridiculous. Germs would be no more likely to dwell in the beard than in the mustache, eyebrows or the hair.

"The doctors are getting a dose of their own medicine. The doctor of tomorrow may be baldheaded and clean shaven, slinking about in a double disinfectant asbestus bathing suit and sprinkling himself every few minutes with chloride of lime and carbolic acid. As the fairy tales used to say, 'They have pronounced their own fate.'"

Badges For Clergymen Advocated.

Not infrequently we read of an accident or calamity of some kind in a great city, where a Roman Catholic priest appears on the scene and administers comfort to the stricken or dying. It is seldom that we read of a Protestant minister in similar circumstances, says the Church Economist. A priest will be easily recognized and readily admitted to an injured man. A minister is not so easily recognized. Some may wear a cut of clothing that will confirm their claims to be clergymen, but others do not. Why should not Protestant ministers who wish to improve every opportunity for doing good supply themselves with badges, which they can always wear, though concealed, but which they can display when the emergency arises, thus securing access to the center of a crowd where lies a prostrate man, or to a burning building where the average man is debarred? There would need to be nothing on the badge except the words, "Clergyman, New York."

Bouquets of Thornless Roses.

Contrary to poetic fancy, the roses carried by maids and matrons of society this season are without even the suspicion of a thorn, says the New York Press. Not that they are a peculiar variety, for when they come from the parent stem they are in condition to wound the fingers as of old. But under the new method the blooms alone are used, the stems being discarded. The new bouquets, if they may be called such, are shaped something like a fan and are flat at the back. The flowers are fastened on a frame which is lined with silk, so that they may be held against the most delicate of frocks. The bouquet originated in London and so pleased Queen Alexandra that she permitted it to be named after her.

Fad For Engagement Rings.

The postoffice inspectors are considering the case of a young woman out in Nebraska who has been making a specialty of collecting engagement rings. She has corresponded with hundreds of men through matrimonial bureaus and other agencies, becoming engaged to them liberally. She has remarkable success in bringing the case up to the ring stage, but stops there.

FIRE ALARMS BY WIRELESS.

Features of Device Invented by Dr De Forest and B. C. Haldeman.

A wireless fire alarm system is the newest invention of Dr. Lee De Forest, vice president and scientific director of a wireless telegraph company, and B. C. Haldeman, former city electrician and general superintendent in the west for the company, says the Kansas City Times. They are building the apparatus jointly—some of it in St. Louis and some at Kansas City under the direction of Mr. Haldeman. It is to be given its first test in Kansas City during the firemen's convention next August.

Dr. De Forest was at the Midland hotel in Kansas City recently and told something of what the new system is and what it is expected to accomplish He asserts that it will be 50 per cent cheaper than any system now in use.

"The installation of the system will equip any building with automatic fire alarm signals," he said. "After the manner of the automatic sprinkling system our apparatus will be susceptible to a certain degree of heat. In case of fire the signal will be carried by wire up to the roof of the building and communicated to a flagstaff arrangement. Thence it will be carried through the air, a wireless message, to fire headquarters, where a receiver will be installed, in tune with the transmitter on top of the building.

"A bell will ring first and ring repeatedly to attract the operator's attention in case he hasn't the receiver to his ear. When he listens he will receive the message in a simple signal code of dots and dashes which will tell him the exact location of the fire. The operator will not have to be familiar with the Morse alphabet. A signal code can be used so simple in character that any one can take it. Street boxes can be used in the same manner as far as receiving the alarm is concerned. The message can be transmitted by pulling down a hook or by pushing a button.

"The wireless fire alarm system is Mr. Haldeman's idea. We are perfecting it together in a joint patent. I think it will develop into one of the most important branches of wireless telegraphy."

Dr. De Forest is making experiments with wireless telephone apparatus.

KNUDSON'S PATRIOTISM.

Norwegian Will Have His Breast Tattooed With National Seal.

Knud Lawrence Knudson, better known as Larry, the wealthiest office building chief janitor of Chicago, will have his breast tattooed with the seal of Norway and the national colors of independence of the country, says the Chicago Post. This is in honor of the final separation of Norway from Sweden, a step which Mr. Knudson has advocated for the last thirty years.

He was at one time a member of the royal navy, has met King Oscar and had many strange adventures in foreign lands. His arms are already tattooed with patriotic Norwegian symbols.

Mr. Knudson said the other morning: "More than half a million Norwegians in the United States are preparing for a general celebration of Norway's final independence. In New York, Boston, Washington, here (Chicago), Omaha, Denver, Minneapolis and other cities on some certain day to be yet determined they will meet and with sagas and cheers celebrate what ought to have happened fifty years ago. Skoll!

"Up to yesterday wherever a Norwegian was he was a Swede. In all the consular service except in one little town in France if you looked for a Norwegian you found a Swede. It got so bad if you turned any corner in Christiania trying to find a Norwegian every scratch you made brought forth a Swede. I have got out of bed nights and walked around to keep cool, it made me so mad to think of it.

"In all history, all mythology, all the doings of things, Norway has always led, but Sweden got the honor. Now we are going to change it, and after this when you dig for a Norwegian you'll find one and not a Swede. Yes, I'm going to have myself tattooed to mark this event forever. I was once tattooed in Japan and again in the Samoan islands to show my pride of Norway. This, though, is the great joy of my life, that Norway is now Norway. For this I am going to have Norway's insignia on me. There are many expert tattooers in Chicago, but I know how to do it myself. It will require about seven weeks' work."

Prohibited Postal Cards.

Postal cards with certain pictures on them have recently been prohibited in several countries, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. In Russia all cards bearing the portrait of Tolstoi are confiscated and destroyed; in Turkey no card bearing the name of Allah or of Mohammed, the photograph of the caaba or the portrait of a Mohammedan woman is allowed to go through the mail; in Portugal the postal officials have been instructed to destroy any card which is designed to cast ridicule on the king on account of his corpulence.

A CHANGE OF PARTNERS

[Original.]

One summer evening a rowboat containing two young men and two young women was drifting idly on the Allegheny river above the city of Pittsburg. They were two pairs of lovers, John Baron and Lillie Beck, Bartle Farr and Margaret Ferris. If any one would have told them that within a very short time there would be a transposition among them as fiances they would not have believed it. Nevertheless such a change came to pass.

John Baron was one of those phlegmatic, taciturn, undemonstrative fellows who usually choose their opposites, and in Lillie Beck he found exactly the girl to attract him. Bartle Farr was a gay, devil may care young man, who found in Margaret Ferris those steady qualities that a man of his character seemed to need. Everybody said that both couples would make an admirable match.

It was in the days when nitroglycerin was supplied from above Pittsburg on the Allegheny to the oil fields in Pennsylvania, floated down in stiletto-like boats some thirty feet long by four feet wide. Each boat carried enough nitroglycerin to blow anything it struck to the clouds. It was run by two men, who had strict orders to lie up at nightfall. In daytime they could be seen far enough ahead to enable such craft as they came across to get out of the way, and, since they did not run at night, there was no necessity for accident.

The party in the skiff had pulled far up the river during the afternoon, intending to drift down leisurely with the current in the twilight. Bartle Farr, who never took thought for the future, insisted on rowing up much farther than was intended. Margaret Ferris had endeavored to check his enthusiasm, but on this occasion was unequal to the task, or, rather, she permitted him to have his way, only warning him that in case they were caught out on the river in the dark and anything happened she would hold him responsible.

Twilight was fading into night, and they were still several miles above the city drifting down with the current. Margaret proposed that the men should take to the oars and was seconded by Baron. Whereupon Farr declared that they were having the best part of their excursion and as for himself he proposed to enjoy it. Baron took a pair of oars and began to row. At this Farr made a curt remark about his timidity at being out after dark without a protector. Baron made no reply, but kept on pulling.

When the night settled down upon them Farr and Miss Ferris were in the bow, Farr with his back between the two gunwales, Miss Ferris sitting on the foremost seat, facing him. Miss Beck was at the tiller, Baron on the "stroke" seat rowing. Suddenly something black on the river appeared within a few yards of them, and a voice shouted, "Get out of the way for your lives!" and two splashes followed as of persons jumping into the water.

In another moment John Baron recognized the dim outline of a nitroglycerin boat coming straight for the skiff. At the same moment Farr, who had risen to see what was coming, recognized the danger. He plunged into the water and dived to avert the coming explosion. Baron, putting all his strength into one supreme effort, gave two strokes with the port oar, and before he could give a third the nose of the nitroglycerin boat rubbed the stern of the skiff. For a few seconds the side of the explosive craft slid along the stern of the skiff, then the danger had passed.

Baron took in the situation at once. The men on the boat had been running her too late into the night, and on coming upon the skiff, after shouting a warning, had jumped overboard. The situation after the danger had passed was this: Farr was swimming for the skiff, Miss Beck was lying in a faint in the stern. Baron was resting on his oars, while Miss Ferris was sitting quietly on the forward seat. Her cheeks flamed at the cowardice of her lover, who had left her to die while he saved himself.

Baron knew that the nitroglycerin boat being without guidance would go on down the river, liable at any moment to cause great loss of life and property. He was a good swimmer and resolved to catch it. Plunging into the water, he swam lustily, gaining on it all the while till at last he caught it. Pulling himself upon the deck, he seized a rope fixed to the bow, tied the line around his body, and, plunging again into the water, swam for the shore.

In this he ran a fearful risk. A rock or a root of a tree if struck would blow up the boat and him with it. Landing on a point, he allowed the boat to swing downstream with the current, then fastened his rope to a stump.

The next morning John Baron's feat was known in Pittsburg and Allegheny, and he became a hero. As for the two men who deserted the boat neither ever showed his face in that region again. The day after the party reached home Miss Ferris wrote Farr a note breaking their engagement. Baron had noticed his fiance's collapse and that Miss Ferris retained her equanimity. From that moment he showed the latter a preference, which resulted in the breaking of his engagement, and he afterward became engaged to Miss Ferris.

Bartle Farr, when he found that he had lost Miss Ferris, either to show that he was not inconsolable or from sheer desperation, took up with the neglected Miss Beck. She was not a strong character. Farr made love desperately and won her. He derived some satisfaction in making the other two believe that he was just as well satisfied as if the exchange had not occurred. WINIFRED ROBERTS.

The Social Realm.

The lordly sun looked kindly on a wave,
A tiny wave that ran upon the sea;
And, lo! the wavelet brake with joy, and gave
A very shower of grateful brilliancy,
A thousand timid sparkles, every one
An image of the sun!

WERE YOUNGER.

Average Age of Grammar Graduates 14 Years.

216 Were Boys and 214 Girls.

Tributes to Miss Dearborn the Retiring Principal.

The annual gradua on exercises of the grammar schools were held Friday afternoon at High School hall. The attendance was not as large as in former years. This was, however, not due to lack of interest, but for want of room.

As Supt. Parlin said in his opening remarks the graduates were gradually pushing the parents and friends toward the rear of the hall. This year's class was so large that it became necessary to limit the number of tickets to one for each graduate. There were more than enough to fill the hall which was as usual crowded.

The hall was much more comfortable than last year as the day was much cooler. While the program varies but little from year to year there is no lack of interest, and there is always something new to hear and enjoy.

The blackboard back of the speakers was one great bank of red roses entwined in green. The works of art on the wall were also entwined in green.

It was exactly 3 o'clock when Miss Ethel Randlett Humphrey '07, and Miss Minnie Parkard '05, seated at the piano commenced the march, accompanied by Forrest Edwin Hayden on the drum.

The "march in" of the graduates is always an interesting feature. Each school as it entered the hall with slow measured tread, bearing aloft the school banner, is greeted with a burst of applause. Each pupil wore a ribbon bow of their school colors, and most of them a rosebud or some other flower. The boys for the most part wore black suits and the girls pretty white dresses, with a white bow on the hair.

Singing is always a feature and one that is fully enjoyed. This year was no exception to the rule and the choruses rendered under the direction of E. Landis Snyder were grand. A number of selections were sung during the afternoon the closing number being "America," which was rendered in a true patriotic spirit.

The accompaniment for the choruses was the piano, presided over by William Ellis Weston and Carl William Gram, and Ernest Samuel Merrill as violinists, all puplis of the Quincy schools.

The exercises opened with a few introductory remarks by Supt. Parlin and the address of the afternoon was by William C. Bates superintendent of schools at Fall River. Then came the presentation of diplomas by the chairman of the sub-committees. The concluding remarks were by Dr. Hallowell chairman of the School Board.

The program in detail was as follows:

March by schools

Chorus,—"With Horse and Hound" Alfred J. Caldicott

Introductory Remarks,—
Frank Edson Parlin, Superintendent of Schools.

Chorus,—
a. "He in Tears That Soweth," from "Song of Victory." Ferdinand Hiller
b. "Lovely Appear," from "The Redemption." Gounod

Address,—William C. Bates, Superintendent of Schools, Cambridge.

Chorus,—"Our Jack," H. Trotere

Presentation of Diplomas, by Chairmen of Sub-Committees.

Chorus,—
a. "O Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast," Mendelssohn
b. "The Future," F. H. Himmel

Concluding Remarks,—Dr. Henry C. Hallowell, Chairman of the School Board.

Chorus,—
a. "Olav Trygvason" Edw. Grieg, Op. 31
b. "Salute to the Flag.
c. "America."

A FEW STATISTICS.

Supt. Parlin said that the graduates were gradually pushing the people back. This was the largest class ever graduated, and as the number that the hall would accommodate was growing less the tickets were limited to one for each pupil. Of the class, 216 were boys and 214 girls. The total was 34 more than last year.

Of the class, 399 received certificates entitling them to higher schools. 306 had signified their intention to enter the High, and many would enter the Woodward.

Of the class, one was five years in the elementary school, two six years, 22 seven years, 181 eight years, 172 nine years, 49 ten years and 6 eleven years.

The youngest was 11 years and 8 months, and the eldest 18 years and 5 months. Two were between 11 and 12 years, 38 between 12 and 13, 190 between 13 and 14, 139 between 14 and 15, 46 between 15 and 16, and 15 were over 16.

The average age was 14 years and 1 month. As a whole they were younger than last year's class, and were a shorter time in the elementary course.

LOYALTY URGED.

The speaker of the afternoon was William C. Bates. Mr. Bates said that Miss Dearborn had told him this was her last class to graduate. He was glad to be present to graduate with her last class. Like many others he had been going to school to her for many years and she had shown him the way in many things.

We owe the community a tremendous debt and he would take for his subject "Owing and Owning." He called upon the graduates to be intensely loyal to the community that has done so much for them. Never let anyone say anything against Quincy. Whatever is said say something for her. He presumed that the great majority believed in the community. The word harden is not used as much as it should be. He wanted the graduates to harden others by their loyalty.

You owe intense loyalty to yourself, your record that shall start you right and keep you good. A part of your record is already written. Records are made early. By and by when we are looking for a situation they will ask what is our record. What was he or she. How did he or she do when you knew them? It is vastly important that we have our record good from the start. We owe it to be optimistic every day. Glory in the good. Think no evil. Be good for something. Ready to go in and take our full share of the enjoyment of life.

We owe it to ourselves to cultivate the power to forget. Forget those things we ought not to keep with us. Get away from evil and the things that will make us hard. Drill ourselves to forget.

We own all things. All things are ours. We must not get into the way of thinking money is all there is. You own your friends and they own you. I want you to appreciate the joy of knowing that all things are yours. It will keep your lives happy and hopeful, and by and bye the evening twilight will find you gentle and still.

Dr. Hallowell in commencing his closing remarks thanked Mr. Bates for his tribute to Miss Dearborn, and spoke eulogistic of her long and faithful service during which she had labored in the Quincy schools. All wish that her life may run pleasantly.

LEARN TO DIG.

It gave him great pleasure to add the congratulations of the school committee to these graduates. He wanted to add his mite in the way of one simple commonplace thought which he hoped may make some little impression on your lives. It is in refuting the charge that pupils of today cannot "dig."

I wish to impress upon your minds the importance of application to the work of learning to do things. Boys and girls never be obliged to excuse yourself by saying "I cannot dig." Graduates of the grammar schools learn to "dig."

The most important interest of the state is the education of its youth, and in these latter days in June all over the country there is a gladness of holiday. The President does not deem it beneath his dignity to travel hundreds of miles to participate in the exercises. He recognizes their importance to the nation. He has said that though education will not save a nation, no nation can be saved without education.

These exercises are no less commencements in the grammar schools than in the colleges. They do not typify the end of things but the beginning. The School Committee invite you all to continue your education in the higher schools.

The names of the graduates were published on the programs.

Hospital Aid Association.

The regular meeting of the Hospital Aid Association will be held Thursday, June 29th, at the summer home of the president, Mrs. Joseph C. Morse, at Rose Cliff, North Weymouth.

This will be an all day meeting with box lunch and Mrs. Morse cordially invites all present and former members to hold a reunion at that time.

The big battleship Vermont is to be launched at Quincy, Mass., Aug. 31, and Governor Bell will have the pleasure of naming one of Vermont's fair daughters as its sponsor. The Barre Times asks if this latest addition to the navy is to be christened with a bottle of wine or apollinaris. Why not maple syrup or Jersey milk fresh from the Belfry?—St. Johnsbury Republican.

The annual picnic of Christ church is to be held next Friday, the 30th, at Nantasket.

Points of Interest.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACES OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company where warships are being built for the government.

SWAY OF THE CZAR

It Will Continue to Be as Autocratic as Ever

SERIOUS RIOT AT LODZ

Fifty Persons Killed and Two Hundred Wounded -The Strike Has Developed Into Vast Political Manifestation

St. Petersburg, June 24.—Russian enthusiasm over the czar's supposed agreement with the wishes of the zemstvo congress in the matter of the popular assembly meets a severe check in a circular issued to the press by the ministry of the interior.

The circular denounces the false deductions made by the press and public, announces that nothing in the czar's words justifies the idea that the fundamental principles of the autocracy are to be weakened, and finally prohibits the publication of any deductions or interpretations not in harmony with the plain meaning of the czar's speech. The manifesto expressly repudiates the principle which the zemstvoists declare necessary to the rehabilitation of the empire.

According to advices received here, the situation in Poland is again exceedingly serious. Censored dispatches from Lodz, though giving few details, indicate that fierce street fighting was in progress yesterday between the military and the striking workmen, who barricaded the thoroughfares in various quarters of the city and offered resistance, which the troops met with volleys.

The list of the dead and wounded presumably is heavy, but not even an estimate has been received here. Russian correspondents telegraph that the streets are entirely in the hands of the military and the mob and that it is unsafe to venture out to obtain details. It is not known whether the fighting was continued last night, but it is feared that order can be restored only at heavy sacrifice.

Lodz has been in a turmoil for the past three days. The strike, which embraces 60,000 workers, appears to have eitirely lost its economic nature and is now a vast political manifestation. All forms of public business activity have been suspended, the peaceful inhabitants remaining indoors in fear of their lives. The political zeal of the manifestants has become inflamed by intoxicants from the vodka shops, which were broken into and pillaged yesterday.

At Warsaw a strike has commenced and disorders are looked for, and the trial of Okrjey, who threw a bomb at a police station, will probably result in other bomb outrages. A man was arrested yesterday, armed with a bomb which was evidently intended to be used in the court during the trial.

Fifty Killed; Two Hundred Wounded

Lodz, June 24.—Troops stormed the barricades erected in the streets by the strikers. Fifty persons have been killed and 200 wounded. Martial law will be declared.

Since early yesterday morning this city has been in a state of panic. The strike is general at all the factories and the shops are closed. Barricades were erected at many points. Rifle volleys and revolver shots are heard continually.

Many persons have been killed or wounded, but it is impossible at present to ascertain the number with any exactitude, owing to the general character of the disturbances.

The mob sacked a number of liquor stores and broke the street lamps. Street railroad traffic is interrupted.

"Some Matters" to Settle

Washington, June 24.—Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, called at the White House last night and conferred with the president for three quarters of an hour. When he left he was asked if there were any developments regarding an armistice between the army of Russia and Japan. Mr. Takahira would not discuss the question, but suggested that there were "some matters" to be settled first.

May Go Home on Parole

Washington, June 24.—A request of Admiral Enquist to be allowed to return his sick and wounded officers and men at Manila, upon giving their parole not to engage in hostilities during the war, and to be allowed to bring certain material for repairing damaged ships, has been granted by the secretary of war.

Troops For Reserve Battalions

St. Petersburg, June 24.—Preparations for the mobilization of troops in the Moscow district have been completed. There will be a medical examination of 48,000 men from whom 20,000 will be selected, not for service in the far east, but for incorporation in the reserve battalions.

Russian Cruisers Ordered Home

St. Petersburg, June 24.—In consequence of British representations, British warships will be dispatched to convey orders to the Russian auxiliary cruisers Dneiper and Rion to cease interference with shipping and to return immediately.

Russia Will Borrow $100,000,000

St. Petersburg, June 24.—A new internal loan of $100,000,000 will probably be floated next fall. Finance Minister Kokovsoff says that Russia is in possession of ample funds at present.

An Unfortunate Educator

New York, June 24.—M. H. Ramsey, professor of languages of Stanford university of California, a graduate of Columbia, a fellow of Johns Hopkins university, member of the American Philological association and the Modern Language association, was arraigned here on a charge of "vagrancy." Detective Fogarty, who arrested Ramsey, quickly changed the complaint to that of insanity. Ramsey was taken to Bellevue to await the arrival of two physicians from Baltimore, who were interested in discovering his whereabouts. Ramsey left California three months ago. Since then his friends lost all trace of him. Since he has been here he has worked in various small restaurants and cafes on the East Side as a waiter.

Hill In Further Difficulty

Philadelphia, June 24.—For the second time this week John W. Hill, former chief of the bureau of filtration, was arrested on charges of forgery and falsifying certain books and papers for the purpose of defrauding the city of Philadelphia. After a long hearing he was held in $2000 bail for trial. His arrest yesterday was a great surprise, coming so close on his statement of innocence of forgery and falsification of records, on which charges he was held in $8000 on Wednesday.

Loomis Going to Europe

Washington, June 24.—Assistant Secretary Loomis of the state department expects to sail from New York today for Europe, to be absent about a month.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Keeler Tells How To Bat

Leading Scientific Stick Swinger Says "a Step Forward and a Good Eye" Are Principal Factors In Hitting. "Stand Close to Plate."

Willie Keeler is the premier scientific batsman of the major leagues. He believes that with two essentials—"a good eye" and a step forward—any ball player, amateur or professional, can become an expert batsman.

He eliminates luck as a factor in the long run. Keeler recently illustrated for the writer of this article the means whereby any one with a baseball idea can develop himself into a good hitter. He stepped up to the plate, grasped his short bat well up on the handle and stepped forward.

"This forward step," he said, "is the secret of scientific hitting. The batter should stand right up to the plate, with his feet near together. His position should be easy, so that he can bring his arms, legs and body instantly into play.

"Then he is ready to meet the ball. The pitcher throws, and the ball comes sailing toward the plate. Instead of waiting for the ball to reach him the proper batter steps forward just one short step and meets the sphere. This step should not be long, as that is liable to throw the body out of poise and make a correct swing impossible. One short step and then a short, sharp swing squarely at the ball.

"Right here is where the eye—the batting eye—figures. A batting eye—the one that enables the batter to see the ball all the way from the pitcher's hand to the plate—is an essential and comes only with plenty of practice.

"The beginner should remember the step forward and then keep on practicing. The rest is bound to come.

"A point that should be remembered particularly is to stand close to the plate. This takes a bit of nerve until the batter becomes accustomed to facing speedy balls."

Serious Situation Arises From Chinese Exclusion

ADMINISTRATION OF LAW

More Trouble Over That Than In the Law Itself--Cabinet Will Act Before Chinese Sentiment Becomes Crystallized

Washington, June 24.—Chinese immigration to this country and the execution of the Chinese exclusion laws constituted the principal topic of discussion at Friday's meeting of the cabinet. It was the last meeting of the cabinet to be held before President Roosevelt shall leave Washington for the summer.

The situation which has arisen out of the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion law is regarded both by the president and members of his cabinet as serious. As Secretary Taft phrased it, there seems to be more trouble over the administration of the law than in the law itself. He expressed the belief that too much time was spent in developing evidence against Chinese who presumably were entitled to enter the country. The president made it clear that he was determined that Chinese should have fair treatment under the law whenever they applied for admission to this country at any port. He believed this was not only in the interest of American manufacturers and business men, but no more than just to the Chinese.

Secretary Metcalf of the department of commerce and labor, who has direct supervision of the immigration bureau, is investigating the subject with a view of correcting any evils of administration that may be discovered. He said at the cabinet meeting that the United States' trade with China in cotton goods alone for the 10 months of the present fiscal year had aggregated $21,000,000, as against $3,000,000 for the previous fiscal year.

It is realized that if the Six Companies and the more influential of the Chinese merchants once get it in their heads that there is general antagonism in the United States to their countrymen it will be extremely difficult to remove the impression. The president and his advisers realize that the time to deal with the present situation is at once, before Chinese sentiment is crystallized and an active boycott is put into effect.

Secretary Metcalf, it is understood, upholds in some degree the action of his subordinates in the immigration bureau in their rigid inspection of Chinese coming into this country, but it is not probable that he would hold out against the president and the other members of the cabinet if he found himself alone in his position.

It is thought likely that some measure will be taken to make the entry of educated Chinese merchants and students into this country less humiliating to them than at present and that instructions will be issued to immigration inspectors that will prevent a repetition of the disgraceful Boston incident. When the president wrote Secretary Metcalf about this episode he expressed himself as "indignant" that it should have occurred.

Pacific coast interests represent that their business with China is growing with almost sensational rapidity and declare that if a boycott were actually made effective it would do tremendous harm. Indeed, it is thought that such action on the part of the Chinese would provoke some change of sentiment on the coast regarding the rigors of the present exclusion law.

Concession to Chicago Teamsters

Chicago, June 24.—Indications are that unless something unforeseen develops the teamsters' strike will cease within a short time. At a meeting between the contending interests the question of a conspicuous display of the union button, which has been opposed by the employers, was settled, the association agreeing to withdraw its demand for the elimination of the union emblem.

From Episcopalian to Catholic

New York, June 24.—Mrs. Winthrop Rutherfurds, daughter of Levi P. Morton, former vice president of the United States, has been received into the Roman Catholic church. Mrs. Rutherfurds was, as her parents are, members of the Protestant Episcopal church, as is also her husband.

To Give Building to Tuskegee

Trenton, June 24.—Miss Margaret W. Tantum has notified Principal Washington of the Tuskegee (Ala.) Normal and Industrial institute of her decision to provide money for the erection of a building at the institute in memory of her father, the late Dr. James B. Tantum of this city.

A Dastardly Deed

Florence, S. C., June 24.—H. D. Granger, a Baptist preacher, was shot from ambush and killed while working on his farm near here. He lived in the district known as the "dead stretch," where negroes are not welcome, and he had two negroes at work on his farm.

Auto Fatality at New York

New York, June 24.—By collision with a trolley pole in Jerome avenue last night an automobile was completely wrecked and the occupants, five in number, thrown out and seriously hurt. Paul Foster, whose skull was fractured, died in a short time.

BACKED OVER A DOCK

Operator of Automobile Killed and His Friends Injured

Marblehead, Mass., June 24.—Charles T. Estabrook of Newton was killed and three other persons were badly bruised in an automobile accident here at 10 o'clock last night. Estabrook had come from Boston in a large touring car to have dinner at the Boston Yacht club. With him were T. F. Rhodes, Miss B. Bassett and Miss Rose Lamoreux.

After dinner the party entered the automobile and were preparing to start on the run back to Boston. It was necessary to turn the car about, and as the pier on which it was standing was narrow considerable backward and forward maneuvering was necessary. When the rear wheels of the car were within two feet of the caplog of the pier, Estabrook reached for a lever in order to start the machine forward. It is believed that he grasped the wrong lever, for instead of going forward, the machine shot backward over the edge of the dock.

The tide was low at the time and the car landed on the beach 15 feet below. In its fall the automobile turned over and Estabrook was caught under the steering wheel, and when the car struck the beach he was badly crushed.

Estabrook was employed as a bookkeeper in the office of the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust company at Boston. He was 30 years old, was unmarried, and was a member of several well known clubs. He was an enthusiastic devotee of automobiling.

Great Floating Drydock Tested

Baltimore, June 24.—The immense floating drydock Dewey was tested and at swered perfectly every demand made upon it. The cruiser Colorado, 14,000 tons, was raised and the Dewey was sunk until the deck was 28 feet under water. This required 66 minutes. The Colorado was then towed in by tugs and the pumps were started. The keel of the cruiser was out of the water in one hour and 15 minutes and half an hour later the deck showed clear. The pumping continued until this was two feet above the surface.

Peace Policy Likely to Prevail

Christiania, June 24.—The feeling aroused in Stockholm against King Oscar and the Swedish government has caused some uneasiness here. There is anxiety lest the riksdag should yield to this feeling and revoke the conciliatory policy outlined by King Oscar, but it is believed that the majority of the members of the riksdag will remain firm and follow up the policy of peace.

Peculiar Disease In Porto Rico

Washington, June 24.—According to a report from Captain Ashford, assistant surgeon and head of the Porto Rican anemia commission, 95 percent of the Porto Ricans living near the centre of the island are afflicted with the "lazy worm." An appropriation of $15,000 will be expended in the eradication of the disease, according to the methods successfully applied by Ashford last year.

Automobile Struck Street Car

Chicago, June 24.—One woman was seriously injured and four others were hurt in a collision last evening between a large sight-seeing automobile and a street car. The automobile had 40 passengers when it struck the street car squarely in the side, pushing it from the track across a boulevard. The car was partly demolished.

Improvement In Business

New York, June 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that seasonable weather in most sections of the country has done much to stimulate lagging retail trade in lightweight wearing apparel and greatly improved the entire business situation by accelerating the maturity of agricultural products.

Lyttelton Has Not Resigned

London, June 24.—When questioned in the house of commons regarding the statement that Lieutenant General Lyttelton, chief of the general staff and first military member of the army council, had resigned, as the result of the South African stores scandal, War Secretary Forster denied the report.

Peace Not Yet Assured

Paris, June 24.—Newspapers publish dispatches from Berlin voicing a pessimistic tone relative to the German-French relations and pointing out that an unfavorable outcome is not yet beyond the range of possibility. The press here, however, adopts a more hopeful view.

Trying to Find Train Wrecker

Cleveland, June 24.—The Lake Shore Railroad company offers a reward of $2000 for the arrest or for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons responsible for the wreck of the Twentieth Century Limited at Mentor on Wednesday night.

Negro Murderer Lynched

Meridian, Miss., June 24.—Pierce Moberly, the negro who killed E. C. Jones near this city, was captured west of this place and lynched. The body, riddled with bullets, was found swinging to a limb of a tree.

American Boats Did Well

Kiel, June 24.—American yachts, either American owned or American built, made a fine showing in the races here. There were four of them and each won the race in her class.

LITTLE LANTERNS of THE SOUL

By SIDNEY H. COLE

Copyright, 1905, by T. C. McClure

In the library of the villa the two men faced each other. The little red shaded lamp dimly lighted the big, luxurious room. Outside the last traces of the soft Italian twilight were fading in the west, and the first of the myriad stars were blinking, uncertain yellow dots in the blue velvet sky.

Orne senior lifted his piercing black eyes and looked at his son searchingly.

"You're a common ne'er do well," he burst out, "a gambler, a loafer, a rake. You squander a fortune at the gaming tables and come whining to me for more money to lose. Get your money where you lost it. I'm through with you."

Young Orne drew himself up. "Father"— he began.

"I'm done with you," the older man thundered. "I wash my hands of you. As God is my judge, I'll cut you off without a cent. Go out into the world and stand on your own feet or sink into the mire of ruin you've been delving in. It's all one to me."

Young Orne strode silently to the door, turned, hesitated, then hurried through the hall into the soft night without. The last streak of red was gone from the west. Far below him at the foot of the slope the little village was agleam with lights. He noticed that even in the trees tiny luminous pin points of light shone steadily. Then he remembered that it was St. John's eve and that the lights were a part of the fiesta.

He descended the steps and strode across the terraces and through the villa gardens. As he came to a group of olive trees just beyond the sundial he saw dimly a girlish figure standing beneath one of the trees. There was the rasp of a match, a tiny Chinese lantern was lighted, and in its mellow glow he saw plainly the girl's upturned face as she reached up to fasten the lantern to a low hanging branch. It was Ethelyn Hope, the daughter of his father's oldest friend, who had made her home with the Ornes since her parents' death. That was years back, when Ethelyn was a little girl in frocks. Now she was eighteen, tall, graceful and sweet alike in feature and in temper.

Young Orne came into the little circle of light cast by the lantern. There was an old stone seat beneath that particular olive tree, and he sank into it.

"Celebrating?" he asked.

"Yes," she said, pointing to the lantern. "It is a little lantern of the soul."

"A what?" he asked in laughing perplexity.

"A little lantern of the soul," she repeated. "You hang them on olive trees and say little prayers for the souls they represent. I heard Pietro and the cook talking about them today. I made them explain."

"I see," said he. "Who's soul is this?" And he pointed to the lantern.

"I haven't decided as yet," she said, and added quickly, "I think it will be yours."

"By all means let it be so," he acquiesced. "Heaven knows I'm sadly in need of pious prayers just now."

"Are you in trouble?" she asked. "Have you and Uncle Orne been quarreling again?"

He smiled with ironic bitterness. "Oh, there's been a slight tiff!" he said easily.

"That is bad," she said, with ready sympathy.

"It ended by—by—well, to use bold words, by his kicking me out," said he.

Her face became serious. "He didn't really mean it, of course. He'll be sorry before morning."

"I hope so," he said. "You can let me know if he is," he ended lightly.

"I let you know?" she said, frightened by his tone. "You're not—not really going?"

Orne's face darkened. All the rankling bitterness his father's words had inspired was upon him again.

"I may be all he called me and more," he said, with an ominous calmness, "but I still have some pride left. I have to be shown the door but once."

The girl's hands trembled violently as she leaned against the olive tree. Orne, with his head bowed sullenly, did not notice this. When he raised his eyes she was still leaning against the tree. He saw a strange new light in her eyes, and all at once he realized that she was no longer a child, but a woman and that her woman's heart was his. The fact that there was love in his own heart was as much of a shock to him as the discovery of this answering love in hers. He could have cried out with the joy and pain of it. He rose to his feet pale and shaken.

"I must be going," he said roughly.

"Going?" she asked blankly. "Going where?"

He laughed harshly. "I've all the world to choose from," he said bitterly.

He drew her gently to him. For one moment her head rested on his shoulder and her soft brown hair brushed his cheek.

* * * * * * *

Orne senior had long entertained an idea. It was that some day his son would steady down and marry Ethelyn. But, being a wise old man and knowing too well the dangers of match making, he said nothing of this either to his son or his ward. Now as he sat in the library after the stormy interview with his son he felt that his hopes had received their deathblow. For a long time he sat by the red shaded lamp, pondering deeply. Then he rose and went into the gardens.

He walked rapidly up and down the terraces for a time, his head bared to the warm light air. He saw the light in the olive tree and went down the path to investigate. As he neared the tree he caught the sound of a woman's spasmodic sobs. He stopped and peered through the darkness. What he saw beneath the olive tree lifted a great weight from his heart and brought a grim smile to his lips.

"No, no," the girl was saying wildly, "I cannot let you go. It will break my heart."

His son's voice answered soothingly: "It is best that I should go, dear. It won't be for long at the most. I'll prove I'm worthy of you, and then I'll come back to claim you."

"Optimistic young idiot!" muttered Orne senior as he strode into the circle of dim light. Ethelyn gave a little startled cry, and Orne junior glared at him savagely.

"It seems," said Orne senior, with icy composure, "that you haven't made trouble enough, but must needs add this Lothario business to your already large repertory of transgressions."

Young Orne's face went black. His fists clinched. For a moment it looked as if he would strike the elder man. Then with an effort he controlled himself.

"Say what you like about my other affairs, but kindly leave this to me," he said in a voice hoarse with anger.

"You're not worthy to worship the ground she treads on," said the elder Orne.

"Good God, don't I know that!" said his son. He turned on his heel.

"Hold on, Sir Touchstone!" said his father. "Wait a minute, can't you?"

Young Orne turned. "Well?" he challenged.

A rare smile curved the mouth of the elder Orne.

"Your spirit in this thing is all very fine," he said grimly, "but you'll very likely find the world a tougher proposition than you imagine, especially if you assail it penniless. I said I'd cut you off without a cent, and I will." The harsh voice softened wonderfully. "I'll give it to Ethelyn instead."

He shuffled up the path toward the villa and, left them there in amazed silence.

A gust of wind rattled the gray olive leaves. The little lantern swayed dangerously. Its paper cover caught fire from the fluttering candle. There was a momentary flash of flame, then darkness.

"Your little lantern of the soul has gone out," she said.

"Anyway, it stood no show with the greater light we have found," he replied.

A Bit of Superstition.

"I've heard tales of superstitious women," said the very obliging young man to the Philadelphia Record, "but a woman who lives in our neighborhood has them all beaten. She occupies a twin house just above ours and, despite her constant dissertations on hoodooism, is rather unpopular. The other day she went out without her key and when she returned home could not get in. She was on the pavement almost crying when I came along. Naturally I offered to assist by climbing in a window. I went to the twin house and, climbing through a second story window, got on the porch. Then I squeezed through a tiny bathroom window into her house. After I opened her front door I started to leave, when she stopped me. With evident embarrassment she explained that if I left by any other route than the one by which I entered death would surely visit the house. Summed up, she wanted me to climb back over the roofs. Well, as she is young and pretty and I'm obliging, I did it, but you can bet the next time she loses her key some one else will jeopardize his life."

As Requested.

A pigeon flying enthusiast recently related the following amusing experience: One morning he found a strange bird in his cot. The owner evidently belonged to the association, for there was a numbered ring on the bird's leg.

The finder at once wrote off to the general secretary acquainting him with the facts and quoting the number on the ring. By referring to his books the secretary soon found the name and address of the owner, who was at once made aware of the whereabouts of his bird.

A day or two later the finder received the following communication from the owner:

Sir—I understand you have a homing pigeon of mine. Liberate him at once. How dare you keep my bird? Yours,
X. Y.

The same morning the indignant X. Y. received the following laconic reply by telegram:

Blanktown, 9:15 a. m.—Bird liberated.

Then the following:

9:17 a. m.—Cat got him.

—Stray Stories.

Politeness In Japan.

Politeness in Japan is not at all confined to the upper circles, as you imagine. Servants are just as punctiliously polite to each other as their masters. When they meet in the street they will smile correctly at the proper distance from each other. On drawing nearer they smile again, according to the etiquette prescribed, and then after bows of the finest and most minute significance the gardener of one house will address the betto (horse groom) of another with some such phrase as, "It is long since I have hung upon your honorable eyelids?" And the other will answer, "Please excuse my rudeness at the last time we met." And if by any chance they have occasion to punch one another's heads they won't part until they have expressed, with many bows, their mutual regret that their meeting has not been under more pleasant conditions.

Quincy Day Nursery.

The Quincy Day Nursery association met in the council chanber at City Hall on May 2d with nine members present. Reports were read by the secretary, treasure and matron and Mrs. Lawton reported for the visiting committee. She had visited the nursery four times. One day there was present fifteen children and all seemed well and happy.

The three new rooms in the basement were occupied June 1st. On motion of Mrs. Babcock it was voted that a committee of two be appointed to see that a sand box was purchased for the children. Mrs. Addison and Mrs. Sandberg were appointed.

It was voted to paper and paint the front room at the nursery also to purchase new shades. The meeting adjourned at four o'clock.

Fanny F. Sears, secretary.

Donnelly—Cronin.

Miss Catherine C. Cronin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cronin, of Weymouth, and Mr. Robert J. Donnelly, of East Braintree, were married Tuesday afternoon, at six o'clock. The ceremony took place at the new home of the couple, 59 Howard street, East Braintree, in the presence of the immediate friends of the couple.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr. Miller, of Quincy, and the parlors where the ceremony was performed was handsomely decorated with ferns, flowers and potted plants.

Miss May Robery was bridesmaid, and Mr. Murray Parker, of Weymouth, was best man. The bride was attired in a costume of white silk and carried a bouquet of bride roses, and the bridesmaid's dress was of blue silk, and she carried a bouquet of forget-me-not. Miss Annie Pratt, of South Weymouth, played the wedding march.

A reception followed the ceremony from 8 until 10 o'clock. The couple were the recipients of many handsome and costly gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly left on a late train on their wedding trip, and on their return will reside at 59 Howard street, East Braintree.

NEW BRIDGE

Four Tracks Across the Neponset River.

Planned by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

Will Result in the Extension of the Four-Track System.

An important improvement is about to be made on the Plymouth division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad by the substitution of a four-track modern steel bridge for the present wooden structure over the Neponset River, between the Atlantic and Neponset stations. The plans have been completed within a day or two, and the work will be rushed along with all possible haste.

The contemplated change in the bridge over the river will be greatly welcomed by the thousands of residents of Braintree and the South Shore, Cape districts, and other cities and towns connected by the Plymouth division, for considerable time is now lost by the trains slackening their speed in crossing the existing bridge.

These precautions have been taken by the railroad management for some time, although the wooden structure has not shown any weakening. The increase in the weight of rolling equipment and the possibilities for a greatly improved service by the use of a wider bridge prompted the company to begin upon the proposed change.

On the completion of the new bridge over the river and the widening of the Hancock street bridge now underway, the four tracks from Boston to Harrison Square can easily be extended to Atlantic, and used for the Granite Branch trains, giving the express trains a better chance to make time.

Perhaps the four tracks will be extended to Braintree, either via Quincy or West Quincy which will greatly improve the service. As was the case of the Wollaston disaster and other accidents, the service to the south will not be tied up with four tracks.

—Suffolk county pays two lady stenographers $2,500 a year, each. That's why the work in that county is short-handed.

COOKS WELCOME FOSS'

Pure Food Agitation Condemns Imitation Extracts.

Turpentine Enters Largely Into Spurious Lemon Flavoring.

Cooks Use Foss' Pure Extracts With Confidence.

BECAUSE THEY ARE MERELY THE FRUITS IN LIQUID FORM.

Only a few years ago it was very difficult for the most painstaking woman to be sure that she was using a natural flavoring extract. The demand for extracts at soda fountains and in ice cream especially tempted manufacturers to use substitutes and adulterations for quicker and larger profits.

The imitations became so crude and deleterious that many persons ate sparingly of all flavored desserts. It was proved that it was the impure flavoring that made pies, cakes and ice creams disagree with grown-up persons as well as with children, and an urgent demand arose for a pure, reliable, natural fruit extract. A wide market was assured for such a wholesome flavoring and from the first appearance of Foss' Extracts, which are simply the fruits in concentrated, liquid form, hotel chefs, cooking school teachers and thousands of plain housewives entirely discarded the use of artificial extracts and began to stock their pantry shelves with nothing but Foss'.

Families that had been using flavoring extracts that were clever imitations of the true fruit were delighted and surprised at the delicacy, purity and wholesomeness of the new flavoring. They found in addition to a daintier flavoring imparted to desserts that it did not require so much of Foss' to get the proper flavor as it did of the old, dishonest kind and that it was therefore more economical.

As an example of the superiority of Foss' over all other extracts, let us instance that queen of flavors, vanilla, this best of all extracts has the peculiar, natural odor of the vanilla bean, and the delicate delicious flavor that is unmistakable to those who have ever used the vanilla bean itself; but in the case of inferior and low grade vanilla extracts, made hastily from poor and mouldy beans, colored by burnt sugar to deceive the housewife, a rank unpleasant flavor is had, which sets all the housewife's skill and good luck at naught.

In this matter of flavoring extracts, nature defies imitation.

Foss' Extracts are indicated by Mrs. Lincoln in her receipt for ice cream on page 364 of her Boston Cook Book, simply because it is fruit in liquid form and the best.

BEWITCHED

[Original.]

One bright summer morning more than two hundred years ago, a ship from England anchored off shore at a settlement in Massachusetts. To the people of the place the arrival of anything or any person was a subject of excitement and they all went down to see what the vessel brought them. To their great joy besides stores there had come a number of people to cast their fortunes with them. The watchers on shore stood gaping under their broad brimmed puritan hats while a ship's boat unloaded the emigrants, among them a young girl, who from the moment her foot touched the land made herself as much at home as if she had been born there. She had not been landed five minutes before her shoes and stockings were off and she was wading in the shallows, splashing the water, laughing and otherwise disporting herself. The grim faces on the shore formed a singular contrast with the capering maiden.

"Tell me," said Hezekiah Stonehedge to the captain of the ship, "who is that madcap who is disgracing herself by showing her bare ankles to our young men?"

"She calls herself Abigail Rogers."

"To which of the families does she belong?"

"To none of them."

"God help us!" exclaimed Hezekiah Stonehedge, throwing up his hands in pious horror.

At that moment Abigail Rogers' back was turned to the shore while she waded out toward a place where a small bit of sand rose above the surface. As the water deepened she raised her skirts accordingly. Then it grew more shallow, and she stood on the little island, clapping her hands in great glee. She splashed her white feet in the water, hunted for shells—indeed found more to do in the narrow compass than many would have found on all the coast. Though all eyes from the shore were fixed upon her, she paid no attention to her observers and when she had tired started landward. But while she had been sporting the tide had risen, and after she had advanced till the water became so deep that she could raise her skirts no further she stopped and cast her eyes to the shore as if looking for help. Sweeping the line of scowling faces, she at last fixed on Hugh Saltonstall, a stalwart young fellow, who had been looking on with the others. The moment he received the maiden's glance he strode into the water and carried her in his arms to the shore.

That was quite sufficient to stamp her as a witch. Hezekiah Stonehedge took the captain of the ship into his house and wrote down all the information he had to impart concerning Abigail Rogers. No one knew how she had got aboard his vessel, for she had not appeared till the morning after the ship had sailed. She had bewitched the sailors, who when she fixed her eyes on them could not be made to perform their duties properly. This Stonehedge considered all the proof needed.

When the young man set the girl down on the sand every person who saw what they considered his enthralment turned and went up toward the settlement, fleeing lest they should themselves come under the spell. Abigail wondered what had sent them away in such a hurry. Young Hugh endeavored to make her aware of the terrible danger overhanging her. "Why," he asked, "did you put yourself in such jeopardy?"

"The good God made me happy," she replied, "and I must be happy."

"How did you come to sail for these shores?"

"My uncle sent me abroad in charge of a sailor, who hid me."

"Why did he do that?"

"I don't know."

"Come with me to the house in which I live. There are women there, and I'll see if I can persuade them to protect you."

The young man believed that before the day was spent she would be jailed and as soon as tried burned at the stake. He walked beside her to a cabin. Hezekiah Stonehedge and others stood afar watching him. On reaching the cabin every woman but one fled. She, good motherly soul, nothing affrighted as the others, took the girl to her heart and gave her refreshment. Just before dark Hezekiah Stonehedge came, followed by two others to assist him, to demand the body of the witch. Hugh Saltonstall met him at the door.

"The witch is not here," said the young man. "An hour ago we put her by the chimney to rest. Suddenly there was a gust of wind, and she vanished. Rushing out of the cabin, I glanced at the sky. She was not there; but, looking below, I saw her going down to the water with a sieve she had taken from the chimney piece. When she reached the verge she launched the sieve, got into it and sailed away."

"She has bewitched you," said Stonehedge, not knowing whether the young man lied or told the truth, and he searched the place. He found nothing, for Abigail was hidden in the clock.

That night Saltonstall took the girl in his boat to the ship and prevailed on the captain to take her back to England. Her protector went with her and upon investigation uncovered a plot to get rid of her that another might secure a fortune she had inherited. Her uncle had bribed a sailor to take her aboard the ship, and after her departure she had been personated at home by a girl of her own age.

Saltonstall succeeded in restoring the property to the girl he had befriended and punishing the man who had sought to defraud her. The young man had been, in modern parlance, bewitched.

CITY BREVITIES

The pupils of the Quincy school presented Principal Sampson with a Venitian picture.

M. L. Eaton has accepted a position as engineer at the Cordage works at Plymouth.

Base ball players will be interested in Willie Keeler's illustrated article today on how to bat.

The pupils of the Crauch school presented Principal Nowland with a pair of gold cuff buttons.

A large sale of houses and house lots at Atlantic, belonging to the estate of the late William A. Hodges, will take place next Saturday afternoon. Charles H. Johnson will be the anctioneer.

James Nolan, who has been clerk at Berrys drug store at West Quincy, received his degree of doctor of medicine at Harvard this week, after four years of study. He will take a post graduate course.

The S. of V. Auxiliary held a sewing circle and whist party at Mrs. Alden's, Mayflower Park, on Friday afternoon. Those holding highest score were: Mrs. Rose A. Reed, Miss Bertha Reed, Mr. Alden Holbrook, Arthur Holbrook, Mrs. Annie E. Merritt and Miss Marcella Souther.

The chairman of the Flower Mission Committee wishes to announce that the Wollaston Unitarian vestry will be open from 7 until 8 on every Monday evening to receive flowers for the sick and aged. This work is wholly unsectarian and it is hoped that many will give their co-operation.

Rev. E. N. Hardy officiated at the funeral of Mrs. William Gallagher, at the home of her son the Hon. Charles T. Gallagher Jamaica Plain, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Gallagher was widely known and greatly beloved in Boston. The services were largely attended. Dr. Wm. Gallagher of Thayer Academy Braintree is a son of the deceased.

Miss Mary E. Dearborn the retiring principal of the Coddington school, entertained her class after graduation yesterday with ice cream, and had a pleasant word for all. Many found it a difficult thing to say good bye to their principal for many years, who especially during the past year they have learned to love.

The reception given by Mr. Charles E. Finch to the eighth grades of the Wollaston and Massachusetts Fields schools Thursday afternoon, was a very pleasant occasion. A short entertainment consisting of piano duets and vocal solos was furnished by the pupils and three graduating essays were read. Mr. and Mrs. Finch were presented with a beautiful chafing dish. Ice cream and cake were served and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent.

Mrs. W. T. Babcock is engaged by the Philergian club of Braintree to give her paper entitled "Our territorial growth" upon Oct. 17 at the opening of the club season. The Philergians have so increased in number that their meetings during the coming year will be held in Cochato hall. Mrs. Babcock expects to appear before several clubs next winter as a reader and writer. Besides her paper on the growth of the United States, she has one on the "Books we used to read," and another on domestic matters entitled "The Frenchmen's receipt for soup; six pebbles and a quart of water."

The annual meeting of the Social Science and Literary Club, of Atlantic, was held on June 6 when the following officers were elected:—

President, Mrs. Ida M. Chase, of Davis street; Vice President, Mrs. Annie L. Thompson, of Squantum street; Secretary, Mrs. Francis L. Conway, of Billings road; Treasurer, Mrs. Ellis Smith, of Botolph street. Arrangements have been made for an outing, a trolley trip to Concord, Mass., June 29. Basket lunch. Any friends wishing to join the party will be cordially welcome. All are requested to be at Neponset waiting-room at 9 A. M.

—James Freeman Clarke had four rules, by virtue of which he was able to maintain good health, and do a great amount of work, in spite of advanced age. "I have never been in a hurry," he said, shortly before his death, in answer to a query as to what magic power he possessed. "I have taken plenty of exercise, I have always tried to be cheerful, and I have always taken all the sleep I needed."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Newbro's Herpicide

VACATION TIME. Vacation time should bring rest, recreation and comfort; and comfort of the solid and pleasing variety means no high collar, no stiff hat and no—itching scalp. It is for this last discomfort that Newbro's Herpicide becomes a summer necessity, as it stops itching of the scalp and Prickly Heat almost instantly. Take Herpicide with you on your vacation.

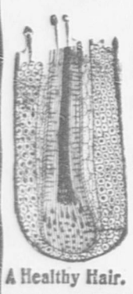

SCALP WARNING. Itching of the scalp is not so much a punishment for past neglect as it is a warning for the future. It shows, almost conclusively, that the vine-like, microbic growth that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair has entered the Sebaceous glands and unless this growth is stopped and kept out of the scalp, baldness will follow.

DANDRUFF IS CONTAGIOUS. The discovery, by Prof. Unna (ask your doctor about him) that dandruff is a highly contagious disease, is now recognized by dermatologists everywhere. This important discovery, not only proves the worthlessness of "Hair growers," but it offers an opportunity for scientific hair preservation, in the use of Newbro's Herpicide, the original remedy that "kills the dandruff germ."

WILL NOT GROW HAIR. Newbro's Herpicide is a "Hair-Saver;" it will not grow hair—nature does this—but by destroying the enemies of hair health, it enables the hair to grow as nature intended—except in chronic baldness. Save your hair with Herpicide. Wonderful results follow its use.

HOT WEATHER TROUBLES. During hot weather the minute sudatory glands of the scalp are called upon to perform an extra amount of labor. The perspiration that exudes in increased quantities must be handled promptly as it carries out poisonous and Refuse matter that would otherwise clog up the pores of the scalp. Incomplete elimination of refuse matter produces a hot and feverish condition of the scalp, familiarly known as Prickly Heat, for which Herpicide gives immediate relief. Ladies will find Herpicide indispensible. It contains no grease, will not stainin or dye. It is an exquisite hair dressing that COOLS, COMFORTS and DELIGHTS.

Destroy the cause--you remove the effect.

A Healthy Hair.

DANDRUFF DISAPPEARED.

It is with great pleasure that I give my hearty endorsement of Newbro's Herpicide. Before using it I was troubled with dandruff, and just used one half of a dollar bottle when all traces of dandruff disappeared

Signed—ALBERT KRUG.

Elmira, N. Y.

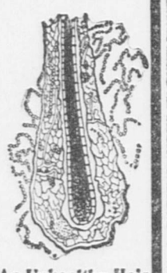

CONSIDERS IT INDISPENSABLE.

I have given your Herpicide a good trial, and think it is the best I have ever used, and assure you that it will always occupy a place among my toilet articles, as I consider it indispensable.

Signed—HENRY J. SPLENDOR.

Hospital Aid.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

It is not surprising that the Hospital Aid association should have diminished in membership during the past five years. The growth of the city has brought forward a natural increase in various civic interests, and the two or three which formerly filled the public mind have been necessarily less prominent.

The Hospital Aid association came in to being about the time the hospital was opened, nearly fifteen years ago. It was pledged to a work which appealed with equal force to every resident of our city. It was taken up with enthusiasm, and has continued steadily to meet as far as possible needs of the hospital. The association ought to be one of the largest and strongest organizations in the city. It numbered at one time almost a thousand members, and there is no good reason why it should not quite reach that high mark. Surely there are a thousand women in Quincy able to give one dollar a year to the hospital, and enroll themselves as well-wishers, even tho' circumstances prevent great activity. To revive the old interest in the good work, the present president of the association, Mrs. Joseph C. Morse, has invited all the past members, present members, and all wishing or willing to become members to meet at her beach-house at Rose Cliff next Thursday, June 29th, for a basket picnic. Particulars as to the coming or going, car time, etc., will be given early next week. It is hoped this opportunity for a reunion of the old workers and to meet the younger members will be made the most of by all interested. F. C. Babcock.

Highland Park.

The official opening day for Highland Park, Brockton, has been fixed for Monday next, June 26th. The Old Colony has arranged an opening day program that bids fair to eclipse anything ever done in this way at street railway parks. There will be attractions galore for old and young. A band concert, dancing and fireworks in the evening.

Many improvements have been made at Highland Park this year; the new attractions are numerous and all will be in running order by Monday. No trouble or expense has been spared by the Company in adding new features that will tend toward the comfort and pleasure of patrons.

Patten Not Guilty.

WEATHER FORECASTING

Fallacies of Long Range System Denounced by Experts.

EFFORTS TO SOLVE THE PROBLEM

Value of Foreknowing the Seasons So Important and So Pressing That the Weather Bureau's Chief Is Building and Equipping a Large Observatory For the Study of Intricate Atmospherical Problems.

The infinite desirability of foreknowing the seasons for the benefit of husbandmen is at once the opportunity of charlatans and the justification of national weather services. It avails little to decry the methods of impostors or to brand them as fakirs. The court of final resort must always be a comparison of results, and such comparison every one can now make for himself. Weather maps showing the actual conditions on every day are now published by practically every civilized nation and are accessible to all, and all that is needed to cure the most implicit belief in almanac predictions is an honest comparison of these predictions for a single season with the actual occurrences as shown by these maps. Conspicuous instances of failure, such as those of the artificial rain makers, who a decade ago were given the fullest opportunity to test and exploit their theories, or the colorless results of the extensive campaign of bombardment as a protection against hail, which has long been conducted in southern Europe, do not convince the credulous.

Government meteorologists are not alone in the denunciation of the fallacies, absurdities and pernicious efforts of so called long range forecasts. Professor Young, probably the foremost American astronomer, speaking of lunar influences, points out that the frequency of the moon's changes is so great that it is always easy to find instances by which to verify a belief that changes of the moon control conditions on the earth. A change of the moon necessarily occurs about once a week. All changes of the weather must, therefore, occur within three and three-fourths days of a change of the moon, and one-half of all changes ought to occur within forty-six hours of a change in the moon even if there were no causal connection whatever. Now, it requires only a very slight predisposition in favor of a belief in the effectiveness of the moon's changes to make one forget a few of the changes that occur too far from the proper time.

Unquestionably there is a general desire for an extension of the range of forecasts to cover the near future and, if possible, the coming season.

Some of the ablest scientists of the United States and Europe have devoted much time and labor to the study of this problem. They have consulted weather records of all countries, taking note of the dates of heavy storms and making comparison with the position of the moon and planets to determine if there is any discoverable connection between the movement of those minor bodies and the sweep of storm eddies in the earth's atmosphere. The consensus of opinion has been that there is no foundation of fact or philosophy for that system of long range forecasts.

Students in the primary class in meteorology learn that the ever changing phenomena of the weather are all referable to the action of the sun upon the earth and its atmosphere, vapors and gases; that the constantly radiated energy of the sun supports heat, light and electric force in the solar system.

The libraries of the United States weather bureau contain the substance and much of the detail of all that is known of weather wisdom, ancient and modern, and the scientists of this bureau certainly are familiar with the essence of this knowledge. Those who are in a position to know are well aware that every possible effort is being made to extend our knowledge of the laws that control weather conditions and meanwhile to give to those who are vitally concerned the most trustworthy information obtainable. It is a matter of common experience that the notable success of some commercial article of merit is sure to flood the market with spurious goods of the same class, which unscrupulous vendors spread before the indiscriminating public. The rapid strides of the United States weather bureau in recent years toward popular favor through the widespread dissemination of the forecasts—a service made possible largely by the phenomenal spread of the telephone and the development of the rural delivery service—have apparently given a new impetus to unscientific, not to say unscrupulous, forecasts, based upon some theory of cycles or of planetary control.

The problem of seasonal forecasts is receiving at the hands of the ablest and most painstaking students of both continents a comprehensive consideration that is certain to be fruitful and far reaching in its ultimate results.

So important and so pressing is the work and so promising is the field that the chief of the weather bureau is building and equipping a large observatory, wherein the best talent available will soon be employed to study the intricate and profound problems of the atmosphere, whose solution promises improvement over present methods and results in forecasting and may lead in time to seasonal predictions on a truly scientific basis.

The Turkish government has refused the request of the United States and Great Britain to permit the sale of Bibles in the streets of Turkish cities.

BRAINTREE.

The Braintree base ball club will play the Lovell's on French's common at 3.30 o'clock today.

The appearance of the South Braintree square has been very much improved by the painting of Studley block.

Mrs. Frank Shaw of Brockton, well known to many of our residents, died at her home Wednesday evening of pneumonia. The funeral was held in Unity church today and was attended by many of her friends and relatives of this town.

Miss Rose de Tizotte, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Paul Bergeron of Braintree and Mr. Albert A. McCarthy of Boston were united in marriage at the parochial residence Wednesday evening by Rev. C. H. O'Brien.

Miss Theresa McCue of Weymouth, and a former resident of East Braintree was married Tuesday afternoon at the parochial residence in Weymouth, by Rev. J. J. Murphy, to Mr. John J. O'Toole of Dedham.

The graduation exercises of the Monatiquot grammar school will take place at the Assembly hall of the building on Tuesday evening, the twenty-seventh.

A special car left South Braintree square this morning at 8.10 o'clock to convey the teachers and pupils of the Monatiquot school to a basket picnic at Houghs Neck.

Frederick A. Galvin of Roxbury has been selected as principal of the Noah Torrey school and has accepted the same. He is a graduate of Brown university, has taught in Providence, R. I. and the past two years has been principal of the Highlandville grammar school at Needham.

The N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. own the land and house on the north side of Elm street between the railroad track and All Souls church, and now the railroad officials will commence improvements there by tearing down the old house occupied by Mr. Drysdale and family, adjoining the church property.

The annual lawn party of All Souls church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Wales will be held this afternoon from three to six. If the weather is unfavorable, the party will be at the church.

John J. Downs of Prospect street was taken to the Carney hospital, South Boston, Saturday night and operated on for appendicitis Tuesday forenoon. At present writing he is as comfortable as could be expected.

Miss Bertha T. Davis of West Newton, who has taught History and Latin the past three years at the Braintree high school has resigned her position. Miss Della A. Hastings of Palmer, who teaches science and mathematics has also resigned.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Poore were among the number to enjoy Harvard Class Day this week.

During the thunder storm Thursday afternoon lightning struck a tree near George H. Arnold's farm and about fifteen farm hands were within a hundred feet of the tree. No one hurt.

Mrs. M. V. B. Minchin was quite severely shocked during the electrical storm Thursday. She was shutting up her chickens, when an exceedingly vivid flash of lightening came near her. She was stunned and in a semi-conscious condition for some time afterward.

Last week Josephus Sampson visited in Middleboro, at the old homestead, and while out for a walk through familiar swamp land discovered a tortoise bearing the initials I. S. and the date 1844 upon its shell. Evidently the tortoise is over 61 years old and undoubtedly the initials were cut by Mr. Sampson's father for whom they signify.

Dr. T. H. Dearing received complimentary tickets to attend on Wednesday at Lorimer hall commencement exercises of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the college of Physicians and Surgeons, of which he was a number of years dean and professor of surgery. The music and speaking at the banquet table, Young's hotel, were very fine and the Doctor's speech received great applause.

The Board of Selectmen, Board of Water Commissioners, Supt. W. E. Maybury, Hartley L. White and officials of the Old Colony Street Railway drove from South Braintree to Mayflower Park Wednesday morning to see what relocations, of the electric rails, are necessary before the laying of water pipes to the Holbrook line. Plans should be made for widening and improving Hancock and Washington streets and a double rail ought to be put in.

Of the thirty-six applicants who took the examinations for admission to Thayer academy June 17 twenty-one were not admitted, and were told that their next examination must be postponed till June 1906. All the applicants reported only one year of preparation in the High schools of Braintree, Holbrook, and Randolph though the academy catalogue every year expressly recommends two years of preparation, and the teachers find an increasing percentage of failures among those who have entered with only one year's preparation.

George A. Arnold enjoyed two days of the commencement season at Tufts this week.

Louis Wales Arnold, who has taught French and German the past two years in the Springfield high school, has accepted a position in the Boston Latin school.

At a special meeting of the school committee Thursday, Peter Ness was awarded the contract for painting the Pond, Monatiquot, Union and Jonas Perkins schools.

The members of the Washington Whist club spent Saturday and Sunday at Wessagussett the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGill where they were royally entertained.

Mr. E. B. Arnold has been appointed substitute mail carrier in place of Henry Binney who resigned.

The graduation exercises at the Penniman and Monatiquot schools will be held next Tuesday evening.

Station agent Brooks, who has been at Atlantic the past few weeks, has resumed his duties at this station.

Mrs. William Gallagher, mother of Dr. Gallagher, of Thayer academy, died in Roxbury, last Tuesday. She is survived by six sons and a daughter.

YALE DROPS DALY

Crew Loses Veteran Oarsman by Action of Faculty

New Haven, June 24.—Cornelius E. Daly, the Yale senior who has been rowing at No. 2 seat in the 'varsity eight, and was considered one of the best oarsmen in the crew, has been dropped from the college roll for "conduct improper in a member of the university." The action was taken by the faculty at a lengthy meeting.

The particular charge against Daly is based on his examination in phychology in a course offered by Professor Ladd. By the verdict of the faculty he is dismissed from the university within a few days of the time when he would have received his degree. Daly came to New Haven from Gales Ferry and left last evening after the faculty meeting for Springfield, Mass., intending to go to his home in Worcester today. His place in the Yale eight is taken by Ortmayer, who is an experienced oarsman, though not as tall or as heavy as Daly. Ortmayer has been rowing in the Yale four-oar and during a recent illness from which Daly suffered he rowed in Daly's place several times in the eight. He is, therefore, not altogether new to the position.

Brothers Have Bad Records

Brandon, Vt., June 24.—William and Merritt Herbert, brothers, aged 12 and 13 years, whose home is in Watertown, N. Y., escaped from a reform school in Watertown, came here, and were arrested while attempting to break into a store. They escaped from the Brandon lockup and later, it is alleged, placed a boulder on the Rutland tracks, which was seen just in time by the engineer of a train to prevent a wreck. The boys are in custody again, charged with attempting to wreck a train.

Life Sentence For Murder

Boston, June 24.—Ray C. Johnson, a native of Burlington, Vt., was sentenced to the state prison for life for shooting and killing Mrs. Sarah A. Peters in this city. He was convicted of murder in the second degree. A stay of proceedings had been granted to enable his counsel to carry the case to the supreme court on exceptions, which were overruled.

Manslaughter Case Goes Over

Providence, June 24.—The case of John MacDonald, a milkman, accused of the manslaughter of Ellen Shanley, 3 months old, through the alleged agency of adulterated milk, has been continued until Aug. 15 in the district court here. MacDonald was convicted on a charge of selling adulterated milk and fined $20 and costs.

PAUL MORTON AND THOMAS F. RYAN

Personal Side of Leading Figures In the Reorganization of the Equitable Society.

Of Simple Tastes, Strenuous In Accomplishments and Alert to Business Opportunities Is the Life Assurance Association's New Chairman.

A Man of Remarkable Energy, Whose Friends Say He Is "a Hog For Work." How He Rose From Office Boy to Vice President of a Great Railroad — Characteristics of Thomas F. Ryan.

By C. B. ETHERINGTON

IN the reorganization of the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance society the two men chiefly concerned are Paul Morton, secretary of the navy, and Thomas F. Ryan, the New York street railway magnate, the former by his appointment as chairman of the board of directors of the Equitable Life and the latter as the head of a syndicate in control of the Equitable through purchase from James Hazen Hyde of the stock held by Mr. Hyde, which ruled the destinies of the society.

Mr. Ryan declares that his motive in buying the control of the Equitable is to establish public confidence in the society and to secure the rights of the policy holders. To put an end to this loss of confidence which affects a great public trust of over $400,000,000, representing the savings of more than 600,000 policy holders, Mr. Ryan, together with other policy holders, has placed the Hyde stock in the hands of a board of trustees with power to vote it for the election of directors, as to twenty-eight of the fifty-two directors, in accordance with the instructions of the society's policy holders, and as to the remaining twenty-four directors in accordance with the uncontrolled judgment of the trustees.

As trustees for the policy holders ex-President Grover Cleveland, Judge Morgan J. O'Brien of New York and George Westinghouse of Pittsburg have been asked to act on the board, and all have agreed to serve.

From office boy at $16 a month to second vice president of a great railroad system at $35,000 a year, surrendering this to become secretary of the navy in President Roosevelt's cabinet and finally resigning to become the head of the Equitable Life board of directors at a rumored salary of from $50,000 to $150,000 a year, is the record of Paul Morton in the forty-eight years of his life.

First Ambition Was to Drive a Stage.

Although he was born in Detroit, Mich., on May 22, 1857, Mr. Morton's babyhood and a large part of his manhood were spent in Nebraska. He is the eldest son of the late J. Sterling Morton, who was secretary of agriculture during President Cleveland's second term, and his first ambition was to be a wagon boss or stage driver.

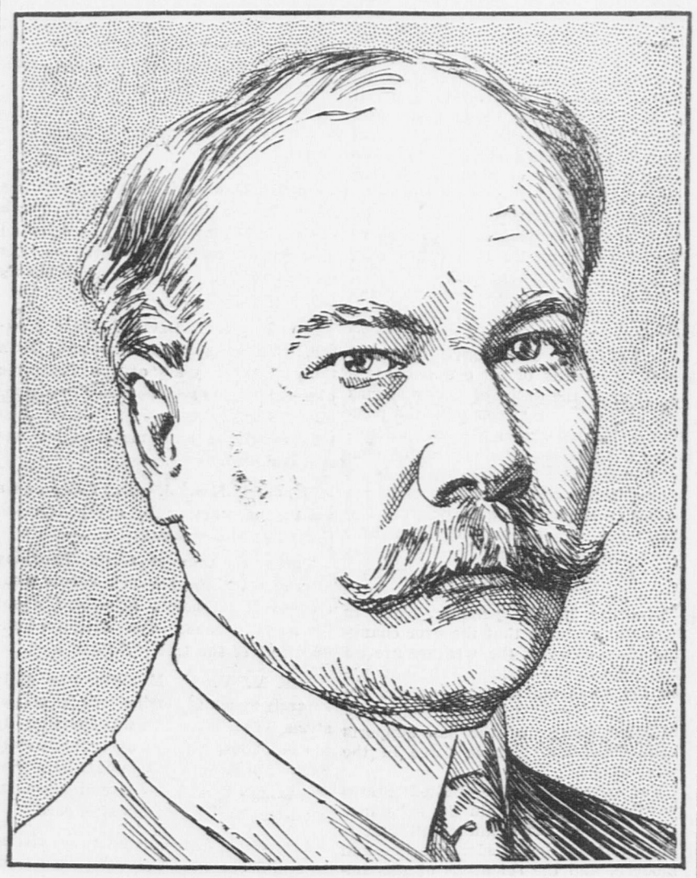

Boyish pranks back in the sixties nearly deprived the United States of a future cabinet minister and the Equitable of its new head. One day Joy Morton, elder brother of Paul, started to "play doctor" and "get square" with the world for some bitter doses that had been poured down his boyish throat. He chose Paul for his patient, produced a bottle from the family medicine kit, donned his father's hat and spectacles and entered the room where the patient had been put to bed. After this professional visit Paul was discovered to be unconscious. When Joy was questioned about the day's doings, it transpired that he had given his brother laudanum, and only through the real family doctor's heroic work was Paul's life saved.

Vigorous In Mind and Brimful of Energy

Paul attended school until he was nearly sixteen, and then, in 1872, he became an office boy in the Burlington and Missouri River railroad's land office at Burlington, Ia., at $16 a month. Vigorous in mind and body and brimful of energy, he achieved his career by a combination of industry and native keenness. This advancement was steady and rapid in western railroad work, and in 1896 he was installed as vice president of the Santa Fe railroad system and took charge of its entire traffic. This position he held until he became secretary of the navy last June.

Always eager, alert and intelligent Morton never lost a business opportunity for himself or the corporations which he served. In this connection a characteristic story is related of the manner in which he became general freight agent of the Burlington road. At that time he was a bureau chief in the general offices of the company, and, together with other bureau chiefs, he was summoned one day into the general manager's office and informed that the general freight agent had resigned. Suggestions as to the choice of a successor were asked for by the general manager.

"I know the very man you want," said Morton, "and his name is Paul Morton."

PAUL MORTON.

The suggestion was accepted, and Morton was appointed to the position.

Energetic as a Young Man.

Mr. Morton's energy as a youth is depicted by the following story:

With only a common school education, Paul at the age of sixteen was booming western real estate as land agent for the Burlington railway system. He was working on salary and commission.

"How much did you make this month?" his father asked him one day.

Young Morton took out an account book and added some figures. "About $400," he replied.

"I didn't know what to say," his father used to remark in telling the story. "I didn't know whether to be proud of such a boy or ashamed of a man who would let such a youngster get ahead of him and make more money than he did."

Scorn for obstacles is one of the most noticeable characteristics about Paul Morton. A story is told about a gate through a railway that fenced off a part of an office in which Mr. Morton worked at one time. This gate had a mysterious patent fastener that would not work unless one knew the right spot and touched it. Preoccupied with business matters, Morton bumped against that gate day after day. Finally in one of his swinging strides he broke the lock and was evidently pleased. Yet he was not satisfied, so thereafter he daily used his foot and played football with the gate until its hinges were broken, and the janitor was ordered to carry it away.

A Remarkable Proceeding.

A story that illustrates Morton's grim sense of humor is told as follows: One day when he returned from a cabinet meeting his secretary pointed out a pile of documents and asked him to affix his name. Morton took up one of the letters, carefully inspected it and then gravely asked his secretary where he should sign it.

"Why, in the same place you always sign," answered the scribe, surprised.

"But do you think it safe?" asked Mr. Morton.

"Safe!" exclaimed his secretary. "Why, I don't know what you mean."

"I can bet a good round sum you don't," replied the naval chief. "But you step across the hall and tell the assistant secretary of the navy to come around. Then get the judge advocate of this department, and if you should see any admirals or bureau chiefs bring them hither."

The secretary was astonished.

"I mean every word," Mr. Morton persisted, solemn as an owl. "If I sign those papers I may go to jail. I suppose I must take some risks in the line of my duty, but I intend to secure all the advice on the subject that can be procured in this department. I won't be rash anyway."

The papers related to the transportation of supplies for the Mare Island navy yard across the continent to California, and only after a humorous consultation for half an hour with various officials did Mr. Morton sign the papers and hand them to the waiting messenger of the chief clerk. All this time messengers, clerks and others who had heard of the affair were waiting amazed for the termination of such a remarkable proceeding.

Mr. Morton has been essentially a business man and has never, it is said, run to fads or foibles. While he has maintained a modest stable, he is in no sense a horseman; neither has he been prominently identified with yachting or golfing. He is a man of simple tastes and strenuous accomplishments. Even in his younger days in Chicago he was never known to smoke or drink, it is said, and his only recreation used to be a quiet game of cards on Saturday evenings. He has a keen sense of humor, but he has never been accused of being a practical joker. The Western Freight association to this day is known as "the great reduction works," a name Mr. Morton gave it when it agreed on a tariff schedule that did not meet his views.

"A Hog For Work."

As a worker Morton does not believe in letting anything drift along for a week if it can be settled in a day. He believes in short cuts instead of roundabout methods. Facts and figures are vastly superior to him than theories and fancies. An expression that Morton's friends use when speaking of him is that he is "a hog for work."

Thomas F. Ryan, who is in control of the Equitable, has been associated with large financial interests almost since his boyhood. His chief characteristic probably, next to an indomitable will, is secretiveness and distaste for publicity. He was born in Nelson county, Va., in 1851. His mother died when he was five years old, and he went to live with his grandmother.

Made His Way From Poverty.

Young Ryan left the homestead and went to Baltimore in 1868 to seek his fortune. Without money or friends, he had a hard row to hoe. By perseverance he finally secured a position with a dry goods commission house. Not long afterward he obtained a place in a bank, and two years later he struck out for New York, where he formed a partnership with a stockbroker and prospered so well that in 1874 he bought a seat on the Stock Exchange. Thus he became associated with men like Jay Gould, William R. Travers, Samuel J. Tilden and others of large influence.

With the late William C. Whitney, Mr. Ryan in 1886 began the work of obtaining and consolidating New York city's surface railway lines. Since then he has taken a prominent part in developing and organizing steam railroads, in consolidating and extending electric street railways and lighting plants and in managing many industrial and financial institutions both in the east and west.

Fond of Raising Cattle and Dogs.

Mr. Ryan was married in 1873 and has five sons. He has a city home in New York, and at Suffern, N. Y., he has a fine farm, at which he spends as much of his time as possible. His chief diversion is the raising of Holstein cattle, and he also takes much pride in his kennels.

In manners Mr. Ryan is singularly courtly. He has an amiable smile, smooth address and an attentive bearing. With big smiling blue eyes, powerful nose, firm month, strong jaws and large head, he is a handsome figure, tall, broad shouldered and deep chested.

Such, then, is the man who has added to his gigantic interests another so big that the world has made it a subject of speculation—that of bringing order out of the Equitable chaos.

Why Run the Hazard of accepting personal security upon a bond, when corporate security is vastly superior?

The personal surety may be financially strong to-day and insolvent to-morrow; or he may die, and his estate be immediately distributed. In any event, recovery is dilatory and uncertain.

Because of its greater stability, the United States Government prefers Corporate Suretyship; and many firms require it of their bonded employees.

The American Surety Company, capitalized at $2,500,000, is the strongest Surety Company in existence, and the only one whose sole business is to furnish Suretyship Bonds. Apply to University Crews Working Hard to Prepare For Championship Regatta at Poughkeepsie, June 28---Ill Luck For Syracuse Lads.

Crew work at the universities progresses merrily on. Yale is having fair luck but has lost Chase from the varsity boat again. It is likely that this unfortunate young man is the victim of the same circumstances which [illegible] him out of the eight last year. He was yanked out just before the race went to New London because of his poor standing in studies.

W. A. SCHICK, CHAMPION SPRINTER.

[Schick is one of the greatest sprinters Harvard has produced in several years. In the recent intercollegiate championship meet at Philadelphia he won the 100 and 220 yard dashes.]

Harvard has quite recovered from the flurry caused by the announcement that the crimson athletes had been permitted to break training for a week and that the men were dissatisfied with Jim Wray. There was a slight mix because the Senior Weld crew persisted in beating the first varsity boat and, as it was coached by Rice, a Harvard man, it was thought that he was proving that his system was better than that of Wray.

The intercollegiate rowing regatta at Poughkeepsie will take place on June 28 instead of July 1. Holding the race on a Wednesday is accounted a better thing all round, especially if there is any celebrating to be done after the regatta. Sunday morning is very quiet in Poughkeepsie, and those who want to rejoice will be glad that the date has been changed. The real reason is that it was considered unwise by the railroad company to run regatta trains on the two days preceding July 4, when the traffic increases.

MARSHALL, GREAT YALE JUMPER.

Syracuse university's uninterrupted good luck this year has had a check put on it. Rice, 7, and Hale, 6, in the first varsity boat, are so sick that they will not be able to row in the big race. Both men are veterans of last year's winning eight, and their loss will severely cripple the boat.

MRS ROGERS' FATE

...e Will Be Decided by Supreme Court In October

THANKS FOR GOOD NEWS

Murderess Showed No Sign of Breakdown When Notified of Reprieve--She Enjoys Limited Freedom in Woman's Ward

Windsor, Vt., June 24.—Sheriff Peck, Attorney General Fitts, Superintendent Lovell and the attorneys for Mary Rogers, the thrice reprieved convicted slayer of her husband, have received a citation from Washington summoning them to appear before the United States supreme court on Oct. 8, when the woman's right to freedom or the justice of her condemnation will be argued.

Yesterday, for the first time since November last, when Mrs. Rogers was taken to the condemned cell to await the execution, she enjoyed the limited freedom of the women's ward. After months of nerve-racking solitary confinement, she has been given a glimpse of her fellow prisoners and made to feel that for a time, at least, she is no longer as one set apart from her fellow mortals.

Her removal to the women's wing came when Sheriff Peck read the official reprieve that may pave her path to freedom. As the sheriff paused in conclusion there was silence for a moment, and then the prisoner spoke.

"I thank you all for the good news that Sheriff Peck has brought," she said. "You have all been very kind to me here, especially Miss Durkee, and I know that everyone has tried to help me in this case. I thank all who had any part in securing me the reprieve. I feel certain now that I shall not die upon the scaffold."

This was all. There was no sign of any breakdown or any great emotion in the stolid, swarthy countenance of the woman. She smiled pleasantly in turn at each in the cell, and then, after shaking hands, lapsed into the same calm and listless demeanor that has characterized her long stay in the Windsor jail.

As the visitors started to leave the cell Miss Durkee spoke up, "Come, Mary, we're going to leave this place now," was the way that the matron announced the happy change. For a moment the prisoner paused and glanced slowly about her gloomy quarters, and then, without a word, she passed with her from the death cell.

No more solitary confinement for Mary Rogers, no more labor, hard or light. As a ward of the United States, placed temporarily in charge of the authorities at Windsor, she will be given the best of treatment and used with every care until the United States supreme court passes upon the question of her liberty or death.

Yesterday afternoon, under the direction of Sheriff Peck and Superintendent Lovell, the gallows, which ever since its erection has been partially concealed by a cloth covering, was again taken down, and every prisoner in Windsor jail who has been compelled to pass within sight of the sinister framework on his way to and from the workshops is breathing freer because of the removal of the ugly token of death.

Highwaymen Held Up Car

Chicago, June 24.—Passengers on a Chicago and Milwaukee electric car were robbed by two men last night while the car was passing through the suburb of Winetka. The men stopped the car at a lonely place, and searched the passengers, the motorman and the conductor. They obtained in all $65 and a watch from the motorman. After the robbery the men jumped into a buggy and drove away.

Fate of Depositors In Doubt

Philadelphia, June 24.—Albert L. Tabor, temporary receiver of the City Trust, Safe Deposit and Surety company, which closed its doors Wednesday, says that the deposits amount to $1,470,347, while a rough estimate of the sure assets will aggregate $1,525,000. The fate of the depositors, however, will depend a great deal on the way the surety bonds of the company turn out.

Must Settle For Stock Losses

Philadelphia, June 24.—A decision filed in common pleas court here compels the estate of Senah Thayer to bear all losses in stock speculation by Richard H. Reilly, a former executor and trustee. These, in the form of debts to a stock brokerage firm, amount to $41,-001.42. The stock brokers hold securities owned by the estate, pledged as collateral by Reilly, valued at $100,000.

Oil Concerns Closely Related

St. Louis, June 24.—The testimony at the hearing of the suit instituted in the state supreme court by Attorney General Hadley of Missouri to revoke the charters of the Standard Oil company, the Waters-Pierce Oil company and the Republic Oil company, tended to show the close relations existing between the Standard and the Waters-Pierce companies.

New York, June 24.—Lively discussion marked a session of the Long Island council of the Royal Arcanum, the second largest branch of the order, held last night. A motion was carried to send a protest to the grand council of the state against the new scale of rates adopted by the supreme council.

Pattern For Girl's Apron Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4666

Simple, practical and convenient are the salient features of the apron designed for the little daughter who is her mother's help in the daily household duties, or for wear when she is having a "tea party" for dolly's benefit. These aprons in white or checked gingham are most needful in keeping the pretty frock clean and neat. Busy mothers will appreciate the simplicity of this design, for it means only the seaming under the arm, turning the hems and arranging the shoulder strap in position, and the apron is made. Holland cloth, linen, gingham and lawn are materials suggested. Sizes 5 to 12 years.

How Jeremy Went to the Circus

IT was an untoward accident that placed Jeremy Todhunter in such a position that he was unable to carry out his plans with regard to the triple shows of Bombastes & Furioso, which were to appear under one canvas in the field not half a mile from his home. In making his way across a pasture lot he had stepped into a hole made by an industrious though not farseeing mole and had hurt his foot. In some circumstances such a calamity would have been a blessing, for it would have meant freedom from school, guava jelly and leisure to read "Treasure Island" and "The Life of Napoleon Bonaparte."

The attractions of Messrs. Bombastes & Furioso were due, and the only method by which Jeremy had hoped to get under the single canvas was by carrying water to any and all elephants who might happen to be with the highly moral and instructive exhibition. It is beyond the ability of a boy of fourteen on crutches to act in the capacity of bucket carrier and also to dispute his official title with pretenders. There is an unwritten law of the country that the youth who lives nearest to the tented city is superintendent of water supply for the menagerie. Bombastes & Furioso's day dawned at about 4 o'clock, and Jeremy was roused by the rumble of wagons along the dusty road. He dressed himself and hobbled down to the kitchen, where he found his mother radiant over the construction of five dried apple pies. She had placed them on the ledge of a kitchen window to cool.

"Jeremy Todhunter," said she, "don't you go mooning around that show, you with your damaged foot. It's no place, and if anything like a panic should come where would you be? No, my son, you just stay right where you are and protect them pies, for I do hear tell that desperit characters follow these circuses."

"It's a moral show," interposed Jeremy, "and the clergy indorse it from sea to sea."

"Never you talk, son; you mind them pies."

Mrs. Todhunter took a pair of milk pails and disappeared to attend to certain chores.

Jeremy sat by the door, and it may be that he nodded, for he awoke with a start to see one of the pies disappear over the window ledge. He leaped to his one sound foot and waved a crutch.

"You thief!" he cried.

The thief looked at him with a twinkle in his small and guileful eyes and waved his trunk. Standing in the yard back of the Todhunter home was the largest elephant which had ever appeared in the neighborhood of Forbesbarrow. Astride the neck of the beast was a slightly built young man sound asleep. The elephant pried a section of crust loose in order to get a firmer hold on the underlying pan and with a quick motion slid another pie into the cavern which served as his mouth.

The next move in the direction of the window ledge was stopped by a sharp blow from a crutch delivered on the end of the elephant's trunk. The beast trumpeted and swayed from side to side and the keeper woke with a start.

"Say, I'm sorry to hurt an elephant," said the boy soberly, "indeed I am. I never thought I could do it, but I was told to guard those pies."

The slight young man slid to the earth over the pachyderm's ear.

"Must have been asleep," he said, rubbing his eyes. "It's a question of piety and duty, eh?"

"You must be the clown," replied the boy.

"It was a bad joke," answered the keeper. "I started in with this circus as a mahout, and I am graduating to chalk face and large feet. What do you intend to do? Sue the show for damages?"

"No," replied the boy, "that would hardly be right, and, besides, if I could afford to hire a lawyer I would rather buy a circus ticket with the money."

The keeper softly whistled. He rolled a washtub into the middle of the yard, turned it upside down and gave an order to the elephant. The animal, after some hesitation, sat down on the tub.

"My name is Slivers," said the slim young man, "and this is Gimp."

The elephant rose, bowed and resumed his seat.

"And I have the honor," continued Slivers, "of addressing"—

"Jeremy Todhunter," was the reply.

"You assert," resumed Slivers, "that certain damage has been done to pies consigned to your care through the carelessness of one of the servants of the Bombastes & Furioso Triple Shows and Moral Hippodrome. As yet it is too early to tell the effect which said pies may have had on the elephant. Of course if the beast dies it will cost you about a million dollars, to say nothing of the funeral expenses. I'm not entirely satisfied but what those pies are dangerous to life and limb. I consider it my duty to make a test."

Slivers arose and cut a quadrant of flakiness.

"Good enough for any man's breakfast," he said after a pause. "I am willing to compromise this matter by taking the rest of them. Otherwise you will have to sue the circus or be sued by B. & F. It is a dilemma with tusks, isn't it?"

The elephant nodded his head and rolled from side to side.

"MY NAME IS SLIVERS," SAID THE YOUNG MAN.

"That sounds as though it was all right," replied the custodian of the pies, "but it isn't. I didn't ask your elephant to eat pies. Did I invite him to sit down on that washtub, which will be broken all to pieces maybe and never hold water again?"

"That is quite true," replied Slivers, "but you placed temptation in the way of a hitherto upright animal. You let him acquire the pie habit before you intervened."

Slivers cut out another quarter and took an enthusiastic bite, as though to show the correctness of his view.

"I don't want you to go to law on this matter," he continued, "for I could never endure the idea of being asked to appear in court. Could we not induce you to settle this matter, Mr. Todhunter, taking it for granted, of course, that the arrangement meets the approval of the person whom you represent in this transaction?"

Back of the group was heard the clatter of milk pails, and a voice cried out, "For the land's sake!"

Slivers rose and gravely bowed.

"Madam," he said, "pardon this early call; but, lured by the delectable odor of your pies, Gimp, who is fed while in winter quarters with only the best pastry, could not be restrained from making a bee-line for your model kitchen. To make good the damage which he has caused I offer an order for tickets. Is that satisfactory?"

"It is, Mr. Circus Man," replied Mrs. Todhunter, "and you can hev all them pies you want. Hev you had breakfast? Why, this is better than the show itself!"

Gimp winked gravely and grabbed another pan. That afternoon saw the pie maker and pie guardian drive in a red express wagon to the triplex shows of Bombastes & Furioso. There was no more appreciative spectator of the antics of Gimp, the educated elephant, than Jeremy Todhunter. — New York Herald.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Quincy will have a table at the garden party of the Daly Industrial school at Dorchester July 15.

Several Wollaston people attended the Rindge Manual Training school graduation at Cambridge last week.

One acre of standing grass at Mt. Wollaston farm will be sold by Auctioneer Johnson on Monday afternoon, July 3.

Miss Gallagher will be in charge of the Quincy and East Milton booth at the garden party today for the Free Home for Consumptives at Dorchester.

The Sunday school and parish of First church are to hold a picnic at Highland park next Friday. The start will be made from the church soon after nine. Each one will take a box lunch.

The Epworth League held its lawn party in the vestry which was trimmed with ferns and branches and lighted by Japanese lanterns. A large company was present and the enterprise a success socially and financially.

Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 the W. C. T. U. will be held with Mrs. Gilbert Rhodes, 9 Old Colony avenue. Subject: "Reports from District Meetings." As this is the last meeting of the season it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

The Forget-me-not club has always been a generous giver to the Quincy Day Nursery work, contributing recently eight dollars and fifty-two cents, and it is with regret that the members of the Nursery association learn that the club has disbanded.

BAR HARBOR.

The Early Days of This Now Famous Maine Summer Resort.

In 1688 Mount Desert and its neighborhood were granted by the French to a man named Cadillac. When Acadia was finally as a result of that long war relinquished to England it was given to Governor Bernard, but as this gentleman when the Revolution broke out was loyal to King George the estate was confiscated. Meanwhile M. Bartholomew Gregoire and his wife, Maria Theresa, who was the granddaughter of the original grantee, revived the claim of Cadillac, and it was allowed.

For years the island remained a solitary place, with long stretches of unbroken forests into whose labyrinths no stranger dared venture without a guide, its land uncleared, its future undreamed of, but artists, weary of the commonplace, found out the spot and bore to dwellers in towns glimpses of its wild charms, and now and then a world worn, brain spent man would steal away to seek the island's solitude and stimulus. These seekers for beauty or health would carry their own camp outfit or later would patronize the hotels.

The first summer cottage there was built on a site that was bought for $300. When fashion had put her stamp of approval upon the place land that would not have brought a dime an acre during the time of the Gregoires was sold at from $25,000 to upward of $100,000 an acre.—Four Track News.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

So pronounced has been the success scored by the Empire Musical Comedy Company in its presentation, under the general direction of Adolphe Mayer, of "Jack and the Beanstalk," at the Empire theatre, Boston, that a second week was deemed imperative. Consequently for the week beginning Monday, June 26, this delightful musical extravaganza will again be the attraction. "Jack and the Beanstalk" has been presented on several different occasions in Boston, but never has it been given under happier auspices, or with a more capable cast. "Jack and the Beanstalk," by R. A. Barnet and A. Baldwin Sloane, is a merry potpourri of melody, sparkling dialogue, droll characters and pretty mise-on scenes; it plea-es the children and it delights their elders. For the former, it serves as living pictures from their nursery books; and for the latter it brings back childhood memories in good, healthy, happy fashion. It is, therefore, small wonder that during the current week the Empire theatre has been crowded by audiences bubbling over with good nature and with enthusiasm.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The management of the Castle Square Theatre again shows a desire to present its patrons with attractions of exceptional merit by announcing a production of the dramatization of "The Deemster" next week. This stage version of Hall Caine's greatest romantic novel is known as "Ben My Chree" and was made by the author and Wilson Barrett, having its first American production at the Boston Theatre in 1889. In selecting the Isle of Man for the scene of action of his novel Hall Caine brought this quaint old locality into unusual prominence and made the world familiar with the laws and customs of a most interesting people. When the play was first introduced to America it was highly praised as a most admirable stage presentation of the thrillingly effective story of "The Deemster," and the strong dramatic character of the novel proved admirably suited for its performances behind the footlights. The management of the Castle Square Theatre promise an elaborate production of this play with due care in presenting the curious customs of the Manxmen introduced in the development of the plot.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

An actor who is a pronounced favorite with theatregoers, will be the principal entertainer in the Keith program the week of June 26. He is Frank Keenan, known far and wide as "the Sol Smith Russell of the varieties," who will make his appearance in a one-act play entitled, "At the Threshold," which is considered by critics everywhere to be one of the best little plays ever seen in vaudeville. The surrounding show will be one of the strongest and best of the season, including Mlle. Chester and her $10,000 statue dog, in the unique novelty, "Pictures of the Hunt;" Searl and Violet Allen, in the comedy talking, singing and dancing sketch, "The Sign Painter;" Aurie Dagwell, "The Girl of '61," in character songs; Niblo and Riley, conversational comedians; Gallando, a comic and artistic claymoulder, and Stone and Lind, comedy club jugglers and exponents of physical culture. The Fadette Woman's orchestra, who are far more popular than ever will make an entire change of selections, and a complete new list of comedy and interesting motion pictures will be shown in the biograph.

Rout of the War Party

St. Petersburg, June 24.—A prominent Russian statesman, who is convinced that peace will be the outcome of the Washington meeting, said to a press correspondent: "Japan surely can no longer doubt the sincerity of the emperor's desire to conclude peace. Admiral Alexieff's retirement marks the final rout of the war party. For Japan to refuse an armistice and force another big battle now would make her responsible for the wanton sacrifice of thousands of lives."

Testimony Against Senator Mitchell

Portland, Or., June 24.—In the trial of Senator Mitchell, charged with practicing before federal departments while a senator, the prosecution's chief witness, A. H. Tanner, Mitchell's law partner, told of agreements made by himself with Krebs and Benson to expedite timber claims through the general land office in Washington and the application of the fees received therefrom to the earnings of the firm, Mitchell receiving half of the net income.

Reid Popular In England

London, June 24.—American Ambassador Reid, who has been officially received by King Edward and the members of the cabinets and entertained socially by royalty and the leaders of English society, made his first public appearance as ambassador at a dinner given in his honor last night by the Pilgrims' society of London. The gathering was most notable and the heartiest welcome was given to the American representative.

Aldermen's Power Curtailed

New York, June 24.—Judge Blanchard of the supreme court has sustained the constitutionality of the laws passed by the last legislature, depriving the board of aldermen of this city of the power to act upon franchises and vesting that power in the board of estimate and apportionment.

Will Remain In Cuban Hospital

Havana, June 24.—Former Congressman George F. Williams of Boston, who is at the Animas fever hospital suffering with erysipelas of the right leg and inflammation of the veins, continues to improve. He says that he will remain in the hospital until completely cured.

Vesuvius on the Rampage

Naples, June 24.—The prefect has ordered the population in the vicinity of Mount Vesuvius to prepare to leave their homes, owing to an alarming increase in the discharges from the crater.

MISS UNDERWOOD WINS.

Will be One of Thirty Teachers on Herald Trip to the Pacific.

Number Three in District and in New England with Grand Total of 252,460 Votes.

The Sunday Herald had very pleasing news for Quincy people who have worked day in and day out for the success of Miss Julia E. Underwood in the great School contest, for she was one of the three successful teachers in the "Greater Boston Grammar district."

More votes were required to win in this district than in any of the ten, so that while Miss Underwood was third in the district she was also third in New England. Her grand total was 252,460 votes, and she was within 35,000 of the leader, as will be seen by these totals:

Alice J. Spaulding, Everett,	287,092
Mary A. Connor, Brookline,	257,162
Julia E. Underwood, Quincy,	252,460

At the same time Miss Underwood was nearly 100,000 ahead of her nearest rival in the district, the teacher from Malden, who had 153,696 votes.

The leader in the Massachusetts High school district, Miss Grant of Woburn, who finished fourth among the teachers, had 198,544 votes, over 50,000 behind Miss Uuderwood. Miss Collins, of Lawrence, who led the Massachusetts grammar district had 195,665, while in other districts the leaders had but 109,521, 83,126, 57,467, 56,009, 39,787, 36,175 and 27,110.

The fact that Miss Underwood accummulated 252,460 votes during the sixteen weeks of the contest (nearly 16,000 per week) shows that she is held in high esteem, and that there must have been considerable hustling among her friends.

The Coddington school won third prize in the district, and will be awarded eight valuable works of art, viz:

Relief—Boys Singing and playing. Lucca della Robbia, in Florence, 102x95 centimetres.

Bust—Child Laughing, Donatello, in Paris, 34 centimetres high.

Statue—Lorenzo de Medici, after Michael Angelo, 45 centimetres high.

Relief—Parthenon Horsemen, in the British Museum, London, 42x71 centimetres.

Bust—Young Augustus, in Rome, 52 centimetres high.

Statue—Venus Genetrix, in Paris, 67 centimetres high.

Bust—Jupiter Otricoli, in the Vatican, 67 centimetres high.

Bust—Niobe, in Florence 27 centimetres high.

By agreement, all these works of arts will be distributed among the Quincy schools according to the support which they gave the Coddington, the latter having the successful teacher waives all claim to a prize.

The second pupils' prize in the district goes to Henry C. Prescott, one of this year's graduates from the Coddington, who will divide with Lucien Thayer of Wollaston as per agreement.

Only six pupils in New England gathered more coupons during the contest than Master Prescott, although there were 2853 pupils competing.

The successful teachers thirty in number, will leave Boston, July 5 for the Lewis & Clark World's Fair at Portland, Oregon, travelling by the Boston & Maine R. R. to Montreal, and via the Canadian Pacific Ry, to the Pacific coast. It is the intention of several Quincy people to go to Boston to see Miss Underwood off.

Elsewhere in this issue Miss Underwood returns thanks for the handsome vote which she received. Mr. Prescott and the Daily Ledger hereby desire to extend thanks also for the ready response which the people made in behalf of Miss Underwood. Seldom has Quincy been so united in its efforts as on this occasion, and it illustrated what may be done with a popular candidate, a little push and publicity through the local press.

Master Henry Prescott, the winner of the pupil's prize is happy over the result, and also wishes to thank all who contributed to his success.

The success of Miss Underwood is the more gratifying, because it was not necessary to purchase coupons. She won solely on her wide acquaintance; her friends being early apprised that their help was expected, and not a vote was purchased so far as known.

Some little coaxing will yet be necessary to convince Miss Underwood that she should take the trip, but her friends will not accept a declination.

Card of Thanks.

Editors of the Daily Ledger.

Again I desire to thank, heartily, my many friends for their interest in me. The great school contest of the Boston Herald in which I was a somewhat unwilling candidate, has renewed many old acquaintances, and it has been very gratifying to me to have their loyal support.

To roll up a grand total of 252,460 votes in sixteen weeks is a great surprise to me. Even now I cannot understand how it was accomplished. But I am told that votes came from everywhere; from all parts of Quincy; from all parts of Massachusetts; from all the New England states; from New York, Ohio and California, and even one from Paris, France.

I desire to return sincere thanks to one and all, many of whom I do not know even by name, but especially to Mr. Frank F. Prescott, who conducted the campaign; to the Coddington teachers and pupils, past and present; to the people of Quincy, young and old; to Mrs. Alma G. Pierce who was a Milton candidate, and Miss Clara E. Kelley who was a North Attleboro candidate, both of whom transferred thousands of votes to me; to Geo. W. Prescott & Son who without cost printed the bulk of the votes; and to the local press, and to the hundreds of others who contributed to the grand total—252,460.

The eight works of art to be presented by the Herald to the Quincy schools will long be reminders of a well fought contest in which Quincy was united and won.

INTERCLUB RACE.

Honors Divided Among the Different Yacht Clubs.

The second of the interclub races between the Quincy, Wollaston and Squantum clubs was sailed Saturday, under the auspices of the Wollaston club. There was a good number of boats out but a light breeze deflected somewhat from the interest.

There were three entries in Class A, and the Harriet was the first to cross the line at the finish, but was given second position on time allowance.

In Class B there were twelve starters and the race was an interesting one. All the old rivals were out and it was a fight from start to finish.

Councilman Sawyer in the Eclipse was the first to cross the line at the finish beating the Marvel 34 seconds on elapsed time. The Eclipse, however, is a large boat, and has to allow considerable so that corrected time placed her in fourth place, and gave the Marvel first money.

Stranger which finished fourth, got second position on corrected time, and Commodore Crane of the Quincy club in the Dorothy III was in third place.

Class C had six starters. Primrose crossed the line first at the finish and West Wind second. Corrected time, however, changed this position, giving Vice-Commodore Chase of the West Wind first place.

Woodward Alumnae.

The Woodward Alumnae held its annual meeting in Woodward hall Saturday evening, Mrs. George Follett, the president, presiding. Business questions were discussed embracing amount of dues, expenditures for refreshments and the election of one member from each class to see that dues of that class are paid. Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Miss Eugenia Hatch, president; Miss Mollie Rodgers, vice-president; Miss Rachael Doble, treasurer; Miss Mabel Drew, secretary; Miss Mary Dinegan, fifth member.

Following the business meeting was a short musical program. Miss Mabel Drew rendered several vocal solos which were well appreciated and roundly encored. Miss Eugenia Hatch accompanied, giving a brief instrumental treat afterward. Dancing and refreshments followed. Nearly all classes were represented.

THE PEACE MOVE

Date of Envoys' Meeting Submitted to the Czar

FIRST PART OF AUGUST

Armistice Pending Conference Considered Improbable--Japan May Have 600,000 Men on Battlefield--Anxious to Conclude a Lasting Peace

St. Petersburg, June 26.—Negotiations for the peace conference have taken an important step forward, a proposition for the date of the meeting of the plenipotentiaries at Washington having been submitted to Russia and being now under consideration. The exact date proposed has not been ascertained, but there is reason to suppose that it is some time during the first part of August, which is about the earliest period in which the Japanese representatives can be expected to reach Washington, allowing reasonable time for the acceptance of the proposal and the interchange of the nominations of plenipotentiaries.

The czar's answer is not expected for a day or two, as the diplomatic mills of Russia grind slowly and the foreign office, as one of the secretaries put it, "is not used to your hustling American methods;" but it is thought that the date will be satisfactory, as it will give ample time for Russian negotiators to reach Washington and as there will be little preliminary work for them to do until the Japanese terms are submitted.

Whether the proposals regarding the date originated at Tokio or at Washington cannot be learned, but the fact that the negotiations were conducted through Ambassador Meyer may indicate that President Roosevelt has perhaps again stepped to the fore and suggested to the two powers, neither of whom would be willing to take the initiative, a suitable date.

Ambassador Meyer is still exchanging communications with Foreign Minister Lamsdorff by letter, the minister being confined to his apartments, but in his latest note Lamsdorff expresses the hope that he would have sufficiently recovered to permit of personal exchange of views today. The minister's indisposition also prevented him from receiving the German, French and other subsequent ambassadors during the last few days.

M. Nereatoff, under minister of foreign affairs and the spokesman of the foreign office, declares an armistice pending the meeting of the plenipotentiaries is improbable, and he comments on the possibility of a battle taking place before a conference is held.

The Russky Invalid, the army organ, supplies an argument for peace in an estimate of the strength of the Japanese armies, which it places at from 550,000 to 600,000 men, including the forces operating in Korea. In the five Japanese armies opposing General Linevitch, exclusive of cavalry and artillery, it estimates that there are from 430,000 to 450,000 bayonets, which give Field Marshal Oyama a decided numerical superiority over the strength usually allotted to Linevitch's army. The Japanese forces, it says, are divided as follows: General Kuroki, 115,000 to 120,000 bayonets; General Oku, 110,000 to 115,000 bayonets; General Nogi, 85,000 to 90,000 bayonets; General Nodzu, 45,000 bayonets, and General Kawamura between 73,000 and 80,000 bayonets.

The Novoe Vremya prints an interview which its correspondent at Paris had with a Japanese diplomat who says that, while nobody outside of the Emperor of Japan and his principal advisers is yet in possession of Japan's terms, he believes that they are moderate and will be acceptable. He adds that Japan is anxious to conclude a lasting peace, but that her attitude is not influenced by the slightest doubt as to her financial ability to continue the war, she having anticipated a much longer and more difficult period of hostilities.

Russian Cruiser Sinks Steamer

Singapore, June 26.—The British India Steam Navigation company's steamer Ikhona was sunk by the Russian cruiser Terek June 5, 150 miles north of Hong Kong. The crew was landed here last night by the Dutch steamer Perlak, which the Terek met June 19. The Ikhona was carrying mails and rice from Rangoon to Yokohama.

The Ikhona was a steel vessel of 5252 tons, built at Glasgow in 1900. She was 410 feet long, with a 50-foot beam, and was equipped with electricity. The steamer left Rangoon on May 17. Her cargo was valued at $450,000.

Strengthening Vladivostok

London, June 26.—The Japanese correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Moji, Japan, represents the Russians as making strenuous efforts to improve the defenses of Vladivostok and says that the whole Ussuri district has been denuded to the point of famine in order to provide the fortress with adequate food supplies.

A Japanese Plenipotentiary

CHINESE BOYCOTT

Action by President Which Will Probably Check It

EVILS TO BE REMEDIED

Strict Orders to Our Representatives in China to See That Exempt Classes Coming to This Country Are Properly Equipped With Credentials

Washington, June 26.—By direction of President Roosevelt action has been taken by the administration which not only will facilitate the landing in this country of Chinese of the exempt classes, but also will eliminate from the immigration bureau such administrative features as have been the subject of criticism by Chinese.

It is the declared intention of the president to see that Chinese merchants, travelers, students and others of the exempt classes shall have the same courtesy shown them by officers of the immigration bureau as is accorded to citizens of the most favored nation.

Representations have been made to the president that, in view of alleged harsh treatment accorded to many Chinese seeking a landing in the United States, the commercial guilds of China have determined to institute a boycott on American manufactures.

The representations, backed by the authority of the American Asiatic society and commercial bodies throughout the country, induced the president to make an investigation of the situation with a view to remedying the evils complained of, if they were found to exist. The subject was discussed thoroughly by the cabinet and the president took it up personally with Secretary Metcalf of the department of commerce and labor, who has supervision of the immigration bureau.

As a result of the inquiry orders have been issued to the diplomatic and consular representatives of the United States in China, by the president himself, that they must look closely to the performance of their duties under the exclusion law and see to it that members of the exempt classes coming to this country are provided with proper certificates. These certificates will be accepted at any port of the United States and will guarantee the bearer against any harsh or discourteous treatment. Such treatment, indeed, will be the cause of the instant dismissal of the offending official, whoever he may be.

In addition to the president's orders, Secretary Metcalf has issued instructions to the immigration officers which, it is believed, will remedy the difficulty heretofore complained of by the Chinese government and individuals. It is anticipated that the prompt action taken by this government to meet the objections made by the Chinese will eliminate the possibility of serious trade difficulties between China and the manufacturers of this country.

Live Wire Killed Two Men

Hopewell, N. J., June 26.—Walter Ewing, a telegraph operator, accompanied by a young lady to whom he was engaged to be married, was walking last evening when he saw a suspended wire. Ewing realized that it was a live wire. He obtained two sticks and in endeavoring to remove it slipped, and the wire coiled about him. Wesley Davison, who went to his rescue, also got entangled in the wire, and both were killed.

Liner Disabled by Cruiser

Ferrol, Spain, June 26.—The British cruiser Carnarvon ran down the North German Lloyd steamer Coblenz in a dense fog off Cape Prior, 10 miles from Ferrol. The Coblenz was badly damaged and sprung aleak. The passengers were transferred to the cruiser, which towed the liner here. The injury to the cruiser was trifling, but the Coblenz will have to go into drydock.

Boys' Fun Caused a Death

Danbury, Conn., June 26.—A trolley car in South street, running over several torpedoes placed on the track by boys, caused loud explosions and created a panic among several women last night and Mrs. Mary Davis, 60 years old, jumped to her death. The car was going at a fast rate when the explosions occurred. Mrs. Davis' skull was fractured.

Journeyed In Many Climes

Syracuse, N. Y., June 26.—Mrs. Margaret Sabine, who had the unique distinction of having traveled in every civilized country and many uncivilized, died at her apartments in the Yates hotel here, aged 87. She crossed the desert of Sahara on a camel and had penetrated the unknown wilds of Africa.

Lumber Schooner Sunk

Cape Henry, Va., June 26.—The Norwegian steamer George Dumois had her bow badly damaged in a collision at sea with the schooner Clara E. Bergen of New York. The schooner was sunk, but the crew were saved by the Dumois. The schooner was employed in the lumber trade.

A Mother's Awful Deed

Grand Lake, Col., June 26.—Mrs. Watt C. Gregg shot and killed her four young children and attempted to take her own life. The woman is in a critical condition from a wound in the side. Mrs. Gregg had shown signs of mental aberration.

THE RACE PROBLEM

Amalgamation by Marriage Is Offered as a Solution

Boston, June 26.—Amalgamation of the white and negro races through intermarriage as a solution of the race problem was advanced by Charles W. Chestnutt, a negro author of Cleveland, in an address before the Boston Literary and Historical association, an organization composed of negro citizens. Chestnutt, who is here to attend his son's graduation from Harvard college, spoke on "Race Prejudice, its Causes and Cure." After discussing the marked differences between the two races, the speaker said:

"The most difficult of the differences which hold us apart from our fellow-citizens is the difference in color. Should this difference disappear entirely prejudice and the race problem would cease to exist. I not only believe the mixture of races will in time be an accomplished fact, but that it will be a good thing for all concerned."

Stolen Property Unearthed

Burlington, Vt., June 26.—A long succession of thefts of cloth and other property from the mills of the American Woolen company at Winooski, aggregating in value many thousands of dollars, has culminated in the arrest of Thomas Pasino, employed by the company as a driver and general utility man. A search of his house, it is alleged, revealed a large quantity of cloth taken from the mills, together with considerable government property that had been stolen from Fort Ethan Allen. Officers say that several men must have assisted Pasino.

Four Years' Task Completed

Clinton, Mass., June 26.—The final stone has been put in place on the Wachusett dam here, completing the work begun four years and 19 days ago. The great structure was built by the Metropolitan water commission, and it is intended that the water supply of the Boston metropolitan district shall be stored in the reservoir created by the dam holding back the waters of the Nashua river. The dam represents an expenditure of $1,603,635. With its completion a reservoir with a capacity of 65,000,000,000 gallons is created.

Car Plunged Into Pole

Peabody, Mass., June 26.—Five women were injured, one of them seriously, by the derailing of an electric car near the Lynn line yesterday afternoon. On rounding a curve at a reduced speed, the wheels left the rails and the car plunged into a trolley pole, snapping it off about four feet from the base and then rebounding back about four feet. It is said that the track had recently been oiled and was quite greasy. The car was not damaged.

Novelty In Methodist Church

Brookline, Mass., June 26.—In order to illustrate the principal points in his sermon, Rev. Dillon Bronson, pastor of St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal church, took into the pulpit with him a large St. Bernard dog. Bronson's subject was "Kindness to Animals," and his text was "Open the Mouths of the Dumb." During the prayer the animal buried his head in his paws and throughout the service he was an interested and interesting observer.

Big Liquor Raid at Lewiston

Lewiston, Me., June 26.—The first raid planned in this state since the appointment of the Sturgis commission by the last legislature was carried out in this city when several resorts were raided, three men arrested and several truckloads of all kinds of liquor confiscated. Among the places raided was the establishment of M. Rancourt, in the basement of which was seized six truckloads of liquor, bottling machines, bottles and glasses.

Runaway Auto Creates Havoc

Boston, June 26.—An automobile left unoccupied on a street in Dorchester last night started down a steep hill at a high speed and demolished a hydrant, from which gushed tons of water which washed out the street and sidewalk and flooded the basements of four buildings, causing considerable loss to the occupants. The automobile, which was partly wrecked, is owned by a Providence man. No one was injured by the runaway.

An Insect Pest Parasite

Wakefield, Mass., June 26.—A parasite that causes the death of the browntail moth has been discovered by W. W. Whittredge, who is in charge of the squad employed by the town to destroy the moth. He has turned the parasite over to the state entomologist for inspection. If Whittredge's beliefs are confirmed, it will mean a saving of thousands of dollars in prosecuting the war against the browntails.

Fatal Canoeing Accident

Newton, Mass., June 26.—A canoe accident occurred on the Charles river in which Carl H. Grundy lost his life and Albert B. Grundy, his brother, and Leroy Crowell were saved. All three were about 21 years of age and unmarried. Carl Grundy, who was sitting in the middle of the canoe, attempted to change his seat and capsized the craft.

Insane Woman a Suicide

Danvers, Mass., June 26.—Miss Alice Bradley, aged 35, a music teacher of Melrose, who has been confined to the Danvers insane hospital for the past three months, threw herself in front of a railroad train, after she had escaped from the institution, and was instantly killed.

Schooner Wrecked Off Eastport

Eastport, Me., June 26.—Schooner Rattler of this port ran ashore near this city and will probably prove a total loss. The crew came ashore in their own boat. The Rattler was built in 1859.

THE OUTBREAK AT LODZ

Estimates Place the Killed and Wounded as High as 2000 --Pitched Battles Between the Troops and People Fill the Streets With Dead

St. Petersburg, June 26.—Beyond the bare announcements that firing was again heard Saturday night in the Jewish quarter at Lodz and that the Jews are leaving that city in great numbers there is almost nothing known here about the situation at Lodz. Even an adequate estimate of the magnitude of Friday's fierce struggle in the streets and the extent of the casualties cannot be obtained here, as practically all telegrams except brief and unsatisfactory messages to the agencies are held up by the internal censorship.

The lack of information prevented any manifestation of feeling on the part of the workmen of St. Petersburg, many of whom are in sympathy with social revolutionary doctrines, and for the same reason there is little discussion in the clubs and cafes, most of the people not being aware that anything unusual is happening in Poland.

When the details become known it may be expected that the news will create the deepest impression in all industrial sections of Russia and bring about disorders which would be particularly unfortunate, coming just at this juncture.

In Poland itself the events at Lodz may initiate an era of open resistance to the troops lasting for months. Besides Lodz, Warsaw, Kalisch, Petrakovk and other manufacturing centres have been on the verge of anarchy for several months, and disturbances similar to those at Lodz on a greater or smaller scale are to be dreaded wherever and whenever military conditions give the slightest encouragement.

DAY OF BLOODSHED

Fighting at Lodz Was of a Most Terrible Character

Lodz, June 26.—The most serious phase of the fighting between the military and strikers is at an end, but there are still isolated attacks in the suburbs. At Baluty yesterday Cossacks attacked a Jewish family of five persons who were driving in a cab to the railway station and shot and killed all, including the cabman. There is a general exodus from Lodz. Twelve thousand persons have already left and all trains are crowded.

During the disturbances 35 government liquor stores were destroyed by the mobs, which appropriated all the cash and stamps found on the premises, which they added to the funds of the Socialist party.

"Black Friday" in Lodz surpassed all the horrors of "Red Sunday" in St. Petersburg. While it is not yet possible to ascertain the exact number of victims, estimates place the killed and wounded as high as 2000.

The troubles here were initiated by the Social Democrats and Jewish bund, who determined to avenge their comrades killed in the rioting on Wednesday.

At dawn Friday commenced a day of terror. The city was given up to bloodshed. Anarchy and fierce street fighting prevailed all day. Barricades were hurriedly constructed in the Jewish quarter at dawn. Men climbed to the roofs of houses, cutting telephone and telegraph wires to use for entanglements in the streets, while others cut down telegraph poles and used them in strengthening the barricades which already had been constructed and in building others.

Early in the day two bombs were thrown from the crowd into the barracks, killing or wounding 20 soldiers. This started the shedding of blood, which continued until nightfall.

At 11 o'clock all the factory hands struck and flocked into the streets. Cossacks, dragoons and infantry charged the dense, surging mobs time after time, firing volley after volley into the serried masses. The rioters later replied with revolvers, while their comrades on roofs and in windows joined in the fusillade. Some dashed vitriol from points of vantage upon the troopers in the streets below. The burning fluid drove its victims into a frenzy and led to scenes of a terrible character.

Fighting continued throughout the day and only diminished in its intensity at nightfall, when the city was plunged into utter darkness, as practically all the street lamps had been destroyed. Even then occasional volleys and isolated rifle shots were heard in different quarters, the troops having received orders to shoot any person appearing in the streets.

The dead were carted off to the cemeteries in military wagons, the troops acting as undertakers. But many dead and wounded were still lying in the streets and court yards on Saturday. Terrible, indeed, is the plight of the wounded, for medical aid is unobtainable and many are dying for the lack thereof.

So far as yet ascertained, 130 persons were killed outright during the fighting on Friday, and 41 more died in the hospitals during the night.

All the hospitals of the city are filled to overflowing, and owing to the insufficient number of beds many of the wounded persons are lying on the floors.

MOROCCAN REFORMS

France and Germany at Swords' Points Over the Question

Paris, June 26.—Speculation is rife regarding the probable purport of Germany's reply to the French note concerning the proposed international conference over Moroccan affairs, which reply has not yet been received. It is alleged that Germany requests a clearer statement of the French program for Moroccan reforms, suggesting that each subject be discussed separately in connection with the terms of the Madrid convention, the two points principally referred to being to the coast trading and frontiers, and that, should France accept, Germany would abandon the idea of the conference. This, however, is regarded as a surmise.

Meanwhile public anxiety relative to eventualities is still intense. The press continues to advise patience and confidence in the efforts of the French government to arrive at a pacific settlement. It is pointed out that the negotiations have heretofore been conducted in a spirit of courtesy and that appearances show that everything is being done by both sides to reach an amicable arrangement.

Relations Continue Strained

Berlin, June 26.—The newspapers continue to discuss the situation between France and Germany with some heat. An attempt is being made to shift the responsibility for the recent war panic to articles in the British press and The National Zeitung solemnly reminds France that a Franco-German conflict would not be decided by a Trafalgar, but on French or German battlefields.

Further Gain For Germans

London, June 26.—The correspondent of The Chronicle at Tangier says that the Sultan of Morocco has granted a concession for a port at Azerud, at the mouth of the Wadi-El-Kus river, on the Algerian frontier, to a German company.

Plucky Bridegroom-to-Be

Clayton, N. Y., June 26.—George W. Cooper of Syracuse, who is to be married today to Miss Jeanette Williams, also of Syracuse, was marooned by joking friends on a barren island in the middle of the St. Lawrence river yesterday. In order to reach Syracuse in time for the ceremony he swam a mile to Grindstone island, where he secured a boat and arrived at Clayton in time to catch his train.

Race Suicide In Ontario

London, Ont., June 26.—Rt. Rev. Dr. Williams, in an address to the diocesan synod, denounced race suicide which, he said, was prevalent in the province of Ontario. Although the population of the province had increased, he said, the school population was 36,700 less than it was 15 years ago. "The result is that Ontario is fast becoming childless, and threatens to become known as the childless province."

Australia's Invitation to Taft

Melbourne, June 26.—The commonwealth government has decided to invite Secretary of War Taft and party to extend their tour from the Philippine islands to Australia. Assurance is given that the secretary and his party will be cordially welcomed by all classes. The commonwealth will offer to defray the entire expenses of the trip.

Immigration Flood Continues

New York, June 26.—More than 72,000 immigrants have landed at Ellis Island since June 1, and the official estimate up to the end of the month is 84,085. The census office approximates the total immigration for this fiscal year at 1,061,659, which indicates a record breaker. For the fiscal year of 1904 the figures were 812,870.

Accident Not Due to Speed

New York, June 26.—President Newman of the New York Central railroad announces that the investigation of the wreck on the Lake Shore railroad at Mentor, O., has shown that the speed of the train had nothing to do with the accident; consequently the Twentieth Century train will resume its 18-hour schedule.

General Bragg Had No Daughter

Mobile, Ala., June 26.—In connection with the death of Mrs. Carrie Bragg Graver at New York, the report that she was the daughter of the late General Braxton Bragg is denied by a member of the general's family, living here, who says General Bragg never had a daughter.

Hamburg Beats Kaiser's Yacht

Kiel, June 26.—The German yacht Hamburg beat Emperor William's Meteor III over a 33-mile course by nearly six minutes. The time of the Hamburg was 8:21:47. Emperor William with a large party was on board the Meteor III.

Played With Matches In Bed

Franklin, Me., June 26.—Helen Dyer, aged 4, while playing with matches in bed, set fire to the clothing, and was terribly burned before her mother could save her. She died last evening. Mrs. Dyer was seriously injured, but may recover.

Sunken Ships Again Afloat

Rome, June 26.—A Port Arthur dispatch received from an Italian engineer, who is engaged in raising the Russian ships sunk in the harbor there, says that three ironclads have been refloated.

Fire on Elevated Train

Boston, June 26.—Nearly 200 passengers on a south-bound elevated train were thrown into a panic last night when one of the cars caught fire owing to a short circuit. The motorman noticed that something was wrong with the power and brought the train to a stop. As he did so there was a deafening report and one of the cars burst into flames. It was deemed dangerous to allow the passengers to leave the train on account of the third rail, which is heavily charged with electricity. Those in the burning car were quickly transferred to other cars of the train. No one was injured, but several women fainted. The fire was put out by the guards with the fire extinguishers that are carried on the elevated trains.

Steamer Sinks Gloucester Fisherman

North Sydney, C. B., June 26.—The Norwegian steamer Sverre arrived here with the crew of the Gloucester fishing schooner Columbia, which was run down and sunk by the steamer two miles off Low point. Captain Van Amburg and crew of 18 men escaped safely from their sinking vessel, but lost all their effects except light clothing which they had on at the time of the collision. The weather was fine and the schooner lay almost becalmed when the steamer approached. For some reason unknown the helmsman of the steamer failed to see the fisherman in time to avoid a collision.

Vicious Canine Killed Child

Chicago, June 26.—Yvonne Davis, 18 months old, was playing with a ball which rolled near a bulldog owned by her father and when she went to pick it up the dog knocked her down and fastened its teeth in her face. A neighbor beat the dog with an iron bar and fired eight bullets into its body, but it still retained its grip on the child. After the dog was dead it was found necessary to pry its jaws apart in order to release the girl. She died within 10 minutes.

Funds Returned by Alexander

New York, June 26.—Restitution has been made by former President Alexander of the Equitable Life Assurance society of $25,053.22, representing amounts received by him, with interest, on certain syndicate operations referred to in the preliminary report of Superintendent Hendricks.

Failed Banker Kills Himself

Paris, June 26.—Georges Rodrigues, the banker, has committed suicide. It is stated that the financier lost heavily in the recent sharp decline in rentes. The liabilities of his bank are given out as $2,000,000.

Miss Doris is by no means an amateur in wheeling but she refuses to lay the blame upon anyone but herself which proves that she is not only modest but charitable as well.

HELD LID DOWN.

Hoodlums at Houghs Neck Given a Surprise.

Chief of Police Burrell put the lid on at Houghs Neck on Sunday, and held it down. The result was that the place was more respectable than it has been.

There have been many complaints about the disorderly conduct of the Sunday crowds, and the police are determined to stop it.

Sunday Lieut. McKay with ten officers were detailed for the beach, with orders to arrest anyone who was disorderly or making a nuisance. The result was a big improvement, and the police have the thanks of the law abiding element.

But two arrests were made, and these were for playing ball. The police, however, had occasion to warn a number of people. It would also be well for the young people of both sexes, who occupy hammocks on piazzas in scant clothing to put on a few more clothes or they may be summoned into court.

The boat from Boston, Saturday afternoon, brought down a large consignment of liquid refreshments for the over Sunday clubs. It also brought down Lieut. McKay who made note of the marks on the goods.

The fact that Lieut. Mc Kay was about, soon became known after the boat tied up at the wharf, and none of the parties cared to go after their liquor while an officer was around. The result was a dry Saturday night.

Houghs Neck has been getting a bad name of late years, but Chief Burrell is determined that it shall be kept respectable, and parties who have conceived the idea that they can do as they please should take warning in time.

Fifth Anniversary.

Mrs. Frederick Peirce of Hancock street was surprised by the Indomitable whist club on Wednesday evening of last week, the occasion being Dr. and Mrs. Peirce's fifth anniversary. Mrs. Herbert Barker entertained the club at dinner earlier in the evening. Mrs. Peirce was presented with a weathered oak table, a pretty and convenient stand for a punch bowl. The club has had a festivel season since its organization and its members are tireless in their efforts to make a good time wherever they go.

To Have an Organizer.

It is reported that at the New England conference of boiler makers and iron shipbuilders in Boston on Sunday, the delegates from the Quincy locals made a request for an organizer in that district to conduct a vigorous campaign. The conference indorsed the request and the international office will be asked to send a man immediately. The conference decided that it could immediately assist, and it voted to hold a mass meeting in Quincy as soon as the arrangements can be made. A committee was elected to carry out the plan.

A GREAT GAME.

The Merrymounts Defeat the South Quincys.

A Home Run Did the Business.

The Quincys and the Atlantics Defeated.

The Merrymounts won from South Quincy at the Park on Saturday afternoon in one of the best games of the season, by the score of 3 to 2. Both pitchers were effective. Neither gave any bases but Patterson hit three batsmen. The fielding was sharp the work of the two short stops being especially good.

In the first, Duffy fanned, Tate was thrown out by Kolson and Birnie flied out to Atkins.

For Merrymount, Donaher and Baker fanned, and Drake was thrown out by Duffy.

In the second, South Quincy went out in order on infield plays.

Tates, assist off Hoxie and two strikeouts settled Merrymount.

in the third, Donovan and Canfield were retired on assists by Donaher, and Patterson's fly was squeezed by Baker.

Osgood was hit and Atkins singled. Dunn fumbled the ball and Osgood tried for third, but was an easy out. Dunn to Donovan, Kolson went out on a fly to Canfield. Donaher hit to Tate and Atkins tried to get to third, but found Tate waiting for him.

In the fourth, Duffy led off with a double, but the next three men went out in order.

With one down, Drake singled, W. Bennett was hit, and Hoxie singled. Hoxie was caught off first and Drake tried to score, but was put out by Forbes. A. Bennett went out on a fly to Spargo.

In the fifth, South Quincy went out in order.

Osgood got to first on Tate's fumble, but was forced by Atkins, Duffy to Tate. Kolson and Donaher then struck out.

In the sixth, Canfield fanned, Patterson was safe on A. Bennett's fumble, Duffy hit over Baker's heard for two bases, Tate was out on a fly to Osgood, Birnie singled and Patterson scored, Baker failed to stop the hit and Duffy scored. Forbes struck out.

For Merrymount, Baker hit a high one that Tate caught, Drake singled, W. Bennett's fly was caught by Spargo. Hoxie was hit. A. Bennett hit one that landed a little inside the rightfield foul-flag and rolled down the gully for a home run. Osgood was thrown out by Patterson.

South Quincy did not reach first in the seventh but Atkins was safe on Canfield's muff. Kolson hit a hot liner to Tate, who threw to first doubling up Atkins. Donaher was thrown out by Tate.

In the eighth with two out Duffy singled but was forced by Tate. Drake singled and W. Bennett was safe on Birnie's muff but were left.

In the ninth. Birnie led off with a hard smash to right-centre that Hoxie nailed, Forbes hit to Atkins but Bennet failed to hold the throw. Dunn's fly was caught by Osgood. Spargo hit safely and it looked good for South Quincy, but Donovan popped up a fly that A. Bennet squeezed.

There was a large crowd present and both teams were well supported by rooters.

The Quincys Won.

A grand association football game took place at Fort Warren between the Quincys and Fort Warrens on Saturday. The soldiers won the toss and kicked off. The ball was kept travelling fast from one end of the field to the other till the Quincy forwards settled down and by some brilliant passing scored the first goal. They kept it up till number 4 was scored, leaving the score 4 to 0 in favor of Quincy. The Fort Warrens were outplayed at every point of the game. The Quincys travel to Montreal and Barre, Vermont, next month where they will try and keep up their winning streak.

Among the number will be noticed Alfred M. Vinton, who on June 5 was drowned in Quincy reservoir. Touching reference was made to him by Head Master Gallagher. The class presented to the school as a memorial to him a picture of Sir Galahead.

A reception followed the exercises, and dancing was enjoyed from 6 to 9.

Burglary at Weymouth.

The clothing store of Louis J. Hart at Washington square, Weymouth, was burglarized early Sunday morning, fully $400 worth of goods being secured.

—The new gymnasium at the state normal school at Bridgewater, which was recently completed, was dedicated Saturday afternoon with appropriate exercises. It marked the opening of the commencement exercises and there was a large attendance.

Regular meeting of the School Committee tomorrow evening.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a New Tab Yoke Effect Designed by Martha Dean—No. 6312

In this age of shirt waists there is no part of the feminine wardrobe so indispensable nor yet so possible for the amateur dressmaker to fashion. Mistress Mode has bestowed a royal boon on her fair subjects in this particular, and the woman who plies her needle may possess blouses of more individuality and worth than her sister who depends on the ready made waists which are so abundant in the shops. The waist shown has a fancy tab yoke as its hallmark of gentility. The waist may be developed in silk, linen or madras and may be kept in one color or made more striking by edging the fancy yoke and cuffs with a narrow band or braid of a contrasting color. Tiny tucks coming out from beneath the yoke in front and extending to bust depth furnish abundant fullness, which is drawn down easily into the snug girdle. The plainness of the back is relieved by the pointed yoke, which also extends over the top of the sleeve. The front closes in the duchess manner and in no way detracts from the stunning yoke effect. The sleeve is the plain bishop model with an easy amount of fullness. This pattern, No. 6312, is in six sizes, from 32 to 42 inches bust measure.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6312, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

FENCING

[Original.]

They met at a farmhouse as summer boarders. He was what women call cynical. She thought him indifferent. He was certainly a cool chap, and the three traits combined attracted her. They took long walks in the mornings and invariably seated themselves in some shady nook where instead of "dreaming the happy hours away" they discussed abstruse questions.

Several weeks passed, and there was no mention between them of their growing intimacy. He spoke of returning to his work in the city without mentioning any regret at the discontinuance of their walks or their sittings in the moonlight on the porch. She dared not mention the parting for fear her voice would tremble.

One morning after they had come in from a walk they went to the mantel in the living room, where the mail was deposited, and she, taking up a letter addressed to him in a woman's hand, gave it to him. He simply said, "Thank you." She spent the afternoon wondering who was his correspondent and surmising his action at receiving a letter from a mother, a sister, a girl friend or a sweetheart. If it were from either of the first three he would have said something to denote the fact; if from a sweetheart, he would have said no more than "thank you." This was her reasoning.

The next morning instead of waiting for him to go to walk she went alone. That is what a girl in love would usually do under the circumstances. She assumed on evidence that would have no weight with twelve jurymen—mind you, I say jurymen not jury women—that his correspondent was his fiance.

When she returned a "depot hack" was being driven up to the door and who should get out of it but the companion of her former walks, whose companionship she had taken pains to show she did not longer care for, but whose absence had made her miserable. That was not all; he handed out a very attractive looking girl, whom he led into the house. He reappeared just as the girl who had witnessed the arrival was approaching the porch. He went to meet her, pleasantly, but noticing a severe expression on her face his own assumed a serious cast. Evidently there was a change. He had been intending to explain his not joining in her walk by telling her that he had gone to the station, but he concluded to await developments.

"Pleasant walk?" he asked.

"Very."

"I didn't see you when you started."

"It is not to be expected that you should go to walk with me every morning."

"Certainly not; that would be very selfish of me. Suppose we go into the summer house."

"Thank you; I'm tired. I shall rest awhile before dinner."

"As you like. I'll stroll down to the river bank. Good morning."

This was not to her purpose. She changed her mind and said she would go into the summer house for a few minutes only.

"Why did you deliberately go off to walk without me this morning?" he asked when they were seated. He assumed that she had done this, he did not know it.

"I don't care to attract the attention of those in the house by these walks, especially"—

"Well?"

"The young lady who has just arrived might not like it."

"I hadn't thought of that."

"You should have thought of it."

"We men are methodical fellows. We take up matters as they come along, while your sex are prone to take them up as fancy dictates."

"As principle dictates."

"That word principle has many conditions. Sometimes it is rigid, sometimes elastic."

"I should think in this case it must be elastic."

"You must remember that what we call principle partakes of education. The Greeks"—

"Bother the Greeks. What had they to do with us?"

There was a brief silence. Evidently the hair splitting was over. Presently he said:

"We shall not hereafter be quite so free to enjoy these walks together, for"—

"Evidently not."

"My mother will be up on Saturday, and"—

"Oh, your mother!"

"Yes. She is an invalid, and I shall need to devote a good deal of time to her."

"And the rest will belong to another."

"What other?"

"The young lady who has already arrived."

"She will help me in the care of my mother."

"That will be her duty."

"And her pleasure."

"Certainly; of course."

"I shall be here only a few days after mother comes, then the care of her will devolve entirely on my sister."

"Your sister?"

"Yes; it is she who arrived just now."

There was another brief silence. The girl looked up at the sky, then down at the floor.

"Why didn't you tell me that before?"

"You didn't ask."

She sat silent for a moment, then arose and was about to start for the house, but he seized her hand and detained her. The fencing was over. For the first time since he had met her he said what he meant, and she replied in kind.

NEW ENGLAND

Will Benefit by Railroad Improvements.

Now Being Made at New York.

Extensive Operations of Pennsylvania and New Haven Systems.

New York, June 26, 1905—For the benefit of New England merchants and manufacturers and the traveling public from the northeastern section of the United States, many millions of dollars are being spent in the American metropolis, the bottom of the ocean is being raised and transformed into dry land, it is being demonstrated that the hills can be described no longer as everlasting and there are in prospect bridges which will rival in immensity the towering structures now spanning the East river.

As a part of a general scheme for bringing New England nearer to the West and South, work has just begun on a four-track railway line, 16 1-2 miles long, through the southern and western portions of the old city of Brooklyn. The undertaking is one of a series which will change completely the methods of handling freight to and from New England. These improvements which will cost the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Long Island Railroad and the New York Connecting Railroad Company in the neighborhood of $25,000,000, are in addition to the extensive new construction on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, above the Harlem river and the passenger terminals to provide for the transfer of traffic between the New Haven system and the tunnels under Manhattan Island.

New York City has always formed a great barrier to New England freight movements. All freight for southern New England, grain from the West, coal from the mines of Pennsylvania, cotton from the South, wends eastward in the long trains until the Hudson river is reached. There the cars are shipped on heavy floats and towed laboriously through the Hudson and East rivers and the tortuous channels of Hell Gate, where in spring the tide swirls through at seven and seven and one-half miles an hour, and at other seasons at six miles. Naturally this method of transfer is a tedious and cumbersome process. There is always a great jam of harbor traffic through which the lumbering floats must carefully pick their way and in winter the rivers are often choked with heavy ice floes, so that a channel must be broken by the straining tugs with the unwieldy barges behind.

When the new plans are completed, the crowded river channel will be eliminated. From Greenville on the New Jersey side of New York's upper bay, a new car float ferry will carry the freight cars across to the Long Island Railroad terminal at Bay Ridge, a distance of less than four miles on a route never crowded with traffic. Thence the freight will move along the 16 1-2 miles loop around Brooklyn and Long Island city and up to Hell Gate and thence to Mott Haven over great bridges that will cross Ward's and Randall's Islands. On the map this route seems to be a considerable detour, but it is estimated that it will save from 24 to 60 hours in handling New England freight. To shippers these figures are impressive.

While the Pennsylvania road has been digging up the bottom of the bay on the New Jersey shore, the New York, New Haven and Hartford has been building an enormous freight yard near Barretto point which is on the East River, in the borough of the Bronx. When completed this yard will contain more than 80 miles of tracks in addition to transfer docks, together with the round house and local repair shops. The work at Barretto Point included the filling and levelling of a total area of 200 or more acres and is now practically completed. The new yard will take the place of that at Mott Haven where and average of 322,000 freight cars are handled each month and where the passenger traffic is daily increasing as the city spreads to northward. The location at Barretto Point will immediately simplify the transfer of freight because navigation in the East River is not so hazardous as in the crowded Harlem with it exceptionally swift tides.

CLASS OF 1905.

Program for the High School Graduation.

A grand program has been prepared for the graduating exercises of the class of 1905 of the Quincy High school tomorrow evening. There will be a salutatory address, a valedictory, and the Keramos by H. W. Longfellow in which eleven of the graduates will take part; also several choruses by the school and numbers by the High School orchestra.

The address of the evening will be by William DeWitt Hyde, D. D., LL. D., the president of Bowdoin college, and the diplomas will be presented by Hon. Charles H. Porter of the School Committee.

The class colors are green and gold, and the class motto "Non Palma sine Labore."

An unusually large class will be graduated, both for the four years course and the two years course.

AS HARVARD GRADUATE

President Roosevelt Is Visiting Boston and Cambridge

Boston, June 27.—President Roosevelt arrived in this city this morning for the purpose of participating in the Harvard commencement exercises. He will remain here until midnight tomorrow and then proceed to his home at Oyster Bay, L. I. During his stay in Boston and Cambridge the president will not appear in public in his official capacity, but desires to be considered merely as a Harvard graduate. Mr. Roosevelt is a member of the class of 1880, and he will attend the various functions which have been arranged by his former classmates in celebration of the 25th anniversary of their graduation.

The president left his train at the Back Bay station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and was driven to the Cambridge residence of Bishop Lawrence of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, who is president of the Harvard Alumni association. President Eliot of Harvard and Lieutenant Governor Guild informally extended a welcome, and both had breakfast with the president at the bishop's residence. The president will spend the day with his class on several tours and will dine with the other members this evening in this city.

Governor Douglas, who has a severe cold, was not able to call on the president today, but may be present at tomorrow's commencement exercises.

Storm Reaches New York

New York, June 27.—A storm of cyclonic proportions, accompanied by a terrific deluge of rain, passed over Harlem and The Bronx, causing widespread havoc. A building in course of erection in 136th street was demolished, John Lawlor, foreman of bricklayers, being crushed to death, and two laborers severely injured. Abraham Pearlman of the firm of Pearlman & Brown, builders of the house, and Abraham Bordock, superintendent of the construction, were arrested and held to await the action of the coroner.

Rescued In Nick of Time

Chatham, Mass., June 27.—A sudden shift in the wind from the southwest to the northeast caught two lobstermen, Anson Bloomer and his son, Walter, off Monomoy point and for an hour their little boat was subjected to a severe buffeting. A volunteer crew manned a lifeboat and pulled out to the rescue. In the meantime the Bloomers' boat was capsized. The lifesavers finally reached them, after they had become almost exhausted.

The foundation wall for the new business block on Granite street is about half completed.

SEVERE STORM.

Several Places in Quincy Were Struck.

Man on House Knocked Unsconscious.

Another Knocked Down in Cellar of House.

Quincy was fortunate on Monday in receiving only the tail end of the thunder squall. That, however was severe enough to satisfy everybody.

The day had been a sultry one, a reminder of dog day weather. The temperature was playing about the eighties and there was scarcely a breath of air.

In the middle of the afternoon, suddenly the wind shifted to the northeast and the temperature dropped 30 degrees. Dark clouds appeared in the horizon. The wind freshened and clouds of dust were blown about the streets.

Then came the roll of distant thunder and the sharp whip like flashes of lightning, which rapidly drew nearer. Then came a downpour of rain, and it was all over. The sun shone brightly again, but what a change in the temperature.

Where a few minutes before people were almost prostrated with the heat, they were now shivering with the cold.

It was a forcible illustration of what New England can furnish in the way of weather variety. The weather continued cold the remainder of the day and in the evening outer garments did not feel out of place.

Fortunately, but little damage was done in Quincy for as noted above, Quincy only had the tail end of the squall.

The telephone and electric wires were burnt out in some places but the only serious damage was the Electric Light Co. wires on the Squantum causeway.

The thunder shower was exceptionally heavy in Wollaston. Shocks were felt in several places and Thomas Lacey's house on Grand View avenue was struck by lightning.

A man at work on the roof of H. F. McIntire's new house was knocked senseless. When found by fellow workmen he was lying senseless in the gutter on the house. When he came to he did not know where he was or what had happened.

A man at work in the cellar of James H. Penniman's house on Hancock street was leaning against a telephone fuse box when the heavy flash of lightning came. He was thrown several feet and knocked down, but escaped uninjured.

The storm of Monday did considerable damage in Atlantic. A pole on which was an arch light was blown down on Prospect street; also a pole on the Squantum road which was blown down in such a manner as to stop traffic for a few hours. A switch signal was also blown down on the East Milton branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

During the storm a part of the piazza of the Tuckerman cottage on Bay View avenue at Houghs Neck was torn off. It was carried over the cottage, knocking over the chimney and landed in the back yard,

A large tree in the rear of Grant's store at Norfolk Downs was struck by lightning and splintered.

One of the large panes of glass in Murphy's drug store was smashed by the wind blowing the door.

Liquor Cases.

The case of John McKenzie, for maintaining a liquor nuisance at Quincy Point occupied the attention of the district court, Monday, until late in the afternoon. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $75, from which he appealed. George E. Adams, Esq., represented the government and J. J. McAnarney, Esq., the defendant. McKenzie was convicted in 1903 for keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

In the case of Frederick A. Thayer for violation of the liquor laws, which was also heard Monday, Thayer was found not guilty and discharged.

Peter W. Newcomb Dead.

Mr. Peter W. Newcomb, a brother of the late Thaddeus H. Newcomb, died on Monday in North Weymouth, where he has resided but a few weeks. He was a retired police officer of Station 3 of Boston, and a former resident of Quincy Point, being in his 78th year. Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb celebrated their golden wedding anniversary a few years ago. The funeral will be held at North Weymouth tomorrow at 2.30 P. M.

WILL SHE GO?

Miss Underwood Hesitates About Taking Trip to Pacific.

Every effort is being made to induce Miss Julia E. Underwood to take the grand trip to the Lewis & Clark exposition to be held at Portland, Oregon, which has been awarded to her by the Boston Herald. Every one tells her it is the chance of a life time, and that they only wish they had a like opportunity.

Miss Underwood believes that she would enjoy the trip, but she is timid about undertaking such a long journey, not having travelled any. On two occasions only has she been outside of Massachusetts, both times to New Hampshire, where she reached her destination after three or four hours travel.

But Miss Underwood is in good health, having missed only two days in fifty years because of sickness. She enjoys long trolley trips, and takes them almost weekly. On the proposed trip to the Pacific she would have no anxiety concerning arrangements, timetable, baggage, meals or expenses. The Herald arranges the schedule and pays all the bills, and sends as a chaperon, Miss Grace L. Brinkhaus of Malden, who is known to many teachers in New England. Miss Brinkhaus was assistant to Supt. Gay at Malden, and also his assistant in charge of the Massachusetts school exhibit at the Worlds Fair at St. Louis. Certainly Miss Underwood should go.

Pioneer Electric Work.

On getting back from the Paris Exposition, I set about producing what was finally called the Thomson-Houston system, joining energies with Prof. Houston, who was, like myself, teaching in the Philadelphia Central High School at that time. He was professor of physics and I professor of chemistry. We produced a dynamo and lamps. My first machine, intended for running an actual electric light, was built in 1876, but was very moderate in size, and very small in the matter of light. I could, by the use of a foot lathe, get a small arc light out of it. By working very hard and perspiring a great deal I could keep the light going for about a minute or so. In 1878, however, I built a machine which was capable of giving about 120 volts and 10 amperes. I made the patterns and put the machine together absolutely without any planning, having only a foot lathe at command. The armature was made up of cast-iron discs strung on a wooden hub or shaft, yet the machine certainly worked and was shown in operation at the Franklin Institute during the winter of 1878-1879. It weighed about 350 pounds and was not only a continuous-current dynamo, but would give alternating currents. — Prof. Elihu Thomson, in The Engineering Magazine for July.

School Superintendent Resigns

Boston, June 27.—After a lengthy and exciting debate, and the defeat of a motion to place upon the authorized list of books used in the grammar schools a revised edition of an arithmetic of which he is the author, Gordon A. Southworth last night tendered his resignation to the Somerville school board as superintendent of schools. Southworth has been in the Somerville schools for 32 years, 20 as teacher and 12 as superintendent.

Victim of Fever In Panama

Boston, June 27.—Information was received in this city last night of the death in the Panama canal zone of George A. Smith, correspondent of the Boston Evening Transcript. The cause of death was pernicious fever. Smith was 30 years of age and unmarried. He left Boston last February to engage in stenographic work and to act as newspaper correspondent. Previously he had been in the Philippines as stenographer.

Two Boatloads of Seamen Lost

San Francisco, June 27.—The ship Aryan arrived from Baltimore, bringing the captain and 10 men of the crew of the German ship Agnes, which foundered in a snowstorm off Cape Horn. The boat's crew picked up by the Aryan was one of three which abandoned the Agnes before it sank. A search over a wide territory of the sea for the other two boatloads of seamen was unavailing.

Unaccountable Run on Banks

Dunkirk, N. Y., June 27.—Without apparent cause both the Lake Shore National bank and the Merchants' National bank of this city were subjected to a run yesterday afternoon. Both banks paid all claims in full. Both banks received additional currency from Buffalo and it is announced they are prepared to cash every claim presented. It is thought the run is over.

THE PEACE ENVOYS

Russia Chooses Nelidoff and Rosen to Act For Her

JAPAN FALLS INTO LINE

Takahira Will Be One of Her Representatives and Will Be Promoted to Ambassadorship --Rainy Season In Manchuria May Prevent a Clash

Washington, June 27.—Russia has given reassurance of its intentions in the peace negotiations by placing the president in possession of the tentative selection of her plenipotentiaries, as follows: M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador at Paris, and Baron Rosen, the newly appointed Russian ambassador at Washington. Russia thus having taken the initiative, it is believed that Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, during his call at the White House yesterday, informally told the president that Japan's selections, also tentative, were Baron Komura, the Japanese minister for foreign affairs, and Korogo Takahira, the Japanese minister at Washington.

Official announcement of the names of the plenipotentiaries is withheld for several reasons. Nelidoff's health may not permit him to make the trip and pressure of official work may necessitate the presence in Tokio of Komura. Takahira and Rosen are regarded as the certainties and the belief is that, unless something unforeseen happens, Russia and Japan will consent to the official announcement of the personnel of the Washington conference within a few days.

In any event, both missions will consist of many advisors, including army and possibly naval officers and officials from the foreign offices in Tokio and St. Petersburg. It is expected that altogether each mission may number 10 or 12. Should six plenipotentiaries be chosen, both Russia and Japan, it is learned, have names under consideration, which will enable them to announce their third plenipotentiary without delay.

In recognition of his services during the preliminary negotiations and in view of the high official rank of the Russian plenipotentiaries, it is believed that the official announcement of Takahira's appointment will be followed by his elevation to the rank of ambassador. In view of the fact that Japan intends when the war is over to elevate her legations at Washington, London, Berlin, Paris, Vienna, St. Petersburg and Rome to embassies, it is believed Takahira's elevation would be permanent.

Interest regarding an armistice has largely diminished in the last few days, because of the receipt of information that the rainy season is beginning in Manchuria. It is believed here that this will serve the purposes of an armistice in preventing a clash before the convening of the conference in August. Moreover, the informal soundings initiated by the president at Tokio and St. Petersburg did not yield much hope for successful negotiations looking to an armistice until after the plenipotentiaries meet. If Japan is then convinced of the serious desire of Russia for peace she will readily consent to an armistice.

Skirmishing In Manchuria

St. Petersburg, June 27.—Hostilities in Manchuria apparently have not reached the stage of a general engagement. Dispatches from both commanders indicate that there is steady skirmishing along the main front, where minor detachments are fighting back and forth over practically the same ground, with no decided advantage to either. These tactics seem destined chiefly to maintain contact and to worry the vanguards while sparring for position before the development of the main battle.

Death Rather Than Separation

Paterson, N. J., June 27.—Unable to endure the thought of a long separation involved in the husband being ordered on foreign service, Henry Eichenrodt, bandmaster of the United States battleship Alabama, and his young wife, to whom he had been united less than a year, committed suicide, dying in each other's arms. They drank carbolic acid and were found dead in a room in which the gas was turned on.

To Enforce Anti-Gambling Law

Jefferson City, Mo., June 27.—Governor Folk, in an interview, declares that either the Missouri National Guard or the St. Louis police department will be directed to raid the alleged bookmakers at Delmar race track. The militia or police, whichever may be used, will be instructed to enforce the anti-gambling law at all hazards.

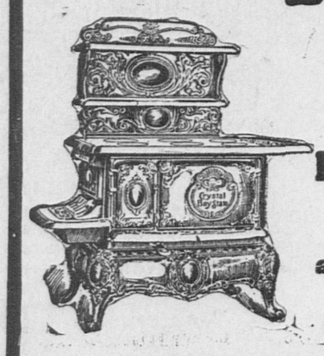

Shortage In Bank Cashier's Account

Terre Haute, Ind., June 27.—The Vigo County National bank issued the statement that Cashier Conzman had resigned and that a shortage had been discovered in his accounts of about $16,000. Following the announcement of the shortage of Conzman, a run was started on the bank. All demands for deposits were promptly met.

New Englanders Treated to Variety of Weather

HEAT, COLD, HEAVY RAIN

Damage by Lightning at Some Points, With Hailstones as Large as Birds' Eggs at Salem --Many Trees Blown Down

Boston, June 27.—A severe summer storm, accompanied by the usual phenomena and followed by a drop in the temperature of nearly 25 degrees, passed over eastern New England yesterday afternoon in a southeasterly direction, causing much damage, but occasioned no loss of life.

Trees were uprooted and several houses lost their roofs by the wind, hail broke thousands of panes of glass, the rain caused many small washouts and flooded cellars and lowlands, while lightning struck in many places and was the cause of a number of destructive fires.

The day began with a morning thunder shower, followed by a cool northwester, then by sultry weather for a few hours, after which came the main event of the day, the storm, and finally the cold northeaster that made heavy wraps and fires a necessity last evening.

The storm seemed to originate somewhere in central New Hampshire shortly after noon, and at Chichester in that state a dwelling house was struck by lightning and destroyed about 1 o'clock.

At 1:20 the storm struck Manchester, leveling many trees and doing other damage. The Annis Flour and Grain company's store was struck by lightning and set on fire and the firemen were an hour in subduing the flames, the loss being $6000. A barn in the city was also destroyed.

The storm reached Lowell about 2 o'clock. Here many wires were prostrated, trees uprooted, the roof of the Cady Box company's shop carried off and the First Presbyterian church damaged by the fall of trees. The streets were filled from curb to curb by the flood of rainwater and many business houses had their cellars filled by the overflow. The storm in Lowell, while very severe, was quite short, lasting only 10 minutes.

Further down the Merrimac river the storm was fully as destructive, the house and barn of Charles Jameson at West Andover being struck by lightning and burned to the ground.

The hail was first noticed in the vicinity of Wakefield, Mass., where nearly all windows facing the west suffered severely. At Salem, Mass., the hailstones were as large as birds' eggs, and broke many window panes and damaged fruit trees. The wind blew down about 15 great willow trees at Salem Willows, and injured other features of the resort. The storm in Salem lasted three quarters of an hour. The threatening aspect of the sky before the storm sent most of the small yachts to shelter.

Many trees were blown down in Marblehead, and the trolley wires damaged to some extent.

Boston felt the effect of the storm about 2:30 o'clock and for 10 minutes the rain fell in sheets, .78 of an inch being the record in that time. Some damage was done about the city by the wind, but no hail fell here.

At Brockton, 20 miles to the south, the storm put in an appearance about 3 o'clock and the lightning struck in three or four places, but without any great amount of damage.

The electrical features of the storm seemed to have exhausted themselves south of Brockton, for at Plymouth, where the storm began about 4:30 o'clock, it was unaccompanied by thunder or lightning.

There was some anxiety at Plymouth late in the afternoon as to the safety of the steamer Plymouth, which left for Boston with 30 passengers about an hour before the storm broke. The steamer was caught off the Gurnet by the northeaster which followed the storm and had a hard time getting into Boston harbor, but arrived safely at 7:30 o'clock last evening.

In this city the temperature dropped from 87 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon to 56 at 6 o'clock last night, a fall which closely resembled that of just a week ago.

As a result of the severe rainstorm which passed over the city a portion of one of the sections of the new Washington street subway caved in. Seven men barely escaped being buried beneath the falling earth and timbers. A gas main was broken and an inspector who went down to shut off the gas sustained a fracture of his leg by a second fall of debris. Traffic on the street was suspended for the night.

Habeas Corpus Petition Denied

Concord, N. H., June 27.—Justice Holmes of the supreme court of the United States has denied a petition received by him from Max Shinburn, the bank burglar, now confined in the state prison in this city. Shinburn asked for a writ of habeas corpus and the petition is denied on the ground that no federal question is involved.

Wrecked In Sight of Port

Etang Du Nord, Magdalen Islands, June 27.—Schooner Saxon, bound from Charlottetown, P. E. I., for this port, with a cargo of salt, was wrecked on Grindstone island, near here. The crew was saved. The Saxon ran into a gale and was driven ashore in sight of this port.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Beautiful Complexions and Bright Eyes

Every woman likes to have a clear, keen eye and the rosy complexion of health. No one likes the dull, heavy eye or the jaundice colored skin that goes with a Torpid Liver, Constipation, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Biliousness, etc., that makes so many women look as they feel, which is not very attractive.

Would you, ladies of America, have the rosy cheeks and bright eyes such as the women of England boast? Your English cousins have found the secret of keeping well and looking so. You can too, if you their great, popular remedy — Beecham's Pills. Remember that in all England Beecham's Pills are the universal reliance for all the minor illnesses of life. They banish the sallow skin and listless eye; they cure Indigestion, Constipation and all troubles due to an inactive liver. Just notice this yourself, but better yet, try a box. The reputation of Beecham's Pills was not made in a day, and if they could not do as claimed, their popularity would soon wane. There is that in Beecham's Pills which, although they are very mild, give the touch necessary to just put right the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Nerves. If you would be put right, use

ALMOST OPEN WAR

Disorders Reported From Many Parts of Russia Proper

STIRRED BY LODZ FIGHT

But Slight Cause May Precipitate Serious Battles In Large Polish Towns--Outbreak at Warsaw and Scattered Cases of Rioting at Lodz

St. Petersburg, June 27.—These are gloomy days for the government of Russia. Every new dispatch accentuates the seriousness of the situation in Poland and the Caucasus, where a state of almost open war exists and reports of strikes, demonstrations and agrarian disorders are pouring in from many parts of Russia proper, as if the volleys fired at Lodz had been the signal for an outbreak of general disorders like those following the events of Jan. 22, "Red Sunday."

Up to the present St. Petersburg and Moscow have not been affected, but if mobilization is to be attempted in the two capitals, as reported, a recrudescence of former tumults is apt to be precipitated.

Another danger point is Georgia (Russian Trans-Caucasia), the warlike inhabitants of which are deeply incensed over the affront offered to their clergy, 70 of whom, while meeting to discuss the question of church and state, were attacked by Cossacks, who dispersed them with knouts. The priests, in their protests against this action, refuse to solemnize baptisms, marriages and other rites of the church until redress is given by the whole orthodox church, of which the Georgian church is part. There is much discussion of the incident and the beating of the priests has caused wide indignation.

The situation offers a crucial test of the ability of General Trepoff, and the new police minister is virtually on trial before the czar and Russia to justify his selection for so responsible a post.

Dispatches from Poland continue to be meagre and unsatisfactory. Apparently up to the present there has been no recurrence of disorder on the scale of the Lodz battle, but slight cause may precipitate collisions between troops and people in Lodz, Warsaw, Kalish and other Polish towns at any moment, with death lists as large as that of Friday at Lodz.

Fearing its effect on the industrial population, the St. Petersburg newspapers are forbidden even to reproduce the account of the Lodz disorders appearing in the Warsaw Official Gazette and, though the fact that rioting has occurred is allowed to be chronicled, the censorship still bars details.

A dispatch from Erivan reports a new and alarming feature of the situation in the Caucasus in the desire of Persian Mohammedans to join their Moslem brethren across the border, which would convert a racial strife into a real "holy war" and kindle a flame which would devastate the southern Caucasus and be extinguished only by streams of blood.

Slaughter In a Cemetery

Lodz, June 27.—Since the proclamation of martial law, the situation has become quieter. The rumor of an approaching massacre of Jews has caused 20,000 Jews to leave the town.

Scattered cases of rioting as a result of the insurrectionary spirit continues. One of these occurred in the old Protestant cemetery when a patrol was fired on from behind the wall. The patrol charged and killed 12 persons, five men, four women and three children.

A case of disaffection among the troops was reported yesterday, when the officers of one regiment informed their commander that they would refuse to fire on defenseless people. The regiment was at once transferred to another place.

Serious Conditions at Warsaw

Warsaw, June 27.—The streets have been thronged with disorderly crowds since early yesterday morning. They erected barricades at Ogrodowa, Krochmalna and Wronia streets, on top of which they placed red flags. The police and soldiers stormed these barricades and 10 persons were wounded by bullets or bayonets. Another affray took place at Zelazna street, where Cossacks charged the crowd and wounded three persons. In the central market a crowd attacked a patrol with revolvers, to which the patrol replied with volleys, wounding three persons and killing a boy.

Five workmen who had refused to strike were stabbed to death by their comrades. Revolutionary proclamations have been posted on the walls and 200 persons have been arrested.

A heavy rain fell all day and this is believed to have prevented worse collisions.

The Social Democratic party and Jewish bund announce that the fight against the government must continue, but it is believed that with the present show of military force the situation will be controlled. Business is at a complete deadlock.

Urging Uprising of Peasantry

Starista, Russia, June 27.—Revolutionists from Tver (Central Russia) are scattering proclamations broadcast among the peasantry, calling on them to rise. The proclamations are apparently signed by Father Gopon, but his name is believed to have been forged.

LARCENY CHARGED

Woman Causes Arrest of Alleged Victim of Big Robbery

Boston, June 27.—Colonel Henry W. Comstock, 73 years of age, who on June 12 reported to the police here that he had been robbed of $120,000 worth of securities while a passenger from New York on board the Fall River line boat Puritan, was arrested last night by Boston police inspectors on a charge of larceny. Comstock, when taken to headquarters, gave his residence as the United States hotel, this city, but the arrest was made in a house in Cambridge.

The larceny is preferred by Mrs. Cora A. Frothingham of Atlantic, Mass., who alleges that she gave the accused two $1000 bonds of the New York Central-Lake Shore railroad, issued by the New York Central on March 28 last; that they were to be held as collateral for the purchase of 100 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio railroad shares, and that she has not received any stock nor the return of the bonds.

Comstock was placed in the Tombs for the night. He is well known in New York and Colorado. He was formerly a mining promoter in the western states.

Secretary Hay Confined to Bed

Newbury, N. H., June 27.—The condition of Secretary of State John Hay, who is confined to his bed at his summer home by an attack of uraemia, is regarded as favorable by his physicians. After a few days of rest it is expected Hay will be able to leave his room. Dr. Charles L. Scudder of Boston, who came here with Dr. F. T. Murphy of Boston on a special train in response to a message from the family, remained in the village last night, but Murphy returned home. A nurse from Boston has arrived. The attack was due to a chill caught on the journey from Washington.

Top of Boy's Head Blown Off

New Bedford, Mass., June 27.—Tommy Vokes, 5 years old, was playing with a shotgun in a careless manner when he was observed by Wilbert Henry, aged 12. Henry, afraid that harm would befall the younger child, attempted to take the gun away from him. Vokes remonstrated and tightened his hold on the weapon. In the struggle that followed the gun was discharged, blowing the entire top of Vokes' head off.

Errand Boy Did Not Assume Risk

Boston, June 27.—The full bench of the supreme court, in the case of Thomas J. Moylon, a minor, vs. D. S. McDonald company, sustained the plaintiff's exceptions, holding Judge Holmes of the superior court erred in not leaving the case with the jury. Plaintiff was injured by his foot being caught in a defective elevator in defendant's building. The boy did errands and was told to use the elevator.

One Objected to "Blood Money"

Boston, June 27.—The Boston board of aldermen, by a vote of 11 to 1, accepted the gift of $400,000 offered by Andrew Carnegie to be added to the fund left by Benjamin Franklin for the erection of a trade school. Alderman Linehan, who voted in the negative, declared that the money offered by Carnegie was "blood money" secured from the boys and men employed in the steel industries of the country.

Assaulted His Stepdaughter

Boston, June 27.—In the superior criminal court George Wainwright, a consumptive, was called upon for sentence. He had been found guilty of assaulting his stepdaughter, 13 years old. He is the father of three other children, all younger than this one. He was sentenced to a term in the state prison of not less than 10 years and not more than 15 years, the first three days to be in solitary confinement.

Accident Blocks Sporting Trip

Burlington, Vt., June 27.—Basil Ryan, the 13-year-old son of Charles Ryan of Fletcher, accidentally shot himself in the leg at Essex Junction, and on being brought to this city confessed that he stole $110 from his father and, with his cousin, James Ryan, purchased several weapons and fishing tackle and were on their way to St. Johnsbury. The boy's wound is not considered serious.

A Mysterious Disappearance

Providence, June 27.—The local police report the disappearance from home of Percy B. Gibson, who has not been seen since a week ago Friday, when he left his place of employment here, supposedly for Marion, Mass., where his wife and family are staying. It is thought his mind may have become unbalanced and that he has wandered off. He is 25 years old.

Killed Wife and Shot Self

Bangor, Me., June 27.—Elmer L. Keyes shot and killed his wife and then attempted to end his own life by firing a bullet into his chest. The police attribute the man's act to jealousy, and say that the two have had more or less difficulty during the past month. Keyes was removed to a hospital, with a chance that he will live.

Fall River Carders Strike

Fall River, Mass., June 27.—One hundred employes in the card rooms of the Iron Works mills No. 4 and 5, owned by M. C. D. Borden, are out on strike. The strike is the result of the refusal of the company to grant to the carders a 5 percent increase in pay, which was recently allowed the ring spinners.

Accidental Killing and Suicide

Stamford, Conn., June 27.—Herbert Birdsall, aged 18, accidentally shot and killed a companion, Edward Rush, and in his fright he ran into the woods and was later found dead. He had killed himself with the same weapon.

Freight Crushed Trolley Car

Baltimore, June 27.—In a collision last night between a trolley car and a freight train on the Pennsylvania railroad, one woman was killed and another was so seriously injured that her death is momentarily expected and a dozen or more were injured. The trolley car stopped before safety gates while a freight train passed. The gates were raised and the trolley proceeded. Just as the forward part was on the railroad tracks the freight backed unexpectedly. The car was knocked from the tracks and rolled over. A freight car left its rear trucks and, mounting upon the upset trolley car, crushed it like an egg shell.

Apprentices Started Strike

New York, June 27.—About 600 boilermakers, ship fitters and their apprentices went on strike from the yards of the John Robins Shipbuilding company and the Robert White Shipbuilding and Repair company in Erie basin, Brooklyn. The boilermakers' apprentices demanded an increase from $2.35 to $2.50 a day and the ship fitters' helpers asked for an increase from $1.70 to $2.50 a day. Both demands were refused, whereupon the apprentices went on strike and the journeymen joined them from sympathy.

Collision Between Crack Yachts

New York, June 27.—The turbine yacht Tarantula, owned by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and the steam yacht Norman, belonging to Frank H. Tilford, were in collision off Stepping Stone light, Long Island sound. The Tarantula put on an extra head of steam and tried to run in ahead of the Norman, but at that moment something went wrong with her steering gear and she crashed into the Norman. Both vessels were badly damaged and had to go into drydock for repairs.

Batch of Alleged Swindlers

Newark, N. J., June 27.—Five alleged swindlers, one of them a woman, were arraigned before Commissioner Bigelow and held in $1000 bail each to answer a charge of conspiracy and using the mails with intent to swindle. It is alleged that they have been conducting a bogus commission house in this city. Many merchants allege that the accused persons obtained large quantities of goods from them on credit for which they have not paid.

Butte Miner Stood Hard Pounding

Philadelphia, June 27.—Jack Johnson of California had much the better of the six-round bout with Jack Munroe of Montana here last night. The fight was hard and fast. In the last round Johnson caught Munroe hard on the face several times, but was unable to deliver a knockout blow.

Straightening Equitable Affairs

New York, June 27.—As chairman of the Equitable Life Assurance society's board of directors, Paul Morton has begun legal proceedings to recover money alleged wrongfully to have been taken from the society and he also has cut off certain perquisites in the society.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Gov. Douglas Names Charles Warren Civil Service Commissioner

[Special to the Daily Ledger.]

Governor Douglass today sent to the Council the name of Charles Warren of Dedham as Civil Service Commissioner to succeed Col. Charles H. Porter of Quincy whose term of office expires July 1.

Mr. Warren is a son of Winslow Warren and formerly private secretary of ex-Gov. Russell.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Taylor of Wollaston left Monday for Mt. Vernon, Maine, for the summer.

Miss Lillian Pratt and Miss Grace E. Drumm took the steamboat trip to Plymouth on Monday. They were half an hour out from Plymouth on the return when the storm struck the boat, but she weathered it safely.

H. W. Vinson of Wollaston, made the third best gross score in the open golf tournament at Chestnut Hill on Saturday. Other Wollaston men who entered were J. A. Campbell, D. E. Little and M. Alden.

The horse of Elias Pelto, the milkman, run away this morning. He started near the Quincy Adams station where he left the body of the wagon, and run as far as the Daily Ledger office with the front wheels, where he was stopped. No one was hurt.

Merrymounts Vs Quincys.

The Merrymount base ball team is getting in trim for the next big championship game, and will meet the Quincy team at the park Saturday afternoon. The positions will be filled with about the same men as usual. Cole, who was recently injured, will be in the diamond again, ready to play the strong game of ball that is natural to him.

The Merrymounts were much encouraged by the game last Saturday and are determined to work hard for the championship.

On the Fourth the Merrymounts will play their last championship game. They will be matched against the West Quincy team at the park. Manager Kiley of the latter team is getting together the strongest combination of base ball men available and the Merrymounts will undoubtedly have a hard struggle.

It is hoped that a large crowd of rooters will be present at both the Saturday and the Tuesday games. It is very evident that teams, which can play the kind of base ball, that the teams trying for the championship are playing, are worthy of much encouragement and support.

Want a Quiet Fourth?

All who want a quiet Fourth must be careful not to look at the pictorial story of the celebration which Kitty and Danny got up with the aid of Uncle Henry in the Boston Globe next Sunday. It will set the house in a roar. Billy the Boy Artist will also have a glorious Fourth at the expense of Professors O. Howe Wise and I. B. Schmart. The Sunday Globe will contain a remarkable Fourth of July cap with an immense spread eagle on it, which little girls, as well as little boys, will delight to cut out and wear.

One of the strangest and strongest serial stories ever devised is about to begin in the Boston Globe, and the opening chapters of it will be published next Sunday.

—An editor has been elected superintendent of schools at Portland, Maine, —W. H. Brownson of the Daily Advertiser. Has been on school board fourteen years.

—G. A. Southworth has resigned as superintendent of schools at Somerville, after 12 years of service. Was 20 years a teacher.

—George P. Hitchcock has been elected head master of the Brookline High school to fill vacancy.

WHIPPING EGGS.

An Art With Which Many Expert Cooks Are Not Familiar.

Whipping eggs is an art with which even many experienced cooks are not familiar. Wire egg beaters are the right sort to use for angel food, meringues or anything in which the cells are to be coarse, as this will beat the air in to inflate them. Wheel egg beaters are better for the cake that is to have a fine grain.

For batter puddings and popovers beat the eggs little. For cream puffs do not beat them at all. For omelet (unless it is a souffle) and German pancake try beating the eggs in this way: Put the whites in the bowl and beat them light. Turn the yolks into the froth and beat enough to mix them through it.

Beat the whites and yolks together and not to a light consistency for custard either boiled or baked and all custard puddings. Simply stir the yolk a few times with a fork for mayonnaise before beginning to drop the oil into it.

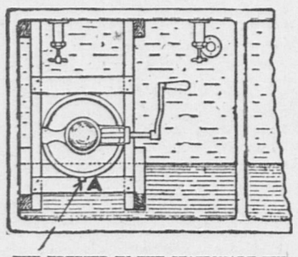

For souffles, Spanish cream and tapioca puddings beat the whites separately and as light as possible, so they will rise to the top after being incorporated. Mix the whites of the eggs into the sugar and beaten yolks before adding the flour and baking powder for sponge cake. Add to the mixture as many tablespoonfuls of boiling water as there are eggs in the cake. For delicate cake fold in the whites the last thing as lightly as possible.

To mix white of eggs with cream beat light and add to the cream (also beaten stiff) a short time before it is to be used. This is a delightful mixture for anything which demands whipped cream, as it is less rich and is also a good substitute for the old fashioned pudding sauces in which egg whites are beaten up with sherry and sugar. Flavored in this way or simply sweetened with the addition of a few gratings of nutmeg, this combination makes a delicious sauce for little baked batter puddings.

THE ICE CREAM FREEZER.

A Convenient Place In Which to Keep and Operate It.

As nearly all people do who get an ice cream freezer, we found its use entailed much hard work, especially when it has to be operated in the cellar, necessitating several journeys up and down stairs. Into the end of one of the set tubs I fitted a frame which could not move. This I made of a crate in which furniture had been sent.

THE FREEZER IN THE STATIONARY TUB.

By cutting a notch in the crosspiece of wood and screwing a small piece of wood (A) to the freezer the machine is held from twisting around and is in a comfortable position to turn. The drain water merely runs off into the tubs, and when frozen the cream is convenient to serve, and there is no large amount of cleaning up. Ice is handy, as the refrigerator is usually on this same floor, and the freezer can be kept in the tubs and removed only when they are used for other purposes. —Good Housekeeping.

How the Teacher Was to Blame.

The parents of a child of six complained to his teacher that the little boy was not progressing in his studies. It was hinted that the money paid justified expectations not met with. The teacher had several times found the little chap asleep in the middle of his studies, and when not asleep he was an inveterate yawner. The teacher ventured to ask at what hour the child went to bed every evening.

"With me," said the father. "He doesn't like to go to bed alone, so he stays up with me every evening."

"And that is?" ventured a physician standing by.

"Eleven o'clock; sometimes 10:30," said the father. "But that is not the point," he added. "Why does he not progress in his studies? What is the sense of my paying my money?"

The teacher and the physician looked at each other. What was the use?

Of course the school and the teacher were to blame. Who else?—Ladies' Home Journal.

Bath Bags.

It is claimed that soap baths rob the skin of its natural oil and should not be frequent. So bath bags made of oatmeal or bran or almond meal are used in place of soap. A good selection is oatmeal in a cheesecloth bag, just large enough to handle easily, for the milky fluid that comes from it when wet is soft and much like soap. It makes the skin white and smooth and is said to nourish it in a small degree. It is best to make two bags with finished seams and empty them directly after using. If the oats dry the task is harder. As the bags are used like a sponge they need to be washed and boiled in the general wash. Oatmeal is cheaper than soap, so the matter of expense can be dismissed.

Bath Mitts and Towels.

Bath mitts and towels admirably adapted to massaging the flesh and producing a pleasant glow are made of a wool braid an eighth of an inch in width. These are very loosely woven and in such a manner that each row represents a series of small cubes, thus giving the desired texture

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Fetching Frock For the Boy or Girl Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4663

Among frocks for little folks there is nothing more youthful and becoming than the one piece dress in plait effect. Here is one showing broad plaits in full length which furnish ample fullness for the skirt and give the little fellow a trim, sturdy appearance. The frock closes at one side of the front beneath the generous box plait, and large pearl buttons add to its attractiveness. The belt, which may be of the material or leather, confines the plaits in long waisted effect and may be worn over or under the front box plait. The sleeve is the popular bishop model which is so simply constructed. Blue or white butchers' linen would make this small garment a very fetching one for summer, while any of the woolen fabrics might be used for cold weather wear. Pattern No. 4663 comes in sizes 2 to 9 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 4663, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

The Magazines.

If you want to feel glad that you are alive and able to enjoy the wealth of outdoor treasures that our magnificent country affords, just read the Country Calendar for July.

John Burrough's keen eye and quiet philosophy appear in some intimate personal notes from his July diary in this number. Not far off are stirring adventures, new nature history, and curious photographs from William L. Finley, the brilliant young naturalist-photographer, who contributes a record of five days and nights on a wave-battered Pacific rocks, alone with myriads of sea-birds. You will find here an authoritative appreciation of Dr. Charles Sprague Sargent's unique tree garden to last a thousand years, together with Ernest Harold Baynes' striking account and no less striking photographs of the largest herd of bison in the world, whose existance is a mute reproach to the National Government. And through these, through the other features, which sweep from the California red-woods to the Jersey pines, through the bright and trustworthy editorials, through the several departments, veritable searchlights to the eager country dweller, there runs the same worship and knowledge of the priceless benefit of the open air.

HOW HE GOT THERE

[Original.]

General Nogi was sitting in his tent before Port Arthur when it was announced that Martin Bowles, an American who had been granted an interview, was waiting without. The general directed that the man be admitted.

Martin Bowles was a light complexioned man, with very little of the American in him. Indeed, he had been in Europe ever since he was ten years old, and all of the Yankee had been dropped except the dare devil spirit that he had inherited from his father, who had been one of Mosby's men in the American civil war, while his mother had been born in Connecticut. Young Bowles was closeted with General Nogi for two hours, at the end of which time he emerged from the tent and went his way.

* * * * * * *

The Russians in one of the principal forts defending Port Arthur were expecting a night attack. Their searchlights were moving nervously over the slopes beneath, star rockets were bursting in the air, casting brief and faint illuminations into depressions directly beneath them, while parachute torches served the same purpose of throwing light directly downward.

On a side hill opposite the Russian forts crouched a man. The light cast by the star rockets and parachutes was too faint to reveal him, but he would be readily seen if a searchlight were pointed directly at him. He watched their motions till he saw one coming in his direction. It was moving slowly, as if the searchers were examining every detail. Presently it reached his position and stopped.

There is something trying in having one of these silent sheaves of light pointed at you. You know some one hidden in darkness is looking at you. Every stone, every blade of grass about you, glistening, tells how plainly you are seen, and you expect either to hear the spiteful "ping" of a sharp shooter's bullet or feel it pierce your vitals.

But the man on the hillside had no such fear. Indeed, he was pleased when the light was turned upon him and stopped. He wore a tattered Russian uniform, and as soon as he was satisfied that he was observed he waved his hand. Then immediately the searchlight was turned away.

The man got up and walked rapidly down the hill. Midway between the position he had occupied and the fort he met a company of Russian soldiers. The commander of the fort had sent them to enable one of their comrades to enter his own lines. Perhaps he might have valuable information. He was taken to the general, who questioned him eagerly.

He said that he was Ivan Vestlovsky and had belonged to the garrison of a fort near by on the right which had been stormed and taken the day before at dusk. He had escaped in the gathering darkness and hidden in a deserted rifle pit on the hillside. There he had observed the dispositions of the Japanese, who were forming for an attack.

"Where are their strongest forces?" asked the general, "on our right or left?"

"From my position," replied Ivan, "under the light of your rockets and parachutes, I could see them massing on your left. There is a small force on your right, but they seemed to me to be nearly ready to move."

"I see," said the general. "That wily fox Nogi is going to feint on our right and storm our left." Then he gave orders to move the most effective guns to the left.

On the Russian right was the hill on which Ivan Vestlovsky had been discovered. It was just high enough to prevent the Russians from seeing over its crest. On their left was a comparatively long stretch of open ground swept by their artillery, beyond which the ground was again uneven. At 2 o'clock in the morning suddenly a parachute revealed a force of Japanese marching in a depression in the ground far to the right where the view was not obstructed by the hill. At the time a considerable force was observed further away on the left. This seemed to confirm Ivan's story. But the force on the right grew larger and when within range an overwhelming force of Japanese hurried over the crest of the hill and before the guns could be turned swept on to the moat, planted scaling ladders and in a twinkling the fort had been captured.

"I wish to see General Nogi," said one of the Russian prisoners in fairly good Japanese.

The officer in charge looked at the man as if he suspected his sanity, but was still more surprised when the general hurrying up with his staff was hailed by the prisoner, and turning came up to him and embraced him.

"We owe you everything," he said. Then he told the officer that he would take the prisoner away with him.

The two went to that side of the fort which had not been fought over and when the general saw the guns all there he embraced the prisoner again.

"Mr. Bowles," he said, "I saw through my glass the Russians moving these guns and knew that your ruse had been successful. You have enabled us at the risk of your life to capture easily a strong fort in our way. Now, how can I reward you?"

"General," replied Mr. Bowles, "I am a born American, and a Yankee never does something for nothing? I represent an American newspaper and I want permission to send dispatches."

"Keep near to my headquarters," said the general with a grim smile, "and I'll favor you whenever I can do it without risking my plans."

"I knew I'd get there," said the Yankee. ARTHUR D. BERWICK.

POLLS AN INDEX.

Quincy's Population Now Over 30,000.

Gain of 2,390 in Polls in 5 Years.

Should Indicate Gain of 9,000 in Population.

The figures of the Assessors that there are this year in the city 8727 polls is a good basis for estimating the population of Quincy. The number of assessed polls in May each year have been as follows:

In 1888,	4,096
In 1889,	4,500
In 1890,	4,763
In 1891,	5,160
In 1892,	5,351
In 1893,	5,533
In 1894,	5,920
In 1895,	5,833
In 1896,	5,856
In 1897,	6,031
In 1898,	6,126
In 1899,	6,502
In 1900,	6,337
In 1901,	7,021
In 1902,	7,554
In 1903,	8,120
In 1904,	8,279
In 1905,	8,727

The gain in polls in five years—1900 to 1905—has been 2,390. Four times this should indicate the gain in population or 9,660, which added to 23,899, the census figures in 1900, and Quincy has a total population of 33,459.

The census figures of late have been as follows:

In 1885,	12,145
In 1890,	16,726
In 1895,	20,712
In 1900,	23,899

The 4763 polls in 1890 were over 28 per cent. of the population; the 5833 polls in 1895 were over 23 per cent., and the 6337 polls in 1900 were over 26 per cent. If the polls are less than 30 per cent., the population is over 30,000.

Liquor Cases.

Editor of Quincy Daily Ledger:

Dear Sir:—The enclosed item appeared in yesterday's issue of your paper. I would esteem it a favor if you would today re-publish it with the following comment:

"The case of John McKenzie, for maintaining a liquor nuisance at Quincy Point occupied the attention of the district court, Monday, until late in the afternoon. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $75, from which he appealed. George E. Adams, Esq., represented the government and J. J. McAnarney, Esq., the defendant. McKenzie was convicted in 1903 for keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

In the case of Frederick A. Thayer for violation of the liquor laws, which was heard Monday, Thayer was found not guilty and discharged."

It is a fact as appears from the above article that two liquor cases were tried on Monday last, to wit:—The Thayer case and the McKenzie case; in both of these cases George E. Adams, Esq., appeared as counsel for the government and I appeared as counsel for the defendants. In the case against Mr. Thayer, which case in number and character of witnesses summoned for the government was the most important case and took most of the day to try the defendant was discharged. Reference to your article above quoted shows that the names of counsels are omitted in this case. The obvious unfairness of the article is that, in the case where George E. Adams, Esq., won, names of counsel appear but in case where George E. Adams, Esq., loses, names of counsel are omitted. Notice would not have been taken of this matter if it were the first time it had occurred. I do not know whether this is the work of your esteemed reporter or the commendable enterprise of the rising young lawyer; that is immaterial. I feel that you would not knowingly publish matter that was unfair to either party and earnestly request that if in the future you publish names of counsel in lower court cases that the same be done without discrimination.

Very respectfully yours,
J. J. McAnarney.

The President's Class.

At least three former residents of Quincy attended the dinner of the Class of 1880 of Harvard University at Hotel Somerset, Boston, on Tuesday. The honored guest was President Roosevelt, a member of the class. Among those present were Hon. Josiah Quincy, the ex-Mayor of Boston; Rev. Sherrard Billings of Groton, a native of Quincy; and Frederic Allison Tupper, recently head master of the Quincy High School.

A race will be held by the Wollaston Yacht club July Fourth.

BOYS SENTENCED.

Took a Launch Without Leave and Started tor Sail.

Henry E. Hayden and William J. Griffiths, two Quincy youths, took a day off Tuesday. Going to Houghs Neck they hired a row boat and started out for a row. When off the Bay Side, North Weymouth, the launch of Dr. Frank Sawyer which was gracefully riding at anchor attracted their attention.

Neither knew anything about running a gasolene launch, but that did not matter. They decided that they would take a little sail, intending to return the launch later. They cast off the mooring rope, and started for a sail.

They got away some distance when something went wrong and they were hung up. A boat put out from the Bay Side and towed them in. The boys were arrested and brought into court.

The complaint was for stealing a launch. This was changed later to stealing a ride.

The court sentenced each of the boys to three months in the house of correction, but suspended sentence for three months, meanwhile they are in charge of the probation officer, and if no further complaints are made against them the case will eventually be placed on file.

Came As a Surprise.

The action of Gov. Douglas in appointing Charles Warren, of Dedham, in place of Charles H. Porter, of Quincy, on the Civil Service commission, come as a surprise to Mr. Porter and the board.

Mr. Porter is now chairman of the board and is a Republican. Mr. Warren is a Democrat, so that, if confirmed, his membership on the board will give a majority of its members to the Democratic party for the first time since the creation of the commission. The other Democrat on the board is Bentley W. Warren.

Jones—Morgan.

Miss Sadie A. Morgan was married, at her home, No. 1339 Pearl street, Alameda, Cal., at 8.30 P. M. Wednesday, June 14, 1905, to 1st Lieut. Walter C. Jones, 13th Infantry, U. S. Army. The Rev. Dr. Franklin N. Bugbee of Christ church, Alameda, officiated. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Harwood Morgan. The small gathering witnessing the ceremony consisted of relatives and a few very intimate friends of the bride. Lieut. and Mrs. Jones, after a short leave of absence, will be stationed at Discharge camp, Angel Island, Cal., until the departure of his regiment, the 13th U. S. Infantry, for Manila, P. I., on Sept. 30, 1905.

Cannot Get Grain Quotations

Chicago, June 28.—The Hammond Elevator company, with headquarters in Hammond, Ind., has been restrained by an injunction granted in the United States district court from in any way receiving or securing the grain quotations of the Chicago Board of Trade. The injunction is the result of a long struggle by the Chicago Board of Trade against alleged bucket shops in Chicago. Since the formation of the Hammond conspiracy the concern has secured a network of wires covering the entire middle west.

Yarmouth Bank Officers Indicted

Yarmouth, N. S., June 28.—The grand jury has reported a true bill against T. L. Johns, formerly cashier of the defunct Bank of Yarmouth. Johns was charged with falsifying returns which were made to the government each month. The grand jury also found a true bill against William Perry, teller of the bank, who is charged with the larceny of $4000 from the institution. The Bank of Yarmouth closed its doors four months ago, owing more than $1,000,000.

Opposed to Bernadotte Prince

Stockholm, June 28.—King Oscar says that he will not consent to placing a prince of the house of Bernadotte on the throne of Norway. The only condition under which he could reconsider this decision, he says, would be the unexpected expression of the wish of the riksdag that a prince of the house of Bernadotte should ascend the Norwegian throne.

Panama's Latest Affliction

San Jose, C. R., June 28.—The government of Costa Rica has received cable advices that the bubonic plague prevails at Panama and a strict quarantine has been ordered against ships arriving from Panaman ports.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A LOYAL ALUMNUS

Roosevelt, as Private Citizen, at Harvard Anniversary

HE MEETS FRIENDS OF '80

Reunion, Luncheon and Banquet on the Day's Program--Braved Torrents of Rain Rather Than Disappoint the Public

Cambridge, Mass., June 28.—Joining with his former college mates in celebrating the 25th anniversary of the graduation of their class from Harvard, President Roosevelt returned to his alma mater—not as the chief magistrate of the nation, but as a private citizen and a loyal Harvard alumnus.

Although the ancient university of Harvard would have been glad to pay him all the honor due his position, it was at the president's own request that he be regarded merely as a member of the class of '80 rather than as the President of the United States. Nevertheless, students, alumni and the citizens of Cambridge united in giving him a hearty greeting as he drove through the streets.

The president's day was a busy one. Arriving in Boston at 6:45 in the morning, he was driven to the Cambridge residence of Bishop Lawrence, where he is being entertained during his sojourn here. Breakfast was served at the bishop's home, and among those present, in addition to the president and Private Secretary Loeb, were the president's son, Kermit, who came on from the Groton school, where he is a student; President Eliot of Harvard university, Judge Lowell of the United States circuit court, and Rev. Samuel Crothers, pastor of the First Parish (Unitarian) church of Cambridge.

During the forenoon President Roosevelt visited the rooms of the Alpha Delta Phi society, the Harvard stadium and the Chestnut Hill residence of George C. Lee, the father of the president's first wife.

The president was then driven to the Oakley Country club, in Watertown, where the class of '80 held an informal reunion and luncheon was served. A photograph of the class was taken and also a photograph of the members of the class who belonged to the same dining club as the president when they were students. Of the 166 members of the class of '80, 130 have registered at class headquarters, representing nearly every state in the Union.

Returning from the Oakley Country club, the president was driven to the rooms of the Porcellian club, an organization of Harvard students, where he stayed about half an hour. He then returned to Bishop Lawrence's home, from whence he was driven to the Hotel Somerset, in Boston, where the banquet of the class of '80 was held.

The president was greeted with a rousing class cheer as he rose to speak, and his remarks were frequently applauded. At his request, no portion of his informal address was made public. During the evening William Hooper, in behalf of the class, presented a loving cup to President Roosevelt. The cup was engraved as follows: "To Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, from his classmates in Harvard college, 1880-1905."

As on his visit to Massachusetts last week, rain marred the president's program. As the president's carriage was driven out of Bishop Lawrence's yard in the forenoon on the trip to the rooms of the Alpha Delta Phi society, the rain began to pour in torrents. The president insisted that the hood of the carriage be lowered in order that the people who had gathered to see him might not be disappointed, and though the rain fell in a perfect flood, the president rode through it apparently not in the least disconcerted.

At various points along the streets through which the presidential party passed during the day people, principally women and children, were gathered to cheer him as he rode by. To all their greetings he had a bow and a smile.

The president was accompanied on his drive by a secret service officer and a squad of mounted policemen. After visiting the stadium the police escort was dismissed temporarily and the president's carriage was unattended from the stadium to Chestnut Hill and from thence to the Oakley Country club. On the way through Brookline few persons recognized President Roosevelt, as his visit to the Lee residence had not been announced, and he was not expected in that section.

Legislature May Remove Hooker

Albany, June 28.—The New York state senate judiciary committee has decided that the legislature has power to remove Supreme Court Justice Hooker under the charges of misconduct formally approved by the assembly, at the opening of the extraordinary session called by the governor to consider the Hooker case. A copy of the charges will be served upon Hooker, who is then expected to present his defense.

To Run String of Banks

New York, June 28.—E. R. Thomas, with O. F. Thomas and R. L. Beechman, have secured a controling interest in the stock of the Mechanics and Traders' bank of this city. It is understood that the new interests intend to use the bank as headquarters for a chain of out of town institutions. The bank is a state institution, capitalized at $700,900, with $6,500,000 deposits. It was organized in 1830.

HAD BEEN DRINKING

Maine Woman Slain and Two Men Held by Authorities

South Thomaston, Me., June 28.—Mrs. Annie Bishop of Rockland, 45 years old, was found dead at the home of James Malony in this town, with an ugly wound on her head and cuts on the fingers of the right hand. John Malony, 40 years old, the son of James, is under arrest on suspicion, and his father is being held as a witness. The police claim that the Malonys tell conflicting stories regarding the woman's death.

The first news of the tragedy came when James Malony appeared at the home of Dr. Horne and told the physician that Mrs. Bishop was dead. Dr. Horne started at once for the Malony house and upon his arrival found the body of the woman lying on a bed. The bed clothing was saturated with blood, and there were many stains on the walls. On the head was a deep wound or cut which had evidently bled freely, while there were cuts on the fingers and thumb of the right hand. The room was in disorder and there were several empty liquor bottles on the floor. James Malony admitted to Dr. Horne that he, his son and Mrs. Bishop had all been drinking.

James Malony is 58 years old and his son 18 years younger. They live alone in a small house on the outskirts of the town. Mrs. Malony has been dead for some years.

Crane Consults With Merchants

Boston, June 28.—United States Senator Crane lunched and consulted with the sub-committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce reciprocity committee. Senator Crane stated to the members that he was in favor of a revision of the tariff along Republican lines, but advised the members of the committee not to seek as a body to nominate or endorse any candidate for office at the state convention, but to confine their efforts to the platform to be adopted at that convention.

Dropped Lamp Into Gasolene

Newport, R. I., June 28.—The seventon Gloucester gasolene seiner Columbia, manned by two men, caught fire and burned to the water's edge about 10 miles off the entrance of the harbor. The two men, Henry B. Pembroke and James Eler, after trying to subdue the flames, jumped into their dory and rowed 20 miles to this city. Captain Pembroke states that the engine broke down and while in the cabin fixing it, he dropped a lighted lamp into some gasolene on the floor of the boat.

Crew Abandoned Schooner

Boston, June 28.—The crew of the Searsport, Me., schooner Edward L. Warren, consisting of Captain Cosson and three men, were landed here last night by the Norwegian steamer Kong Fronde, which took them from their dismasted and sinking vessel 80 miles south of Nantucket lightship. The Warren was dismasted in a heavy sea two hours before the Fronde came in sight. The Warren had left Bangor with a carload of spruce spars for Baltimore.

Hard on Old Arcanians

Boston, June 28.—A formal protest against an increase in rates has been lodged with the executive committee of the Royal Arcanum by the Lockport council of Lockport, N. Y. Supreme Regent Wiggin says that the executive committee of the supreme council were hard at work for more than two years trying to perfect the present plan, and, while it is hard on the old members, he thinks it is the best thing for the order.

Careless Handling of Rifle

Gloucester, Mass., June 28.—Robert Crofts, 40 years old, a member of the crew of the schooner Speculator, was shot in the lung and seriously injured by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of one of three boys, Freeman Monroe, John Swinson and Charles Mason. The three young men are being held, pending the outcome of Crofts' wound. The police believe the shooting was accidental.

Does Not Remember Tragedy

Bangor, Me., June 28.—Elmer Keyes, station agent of the Maine Central railroad, who, it is alleged, shot and killed his wife at their home here Sunday night, and then shot himself, is recovering. He has recovered consciousness, but says he does not remember anything concerning the tragedy. The police are guarding Keyes.

Lowe to Remain In Prison

Boston, June 28.—The executive council voted not to recommend a pardon for Thomas Lowe, who is serving a term of life imprisonment at the state prison. Lowe was sentenced for killing little Nellie Sullivtn at North Andover 20 years ago, and recently a petition for his pardon was sent to the council.

Failure of Rubber Company

Boston, June 28.—George M. Conant and Herbert J. Conant of the Conant Rubber company have filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. The company has an office in this city and a factory in South Framingham. The liabilities are given as $136,312, of which $117,871 is unsecured.

Hay's Condition Improved

Newbury, N. H., June 28.—The condition of Secretary of State Hay continues favorable. The cold, wet weather has proved a slight drawback, but notwithstanding the dampness, Hay's condition has improved noticeably since Sunday night.

Midsummer Snow Flurry

Newport, R. I., June 28.—A snow flurry, lasting for about two minutes, visited this place yesterday. There were many heavy showers during the day, with many changes in temperature.

RUSSIANS CUT OFF

Nogi Said to Have Surrounded Seventy Thousand

KUROPATKIN IS CAPTURED

Rumors at St Petersburg Are Not Confirmed, but Advices From the Front Indicate That They May Be True--Russian Military Experts Not Hopeful

St. Petersburg, June 28.—A rumor spread throughout the city last night that General Kuropatkin had been killed. This rumor was connected with a report that 70,000 Russians had been cut off by General Nogi's army and that Kuropatkin had been taken prisoner.

Nothing confirmatory of these rumors has been received either by the general staff or in press dispatches.

A report received from General Linevitch indicates that the Japanese advance continues steadily and that the Russian van posts, under pressure, are retiring fighting.

The military experts take anything but a hopeful view of Linevitch's situation. They apparently do not consider the possibility of a Russian victory. Linevitch's retirement to Harbin and the isolation of Vladivostok when Field Marshal Oyama strikes seem to be regarded as foregone conclusions.

Date For Envoys' Meeting

St. Petersburg, June 28.—The foreign office has issued a communication confirming the statement that Russia has accepted the first 10 days in August as the time within which the first meeting of the peace plenipotentiaries will take place. The precise date depends upon the time of the arrival at Washington of the Japanese representatives.

Russia's Internecine Strife

St. Petersburg, June 28.—The wave of disorder rolling over Russia has appeared at Odessa, where a general strike, accompanied by bloodshed and disorders, has broken out. There were several collisions between the military and the strikers Monday night and yesterday, in two of which volleys were fired by the troops. No report of the extent of the casualities has been received, the official statement dealing only with the initial encounter Monday night.

A telegram to the official agency gives the number of killed and those who died of their wounds at Lodz on Friday as 164. It adds that others were killed Saturday and Sunday and that the complete number of victims cannot be stated definitely. Other accounts give a total estimate of 500 dead at Lodz.

War on Socialism

Warsaw, June 28.—A secret meeting of 200 Socialists in a forest near Lodz was surprised by Cossacks and 18 of the Socialists were wounded and 180 arrested. The authorities are making an insistent search for the Socialist leaders. In the course of the search yesterday a number of persons were killed or wounded. All the restaurants and liquor stores have been ordered closed.

Waiting For Admiralty's Report

St. Petersburg, June 28.—British Ambassador Hardinge has made renewed representations to Foreign Minister Lamsdorff on the subject of the sinking of the British steamer Ikhona by the Russian cruiser Terek on June 5, 150 miles north of Hong Kong. Lamsdorff has replied that the admiralty has not yet reported on the matter.

Russain Mobilization Continues

St. Petersburg, June 28.—Mobilizations have been ordered in Tsarskoe-Selo, 15 miles from St. Petersburg, and Velmar, in the government of Livonia.

Strong Amti-American Campaign

Pekin, June 28.—Advertisements of American goods continue to be refused by the native newspapers and the central government is strongly urged to take a firm stand against Chinese exclusion from the United States. The chief obstacle is the question of exclusion of coolies from Hawaii and the Philippines. The boycott of goods from the United States continues and the anti-American campaign is increasing in vigor.

Big Cartridge Contract Awarded

Washington, June 28.—A contract for 9,000,000 rounds of ball cartridges of calibre .30 has been awarded by the war department, the contract being divided equally between the Winchester Repeating Arms company, the Union Metallic Cartridge company and the United States Cartridge company. The bid of the three companies was identical in every particular, the price of each being $42.50 per 1000 rounds.

Successful Flight of Airship

Toledo, June 28.—A. R. Knabenshue has made a trip in his new airship, which he has just completed. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock he started on a trip over the city and sailed his new airship for 45 minutes, going with and against the wind. The trip was a very successful one.

Lobstermen's Boat Capsized

Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 28.—Thomas Jackson, aged 46, and William Stewart, aged 15, lobster fishermen, were drowned at the entrance to Georgetown harbor. Their boat dragged her anchor, drifted among the breakers and was capsized.

CANAL FRICTION

May Have Been Cause of Resignation of Wallace

DEPARTMENT RED TAPE

Friends of Chief Engineer Say That Hampering Executive Orders Led to His Action--Serious Differences as to Conduct of Work on the Isthums

Washington, June 28.—The announcement of the resignation of John F. Wallace as chief engineer of the Panama canal commission was not altogether unexpected in view of his request some time ago to be allowed to come to this country to discuss affairs with Secretary Taft. Members of the commission do not desitate to say that his resignation will greatly embarrass the commission in its work and may necessitate the postponement of the meeting of the full commission in September.

The possibility of Wallace's resignation has been discussed informally in the commission for several days, but Secretary Taft is stated to have been really the only person who had an inkling of Wallace's intentions. That the secretary held strong views on the subject was known to several of his friends and it is expected that there may yet be some interesting developments before the official resignation is announced by the government.

It is understood that Wallace, when he last conferred with the officials before leaving for the isthmus, expressed himself as deeply gratified at the consideration shown him and declared his entire satisfaction with the plan for the administration of the canal.

Of the circumstances of Wallace's resignation there are two versions, one coming from friends of some of the canal commissioners, the other from friends of Wallace. The first is to the effect that the resignation of Wallace was requested, because of differences between the chief engineer, members of the commission, Secretary Taft and through the latter with President Roosevelt. The other deals with department red tape and hampering executive orders, which have led Wallace to accept a position of very great importance as the head of a great railway system. This latter version contradicts the assertion that his resignation was demanded, or that he was recalled to this country, and sets forth that he came at his own request, and announced his intention of dropping the canal work to Taft at the Hotel Manhattan last Sunday.

That serious differences in the conduct of the work on the isthmus had arisen between the chief engineer, the administration and some members of the canal board was known almost the first week after Wallace arrived at Panama. It was Wallace's first engineering work where politics or administrative policy had any part to play.

Of the denouement the New York Herald says: "The red tape, delay in obtaining supplies, methods in advancing the loans according to procedure at Washington, were all strange to him, and became irksome. Being practical, used to direct business methods, with absolutely no interest in any concern or company which would have supplies to sell, he rebelled at certain restrictions and rules placed upon him.

"Being chief engineer of a great undertaking, knowing that he would be held responsible for failure, he insisted that he should be put in a position to have absolute control. He objected, for instance, to an order issued by the secretary of war that he could not depart from the isthmus unless he obtained permission from the war department. He objected to orders that made it necessary for minor officials to supervise, or pass upon the smallest detail of routine. Particularly was this irksome when members of the canal commission demanded that they should have a hand in everything, although they were not on the ground to know definitely what was going on."

Taft to Confer With President

Boston, June 28.—Secretary of War Taft arrived here yesterday afternoon and will have a talk with President Roosevelt at Cambridge today. It is understood that the resignation of Chief Engineer John F. Wallace of the Panama canal, who is also a member of the commission, will be discussed. The president has not yet been informed of the details of the discussion between Taft and Wallace, which led to the latter's resignation both as chief engineer and member of the canal commission.

No Testimony From Mitchell

Portland, Or., June 28.—United States Senator Mitchell did not testify for himself in the land fraud cases, and the long trial has practically come to a close. Only one witness was examined by the defense, J. A. Martin of Portland, who testified that he had asked Mitchell to secure the establishment of the harbor lines in order that a wharf might be constructed. The senator did as requested and refused compensation for his services.

Strikers Resort to Rioting

Bay City, Mich., June 28.—Mayor Hine has issued a call for 50 special police as the result of rioting which broke out in several sections of the city last night. It was the first time that the street railway company has attempted to keep cars running after dark since the beginning of the street railway strike.

AN AMICABLE SPIRIT

Germany's Moroccan Attitude Not a Menace to France

Paris, June 28.—Germany's reply to the French note on the subject of Morocco was presented during a conference between Prince Radolin, the German ambassador, and Premier Rouvier. While most friendly in form and entirely lacking a peremptory tone, the response maintains the position that the Moroccan question must be regulated by a conference of the powers without any agreement in advance limiting the scope of such conference. This was accompanied by the presentation of Germany's general point of view in such an amicable spirit as to disarm the suspicion entertained concerning Germany's ulterior motives.

It is thought that Premier Rouvier will be prepared to terminate the controversy either by accepting the conference or submitting counter-proposals. However, no decision will be taken until the German note has been submitted to the council of ministers next Friday, so that final determination remains in abeyance. It is the general expectation that an agreement will be reached on the basis of a conference.

Tension in official quarters has notably diminished and this is only explainable on the theory that a conference will be accepted. The agreeable tone adopted by Germany and the entire absence of menace appear to create the most favorable impression.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Melanson and Mrs Young Held

Digby, N. S., June 28.—As a result of a preliminary hearing on the death of the 6-year-old child, May Young, whose body, bound and gagged, was found in Plympton woods on June 16 last, May H. Young, mother of the child, and Kingsley Melanson, with whom she boarded, were held for trial. The court also held as witnesses Elmer L. Young of Boston, father of the child, and Marie Ward, whose child was found also gagged, but alive, not far from the body of the Young child.

Politicians Fined and Imprisoned

Philadelphia, June 28.—William Yost, judge of election in the 13th ward, pleaded guilty to making a fraudulent return of election and was sentenced to five months in the county prison and to pay a fine of $500. Bernard Strauss, inspector in the same division, was fined $500 and sentenced to five months' imprisonment, and William Glenn, the inspector's clerk, was fined $500 and sentenced to four months' imprisonment, both pleading guilty of conspiracy.

Stretched Himself Two Inches

Annapolis, Md., June 28.—Among those successfully passing the mental examinations for admission to the naval academy was Luther Welsh of Kansas City, who, finding during his preparatory work that he was too short to meet the requirements, which demand that those entering the academy must be at least 5 feet 2 inches in height, underwent a stretching process in which a specially devised machine figured. Welsh gained the needed two inches.

Jumped Six Stories to Death

Washington, June 28.—Captain Robert D. Graham, a lawyer, 65 years old, who served in the Confederate army throughout the Civil war, and the son of a former cabinet officer, committed suicide by leaping from a window of the sixth floor of an apartment house. He had been ill for some time and, it is thought, became despondent. Graham was for three years secretary of the Civil service commission.

Stories Were Exaggerated

Nogales, A. T., June 28.—The only foundation for the stories sent out from this place regarding the attack by Yaqui Indians upon the Buenos Ayres ranch in Sonora, in which over 20 Yaquis and several settlers and their families were said to have been slain, was a fight occurring at the ranch in which two Indians were killed and a Mexican was wounded. There was no attempt at a massacre.

Stole and Spent Fortunes

New York, June 28.—"Big Frank" McCoy, one time notorious bank burglar, died on Blackwells island of a complication of diseases. McCoy was penniless and for some years past had lived a hand-to-mouth existence on the East Side. McCoy at different times in his career was possessed of considerable means, but he spent his money as fast as he got it.

Betting Ring Deserted

St. Louis, June 28.—Sheriff Herpel, with a force of deputies, was present at Delmar race track and announced that any attempt at betting or bookmaking would result in arrests. The races were run, but there was no betting. Comparatively few spectators were present.

Old Man Stoned to Death

Savannah, Ills., June 28.—Jesse Koser, 18 years old, has confessed that, following a quarrel, he stoned to death Jacob Weaver, aged 65. Koser and a brother, aged 16, and their father have been held to the grand jury as accessories. All are laborers.

To Explore Labrador

St. Johns, June 28.—The rival Labrador exploring expeditions of Dillon Wallace and Mrs. Leonidas Hubbard arrived at Rigolet, Hamilton Inlet, last Wednesday, intending to proceed to Northwest river post and thence inland the next day.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Now for a long summer vacation for the school army.

A patent was issued this week to Charles F. West of this city.

Miss Mary Harper of Elm street, is at Pawtucket, R. I., for a few weeks.

John McDougall, clerk at the Quincy postoffice, is enjoying a fifteen days' vacation.

Harry E. Winslow of Bent place, is on a week's trip through Vermont and New York state.

Another very enjoyable dance was held at the clubhouse of the Wollaston Yacht club Tuesday evening.

Mrs. E. N. Hardy and children of Foster street left this morning for their summer home in Wilson, N. H.

Several Quincy boys took the Harvard college examinations at the Quincy High school building this week.

There will be an open tournament in singles at the courts of the Quincy Tennis club on the morning of the Fourth.

The Vermont Legislature has appropriated $5000 for a silver service to be presented to the battleship Vermont, building at Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Schultz of Chestnut street have returned from Cincinnati, Ohio, where they were called by the death of Mr. Schultz's mother.

All the Hancock House furniture will be sold at auction next Wednesday. It is a large sale including considerable chamber furniture, parlor furniture, office fixtures, etc.

The pupils of Mr. John Harris Gutterson give a pianoforte recital in Pythian hall, Weymouth, on Friday evening, assisted by Mr. Warren A. Browne of Christ church, Dorchester.

Customers of Johnson Bros., have received a booklet of recipes, salads and how to make and serve them, from the Seville Packing Co., of New York City, who carry the famous Nicelle olive oil.

Morris Litchfield of Wollaston was out sailing Monday afternoon just off Squantum when the storm arose. A sudden squall struck the boat and capsized it. Litchfield easily reached the shore by swimming. The boat was but slightly damaged.

Commodore Wiley, of the Wollaston Yacht club will sail tomorrow in the good ship Claytonia for a summer cruise along the Maine coast. Roy Given will be the chief mate, and they will be accompanied by Mrs. Wiley, Miss Wiley, Mrs. John Given, and Miss Given. Their headquarters will be at Peakes Island, Portland, Me.

The next governor of Massachusetts, Curtis Guild, Jr., and Mrs. Guild are to be guests of Mrs. Nelson V. Titus on Friday afternoon. After a drive about the city to places of interest a reception will be given them at the birthplace of President John Adams, from four to five, Mrs. Titus being assisted by the Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

More rain.

Morris Zirlstein has returned from a business trip to New York.

Miss Beatrice Adams has recovered from her recent illness and is able to be out of doors once more.

A hearing is advertised today on the petition of the Quincy Electric Light Co. for increase of capital.

A new building is being erected on the water front at the shipyard, where the sub-marines will be built.

Miss Nan Carter has returned from Westminster, Vt., where she has been teaching school the past term.

There will be but little work accomplished in the granite district from Saturday noon until after the Fourth.

Although the City Council meeting comes the night before the Fourth there will be considerable important business.

Wallace C. Bennett of Arlington street has gone to Magnolia beach, where he will be employed this summer.

Plans are being prepared by a landscape gardener for improving the appearance of the Sea street front of Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

A hearing by the recess committee of the Legislature, on Railroad and Street Railway Laws, is advertised today for Friday of this week.

Waldron P. Schumacher, of Beach street, has gone to Kennebunkport, Me., where he will hold a position this summer as head clerk in one of the large hotels.

Minute Men's Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution are in Quincy, today doing the places of historic interest. They visited the Adams tomb in First church about noon time, and left a bouquet of flowers. Later they will enjoy a tea at the Dorothy Q house.

While pruning the lower limbs of a large elm tree on Arlington street, on Monday, Mr. I. W. Faunce fell from the top of a ladder, striking on his back, and head, and becoming unconscious for a short time. Dr. Record was hastily called and, after a thorough examination, he found no broken bones. Mr. Faunce will probably be laid up for a few days from the shock and bruises, but his many friends expect and hope to see him out again soon.

A Pleasant Surprise.

A very pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Edith Greenerd of Norfolk Downs, at her home 417 Hancock street, by her friends of the Atlantic M. E. church. About thirty-five surprised her by invading her home on Tuesday evening and presented her with a diamond ring, as a token of their affection and esteem. The presentation of the ring was made by Rev. M. C. Wright pastor of the church, and Miss Greenerd feelingly responded. Miss Greenerd is moving to Hyde Park, and her loss will be much felt in the M. E. church, as she has been a very active worker. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening enjoyed, after which the party dispersed with many hearty goodbys and expressions of regret.

Guest of Chaperon.

Miss Julia E. Underwood, the winner in the great school contest, is today the guest of Miss Grace L. Brinkhaus, who will chaperon the Herald party which starts next Wednesday for the World's Fair at Portland, Oregon. They dined together at a well-known hotel, and talked over the arrangements which have been made for every comfort of the excursionists. Miss Underwood thinks more favorably of taking the trip.

Miss Underwood has been showered with congratulations over her victory. Several Quincy friends have called personally at her residence on Washington street, and others have written letters. She has also received letters from distant friends.

Our Cold Waves.

We Americans are always talking about our mountains of gold and coal and iron, of our fat fields of corn and wheat, but few of us ever realize that we have in our climate a great advantage over all other nations. In the cold wave which in summer and winter so often sweeps across the land and sends the thermometer tumbling thirty degrees in almost as many minutes, we have a constant, a never diminishing asset of priceless value. The wave acts as a tonic, but, unlike any tonic made by man, it carries no reaction. No other land has cold waves like ours. To the cold dry air of this periodic cold wave, which brings extraordinary changes of temperature, we owe much of the keen, alert mind, the incessant, unremitting energy of our American race.—Century.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Girl's Yoke Dress Designed by Martha Dean. No. 4660

Dresses for everyday service form an important item in the small girl's wardrobe, and new designs are constantly in demand. Simplicity is the keynote of good taste in the small girl's wardrobe, and the design shown conforms to this principle—a prettily shaped yoke over a full belted blouse and full, gathered skirt which is simply finished by a deep hem. Many mothers find such a mode more becoming to the little maiden's figure than the one piece garments, and certainly the style is much prettier for dainty summer goods. Any style of trimming may be adopted, and a very pretty idea is to trim the yoke or make it entirely of lace insertion and edge it with lace ruffle. The mode, however, is suitable for plain everyday gingham or the finer materials in organdie, dimity or wash silk. Sizes, 4 to 10 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 4660, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

NEW CONTRACTS.

Fore River Company Will Build Steamer for Fishing.

More business is in sight for the Quincy shipyard, the keel for the first of a fleet of steam fishing vessels having been laid.

The Boston Globe says: The Bay State Fish Company, capitalized at $100,000, has been incorporated, its object being to construct and operate a fleet of steam fishing vessels similar to the steam trawlers engaged in the fishing industry in the North sea.

The keel plates have already been laid at the Fore River building company's yard, at Quincy, for the first steamer, which will be constructed entirely of steel and will register 150 tons.

This boat will be equipped with the most approved gear and will have a compound engine capable of driving her through the water at a speed of about 10 knots. With this boat as a nucleus the promoters expect to build up a fleet which will bring fish to market quickly and in the best possible condition.

The utmost secrecy has been observed by those interested regarding the plans of the company, but it has transpired that there is considerable opposition to the introduction of steam fishing vessels among some of the dealers down on T wharf, although many of the wholesalers are shareholders in the new concern.

An immense amount of capital is invested in the clipper sailing vessels now running to T wharf, and if these vessels are to be superseded by steam craft it would mean a heavy loss to the owners of the schooners.

The new organization is backed by unlimited capital and has among its stockholders the banking firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co., T. Jefferson Coolidge, the Fore River Ship Building Co., and a number of the big wholesale fish dealers down on T wharf.

The first vessel will be somewhat in the nature of an experiment, but so sanguine of success of the undertaking are the promoters that plans for a second steam trawler are already being prepared, and when the first boat goes into commission in October the work on the second will commence.

The steam trawler is equipped with two heavy beams projecting from midships on both the port and starboard sides, to which is attached the trawls, which are weighted down by iron sinkers. As the vessel steams along the trawls are lowered, and as they become filled, they are lifted on board and emptied.

Sale of the Puritan.

The famous cup defender Puritan was sold at auction by Auctioneer F. F. Crane of this city on Tuesday for $4,025. The purchaser was O'Connor Bros., who immediately sold one half interest to Richard T. Green of Chelsea.

Four or five hundred interested yachtsmen were present, coming from Connecticut, New York and Cuba, as well as Boston and vicinity. Ex-Commodore John Shaw and Mark Reed of Quincy were among the number.

The yacht was sold by C. H. W. Foster the well known yachtsman of Boston, who purchased it of Mr. Shaw. It was built for a syndicate and afterwards owned by Gen. Paine, J. Malcolm Forbes and Mr. Shaw.

STAGE REALISM.

Why Joe Jefferson Didn't Have a Real Dog Schneider.

It was the privilege of the writer years ago to attend a reception at which Joseph Jefferson spoke on the drama. His treatment of the subject was interesting, the utterance of a man who knew the art of which he spoke. But the most interesting part of the hour came after the completion of the formal address, when an opportunity was given to the audience to ask any questions they wished of Mr. Jefferson. Soon the familiar topic was introduced, the effect of the modern elaboration and realism in stage setting. Mr. Jefferson at once rose to the question. He spoke somewhat rapidly, with a quaint humor and sympathetic charm that were irresistible. He characterized the modern fashion of stage setting as "a tribute to the weakness of the human imagination." "I am often asked," he went on, "why I do not have a real dog Schneider. But if I did none of you would be satisfied. You would go home saying, 'Well, Schneider never looked like that dog!' You love Schneider because you have made him out of a piece of your own heart. And then," meditatively, "if I had a real Schneider some one in the gallery would probably whistle to him at the critical moment, and he would bark and spoil the play. While if he knew his part perfectly and did just what Schneider ought to do"—pausing and with his delightful smile—"Schneider would be the hero and not Rip!" Then, with a twinkle of the eye, he summed up the whole matter with the quiet remark, "Realism with a tail to wag in the wrong place is a dangerous thing."—New York Post.

TODAY'S COURT.

Henry E. Hayden and William J. Griffiths of Quincy were arraigned for stealing a ride at Weymouth, on a launch owned by Dr. Frank Sawyer. Sentence of 3 months each in the house of correction suspended

A Big Problem.

After the graduating class at the High school was dismissed on Tuesday an effort was made to accommodate the other three classes at the Hancock street building. After utilizing every inch of space all were provided with a seat, but there were only 45 vacant seats for the class of 300 or more who will enter the High school next September. The old building on High School avenue will seat only 100, so that it will be a big problem to accommodate from 100 to 200 pupils when the schools reopen.

Long Service.

With the close of the present school year, George L. Baxter of the Somerville Latin school, who was born in Quincy, will complete 38 years in the service of the city of Somerville. A Boston paper says that it is through his excellent teaching that the Somerville school ranks among the first in the state.

Low Rate to Portland, Oregon.

Account Lewis and Clark Exposition will be in effect via Wisconsin Central Railway. If you intend to go to Portland this year ask the ticket agent to make your ticket read via Wisconsin Central between Chicago and St. Paul. Pullman sleepers, free reclining cars and a la Carte meals make the journey comfortable and pleasant. Further information cheerfully given by addressing Wm. Kelley, T. A., 290 Broadway, New York, N. CLASS OF 1905.

Graduated from Quincy High School.

Address The Education of Life.

By President Hyde of Bowdoin College.

The crowning event in the public school graduations was that of the High school held on Wednesday evening at High School hall.

As at the grammar school exercises the attendance was large, being limited only by the capacity of the hall.

The exercises were of a very interesting nature, music being one of the prime features. It was grand, and is a lasting credit to the pupils as well as to Mr. Snyder, supervisor of music.

The decorations were simple in the extreme. In letters of gold, arranged in a semi-circle over the platform was the class motto "Non palma sine labore." Beneath this was a great bank of green ferns. Thus was the class motto and the class colors, green and gold, portrayed.

The school chorus occupied seats at the right and left of the platform, facing north and south, those in the centre being reserved for the graduates.

The exercises opened promptly at 8 o'clock with a march by the High school orchestra of ten pieces, during which the graduates marched in, the business course class leading. Black was the color for the young men and white light material for the young ladies.

The exercises were punctuated by several choruses by the school with orchestral accompaniment, which, as noted above, was grand.

The program follows:

The salutatory was given by Miss Kathrina Holteen, whose subject was "The True Viking." It was brief and Miss Holteen spoke largely from memory, seldom referring to her notes. It was a story of the Viking, his life and characteristics, who sought to live up to their idea of true manhood.

The feature of the evening was the recital of Longfellow's "Keramos" or "The Story of Pottery." This was presented by the winners of the class honors, other than the salutatory and valedictory. The presentation was very prettily rendered. During its recital, the song of the Potter was sung by Gertrude Elizabeth Allen, Estelle Sedgwick Rice and Catherine Sarah Leary.

The quaint music of the song was written by Charles F. Harper, head master of the school.

The valedictory was by Elsie Louise Snow. Its title was "Fulfillment." Evidences of waiting for some unforseen force are seen in literature as well as in nature in spring time. This law is supreme in our individual lives. In our school days, as each day passes, we find ourselves one step higher. It now remains for us to make the best of our powers for ourselves and for others.

The speaker of the evening was William DeWitt Hyde, D. D., LL. D., President of Bowdoin college whose address was on "The Education of Life."

President Hyde said in part: The education of the school is potential energy, or energy of position; the education of life is kinetic energy, energy in active exercise.

The school throws a dam across your lives and piles up a great weight of still water upon it. Life is the race-way which converts the energy of position into the active energy that drives the industry of the world.

For four years you have been turned from the rough struggle of the world; now you must get back into it as quickly and effectly as possible. Don't wait for the world to be interested in what you have been studying; it is now your turn to get interested in the things the world is doing.

Education is drawing a man out of his natural selfhood into the wide interests and larger life of the great social institutions: home, and work, and state, and church.

The family is the primary school of character, where we learn to take the point of view of other people and respect their interests and aims. The best part of our early education comes from the home into which we are born, and the best part of life for the mature person comes through establishing a home of one's own. In the care of the aged and the training of the young; in the adjustment of expenditure to income; in the tasteful furnishing of rooms; in the entertainment of the family circle in long winter evenings; in the extension of hospitality; in the provision of food and raiment; in devices for recreation and amusement; in the nursing of the sick; in the maintenance of a cheerful atmosphere at all times, there are opportunities in every home for the development of those interests and affections which draw one out of his littleness into a social and spiritual personality.

The next great institution for the education of life is work; this is not a ready-made world but one which is left for us to make habitable and useful, beautiful, orderly and uplifting. Every young person should set before him the largest piece of this world's work which he is capable of doing.

The discipline of patient toil; the struggle with obstinate materials; the competition with keen rivals; the forecast of future conditions; the adjustment to changing methods; the management of men, involve an education in tact, courage, perseverance, wisdom and power compared with which all that the school can reach is mere A. B. C.

The third great ministry of the education of life is politics, the service of the state. Remember our definition of education—the drawing of a man out of his natural littleness into the largeness of social service; therefore, the man who cares nothing whether the laws are justly administered; who takes no interest in the efficiency of the public service; who does not take the trouble to find out whether taxes are necessary and expenditures economical; who is indifferent whether worthless immigrants are landed on our shores, or whether savages are annexed in the remoter quarters of the globe; who makes no effort toward substituting arbitration for the wicked waste of war; who is unconcerned about the corruption of corporations, the claims of labor, the conditions of tenements, the establishing of park and playground, the administration of charity and correction; though he be a graduate of the best university in the land, remains dwarfed in mind, shriveled in heart, enfeebled in will, and consequently uneducated to the end of his days.

Religion and the church stand for the deepest needs, the widest interest, the highest aspirations of man. Religion grasps the universe in its thought, eternity in imagination, and makes God the object of its love and humanity the limit of its service. Religion has the greatest literature; the most inspiring history; the most ideal characters, the most enduring organizations, the most ancient traditions of any department of human life. It introduces us to a broader fellowship and deeper problems than any other social institution. That is why it is such a mighty educational force.

We have all known plain men and humble women who, with very little education from the schools, by participation in the work and worship of the church, by reading the Bible, by meditation and prayer have had their wills disciplined, their affections enriched, their intelligence clarified, so that in all we mean by education they have been far beyond such graduates of school and university as affect to despise religion.

These four great social institutions give us the education of life. The education of the school is valuable mainly as a preparation for this deeper education which comes from happy homes and honest work and devoted service to the state and church.

The presentation of diplomas to the graduating class was by Hon. Charles H. Porter chairman of the sub-committee on the High school. He was assisted by five young ladies from the Junior class.

Mr. Porter is presenting the diplomas spoke briefly, extending the best wishes, and congratulations of the School Committee. He urged them to beware of the fellow who knew it all, and the man who goes through the world with a chip on his shoulder. Kindness, gentleness, consideration for fellow man and woman, is to be desired and cultivated at all times.

He complimented Mr. Snyder and the members of the orchestra, and in closing urged the graduates to read good books and not put too much reliance in what they see in the newspapers, as they are the people who know it all.

The exercises closed with the chorus, "O Lord, how manifold are Thy works," and informal receptions were in order.

Foot Ball and Cricket.

The Quincy Association Foot Ball and Athletic club are at present endeavoring to form a cricket club and have already agreed to play the Arabic Cricket club in less than a month from date. Any of the citizens of Quincy and vicinity who are experts at cricket would do well to make themselves acquainted with the above club as the management desires for the credit of our city to make a good show in the first game played in Quincy for years. And if possible emulate the record of our two local association football clubs, "Second to none." The Quincy Foot Ball team by its play last Saturday added another to her long list of victories by defeating Fort Warren at Fort Warren by a score of 4 to 0, making six straight victories wherein their opponents failed to score. Ivernia on Saturday; make it seven straight boys!

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. A HEARTY WELCOME

Harvard Appreciates Visit of President Roosevelt

MAKES THREE SPEECHES

College Mission to Train the Few to High Productive Scholarship and Develop a Stalwart Character In the Many

Cambridge, Mass., June 29.—Although nominally celebrating with his classmates the 25th anniversary of the class of '80 from Harvard university, President Roosevelt was yesterday the honored guest of America's most ancient seat of learning. No degrees of honor were conferred upon him, as he already holds the highest degree the university is empowered to bestow, but the welcome accorded him by Cambridge citizens, alumni and college officials was most hearty. Especially was it apparent that Harvard cherishes a warm affection for her distinguished son.

The president entered heartily into the spirit of commencement day, and played a leading part in all the functions incident to the occasion. During the commencement exercises the president occupied a prominent place on the platform of Sanders theatre. The number receiving degrees from Harvard yesterday aggregated 999, and included, beside the regular and special classes and those out of course, seven honorary degrees. Among those who were given the title of Doctor of Laws, Harvard's highest honor, were Justice White of the United States supreme court and William H. Taft, secretary of war.

Following the commencement exercises the president made three public addresses, one at the Harvard union, a second, and the principal one of his tour, at the annual alumni dinner in Memorial hall, and a third from the steps of Memorial hall to members of the alumni who could not gain admittance to the Memorial hall exercises. His remarks at the Harvard union and from the steps of Memorial hall were informal and intended to express his gratification at being able to be present as well as to congratulate the alumni and the institution on its progress and prosperity.

The speech in Memorial hall, which was a general discussion of the mission of the college, evoked the greatest enthusiasm. He set forth the principle that the mission of the college was to train a few to high productive scholarship and to develop in the many stalwart character. He took occasion to refer to sports, condemning brutality, and to criticise the growing tendency to luxury.

The approval of the audience was particularly manifested when the president referred to "the very rich man who conducts his business as if he believed that he was a law unto himself," and said that an appeal should be made to "the alumni of every institution of learning in this land to do their part in creating a public sentiment which shall demand of the men of vast fortunes that they pay scrupulous heed not only to the letter but to the spirit of the laws."

There was a tremendous outburst of applause, which was redoubled when the president added: "It is far more important that they should conduct their business affairs decently than that they should spend the surplus of their fortunes in philanthropy."

The federal government was well represented at the exercises, for, in addition to the president and Secretary of War Taft and Justice White, Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore, who on Saturday next will enter President Roosevelt's cabinet as secretary of the navy, was an interested spectator. Mr. Bonaparte addressed an open air meeting in the college yard and was elected president of the alumni. Kermit Roosevelt, the president's son, also was an interested participant in the festivities, accompanying his father to all the various functions.

Besides the more pretentious events, the president's program included a brief visit to the Germanic museum, where he sent a cablegram to the German emperor, thanking him for his gifts to Harvard, an informal reception at the home of President Eliot of Harvard, luncheons at the Porcellian club and at the chief marshal's headquarters in University hall, tea at the residence of Professor Hart, and a dinner at the Somerset club.

During the early evening the president found time for a conference with Secretary Taft on matters relating to the Panama canal, and also to give attention to certain cipher messages which had been received from Washington. It was arranged that the president should go to his car before midnight, although the train did not leave until 2 o'clock this morning. The train proceeded to Bridgeport, where the party will board the yacht Sylph for Oyster Bay.

DONATION OF $1,000,000

The Largest Single Amount Ever Received by Yale University

New Haven, June 29.—President Hadley of Yale announced at the alumni dinner that a gift of $1,000,000 has been made by John D. Rockefeller. President Hadley also said that $2,000,000 in all had been given to the university within a comparatively recent time, the other million being subscribed by graduates in sums varying from $50,000 to $250,000. The names of the latter donors, however, were not made public, nor will they be until the total of what the university hopes to receive has been assured.

The only condition underlying Rockefeller's gift is that the money is to be invested in income-producing securities and preserved inviolate as endowment for the institution, the annual income only to be used for current expenses.

The gift of Rockefeller is the largest single donation ever made to the university. At the close of the dinner Secretary Stokes was warmly congratulated by many of the alumni, as he was largely instrumental in securing the funds, it was said.

For Higher Wages

Fall River, Mass., June 29.—That the wage question in Fall River is not settled was evidenced last night when the Weavers' union, at a special meeting, voted to demand the restoration of the wage scale which existed prior to the reduction of July 25, 1904. On that date wages were reduced 12½ percent. The wages paid before July 25 was a reduction of 10 percent from those paid up to Nov. 23, 1903. Secretary Whitehead, when asked as to the probable action of the union in case of a refusal by the manufacturers, said it was not time to answer that question.

Want New Rates Rescinded

Boston, June 29.—At a meeting held last night in Tremont temple, attended by 289 delegates representing 109 councils of the Royal Arcanum of Boston and vicinity, called to discuss the recent increase of rates of assessment, resolutions were adopted calling for a special meeting of the grand council, for the immediate rescinding by the supreme council of its action in raising the rates, and asking that time be given for consideration of readjustment.

Probing Comstock Assets

Boston, June 29.—With the object of determining just what the assets of Colonel Henry M. Comstock are and where they are located, the assignees had a two hours' conference with Comstock in his cell at the Charles street jail. He was arrested on a charge of larceny. None of the securities is listed stock and their actual value cannot be determined until they are placed on the market. There are 65 claims, mostly of women about Boston.

Woman Kills Herself In Woods

Weston, Mass., June 29.—The body of Miss Florence L. Phelps, aged 51, a member of a prominent family, was found in the woods here last night with two self-inflicted bullet wounds in the left side, and a third in the right temple. Miss Phelps, who had been in poor health, was the daughter of the late Dr. Phelps of Boston.

The Vesuvius In Commission

Newport, R. I., June 29.—The former dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, recently refitted as a torpedo boat at the Charlestown navy yard, arrived here and went into commission at the torpedo station. The Vesuvius made the distance of 240 miles from Boston at an average speed of 19 knots an hour in a heavy sea.

Kempf's Death Was Natural

Boston, June 29.—Medical Examiner Harris performed an autopsy on the body of Emil F. Kempf, the life prisoner who died suddenly at the state prison in Charlestown, and found that death was due to natural causes. The autopsy was held on account of an alleged threat that Kempf meditated suicide.

Trolley Line Changes Hands

New Haven, June 29.—The Branford trolley line, five miles in length, running from East Haven to Branford and connecting in East Haven with the tracks of the Consolidated Railway company, has been purchased by the latter company. The road has an authorized capital stock of $600,000.

Sent to Death by Playmates

Ellsworth, Me., June 29.—Harold Garland, aged 9, and Colin Jordan, aged 12, were playing in a boat on Union river when they were pushed off from shore by playmates and the boat went over the dam. The Garland boy was swept into the swift current and sank. Jordan swam to shore.

Disappointed In Love

Fairlee, Vt., June 29.—The body of Miss Grace Cook, aged 20, was found in Fairlee lake. Physicians who viewed the body said that death was the result of suicide. Miss Cook had had, it is understood, much trouble over a love affair, and this is suggested as a reason for suicide.

Breakwater Contract Awarded

Newport, R. I., June 29.—Pay Director Drury, in charge of the navy pay office here, has awarded a contract for building the breakwater at the naval coaling station at Bradford, Narragansett bay, to Roy H. Beattie of Fall River, Mass. The contract price is $104,890.

Pardon Refused Bank Defaulter

Portland, Me., June 29.—President Roosevelt has refused a pardon for Granville W. Leighton, the defaulting teller of the National Traders' bank of this city. Leighton was sentenced to state prison four years ago for a term of six years. His shortage was about $30.000.

CITY BREVITIES

A beautiful morning.

Tomorrow will be the last day of the month.

Quincy has 13 daily mails to Boston, and 15 from Boston.

Flags should be flying tomorrow when Lieutenant Governor Guild visits Quincy.

The postponed race of June 24, of the Quincy Yacht club, will be sailed at 2.45 on Saturday, July 1st.

The Sunday school and parish of First church hold their annual picnic on Friday at Highland park, Avon. Special cars leave the church at nine o'clock sharp.

The Atlantic Boys' Brigade presented to Miss Hattie A. Tilton, their popular pianist, a chatelain gold watch on Tuesday evening, for her kind services rendered. Refreshments were served after which an exhibition drill was tendered.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Teasdale of Willard street have gone to Holyoke to attend the High school graduation exercises. Mr. Teasdale's niece, Miss Kittie Lynch, a former pupil of the Lincoln school, is one of the graduating class. She received one of the honors of her class, having stood third in rank.

An interesting fact was told Tuesday by a conductor on one of the Cape trains. During the rain in Boston such a shower of hail-stones fell at Myricks that the train men amused themselves snow-balling each other with them. Nature does not present the same face for many miles in succession.

MUTINY ON A RUSSIAN SHIP

Captain and Officers Killed and Thrown Overboard

RED FLAG FLOATS OVER BATTLESHIP

Uprising Started by Killing of Sailor Who Presented, In Behalf of the Crew, Complaint Against Bad Food--Presence of Mutineers In the Harbor of Odessa Gives Encouragement to Strikers--Quays, Buildings Around Harbor, and Shipping Reported to Be In Flames

Odessa, June 29.—The red flag of revolution is hoisted at the masthead of the Kniaz Potemkine, Russia's most powerful battleship in the Black sea, which now lies in the harbor in the hands of mutineers.

The captain and most of the officers were murdered and thrown overboard in the open sea and the ship is completely in the possession of the crew and a few officers who have thrown in their lot with the mutineers.

The guns of the Kniaz Potemkine command the city and in the streets masses of striking workmen who Tuesday fled before the volleys of the troops are now inflamed by the spectacle of open revolt on board an imperial warship and are making a bold front against the military.

All day long firing has been heard in many quarters of the city. A number of barricades have been erected and tumult and disorder reign.

The main squadron of the Black sea fleet, consisting of the battleships Georgei Pobidonosotz, Tri Sviatitelia, Rostilav and Ekaterina II, with two cruisers, are expected to arrive here and a regular naval battle is in prospect.

The rioters are in a most defiant mood and are not inclined to surrender without fighting.

Reports of the mutiny, which occurred while the battleship was at sea, are difficult to obtain, as the mutineers refuse to allow communication with the shore, but it is ascertained that it arose from the shooting of a sailor who was presenting, on behalf of the crew, a complaint against bad food. According to one version, this sailor, whose name was Omiltchuk, objected to the quality of the soup, and was immediately shot down by a mess officer. The crew then rose and seized the ship and the officers, eight of whom were spared on condition that they would join the mutineers. The others were killed and their bodies thrown overboard.

After a period of vacillation the Kniaz Potemkine headed for Odessa and arrived here Tuesday night, accompanied by two torpedo boats. Early yesterday the body of Omiltchuk was brought ashore in one of the battleship's boats and was landed on the new mole, where it has been exposed in semi-state all day. It was visited by thousands of persons, many of whom placed coins in a basket at the head of the body towards a fund to defray the cost of the funeral, which the strikers will make the occasion of a great demonstration. An inscription on the breast of the dead sailor states on behalf of the crew that Omiltchuk died for the truth because he presented a just complaint of the crew.

The authorities have made no attempt to remove the body, the sailors having served notice that the ship would open fire on any one seeking to interfere with it. A police agent visiting the spot was killed by strikers.

During the day a red flag was hoisted on the Kniaz Potemkine and members of the crew rode from ship to ship in the harbor, forcing the stoppage of all work thereon. Food was supplied them by sympathizers on shore, who pillaged the maritime storehouses.

The strike is now general in the city and the rioters are growing in numbers and boldness. There were exchanges of shots all day, but the number of victims cannot be stated. Last evening a bomb was thrown in Cathedral place, killing its thrower and a policemen

During the day one of the torpedo boats which accompanied the Kniaz Potemkine came into the harbor and seized the Russian steamer Esperanza. The steamer was laden with 2000 tons of coal which the battleship has taken on board.

The governor has telegraphed for a squadron to be sent from Sebastopol.

Late last night, perceiving a picket of Cossacks standing at the Richelieu monument on Nicolai boulevard, the Potemkine fired a shell, killing four and wounding 20 of them. It is rumored that the men of four other battleships mutinied at Sebastopol and that two of the ships are on the way to join the Potemkine.

City Reported to Be In Flames

London, June 29.—A dispatch from Odessa to a news agency, dated Wednesday night, says:

"The whole of the quays and the buildings around the harbor, as well as much shipping, are in flames. Mobs of incendiaries by armed force prevented the fire brigade working. The troops are completely terrorized and are afraid to approach within range of the Kniaz Potemkine's guns, which threaten a disastrous bombardment. The city is appallingly illuminated by burning buildings and terror prevails everywhere. The whole garrison has been requisitioned for patrol duty. It is thought that it may become necessary to summon foreign warships for the protection of the foreign colonies.

VERGING ON PANIC

Russian Officials Do Not Know What Next to Expect

St. Petersburg, June 29.—More serious in its possible effects than all the defeats in Manchuria or the destruction of Rojestvensky's fleet was the news which reached St. Petersburg last evening that the standard of open rebellion was floating on board the Kniaz Potemkine, one of the czar's battleships in the harbor of Odessa, and that with shotted guns the mutinous crew, headed by eight officers, was holding the ship against all comers.

The authorities are in almost a state of panic and at the admiralty consternation reigns. Admiral Wirenius, chief of the general staff of the navy, says that the admiralty has received advices regarding the mutiny, but that he is unable to give details. He frankly confesses that the situation is very grave and that he does not know what to expect.

Ever since the war started ugly reports about the crews of the Black sea fleet have been current. Men have been shot and even officers court martialled for disobedience and yesterday at Sebastopol 12 sailors were condemned to three years' imprisonment for mutiny.

No better evidence of the spirit of the crews is needed than an official announcement made by the admiralty yesterday that Admiral Nebogatoff and the other officers who surrendered in the Sea of Japan would have to stand trial by court martial upon their return. Practically all of the crews of the vessels which surrendered came from the Black sea. The fact that Odessa is not a fortified port explains why the Kniaz Potemkine is able to lie in the harbor unmolested.

The news of the mutiny, coming just when Poland is in a state of ferment, when agrarian disorders are coming to a head and when the government is attempting mobilization involving about 200,000 men, may easily precipitate a crisis, and the authorities are endeavoring to keep it from the public.

The radicals hail the event as the dawn of actual armed revolution. "The moment for which we have waited has come," said one when he heard the news. "Omiltchuk's name will go down in history as that of a martyr who precipitated a Russian revolution."

News has been received of disorders resulting from the mobilization in the government of Poltava, some reservists refusing to appear and others starting riots. The authorities at Poltava are unwilling to dispatch troops, as the entire force available is needed in that government.

Over Five Hundred Killed at Lodz

Lodz, June 29.—The commission appointed to inquire into the disturbances of June 23 has given out a statement to the effect that the number of killed is over 500 and the wounded over 1000. The commission severely reprimanded the chief of police for neglecting to stop the disorders before they reached a serious point.

Shipping Circles Disturbed

London, June 29.—The ominous news from Odessa has created a tremendous effect in British shipping circles, owing to the large British trade with Odessa and to the fact that much British shipping is now in the harbor there. Between 400 and 500 British residents are engaged in business at Odessa for British firms.

Denial of Kuropatkin's Death

St. Petersburg, June 29.—The general staff announces that it has absolutely nothing to support the reports that General Kuropatkin has been killed or has committed suicide and that a portion of the Russian army is surrounded.

Czar's Troubles Accumulate

St. Petersburg, June 29.—It is reported that a general strike on the Russian railways will be declared July 2 as a protest against the mobilization of troops.

Reached Twenty-Two Knots

Provincetown, Mass., June 29.—The protected cruiser Charleston made 13 runs over the Wood End measured mile course for the purpose of standardizing the propeller, so as to ascertain the number of revolutions per mile that in today's four-hour run to sea will determine the speed of the ship. Unofficial figures demonstrate that the Charleston twice exceeded the required speed of 22 knots.

Suicide In Front of Mirror

St. Louis, June 29.—While standing before a mirror in an office, Peter H. Heckman, 50 years old, committed suicide by shooting. He left letters giving ill-health as the reason for ending his life. Heckman had been traveling solicitor for an insurance company, but recently had been unable to work.

Early In the Field

Columbus, O., June 29.—After a continuous session of six hours, the Ohio Democratic convention named a state ticket to be voted on at the state election in November, headed by John M. Pattison of Clermont county for governor.

EASY FOR CORNELL

Walks Away In the Eight-Oared 'Varsity Race

HER FRESHMEN ALSO WIN

Judges Awarded Four-Oared 'Varsity to Cornell, but Found Themselves In Error and Reversed Their Decision In Favor of the Syracuse Crew

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 29.—Cornell regained her prestige in intercollegiate rowing by winning with ease the 'varsity eight-oar and freshman eight-oar races in the intercollegiate regatta. Syracuse was given the decision in the 'varsity four-oared race, after a sensational and exasperating mixup, in which even the judges' boat gave out conflicting decisions, the victory being given first to Cornell, although Syracuse came in first.

The hesitation over the decision was due to two facts, first, that some of those on the judges' boat were in doubt as to the identity of the leading crews as they passed the finish mark; second, that at the outset of the race Syracuse is declared to have passed out of her course in front of Columbia, and there was a claim of disqualifying foul against her. After a long time the decision was reversed and declared in favor of Syracuse.

In the 'varsity race, four miles, the feature of the day, Cornell, never pressed after the first quarter mile had been covered, rowed across the finish line a dozen lengths or more in front of the crew from Syracuse, which surprised the aquatic world by winning this event last year. Thoroughly beaten, but struggling to the last limit of endurance for the honors of third place, Georgetown and Columbia swept by the judges' boat almost together, Georgetown having a slight advantage. Back in the ruck came Pennsylvania and last of all finished Wisconsin, whose chances had been favorably considered by the rowing experts. Cornell's time was 20:29 2-5.

Cornell won the freshman race, two miles, for eight-oared shells almost as easily, again having Syracuse as her nearest competitor. The time was 9:35 2-5. The order of the finish in last year's freshman race was just the reverse, Syracuse having won and having been considered a strong factor in yesterday's two-mile race.

In the four-oared 'varsity race, two miles, Syracuse won, with Cornell second. Cornell and Syracuse thus divided the honors of the day, the former getting two firsts and a second and the latter one first and two seconds. Wisconsin furnished a big surprise by finishing absolutely last. The time of Syracuse was 10:15 2-5.

Columbia's crews redeemed themselves to a degree by their fine effort for third honors in the 'varsity. Georgetown rowed much better than was expected, and Pennsylvania lived up to the predictions that had been made concerning her crews.

Syracuse, by its clever work, following the two victories of last year, has firmly established itself in the rowing affairs of the Intercollegiate association, and will undoubtedly be an influence to be reckoned with in all future regattas. The Syracuse victory in the four-oared race was notable in setting a new time mark for the event, the time being 10:15 2-5, as against 10:31 1-5 made by Pennsylvania in 1900.

The day was remarkable for the beautiful weather and the unusual error in announcing the result of the first, the 'varsity four-oared race.

Big Jump In Cotton Market

New York, June 29.—The local cotton market was excited yesterday and prices advanced approximately 50 points in the various options to January. This was equivalent to an advance of $2.50 a bale over Tuesday night's closing quotations and followed an advance of 30 points in Tuesday's session and a previous advance in the last two or three weeks of nearly 1 cent a pound.

Palma Will Succeed Himself

Havana, June 29.—Governor Nunez has issued a manifesto formally leaving the Liberal Fusion party, from which he had been separated since Gomez was nominated for the presidency. Nunez, like other seceders, declares that he returns to the flag of the Nationalist party. The Nationalists' following will support President Palma, thus absolutely insuring his re-election.

General Wood to Visit Mother

Washington, June 29.—The war department has granted a two months' leave of absence to Major General Leonard Wood, who has arrived at San Francisco from the Philippines. Wood will at once proceed to Boston, where he will visit his aged mother.

Senators Approve Hooker Charges

Albany, June 29.—The senate unanimously approved the formal charges against Justice Hooker, adopted last week by the assembly, and both houses adjourned to meet in joint session July 10, when Hooker will present his defense.

Matthews In Vermont League

Cambridge, Mass., June 29.—William C. Matthews, the negro short stop of the Harvard baseball team, who received his B. A. degree yesterday, has signed to play with the Burlington team of the Vermont league.

Nine Men Killed by Explosion

Emporium, Pa., June 29.—Nine men were killed and a dozen others were injured by an explosion of dynamite at the plant of the Emporium Powder company. About a ton of dynamite exploded from some unknown cause, and wrecked the mixing plant, the packing house and several other buildings belonging to the company. The explosion was felt for miles around.

Considered Wallace Resignation

Cambridge, Mass., June 29.—President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Taft were in conference at the residence of Bishop Lawrence here last night on the resignation of Chief Engineer Wallace, a commissioner of the Panama canal. Secretary Taft, after the conference, said that a statement for the public would be issued in Washington.

Officials Hold Baby Young

Digby, N. S., June 29.—Elmer E. Young, the Boston notary who was held as a witness in the murder of May Young, has left here. He requested that the baby Young be allowed to go with him, but the authorities refused to give the child up. The baby was found in the woods at the time of the discovery of the murdered girl.

Germans Defeated by Marengo

Cape Town, June 29.—Confirmation has been received here of Chief Marengo's reported victory over the Germans at Karasberg, German Southwest Africa, on June 22. It is said that 100 Germans were killed.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The second division of the French northern squadron, comprising four battleships, has been told off to receive the American squadron which is to convey the body of John Paul Jones to the United States.

Nathaniel F. Brewer, 20 years old, was struck and instantly killed by a train while he was walking on the railroad tracks at Newton, Mass.

Miss Ada Rehan, the American actress, was taken ill at London. Physicians diagnosed the case as appendicitis, but decided not to perform an operation.

TOO LATE NOW.

Voters Must Vote at Caucuses With Same Party as Last Year.

Wednesday was the last day under the election laws for filing with the Registrars of Voters petitions for changes in party designations of voters.

This means that unless they have officially petitioned to change their political completion from what it was at the caucuses last fall, if they attend the caucuses the coming fall they will be obliged to vote the same party ticket as last year.

Inquiry of the Board of Registrars brings out the fact that but one voter took advantage of the law and changed his political complexion. Another intended to change over, but did not come around to do so.

After the Gypsy Moths.

An inspector from the office of the Gypsy Moth Commissioners was in Quincy this week. Just how much of an infection he found is not known, as he has not yet made his report.

Evidences of the pest, however, were known to be found in the old Hancock cemetery and First church yard, and this morning the trees were burlapped.

The moths work nights among the foliage and it is said that when daylight approaches, they will hide themselves behind the folds of the burlap, where they are easily destroyed. It is too late now, however to do anything about the brown tail moth.

Sudden Death.

At 8.30 Wednesday evening, while the graduation exercises of the Braintree High school were being held in the Town Hall, the janitor of that building, Michael J. Sullivan, was called to his home near by, on Taylor street, by the sudden death of his only son, Edward Joseph, a popular boy of eleven summers.

Joe, as the boy was called, was taken sick Tuesday, caused by eating green cherries, and was not considered dangerously ill. It was said that he died of heart failure.

The many friends of the young man were shocked to hear of his death for only a few knew he was sick.

Mrs. Sullivan died when Joseph was about five years old, and since that time he has been tenderly cared for by his sister, Annie. His sister Mary and his father have been very fond of him and must be greatly moved by his death.

Joseph had just received from the Monatiquot school his promotion card in the seventh grade, and after the summer vacation would have been one of the many scholars to enter the new Noah Torrey school. He was employed as a paper boy by Louis W. Thayer of South Braintree.

High School Graduates.

That Quincy has an exceptionally large number of pupils in its High school is shown by a few figures taken from Boston papers this week. The number of graduates in different places have been:

Quincy	109
Malden	90
Waltham	50
Braintree	12
Marlboro	36
Norwood	23
Amesbury	33
Wakefield	57

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

JUNE WEDDINGS.

One at West Quincy Church and Two at Wollaston.

At the West Quincy M. E. church Wednesday evening there was a pretty wedding when Mr. Archibald R. Philip and Miss Elizabeth Norrie became man and wife.

The residence of the bride has been in Scotland, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Philip of 14 Cross street. The bride's gown was voile over white silk with maltese lace, veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of Bride roses and asparagus fern.

The maid of honor was Miss Isabelle S. Philip; the best man Mr. George Ripley; and Mabel Belcher Philip was flower girl.

Promptly at eight o'clock the bridal party entered the church; first the four ushers then the flower girl, the maid of honor, and the bride on the arm of her brother, Mr. Alexander Norrie who gave her away. The bride was met at the altar by the groom and best man. Rev. A. B. Tyler, the pastor officiated. The organist was Miss Hattie Fuller, and the ushers, Mr. John G. McGregor of South Quincy, Mr. William Murray of Mansfield, and Mr. Edward Trask and Mr. Luther Nason of West Quincy.

The decorations at the church were of palms, ferns, roses and pinks. Many friends witnessed the ceremony.

A reception followed at No. 14 Cross street from 8.30 to 10 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Philip being assisted in receiving by the best man and maid of honor. They received beneath a floral wedding bell.

The groom presented the best man a beautiful Odd Fellows charm, and the bride gave the flower girl a pearl and brilliant necklace.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip have gone to the Weirs, N. H., on their wedding trip, and their future residence will be at No. 15 Cross street, West Quincy.

Choate—Macleod.

Miss Mabelle Marion Macleod of Wollaston became the bride of Mr. George Frederick Choate, Jr., of East Milton, on Wednesday evening, the ceremony being performed at 7.15 at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin D. Macleod at 182 Taylor street, by Rev. George E. Whitehouse, pastor of the Baptist church at East Milton. The house was decorated with daisies, smilax and potted plants

The best man was Mr. Ernest E. Choate of East Milton, and the matron of honor, Mrs. Willard A. Hodges of Quincy.

The bride's dress was white point d'sprit over white taffeta, cut en traine and she carried a large bouquet of sweet peas. The matron of honor wore white mousselain de soie over taffeta slip. The flower girls were Misses Hilda and Elsie Wood, and the ushers Willard A. Hodges of Quincy, Sydney Allen of Charlestown and J. Arnold Lowery of Abington.

Miss Alice C. Choate played the wedding march, selections from Mendelssohn.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, the parents of the bride and groom assisted in receiving.

Among the beautiful presents of silver, cut glass, etc., was a piano, a gift to the bride from the groom, who also presented his best man gold cuff links. The bride presented her matron of honor with a brooch of pearls.

After a wedding trip to New York state and Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Choate are to reside on Billings road, Norfolk Downs, receiving friends after September first.

Cushing—Winegar.

Wednesday at eleven o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Winegar, Elmwood avenue, Wollaston Park, their daughter, Sadie Belle, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter Harlow Cushing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus Cushing, by Rev. Kilman B. Johnson.

In the bridal procession were the groom and maid of honor, Miss Irene Jennings of Dorchester; the flower girl, Miss Hazel Winegar, sister of the bride, and the bride and best man Mr. Otis Winegar, brother of the bride. Music was by four violins played by Mr. Marsh, Miss Leonard, Miss Myrtle Durham and Miss Etta Winegar and Miss Durham at the piano.

The bridal party stood under a floral bell, and the house was profusely decorated with ferns and elderberry blossoms.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white net over silk. She wore a tulle veil and carried bride roses. Her only ornament was a chain and locket, a gift from the groom.

A reception was held from half past eleven until half past twelve, the maid of honor and best man receiving with the newly wedded couple. Guests were present from Seattle, Washington, New York, Staten Island, New Hampshire, Boston, Natick and Quincy.

On their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cushing are to reside with the bride's parents, receiving their friends after September first.

A good opportunity to buy furniture will be offered at the Hancock House sale next Wednesday.

MILTON.

Rev. Edward Anderson entertained the members of the East Milton Congregational church at a lawn party Wednesday afternoon and evening at his residence on Goffe street, Quincy. About 100 were present and the hours between 4 and 10 o'clock were passed in a pleasant manner. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goodhall of New Hampshire are guests of Mrs. George Clements.

Frank Wade has moved from Sheldon to Squantum street.

The annual picnic of the East Milton Congregational church is being held today at Nantasket.

The Thursday Evening club has suspended meetings until September.

The Milton Centre Baptist church held its picnic at Nantasket on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dugan are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Burns are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son June 19.

A largely attended lawn party of the East Milton Baptist church was held Tuesday afternoon and evening. The grounds were decorated with Japanese lanterns, and there were tables for the sale of useful and fancy articles. In the evening there was an entertainment consisting of solos by Ella Chamberlin, the whistling soloist, and Master Roger Bates, the cornetist.

COOPER---HOYT.

Wedded at Brockton—Will Live in City of Presidents.

The Brockton Enterprise reports the wedding of a young couple who will make their future residence in Quincy as follows:

A pretty June wedding took place Wednesday evening when Miss Grace Raymond Hoyt, daughter of Mr. Frederick A. Hoyt and William Edwin Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cooper, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Mary N. Severance, 66 Green street Brockton.

For the event the parlors, hallway and dining room were very prettily dressed, palms, potted plants, ferns and cut flowers being tastefully employed. Mountain laurel, American beauty roses, daybreak pinks and pink roses were among the floral accessories and gave charm to the pretty picture.

The first stroke of the chime clock was the signal for the bridal march, from Lohengrin, played by Mace Gay's orchestra. A winding bridal path from the second floor to the bay window in the front parlor on the lower floor was prettily marked by strands of white satin ribbon, Rev. Dr. Rush R. Shippen, pastor of Unity church, awaiting the arrival of the party.

First in the bridal march were the ushers, Stephen P. Alden, John Joseph Cooper, Edwin P. Severance, all of Brockton, and Herbert S. Child of Quincy. The groom, accompanied by the best man, Gould Simmons Pitcher, followed and then came the bride and her sister, the matron-of-honor, Mrs. Herbert S. Child of Quincy.

At the appointed place the clergyman was greeted and the ceremony performed in the presence of near friends and immediate relatives, the double ring service being employed.

The tall and attractive bride was prettily gowned in white liberty silk over white taffeta with trimmings of Valenciennes lace. Her bridal veil was caught in the hair by a bouquet of lilies of the valley and she carried a large shower bouquet of these flowers. The matron-of-honor wore a gown of white crepe de chine over white taffeta, with lace and ribbon garnitures, and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas.

When the nuptials had been said, the newly married couple received their friends and relatives unassisted. They were extended the best wishes of hosts present and well remembered with choice gifts. Mace Gay's orchestra discoursed music and a dainty collation was served by Caterer Jesse A. Dill of Melrose. Sociability was in order until a late hour, when the groom and bride departed unexpectedly in an auto, though not without getting pelted with rice.

The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of Oriental pearls, while the bride remembered the matron of honor with a gold brooch set with pearls. From the groom the best man received a diamond scarf-pin, while the ushers were the recipients of pretty gold scarf pins.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper are expected to return from the bridal tour the latter part of next month and will make their home at 86 Revere road, Quincy.

The newly married couple have long been held in high esteem by their many acquaintances in this city. As graduates of the Brockton High school they are well known among a wide circle of friends who, since the engagement was announced, have showered congratulations upon them. The groom, a young man, during the past four years has traveled extensively over the New England states as a salesman for Churchill & Alden, well known shoe manufacturers of this city. He is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal church and Paul Revere Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons. He is well known throughout this section of the State as a star basketball player. Identified with the Young Men's Christian Association for a half-dozen or more years, he made an excellent record as a forward on its team during the years 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903. He was always a great goal getter and an admirer of the popular indoor sport.

—The city of Lynn graduated 128 from its English High school this year, of whom 28 took the four-year course (scientific and academic), 26 the manuel training course of three years, 51 the commercial course of three years, and 21 the post graduate course.

Granite Manufacturers to be Guests of Quincy Association.

The visit of the Barre and Montpelier Granite Manufacturers' Association to Quincy will probably take place the last Saturday in July. Unless all signs fail there will be a gathering of granite men long to be remembered. It will practically be a reunion of the granite manufacturers of New England.

Not only have the two associations mentioned above accepted invitations to be the guests of the Quincy association, but the associations of Concord, N. H., Hardwick, Vt., and Westerly, R. I., as well, and all are looking forward to the gathering. The outing will be at Crescent Park, Rhode Island, as in 1903.

ADAMS ACADEMY.

BY an accidental misunderstanding the usual advertisement of the admission examination was not inserted in the Ledger. As some candidates may in consequence of the omission have failed to present themselves, a second examination will be held on MONDAY, 3 July, at 9 A. M., at the Academy building.

HONORED GUEST.

Lieut. Gov. Guild and Wife in Quincy

Pay Visit to Adams Birthplaces.

Guests of Mrs. Titus, Regent of Adams Chapter, D. R.

Gen. Curtis Guild, Jr., the Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts, is in Quincy this afternoon with Mrs. Guild, being guests of Mrs. N. V. Titus, the regent of Adams chapter Daughters of the Revolution.

Mrs. Titus has asked the members of the chapter to assist in receiving the distinguished guests, who will be entertained at the birthplace of President John Adams, the headquarters of the chapter.

The weather conditions are very favorable, and a few patriotic citizens have the American flag flying in honor of the visit.

Among the invited guests are Mayor and Mrs. Thompson, the members of the City Council and ladies, and many prominent citizens. The reception, however, will be very informal.

FOUND GUILTY.

Of Violation of Liquor Laws and the Transportation Law.

The continued cases of Joseph P. Myett of Quincy Point for violation of the liquor law were heard before Judge Avery in the district court on Thursday.

Myett is the agent of a local express company, and was arraigned for keeping and exposing liquors for sale, and for violation of the liquor transportation law.

In the transportation case the evidence was that the goods were marked with the name and address of the consignee to be left at a place other than the first named address. It was held that this was a violation of the transportation law.

The court imposed a fine of $50 for violation of the transportation law, and $75 on the complaint for keeping and exposing liquor for sale. An appeal was taken in both cases. George E. Adams, Esq., represented the government and George W. Abele, Esq., the defendant.

TO RESUME WORK.

Atlantic Bridge May Soon Be Completed.

It looks now as though work completing the new bridge over railroad track near the Atlantic depot would be rushed. Work was ordered stopped many weeks ago, pending adjusting the matter of Sagamore street. This agreement was some weeks ago but still work was not resumed.

This week Mayor Thompson personally got after the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and the result is that orders have been given to John Cashman, the contractor, to begin work immediately.

—The new cruiser Charleston, on her trial test over the Cape Cod course Thursday exceeded her contract speed of 22 knots by a margin of 3-100ths of a knot.

CLASS RECEPTION.

An Enjoyable Event for Class of '05 Q. H. S., and Friends.

The closing reception of the class of '05, Quincy High school, was held Thursday evening at High school hall. The affair was very largely attended and was most enjoyable in every way.

From 8 until 9 o'clock there was a reception. In the receiving party were: Mrs. Charles F. Harper, Miss L. F. Tucker, Miss Madeleine Fish and Miss E. W. Guild, also Carl Gram and Miss Mary E. Coyle, president and vice president of the class.

The Criterion orchestra furnished music during the reception, and for the dance that followed.

The ushers were: George Hanson, James Elcock, Carl Prescott, Joseph McGillvary, Charles Hogan, Eugene Sanders, William Howe, John McClure, Archie Rogers, Fred Williams, Ernest McDonnell, Clarence Loud and Raymond Jordan, all of the junior class.

Dancing followed the reception until 11.30 o'clock. Wagner of Dorchester catered and during the evening ices and frappe was served in one of the side rooms. The serving party from the undergraduates were: Miss Rina Bizzozero, Miss Alice Reinhalter, Miss Helen Burke, Miss Gertrude Burke, Miss Olive Allen, Miss Persis Thompson, Miss Susan James, Miss Grace Lamb, Miss Florence Edna Brown, Miss Ethel Humphrey, Miss Alice Findlay and Miss Harriet Barry.

The march which opened the dancing was a very pretty affair and was led by President Gram and Vice President Coyle.

BATHER DROWNED.

Did Not Come to Surface After He Sank.

Antonio Colonduono of 18 East Howard street, 19 years of age and unmarried, was drowned Thursday evening while bathing in Hayward's creek at Quincy Neck.

Colonduono, with a number of companions, went in bathing about 7 o'clock. He started to swim down the stream away from his companions. He had gone but a short distance when he was seen to throw up his hands and sink. His companions hastily swam to the spot but he did not rise to the surface again. Grappling irons were secured and the body grappled for. It was nearly an hour however before it was recovered by Daniel McQueen. Dr. Bushnell, who was then on the scene worked heroically to bring back life, but was unsuccessful.

Medical Examiner Jones was notified and after viewing the body gave it in charge of Undertaker Bean. It is thought that the young man was seized with cramps. He was employed at the Fore River works and as far as known has no relatives here.

SHIPBUILDING.

Germany Is Making a Great Record in This Line.

Amid the wild rumors, says the Globe, editorially, that are circulated from time to time with regard to the reported belligerency of the German emperor, it is interesting to note the tremendous strides that Germany is taking in material well-being, and fair to conclude that the last thing the far-seeing kaiser really contemplates is a war which would put a sudden stop to all this splendid development.

Shipbuilding is one of the most noteworthy features in Germany's industrial progress and commercial expansion, and the fact that the German shipyards are turning out hundreds of steamships annually, where formerly these vessels were ordered abroad, must be to Germans one of the sources of keenest gratification. Not only the ships employed in German commerce, but the war ships of Germany as well, formerly were built in Great Britain and Ireland, whereas now German shipyards turn out the largest and fastest steam ships in the world.

Last year 278 steamships of almost 211,000 gross registered tons, and 256 sailing vessels of nearly 50,000 gross registered tons, were turned out by the German shipyards. At the beginning of 1905 there were under construction 152 steam vessels of 285,539 gross tons, and nine of these were men-of-war with a total of nearly 70,000 tons.

Claim $5,000 Damages.

The case of Eliphalet L. Beale, administrator of the estate of Earle R. Beale, a minor, vs. the Old Colony street railway is on trial in the Superior court at Dedham. It is an action of tort to recover $5000 damages for the death of young Beale by the cars on Washington street, Quincy. The little fellow was instantly killed.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Russia seems to think that after being beaten once more it can ask for an armistice with better grace.

Cardinal Gibbons has described the President as an "angel of peace." This will probably disturb the peace of the anti-imperialists.

The Empress Dowager of China has built for herself a $5,000,000 tomb. The Chinese people would regard it cheap, even at that price, if they could only get the old girl into it.

Grand Duke Alexis has resigned as High Admiral of the Russian Navy. The navy has been resigned to the Grand Duke Alexis, as High Admiral for a long time.

Johann Hoch, the Chicago bigamist and wife-murderer has done something for the world. He has given us that exquisitely euphonious word "multi-bigamist."

To those who have been accustomed to regard the Philippine Islands as an incubus and an expense, Harold Bolce's article, entitled "The Opportunity of the Orient," in the July issue of Appleton's Booklovers Magazine, will come as something of a shock. "A yellow opportunity rather than a yellow peril confronts America," he writes.

"Every year the countries of the Pacific buy increasing quantities of up-to-date manufactures. To-day this importation of finished products is no less than twice as great as our total exports of factory wares to the whole world.

"To all the emerging republics, islands, and empires of the Pacific we have been selling less than one-half of one per cent of our factory output. And that pathetic proportion would be still more infinitesimal but for orders that have come to us unsolicited. Wherever we have organized to get trade, we have secured it; but aside from these few brilliant successes there has been no serious effort to get Pacific commerce or to hold it after it has come our way. Even in the Philippines, whose tariffs we control, we have been ingloriously beaten."

Terrible Work of Mob

Watkinsville, Ga., June 30.—A mob entered the jail at Watkinsville and took nine prisoners, eight of whom were shot to death and the other escaped only by being thought dead by the mob. The jail was opened by the town marshal under the cover of pistols and inside the jail the mob held up Jailor Crow and secured his keys to the cells. The mob carried the prisoners from the jail and tied them to fence posts by their necks and then lined up and fired five volleys into their bodies. All died without a struggle with the exception of Joe Patterson, a negro, who was alive after the mob left and will recover.

Floating Poolroom a Success

Chicago, June 30.—The steamer City of Traverse, America's first wireless floating poolroom, made its initial trip yesterday on Lake Michigan and by admission of the police opened a reign of bliss for race horse gamblers. Chief of Police O'Neill says that he is powerless to interfere. The jurisdiction of Illinois does not extend into Michigan or Indiana waters, and there is no federal statute prohibiting gambling on federal waters.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Canthrarides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

YALE IS SURPRISED

Given Hard Rub by Harvard In Eight-Oared Race

WON BY LENGTH OF OAR

Every Man In Both Crews Did His Best In Closest Contest In Yale-Harvard Boating History --Crimson Wins Minor Events

New London, Conn., June 30.—The Yale 'varsity crew wrested a victory from Harvard in the annual four-mile race on the Thames by the length of an oar. After rowing for four miles with the shells lapping and the prows almost zig-zagging between the strokes, the Yale boat crossed the finish line three-quarters of a length ahead of the Crimson. Yale won by 2½ seconds. The Blues' time was 22:33½; Harvard's was 22:36.

Such a race has never before been rowed in the 27 years of racing between these old rivals. The Elis went to the starting flags absolutely confident of an easy victory. Coach Wray of the Harvard crew had almost conceded that his eight had practically no chance to win. But Wray sprung a surprise on Yale. He came to the Thames three weeks ago an unknown coach. He will go back to Boston as the first professional who has inspired absolute confidence in Harvard.

The last mile of the race was a fight which will never be forgotten by those who saw it. Just beyond the three-mile flag Meier, Harvard's No. 7, who had been rowing a terrific race, seemed to have pumped himself out. The Harvard stroke dropped back from 32 to 31 to the minute, but it only stayed there for a little while. Suddenly Meier seemed to get his second wind and the Crimson stroke went up two points. The Harvard shell began to gain on Yale. Even the Cambridge men declared that Filley was making his effort too soon and declared that he could never keep it up. Yale finished the 3½ miles in 19:34; Harvard in 19:39. Filley's crew was actually gaining on Yale in the last mile of the race. On every stroke the Harvard shell crept nearer the Yale boat. Suddenly the shells were once more lapped. The Yale coxswain called for a spurt, and his crew raised their stroke to 34, the highest that they had been taught to row. Still Harvard was game. Up went the Harvard stroke to 34 and over the last quarter of a mile the prow of the Cambridge shell began to gain on the Blue's boat. The crews were only 100 yards from the finish and still it was either's race. No one could tell which crew was going to win and the crowds became wild in their excitement.

The Harvard shell was still creeping up on the Yale boat and every man in the two racing craft was pulling out the last ounce of his power when suddenly the flag at the finish dipped and Yale was a winner by three quarters of a boat length. Harvard men danced and hugged each other as though they had won the race and Yale was so dazed by the fright which Wray's crew had given her that she forgot to cheer for a few minutes. When the Elis suddenly realized that they had won the closest race in Yale-Harvard boating history they cheered until the hills reverberated with the old cry of old Yale.

As Harvard passed the finish line Meier dropped his oar and slid down into the bottom of the shell. A few handfuls of water brought the Harvard man to his senses and then the two eights rowed off to their boat-houses, the Crimson receiving just as much applause as the Blue.

Yale's time for the four miles was 22:33½; Harvard's 22:36. The best time ever made on the Thames was in 1888, when, rowing down stream with a ripping tide and a heavy wind, the Yale crew made the distance in 20:10. Yesterday afternoon the crews rowed up stream with a quartering wind on their bows to hold them back and only a moderate tide to help them. Under these conditions the time made was very fast.

In the 'varsity four-oared race the Crimson four crossed the line with a length of open water between the shells. The Harvard youngsters won with half a length of open water between the rival boats. The conditions for the two races were not conducive to fast time. The river was as smooth as a mill pond, but while the current was fairly fast the wind was nothing more than a zephyr and of no assistance to the crews. The official time was as follows:

'Varsity four-oared crews—Harvard, 11:22; Yale, 11:27.

Freshman eight-oared crews—Harvard, 9:59; Yale, 10:04.

The record for the fours is 10:53 nearly a minute faster than the time yesterday. The record for the freshman race is 9:33 made in 1899, when Harvard won all three events on the Thames.

In both races Harvard showed the better form and the more powerful stroke. Especially in the freshman boat the strong heave at the finish of the stroke sent the shell through the water at a great clip and it travelled well between strokes. While almost all the experts had predicted a victory for the Harvard youngsters, it was conceded that Yale would give them a good race and this is just what happened. The grand spurt of the Yale freshmen in the last mile, and especially the last half mile was a thrilling spectacle and caused the heart of the oldest enthusiast to jump the faster.

Monroe Doctrine Justified

Cambridge, Mass., June 30.—The annual oration before the Massachusetts Alpha (Harvard) chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was delivered in Sanders theatre by James B. Angell, president of the University of Michigan. President Angell considered the virtual suzerainty exercised over the weaker nations of the two hemispheres by the Great Powers through the European concert and by the United States through the Monroe doctrine; justified each, both in theory and workings; found in the former ample precedent for the latter, and looked forward to the time when other great American nations shall join this country in an American concert.

Moroccan Crisis Passing

Berlin, June 30.—The official opinion here continues to be that France will agree in principle to the Moroccan conference and that secondary questions ultimately be settled satisfactorily. The newspapers generally refer to the crisis as being passed and comment in moderate tone on the French contentions.

NEWS IN BRIEF

George S. Small, aged 25, hanged himself at his home at Manchester, N. H. No reason for the suicide is known.

The residence of the late Job M. Leonard, a millionaire iron manufacturer of Fall River, Mass., has been sold to Rt. Rev. William Stang, Roman Catholic bishop, who will use it for his residence. The price paid was $18,750. The mansion cost $50,000.

G. H. Hulett of Chester, Vt., found the body of James Foley of Boston, aged 40, on the ground near his residence. Foley, while despondent, cut his throat.

A man supposed to have been Frank Stockman, a shoe worker, was struck by a train at Beverly, Mass., and killed. The name was found on a working card in a pocket.

Rear Admiral Louis J. Allen, U. S. N., retired, died of paralysis at New York. He was 66 years old.

Another game in the series for the local championship will be played on the afternoon of the Fourth of July on the Ward Three playgrounds between the South Quincys and the Atlantics. The battery of the former will be Patterson and Forbes, and for the latter Marion and Murphy.

The Hemlock defeated the Riversides on Thursday in a fast game, the score being 10 to 6. The batteries for the winners were Burk, R. Ford and Sweeney and for the losers McDermott and Gaurino. The features of the game were the all around batting of the Hemlock and the good pitching of R. Ford.

The Majestics of West Quincy have arranged a game for the morning of July 4th, with the strong Hull team, they have secured the services of Ralph Newcomb, the crack Braintree shortstop for their game. Teams wishing a game for Saturday afternoons should address, "Manager," Berry's Pharmacy, West Quincy.

William J. Battison and wife have returned from a two weeks' absence in Atlanta, Ga., where Mr. Battison went as supreme representative from this jurisdiction, to attend the session of the Supreme lodge of the Knights of Honor. Very important business was transacted; among other things a provision to admit women to full membership in the order was adopted. At the meeting of Wollaston Lodge on Monday night he will give a full account of the doings of the session.

EXISTENCE OF THE AUTOCRACY

St Petersburg Realizes That It Is Endangered

REPORTS OF DISLOYALTY IN ARMY

Question as to Whether Orders to Fire on Revolutionists Will Be Obeyed by Regiments--Possible Further Seizure of Ships of Black Sea Squadron--Great Destruction Is Wrought at Odessa--Mutiny at That Place Followed by Similar Action by Mutineers at Libau

St. Petersburg, June 30.—The Russian government, although it has been almost paralyzed by the terrible events at Odessa and the news that the sailors at Libau also have mutinied, is making frantic efforts to meet the situation and to stamp out the flames of revolution before they can spread to the army, which is now the last bulwark of the autocracy.

With Poland red with the spirit of revolt, the Caucasus already almost in a state of civil war, agrarian disorders spreading rapidly, the whole country profoundly stirred and the intelligent classes solidly arrayed against the government, all conditions seem ripe for the long-predicted revolution.

The first act of the government, after dispatching Admiral Kruger's squadron from Sebastopol to Odessa, was to summon the Kniaz Potemkine, whose mutineers have now been joined by the crews of the two torpedo boats which accompanied it to Odessa, to surrender under the threat of firing upon and sinking the vessel. This was followed by the declaration of martial law at Odessa and Libau and the clothing of the military commanders with plenary powers.

The newly formed council for imperial defense met last night and was in session long after midnight. Beyond the fact that the temper of the army was considered at length, nothing is known as to what occurred in the council or regarding the decisions at which it arrived.

Great fear is expressed that many regiments are honeycombed with sedition and there is grave doubt of their loyalty should they be called upon to fire on the revolutionists. Indeed, the most startling stories involving the unreliability of the troops are being reported in St. Petersburg.

What effect the news of the news of the happenings at Odessa will have upon the troops and the people in general is problematical. The precautions taken by the authorities to keep the news from the public have been in vain, the revolutionaries and the Liberals everywhere spreading it by word of mouth, and within 24 hours it will be known in the uttermost confines of European Russia.

When the news reaches the armies in Manchuria it is bound to create a deep impression. The authorities, however, are realizing that it was certain to leak out and that there would be exaggerated versions of it, and perhaps to prepare the way for a public announcement, are now sending some dispatches to the newspapers, but these only contain information not for publication.

At the admiralty, where the temper of the Black sea sailors is known, the orders sent to Admiral Kruger's squadron were by no means unanimously approved. Among others, Vice Admiral Skrydloff openly expressed the opinion that the bluejackets of Kruger's ships would not fire on their comrades on board the Kniaz Potemkine, but that on the contrary they might revolt should they be ordered to shoot. Admiral Skrydloff was of the opinion that the best course would be to allow the crew of the Kniaz Potemkine to remain on board until it had been starved into submission.

In this connection, the story is current that the crew of the battleship captured two English ships loaded with provisions and is holding them alongside.

As far as known here Admiral Kruger, although due at Odessa early last evening, had not arrived up to midnight and this gave rise to rumors that the crews had actually seized the other ships of the squadron.

Dispatches received here from Odessa do not make the situation very clear. Millions of dollars' worth of property, including ships, has been burned or otherwise destroyed. The city is terror-stricken, and probably hundreds have been killed or wounded in the street fighting. The fact that the troops and police made no attempt to interfere with the burial of the martyred sailor is considered conclusive evidence that they either felt themselves powerless or feared to make the attempt on account of the attitude of the populace.

Under cover of darkness, produced by the dense pall of smoke hanging over the city, it is reported, the mob has begun to sack and plunder. Foreign property has suffered heavily.

In naval circles the cause of the mutiny on board the Kniaz Potemkine is attributed principally to the severity of Vice Admiral Chuknins' regime. He is a martinet of a most severe type, and several of his sailors have already been shot for disobedience. At the time of the mutiny a court martial was actually in progress at Sebastopol and several of the crew of the battleship had been sentenced by it.

The accepted version in St. Petersburg is that the vessel was captured by a ruse. When she arrived in the offing at Odessa the Kniaz Potemkine signalled the captain to come on board. When he appeared at the gangway he was seized and the boat's crew, being informed of the situation, returned and led the comrades against the other officers, whom they placed in irons.

Late dispatches from Libau say that property losses there are considerable and that all the workmen have gone out in sympathy with the action of the bluejackets. Private reports are said to have been received, according to which artillery was employed against the mutineers, but this has not been confirmed, nor is there at hand any statement giving the number of killed or wounded. Four Lake submarine boats are moored at quays in the harbor, but a dispatch from Simon Lake says they are under guard and are "yet" undamaged.

The mutiny at Libau, following on the heels of the events at Odessa, gave rise to the impression that it might be the result of a general plot of the sailors, but no connection between these happenings has yet been established. The bluejackets at Cronstadt have made no move which would indicate their connection with a plot.

The "Dardanelles Question" Again

London, June 30.—Should the report that the Kniaz Potemkine is bombarding Odessa be confirmed the incident probably will precipitate a critical international situation and the foreign consuls there will almost certainly demand the protection of warships if they have not already done so. As the treaty of Paris bars any but Russian or Turkish men-of-war from entrance to the Black sea, the "Dardanelles question" might as a result be revived in a novel and unexpected shape. In the opinion of the London papers the situation could hardly be more serious.

Lodz Filled With Troops

Lodz, June 30.—About 15,000 additional troops have arrived here and the city is again quiet. The chief of police has promised to protect Jews and their co-religionists.

Russians Sink Danish Steamer

Batavia, Java, June 30.—The Danish steamer Prinzesse Marie was overhauled June 22 by the Russian auxiliary cruiser Terek (which, June 5, sank the British steamer Ikhona,) and, after the cargo of the Prinzesse Marie had been declared contraband, the ship was sunk. Her crew are safe.

Odessa Wires Perhaps Cut

Washington, June 30.—Up to the hour the state department closed last night, no cablegram had been received from Odessa regarding the situation there, and the fact that Mr. Heenan, the American consul at Odessa, has not further reported on the situation, leads officials to believe that the wires have been cut.

Must Respect Private Property

Portland, Me., June 30.—A ruling of importance to electric power corporations was handed down in the state supreme court court last night in a bill of John Brown in equity against Amos F. Gerald of Fairfield. The plaintiff prayed that the defendant's company be restrained from erecting poles and stretching wires over his farm. The court ruled that manufacturing, generating, selling, distributing and supplying electricity for power, for manufacturing or mechanical purposes, is not a public use for which private property may be taken against the will of the owner.

White Mountain Land at Auction

Boston, June 30.—Two parcels of timber land, comprising about 70,000 acres in the heart of the White mountains and including a large portion of Mount Washington and other mountains of the Presidential range, were sold at auction in this city. Robert Osgood of this city was the purchaser, and the amount paid was $365,000 for the larger tract and $110,000 for the smaller. The properties were sold by decree of the Massachusetts superior court as the result of a lawsuit.

President at Sagamore Hill

Oyster Bay, L. I., June 30.—President Roosevelt, after two days of hard work and pleasure among the alumni and students of Harvard university, is at his own home, Sagamore Hill. That his home-coming was a real delight to him nobody who witnessed his manifestations of pleasure at the reception tendered him by his neighbors and friends from childhood could doubt.

Bubonic Plague on Isthmus

Kingston, Jam., June 30.—In consequence of the outbreak of bubonic plague on the Isthmus of Panama, the quarantine board has issued orders that no vessel touching Colon or other Panaman ports will be permitted to land passengers or to enter Jamaican ports until the isthmus has been officially declared free of this disease.

Dishonest Postoffice Clerk

Boston, June 30.—Charged with larceny from the mails, Zebulon Pratt, 17 years old, was held in $500 for the grand jury after a hearing before Commissioner Hale. Pratt had been employed as mailing clerk in the Bridgewater postoffice, and confessed that he had taken money from letters.

"FOR MERE LUCRE"

Wallace Accused of Charging His Position Over Night

TAFT FLAYS ENGINEER

Resignation as Director of Work on Panama Canal Is Accepted --Feeling That He Has Not Acted Fairly In the Matter

Washington, June 30.—Charging him with changing his position over night "for mere lucre" and with being influenced "solely by personal advantage," Secretary Taft, in his conference in New York on June 26 with John F. Wallace, chief engineer of the Panama canal, after administering a severe rebuke to him, requested his resignation on the ground that "public interest requires that you tender your resignation at this moment and turn over the records of your office to the chairman of the commission."

This fact is disclosed in an official statement issued from the office of the secretary of war last night which reviews the relations of Wallace with the war department and the commission since the latter body's reorganization last spring, quoting the several expressions of the chief engineer of his satisfaction with the entire arrangement, and then gives practically a verbatim account of the conference between Taft and Wallace in New York which concluded with the submission to Secretary Taft of Wallace's resignation.

The statement issued last night concludes with the president's letter to Wallace, dated Cambridge, Mass., June 28, which reads:

"Your resignation as member and chief engineer of the isthmian canal commission, tendered in accordance with the request of Secretary Taft, which request, under the circumstances, has my entire approval, is hereby accepted, to take effect immediately."

The statement shows that Wallace made no complaint against any of his associates.

Wallace's salary with the Panama canal commission and as chief engineer of the canal was $25,000 a year. When he told Taft that he desired to accept the offer which had been tendered to him, Taft expressed to Wallace his feeling in the matter. Wallace suggested to Taft that he would remain with the commission two months longer, but, after considering the matter, President Roosevelt directed Taft to accept the resignation at once.

There is no concealment by the administration of its feeling regarding Wallace's tender of his resignation at this time. It is felt that he has not acted fairly to the government in accepting comparatively recently the responsibility of directing the canal construction and now offering his resignation at a time which is regarded as crucial in the work of the canal. It is said that he not only accepted the position as chief engineer, but sought it, and expressed his entire satisfaction with the salary given to him by the government.

At Salary of $60,000 a Year

New York, June 30.—The offer that induced Chief Engineer Wallace to quit his post on the Panama canal came from the Interborough Rapid Transit company of this city, operating the elevated and subway lines, and carries with it a salary of $60,000 a year. It will undoubtedly be accepted.

Dealt In Forged Certificates

New York, June 30.—Two men charged with swindling John Harris of this city out of $12,500 were arrested in an apartment hotel, while, the police say, they were attempting to secure $7500 additional from Harris. The arrests followed a desperate fight in the hotel. The prisoners gave their names as George Snider and George Thompson. The money was secured from Harris on collateral consisting of forged stock certificates, according to the complainants.

Seizure May Have Been Illegal

Yarmouth, N. S., June 30.—S. H. Pelton, K. C., of this city, will go to Montevideo and make a full inquiry into the seizure of the Halifax sealing schooner Agnes G. Donohoe and the imprisonment of her officers and crew by the Uruguayan government. Owners of the vessel claim the law was not violated. The case is also before the British government.

Newfoundland Woodland Bought Up

St. Johns, June 30.—C. A. Pearson, the London publisher, and Coutts & Co., London bankers, have acquired four woodland properties in Newfoundland, aggregating 300 square miles. The new purchasers are sending experts here to examine the properties preparatory to beginning the manufacture of pulp paper.

Fatal Fall From Cherry Tree

Providence, June 30.—Robert Booth, aged 10, sustained what proved to be fatal injuries through a fall from a cherry tree in the Olneyville district last night. The boy struck on his head and death was due to concussion and hemorrhage of the brain.

Serious Result of Freight Wreck

Punxsutawney, Pa., June 30.—One man was killed and three others were seriously injured in a head-on freight wreck two miles below Echo. It is said the collision was the result of a south-bound freight not being held at Echo.

PIPER NOT TO BLAME

Assistant Bank Cashier Relieved of Serious Charges

Ossipee, N. H., June 30.—Carroll D. Piper, formerly assistant cashier of the Wolfboro Loan and Banking company of Wolfboro, who was under indictment on four counts growing out of the failure of the bank, Feb. 10, 1904, was released from custody by order of the Carroll county superior court here. Attorney General Eastman asked that the charge against Piper be cancelled and the court agreed to his request. The release of Piper marks the end of the criminal proceedings resulting from the bank's difficulties.

The Wolfboro Loan and Banking company was the last of four banks which existed in Wolfboro, all having closed their doors during the past 10 years through financial difficulties. The embarrassment of the Wolfboro Loan and Banking company was attributed by the authorities to a shortage of $60,000 in the accounts of Cashier Charles F. Piper. He was suffering from brain trouble when the bank was closed and died within three months from the date of the failure. In view of his serious illness he was not arrested.

C. D. Piper, son of C. F., who acted as his assistant, was arrested, however, and was indicted on a charge of embezzlement of $2500 and on three counts for the alleged falsification of the books. Recently the authorities decided that the father was the one responsible for the bank's trouble. When the bank ceased business it had liabilities of upwards of $300,000.

Alleged Stock Jobbing Transaction

Boston, June 30.—Anthony Baer of Medford, owner of the Redden farm at Orange, N. H., in which are deposits of mica, has brought a bill in equity in the United States circuit court against Thomas C. Powell and Edward F. Draper seeking to have them restrained from using the name Baer Mica Mining company or the name Baer by any corporation for the operation of the mica mine in the farm. Baer alleges that the defendants propose forming a corporation with $360,000 capital and that their purpose in forming the company is a stock jobbing transaction.

Exceeded Contract Requirements

Provincetown, Mass., June 30.—After a severe speed trial the cruiser Charleston returned to this port last night with an official record of 22.03 knots, or .03 knot in excess of what her contract called for. The actual test was one of four hours' sustained speed at sea. The design of the vessel estimated that with a horse-power of 21,000 it would be possible for her to make the 22 knots required speed. As a matter of fact, a horse-power of 27,000, or about 33 percent greater than the estimate, was required to make the speed shown by the cruiser.

Evaded Fare; Shot Conductor

Barre, Vt., June 30.—Angered because he had been put off a car for nonpayment of his fare, Erico Mantiana, an Italian, last night fired five shots from a revolver at William Perkins, a conductor on an electric car. One bullet took effect in Perkins' back, while the others went wild. Perkins was severely wounded. Mantiana attempted to use his revolver upon Officer Faulkner when the latter arrested him, but was overpowered.

Cane Constructed of Relics

Boston, June 30.—In Memorial hall, at the state house, Commander-in-Chief Blackmar of the G. A. R. was presented with a gold-headed cane by comrades of the Massachusetts department and members of the Women's Relief corps. The cane was constructed of small pieces of wood collected from battlefields, warships, blockhouses and prisons, each piece representing an historical event.

Put Bullet In Uncle's Side

Fall River, Mass., June 30.—While trying his revolver last night, Manuel Perry, 20 years old, shot his cousin, Joseph Rego, aged 50. Rego will recover. The latter was in a small building in Perry's yard at the time. Perry used the door of the building for a target, not knowing that anyone was inside, and the bullet struck Rego in the side.

Accidentally Shot Brother

Marlboro, Mass., June 30.—Alfred Brigham, 12 years old, was shot in the breast and seriously injured while hunting woodchucks in company with his brother, Ulysses, aged 14. The latter was carrying a rifle, and in some way the weapon was discharged, a bullet striking the younger boy, who was walking a short distance ahead of his brother.

Vermont Village Badly Scorched

Montpelier, Vt., June 30.—An exploding lantern in the stables of the Commercial house at Marshfield, a village 15 miles from here, started a fire which wiped out the business portion of the village, burning four business blocks, four dwelling houses, the Congregational church, the village hotel and stable. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

Wages Will Not Be Raised

Fall River, Mass., June 30.—Manufacturers are not much disturbed by the prospect of further wage agitation coming from the Weavers' union. Cotton manufacturers say that trade has not revived sufficiently to warrant a departure from the scale of wages now being paid.

Steamer and Ferryboat Collided

New London, Conn., June 30.—Steamer Restless collided with the ferryboat Colonel Ledyard, which runs between this city and Groton, after the Yale-Harvard boat race yesterday afternoon. A large hole was stove in the side of the ferryboat, but no one was injured.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Warmer today.

Miss Helen C. Durgin of Winchendon is visiting friends in this city.

Adams Academy examinations will be held on Monday next at the school.

Steamer I which broke down while responding to an alarm some weeks ago went into commission again today.

The two new Harvard overseers, Messrs. F. A. Delano and Louis A. Frothingham, are both alumni of the Adams Academy.

The club tennis court at the corner of Hancock and Beach streets has been entirely made over and is now in excellent condition.

The Salvation Army reports having received very liberal contributions from T. King and others and will be very grateful for what help they get for the building fund. Capt. A. Johanson is now in command.

Royal A. Moore of Cambridge, formerly of Wollaston, was one of the three men who were given final honors in classics at Harvard College this year. Mr. Moore is a graduate of Adams Academy.

Work was commenced this morning, building a platform on the west side of the railroad tracks, at the Quincy depot, for express packages from outward trains. Heretofore, these parcels have been dumped on the inward track, and became quite a nuisance.

Avery L. Bennett, of Wollaston, is among the number awarded A. M. degree at Harvard this year. He completed his work for the degree last June but was unable to receive it on account of the rule that both the A. B. and A. M. shall not be awarded the same year.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Sullivan of Shaw street on Thursday.

Christ church Sunday school is holding its annual picnic today at Nantasket. Three cars were required for the party.

Two special cars left City Square at 9.20 this morning for Highland Park, Brockton, having on board the Sunday school of the First church.

Wales—Phelan.

Miss Lulu E. Phelan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Phelan of Wollaston, was united in marriage on Wednesday afternoon, to Mr. Edward Stanley Wales, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wales or Dorchester. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the Wollaston Baptist church by Rev. Edmund D. Webber. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wales left on a wedding trip to Maine. On their return they will reside at Wollaston.

—Americans might go to school to the Chinese in the art of chicken farming. A traveller passing through the province of Chekiang a few weeks ago was struck with the enormous number of young chickens carried in the farmers carts he met in the T'int'al country. He made inquiries on the subject, and at length he was asked by a poultry farmer to go and inspect his rearing arrangements. The plant deals with 10,000 eggs at a time and the average product is is 5000 chicks. The arrangements are simple and inexpensive. The eggs are examined at the end of the fourth day and those that show no signs of fertilization are "sold cheap."

TODAY'S COURT.

Samuel J. Shaw, Arthur Dackworth and Robert J. Clark were fined $10 each for speeding automobiles at the Blue Hills reservation.

Frederick J. Hinchcliffe was arraigned for speeding an auto at the Blue Hills reservation. Case continued until July 5.

Kimball H. Ryder was fined $15 for speeding an auto at Milton.

Joseph P. Myett was fined $75 for keeping and exposing liquor for sale at Quincy, and $50 for violation of the liquor transportation law. Appealed.

John T. Manning was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Randolph. Case continued until July 14.

Daniel McCullen was fined $10 for disturbing the peace at Milton.

Nellie S. Litchfield was arraigned for larceny at Holbrook. Case continued until July 6.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOVELTY IN LAUNCHES

Craft Designed to Demonstrate Power of Herreshoff Motor.

MAY BE SPEEDIEST OF HER CLASS

Designer Hopes to Make Thirty-five Miles an Hour—If Successful a Fleet of Fastest Torpedo Boats Afloat May Be Built—Second Combustion Chamber In Same Cylinder Doubles Horsepower of New Motor.

Nearly fit for the launching, which will take place early in July, and guarded day and night, so that only a few of the employees have seen the craft, there lies on the stocks in the pattern room of the American and British Manufacturing company's works at Bridgeport, Conn., a motor launch which it is expected will prove to be the fastest boat of her dimensions in the world, and it is the hope of her designer, Charles Frederick Herreshoff, that she will surpass the world's record of any vessel, says a special dispatch from Bridgeport, Conn., to the New York Herald.

Built to demonstrate the motor that will furnish the power, the launch will be the forerunner of a fleet of torpedo boats that for speed and endurance are to be far away in the van of the present speediest vessels of any navy.

With the utmost secrecy the launch has been constructed, and those who have visited the works to investigate have been peremptorily ordered away, the intention of the designer being to enter the boat as a surprise in the motor boat races to be held this season both in the United States and abroad.

To be named the Den, the launch is thirty-five feet long on the water line, has a breadth of four feet six inches and a draught when at full speed of six inches. The weight of the hull, which is constructed of wood, is 300 pounds, and the weight of the entire boat, crew and gasoline fuel is when in racing trim 1,800 pounds. Equipped with a two crank motor with an estimated horsepower of eighty, this hull, built on the "skipjack" model, is expected to be driven at a speed of from thirty to thirty-five miles an hour. Mr. Herreshoff modestly has stated that the former figure will be reached, while it is known that he will be disappointed if the launch does not make a mile for every foot of her water line length.

It is the improved type of the motor that is expected to make of the Den the fastest craft afloat, and, simply expressed, the motor has by the introduction of a second combustion chamber in the same cylinder doubled its horsepower without other change than a slight addition of weight in the castings in order to produce the requisite strength. The motor has therefore two impulses instead of one at every revolution of its cylinder crank, and by the adjustment of the crank a two cylinder engine is produced that, with its increase of horsepower, runs steadily and by the balancing of the explosive impulses has absolutely no vibration, yet running at a rate of 3,000 revolutions per minute.

Mr. Herreshoff prepared the plans of the motor as late as the middle of January last, and the officials of the International Power company approved them at once, so that the construction could be hastened for the demonstrating craft. In the intervening time the young designer has utilized his experience, gained in the designing of torpedo boats when with the Triggs company a few years ago, to create new designs for a fleet for which a well founded rumor has it that contracts with at least two governments have already been made.

Officials of the company would not discuss the alleged torpedo boat contracts, but from an authentic source it has been learned that the boats to be constructed for some two at least of the navies of the principal world powers are to be about 135 and 210 feet in length and are to have hydro carbon engines developing 2,500 horsepower and a speed of 44.6 knots, a speed so far unapproached by the fastest war craft of any nation.

Eighteen boats are to be constructed, and by the use of kerosene or fuel oil when cruising at a speed of twenty knots the cruising radius of the smaller of the torpedo fleet is to be 3,800 miles and the larger boats 4,400 miles. Gasoline is to be the fuel for the motors at high speed.

For what nations the boats are to be constructed is yet guarded more jealously than the building of Mr. Herreshoff's launch. For over a year he has resided in Bridgeport and worked quietly upon his plans, with hardly the workmen at the works being aware that the young man, now in his twenty-sixth year, is one of the family of celebrated designers of fast vessels.

Plant Sanitarium.

A sanitarium for plants is the latest novelty in Paris. It is intended chiefly for such exotic plants as suffer from electric light and from exposure while being transferred from one place to another. The treatment consists in putting them into moist houses and allowing light to reach them only a few hours a day.

Tobacco and Deafness.

Tobacco has been discovered by M. Delle, a French physiologist, to have a deleterious action upon the auditory nerve. He therefore cautions moderation in the use of the drug and avoiding it altogether where deafness has already begun or where there is a family history of such troubles.

BIG VOTE.

That of Miss Underwood Ahead of Douglas.

Only a Little Behind Roosevelt.

Coupons Would Reach from Quincy to Any New England State.

Vote of Miss Underwood,
252,460

State Vote for McKinley,
238,866

State Vote for Douglas,
235,694

State Vote for Roosevelt,
257,706

State Vote of Guild,
235,000

Vote for Mayor Thompson,
2,582

Those who have marvelled at the tremendous vote of Miss Julia E. Underwood in the School contest—252,460—have not, probably, considered it from the standpoint of the statistician, but there are some figures of interest.

Each coupon, when trimmed close, measured six inches by four and one-quarter inches. If placed end to end they would extend a distance of over a million and a half inches, or about 100 miles.

They would reach from Boston to Eastham on Cape Cod.

From Boston to Stonington, Conn.

From Boston to Providence and back again.

From Boston to Kennebunkport, Me., and beyond.

From Boston to Alton Bay, N. H.

From Quincy in an air line to the state of Vermont, or any of the New England States.

The coupons would also carpet a field over 16 acres in size, or would cover about 140 house lots.

If placed one on top of the other, they would make a pile higher than the average person, from five to six feet high.

If every person in Quincy had sent in coupons they would have sent on an average about ten apiece.

Miss Underwoods vote was over half the population of Boston, and larger than any other two cities in the state. It was considerable in excess of the population of Norfolk county.

It was larger than President McKinley's vote in Massachusetts in 1900, and less than 6,000 behind the vote for President Roosevelt last year. It was also larger than the vote for Gov. Douglas or Lieut. Gov. Guild last fall.

A number of young people from Dorchester and Quincy made a very enjoyable trip to Nantasket on Thursday afternoon.

What It Costs
... AND ...
What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchan has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in cheaper paper?

CARTON'S FIRST FARE

[Copyright, 1905, by K. A. Whitehead.]

For the third time a coachman called to Carton to move along that others might drive up to the curb, and with a muttered expression of disgust at the length of time it took Fred Howell to select a cigar Hugh Carton ran his automobile across the street and fell in line behind two other cars drawn up beside the square. He did not notice that the others belonged to a sight seeing company until a musical voice inquired what his terms were.

Carton looked down into the face of an exceedingly pretty girl and flashed a glance at the cars ahead. In an instant he comprehended the situation. "Dollar an hour," he said gruffly, touching his leather cap with what he congratulated himself was a good imitation of a chauffeur's salute.

"I shall want you about three hours," she said simply and waited while he sprang down and opened the door in the back of the tonneau. In another moment they were speeding up the street.

From the corner of his eye he caught a glimpse of Fred Howell standing on the hotel steps, and his conscience smote him. He had promised Howell a run, but still it was not his fault that it took his friend so long to pick out cigars while he remained outside to be tempted by the prettiest girl he had ever seen.

He could take Howell out at any time. This was his one chance with the pretty girl. Perhaps after awhile he could tell her that he was not a professional chauffeur. Before they had gone half a mile he had built an air castle in which his first fare was established as chatelaine, and then suddenly the fare wrecked his castle.

"Turn down the next street to 274," she ordered, and obediently Carton drew up. "I want to send my mother out for a drive," she said sweetly. "Give her a good view of the city and keep the rest for yourself."

She ran up the steps, while Carton stared blankly at the five dollar bill she had thrust into his hand. For a moment he was tempted to follow her up the steps, give the money to a servant and drive off. Then came the comforting reflection that perhaps it might be easier to establish himself with the mother than with the daughter, and he waited.

A few moments later he was sorry he had not done so, for down the steps came one of the most eccentric figures he had ever seen. Her clothes bore the stamp of seasons gone before, and a hideous blue veil screened a face sharp and angular.

She fixed herself comfortably in the seat, and with a querulous, "Don't go too fast, young man," they started.

It was torture to Hugh to skim through the residential district with this old figure in the tonneau, and more than one surprised glance followed the automobile and the oddly assorted pair. Even the hope of being able to win the old lady's favor vanished when, after several attempts to engage her in conversation, she leaned forward and in her high pitched voice said: "It's no use to talk to me, young man; I'm deaf, and I wish you would not turn round; you make me nervous, you can't see where you are going."

He heaved a sigh of relief when at last he deposited her before her own door and was free to escape. He did not even catch a glimpse of the girl who had lured him to his fate.

It was late when he entered the Howells' drawing room that evening. The butler was just announcing dinner, and there was barely time to make hurried greeting to his hostess and offer his arm to his companion.

Before each plate on the long table stood a characteristic favor, and the laughter was long and loud when he picked up the tiny silver and gilt cigarette holder fashioned in the form of an automobile that stood at his plate. The laughter became a shriek when, on lifting the lid, he discovered a five dollar bill in stage money.

As bravely as he could he faced the storm of laughter and jeering remarks which followed, but not until he caught sight of Howell at the other end of the table, fairly convulsed with mirth, did he discover the secret of his undoing, for beside the joker, red and unsmiling, was his fare of the morning.

When they had all returned to the drawing room balm was poured upon his wounded feelings, for the girl came up to him.

"I want to apologize to you, Mr. Carton," she said bravely, "for my innocent complicity in the joke my cousin has played upon you.

"I am Mabel Norton, Fred's cousin, and it was he who pointed you out to me and recommended you as the most careful of the public drivers. I assure you that I had no idea that he was playing a joke upon me."

"It is all right," said Carton. "I was playing a joke upon you, you see? I had no business to do it, but—well," he went on lamely, "I thought that maybe—after awhile—I might be able to tell you that you were my guest and not my fare. Anyway—perhaps—well, I hope your mother enjoyed the ride."

After that things progressed famously. Following the first trip, Carton's automobile was at the door of 274 every pleasant afternoon. It was in the automobile, indeed, that she promised to become Mrs. Carton, and they have decided upon an automobile trip for the honeymoon. Fred Howell has already ordered a new twenty-four horsepower machine as a wedding present, but Mabel declares that she prefers the one in which her lover earned his first fare. Carton agrees with her, but he spells it f-a-i-r.
